LABOR'S GREAT DAY

Fine Demonstrations by Workingmen in the Large Cities.

A BIG PARADE IN NEW YORK.

The Finest Celebration of the Kind that Has Ever Taken Place in Brooklyn.

Over 10,000 Men in Line in the City of Churches—The Day Generally Observed by the Workingmen of New Jersey—Big Parades in Newark and Paterson—The Eight-Hour Agitation Meetings by the Federation of Labor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—There was a general observance of the Labor holiday in this city. There was a grand parade of the organized trades in the forenoon, about 10,000 men being in line.

George Cavanaugh, of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, was the grand marshal. The parade was composed of six divisions: Building trades, furniture workers, stoneworkers, printers, ironworkers and miscellaneous trades. The brewers carried with them large wagons with the emblems of their trades, while the bakers and confectioners carried large loaves of bread and a pyramid of macaroons ten feet high. The bakers also had transparencies with inscriptions relating to the pool bread boycott. The printers' union made a fine display.

The great eight-hour agitation meeting will take place this evening, at Cooper Union, where P. J. McGuire, general secretary of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners: Edward King, S. E. Shevitch and others will speak. This will be the third of the series which the organization ordered a year ago. The first was held on Washington's birthday and the socond on July 4, The fourth is to be held Feb. 22, 1890. The demonstrations are a prelude to a genral demand for the adoption of the eight-hour rule on May 1, 1890.

The Day in Brooklyn, New York.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 2.—The parade of the Central Labor Union was larger than it has been in former years, as the agitation since the collapse of the Henry George movement was very active during the last twelve months. Labor enthusiasts say that over ten thousand men were in line. The organizations formed in line at 9:30 a. m. in Montague, Clinton and Henry streets and marched to Court street, Schermerhorn street, Lafayette avenue, Bedford avenue, Park avenue, Nostrand avenue, Floyd street, Broadway, Wall street, Bushwick avenue and Myrtle avenue to the reviewing stand at the Labor Lyceum, and thence to Ridgewood Park, where Theodore F. Cuno, one of the originators of Labor day and ex-grand statistician of the Knights of Labor, and Edward Daly of the New England Shoedealers' Protective Union spoke upon the issues of the day.

How New Jersey Celebrated.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—The labor organizations of Hudson County did not parade, but they went to the Union Hill Schuetzen Park, where a big picnic was held, and enjoyed themselves dancing, singing and listening to the addresses of Alexander Jonas and other speakers.

The celebration at Newark was on a big scale. There was a parade in the forenoon, participated in by all the labor organizations under the marshalship of Delegate Haines. This afternoon there is an immense crowd at the pavilion in Caledonian Park, where speeches are being made by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; J. P. McDonnell, Hugh O. Pentecost and ex-Gov. Abbett.

At Paterson there was a big parade, consisting of three divisions, marshaled by A. Ardier, delegate to the Passaic Coonty Trades Assembly. In the line of march were the Painters' Union, Silk Ribbon Weavers, Typographical Union No. 195, Distric Assembly 222, K. of L., Cigarmakers' Union No. 3, Carpenters' Unions 848 and 325, Metal Workers' and Slate Roofers' Union, Musical Union and Local Assembly 264, K. of L.

The "Valkyrie" Will Race Next Season.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Secretary Oddie of the New York Yacht Club has just received a letter from the Earl of Dunraven concerning his challenge for the America's Cup. The letter after fully explaining the Earl's reasons, and which have been already published in our despatches, for his not venturing his yacht "Valkyrie" over this year, expresses the hope that his challenge will be considered as merely postponed and that the "Valkyrie" will be ready next season to meet any vessel that can be sailed against her.

They Blame Mr. Scott.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Sept. 2.—The Spring Valley "Sentinel" publishes an article on the miners' strike, deploring the outlook here and holding Mr. Scott responsible for the present situation. It says that Mr. Devlin, who owns one-seventh of the capital stock of the company, offered to take the miners and run them and pay the company fifteen cents a ton clear of expenses. This was refused by Mr. Scott, President of the company. The "Sentinel" does not think this refusal consistent with Mr. Scott's claim that he cannot run the mines at a profit and pay the rates demanded by the men.

THE WHITE HOUSE MORTGAGE.

Virginia Has a Claim of $120,000 on the Presidential Mansion.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Recent agitation about building a new and more expensive Presidential mansion has just brought to the surface an old mortgage on the White House that has been forgotten or lost sight of for a good many years.

Mr. M. B. Harlow, secretary and treasurer of the Mount Vernon Avenue Association, is the man who brings forward the claim. In an interview about the proposed new Executive Mansion, he says:

"I am glad to see the subject agitated, and I hope it will be taken up and pushed by Congress. When it is, our association, to whom the Virginia Legislature has transferred its claim against the Government for money borrowed by General Washington to build the present structure, will present that claim and ask for payment for the old before it commences the new. The claim, which is for $120,000, has never been denied by the Government, nor can it be, for we have the promise of the Government, made through Washington, to pay the money back to Virginia should it ever be able to do so. We will not, perhaps, ask that the claim be paid in money, but will probably suggest that Congress defray the expenses of building the proposed road to Mt. Vernon. If they agree, we will transfer the Virginia mortgage on the White House as her contribution to the project.

Cotton Mills Advance the Price of Goods.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 2.—The presidents of the Columbus cotton mills held a lengthy secret conclave here for the purpose of combining to save themselves from the daily heavy losses at which they are now running. It was voted to raise the price of domestic goods half a cent a yard, and the combination will be effected in a day or two. The Eagle and Phoenix mills raised the price of sheeting a quarter of a cent a few days ago. Many farmers here have decided to use no bagging this year. They are hauling their cotton loose to the city from all surrounding districts and selling it in bulk to the mill owners.

Mr. Wanamaker Will Say Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Postmaster-General refuses to affirm or deny the story that he is discussing with President Norvin Green of the Western Union Telegraph Company, a plan whereby telegraph messages will be delivered by carrier. The story is believed to have some foundation however. Mr. Wanamaker said to a reporter this morning: "I have nothing to say about the conversation with Mr. Green. There is nothing to be said publicly about a matter which is under private discussion."

Plenty of Chances for Ross.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Sergeant Walsh stated to-day that he desires to meet Duncan C. Ross, for any stake the latter may put up, in a mounted sword competition, twenty-nine attacks to a finish; in a wrestle on horseback; bareback style: at Indian pegging, or at tilting the rings. John McPherson has put up a forfeit to back a challenge to Duncan C. Ross to a weight throwing competition for $500 or $1,000, he to give Ross two feet in a fourteen pound contest and one foot in a twenty-one pound contest.

The Virginia Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—General Mahone will open the Virginia campaign almost immediately, beginning in the southwest. He is very anxious to meet Captain McKinney, his rival, in joint debate, and a strong effort will be made to arrange a series of joint meetings when Gen. Mahone and Capt. McKinney will discuss the issues of the campaign.

Western Union Advances Rates.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Western Union Telegraph Company has informed its customers that commencing to-day the rates between New York, Boston and Philadelphia will be 20 cents and one cent extra for over ten words. This is an advance of from 15 to 33 per cent.

Another Large Failure.

SHARON, Mass., Sept. 2.—Horace S. Shepard, Treasurer of the Shepard and Morse lumber company, whose office is in the Mason building, Boston, has failed and made an assignment to Oscar A. Marden, of Stoughton, and H. A. Nash of Boston. Liabilities estimated at $100,000; assets light. He resides in Sharon.

An Important Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The President has appointed Edward Mitchell United States District Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Unrequited Love Led to Suicide.

HANOVER, Pa., Sept. 2.—Emanuel Miller, 23 years of age, living near Dubb's Church, Carroll County, Md., committed suicide by hanging himself in his father's barn. Unrequited love is supposed to have been the cause.

Crime Decreasing in Ireland.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The criminal statistics for the year in Ireland, just made public, again show a reduction in the number of serious offenses, though minor crimes, dealt with summarily, have increased slightly.

IN THE BALL FIELD

Great Excitement in the Contest for the Pennant.

BROOKLYN NOW IN FIRST PLACE

The New York Giants Struggling Hard to Secure the Lead.

Over 15,000 People Present at Saturday's League Game in New York—Chicago Crowding Philadelphia for Third Place. The Pittsburgs Doing Very Fine Work. The Brooklyn Club Elated Over Catching the Coveted Prize.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A careful review of the baseball situation at present indicates plainly that Boston has about secured a clinch hold on the pennant.

When the past week opened the NewYorks had the highest prospects of reducing the lead of the Bostons. They not only failed to seize the opportunity, but they occasionally developed an element in their exhibitions that will likely ruin their chances for the pennant. They have not played with the characteristic confidence and steadiness that at various times this season enabled them to crawl out of close positions. This was shown by the Giants especially on Tuesday. They played a wretched game and were beaten with ease by the Washingtons. It is the indifference and carelessness which every little while manifests itself in the team that is causing anxiety among its supporters. The men are not playing a steady game, but give a brilliant exhibition to-day and offset it with a wretched one tomorrow.

Boston has not yet won the pennant, however. At present they would have the lead even if the disputed six-inning game with Indianapolis is thrown out and the game at Philadelphia on Monday is decided a draw.

The work of the other clubs is also commanding more attention at present than at any other part of the season. Pittsburg, Chicago and Indianapolis are going to prove very uncertain in deciding the championship. Chicago has crowded up remarkably on the Phillies, and careful work must mark the Phillies games to prevent Anson from taking third place. The "Phillies" need to be on their guard. To go West with only a few games ahead of Anson's men means a downfall. If the Western clubs continue their present good work in the coming trip there is reason for Wright's men to become anxious.

Once more the Brooklyns and their Eastern colleagues are called upon to meet the teams of the West. This is the last series between the rivals of the two sections, and too much importance cannot be placed upon the result of these games. The Brooklyn management is elated over the bright prospects of winning the flag. They have twenty-five games to play on their own grounds, while the Browns have only ten in St. Louis. They will be called to play twenty-five games away from home, whereas Brooklyn has only twelve. If the theory that a club can play better at home than abroad develops into fact, the strength of the Brooooklyns' rivals in comparison with that of the teams St. Louis is bound to meet when the latter go West, ought to be offset materially and the highest percentage given to Byrne's men.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—A large amount of varied local news of much interest, is crowded out of this issue. It will appear in to-morrow's PRESS.

—About two carloads of people from this city accompanied the Central Railroad excursion to Lake Hopatcong, yesterday.

—Edsall's new advertisement today will be of special interest to school children in making their preparations for school opening.

—An open vehicle with a man and woman seated in it collapsed on West Front street, Sunday morning, but the occupants escaped uninjured.

—Beginning with today, Mr. "Ran." Thorn, the plumber and tinsmith, has put his men on nine hours' time. Heretofore ten hours constituted a day's work.

—The Washington ball team of this city for the second time, defeated the Athletics of North Plainfield, on the grounds of the former club, yesterday, by a score of 30 to 24.

—The entire front of Caspar's Hotel was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, etc., yesterday, in honor of the business men's parade and the German picnic.

—An account of Saturday's races, together with many other items of local interest, are crowded out of today's issue. They will appear as soon as space will admit.

—A horse belonging to Mr. Henry Voehl, the North Plainfield baker, ran away on New street Saturday afternoon, but so far as could be learned no damage resulted.

—A young man named Wakefield, was struck on the nose by a ball thrown wildly by one of the Hackett, Carhart & Co's team on the Crescents' grounds, yesterday morning.

—Friend's First-day school re-commenced its sessons in the Peace street meeting house last Sunday morning, with an encouraging attendance of both teachers and scholars.

—There will be a peach and iced cream festival given by a committee of the I. O. of G. S. and D. of S., Mount Olive Lodge, No. 36, at their hall on West Front street, Thursday evening, Sept. 12.

—Emel Zehlel, died at the Hospital on Saturday from pneumonia. The deceased was 39 years old, a bachelor, and came from New York. The remains were interred in the city plot in Evergreen Cemetery, yesterday.

—The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein and their friends had a glorious time at Keller's grove, yesterday. The programme as published in THE PRESS on Friday last, was carried out in every detail. A more extended notice will appear in a later issue.

—Officer Lynch arrested a young fellow named George Washington on Saturday afternoon, for driving off with another man's horse and buggy from Florida Grove, a few days ago. Justice Nash held the prisoner in the sum of $200 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The Comparison for a Year.

As THE PRESS has before stated Justice V. W. Nash is making things warm for the delinquent taxpayers. The following figures will show the comparison of taxes collected during three months of last year and the amount collected during July and August of this year.

During July, August and September, 1888, $2,092.13 was collected, and during the past two months, July and August of this year, $5,142.51 was collected by Justice Nash.

The Street Railway Route.

Today for the first time is presented through the columns of THE PRESS exclusively, a map of the proposed route of the Plainfield electric railway. Accompanying the map is an explanation of it, showing the sentiment of the property holders along the route, and giving a comparison of the amount of frontage owned by those favorable and those otherwise.

Will Give Up Its Plainfield Home.

The offices of the C. L. S. C., so long established in this city, are to be removed as speedily as possible to Buffalo, N. Y. The entire plant and its every department, with Miss Kimball and her staff, have received positive orders to be removed as fast as practicable to Buffalo.

An Invaluable Traveling Companion.

No person should travel without a box of HAMBURG FIGS in his satchel, for they will be found invaluable when change of food and water has brought on an attack of indigestion, or torpidity of the liver. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

ONE LOST AND TWO WON.

The Crescents Get a Majority of the Glory, in Spite of Two Umpires and Three Teams.

Three of the yellowest ball games ever put up in this city, were those of Saturday and Monday on the grounds of the Plainfield Bowling Club. Twenty-four flagrant and fragrant errors is the total charge against the Crescents as below, yet in spite of such a handicap the scalps of the West Ends and the Trentons again hang from the home team's girdle, and the Hackett-Carharts only won by the help of Umpire Keller.

Saturday's game was a most unsatisfactory one. It was the Crescents' intention to wipe up the dusty diamond with the West Ends—once more and for all. But their pitcher failed to appear, Condon and Bowes were put in the box, and Bradley—Somerville's kleptomaniac umpire—was subsidized to cover first base for Plainfield. The Crescents won in spite of all that, banging seven runs out of Harkins in the first four innings.

The score was as follows:

Monday morning's game with the Hackett-Carharts was won by the Crescents in the beginning, but subsequently lost through Condon's errors on first, Bowes' poor throwing to second, the beautiful balls that Gately presented Moorhead, and the blundering stupidity of Umpire Keller. In spite of all this, the team that defeated the N. J. A. C., at Bergen Point in the afternoon by a score of 17 to 6, only had three runs the better of the Crescents.

Umpire—Mr. T. H. Keller.

The afternoon's game against Trenton's strong team was more gratifying. The Crescents for the third time ran up a total of eight errors by the infield, but the outfield as usual played a good game. McMurray's hits were great and timely. Keller's position as umpire was transferred to Cadmus with worse results. The former will not declare a man out if he does not see it. Monday afternoon Cadmus declared Gately out between first and second when the runner was not touched, and even if he had been the umpire could not have seen it. For some minutes after the hisses of the crowd could be heard a mile.

The score was:

OUR STREET RAILWAY.

Thorough Success of Mr. Daft's Electric Exhibition.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It looks as if a new era was about to dawn upon the citizens of Plainfield—a thing much needed and long desired by many of the inhabitants of the place—a street railway. Yesterday afternoon your humble servant had the pleasure of taking a ride on Prof. Leo Daft's street railway coach propelled by his new electric system.

Heretofore I have had serious doubts of the success of such power as the confinement of electricity in sufficient quantities to form motive power practically, without the use of wires in some form direct from the plant, either over or under ground.

But Prof. Daft shows conclusively that he has successfully accomplished the matter, by putting it to practical test, open to the inspection of those who take an interest in the progression of science. His car is beautifully constructed, convenient for the accommodation of the public, fully under the control of the operator, and simply managed. I make these last assertions from these facts: That Councilman Marsh, Chairman of the Street Committee, took the position as manager, operator and conductor, and performed his duty satisfactorily on several trial trips. And should the people of Plainfield be fortunate enough to secure such a street railway system as Prof. Daft proposes to give them, they will have something they may feel proud of; an improvement that will do as much towards building up and increasing the popularity of Plainfield as any one thing. And there are two other things that should follow, water and sewerage. Let this Council push them all three through before the first of December next, and Plainfield will have the brightest future of any city in New Jersey.

THE BUSINESS MEN'S PARADE.

The business men of this city, principally the grocers and butchers, paraded about the streets of the city early yesterday morning with their gayly decorated business wagons, previous to starting for Acker's Grove, at Boynton Beach, where they spent the day, holding a grand clam bake, and other out-door amusements. About seventy wagons, most of them handsomely decorated, made up the procession. Possibly the wagons of Mr. Geo. W. Rockfellow and Geo. A. Moore, were the most attractive.

The picnickers were accompanied by both the Plainfield and South Plainfield bands. At the grove during the forenoon the grocers and butchers employees played base ball. The latter won the game by a score of 8 to 7. In the afternoon when the bosses played the score was reversed. The grocers won by a score of 10 to 4.

The merchants arrived home early in the evening, well pleased with their day's sport.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Chief of Police T. J. Carey and family have returned from Lebanon, Hunterdon county, N. J.

A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Debele, at their home on Duer street, Saturday morning last.

Umpire William Cadmus drove all the way from Mt. Tabor to umpire the ball game, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. John N. Smith, of Millstone, N. J., is visiting her brother, Mr. P. G. Kline, of Summit avenue.

Mrs. D. C. Bird returned yesterday, with her two daughters, from Sheepside, Chatham, N. J., after spending a week with relatives.

Mr. E. T. Dunn, of West Fourth street, has secured a position with the Edison Phonograph Co., of West Orange, and entered upon his duties today.

Rev. Edwin F. See, who preached in the Trinity Reformed church on Sunday, was the guest while in this city, of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Stout, of "The Elms," East Front street.

The death occurred in New York, on Saturday evening, of Jennie S. Pound, eldest daughter of Jackson S. Pound and his wife, who was formerly Miss Nellie Hunter, of Scotch Plains. Death came in her twenty-fourth year. She was the neice of Mrs. Mary Ann Bloom, widow of the late Judge Wm. Bloom, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The young lady was a grand daughter of Jackson Pound, a former well known resident of Plainfield.

Petit Jurors.

Among the jurors drawn today at Elizabeth, were from Plainfield. E. C. Mulford, F. H. Martin, D. Hand and Asa Collier; from Fanwood, Stites M. Parse, Lewis W. Miller and Henry F. Stites; from Westfield, C. W. Harbison.

Explanatory—
The sentiment of property holders is shown by the character of the line drawn across the fronts of their respective lots, thus:

– – – – " neutral,

PERFECTLY SATISFACTORY.

The crowds of people who had the opportunity yesterday of taking a ride on Mr. Daft's electric car, unite in commendation of it in every way. Its running was absolutely perfect and the car itself was a thing of beauty and comfort. Even some of the lady visitors were allowed to start and stop it, to prove how simple and easily controlled the motor was.

The car is absolutely self-contained—deriving its energy while running entirely from the batteries underneath the seats and therefore not in any way affecting the rails or any surrounding objects. When the charge in the batteries is partially exhausted the car is run into the charging house and connected with the main heads at the dynamo which refill the cells in from 2½ to 4 hours. The car is then ready to run from thirty to thirty-five miles. There is absolutely no danger, as the potential or electric pressure is only 175 volts, which is perfectly safe under all possible conditions. The machinery is of the most substantial character, and with a factor of safety sufficient to permit of reversing at full speed incase of emergency—which stops the car in less than its own length, a most valuable characteristic in crowded thoroughfares.

There are of course no obstructions on the streets whatever, except the indispensable rails. The car is brilliantly lighted by electricity and there are call bells at the side to signal the conductor, also powerful alarm gongs underneath the car, all of which are actuated by the batteries. It is therefore an electric car from beginning to end.

About 1,000 persons were carried yesterday afternoon—Mr. F. E. Marsh officiating a considerable part of the time as engineer. An almost exact fac-simile of this car, with the same equipment of storage batteries, has been running for several months past in New Orleans, and has been so eminently satisfactory that the railroad company have determined to change their whole instalation to this system, to effect which change the Superintendent is now taking vigorous measures. The Newark and Bloomfield railway officials have also adopted it on their Prospect avenue line.

City Council Meeting.

The members of the City Council met in regular session at 8.35 o'clock last evening, with President Dumont in the chair. The other members present were Messrs Erickson, Gallup, Jenkins, Marsh and Newhall—6. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

A petition from Emma F. Fox and others for a cross-walk at Broadway and Webster place was referred to the Street Committee, and a similar petition from the Secretary of the Seventh Day Baptist church, for a crosswalk at Arlington avenue and Ninth street, was referred with power.

A petition for an additional light on Prospect avenue, was presented, referred and subsequently refused, as the Committee reported that the funds for street lighting is exhausted.

Petitions were also received from property owners both on Park and Prospect avenues, asking to have those avenues repaired and put in good condition. Referred.

A petition from Plainfield avenue property owners calling attention to the condition of that thoroughfare, and the urgent necessity for repairs to the same, was referred to the Street Committee. Space will not permit us to publish the petition in full today.

A communication was received and filed from Frank Campbell of Liberty street, accompanied by a claim of $19.50 for alleged damages by water.

The usual batch of claims for work on the streets, police services, fire department bills, and other claims of a miscellaneous nature, were presented and referred to the proper committees.

The City Auditor reported as follows on the validity of certain claims of T. W. Morrison. The report was received and filed:

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN:—There has been filed in the office of the City Clerk, as you requested, the opinion of the Corporation Counsel on the matter of the validity of advertising city ordinances and other official notices in a daily newspaper without one week's time intervening between the two necessary insertions.

In accordance with cited illustrations therein from the Charter and General Statutes, the opinion concludes that "the failure to allow one week to intervene between the two insertions of the notices in question, does not invalidate the publication."

This legal decision will guide the Auditor hereafter in all cases where advertisements of city matters are ordered published by your honorable body in any official daily newspaper.

But the bills of T. W. Morrison are for advertisements not ordered by your honorable body, which were inserted when the "Evening News" was not designated an official newspaper; and further put in the paper after the City Clerk had taken the precaution personally to notify the editor not to insert the notices. This was done by the Clerk because a further publication was unnecessary, all the required advertisements having been published in the two weekly papers as the Charter specifies and your honorable body directed, and their publication in a third newspaper would incur a needless expense. Hence the bills for $83.20 cannot be audited.

O. B. LEONARD,
City Auditor.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 2, 1889.

The monthly reports of the treasurer and collector were received. The former was referred to the Finance Committee, and the latter was filed. The treasurer also called attention to the fact that three notes, one for $1,000 on the General Fund, $500 from the Poor Fund and $500 from the Fire Department Fund, fall due on September 6.

The quarterly report of the Overseer of the Poor was received and filed.

The City Judge sent in an itemized report of the number of cases brought before him for violation of the city ordinances, between June 2 and September 2. In all there were 36 cases; 15 fines were imposed, and in the other cases the guilty persons were either committed or discharged. $127 was received from fines.

A lengthy written opinion of the Corporation Counsel on the matter of rebuilding mill dams was received and filed. In substance it was to the effect that the city has no voice in the matter, and that the law applies to townships only.

The various committees reported on the claims sent in during the evening, and they were transferred to the Auditing Committee.

The Fire and Building Committee reported having granted the former petitions of Messrs E. C. Mulford and Mr. A. Venino, the former to remove a frame building, and the latter to erect a dwelling house at Madison avenue and Sixth street.

Mr. Marsh made a verbal report on the matter of a street railway, stating that Mr. Leo Daft had exhibited his electric motor, in compliance with a resolution adopted by the Council at a previous meeting. The car, he said, would be on exhibition again today. Mr. Marsh further said that the Committee felt satisfied that the car would do all that Mr. Daft claimed for it.

At this stage in the proceedings Mr. Dunham came.

Mr. Marsh made a motion which prevailed, to the effect that when the Council adjourn it be to meet again in two weeks.

An appropriation of $1,000 was made for repairs on the streets, upon motion of Mr. Marsh.

The same Councilman offered a resolution to the effect that the Mayor and Treasurer execute a three months' note for $2,000, said money to be placed to the credit of the General Fund, and a similar note for $500 for the Fire Department. The resolution was adopted.

Mayor Male nominated Francis Moran as a special policeman, and the nomination was confirmed.

Mr. Marsh offered a resolution which prevailed, authorizing the treasurer to pay off a note of $500 on account of the poor fund, due on Sept. 6, and that the Mayor and Treasurer also execute another note for $600 to be placed to the credit of the poor fund.

The Auditing Committee made a report on the bills, and the meeting adjourned.

A Slight Tribute to the Memory of Mrs. Daniel Smith.

(Contributed.)

At the Locust Valley Reformed church, Long Island, there was held on Friday last the funeral services of a lady who died in this city on the previous Tuesday.

Having been an invalid during the three years of her residence in Plainfield, she was but little known outside of a few immediate friends, but her departure has left many a heart to mourn the loss of a noble, generous, sympathizing woman, besides those who bear that deepest of all sorrows when the grave closes over a tender, loving mother.

On Thursday afternoon a short service was held at the residence of her son, Mr. Henry T. Smith, on Broadway, the Rev. Dr. Simpson officiating, and on Friday morning the remains of Mrs. Daniel Smith were borne on the last sad journey to her former home at Locust Valley, Long Island, where a large number of sympathizing friends met the funeral party at the station.

The grief of those who had known her many years was profoundly expressed; and there mingled with the numerous friends and relatives, many and many of those who had been the recipients of her limitless generosity and whose hearts and homes she had cheered previous to her departure from Locust Valley.

Amid the fragrance of countless flowers and the church filled almost beyond its capacity, the three clergymen—the Rev. Dr. Irving of Troy, N. Y., Rev. Dr. Hart of Neshanic, and Rev. Dr. Smock of Locust Valley—all impressively conducted the service, each one speaking of the dead in the memory of her sweet, Christian faith, and as one whose life was all that a follower of the Cross of Jesus should be.

In the cemetery adjoining the church they laid her at rest in the August sunshine, which was not brighter than the example she has left for the world to follow; and if grief can be measured by flowers and tears, then great indeed to the friends has been the loss of Mrs. Daniel V. Smith.

Rainbow Bazaar.

The music for the Bazaar, to be held at The Crescent, Friday and Saturday, has been carefully selected under the management of P. L. Conde, of this city, assisted by Mrs. N. E. Buckley, of Fanwood. The orchestra will be composed of the following well known soloists:

1st violin, P. L. Conde; 2d violin, W. Netherwood; bass, F. Conde, Sr.; piano, Mrs. N. E. Buckley; cornet, W. N. Bartow; clarionette, F. L. Conde; flute, L. Clausse; trombone, G. Dunham.

Programme will be published in Thursday evening's paper.

Winners of the Olympia Prizes.

Chas. Krewson, gold watch, score 233; H. Willett, silver watch, score 231; Chas. VanWinkle, silk umbrella, score 227; Geo. Swain, gold ring, score 223; C. A. Reed, opera glasses, score 219; J. W. Drayton, bowling shoes, score 214.

Twelve scores were made over 200, one of which was 258, but being connected with the alley, was excluded from the prizes.

A clam bake was held on the Mountain in the vicinity of Washington Rock on Sunday.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians. I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?
ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.
These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

ALARM IN LONDON

A General Strike of All Workmen Expected.

THE SITUATION VERY CRITICAL.

The Result of To-Day's Events Will Be a Turning Point in the Contest.

Over 150,000 Men Assemble at Hyde Park. Mammoth Demonstrations on the Thames Embankment—Fifty Thousand Men March to the Mass Meeting—American Sailors Given the Place of Honor in the Procession

LONDON, Sept. 2.—London is awaiting with breathless anxiety the developments of the great strike to-day, when the turning point is expected to be reached. Tremendous pressure has been brought to bear upon the officers of the different trades unions by the leaders of the men now out to induce them to bring about a general strike of all the workingmen in London to-day.

At noon to-day a general stoppage of work had not taken place, but the leaders of all labor organizations are in session. They are close-mouthed and special care has been taken to prevent any hint of their proposed action leaking out. The men, as a rule, are anxious to convey the impression that nothing will be done, and this is so entirely opposed to the plan usually pursued of loudly boasting in advance how much will be done that the conclusion is naturally drawn that something like a general strike has been decided upon and that the leaders are only anxious not to lose the advantage of a thorough and complete surprise. However, this appears to be pure speculation and today may pass without the dreaded suspension of all industry.

The temper of the men already out is far different than that they displayed a week ago. They no longer allow Burns, their conservative leader, to dictate their policy and already it is apparent he will be overruled. The men are growing ugly, threats are frequent of bloody work and their passions are further inflamed by the slight rise in the price of provisions which has been the unavoidable outcome of their own action.

The strikers held a monster meeting yesterday on the Thames embankment and at its close marched in procession 50,000 strong to the meeting at Hyde Park.

The strikers maintain an undaunted front and profess to be confident of victory and that soon. Three American vessels arrived in the Thames yesterday and the American sailors on board were offered three shillings per hour, or six times the pittance for which the strikers are contending, to unload their own vessels. As soon as they understood the situation of affairs they did not ask for a moment to make up their minds but promptly refused to do the work at any price. They were received with loud hurrahs by the strikers and were given the place of honor in the procession.

Over 2,000 Coolies, employed by Parker Lambert as bargemen, have joined the strike.

The council of the strikers had a prolonged meeting last evening at which every phase of the situation was discussed. They decided to continue the strike.

Monster Meeting at Hyde Park.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The meeting of the strikers at Hyde Park yesterday afternoon was a monster affair. Burns and others of the leaders made speeches in which they urged their men to stand firm and assured them that victory was certain. Resolutions were passed unanimously in favor of continuing the strike until the demands of the men were fully conceded. After the meeting the men dispersed quietly. There was no disorder whatever.

It is estimated that the great strikers meeting at Hyde Park was attended by not less than 150,000 people, almost all of whom were workingmen and strikers. The collections for the strikers relief fund taken up at the different stands, netted quite a handsome sum. An American gentleman stepped up to the stand from which Burns spoke and volunteered a large donation.

A FEUD ENDS IN BLOOD.

Lively Skirmish Between a Cattle Inspector and Coloradans.

ROCKY FORD, Col., Sept. 2.—A feud, growing out of a law suit, resulted last night in a shooting affray herein which Cattle Inspector Joe Wyatt, United States Marshal Maxwell, of Pueblo, John Miller and several others took part.

Miller received a shot in the groin and another which broke his right leg. After he had fallen Miller shot Wyatt in the neck with a Winchester rifle. Ike Freshour, an innocent spectator, received a serious wound in the right shoulder.

There had been bad blood for a long time between Inspector Wyatt and the Miller boys, who are old residents of La Junta. About forty shots were fired during the fight.

Mrs. Sullivan's Funeral.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The display of floral tributes at Mrs. Sullivan's funeral were unusually large, sporting men from all over the country having sent contributions. The champion himself contributed a large standing anchor, with a chain of white carnations, surmounted by a white dove. The funeral was largely attended and John L. was much affected during the services at the church and grave.

Mrs. Maybrick Resigned to Her Fate.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Maybrick is taking a course of exercise in the Woking prison yard and is rapidly improving in health. She maintains the cool demeanor which has characterized her since the commutation of her sentence and seems to be settling down to the conviction that she will be a convict for life.

OVER NIAGARA.

Graham, the Barrel Fiend, Claims to Have Made the Trip.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—It was reported early yesterday that C. D. Graham had made his long-contemplated trip over the Horseshoe Falls. Less than a dozen are willing to testify that the trip was squarely made, but the barrel, which could be seen in the eddy below the falls, where a boat could hardly reach, is offered in evidence.

Graham, and some of the party who claim to have seen the trip, tell the story as follows:

The barrel, which is the one in which he made his trip through the whirlpool rapids last Sunday, was taken across the bridge about 3 o'clock yesterday morning and launched just below Chippewa Creek. Considerable work had been done on the barrel since last Sunday in the way of padding, etc. Two sand bags had also been strapped to the bottom on the inside.

The barrel was towed out in the river by Garry Staley and Andrew Horn, reputable citizens of this place. The manhole was packed to make it water-tight, and when the cover was shut down it was fastened on the inside, and two bars placed over it and secured by a spring lock.

At 6:45 the barrel was cut loose, and after taking a passage similar to the one of two weeks ago, was seen to pass over the falls about 200 feet from the shore at 7:10 o'clock. It was out of sight a little over a minute, and came out from under the falls right side up and drifted into one of the numerous eddies.

E. L. Jones, an expert swimmer, swam out and brought in one of the lines attached, and with the assistance of Mr. Cahill pulled the craft ashore. It was opened at 7:30 o'clock, having been closed fifty minutes.

Kind Words for Burglars.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 2.—Hugh O. Pentecost spoke on "Clubs, Handcuffs and Dungeon Cells" in the Belleville avenue rink yesterday morning. The building was well filled. In substance Mr. Pentecost said:

"If I knew a burglar was in my house at night, I would go to him with a light, unarmed, and talk to him as I would to a friend whom I desired to help. If he then desired to take my goods I would make no protest, nor would I cause his arrest. I would follow him to the door and invite him to call again. This is better than physical force, and had Mr. Luce, in Brooklyn, acted in this manner, he would be alive to-day and McElvaine would not be in prison."

Yarmouth's 250th Anniversary.

SANDWICH, Mass., Sept. 2.—The exercises attending the the 250th anniversary of Yarmouth were opened yesterday by the quarto-millenial of the First Congregational Church. A large audience was present and the exercises were very interesting. The auditorium was finely decorated with bunting, flowers, etc. The historical address delivered by Rev. John W. Dodge was a fine production. At the afternoon session greetings by the mother church were extended by Rev. Jeremiah Taylor, D. D., with responses by invited clergymen.

Miss Beaumont's Narrow Escape.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Miss Beaumont, the American parachute performer, while giving an exhibition of her daring at North Shields yesterday became entangled in the rigging of her air-ship and only saved herself by grasping the lightning rod of a lofty building as she passed it. With one hand in the rigging of her parachute and the other clinging to the lightning rod, she remained suspended in mid-air for a long time, until rescued by men with ladders from her perilous position.

Adjourned Church to Convene Court.

DECATUR, Tex., Sept. 2.—E. Huffman was tried in the District Court Saturday for horse theft. The court room is used on Sunday as a place of worship. Yesterday morning during the services the jury returned a verdict. The prisoner was brought in and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, after which the services were resumed.

Killed by the Cars.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 2.—William Hurley, of New York, was killed here yesterday while trying to crawl under a train of cars. He was alive when taken out and died after being carried to the Red Cross Hospital. Friends came on from New York and took charge of the body.

Big Blaze Near Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Fire was caused yesterday by the explosion of a gasoline stove in the Manhattan Hotel on Ontario Beach, and before the flames could be extinguished the Manhattan, the Rialto, another hotel, were entirely destroyed. The total loss is $25,000, covered by insurance.

Clan-na-Gael Cops Dropped.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—A number of policemen were dropped from the rolls of the police department on account of their connection with Clan-na-Gael camps. Some of the men were members of Camp No. 20, and were already under suspicion.

Still in Her Attic.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton still remains in the attic prison over at May's Landing, and it seems now exceedingly doubtful if she will be outside of these quarters for some time.

Race Troubles in Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 2.—Race troubles have broken out at Greenwood, Miss. Governor Lowry is at the scene of the disturbance and is personally commanding the militia.

Mrs. Parnell's Death Reported.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—It is rumored that Mrs. Parnell, mother of the Irish statesman, died suddenly at her home in Bordentown, N. J.

IN THE LATE SUMMER DAYS

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Newport is probably our closest approach to a summer capital and, outside of New York itself through which the tide of summer travel ebbs and flows continually, it is in Newport that one must study August and September gowns. Not that one may not find equally brave attire at Saratoga or Long Branch, but the proprieties of dress are not always so carefully considered as to times and seasons. Saratoga is flamboyant; it wears diamonds at breakfast very frequently. Newport is quiet to simplicity in the morning, richly elegant at dinner, and ablaze like the Queen of Sheba in the Casino. To spend September at Newport a woman need not lay out a great amount of money on an outfit necessarily, but what is bought must be correct in taste, selected by the help not only of cash but of brains.

A NEWPORT GIRL.

The first characteristic which strikes an observer of dress at Newport is the perfect freshness of the costumes. An American who goes to Paris always exclaims over the daintiness of the Frenchwoman's white underskirts and pretty slippers, for which the exquisitely clean streets receive the praise. In the same way the stranger in Newport remarks on the fair bloom of youth in the attire. Newport gowns are cherished and hence they do not wrinkle or crease or lay themselves open to any auspicion of a tumbled appearance or give the slightest evidence of travel or wear. They are carefully shaken out of window as soon as they are taken off the person; they are tenderly brushed daily with a silk handkerchief or bit of soft flannel; they are pressed with an iron as often as worn if they belong to the genus wash-gown; they are never allowed for the briefest period to want a stitch or a button, and so to become pulled or strained; they are seduously freshened and tended by the watchful ladies' maid, or, if such a person is not included in the establishment, by the lady herself, whose business instinct for securing the worth of her money in her wardrobe is usually more acute than one finds it in women without means, who cannot easily replace what is soiled.

This exaltation of daintiness and carefulness of finish over richness of material has curious results sometimes, as when a young lady of a girlish and innocent style of beauty drove slowly along Bellevue avenue a few days since in a low phaeton drawn by a pair of horses with a stout silver bar in front to support the reins. She had dark red hair gathered in a low coil, a delicate face and a manner as simple and serene as if, instead of making part of the splendid pageant of the glittering driveway, she were picking wild flowers in the meadow. A group of women, possibly from the country, with wholesome ideas on dress extravagance, fixed admiring eyes on her charming profile and on her "sweet, simple frock" of blue gingham tinted the shades of a hazy August sky. It had a full skirt of straight breadths sewn in gathers on a piping cord at the waist, with no ornament but a deep ruffle of white lace whipped on at the bottom. The full round bodice had a yoke of white mull cut in a V point in front and behind. The blue gingham was brought across this in front in soft, lace-edged folds from either shoulder seam, the right side crossing upon the left and losing itself in a ribbon sash knotted under the left arm. The lace and gingham sleeves were puffed slightly, and a blue tulle hat was bent into a cottage poke above the flowerlike face and trimmed with a twisting vine of white clematis blossoms. The gloves, the lines by which she guided her horses, the whip, the toe of the single small boot that peeped from under the draperies, all were white and her prancing steeds had snowy white collars edged with silver.

"What a sensible creature," said one woman to another, "that pretty girl must be. She knows that taste goes father than money in clothes nowadays. Why, you could match the materials of that dress for twenty-five cents a yard and make it up for your Genie, trimmings and all, for less than five dollars."

What would have been the emotions of the admirer of girlish simplicity had any gossipy fairy whispered to her that this same pretty, low-cost gown was specially imported through a fashionble New York modiste from a famous Parisian house, was built from top to bottom on silk linings and cost $168? Newport wears the cheapest cottons or batistes if it feels so minded, but as likely as not spends fortunes to secure just that touch and go unstudied effect in the making.

It will cost you a dollar to climb up into the Casino balcony at half an hour before midnight of a Friday evening but perhaps the sight of gowns, whose skirts are made by Worth and whose bodices by Tiffany may repay you for the extravagance. If you care for belles and beauties, potentates and powers, you may pick out from the hosts of girls in well-made ball dresses of white, black, pink or blue net or tulle, fair, irreproachably attired and undistinguishable. Mrs. Astor, in rose-colored white brocade starred with diamonds; Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt in pearl-colored tulle, stiff with silver embroidery; Mrs. Henry Clews in white tulle, embroidered with lillies of the valley; Mrs. August Belmont in blue crepe, Mrs. Burke Roche in pearl colored satin, with blue crepe ruchings; Mrs. Sloane in white tulle, with yellow silk sashes, and so on through the ranks of "gentle ladies richly clad" ad infinitum. Not a man on the floor but feels like singing with Rosina Vokes:

"You should see my coat-tails flying
As I whisk the girls around."

If these things charm not, there may be pleasure in the sight of the diving dresses assumed of a morning by the swimming girls. The costly and outre bathing suits that one reads about exist for the most part in the newspaper correspondents' lively imagination. There are many pretty and tasteful swimming suits, but there is no code of morality which exacts of a bather that she should make herself hideous nor is a becoming suit necessarily an immodest one. The swimming suit is usually made in somewhat different fashion from the beach suit, in which one simply wets one's toes, and the diving suit, which silhouettes itself between midair and ocean, assumes the greatest latitude of all. Girls who swim choose a knickerbocker costume, with short trousers long blouse or jacket and short plaited skirt or tunic, into the hem of which pebbles are sometimes sewn to keep it from floating up about the person. The blouse is cut loose in the throat and it is seldom that any sleeves are worn. The newest bathing caps have a loose oilskin peak to protet the complexion, and swimming belts made of cork and covered with material to match the suit are becoming a very usual addition to the outfit of beginners. The bathing wrap of coarse white or gaily striped towelling is all but universal, and long stockings with cork soles, or protected by bathing slippers are, of course, indispensible. One of the prettiest wimming suits is worn by a pretty Brooklyn girl whose piquant face makes her always a conspicuous figure. It is of black silk, the trousers just reaching to the knees and the skirt a little shorter and fastened to a full sailor blouse. Yellow silk stockings, a yellow kerchief about her throat, yellow belt and cuffs and, a yellow cap with a scarlet tassel add touches of vivid color.

Tennis costumes with the approach of cooler weather take to themselves new colors and new ways. The dainty grays and whites and pale greens give place to the ruddy russet hues that soon will find their parallels in the changing leaves. A russet serge is a favorite material with accordion plaited skirt and silk blouse or shirt of white or scarlet. A bright-eyed girl who is not an especially good player atones for her awkwardness with the racquet by the picture she makes in a yellowish russet gown with green silk blouse, and shoes, hose and belt all of russet leather. Even her hat is a soft green felt, with scarlet plume and russet ribbons.

In the boating dress much the same colors and materials obtain. Many of the girls who think nothing of a five-mile pull before breakfast wear all white in their water expeditions which is very effective as the sun glints on the dripping oars. Others wear gray-green or gray-blue serges with white silk serge blouses which will stand any amount of splashing from the salt waves or the scrubbing board of the laundrywoman. A little white Saxony cap with a black velvet vizor is the regulation headwear.

The fishing gown is something which until last season had hardly a name. This fall it increases and multiplies. Some of the shrewd girls who have an eye to economy have devised a suit which is adapted at once to bathing and fishing. It consists in one typical instance of a skirt of broad stripes of green and white serge which comes just to the knees. There is a loose bodice of white serge and an overdress of scarlet serge, with shoulder straps and bretelles which is easily detachable, and when laid aside leaves the less complicated suit for bathing. As used for a crabbing outfit long scarlet stockings and corksoled green canvas shoes are worn, with a white fishing cap with scarlet tassel.

The quaintest device seen on the rocks this summer is the cape bonnet or "Heligolander," which is now worn as often by young married women as by little girls, and is made of mull, cambric or batiste to match the gown. A plump and rosy blonde, who is often seen in a pink gingham trimmed with white point de gene, tucks away her yellow curls under a light pink gingham cape bonnet, flowered in white and blue. Pale yellow batiste with full flounced cape embroidered in white, is the finish to a brunette's costume of black batiste with sash striped in white and yellow. These deep cape bonnets are great aids to flirtation, for a pretty face looks particularly childlike and innocent peeping out from under their shade.

The first gowns imported for early autumn wear are thoroughly composite in style, the Directory and Empire features being blended oddly, if in fair degree of harmony with Russian, Louis Phillippe, Valois, Venetian and Greek elements. Girdles, sashes, vests, redingrote shapes, classic draperies and the like will continue their reign.

ELLEN OSBORN.

TERRIBLE FOREST FIRES.

The Vast Area Covered in the Northwest by These Disastrous Conflagrations.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 2.—Those who have never traveled over the section of this country known as the Northwest can have no idea of the vast area which the prairie and timber fires have covered. Starting away up in the British Columbia, in Kootenai country, four weeks ago, owing to the parched condition of the country, no rain of any consequence having fallen for ninety days, the fire traveled with great rapidity, passing south through Montana and Idaho, extending into Washington and Oregon on the west, then south again into Wyoming and Colorado.

Montana, perhaps, has suffered the most, as fire ran along through the prairie country to the Dakota line, crossed the main divied of the Rockies, set the bitter roots aflame, worked into the mountains near Phillips, destroyed the timber and did great damage in the National Park. But if the prairie fires are disastrous the forest fires are doubly so. Granville Stuart, one of the best authorities in Montana, estimates the loss by these fires in Montana at $100,000 a day. Thousands of acres of virgin timber land have been denuded and thousands of cords of cut wood destroyed.

MISSISSIPPI'S WANTS.

The Legislature to Be Asked to Encourage Foreign Immigration.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 1.—The report of the Committee on Memorials and Legislation adopted by the State Alliance contains the following recommendations to the Legislature: Asking that money be appropriated by the State to encourage foreign immigration, that so much of the convict labor as is necessary be employed in running a bagging factory as a State enterprise, that railroads, banks, etc., be required to pay an advalorem instead of a privilege tax, urging a law establishing a State Agricultural Bureau, and providing for teaching of agriculture in public schools; that the next Legislature call a Constitutional Convention, a law requiring the inspection on the hoof of all beef cattle.

Chemical Works for Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 2.—The Reid Chemical Works of New York have purchased a permanent site here with a frontage 400 feet on the Erie Canal and the same on the New York Central Railroad. They will employ 100 skilled workmen from the start.

KASKINE,
(THE NEW QUININE.)

Science emerging from Darkness.

A POWERFUL TONIC.
A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

"After five years suffering from malaria, which nearly destroyed my constitution, having used quinine without permanent benefit, I tried Kaskine and got better right away. The malarial symptoms all left me, and health, sleep and strength returned."—Henry Knarke, 583 Washington street, New York.

"I had all the symptoms of malarial poisoning; headaches, rheumatic pains, great nervous depression, loss of sleep, indigestion, &c. The old quinine proving useless, I tried "the new quinine" and soon got better."—W. Goldburg, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

DUPED BY A DEMON

A Diabolical Plot Against Robert Ray Hamilton.

THE GREAT CRIME CONFESSED.

Forced Into Marriage by a Child Bought for Ten Dollars.

The Arrest of Mrs. Swinton and Her Son Joshua Mann Discloses a Conspiracy Against Robert Ray Hamilton—His Alleged Wife an Adventuress and a Disreputable Women—She Purchased Four Babies from Midwives and Two Die.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The sequel underlying the attempt of Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton to assassinate her maid at Atlantic City has at last been told. The disclosure abounds in startling sensations, intrigue and revolting criminal practices on the part of this scheming adventuress, who, while confined in prison at May's Landing, charged with attempted murder, continued to blind the eyes of a too-confiding husband until his friends stepped in and engaged Inspector Byrnes to investigate her record.

On Monday sufficient evidence had been gathered to warrant the arrest of Joshua Mann and his mother, Mrs. F. A. Swinton, who, while confined in police headquarters yesterday, confessed to their connection with the diabolical plot and furnished points for Inspector Byrnes to work on, and he quickly unearthed the details of a conspiracy between Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Swinton and Joshua Mann to force Mr. Hamilton to marry the first named.

As part of the plot, Hamilton was made to believe that a child was born to him December 17, 1888, at Elmira. He married the woman three weeks later. The Inspector has found that the babe was procured for ten dollars from a midwife.

The first baby procured soon died, and a second was obtained. This one also died, and the third one was so homely that the woman would not keep it. She got a fourth one. Though Hamilton had seen the first baby, he never knew the difference, and has been regarding the fourth bought child as his own. To legitimize the child he married the supposed mother.

In each place where a child was procured, the detectives took Mrs. Swinton, and in each case her story was corroborated. The several physicans who attended the children made affidavits to that effect, and the records in the Bureau of Vital Statistics gave the deaths.

Inspector Byrnes has located the mother of the child, Beatrice Ray Hamilton, within a stone's throw of Police Headquarters. He refused, however to divulge the name of the woman at present, but has told Mr. Hamilton, who will, no doubt, visit the woman and make some arrangements to care for the child. The little one has entwined itself around his heart strings, and the possible loss of the child grieves him. He is resolved upon punishing the woman to the fullest extent of the law for conspiracy, bigamy and willful neglect of children purchased like slaves. The unfeeling midwives who sold the children will probably be arrested today.

Mr. Hamilton's affection for the adventuress who so entrapped him has turned to anguish from the very thought of the disgrace and publicity which the unfortunate affair has brought upon him. He has denounced her and will at one institute proceedings for absolute divorce.

An Easton Girl Attempts Suicide.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 4.—Blanche Reywood, a yonng woman who came from the neighborhood of Easton, Pa., but who has lived in this city for the past six months, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by jumping into the Delaware River from Mershon's wharf. Two men jumped in after her, and after a hard fight with the would-be suicide, they succeeded in rescuing her. It is said that she received word that her mother had gone crazy, and this news unbalanced her mind.

The Buffalo Fair Opened.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 4.—To the music of Cappa's band and in the presence of an immense throng, Buffalo's great International Fair was opened for its second season yesterday. It was hoped that President Harrison would come here to open the fair, but this was found to be impracticable, and so Mr. C. J. Hamlin, President of the Fair Association, pressed the electric button and the International Fair of 1890 was declared open. The exhibition greatly excels that of last year in every respect.

Fell from a Tree and Was Killed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 4.—Dan Lamont will probably be elected president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, the largest industrial corporation in the South.

CUNNING CANADIANS

Still Defiantly Capturing Seals in Behring Sea.

CHASED DAILY BY THE RUSH.

The Prize Crews Overawed by Superior Numbers on the Dominion Vessels.

The Schooner Minnie Continues Fishing After a Prize Crew Has Been Placed on Board—Canadian Vessels Arrive at Victoria With Big Hauls of Seal Skins—Jubilation Over the Safe Return of Dominion Schooners.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 4.—The schr. Minnie, Captain Jacobsen, has just arrived in port from Behring Sea. The captain reports that early on the morning of July 15, the Rush bore down and boarded him. Lieutenant Tuttle came aboard with four sailors and asked him for his papers. Captain Jacobsen gave them to him. Lieutenant Tuttle then searched the ship and discovered 450 fresh skins in the salt room, took possession of them and transferred them all to the Rush. Then after an hours waiting he told Swensen, an able seaman, to take her to Sitka. He gave Swensen a letter to the United States Consul, and then took off all the guns and spears he could find and left.

As soon as the Rush was out of sight Captain Jacobsen had Swensen brought to him.

"Look here," he said, "I am under contract with my Indians to fish in this sea for so long, and I'm going to do it. You can do as you like."

"Swensen, who is little more than a boy, answered nothing, and did not attempt to stop further proceedings. The Indians at once started to make fresh spears, and the next day went sealing. After this they captured 500 fresh skins and nine sea otters. Then, hearing that the cutter was running around lively, Captain Jacobsen got up anchor, and got out of the sea on August 17. He had a fair passage to this port. There is great jubilation over her return.

This morning two more schooners were sighted. They proved to be Annie C. Moore and Ariel. Captain Hackett, of the Moore, reports that on July 2 he got to the sea and at once started fishing operations and continued them unmolested. He did not sight the Rush at all and brought down 1,800 skins. He spoke the Maggie Mac, with a catch of 600; the Mary Ellen, with a catch of 1,000 and the Viva with 1,600, and all doing well. The latter is outside of Cape Flattery and is expected every hour.

L. Swensen, the prize crew of the Minnie, says that he was given a sealed letter with instructions to take the boat to Sitka, but was powerless to enforce the order against twenty-one men. He saw the United States Consul yesterday, and will go to Port Townsend to-day to deliver the letter to the District Attorney there.

THE SCRIPPS LEAGUE.

The American Workmen Entertained by Minnie Palmer in Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Sept. 4.—On the arrival of the members of the Scripps' League of American Workmen in this city, Minnie Palmer, the American actress, invited them to visit in a body the Royal Theatre, at which she is playing. The proscenium boxes were reserved for the American tradesmen, and they attracted as much attention from the large audience as the actress herself. Enthusiastic plaudits and three cheers were given for the Americans as the curtain fell.

After the performance Miss Palmer gave a reception to the party at her hotel. A number of literary and dramatic notables were present. The company were entertained with songs and recitations by Miss Palmer, Mrs. Barry and Julian Hawthorne. The newspapers published columns of the affair this morning. The party have chartered a steamer for the purpose of visiting the shipyards on the Clyde.

Now for Indictments.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Judge Gildersleeve in his charge to the Grand Jury yesterday laid before them the communication of Chief Justice Lawrence recently sent to the District Attorney in regard to the Black divorce case. He charged them that if their investigations showed the alleged conspiracy to be a fact that they should find indictments against the conspirators under section 168 of the Code and also under section 142 if the attorneys in the case should be guilty of practicing deceit upon the court. The Grand Jury then retired to their rooms.

Anti-Slaveryites to Meet.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—A reunion of Abolitionists will be held September 23, in Tremont Temple, to celebrate the anniversary of the issuing of the emancipation proclamation. One thousand invitations have been sent out to anti-slavery men throughout the country.

Mrs. Parnell Interviewed.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Parnell was interviewed to-day. She is very feeble, and says she does not expect to live long. She had hoped to live to see Ireland free, but now feels that she will not do so.

—One of our Park avenue merchants closed his store and went home last night, leaving a flannel shirt hanging in front of the store.

—A new firm of enterprising young men is C. W. Johnson & Co., grocers, of Dunellen, who are asking the people of that vicinity for a share of their patronage. The junior of the firm is Mr. Wm. Milliken, who made so many friends while connected for years with the dry goods establishment of Mr. Howard Pope, in this city.

—Contracts for the $17,000 pressed brick and terra cotta building already described in THE PRESS, that the Miller Bros., intend erecting at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, were awarded this afternoon. Mr. John Evans will do the mason work; Messrs Brokaw and Kane the carpentery; and F. O. Smith the painting. Work will begin to-morrow.

Entertained by Their Head.

A very congenial party of gentlemen were gathered at the home of Mr. Christian Schepflin, at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon last. The guests included the salesmen and heads of departments of the clothing establishment of Messrs. C. Schepflin & Co., and they were royally entertained by their host upon the occasion of the close of the business season.

Mr. Schepflin, during the afternoon, signified his entire satisfaction with the season's results, and sincerely thanked his co-workers for the way they had heartily pulled together to the great benefit of all. In return the guests expressed their recognition of their employer's appreciation, and pledged themselves to continued interest and exertion.

The social pleasure of the afternoon included bowling on the elegant lawn, 110 feet square, and other sports provided by the thoughtful host. An abundance of tempting refreshments of all kinds were spread under tents about the spacious grounds. Those present were, Col. Geo. Mellersh, Messrs C. B. Shepard, J. G. Miller, J. W. Griffith, C. D. Boice, A. W. Waldron, Dr. Lackner, J. Schultheis, L. V. Clark, Peter Schultz, Alex. Winter, Wm. H. Smith and several others.

The Right Time and the Right Place.

The great good order, pleasure and success of the Reform Club's midsummer excursion to Rockaway, will no doubt attract a large crowd upon the occasion of their coming trip to Mauch Chunk, Wednesday of next week Tickets for the trip, including Glen Onoko, will be sold at $1.75, and can be purchased of those mentioned in the advertisement elsewhere.

Tom the Peeper.

It is said that the mysterious "Tom the Peeper," who has been frightening females in the Fourth Ward during the past week, is none other than a resident of North Plainfield. One of the women, whose house he entered, says she can both identify and locate the "peeper."

From the Elizabeth Journal.

The New Brunswick Home News takes it for granted that he is a very clear and very far sighted man who saw any part of Heaven from Jersey City. But this is not necessarily so. Dives was very near-sighted, and yet he saw Heaven from the station just below Jersey City.

KING AND QUEEN SHOOTING.

The Members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Spend An Enjoyable Day at Keller's Grove.

The King and Queen shooting by the Shooting Section of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, took place at Keller's grove on Monday, commencing at 9:30 A. M. Mr. Fred Haberle succeeded in shooting off the Eagle's head and was awarded the first prize of $5. The second prize, $3, went to the Shooting Section on account of an error, and Mr. Fred Bechtel captured the third prize, $2.

Following came the King shooting at the Eagle's body, and after about 200 bullets had wizzed by or imbedded themselves in the wooden carcass. Mr. Henry Kreuzfeld shot down the last piece and he was declared King of the "Plainfield Schuetzen Bund" for one year to come.

Miss Aug. Keller scored the most points on the target and was therefore made the Queen for one year. At two o'clock the shooters with all the members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein marched to the station, preceded by the new City Cornet Band, to receive guests from New York and Brooklyn who arrived on the 2:30 P. M. train in special cars.

The visitors, most of whom wore handsome gold medals, presented a fine appearance, and after a short street parade, they were escorted to the grove where refreshments were served, and the crowning ceremonies of the King and Queen took place. Miss T. Schmidt in a neat speech presented both the King and Queen with handsome gold medals. Miss Schmidt was also presented with a handsome gift by Mr. Menzenbach, on behalf of the Shooting Section. Mr. Kreuzfeld, the King, thanked all present for the honor bestowed upon himself and the Queen, and invited all to "Schmetter" one with him.

Capt. Stoekle of the Shooting Section thanked the visitors for their willingness to assist in building up the Plainfield Schuetzen Bund. Capt. Ludwig of the Independent Germania Schuetzen Corps of New York, responded, stating that New York and Brooklyn comrades were always ready to help a club in its childhood. The Plainfield club, he predicted, would prosper because the ladies took such an active part in it.

Remarks were also made by Captain Schroeder and ex-Captain Hotz from the New York Schuetzen Guild, and Captain Roth from the Brooklyn Independent Schuetzen company. About 8 o'clock the visitors left for home.

A BIG RIDE.

What One Man Did on a Bike, With 40 Pounds of Baggage.

Captain Frank L. C. Martin, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, started from this city, Aug. 17, as told in THE PRESS, on his bicycle, and rode through Scotch Plains, New Providence, Morristown, Morris Plains, Mount Tabor, Denville, Rockaway, Dover, Suckasunny, Lake Hopatcong, Hurdtown, Woodport, Sparta, Newton, Stillwater, Blairstown, Hainesburg and Columbia, N. J., Portland, Pa., Delaware Water Gap, Shawnee, Stroudsburg and Bushkill to Dingman's Ferry, at which place he remained until Sept. 1, returning through Milford and Matamoras, Pa., Port Jervis, N. Y., Hugenot and Cuddlebackville, Otisville, Middletown, Goshen, Chester, Monroe, Turners, Arden, Southfield, Tuxedo, Sloatsburg, Ramapo, Suffern, Tallmans, Monsey, Spring Valley, Nanuet, Nyack, (ferry across Hudson) Tarrytown, Yonkers and Kings Bridge to New York, wheeling all the way to Liberty street ferry.

At Delaware Water Gap he was joined by Louis Geyler, first lieutenant of the Century Wheelmen, of Phila, who was on a tour to New York, and together they rode to Dingman's Ferry, remaining over night. The following day Capt. Martin accompained him to Port Jervis.

In the evening shortly after reaching the hotel in Hainesburg, a farmer rushed in and excitedly declared that he had just seen a giant passing down the road on a dead run, and was very much surprised when he was shown the bicycle and told that was what he had seen with a man on it. This story he accepted with a good deal of incredulity, as it was the first bike he had ever seen. The roads were mostly poor owing in a measure to the heavy rains of last month.

Captain Martin carried with him all his baggage in a valise attached to the backbone of his machine, and on the handle bars, weighing in all over forty pounds.

The Best and the Lowest.

Everything in the way of meats, fruits, vegetables, etc., are being offered at the new City Market, corner of Park avenue and Second street. The establishment has just passed into new hands, and with Jesse Hatfield as Manager, it is proposed to capture the trade of the people who want the best at the lowest prices. Being backed by large wholesale dealers, the City Market can buy most of its goods much less than others can. Everybody should give them a trial.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. D. C. Adams is in the Adirondacks, again.

The Rev. C. L. Goodrich is home from Windham, New York.

Mr. L. B. Goodrich has returned from his Summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray and family, have returned from the Marion House, Lake George.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred'k Moon, and Miss Fritts, of Park avenue, are home from Dingman's Ferry, Pa.

Mr. Frank Platt, of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with his friend A. L. Saltzman, of Central avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Davis have returned from Atlantic City. The Doctor is in unusually good health after his short rest.

A 15-months-old daughter of Patrick and Mary McGrath of South Second street, died on Sunday. The funeral took place on Monday.

Mr. T. Pettis, of Central avenue, has entirely renovated his cottage lately occupied by Mrs Courvoisier, and has leased it to Mr. Mason, of Worcester, Mass.

Willie, the youngest child of Patrick and Elizabeth Melvin of Cottage place, died on Sunday, and the remains were interred in St. Mary's cemetery on Monday.

At the election of officers of the Seaside Assembly, at Avon-by-the-sea, yesterday, Prof. Wm. E. Alberti, formerly of this city, but now of Somerville, was elected Secretary.

One of the guests at The Netherwood is Gen'l Jackson. His daughter, a young woman still in her teens, has one of the fullest and richest soprano voices ever heard in this vicinity.

Mrs. Elijah Stites, of Chatham street, and Mrs. Mary A. Martin, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, left today for Deckertown, N. J., where they will visit relatives for several days.

Mrs. Fred. S. Green is the owner of a night-blooming cereus which is delighting its owner and friends with fragrant flowers. It is now ready to bloom for the second time this season.

Mrs. Wm. A. Freeman and two sons of East Fifth street, have returned from an unusually pleasant visit of four weeks with friends at Brooklyn, Conn. On Sunday next Mrs. Freeman will resume her charge of the organ and surpliced choir of Grace church.

Mr. A. C. Jessup, the New York representative of the American Sheet Iron company of Pittsburgh, has leased of Mr. Isaac Brokaw, Mrs. Bacon's cottage on Willow avenue, North Plainfield, adjoining the home of Mr. Chas. E. Horne. He will occupy the place with his family, Oct. 1.

The Unitarian church services will be resumed next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Morehouse will preach. The services after next Sunday will be held in the morning at half-past ten o'clock. The place of meeting is in the music rooms of Jacob Bros., on East Front street.

Mr and Mrs. D. M. Canfield, of Washington, D. C., who were last week the guests of Mrs. Canfield's cousin, Mrs. J. C. VanDyke of East Front street, have returned home after a very pleasant outing at Asbury Park and among friends in this city. Mr. Canfield holds a responsible position in the Pension Office at Washington, and he is also one of the leading lawyers.

A feature of the services at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, was the music by a new quartette. The vocalists were, Mrs. Davis, of Dunellen, Mrs. Bird, of this city, and Messrs Randall and Barnes. One of the beautiful selections rendered was a TeDeum by Mosenthal. Mrs. Davis sang "Rock of Ages," as a solo, with good effect. The organist was Mr. A. Titsworth.

Democratic Primary Elections.

Pursuant to the calls of the Democratic State Committee, and the Democratic Executive Committee of the County of Union, the Democratic electors of the City of Plainfield will elect delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held at Trenton on Tuesday, the tenth day of September, instant, at 12 M., as follows, viz:

A very pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. John Stafford on Spooner avenue, Tuesday, at noon. The contracting couple were Mr. Robert Gow of Palatka, Florida, and Miss Georgianna Allard, second daughter of Mr. A. G. Allard of Cheadle, Staffordshire, Eng. Rev. E. M. Rodman was the officiating clergyman.

The bride arrived from England on the steamer Servia on Sunday, having traveled twenty-five hundred miles to meet her prospective husband. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., after which they will permanently locate in this city.

After the ceremony the bridal party were photographed by Messrs Fisher & Monfort.

—The public schools in this city will reopen for the Fall term on Monday next.

!" SHPARGARAP SWEN "

THE above headline appears at first sight quite unintelligible. Read it backwords and you will readily perceive its meaning—"News Paragraphs."
FIRST of all we want to get your attention just for a few moments only. Of course you are very busy, just getting back from your vacation. But you will need a good many little and big articles for the children to get them ready for school. And we want to assist you in saving time and expense in the purchasing of them.
YOU KNOW or ought to know by this time that EDSALL keeps the largest and best selected stock, and sells at the lowest prices. You should go right there first, where they make a specialty of such things. Goods are always fresh and new.

A GRAND GOOD SPEECH.

Ex-Judge Harper Impressively Addresses a Large Audience.

Reform Hall was well filled Sunday evening last. Doctor Burnett, as one of the Vice Presidents of the Reform Club, occupied the chair. Mr. Cleaver officiated as chaplain, and a full choir under the leadership of Mr. Vanderbeek conducted the musical exercises.

The speaker of the occasion was ex-Judge Harper, who commenced his remarks by declaring as a historical fact worthy of remembrance that the grandest achievements for the benefit of humanity, the triumphs of science, the spread of enlightened knowledge, and reformations of every name and kind, have been secured in the face of virulent opposition and many discouragements, and only by patient and unwavering fidelity to the convictions of truth and right. From this starting point the speaker dwelt upon the wonderful inventive progress of the present century, calling to mind specific instances, and the mighty practical results wrought out of small and feeble beginnings when firmly upheld and resolutely carried onward.

Judge Harper then presented to view and particularized the great advancement made in the saving cause of temperance, which he eulogized as the noblest reform work of the age, and counseled as the sure means of its final success, the harmonious and faithful concentration of efforts on the part of all opponents of intoxicating liquo , that devastating curse, which was filling the land with crime, misery and death. "Push on the battle without fear or favor. Discard discouragements as mere fleeting clouds. Cast aside all personal animosities. Work on work ever. Register a vow of total abstinence and keep the pledge inviolate. Do the right for the sake of right, and trust in Jehovah for wisdom and strength to win the glorious victory," were his concluding words.

The choir then sang "The Handwriting on the Wall," after which, Miss Kitty Ferris, of New York, was again introduced, and in her faultless manner recited with thrilling effect the temperance lesson entitled—"Drunk, and only sixteen." A few pertinent remarks from Mr. Cleaver on behalf of the pledge, brought the meeting to a close.

NETHERWOOD NOTES.

The Events of the Past Week at the Hotel.

On Friday evening last, sixty-four guests assembled in the grand parlor of the Hotel Netherwood, where they found tables prepared for their reception. The event was a progressive euchre party. At 8.30 the contestants commenced the game and finished at 11 o'clock. The prizes, which had been purchased for the occasion by Mrs Jas. R. Plum, received the warmest commendation, not only from the players, but from the household generally. The prizes were duly distributed and the fortunate winners congratulated by their friends.

A game of base ball was played Saturday afternoon last, between the married and single men, which drew a large crowd on the grounds near the Hotel. The game was most exciting and elicited hearty applause, upon the exhibition of excellent playing by both sides.

The contestants were—married men: Messrs Martin, VanZandt, Cullen, Parsons, Whiting, Roberts, Buchanan and Bridgeman.

The single men were: Messrs Gibson, Rice, Watson, Plum, Ryer, George, Anthony, Cummings and Foster. The result was a victory for the single men, by a score of 27 to 21.

A full dress hop on Saturday evening concluded the festivities of the week, at this charming resort.

Yesterday the Fall season opened with the brightest of prospects. The season has been truly phenomenal, and the large booking for the queen month of the Autumnal season, warrants me in predicting a most enjoyable one in every sense. Our worthy host, Mr. Frank E. Miller, is ever watchful for the comfort and happiness of his patrons, and the records will show one of the most prosperous and delightful seasons under his administration. We at present have about 175 guests.

AN AUSPICIOUS REOPENING.

The Dunellen Presbyterian Church Refitted and Gifted.

The First Presbyterian church at Dunellen, reopened Sunday last, after having been closed for four weeks for needed repairs. All were surprised at the appearance of the church, which has been newly papered, cushioned and carpeted in a style which reflects great credit to all interested.

In the morning communion was administered. In the evening the choir, composed of Miss Ella Bolce, organist, Miss Jennie Runyon, Miss May Harold, Miss Myra Runyon, Miss Mabel Burniston and Messrs Samuel Merrill, Wm. Terry, Chas. Meeker and Will Clark, rendered music suitable to the occasion in a fine manner. The Rev. E. E. Love, of this city, spoke from a text in the 28th chapter of Genesis, after which Mr. Skellenger made a few fitting remarks congratulating the people on their enterprise in refitting the church, and also presented to the church an elegant communion table, which stood in the pulpit, as the gift of Mrs. Adam Craig, in memorium of her late husband who was a member of the church for so many years.

OUR NEIGHBOR'S REPLY.

"Sarkasm" and Sincerity Placed in Parallel Columns.

(From the Union-County Standard.)

The Plainfield Press raps Westfield over the knuckles again this week and asks some direct and pertinent questions. We publish elsewhere its love letter in full. We beg to inform the Press that we are truly grateful for the deep and abiding interest it takes in our affairs and to say that we will hope to do better if it will only keep on showing us how. We will leave the picket off our back yard fence; don't stop to knock, gentlemen of the Press, but walk right in; do be neighborly. Tell us how you are getting on with the Y. M. C. A. building which you have been sighing for these many years; and your water works scheme; and your electric railway; and is it really true that your beautiful city is threatened with pestilence for want of a sewage system? Do come up some time and tell us. We observe by your columns that Plainfield is overrun and terrorized by tramps. Now, this is really too bad!

It occurs to us just here to introduce, in parallel form, two brief extracts from your own breezy pages:

And last but not least, Westfield must abolish the liquor traffic, like Plainfield, before it can expect to grow much.	And liquor is selling today in over 60 places in prohibition Plainfield.

Here is described a really serious condition as existing at the very doors of the Press, and one which the citizens of beautiful Plainfield might reasonably require the Press to examine more fully. Should, therefore, the Press wish, for the time being, to be excused from supervising Westfield's affairs, the STANDARD will interpose no objection.

As to the ownership of the site selected for Westfield's new high school building, we beg to inform the Press that it resides with the township of Westfield, the citizens of said township having instructed their Board of Education to purchase it, and the said board having purchased it from its owner, Dr. Ripley; the papers to the transfer being now in process of execution. This statement may give soothsayers and carpers and hair-splitters a chance to moralize about the slip between the cup and the lip and all that sort of thing; but to all intents and purposes the township of Westfield owns the finest public school site in the State of New Jersey; and if the citizens are true to their record they will crown it with a structure worthy of the situation and the glorious cause to which it will be dedicated.

As to the ownership of the plans for the new school building, that likewise resides with the township of Westfield by a vote of the school district, and we do not apprehend that Oscar Teale, the architect, lies awake nights kicking down footboards and things through any fear that he will not get his money when he sends his bill in.

Tennis at Dunellen.

The Dunellen Lawn Tennis Club, which has been organized about two years, began its first club tournament, Saturday afternoon.

The tournament was opened by the ladies singles—Miss Benton beat Miss Smith, 6-2, 6-2; Miss Swackhamer, a bye. In the second round Miss Benton beat Miss Swackhamer 6-2 6-3, and won first prize, a beautiful silver lace pin. For second prize Miss Smith beat Miss Swackhamer 6-3, 2-6, 6-1 and secured a racket cover.

Gentlemen's doubles were also begun on Saturday, Apgar and Dunham beat Murray and Hamilton Sr., 6-3, 6-0. Play was resumed Monday at 9:30, when Skellenger and Clark beat Stryker and W. Terry, 6-1, 6-0. H. Terry and Shultz beat Runyon and Hamilton, Jr., 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Second round, Skellenger and Clark defeated Apgar and Dunham, 6-2, 6-1. The finals are yet to be played between Skellenger and Clark, and H. Terry and Shultz. The prizes are two Horsman Seabright rackets for first, and two covers for second.

In mixed doubles, Miss Benton and H. Terry beat Miss Swackhamer and Apgar, 6-4, 6-5. Miss Smith and W. Terry, a bye. Second round, Miss Benton and H. Terry, beat Miss Smith and W. Terry, 6-3, 6-2, and won the prizes, two silk umbrellas with oxidized silver handles.

The first prize for gentlemen's singles is a handsome Horsman $10 prize racket, given by the citizens of Dunellen; second prize a leather felt-lined racket cover. Play was as follows: Hamilton, Jr., beat Clark, 6-4, 6-1. Apgar beat W. Terry, 6-4, 6-1. Shultz beat Murray by default. H. Terry beat Homan, 6-1, 6-1. Hamilton, Sr., beat Dunham. Skellenger beat Runyon, 6-0, 6-5, Stryker a bye. In the second round, Apgar beat Hamilton, Jr., 6-3, 6-1. H. Terry beat Shultz, 6-1, 6-1. Hamilton, Sr., a bye. The finals will be played on the earliest possible date.

Who Knows the Legend?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—While strolling up Washington Valley the other day, I came across a pretty, romantic spot, called "Dock Watch Hollow." I am told that there is some story or legend connected with the place and its name, and I write to ask if you can tell anything about the spot and its story.

CRITIQUE.

North Plainfield Democratic Primary.

The Democratic voters of North Plainfield, will meet in the basement of the School building on Somerset street, on Friday evening, at 8 P. M., for the purpose of electing two delegates to the Gubernational Convention to be held at Trenton on Tuesday next.

Saturday's Trotting Events.

There were three races on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday. The first was between M. Quinn's "Lucy" and Mr. Bloodgood's black gelding. "Lucy" took two straight heats in 3:06 and 2:57½.

Then followed an exciting race between Mr. Brandon's b. g., "Wichita," O. T. Waring's "Copeland," and J. W. Johnson's "Lady Thistle." Both heats were won by "Wichita," with the other horses following in the order named. Time, 2:34½ and 2:31½.

In the concluding race there were four entries, namely: P. Jenner's "Blanche," John Hayes' "Andy," N. Honeyman's bay stallion and C. Brower's "Galatia." "Blanche" won first heat in 2:51½, and "Andy" the second in 2:56½.

Mr. C. Brower's "Pequot" and John Chandler's "Bambo" trotted an exhibition mile. "Pequot" crossed the line in 2:39½ thus winning the heat.

A Birthday Surprise.

Last Saturday being the eighth anniversary of the birth of Miss Lottie D. Springmann, of North Plainfield, Miss Gracie Hunter of Jackson avenue, invited a number of her young school mates and friends to meet at her house and from there go in a party to Miss Springmann's on Somerset street, and tender her a surprise.

The affair was a success in every particular. The evening was passed in the enjoyment of all kinds of games and other social pleasures, besides a magic lantern exhibition by Master Johnnie Voehl. Those present were the Misses Gracie Hunter, Lidy Hughes, Aggie Morse, Katie Powers, Minnie Gulick, Mamie Philpitt, Bertha Philpitt, Tiny Voehl, Addie Carney, Cally Soper, Hattie Voehl, Fronie Rickert, Lidy Pangborn, Lilly Seitz, Amy Gee of Pamrapo, Maggie Hunt of Newark, Mamie Kohler, Annie Mackey and Masters Eddie Becker, Frank Foster, Henry Voehl, Elmer Wheeler, Walter Kettenring, Johnnie Voehl.

Dunellen Personals.

Miss Swackhamer has returned from Chicago, where she has been spending her vacation.

Mr. Joseph Laing is visiting among friends in Delaware.

Mr. J. F. Dryden and wife, the former of the Prudential Insurance Company of Newark, are sojourning at Alexandria Bay.

Little Johnnie Tingley, the eight-year-old son of Mr. John Tingley, fell off a fence yesterday afternoon and broke his arm. Dr. Brakely set the limb, the little fellow rested quietly through the night, and is doing very well.

Peaches and Cream at Bethel Chapel.

There will be a peach and iced cream festival given at the Bethel chapel tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The choicest and best instrumental music will enliven the occasion.

None can afford to miss the twenty-five cents worth of enjoyment which the Committee guarantees.

MARSHAL NAGLE ON TRIAL.

Several Witnesses Testify that Judge Terry Threatened to Kill Judge Field.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 4.—The babeas corpus proceedings in the case of Deputy Marshal Nagle were begun yesterday. Testimony was taken showing that Terry had threatened to kill Justice Field. It was also testified that Mr. and Mrs. Terry were violent persons, and had threatened harm to Judge Sawyer as well as to Judge Field, and that Terry had told Marshal Frank that he would get even with Field for deciding against him.

The facts of an assault upon Judge Sawyer a year ago by Mrs. Terry were given. She pulled the Judge's hair while Terry sat opposite ready to take action if Sawyer should resent. It was shown that Terry had always boasted of carrying a knife.

A reporter testified that Mrs. Terry once told him she would probably kill Judge Field some day.

Legitime to Visit New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Among the passengers of the Ward line steamship Manhattan, now on its way to this port, is the famous ex-President of Hayti, M. Legitime. He is accompanied by his suit of fourteen persons, and is on his way to Paris, where he will live. Gen. Contreras is acting as the ex-President's chief private secretary. The Manhattan may be expected, if the weather is fine, by to-morrow afternoon. Passage has been secured on the French line steamship La Bretagne for Legitime. The Bretagne sails on Saturday.

A Truck Load of Italians Injured.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 4.—A hand truck on which were about a dozen Italian laborers proceeding to their work was struck by the locomotive of a freight train yesterday near Linfield. Guiseppe Plantello, one of the laborerers, was literally ground to a pulp. Five others were severely bruised but none fatally hurt.

Fell from His Car.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Sept. 4.—Bert. French, baggage-master on the southbound mail train on the Passumpsic Railroad, fell from his car yesterday while the train was running at a high rate of speed. His left arm was broken and he sustained internal injuries. His escape from instant death is remarkable.

COAL.

The subscriber, formerly in the employ of Mr. L. A. Rheaume, has hired from the Assignee the coal bins and appliances in the yard at the corner of Broadway and Fourth street.

Mr. Rheaume is now employed by me to solicit your orders for Coal, the execution of which will meet with prompt attention.

Yours Respectfully,
N. H. SAXTON.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

VICTORY IN THE AIR

The Dock Companies Ask for a Conference.

A SETTLEMENT VERY PROBABLE

A Belief Gaining Ground that the Strikers' Demands Will Be Conceded.

Liverpool in Line With London—Burns Says There Will Be a Strike in Glasgow. Sir Donald Currie's Threat—Money Pouring in to the Strikers—Mr. Gladstone Sends a Check—Action of the Lord Mayor of London.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The belief is gaining ground that the great strike will be settled no later than to-morrow, when the directors of the dock companies are expected to concede the strikers' demands. Charles Morgan Norwood, the chairman of the directors, late last evening sent a telegram to the strikers' committee requesting an appointment for a conference, and a meeting will be held this afternoon. This action is believed to foreshadow an agreement between the companies and the strikers.

Money is coming in rapidly and the strikers will not listen to concessions. They are united upon the demand of sixpence per hour and the abolition of the contract system, and Burns declares they will hold out until the dock owners make the concession if the strike lasts a year. Regarding Sir Donald Currie's threat to take his ships to Southampton, Burns said that if any of the London lines attempted to use the docks he would organize a strike there at once. He also said that the dockmen in Glasgow would be on strike within forty-eight hours.

The Importing Trade Society has voted $3,000 to the strikers' fund.

Will Continue the Strike.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Tower Hill strikers, at a meeting this morning, decided to continue the strike. It was announced that donations to the relief fund had been received from France, Germany and Switzerland. John Burns to-day acknowledged the receipt of £3,000. Threats have been made that if Sir Donald Currie took his vessels to Southamton steps would be taken to prevent a single ship from unloading.

Action by the Lord Mayor.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Lord Mayor will return to London next Friday for the purpose of interceding for the striking dock laborers. He will convene a public meeting of citizens to take action on the labor troubles, if such a course seems necessary.

Mrs. Gladstone Visits the Strikers.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—A visit was paid to the scene of the strike yesterday by Mrs. Gladstone. She presented a check to the relief committee. The Commercial Dock Company's officials refuse to admit any more vessels for fear of liability for demurrage

The Strike Extends to Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 4.—Work on all vessels here has been suspended. The dockmen who had been employed on grain and flour laden ships having struck for an increase in their wages of a shilling a day.

Attacked By the Strikers.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The men engaged in unloading vessels in the midway at Rochester have been attacked by strikers and the police called upon for protection.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

Holding Their State Convention at Harrisburg To-Day.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 4.—There is a large attendance of delegates and visitors at the Democratic State Convention, which was called to order this afternoon.

There is no doubt now of the nomination of E. A. Bigler, of Clearfield, for State Treasurer. Mr. Bigler will accept, and the leaders are all for him. Humes, of Crawford, would like to have it, but can not get there, it is said. Captain Clay, of Elk, is not a candidate, but the Elk delegation will present his name for a complimentary vote.

A Supposed Johnstown Victim.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 4.—The body of a man, supposed to be that of a Johnstown victim from the length of time it had evidently been in the water, was found in the Back River west of the island last night, partly imbedded in the sand. Identification was impossible, but the body was apparently that of an iron worker in his working garb.

Will Return Without a Requisition.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 4.—George Bush, the California pugilist who was arrested Friday night as a principal in the recent Bush-Watson prize fight, has finally consented to accompany Sheriff Coffin of New Hampshire to Portsmouth, N. H., without a requisition and will be arraigned to-morrow.

New York State Liquor Dealers.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Many delegates arrived in the city last night and this morning to attend the convention of the New York State Wine, Beer and Liquor Dealers' Association, which opened at 10 a. m. The delegates will parade to-morrow evening.

Mrs. Maybrick's Children Adopted.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The children of Mrs. Maybrick have been adopted by a wealthy couple residing in London, the consent of Mrs. Maybrick and that of the relatives of her husband having been obtained. The children will assume the name of their foster parents.

Ireland's Lord Lieutenant.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The Earl of Zetland, the new Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, will be sworn in on the 1st of next month. His state entry into Dublin will take place December 3.

WOMEN AS PHYSICIANS.

What Becomes of the Girl Students of Medicine.

A Field in Which Women are Doing Useful Work and Acquiring Both Cash and Fame—The Woman Doctor in New York and Elsewhere.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The service rendered by Dr. Sophia Fendler Unger as Sanitary Inspector to the New York Board of Health during the midsummer months has called attention to the multiplication and the high professional standing of women physicians. There are about 150 of these in regular practice in New York; and Brooklyn has a corresponding proportion. Philadelphia and Boston come next in the numbers supported, the City of Brotherly Love having 100 or thereabouts and the Hub, if one includes the circle of wideawake towns within the radius of its spokes, almost as many. Next year's census will probably show a population of 3,100 or 3,200 women doctors in the North, the Middle States and the West; Dixie land, if one excepts the Virginias and Maryland having been invaded only within a very few years and in slim force by the advance guard.

It is now thirty-eight years since Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell one of the well known family of sisters, established herself in New York as the first qualified woman physician. Dr. Blackwell was the first woman not only in the city but in America or England to graduate in medicine, a noteworthy event of the year 1846 having been the appearance at a course of medical lectures of a young woman student whom the vivacious Baltimor "Sun" advised to confine her practise to "diseases of the heart" and whom the Boston "Medical Journal" spoke of as a pretty "little specimen of the feminine gender, reporting her age as 26. She comes into the class with great composure, takes off her bonnet and puts it under the seat, exposing a fine phrenology." Two years after Dr. Elizabeth, who has lived now many years abroad, graduated her sister, Dr. Emily Blackwell, and through their joint efforts was founded in 1853, as a practical school for instruction of women studying medicine, the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, followed in 1868 by the Women's Medical College. Five years earlier than this, in 1863, Dr. Clemence Lozier had founded a homeopathic medical college for women which sent out as its first graduate Dr. Emily Schetine in 1864.

To earn a diploma in medicine in those days required abundant capital of fortitude and energy, but now when it has become comparatively easy for a woman to qualify as a doctor it is probable that in many cases the profession offers the best opportunities to an educated woman of any work that is open to her. Her chances for usefulness among women, an increasing proportion of whom are yearly coming to prefer to be treated by their own sex, hold out probably the main inducement, and yet the financial prospect of the case is not unpleasing. Some years ago there was published an average of the annual incomes of seventy-six graduates of the Pennsylvania Women's Medical College. It was hard on the heels of other businesses would women make so good a showing. Four of the seventy-six were in receipt of sums running above $15,000. Ten confessed that they earned less than $1,000. The great majority mentioned figures ranging between $2,000 and $5,000. A woman physician in good practice in New York, when asked to name a figure that might fairly represent the income to be expected by a young doctor during her first or second year in the city, was inclined to fix on $600 to $800. This is as good a start probably as would be expected by the graduate of the opposite sex. The fees of the woman doctor per visit are about the same as those of her brethren, and though there are no women who receive anything like the sums exacted by the great specialists, $10, $15 or even $20 is a charge that is occasionally made for a few minutes' attention by a few of the foremost women practitioners of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. Comparatively few properly qualified women doctors fail to find themselves able to support a modest menage by the time they have been three or four years out of school. The largest income received from fees by any woman doctor in Boston is said to be something less than $20,000. The highest figure quoted for Philadelphia is $15,000. The top notch in New York is $25,000, and $10,000 is earned in all probability by quite a number, all told.

The cost of a medical education does not differ greatly from that of three years of an ordinary college course, the tuition averaging in the New York colleges a trifle over $100 a year, to which, of course, is to be added whatever one chooses to pay for boarding and lodging. The allopathic and the homeopathic colleges have each a hospital specially attached, where the students receive practical bedside instruction, and all the city dispensaries with their clinics are open to women. The Bellevue Hospital clinical lectures are also open, as well as lectures and surgical operations at the New York Hospital, the Presbyterian Hospital, the Mt. Sinai Hospital, the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Manhattan Eye and Ear Infirmary. The New York and the Kings County Medical Societies admit women, and other special medical societies such as the American and New York Neurological Societies and the American Society for Physical Research take them in. One or two hospitals both in New York and Brooklyn have women among their resident physicians or in charge of lying in wards. In Brooklyn the Lucretia Mott Hospital was founded by a woman physician and is officered by women. One special department in which the services of women physicians are being called for is the rapidly multiplying clubs of the working girls, who show their common sense by setting aside almost the first dues collected by their organizations to secure the attendance of women physicians on stated evenings weekly.

The woman graduate of the medical schools averages somewhat younger now than she did a dozen years ago. The ranks of the doctors were recruited largely in the earlier years from worn out school teachers tired of that occupation, but now it is fresh and blooming alumnæ of the colleges who are knocking at the doors of the professional schools. No student is graduated under the age of twety-one, but this admits to the junior classes the slender girl of eighteen, who trembles at the prospect of two to six hours daily in the dissecting room. Side by side with her works, very possibly, her mother, who has lived through the joys and sorrows of half a century and wears widows' weeds. An appreciable portion of the students are the daughters of praticing physicians and in quite a number of instances doctors have sent their wives that they might take them into professional partnership at the end of the course. Twenty-seven years is about the average age at which the budding doctor says good-bye to her proctor and her dean and steps out into the world a full-fledged M. D., and every year the number of students is decreasing who have seen above three decades, this fact auguring well for the permanent usefulness of the woman physician.

Most of the women now practicing make specialties of gynæcology, obstetrics and the diseases of women and children. Now and then a woman develops talent as a surgeon, but while a few have performed really important operations it is not often that the opportunity to do so comes in their way. Dr. Elizabeth Cushier was the first successful ovariotomist among women physicians. A majority of the operations of general surgery are performed on men and these naturally do not fall within the province of a woman doctor. Quite a number of women have made reputations in the treatment of nervous and mental disorders, and there seems to be a field in the future in specialties where dexterity and delicate manipulation are required, as in diseases of the throat, the eye and the ear. Several women have won respectful attention as medical writers, Dr. Grace Peckham and Dr. Lucy M. Hall finding ready hearing. Dr. Dejerine-Klumpke, who is an American though married in France, has written several standard works on nervous pathology.

Of women who become doctors statistics seem to show that about one in five will marry. Of the number whose troth is not plighted to their profession so singly but that they put on the wedding ring, only 3 or 4 per cent. retire from practice on marriage, and nearly 50 per cent. marry doctors whose active partners they become. Brooklyn furnishes several examples of married doctors whose home lives prove that matrimony is not necessarily a failure when the wife, instead of stitching her life into embroidered doylies, practices medicine. Dr. Mary Wattles-Faunce, for example, who has so worthily filled the chair of anatomy at the Women's Medical College of the New York Infirmary, has three or four chubby, rosy-cheeked children rioting about the daintiest of home.

A leading woman physician in New York who has been in practice for twenty years, when questioned as to the effect of medical practice on the health of women, said that as a rule improvement rather than degeneracy followed. The rate of mortality is low among women doctors and not many have been compelled to retire owing to inability to stand the strain. Where a breakdown has resulted investigation would often find its cause in the over-conscientiousness of the doctor who took her patients' ailments as much to heart as if they had been members of her own family, notably in the case of a pretty little blonde who when called to a house containing three typhus fever cases constituted herself nurse as well as doctor, insisted on preparing the food and watching by the bedsides, saved her patients, but took the fever herself, and was a couple of years in reaching full health and strength again. Where the devotion to duty is not nervously morbid, the women doctor submits to being routed out of bed at midnight in a howling March blizzard and to spending days and nights in journeying from sick room to sick room with surprising equanimity, growing rosy and plump under the discipline, and taking much joy in her sleek horse and colored coachman. Many married women who have become doctors have found their knowledge of incalculable value in the rearing of their children.

Among New York physicians, the statistics of the lying in wards of the New York Infant Aslum, under the charge of Dr. Kate Parker as resident physician, made the best record. Drs. Sarah E. Post, Annie S. Daniel and Gertrude B. Kelly are all of the Alumnæ Asociation of the College of the New York Infirmary. Dr. Post is an inventor whose attachments to medical electrical machines have been found of value to the profession. Dr. Daniel has been the out visitor of the infirmary and during the summer months, when the infant mortality mounts up to half the death rate of the city, the dwellers in the tenement districts have found her a stanch and intelligent friend, and her acquaintance with their needs has prompted the State Charities Association to make frequent calls on her for advice and information. Dr. Kelly is a clever young doctor and thinker on social topics. Dr. Emily Blackwell is the Dean of the Women's Medical College and a woman with a wide range of influence. Her house is the one once made the salon of New York by the Cary sisters, Alice and Phœbe. Dr. Mary T. Bissell is sister of the President of Vassar and has done much for the cause of physical culture among women by her gymnasium and by the able pen she wields. Dr. Josephine Chevalier is an excellent chemist, and Drs. Sarah and Julia McNutt, Dr. Eleanor Kilham, Dr. Josephine Walter, Dr. Mary S. West and scores more have found that the world has room for them and makes place cordially for their work. The death of Dr. Clemence Lozier showed how deep can be the void left by the loss of a woman physician. In Brooklyn Dr. Belle M. Rankin, Dr. Baker, Drs. Elisha M. Mosher and Lucy M. Hall, who work together in a partnership that only of late would have been counted possible to women, and who have been Superintendent of the Woman's Reformatory at Sherborne, Mass., and later resident physicians to Vassor College, with many others have done hard working and brilliant service.

ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

THE DOINGS OF WOMEN FOLK.

Grave and Gay in the Changing Days Before the Early Frosts.

The unusually rainy summer has produced a curious result in giving some of the spring flowers a second season of blossoming and hastening the opening of the autumn posies, so that the unusual spectacle has been presented in places of May dandelions and October chrysanthemums blooming side by side. A chrysanthemum party was given at aristocratic Nahant on the rocky Massachusetts coast some days since to welcome the great golden early comers, and as the fete was quite a novel one it is likely to be imitated both on a larger and smaller scale at Lenox and elsewhere during the autumn. The cards of invitation which were sent out were bordered with pale purple chrysanthemums like so many giant thistles or like bunches of willow plumes. The guests, who reached Lynn, the nearest railway station, by special train, were met by carts decked with green boughs, with now and then a maple branch waving twigs of the deepest crimson. White and red china asters were stuck behind the horses' ears. A combination musicale and garden party was the entertainment of the afternoon. The decorations of the large hall and the music rooms were chrysanthemums, eked out, for lack of the fuller bloom of coming weeks, by their first cousins the gorgeous chinaasters. Quaint, dark Egyptian-like vases were filled with brown and red or dull orange blossoms; low antique blue bowls contained those that were pure golden or pale yellow with crimson blotches on the under sides, while marble vases held tall stalks unfolding in lilac and bluish pink and soft ecrus. Upon the lawn the same idea was carried out, chrysanthemums and asters in pots just removed from the gardeners' beds, being ranged in double and quadruple rows to border paths leading to the tents in which tea was served. The plants had each a dozen or more great heavy-petalled blossoms, while huge boquets of buds spoke of the approaching success of the florist's forcing. Under the tent awnings the whole middle of the tea table was a rectangle of white asters set erect as if growing. By each plate lay two or three long-stemmed sprays of chrysanthemums, a dull red half shading into yellow, being followed by white and this by deepest gold. These sprays were tied by ribbons and, matching them, the name cards were painted with nymphs and graces sporting among tall bushes of chrysanthemums.

Some of the guests of the cottages in a village of the Berkshires, have been interested this summer in the appearance of a young girl who has alighted from a farmer's "carryall" occasionally to deliver berries for tea. Tall, straight, brown-curled and somewhat sunburned, she had such large eyes, such a prettily curved mouth, such winsome ways and such a sweet-toned voice that more than one felt a passing impulse to inquire into her history and see if some of the things, which people call "advantages," could not be thrown in her way. Last week there came to one of the cottages another young girl who cried: "Oh! Isabel," when she caught sight of the berry picker, "is this why you couldn't find time to join the coaching party to the White Mountains or even to write a line to your friends?" Diligent inquiry on the part of the cottagers, brought out the fact that Isabel is a Wellesly girl whose father has found life for a year or two back somewhat hard sledding and who has organized quite an industry this vacation to help pay her bills during the next school year. All berries, in their season, she has picked and, hired a dozen or more boys and girls to pick for her. These she has retailed to cottagers, shipped to New York and Springfield, and when a surplus has threatened to accumulate has put up her wild fruit in cans. So long as the wild strawberries lasted she tempted customers with the woodsy bits of deliciousness in birch bark baskets or dishes platted of oak leaves. Feathery grasses, sweet fern and bayberry, blossoms of the wild carrot, cardinal flowers and clematis she has tied up in graceful bunches and sent cityward along with her berry spoils. As the result of her summer's work she is round and ruddy, and has money enough in pocket to go a long way toward books and tuition fees.

The talk of a college of domestic economy to turn out trained and certificated servants and housekeepers is revived. This time rumor, perhaps on no authority whatever, places the projected institution under the joint patronage of Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Cleveland. As discussed a couple of years ago Mrs. Whitney was said to be interested actively and Miss Juliet Corson was spoken of as a fitting head for the school. The plan, however, ended in moonshine, but the difficulties of housewives so increase and multiply that undaunted it bobs up serenly once more. Dame Rumor is quite definite this time, even entering into particulars. A house is to be taken in a convenient location and strenuous efforts are to be made to elevate housekeeping to the rank of a profession for women by providing well-considered courses of instruction and awarding diplomas on graduation in the hope of inducing intelligent American girls to prefer well-ordered kitchens to the factory or to standing room behind the counter. In addition to the cooking classes and to practical work in every department of household tasks, there will be, so talk has it, an advanced course including lectures on the chemistry of cooking, the relative values of foods, house hygeine and sanitation including ventilation and such knowledge of plumbing and draining as is useful to the housekeeper, and various branches of domestic economy adopted to the intelligent management of homes. Graduates, it is expected, will be able to secure better wages than the average in families able to appreciate and to pay for brains as well as muscle, and the tendency will be to elevate the standard of housework and to narrow the field of the green girl fresh from Castle Garden. Quite a number of prominent women besides Mrs. Cleveland, will, it is said, allow the use of their names as patronesses, and it is hoped that at least in the millennium household service may stand on a footing as satisfactory and dignified as is now the plane which the trained nurse occupies.

A girl in a canoe is often of a pleasant afternoon one of the features of the Hudson, between upper New York and Yonkers. The canoe is what woodsmen would call a decked "bucktail," being twenty-six inches wide by about ten and a half feet long, decked over at both ends and weighing probably not over twenty pounds. This cockle shell is one of the prettiest things afloat, with its thin sides of polished cedar and its bright-eyed occupant seated on a scarlet cushion on its bottom. She has scarlet ribbons on her sailor hat and a scarlet sash fastened about the waist of her dark blue serge bosting gown. A heavy silk shirt of dark blue and white stripes tops this and as she wields the long double paddle she skims the surface of the dimpling river with the lightness and bird-like motion that only a canoeist knows. She is an expert sailor lass and her boat dips and ducks with all possible grace to the steamer swells.

Four fat women met in a Turkisk bath one day recently. As robed in sheets they stepped one after another upon the scales they tipped the beam at 218, 209, 193 and 188 pounds respectively. It turned out that all were regular frequenters of the place and that they were discouraged because the perspiration of the hot room did not make them thin. Who says we are still a cadaverous people?

E. P. H.

Several People Perished.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Sept. 4.—The town of Barker was almost wholly destroyed yesterday by a fire which started in a miners' camp and swept up the valley, burning all the eastern portion of the camp. It is supposed that a man named Ellis, his wife and four children lost their lives. There are also three men missing, and they were undoubtedly burned to death.

For Theft Committed in Pennsylvania.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—Post office messenger Joseph V. Quest, formerly employed at Beaver Falls, Pa., has been arrested here on a charge of robbing the mails last January. He will be taken to Beaver Falls for trial. While conveying mails from the postoffice to the train he stole a package containing $850.

Piano and Organ Trust.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—It is stated that the leading piano and organ manufacturers of the country are forming a trust. The project is said to be favored by Steinway, Chickering, Hazelton, Haines, Weber, Sohmer, Burdett and others.

The Nottingham Mill Still Running.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 4.—E. S. Taft states that there is no truth in the Boston report of the shut down of the Nottingham mill. The mill was running as usual to-day, and a shut down is not contemplated at present.

North Adams Shoe Factories Closed.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 4.—All the shoe factories in town are closed except H. F. Cady's, and 1,500 men are out of work. The settlement of the wage question does not seem near.

Gladstone's Reception in Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Mr. Gladstone was received on his arrival here by a numerous delegation of his admirers. Many brought bouquets and presented them to the aged statesman.

Delaware Weavers Return to Work.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 4.—The recent strike of 150 weavers ended last night by the men accepting the 10 per cent. reduction. Work was resumed this morning.

Jonathan Hope Dead.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 4.—Jonathan Hope, one of the founders of the American Bolt Company, died last night, aged 70. He was a native of England.

A TRIUMPHANT RIDE

President Harrison's Trip to Bucks County, Pa.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME.

Riding in a Carriage to the Old Log College Near Hartsville.

Immense Arches Span the Roads and Receptions Given on the Way—Grand Preparations at Tennent Farm—A Furnished Tent for the Presidential Party—Great Gathering of Prominent Presbyterians and Visitors from all Over the Country.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—This morning President Harrison, Postmaster-General Wanamaker, Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, Governor Green of New Jersey, and party started in carriages from the country home of the Postmaster-General at Jenkintown, ten miles from this city, for the Old Log College, near Hartsville, which was established in 1726, and the anniversary of which is being celebrated to-day.

The drive—short as it was—occupied considerable time, and was a literal ride of triumph. The residents of Bucks county, all along the route, made elaborate arrangements to receive the Presidential party.

The first stop was made at the pretty little hamlet of Abington, which nestles among the hills on the old York road, a mile above Jenkintown. A handsome sixty-foot arch spanning the road had been erected here by the residents, and another by the members of the Abington Presbyterian Church, this latter bearing the words: "Greeting to our ruling elders, who rule our country."

At Hatboro', which is about six miles further up York road, another stop was made for lunch, and here the members of Lieutenant Fisher Post, G. A. R., erected a triumphal arch and gave a reception to the distinguished party. The guests left Hatboro' in time to reach the Old Tennent Farm, several miles away, for the afternoon exercises.

A comfortably furnished tent is erected on the ground for the accomodation of President Harrison and party during their stay on the farm. The surrounding space is roped off, and Director Stokey detailed a squad of fifteen Reserve officers to surround the tent and prevent the advances of over-inquisitive sight-seers.

Every possible arrangement was made by Dr. Murphy and his committee to insure the success of the celebration. A committee of ladies was appointed, who are denominated by appropriate badges, and who look after the comfort and convenience of the many hundreds of lady visitors who are present.

The programme is divided into two portions, the morning exercises extending from eleven o'clock to one and the afternoon exercises begining at 2:30 o'clock. Many thousand of visitors, not only from this city and Bucks county, but from all over the country are present and it is the greatest gathering of prominent Presbyterians ever seen on this continent.

Has Cooney Done Away With Himself?

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—A special from Racine, Wis., says: A discovery was made here yesterday that may explain why Patrick Cooney, "The Fox," cannot be found. A bottle closely sealed was picked up in the lake, which, when opened, was found to contain the following note:—"I, Patrick Cooney, to clear all others of the Cronin murder, say I killed him for a personal grudge. My body you will find in the lake." The note was placed in the hands of the police.

To Supply the Erie Canal With Water.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The engineers engaged in surveying the Upper Genesee with a view to damming the river and establishing a vast reservoir from Portage Falls several miles down stream to feed the Erie Canal and give an unfailing supply of water to the manufacturers in Rochester, have found three points on the river suitable for the location of the dam.

The Flack Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Flack was before the Grand Jury in regard to the alleged conspiracy by which a divorce was granted to her by Judge Bookstaver without her application for, or knowledge of such petition. The examination is not yet concluded.

Counterfeiters Run Down.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Chief Bell, of the Secret Service, was notified to-day of the arrest in Kentucky of G. W. Williams and a partner for counterfeiting. A large amount of spurious silver dollars and the tools were secured.

Strike of Sewing Girls.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Sept. 5.—The female employes of McSorley & Co., collar and cuff manufacturers here, have quit work, having refused to accede to the new terms proposed by the firm, one of which was that the girls should furnish their own sewing cotton.

Good Position for an American Abroad.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 5.—David N. Blakeley, a graduate of Dartmouth, class of '89, has received the appointment of instructor in English and financial manager of the American College, Aintab, Turkey.

THE HAMILTON SCANDAL.

Mrs. Swinton and Her Son Remanded Until Friday—Eva's Frenzy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—In the Tombs Police Court Mrs. Swinton and her son Joshua Mann, charged with conspiracy against Robert Ray Hamilton were remanded to Friday next for trial.

How Mrs. Hamilton Received the News.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5.—Counsellor Perry briefly told Mrs. Hamilton of the arrest of Mrs. Swinton and Joshua Mann, the offense with which they were charged and the statement that her husband had renounced her.

Then followed a dramatic scene. The now worn and haggard woman staggered back with both hands clasped to her forehead, and her eyes glaring half defiance and half doubt.

"What!" she gasped, "does Ray mean to desert me? Oh! he won't do it. He won't leave me in this lonely place. I'll die if he don't come to me soon. Write, telegraph to Ray—" and before she finished the sentence she sank on her couch in a paroxysm of grief.

Sullivan to Spar in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The testimonial reception that was to have been given at the Academy of Music to the champion pugilist, John L. Sullivan, a few weeks ago, but which was interfered with by the intervention of Gov. Lowry is now positively announced for next Saturday night. The great John L. will be the principal feature of the programme, which will be made further enjoyable by the appearance of Mike Cleary, who will spar with the champion, and of William Muldoon, with whom he will wrestle.

Trying to Save Themselves.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 5.—A mortgage for $300,000 has been rendered at the town clerk's office in Lincoln in favor of ex-Governor Royal C. Taft and Eugene N. Mason, the mortgagors being the Manville Mill Company. This transaction grew out of the Lewis Brothers failure, the Manville having $791,000 worth of that company's paper at the time of the suspension, and this is a step toward saving the Manville Company from being wrecked.

Oil Producers' Protective Association.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 5.—The annual meeting of the Producers' Protective Association was held here. The seofficers were elected: President T. W. Phillips, New Castle, Pa.; Vice-President, H. D. Taylor, Buffalo; Secretary, J. R. Goldsborough, of Bradford; Treasurer, R. J. Straight, of Bradford. The Treasurer's report shows a balance of $23,000. The association will be continued intact.

Jupiter Caught With the Camera.

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Professor Brooks, director of the Smith Observatory, successfuly observed the occultation of Jupiter by the moon last night. He also secured several photographs of the phenomena in its different phases, one showing Jupiter half covered by the moon. These are the first photographs ever secured of this phenomena, and the results are highly interesting and valuable.

Annual Reunion of Lutherans.

PENMAR, Md., Sept. 5.—The annual reunion of the Lutherans of the states of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, is being held in this place. The Western Maryland Railroad provided eighteen special trains for the transportation of the passengers. There are about ten thousand people on the grounds.

The Town 150 Years Old.

NASHAU, N. H., Sept. 5.—The 150th anniversary of the settlement of the town of South Lyndoboro was celebrated there yesterday, and the occasion was one of much interest. There was a large crowd of people, mostly former residents, who returned home for the occasion.

Rev. Chas. Jones Dead.

NORTH ABINGTON, Mass., Sept. 5.—The Rev. Charles Jones, a highly esteemed Congregational pastor, died here yesterday, aged 80. He was a graduate of the Theological school in New Haven and had held pastorates in Rome, Oswego and Lafayette, N. Y., Battle Creek, Mich., Cambridgeport and Saxonville, Mass.

Celebrating Their 250th Anniversary.

SUDBURY, Mass., Sept. 5.—The towns of Sudbury and Wayland yesterday celebrated the 250th anniversary of the incorporation of Old Sudbury, one of the most ancient of Massachusetts' towns, having been settled in 1638, receiving its name in 1639. Sudbury was the 19th town in the Massachusetts Bay Colony and the second situated beyond the flow of the tide.

A Well-Known Instrument Maker Dead.

THE PENNANT FIGHT

Exciting Contest Between the New Yorks and Bostons.

A NECK-AND-NECK STRUGGLE.

The Brooklyns Still Hold a Slight Lead in the Association Contest.

Only Two Points Between the Giants and th Leaders—Chicago Jumps Into Third Place in the League—St. Louis Making a Plucky Fight Against Overwhelming Odds—Scores of the Games and Standing of the Clubs Now Playing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The result of this afternoon's League games will be anxiously awaited as the New York Club is now only two points behind the leaders, and a victory for the Giants and a defeat for the Bostons will reverse the present position of the two teams now struggling for the championship.

The race in the American Association is the most exciting of the season. Brooklyn has gained the lead over St. Louis. Baltimore is still a dark horse, although it lost yesterday's game with the Browns. This series will, should the Orioles win the next two games, almost determine the championship race. The Athletics are also making a rush for third honors. Cincinnati has failed to keep up its reputation and is dropping behind. Columbus is the only club in the tail-enders that has made any showing, and it gained slightly.

The only question now is how the first three clubs will finish the season. All that the remaining five clubs can do it to embarrass the calculations of the leaders. The old cry, "Anything to beat St. Louis," is now forcibly brought to the surface. While it would be against the best interest of the American Association to have St. Louis again win the pennant, still everybody has the utmost respect and admiration for Capt. Comiskey, and cannot help but wish him the best of luck for the plucky fight he has made this season against seemingly overwhelming odds.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The North Plainfield Council will meet in regular session, to-morrow evening.

—The price of ice to families in Plainfield today, was raised to 80 cents a hundred.

—The news will present its weakly fill to-night, of personals from the Central Times.

—Do not fail to attend the great Bazaar at The Crescent, Sept. 6 and 7, afternoons and evenings.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Reform Club will be held this evening, at which a full attendance is desired.

—This evening the First and Second Ward Democratic primaries will be held in the Democratic Association rooms on West Front street.

—Bed and table linen, and towels ready for use at retail prices, will be a specialty at the Bazaar, to be held in The Crescent, Sept. 6 and 7, afternoons and evenings.

—The Membership Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will meet in the association rooms this evening at 7:45, and the Board of Directors will meet at 8 o'clock.

—At the Somerset county teachers' examination Saturday, at the public school building in Somerville, there were 20 applicants, 12 of whom received certificates.

—The contract for building an iron truss bridge over Stony Brook at Rock View avenue, was awarded this afternoon also to Mr. Richard Merritt, of this city.

—This evening in the First Presbyterian church will occur the anniversary exercises of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The programme was published in THE PRESS yesterday.

—The young "Mad Dog" ball team of this city was defeated by Master G. Schmidt's nine, yesterday, by a score of 25 to 5. The battery for the former nine was G. Gaub and G. Apgar, and for the latter D. Carney and V. Lorton.

—Mr. Joseph M. Harper, son of Judge Nathan Harper, ex-Mayor of this city, has opened a store for the sale of fine stationery and school supplies, at 28 North avenue, next to the railroad station. He keeps the best of everything. School books of any kind to order.

—A Prohibition Mass Convention will be held in the Court House at Somerville on Saturday next, at 2 P. M., for the purpose of making nominations for Member of Assembly and Sheriff, and for reorganizing the County Executive Committee. All Prohibitionists are invited to attend.

Another Day's Record.

THE PRESS published exclusively, last evening, the following of many items of local importance:

Mt. Christian Schepflin's fete champetre to the heads of the departments and salesmen of his extended business establishment.

The probable identification of Plainfield's Peeping Tom.

Capt. Martin's marvelous bicycle tour.

The wedding in this city of the English lady who traveled 2,500 miles to be married here.

Judge Harper's great speech at Reform Hall.

The past week's events at Hotel Netherwood.

Opening of the Tennis Tournament at Dunellen.

Trinity Reformed church's new quartette choir,

And a score of other items of personal and particular interest published exclusively in THE PRESS.

The Best of Both.

The most substantial and liberal of the fire and life insurance companies of the World, are represented by Messrs J. C. Pope & Co., of 6 East Front street. This firm places more insurance each year than most of the other agencies of the city combined. The reason is they offer the greatest inducements with the greatest security, and the most generous terms with the most generous provisions.

Plainfield Played the Better Ball.

The Somerville Messenger says: "This time it was the Crescents. The West Ends went to Plainfield on Saturday expecting a victory and came home defeated. The game was not a particularly brilliant one, although the score is somewhat interesting. The fact remains, however, that Plainfield played the better ball on Saturday."

THE RAINBOW BAZAAR.

Fully Equipped Gypsy Encampment —Beautiful and Unique Costumes— Promenade Concert Each Evening.

The Rainbow Bazaar to be held at The Crescent, during the afternoons and evenings of to-morrow and Saturday, is to be unique in its character. The hall and tables are to be draped in the colors of the rainbow, the columns on either side will be covered with cornstalks and evergreens, and lanterns and flags in profusion. The Gypsy Camp will occupy one third of the space and will be fully equipped with tents, horse and wagon, etc., a lemonade well with sweep to be one of its features.

Willow ware and trinkets will be for sale. All goods to be sold at regular retail prices here, as well as throughout the Bazaar. The ladies and their helpers will be in fancy costumes. The tables will be as follows: Japanese, Candy, (Huyler's and Wallace's); Flowers, Glass and China, Fancy Goods, Gentlemen's Brushes and Brooms, (fancy); Perfumery, (ladies in bottle costumes); Stationery, Jewelry, Fruit, Chocolate, White Goods, (made up table and bed linen); Capes and Aprons. The glass table will be filled with the prettiest collection of pitchers that could be found. The apron table will be supplied with the large kitchen aprons which completely cover the dress; also aprons for nurses and children.

Promenade concert each evening. Arrangements have been made for a Phonograph, and this instrument will afford much fun for many. The oyster supper consisting of such good things as appertain to it, will be efficiently presided over by a corps of pretty waitresses. The oysters will be prepared by a chef de cuisine specially engaged from New York city. Iced cream and cake will be in abundance.

QUITE A LOSS.

The Removal of the C. L. S. C., Will Effect Many.

The announcement exclusively published in these columns of Tuesday, that the business offices of the C. L. S. C., for so many years established in this city, were to be removed to Buffalo, was a thorough surprise to everyone. Such a move had not been "foreshadowed" by anything nor anybody, and would not have been believed even by those effected, had it not been so stated in THE PRESS.

Some still think that the orders from headquarters may be changed, but that is not so. The matter was finally decided after a thorough consideration by the Board of Trustees, and already preparations for the change are being made so that before next Spring the removal will have been accomplished. Buffalo is nearer Chautauqua itself, besides being the home, probably for life, of the Chancellor of the Circle, Bishop Vincent.

The architect of the Y. M. C. A., building was arranging in his plans for the offices of the C. L. S. C., and on the morning of the very day THE PRESS announced the removal, he called to see Miss Kimball regarding the rooms. The plans of the Y. M. C. A., will thus be changed, the post office business will be greatly lessened, and in many ways a large number of the community will be indirectly effected.

FIFTH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Of the Union County W. C. T. U.

The fifth annual convention of the Union County Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Baptist church at Roselle, on Tuesday, Sept. 17. The morning session will convene at ten o'clock, and the order of exercises will be as follows:

Devotions, led by Mrs. J. W. Yates, of this city.

Roll call and reading of the minutes.

Annual report of the Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer.

An address by the President, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson of this city.

Election of officers and collection.

There will also be noontide prayers and a meeting of the Executive Committee at one o'clock.

The programme for the afternoon session will include Bible reading by Mrs. S. W. Bodine, minutes of the Executive Committee, reports of the various superintendents, question box, miscellaneous business, collection and adjournment.

In the evening Mr. L. A. Maynard of New York, will address a mass meeting in the Baptist church.

The Bowling Club's Meeting.

At the Bowling Club's meeting of last evening, the Committee on sites reported further regarding a certain building that could be purchased and which was suitable for a club house. The meeting was adjourned for one week to give the committee a chance for a further investigation of the scheme before the club's final action. The report of the base ball committee for the past month, was most satisfactory.

Peaches and Cream at Bethel Chapel.

There will be a peach and iced cream festival given at the Bethel chapel this evening at 8 o'clock. The choicest and best instrumental music will enliven the occasion.

None can afford to miss the twenty-five cents worth of enjoyment which the Committee guarantees.

Torpid Liver.

It is hardly possible to prepare a medicine which is so pleasant to the palate as are HAMBURG FIGS, or which is so efficacious in cases of torpid liver or sick-headache. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

Mrs. E. J. Waring of Washington Park, North Plainfield, will on Friday evening tender a reception to Miss Cooley and a party of friends from New York city.

The marriage is announced of Mr. John H. Cuthbert, formerly of this city, and the eldest daughter of J. J. Brodhead, Esq., of Oil City, Pa. The wedding was a quiet one, and took place on Tuesday last. There were no cards issued.

Mr. A. Venino, a pupil of the Stuttgart Conservatory, and, later, of the eminent Leschetizky, and Mme. Essipoff, of Vienna, resumes his lessons Sept. 10. Mr. Venino will spend next Sunday with the great pianists, Joseffy and Ansorge, at their home, Irvington-on-Hudson.

Advance Agent J. H. Decker, representing Primrose and West's new modern minstrels, was in the city today making the preliminary arrangements for the company's appearance here on Monday, Sept. 16. The company retains all the old favorites including Mr. Barney Fagan, and several new attractions, including Bob. Slavin, have been added.

Mr. Herman Danz, proprietor of the Lake House, at New Market, speaks in praise of dentist C. B. Stelle, a son of Mr. John Stelle, of that place. Mr. Danz says that Dr. Stelle a few days ago extracted four teeth from his mouth which seven other dentists had failed to do. The doctor also extracted some teeth from Mrs. Danz's mouth on Monday.

That Mysterious Peeper.

Mrs. Melvin, who resides at the corner of Cottage place and Richmond street, claims that the mysterious "Tom the Peeper," was in her house on Thursday evening last, and also on Monday night of this week. She says that the stranger entered her house on Monday night about one o'clock, and while she was yet up and about the house. She met the man face to face in the hallway, and when she cried for help the fellow ran out of the house and jumped over the fence, where he stood defiantly and remarked "you don't amount to anything; you're only a woman." Finally the man went away.

—The North Plainfield Democratic primary to elect delegates to the State convention will be held in the public school building, to-morrow evening at eight o'clock.

"Five years ago I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and had been given up by my physicians, I began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and after using two bottles of this medicine, was completely cured."—Anga A. Lewis, Ricard, N. Y.

Matters of Interest to All, from Fanwood.

The traveling show that appeared at Scotch Plains last Friday night, and the incidents of its stop, afford the rustic moralist food for reflection. The belief is firmly held that in patronizing public entertainments of any kind people are moved less by the intrinsic merit of the promised performance than by their interest in the cause to financially benefited. They buy tickets, in other words, to one play or one ice cream festival in preference to another, not because they expect to receive more for their money, but because their interest is with the Baptist church or with the Methodist or Episcopal, as the case may be. So when one of the pillars of the Baptist church takes his wife and children to a raspberry festival given by the Methodists, this is looked upon by the latter as a veritable act of grace on the part of the aforesaid pillar, and as placing the entire Methodist communion under obligations to him.

Now, this being the case, and in view of the fact that with a really good play announced, and with most commendable objects in view, it has always been found a difficult task to fill Excelsior Hall—in view of all this, is it not rather remarkable that this traveling company coming along and pitching its tent in a vacant lot, should have drawn out a crowd of between two hundred and fifty and three hundred at thirty-five cents a head? But that was what it did; and the ticket seller, as he sat in his little box and saw the people come up in twos and threes and fours, and as he gravely raked in the shekels, must have thought that there was a good deal of money in Scotch Plains after all. As for the performance, it was what might have been expected. It would not have been tolerated in an actual theatre, but here in a tent, played on a little wooden stage built right on the ground and not making any great pretensions, everybody took it for what it was worth, and judged it accordingly. The supply of players was limited and the door keeper and one of the orchestra were pressed into service. Some of the players had to take two parts; the company only boasted of two scenes and these had to do double duty for Kentucky and Vermont. Sometimes the players would make their exit at one side, disappear around a wing and come out on the back of the stage just as the drop curtain was coming up, an interval of several hours and as many miles being supposed to have elapsed in the meanwhile. This is a species of entertainment that is fast dying out; you read about them but it is seldom that one actually sees them in this part of the country at least.

A number of Fanwood people expect to take part at the Rainbow Fair to be held in Plainfield, at The Crescent, on the sixth and seventh of this month. To prevent misapprehension it may be stated that the proceeds of the fair are not for the bonded debt of the Episcopal church at this place, as some have imagined, but for the organ fund. A brief glance at what is desired in that direction will not be out of place.

It is expected that at a moderate estimate, one thousand tickets will be sold; this alone will bring in two hundred and fifty dollars. Starting with this as a basis, and with the kind assistance of a vast number of wealthy friends who are expected to arrive by an afternoon train, it is believed that the profits will run up to five, six or seven hundred dollars. With this sum the new organ, which is not going to be just a common reed organ, but a kind of a cross between that and a pipe organ, will be first purchased; then an accomplished organist is to be engaged at a stated weekly salary, and after that a soprano to sing. Over thirty dollars has been expended for the cloth for the decorations alone, and I heard a man on the corner say that it was going to be a magnificent affair. The fair is to be under the management of Dr. Oliver.

The debt of the Episcopal church at present amounts to four thousand and some odd dollars. Contributions are earnestly requested.

Mr. William Hazell and his friend Mr. Frank Roulstone went to Sewaren on Labor Day. In the same party were Miss Edith Randolph, Miss Bertha Corey, Miss Lida Mooney, Miss Mabel Mooney, Mrs. Mooney and Jim Guttridge's Ben. They all had a jolly time and although they couldn't get hold of a boat until half-past five they didn't mind that a bit, but found the day all too short. Sewaren is a pleasant, quiet place, just fitted for a party of this kind.

Mr. A. D. Shepard and family, Mrs. Walter Mann and Miss Sarah Kyte, have returned from Avon Inn.

Mr. Charles Kyte has returned from a brief trip to Canada.

The Town Committee met at Excelsior Hall last Monday evening. Henry Stites appeared before the committee and wanted to know why Westfield avenue hadn't been macadamized. "They put on the crushed stone," he said, "until they came to my house, and then they stopped just as short as if you'd cut off a cat's tail. Now I've paid taxes there for twenty-eight years and I think its time something was done." The committee assured him that the matter would be attended to. Testimony was also given showing that only a few days ago two cows and a turkey hen passed through the street leading from Mr. Stites' to the Methodist church. A demand was made that this road be macadamized.

The first car for Plainfield's street railroad passed through here a few days ago and excited considerable interest. Henry Cook remarked with truth that this was the first time that a street car had been seen in Westfield avenue.

John Cook made a donation to the District of ten tons of crushed stone, and paid for carting and laying it, too. The stone was placed on Westfield avenue.

Mr. George L. Dunn is spending his vacation at Budd's Lake.

Mr. Robert T. Johnston passed Sunday and Monday at Ocean Grove.

TROOPS NOT NEEDED.

The Whites in Possession of Mintur, Miss., and Peace Prevails.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Sept. 5.—Captain Baskett, the Sheriff of the county, has just returned from Mintur City, and he reports that only five negroes were killed in the riot of Saturday night. Four of these were ringleaders, Adolph Horton, Scott Morris, M. J. Dial and Jack Dial. The military arrived at Mintur City at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. The excitement among the negroes was intensified by the report that a peaceful negro had been killed during the night for refusing to take up arms against the white people.

The white men are still in possession of the place and have a gang of negroes, including Cromwell, the leader, and his lieutenant, Tom Alton, surrounded. The Sheriff says that the troops which were ordered to the scene by Governor Lowry have returned to Jackson. They found the white men had control and immediately returned home. The riot in which the five negroes were killed occurred before the arrival of the troops. Sheriff Baskett is of the opinion that the trouble is not over by any means.

Cromwell is an ex-convict and the prime mover in the disturbance. The best of feeling prevails between the whites and the better class of the negroes, and when this troublesome element has been brought to justice, the machinery of affairs will move on as though nothing had happened.

SURGEONS MYSTIFIED.

Post Mortem on the Body of a Man Reveals a Remarkable Condition of Affairs.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Sept. 5.—Frank Havens, aged 38 years, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. A post mortem examination disclosed an abnormal arrangement of the vital organs. The heart was on the right side, the apex lying against the second rib. About two quarts of blood surrounded the heart. The liver was on the left side of the abdomen and the stomach on the right. The lungs were only one third the normal size and were pressed upward. How the man could have lived any length of time after birth seems a mystery to the surgeons.

Remarkable Cure Reported.

QUEBEC, Sept. 5.—A woman of this city named Sequin was the subject of a miracle. For nine months she suffered from a disease which deprived her of the use of her legs. She also suffered from cancer in the breast. Sunday she was carried by friends to the shrine of St. Anne, where she assisted at the divine service, received holy communion, and prayed with ardent fervor. Then, venerating the relics of St. Anne, she rose and walked to her seat without the help of anybody. The miracle was witnessed by over 2,000 pilgrims.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The buildings 71 to 75 Middle street, Portland, Me., occupied as small stores, were burned yesterday.

Mr. Joseph F. B. Firth, member of the House of Commons for Dundee, Scotland, died yesterday in Switzerland.

The expedition headed by Dr. Peters for the relief of Emin Bey has been recalled, and Emin is to be left to his fate.

An incendiary fire destroyed the Palace Hotel at Ukiah, Cala, together with several other buildings. The loss is heavy.

Mrs. Nora Moroney, employed at the Fisk Soap Works, Springfield, Mass., was killed by being caught between the elevator and the floor.

The dwelling house of Mr. Bertty, at Lamott, Montgomery county, Pa., was burned yesterday. Beatty's son, aged 11, was burned to death.

Abraham Likes and Jude Spring, two young Eastern men who located at Malad City, Idaho, fought a duel over a girl the other day. Both were killed and buried where they fell.

Sick Headache

IS a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.

"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.

"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.

"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

STRIKERS SHOT AT

The London Police Have a Clash With the Workmen.

ONE MAN FATALLY INJURED.

Terms Upon Which the Strikers Say They Will Resume Work.

A Manifesto Issued Denouncing the Police—Leader Burns' Great Difficulty in Preventing the Adoption of Radical Means of Revenge—The Ship-Owners Will Not Allow "Sweating" in Future—The Strikers Win in Liverpool.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The strikers' committee this morning decided to allow the men now out to resume work on any wharf where sixpence is paid for ordinary work, eightpence for overtime, and where the "plus" on piece work is equally divided between the journeymen and the foreman.

These are the terms for which the strike was inaugurated, but notwithstanding the fact that at several of the wharves the strikers might have gone to work at these terms any time during the past ten days, the committee refused to allow any man to resume work until the dock companies had been brought to terms. The consent now given is therefore accepted as a sign of weakening, and the early collapse of the strike is again confidently predicted.

MANIFESTO FROM THE STRIKERS.

The Strike Committee issued a manifesto this morning denouncing the action of the police in firing upon the strikers yesterday. The committee had considerable trouble in agreeing upon the wording of the manifesto, some of the more violent of the members urging that it should call upon the strikers to arm themselves in defense of their lives. It is reported that Burns, the conservative leader of the strikers, is having great trouble to keep his committee within bounds, and that a proposition to arm the strikers out of the funds contributed by charitable citizens for food was defeated by only two votes.

HATRED FOR THE POLICE.

But violent as is the temper of the committee it is a marvel of moderation when compared with that of the men. The news of the fight with the police at the dock of the Peninsular and Oriental Company and the shooting of one of the strikers in a fusilade from the revolvers of the police, spread among the men like wildfire and created the greatest excitement. Threats of vengeance are heard on all sides and it is doubtful if even the great influence of Burns will avail to prevent further bloodshed. The men speak of the shooting as "unprovoked murder," and it is fortunate for the police that at the critical moment the men lacked a leader, for they certainly were not wanting in courage to face the deadly revolvers pointed toward them. With a leader to give the word, they would undoubtedly have made short work of the handful of policemen who opposed them.

"SWEATERS" MUST GO.

The shippers are determined that after the present troubles have been settled they will no longer permit the dock companies to carry on the sweating system under which they and the laborers suffer. They will insist upon loading and discharging their own vessels, will hire the men to do the work, and allow neither the dock companies nor their foremen to make a profit out of the men on the wages paid.

The Dockman Win at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 5.—The strike of the dockmen has ended, the employers having conceded the advance demanded by the men.

Americans Homeward Bound.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 5.—The members of Scripps' League of American Workmen were received at the Adelphi Hotel yesterday by Senator Sherman and Chauncey Depew. Those two gentlemen sailed for New York in the afternoon on the Inman Line Steamship City of New York, and the members of the League sailed for home on the City of Rome. All are in excellent health.

Against the Eight Hour Movement.

DUNDEE, Sept. 5.—According to the census report on the eight hour movement, submitted at to-day's session of the Trades Union Congress in session here, 39,269 were for it and 62,883 against it.

Napoleon Will Not Issue a Manifesto.

PARIS, Sept. 5.—The "Figaro" states that Prince Victor Napoleon has decided to refrain from issuing a manifesto in connection with the approaching elections on the ground that the elections will not decide as to the form of government.

The Landlord Gives In.

DUBLIN, Sept. 5.—The dispute between the tenants and the owner of the Kenmore estate has been amicably adjusted. The settlement was reached on the landlord agreeing to waive all claim to money due for arrearage of rent.

The Empress Augusta a Catholic.

VIENNA, Sept. 5.—"Das Vaterland," the leading Catholic journal of the Empire, and generally credited with being inspired, announces that the Empress Augusta, of Germany, has joined the Catholic Church.

Defeated by the Dervishes.

CAIRO, Sept. 5.—A fierce encounter took place yesterday near Suakim between a detachment of friendly tribes and a body of Dervishes, in which the former were routed with terrible slaughter.

Massachusetts Prohibitionists.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 5—The State Prohibition Convention nominated J. S. Blackman, of Springfield, for Governor, and B. F. Sturtevant, of Jamaica Plains, for Lieutenant Governor.

Rogers Removed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Street Cleaning Commissioner Coleman has removed from office Col. A. H. Rogers, his deputy.

COLLIERY ON FIRE.

Twenty Acres Burning and Little Headway Made in Flooding the Mines.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 5.—No. 2 colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company at Olyphant caught fire yesterday, and it is believed that nearly twenty acres of the inside workings are in flames.

Smoke is pouring in thick clouds from the different slopes and air shafts, making it almost impossible for workmen to make any headway in the preparations for flooding the mines. Before the fire can be reached and water turned on 140 feet of solid coal will have to be tumbled so as not to endanger the lives of workmen.

Three hundred men are thrown out of employment.

DANGEROUS FEVER.

Railroad Men Attacked by a Species of Typhoid-Malaria.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Species of typhoid-malaria epidemic has broken out among the employes of the New York Central Railroad at the car shops at West Albany.

Over one hundred and sixty men have been obliged to quit work, virtually closing the shops, and many of the men are in a dangerous condition. The disease develops into typhoid fever in many cases.

It is thought the epidemic was generated by a spring near the works, which has become infected by sewerage matter.

Catholic Young Men's Convention.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 5.—The Catholic Young Men's Convention in session here adopted several amendments to the constitution and a call for a general congress of the Catholic laity in the United States to be held in Baltimore Nov. 11 and 12 was read. Rev. M. J. Lavelle, of New York, was elected National President, and it was decided to hold the next convention at Washington in October, 1890.

Supreme Court of Foresters.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 5.—The Supreme Court of Foresters secretary's report shows the total membership to be 614,286, a gain of 7,630 during the term. The insurance held by the members aggregates $14,000,000. The treasurer's report showed the balance on hand July 1 last to have been $152,367.84 a gain during the year of $57,923.52. There was paid to widows and orphans during the year $76,100.

Assignees of Brown, Steese & Clark.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 5.—Judge White appointed the following assignees for Brown, Steese & Clark: W. R. Dufee, of Nichols, Dufee & Co.; Samuel P. Colt, of Bristol, R. I., and Weston Lewis, of Boston. All claims were allowed except $20,111 by the Hollis Dressed Meat and Wool Company and a small claim of the Riverside and Oswego Mills, both set aside temporarily.

Struck His Wife With a Hatchet.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Peter Hayes, a peddler living on St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn, struck his wife, who was asleep in bed, several blows on the head with a hatchet and then dragged her out of bed by the hair. Her skull is fractured and she lies in a critical condition at the hospital. Hayes is supposed to be insane. He was arrested last night.

Mrs. Carter Will Appeal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—The report that the last has been heard of the Carter case is erroneous. A large array of counsel are now preparing a record for appeal to the Appellate Court this month. If this is unsuccessful here it will go to the State Supreme Court. The cost of this litigation has been enormous.

A Pennsylvania Man Murdered in Kansas.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 5.—The body of L. L. Clawson, a real estate dealer of this city, was found dead late last night in Riverside Park. There were four bullet holes in his body. Foul play is suspected. Clawson was a native of Pennsylvania. About eighteen months ago he came to Wichita from Ohio.

Cockerill Takes Pulitzer's Place.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Mayor Grant has appointed Col. John A. Cockerill a member of the Finance Committee of the World's Fair in place of Joseph Pulitzer, who wrote from Switzerland declining to serve in consequence of sickness.

Expect a General Advance in Wages.

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 5.—The wages of the employes of the Stewart Iron Company have been raised ten per cent. This is regarded by the men as a forerunner of a general advance in the wages of the 2,000 Shenago Valley furnacemen.

Huns Riot Over a Woman.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 5.—During a riot over a woman last night between a number of Hungarians, near the Standard mines, one of the men was beaten so badly that he died two hours later The murderer escaped but will likely be arrested.

Pennsylvania Democrats.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 5.—The Democratic State Convention nominated E. A. Bigler, of Clearfield county, for Treasurer on the first ballot. The convention adopted a vigorous party platform.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 5.—Miss Leila Ingersoll, daughter of ex-Governor Ingersoll, was married yesterday to George G. Havens, Jr., of New York.

GOVERNMENT CLERKS.

What It Is to Work in the Departments at Washington.

A Teller Tells About the Life—Its Few Pleasures and Small Pay—The Money Lenders—A Clerk's Discouraging Prospects.

There are three classes of clerks who, according to a Washington correspondent, are alike contemptible. The gossips, the money lenders and the money borrowers. I mention the gossips first, because they are by all odds the most harmful. They are no respector of persons, and can't be put down by any thing short of dismissal. In some mysterious way they possess themselves of more or less information concerning each new appointee, in their own and neighboring divisions, and seem to find nothing so interesting as a little bit of scandal their ever-vigilant ears may catch.

No matter how slight or innocent its origin, "they understand their business so well," as a friend of mine remarked one day, that by the time it has passed through two or three noon discussions in various corridors it comes forth full fledged for any purpose that may be desired, and not infrequently forms the subject of a sensational article in the daily papers.

The money-lenders are men, and occasionally women, who by thrift and economy manage always to have a sum of money on hand with which to favor needy fellow-clerks, at interest varying from five to ten per cent. a month. This is all done very quietly, but it is done. Perhaps it might be said that the poor clerks are foolish to be so imposed upon, but they feel—well, it's only for a short time and will relieve present embarrassments; forgetting how many dollars such transactions have already cost them and thanking their friend for the loan.

There are two kinds of money-borrowers, one, the thriftless, to whom a salary of from $1,000 to $1,800 seems large enough to cover any extravagances they may indulge in. Very soon they find themselves indebted to landlord, grocer and various others, whose demands become so disagreeably pressing that borrowing is resorted to and kept up until they get too deeply involved to extricate themselves, and every body that trusted them has to suffer in consequence. The other kind should be called swindlers, as they make a business of obtaining money under any pretext from every body they can, and then resort to all sorts of means to avoid paying it back. The latter are found among the men only, and, fortunately, are not numerous, but even one such is just one more than should be tolerated in the public service.

Among the women in the departments there are many widows of deceased officers of the army and navy, and others who, a few years ago, moved in select circles of society, and were surrounded by all that wealth or position could give them, and who then little thought that a very short turn of the wheel of fortune would give them such an intimate acquaintance with the inside of the building whose exteriors only had been familiar with them before. There are others who, besides performing heavy clerical duty here, manage to accomplish a surprising amount of literary work. Some of the raciest and best letters from Washington and many valuable contributions to the current periodicals come from them. It has been said that Washington women are the most industrious of any women in the country, and I think it might be added that they are, as a class, the brightest and most intelligent.

Among the men we have ex-soldiers of all ranks, or at least they were of all ranks when first appointed to Government positions, but once appointed it is amusing and amazing to note the rapidity with which they assume the different army titles. Whether the G. A. R. has some secret method of promoting its rank and file now engaged in fighting Uncle Sam's pen-and-ink battles I know not, but certain it is, they move onward and upward in that line so rapidly that very few are now left below the rank of General or Colonel. Outside of the ex-soldier class and officials, my ten years' study of the men who accept and retain as long as they can the ordinary Government clerkships, has revealed nothing very complimentary to either their ambition or their energy. I can not help thinking there must be something essentially weak in able-bodied men who aspire to nothing higher in life than to occupy desks in Government departments ranging from $1,000 to $1,800 per year. Such positions are demoralizing.

They may present fine opportunities to young men of limited means to equip themselves for various professions, as Washington can boast of excellent law, medical and other institutions where lectures are given at night, but even this frequently proves a dangerous way of acquiring a profession, as one of numerous instances now in my mind will illustrate.

Fifteen years ago a poor but talented young friend of Senator Conkling, full of ambition to become as famous a lawyer as the Senator, sought and obtained a position here for the purpose of taking a law course. He began at a salary of $1,200, and was shortly after promoted to $1,400. He studied hard, was graduated with honor, and fully intended to resign his position and begin his career as a lawyer at once. Just at that time he unfortunately received another promotion to sixteen hundred, which caused him to hesitate and then postpone the change, giving as excuse that it might be better to wait awhile and accumulate a little capital to start with. That man is still drawing sixteen hundred dollars in the same bureau, a typical Government clerk, dead to any higher aspiration than retaining his present position.

A celebrated lawyer told me not long since that when he was trying to get an education, he heard of the advantages in this line afforded by official employment in Washington, and thereupon went to a political friend of his father who had patronage to bestow and asked him to procure him an appointment. "Can't do it, my young friend," answered the judge, bluntly; "think too much of your father to spoil your future prospects in that way. It would be the greatest unkindness I could do you, and some day you will thank me for this refusal." "And I have thanked him during all my professional life," continued the lawyer.

An Old Chestnut Revived.

An old preacher, after service one Sunday, announced his reading for the following Sunday. During the week some mischievous boys obtained his Bible and pasted two of the leaves together, right where he was to read. Sunday morning coming, the aged divine opened his book and read as follows: "And Noah took unto himself a wife who was"—and here he turned the leaf—"forty cubits broad, one hundred and forty cubits long." With a look of astonishment he wiped his glasses, re-read and verified the passage, and then said: "My friends, although I have read the Bible many times, this is the first time I have ever seen this passage, but I take it as another evidence of the fact that man is most fearfully and wonderfully made."

THE NEW "KING OF THE FOPS."

Something About Thomas Louis Onativia, the Successor of E. Berry Wall.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Swelldom is again tranquil, and the great contest which has been raging in New York with vivid picturesqueness for over a year is finally settled. It has been a bloodless struggle, and now that it is all over and the crown abdicated by E. Berry Wall has passed into the hands of his successor, the cane-sucking and monocled brigade breathes easier.

Thomas Louis Onativia, the new idol of the jeunesse doree, is about twenty-two years old, and stands as the representative of a class that is yearly increasing in numbers and influence in the metropolis. He is the chief exponent of the profession of elegant leisure. Born to wealth and a lifetime of ease, he has distinguished himself by the invention of a "method" which prevents time from hanging heavily upon his hands, and he is, in consequence, the envy of his languid worshippers.

Personally the new ruler of Dudedom is a rather handsome fellow with a very little of the fop about him. For the last three years he has been in training for the position he now fills, and even a year ago he had acquired the reputation of being the best dressed man in town. His complexion is dark with a slightly olive tint, and his eyes are as soft as those of a girl. The upper lip is as yet unvexed by a razor, and shows a premonitory moustache. The whole expression is frank in the extreme, and the hair, which lies close and is kept well trimmed, disdains the usual parting in the middle and, instead, describes a pretty cascade in the form of a bang which the girls pronounce "too sweet for anything."

Young Onativia is retiring in his disposition and affects a great exclusiveness. Unlike Berry Wall, he does not care to mix promiscuously in society nor to wear loud clothes. His costumes are invariably of the finest texture, but they are never showy in cut or pattern. Met in the park or on the avenue, where he may be seen almost daily, riding or driving, he simply impresses you as a very well dressed and rather attractive young fellow. It is only when you observe the man more closely that you detect the peculiarities which have won him the proud position he now holds as the leader of the younger generation of professional swells, for it should be understood that the class of which "Dandy" Marx, the nobbiest man in New York fifty years ago, was the prototype, is now as generally recognized as that of the "professional beauties" who adorn society and the stage.

Onativia's modesty is the distinctive feature which stamps the difference between the new leader and the old. He is not a prominent "first-nightier" and is rarely, if ever seen in the front row at the theatre. On the road or taking a stroll on the avenue he is to be remarked by the quiet perfection of his garments which are invariably of the finest material. His summer toggery consists of a black Cowes coat, black trousers, no vest, a black silk "cummerbund" and a white straw hat with either a white or a pearl gray band. His tie is either a broad black affair or a gray silk or satin bow. He displays very little jewelry and no diamonds. In his shirt bosom—which is an ample one—are two pearl studs. His cane is a light rattan, carried in the middle or loosely near the top and is in marked contrast with the bludgeon-like affairs worn of late by the young swel's about town.

Onativia's weakness is for fine horses. It is a question which he values more highly, his elegant wardrobe or his splendidly matched team of bays, behind which, seated high in his yellow cart, he takes a spin on the road two or three mornings a week when he is in town. He is now enlivening Richfield Springs with the splendor of his presence, and no turnout is to be seen among the famous drives in that charming neighborhood to compare with that of the young nabob.

His man—for like every young gentleman of wealth and fashion, he has a valet—takes care of his extensive wardrobe, which consists of a dozen suits. It is the valet's duty to see that these are in good condition and ready for service at a moment's notice. These suits average $100 each, and are all of the best quality of imported goods, made either by the leading New York tailors or by Poole of London. The trousers average $20 a pair, and the shoes and hats from $10 to $12. Some of the suits cost as high as $120. The value of the whole available wardrobe may easily be set down at from $1,200 to $1,500, and this is exclusive of canes, pipes and jewelry of which he has a fine assortment.

Young Onativia is the apostle of a new style of dress, and his reign marks the decline of the loud, dudish costumes that have been prevalent of late years. The terrible high collars and the unwieldy canes are not on his "little list," and will, in all probability, be soon discarded by his followers.

Moreover, the new monarch of Dudedom is a very temperate man and seldom indulges in anything stronger than a glass of wine. He ignores the dictum of Berry Wall, wherein the latter laid down the rule that young men of New York begin the day with an "absinthe frappe." At the St. Marc, where the new ruler resides when in the city, there is no quieter person in the hotel. It is situated on the topmost peak of Murray Hill and in the very centre of wealth and fashion.

A Negro Lynched.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5.—Warren Powers, a negro, was lynched at East Point early this morning. He had outraged a white school girl. He was taken out of jail by masked men and hanged.

The Poughkeepsie and Southern Road.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The directors of the Poughkeepsie and Southern Railroad have elected Edward L. Dwyer, of New York, president, vice Homer A. Nelson, resigned. George A. Browne, confidential agent of Mr. Cone, of the New York and Massachusetts Railroad, was elected manager. Contracts, it is said, will be given out immediately to build the new road from the New York and New England road at Hopewell to Poughkeepsie.

The Tanner Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Secretary Noble, accompanied by his private Secretary, Horton Pope, has returned to this city from Richfield Springs, N. Y., where he has been for three weeks. It is stated with some degree of positiveness that the Secretary will take up the Tanner investigation before the end of the week.

Peacock & Thomas Furnace Start Up.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 5.—After three months, suspension, the furnace of Peacock & Thomas in this city was started up last evening.

I. C. B. U. Convention.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 5.—The 21st annual convention of the Irish-Catholic Benevolent Union of America is in session here and will not adjourn before Friday.

Grant as a Wood-Cutter.

Grant used to chop cord wood in a peculiar way, says Judge Lanham, in the St. Louis Republic, cutting the tree all round instead of half down one side and then on the other, like the ordinary axeman. While President he visited St. Louis, and I went with him to his farm, and, passing the spot where he once chopped wood, I said: "General, the fellow who cut those stumps was a poor wood-chopper, don't you think so?" The President replied with a sigh: "That might be true, Judge, but, to tell the truth, I was happier than than now. I cut my wood, hauled it to the city, got my price for it, returned to my family, and was happy; but now the burden of a Nation is upon me, and I know no rest. Those were happy days, Judge!"

A Precocious Baby.

A five-year-old child in Monson, Me., is said to speak three languages.

KASKINE,

(THE NEW QUININE.)

A POWERFUL TONIC.

A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

"After five years suffering from malaria, which nearly destroyed my constitution, having used quinine without permanent benefit, I tried Kaskine and got better right away. The malarial symptoms all left me, and health, sleep and strength returned." Henry Knarke, 583 Washington street, New York.

"I had all the symptoms of malarial poisoning; headaches, rheumatic pains, great nervous depression, loss of sleep, indigestion, &c. The old quinine proving useless, I tried "the new quinine" and soon got better."—W. Goldburg, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

A Cabinet Meeting to Be Held To-Morrow.

TALK OF TANNER'S REMOVAL.

The Politicians Already Discussing His Probable Successor.

The President Returns to Washington To-Day—Secretary Windom Will Arrive To-Morrow—Strike in a Postoffice—The Entire Force at Spokane Falls Threaten to Quit To-Day—A San Francisco Inspector in Charge of the Office.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Postoffice Department has received notice from the postmaster at Spokane Falls, W. T., stating that the whole force in the office were dissatisfied with the allowances and salaries, and unless additional allowances were made them they would stop work to-day.

The Department has telegraphed the Postoffice Inspector at San Francisco to proceed at once to Spokane Falls and in case the threatened strike takes place to assume charge of the office getting what help was necessary. The chief clerk of the mail service at Portland, Ore., has been detailed to assist the Inspector.

The place of the postmaster now in charge has been filled and the commission of the new postmaster arrived today from Philadelphia, where it was sent for the signature of the President.

To-Morrow's Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—There will be a Cabinet meeting to-morrow and it is rumored that the fate of Commissioner Tanner will be decided. Postmaster-General Wanamaker's telegraph scheme and the attitude of the Administration regarding the recommendations of Congress on the subject of the internal revenue will be discussed. It is reported that Commissioner Tanner will have to go and already the politicians are discussing his probable successor. Opinion at present leads towards Silas Bussey, Second Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The following are the latest appointment of fourth-class postmasters for New York: B. L. McKelver, Byron; Alonzo Denton, Forest Port; Chas. W. Arnold, Indian Falls; Francis Macker, Lakeville; Wm. S. Chapin, Livonia Station; Jno. J. Young, Merritt's Corners; F. C. Miller, Morganville; E. W. Sears, Mascon; Parker Crosier, Oakland; E. M. Camphilon, Stafford; E. L. Brininstool, Yates.

Secretary Windom's Return.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Secretary of the Treasury Windom will arrive in this city to-morrow in time for the Cabinet session.

The President's Return to Washington.

THE HAMILTON PLOT.

Latest Developments in the Conspiracy to Secure His Fortune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Inspector Byrnes is still working diligently on the Hamilton case, with the view of weaving a net of corroborative evidence around the conspirators, and more especially around the arch-conspirator, Eva Steele, alias Brill, alias Mann, and more latterly "Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton." It is said that Inspector Byrnes has evidence that Eva contemplated the thought of ridding herself of the too-confiding husband after he had made his will in her favor. No method was suggested, but the woman is said to have tempted Joshua Mann to such an extreme by telling him that if Ray was taken suddenly away she would live again with him as Mrs. Mann, and then on the money received enjoy a life of luxury and ease.

Mrs. Swinton and Mann will be taken to the Tombs Court this afternoon for examination. They have secured a lawyer to defend them.

Married on the Lawn.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 6.—A notable social event at the Brush Hill mansion of Henry S. Hyde yesterday was the wedding of his cousin, Miss Sarah E. Hyde, of Hydeville, Vt., to Thomas H. Morgan, of Atlanta, Ga. The ceremony was performed on the handsome lawn, the bridal couple kneeling under a huge Japanese umbrella before an altar of golden rod.

Collision on the West Shore.

GRANTON, N. J., Sept. 6.—Two heavy freight trains on the West Shore Railroad, came into collison yesterday near Little Ferry, N. J., and both trains were completely wrecked. The cars and their contents were scattered all over the tracks and it is said that the engineer and fireman of one train were killed.

The Engineer Killed.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 6.—There was a boiler explosion yesterday at the coal mine at Portsmouth, R. I. A huge column of smoke rose in the air and it was at first thought it was fire damp explosion. It appeared subsequently that the boiler alone exploded, killing the engineer.

THE BLUE LABEL.

President Strasser's Opinion of the Decision of Judge Thayer.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 6.—President Strasser of the International Cigarmakers' Union was asked to-day for his views on the recent decision of Judge Thayer in the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis to the effect that counterfeiting of the blue label used on union-made cigars can not be prevented or punished. He expressed himself as follows:

"The International Cigarmakers' Union will not submit to the decision. I do not know just how far Judge Thayer's jurisdiction extends, but the rights of the blue label have already been tested in the St. Louis courts, a permanent injunction having been granted against counterfeit blue labels. The present case will be appealed in all probability, but if it should be found that a loop-hole has been discovered in the Missouri trade-mark law, then the law will be changed. We can do it; it has been done before.

"When a case went against the blue label in Minnesota we immediately went to the Legislature, then in session, and had a law passed that gave the label full protection. The same thing was done in New Jersey. The same thing will be done in Missouri, if necessary."

READY FOR A CRISIS

Germany Massing Troops on the Russian Frontier.

DEFIANT NOTICE TO THE CZAR.

The German Emperor Determined to Force Russia's Hand.

The Young Monarch's Action Indicates that He Will Not Be Caught Napping—The Increase of Germany's Army Considered Warlike—Should Russia Further Increase Her Force a Crisis Will Soon Be Precipitated—Press Comments.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Little by little the German army is being increased and one army corps after another is being added to its effective strength.

Since the opening of the year no less than four corps have been added and now the Emperor has given orders for the formation of a fifth with headquarters at Bromberg on the eastern frontier.

This move is evidently intended as a reply to Russia who continues to mass her troops upon her western frontier and in this way Emperor William serves notice upon the Czar that he does not mean to be caught napping.

The German press comments upon the latest move of the Emperor are full of significance. It is pointed out that, contrary to the usual custom in such cases, there is no attempt at concealment. The Emperor seems to have taken special pains to give the fullest possible publicity to his plan to mass a formidable force on Russia's frontier and this the German press accept as a note of defiance. The more sensational of the Berlin papers go so far as to say that this indicates a determination on the part of the Emperor to force Russia's hand. Should Russia reply by further increasing her force on the German and Austrian line, as is confidently expected, the crisis will be precipitated before the end of the year.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Buffalo Lineman Suspended in the Air By "Live" Electric Light Wires.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept 6.—Hugh Perry, an electric light lineman, met with a horrible death here yesterday. He was working on a pole on Seneca street and caught hold of a live wire. He fell to a cross bar and hung there in the wires unable to save himself, and giving evidence of extreme suffering. One arm was around a wire, his head hanging down and his body twitching and writhing. The fire department was called, but it was fifteen minutes before help came. Perry was alive when taken down but speechless. He died a few minutes after reaching the hospital. His right breast was badly burned and the fingers of his left hand were burned almost to the bone. He had been in the employ of the company but a few days.

Believed to Be Bartlett's Skeleton.

NORWICH, Vt., Sept. 6.—In a sandy roadside near this place was found a skeleton supposed to be that of John Bartlett, a wealthy eccentric, who disappeared nineteen years ago, at the age of 77. On the last night he was seen screams were heard issuing from his house. A man and his wife who lived with him said he had gone to live with the Shakers. Hints of foul play were heard, but the authorities took no action. Bartlett's estate, after accumulating for ten years, was turned over to his nearest heir, a nephew, whom Bartlett had said should never have a cent of his money.

Forbidden the Sacrament.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Waterloo is in a state of great excitement because James Kelly and William Dempsey have been, by a decree of Bishop McQuaid, forbidden the sacrament of the Catholic Church. Both were parishioners and friends of Father Lambert, and the people of the village ascribe their punishment to that fact, although the ostensible reason is that they are said to have asked Father McGlynn to come to Waterloo to talk on the Lambert case.

An Unknown Woman Suicides at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 6.—An unknown woman committed suicide by jumping into the rapids 200 feet above the Falls and was swept over the Cataract yesterday. She was dressed in black, had red hair and was nearly six feet tall. She weighed about 140 pounds. Nothing was left by which to identify her. A lookout has been set for the body.

Costly Wreck on the B. & L. Railroad.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 6.—By the breaking of a draw-pin eleven coal cars and a fruit car ran off the Boston and Lowell Railroad track at the Gorham street bridge this morning and were piled up in confusion. No one was hurt. The damage will be several thousand dollars.

Will Sue the Paper for Libel.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Suits for libel will be commenced against the "Post-Express" Publishing Company by Assemblyman Jos. Bauer and William Lee for $25,000 each for the publication on Tuesday of an alleged libellous article reflecting upon these gentlemen.

Bowling League Organized.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

Last evening representatives of the bowling clubs of Fanwood, Westfield, Plainfield and Elizabeth met at the Elizabeth Athletic club house and formed the Union County Bowling league. Much interest was manifested in the meeting, and good results will undoubtedly result to the bowling interests of the county.

MANGLED BY THE CARS.

Baker Shultz and His Assistant Struck by an Express Train at Elizabeth Today, and Instantly Killed.

A horrible accident occurred at the Bayway crossing on the Pennsylvania Railroad, about a mile South of Elizabeth, a little before 11 o'clock today, which resulted in the tragic death of Frederick Shultz, a baker of No. 831 Elizabeth avenue, and Ludwig Mussbauer, aged 16 years, his assistant.

The two men were seated in a bakery wagon and they started to cross the track in front of the approaching Philadelphia express train No. 18, going East, and due at Elizabeth at 10.49 o'clock, evidently not aware of the fact that the train was so near upon them. The pilot on the engine struck the wagon squarely on the side and hurled the occupants many feet in the air. The wagon was completely wrecked, but the horse escaped.

When picked up both men were dead. Mr. Shultz's head was literally battered to pieces, the brains oozing out and covering his shirt front. The unfortunate victims were taken to the Central Railroad station at Elizabeth, and County Physician Westcott was telegraphed for. Later Undertaker Jensen took charge of the remains.

Mr. Shultz was a hardworking and industrious man about 46 years of age. He went to Elizabeth from Baltimore and started in business with but $80. By honest toil and close attention to business he earned a living, and had secured a comfortable home for himself, his wife and eleven-year-old son. At one time during the late war Mr. Shultz was employed as a baker, and later he worked for Mr. Henry Voehl, a baker in Elizabeth, and a brother of Mr. Jacob Voehl of this city. He was a German by birth, an Odd Fellow and a member of the Knights of Pythias. The boy Mussbauer, hailed from New York, where he has a brother living. Mrs. Shultz is districted through grief, and it required the combined efforts of two physicians to pacify her when the sad news was conveyed to her.

A strange incident in connection with Mr. Shultz's tragic death, is the fact that a cousin of the deceased was killed at Newark a few days ago, and Mr. Shultz was arranging to attend the funeral this afternoon.

WARNING THE MOTHERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:

The gum chewing habit is on the increase. Truly the confectionery and drug stores in Asbury Park sell vast quantities of the gum, and vie with the pop-corn vender and the cigar shops, as they weekly figure up their gains from each traffic. In the Fifth avenue pavilion, during the playing of the band, many children of tender years with others of older growth, sit about in groups to enjoy the music, indulging meanwhile in their daily habit of gum chewing. Each child is supplied with a fresh package, and frequent exchanges of different flavors are made between them. Their jaws work incessantly, and in the most sportive way keep time to the music. What grimaces and contortions they make of their faces, and observing them closely I see that not one out of six have white sound teeth, and only one, here and there, showing any degree of health or rosiness. Several nurses sit beside them also chewing and amusing themselves in like manner.

The pernicious and disfiguring habit is not confined to the middle or lower classes. I entered an open surface car at Fifty-ninth street one afternoon last Spring, and soon thereafter the car stopped to admit a dozen very swell young girls, loaded with school books. A merry party, truly, but all were chewing gum vigorously, which five minutes before had been secretly tucked away under their tongues, the habit not being tolerated during school hours. One of the young ladies remarked with a sigh of relief: "Oh dear! how my jaws have ached to have a chaw. Don't speak to me girls for five minutes." The girls laughed responsively, imitated their leader, and chewed as though their lives depended on it. Doubtless the habit had been contracted quite a number of years ago, and I noticed they had defective teeth, coarse, thick lips, and large, unshapely mouths. They were daughters of select and wealthy parents, and the renowned school they attended in West Fifty-third street could prove their thorough and elegant training

But gum chewing is indulged in on the sly, and teachers have not discovered it. Perhaps in the time allowed them—for the amount of instruction required being limited—no attention can be given to remedy the evil. I need not dwell upon the physical evils of the habit. It has been mildly advocated and vigorously condemned, but I will declare that it is a nasty habit, distorting the pretty rosebud mouth, injuring the incoming teeth, and making the jaws grow to greater prominence. It is unrefined and unladylike in the extreme, and utterly destructive of the repose of manner and countenance, which is the sweetest charm of young womanhood. Besides it will cause wrinkles and flabbiness before youth has fled. If mothers throughout the land could be impressed only as to the physical dangers of such a habit, its moral evils would be unknown.

LOOKER ON.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 31, 1889.

Large Sale of Real Estate.

Special Master John H. Jackson yesterday completed the Corra O. Meeker real estate, consisting of five tracts.

The tract 54 feet on East Front street brought $179 per foot, realizing $9,666. The farm of 5¼ acres, situate on the corner of Hillside and Highland avenues, brought $4,500. The house and 50 feet on East Second street, four doors West of Richmond street, was sold for $2,800, and a lot in the rear on East Third street, brought $605. A 50-foot lot on Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, was sold to Hermann Schwed for $500. The total proceeds of the sale amounted to $18,071.

Accidents on the Central Road.

Two slight accidents occurred on the New Jersey Central Railroad, last evening, but the damage in each case was trifling. Engine No. 165, attached to the Easton express, dound East, due in this city at 8:31 o'clock, blew out a cylinder head at Lebanon, and delayed travel over the road at that point for a time.

The engine on the 12:43 o'clock train from New York last night also broke a connecting rod, between Westfield and Cranford.

Democratic Primaries.

The First and Second Ward Democratic primaries were held last evening with the following result. The attendance was unusually large:

FIRST WARD.

Delegate—Tell A. Beguelin; Alternate, John Rafferty.

SECOND WARD.

Delegate—W. K. McClure; Alternate, Henry Simmond.

The Third and Fourth Ward primaries will be held this evening.

—On Tuesday of next week, a house on Sixth street and one on Seventh, will be sold at auction as advertised elsewhere.

OUTRAGES IN MISSISSIPPI.

Negroes Burn a Store Because They Are Refused Ammunition.

GREENWOOD, Miss., Sept. 6.—The most dastardly outrage since the beginning of the trouble in the upper part of this county was perpetrated by George Allen and his squad of about fifteen negroes by the burning of Mr. Charles Jamieson's store at Shady Grove. They went there and asked for powder and shot. Jamieson refused to let them have any and they told him they would either burn his house or kill him. They caught him, set fire to his house, firing off their guns in the meantime and making other demonstrations. Jamieson got away and went to Sunny Side informing the people of what had happened.

About the same time a negro deserter from Allen's band came up and offered to pilot the whites to Allen's camp, at Lane Starbend, if they would spare him and his two brothers who were among Allen's men. About 200 men at once started for the camp, but it has not been learned whether they succeeded in capturing Allen yet.

It now transpires that the negro whom Allen killed last Monday night for refusing to take up arms against the whites was his own brother.

Yesterday evening the Sheriff's posse got sight of the two negroes who had gone to Cleveland for amunition. When the negroes jumped from their mules and fled into the canbrake, the posse captured the mules and 2,000 Winchester rifle cartridges, ten pounds of buckshot and five pounds of powder.

Further particulars from up the river confirm the statement that four negro leaders who were killed yesterday were killed by a Sheriff's posse while resisting arrest. There have been a great many arrests made, but, as they all proved innocent, they were released.

The number of hostile negroes is now estimated to be from 100 to 150, and they are in large squads, one of which is led by George Allen and the other by one Backitt.

The leaders declare that they will not be taken alive.

Indicted for Violating the Pauper Law.

NEWPORT, N. H., Sept. 6.—The Grand Jury reported indictments against Miss Emma Cornish and Dr. Joshua F. Lewis who, as employes of the Massachusetts State Board of Lunacy conducted Mrs. Emma J. Gee, a pauper, from Massachusetts to Clermont, N. H., and were arrested for alleged violation of the New Hampshire Pauper law. The jury failed to find a bill on account of insanity against Lucien Freeman of Plainfield who killed his mother, Mary Freeman, and John Morgan Last June.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES.

In the First Presbyterian Church Last Evening—The President's Address in Full, the Report of the Treasurer and An Address by Mrs. J. T. Ellis.

There was a large attendance at the anniversary exercises of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in the First Presbyterian church, last evening. Mrs. Dr. T. H. Tomlinson presided and beside her on the platform were Rev. Dr. Ketcham, Mrs. T. J. Ellis, Mrs. MacNaughton and Mrs. French. Dr. E. W. Hedges presided at the organ and Mr. S. I. Mitchell led the singing. The pulpit platform was dotted with bouquets of fragrant flowers.

The exercises opened with an organ voluntary, followed by singing. Rev. Dr. Ketcham then read the scripture according to the first chapter of the second epistle of Peter, and led in prayer. After a solo by Mr. Mitchell, the President then delivered her annual address, as follows:

"On the road of life one mile stone more.
In the book of life one leaf turned o'er;
Like a red seal is the setting sun
On the good and the evil we have done.
Naught can today restore."

We have abundant cause for rejoicing, as we turn the leaf upon which is written all the records, that closes the history of our years labor, and brings us to another anniversary, which binds our hearts more closely in the loving links of a united sisterhood. Very sweet are these ties, that come weal or woe, each heart throbs in magnetic sympathy, rejoices or sorrows with the participant, and thanks God for having called us to this Woman's Christian Temperance work. This is true of Local, State, National and World's Unions, and what else could be expected, when we are led by such loyal, self sacrificing, sympathetic leaders as Frances E. Willard, President of the World's and National, and Mesdames Downs, Ellis and Hammer of our own State, with hundreds of others, whose names cannot be written, but are enshrined in our remembrance. Would that some power might touch a chord in hearts yet unresponsive to this, (as we believe) the greatest call from God to woman, who, entering into the work whole heartedly, would give their talents to assist in carrying on this great battle between good and evil. Wider and wider open the doors of opportunity and responsibility to us so that our own shrinking timidity and prejudice are fast being overcome, until the woman of today looks out over the fields of her privilege, with a resolute and fearless comprehension, impelled and upheld by an unfaltering faith in the dear Lord, under whose banner she has enlisted, and who will insure victory in every effort that tends to bringing "Peace on Earth Good Will to Men." The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been truly called organized mother love, and the mothers, wives and sisters have banded themselves together, and consecrated their lives to protect (as far as power is given them) their children, husbands and brothers from the vices which imperil them at every step of the way. We are in a training school where forty different departments are studied carefully, each one having the privilege of making a specialty of the one that best suits her inclination. If a desire for winning souls, we have the evangelistic, if for training children in temperance principles, we have the Sunday school, Loyal Temperance Legion and Kitchen Garden, if for spreading broadcast the opinions of various writers who have made the evil effects of any bad habit a study whether of alcohol, narcotics or social vices, we have the literature and press; if for promoting health and inheriting sound bodies, we have the hygeine and heredity; if for legislating, so that our future representatives must be compelled by the irresistible opinion to act as well as to say "that the first concern of all good government is the virtue and sobriety of the people and the purity of the home," we have the department of legislation; if a wish to arouse the indifferent, and instruct the ignorant respecting the great responsibility of mothers in the home training of their children to purity and virtue, and of rightly fortifying the youths to meet the temptations that assail them, we have the Mother's meetings in the Social Purity department; so we might continue the enumeration, both helpful and profitable, but time forbids. Referring to the first department leads me to speak of what a devoted worker wrote me, after having attended two county conventions in the State of New York. She writes "I have noticed with profound regret two things that I wish might be remedied: 1st, the lack of consecrated women to point sinners under conviction to Christ as the only burden bearer. 2d the failure to render help to those who are trying to reform if they are weak and break their pledge." We cannot do this unless we are filled with the Spirit of Him who will assist us in speaking the right word at the right time. If our hearts are in sympathy with the sinning and erring one, and we are working in unison with the teachings of our blessed Saviour, we can be helpful, and bring many wanderers into his fold. This is a privilege every child can attain by Scripture study and close communion with our Heavenly Father that we may receive power from Him that we may have power with men. "It is the Gift of God."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.

Our evangelistic work has not lessened in interest, as we have held five regular gospel temperance meetings every week. We have continued the Saturday evening meeting through the year, no night too stormy for a goodly number to be present. We have frequent requests for the unconverted, especially those who are captives of strong drink. Pray for my husband; pray for my son; pray for my brother; pray for my friends; and we have faith these prayers will be answered. Were it not that we were trusting to Him who answers prayer, we should not spend time, strength and money to carry on this work. We cannot cease working, when God calls so loudly, and with Dr. Talmage we will say: "We are ready to let this question alone, when it is willing to let us alone; but when it stands blocking up the way to heaven, and keeping multitudes away from Christ, I dare not be silent, lest the Lord require their blood at my hands." The four o'clock Sunday meetings have we trust been productive of much good under the leadership of Mr. Edsall, who has so kindly conducted them. We can in no better way express our appreciation than by wishing him all the Spiritual wisdom and grace God can bestow, to help him carry on this good work, and this we wish for all who have so faithfully assisted us as leaders of our various meetings through the year. To the choir which has been led by Mr. A. G. Carpenter we extend our kindest wishes, hoping that the hymns they have sung may ever keep them very near the Cross. The 9:45 meeting and Vesper service at 6:30 have had different leaders, some of them very young in the service, but our hearts have been encouraged as we have watched the growth of Christian characters. The Thursday meetings have been varied, and in the usual order every month as far as we were able under the head of Devotional, Bible Reading, Mother's meeting, Superintendents, and when five Thursdays occurred in a month have had Parliamentary drill, this we cannot be too conversant with, as no society can prosper without order, and strict compliance to rules, especially our own loved W. C. T. U., that is so complex in its character, and yet so well organized from National to Local, that if one study the plan, and follow it out closely, no friction will ever occur. The Superintendent of this as well as those of other departments will give a more extended account at our annual meeting next Monday afternoon. We can not refrain from saying before proceeding, that we do most gratefully acknowledge the kindness of our church people, who have cheerfully opened their churches to us, for they have never refused when asked. So dear sisters take fresh courage and never doubt again, for how can we receive if we do not ask.

JUVENILE WORK.

We are seeking to train the young to keep themselves pure from all intoxicants, from tobacco, and from profanity; that their bodies are the temples of the Holy Ghost, and in thus teaching them we are preparing the boys to enter the work of Young Men's Christian Association. And let not one of its members for one moment indulge the thought that we are not in perfect harmony with it and every other organization that has for its object the honor and glory of God. We know that some of the young men who are act ive in our work are active in the other. So we are anxious it should be, and trust no on will withhold from assisting us in the work which seeks to save, redeem and keep through the saving power of the Most High. Our classes in the Kitchen Garden were never better attended, and we hope that in the homes the result of the year's work has been shown.

LITERATURE.

Our indefatigable Superintendent of Literature has not been idle by any means in dispensing tracts and papers. We are glad so many Union Signals are taken, for no worker can afford to be without one: and while it has always been without parallel as a weekly paper, it has never been so good as this year, and as every new subscriber can get it for fifty cents the next year we earnestly entreat every woman to subscribe. Let the 15th anniversary of the National see 150,000 subscribers.

NARCOTICS.

I wonder how many parents in this city realize the pernicious influence of the vile cigarette, which is sending many of the boys to insane asylums, affecting their eyesight, benumbing their moral sensibilities, bringing them to premature death. Know you how soon your boy may become a victim? There is a law prohibiting their sale to boys under 16. What law can prevent a boy over that age purchasing and selling, trading or giving them to minors? Upon some one rests a great responsibility in this as well as other matters. Will you not for the mothers' sake help save her child by petitioning that the manufacture shall be prohibited; for, as our dear Frances E. Willard wrote me a few days ago: "It is far easier to do away with having them made, than to do away with having millions of boys use them after they are made; just as it is so much easier to take care of a barrel of whisky, than to take care of the same whiskey when it has reached the stomachs of several hundred men.

FINANCE.

This is a subject that women are not supposed to know much about; yet we should like to know of any society that makes a better record than the Woman's Christian Temperance Union from National to local, and we have cause for thankfulness that our Union has been so prosperous this year. This could not have been had there not been willing workers and cheerful givers. Some of the ladies in our various churches not actively engaged in the work, are interested, and have contributed generously, even beyond what we have asked. Our hearts have almost failed us at times in thinking of the uncertainty of money; but conscious that we were carrying on the Lord's work, have trusted to him and he has not failed us. In view of this we shall hold a Thanksgiving service in connection with our annual meeting next Monday afternoon; confident God will restore an hundred fold to those who have assisted us. We frequently hear this question: "What is the Woman's Christian Temperance Union doing?" I cannot tell you, only God knows of the prayers and pleadings poured into his ear daily, yes hourly, from broken hearted wives, mothers, daughters and sisters who look only to him to fulfill the desires of their hearts. We are working in the various departments as light is given us; we are pleading with the men in the legislature and Congress to give us laws that will educate our children in reference to alcohol, and it is a lamentable fact that New Jersey (almost the exception of the many States in the Union) has never granted the Scientific Temperance Bill. We hope for its passage next Winter. We can sign petitions to present to our brothers, who can fling them aside, as beneath their notice, after we have spent weeks of walking, and patient entreaty on our part has been accomplished. We can write pitiful letters to our Fathers of the Common Council who can do as they please, about granting our request. We can continue to suffer as we see the cherished ones of our homes torn from our loving watchcare, conscious temptations are on every hand to drag them down to perdition. We can abide by the decision of the majority who vote that "no license" shall be granted, and yet will take no action to stand by that decision; and when previous to another election, we shall have it pounded in our ears that Prohibition does not prohibit. We can meekly stand and hear it, knowing too well, perhaps by bitter experience that it has not and cannot effectually under the present system of State and National laws, and when we ask for the usual contributions to our work we receive the answer, "I cannot give you any more, for you women do not close the saloons." We can pass out from their presence uncondemned, with an unvoiced prayer upon our lips, Christian brothers we appeal to you that "our labor shall not be in vain in the Lord." You are your brother's keeper, we are the keepers of our homes. How can we keep these homes pure and free from the despoilers unless you will give us your hearty support and sympathy? Will you not protect these home by the enforcement of the laws made? It is in your power, it is not in ours. We must be submissive to the powers that be; so tonight we ask you as loyal brothers (who I am sure will not slightingly heed our earnest appeal) to arise in your manly strength and demand that rights shall prevail, and that evil shall not supersede the good. We do thank God and take courage, that our city has not been in league with the High License system, that we have not used any money derived from this source, and if liquor is sold unlicensed (which is without doubt the case) we as a city are free from the curse of God. If liquor is a necessity let it be sold as any other commodity without a tax, until our Nation shall say: It is an evil that can and must be prohibited that our own as well as foreign lands shall be purified and prepared for the Kingdom of Christ.

Mrs. MacNaughton, the treasurer, reported these figures:

Total receipts for year	$1,105.00
Total expenditures	1,094.00
Balance	$ 11.00

Dr. Ketcham said that the president had stated in her address that it was generally acknowledged that women knew but little about finances, but he considered that they were good financiers. In the matter of temperance, said he, there are four things to be considered. The ladies have consecrated themselves to the work, they are advocating the cause, and they are also educating public sentiment in favor of prohibition. What remains is for the men to legislate in favor of it. The doctor closed his remarks by admonishing the men to stand up for the women in the matter of finances. The baskets were then passed by young ladies, and a substantial free will offering was made.

Mrs. J. T. Ellis was next introduced, and that lady delivered one of her polished address on behalf of prohibition and the suppression of the liquor traffic. The speaker said she came not to Plainfield as a stranger, moreover it seemed as though she was at home again. She also said that she rejoiced in the temperance work that was going on here, and declared that a check had been placed on the traffic. Mrs. Ellis made a touching allusion to her recent visit at Warren Mission chapel, and told of one instance where a young man of nineteen years had been raised from the depths of degradation, only to fall again on account of the numerous temptations around him. A second time the young man was lifted up, and again he was tempted by having a flask placed under his nose in the inquiry room.

Resuming her discourse Mrs. Ellis said: We are trying to save drunkards, but we go beyond that by going into the homes; we have paid rent, bought clothes and propped the men up, but they fell back. For sixteen years these noble women have carried on this work, and it is getting to be monotonous; we are now turning our attention to educational advantages.

The speaker also alluded to the cigarette nuisance, the social habit of treating and the habit of drinking at home.

Mr. Mitchell sang another solo, the congregation joined in singing a hymn, and Rev. Dr. Lewis dismissed the audience with the benediction.

Sick Headache
Is a complaint from which many suffer and few are entirely free. Its cause is indigestion and a sluggish liver, the cure for which is readily found in the use of Ayer's Pills.
"I have found that for sick headache, caused by a disordered condition of the stomach, Ayer's Pills are the most reliable remedy."—Samuel C. Bradburn, Worthington, Mass.
"After the use of Ayer's Pills for many years, in my practice and family, I am justified in saying that they are an excellent cathartic and liver medicine—sustaining all the claims made for them."—W. A. Westfall, M. D., V. P. Austin & N. W. Railway Co., Burnet, Texas.
"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels, and for all diseases caused by a disordered stomach and liver. I suffered for over three years from headache, indigestion, and constipation. I had no appetite and was weak and nervous most of the time. By using three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured."—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kansas.
"I was troubled for years with indigestion, constipation, and headache. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, used in small daily doses, restored me to health. They are prompt and effective."—W. H. Strout, Meadville, Pa.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.
QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?
ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.
These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks
Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

THE BOSSES BREAK

Several Wharfingers Yield to the Strikers' Demands.

THE CONTEST NEARING THE END.

Employers Weakening and the Men Hopeful of Entire Success.

Leader Burns Says the Strike Will Be All Over by Tuesday—He Takes His First Day's Rest—The Strike a Great Blow to the Dock Companies—Australia Sends Another Large Contribution—Sympathy Not Wanted from America.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Five of the principal London wharfingers have agreed to the terms demanded by the strikers and work on their docks has began with a full force. Other wharfingers and many keepers are on the verge of a similar agreement and hundreds of men are surrounding each wharf in readiness to go to work when the employers shall reach their inevitable decision.

The Thames has a livelier appearance to-day than it has had for weeks past. The men who resume work will each contribute one day's pay to the strike fund for the benefit of those still idle.

Mr. Burns declares that the men have given the directors of the dock companies a crushing blow, between wind and water, from which they will not soon recover.

The striking dock laborers, through their managing committee, give notice that resolutions of sympathy, unaccompanied by cash, excite no enthusiasm amongst them. With considerable bitterness toward America and the Americans, they contrast the large sums subscribed for their cause in Australia and the empty resolutions of sympathy and brotherly love with which the Americans contented themselves.

Burns says that by Monday or Tuesday next the strike will be over, and the men at work all along the line. The cheers that greeted Burns at Tower Hill this morning were heartier than ever.

To-day John Burns has had his first rest for three weeks. During the first three days of the strike he made thirty-six speeches, and he has made not less than ten a day every day since. "And I am good for as many more for three weeks to come, if need be," he said.

Ten thousand pounds have been sent to the strikers from Australia.

Dock Companies Ask For Protection.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The dock companies have made another appeal to the police to protect the few men they have been able to engage against interference at the hands of the strikers, and the ship owners have again appealed to the men for permission to unload their vessels as best they may without molestation. In the latter case a curt refusal was given. It is estimated that 2,000 men are now working on the wharves.

The American Beauty Married.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Miss Jennie Chamberlain, second daughter of Mr. Chamberlain, of Cleveland, O., was married yesterday in St. George's Church, Hanover square, to Capt. Herbert Naylor Leyland. The bride wore white satin, with silver and pearl ornaments. Her sister Josephine was bridesmaid. The presents were numerous, and included a brooch in the shape of a horseshoe, studded with diamonds and pearls, to the bride, and a diamond ruby pin to the groom, from the Prince of Wales.

Boulanger Desires a Trial.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—General Boulanger has written to Premier Tirard claiming the right of a trial of the charges against him by a court martial. He writes that if such a trial is accorded him he will pledge himself to appear and answer the charges. If this is refused, he says, he will submit his case to the judgment of the people of France, expressed at the polls, and has perfect confidence in the result.

Failed to Oust the Manager.

DUBLIN, Sept. 6.—The attempt to oust Smith Barry from the management of the Ponsonby estate by refusing to pay rents, has failed, most of the tenants paying up on threats being made to sell their holdings by auction.

Sixty-two Men in a Burning Mine.

GLASGOW, Sept. 6.—The Maurice Wood Ironstone pit, at Midlothian, is on fire. Sixty-two miners are in the pit and the chance of saving them is very small. Two bodies have been removed and workmen are endeavoring to reach the others.

Mrs. Maybrick in a Solitary Cell.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Maybrick's health has so far improved that the physician at the working prison, where she is confined, has discharged her from the infirmary and she now occupies a solitary cell.

The Searle-O'Connor Race.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The final deposit for the race between the oarsmen Searle and O'Connor was made to-day. The betting is very lively and now stands 3 to 2 in favor of Searle.

Earthquake Shocks in France.

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Earthquake shocks were felt to-day in the western part of France. The shocks were most severe at Angiers and Nantes.

Changing the Date for the Convention.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 6.—The Democratic State Central Committee met yesterday and changed the date of the State Convention from Sept. 12 to Sept. 25. It was decided that in conducting the primary elections there should be three polling places in each ward instead of one as formerly.

Appointed By Governor Hill.

ALBANY, Sept. 6.—Governor Hill has appointed Hon. S. S. Taylor, of Elmira, County Judge of Chemung County, in place of Judge Seymour Dexter, resigned.

THE SUPECTS' TRIAL.

No Jury Will be Obtained Until the Peremptory Challenges are Exhausted.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—In the Cronin murder trial Judge McConnell decided that the experts of the defense might be allowed to examine specimens of the blood stains in the trunk, the Carlson cottage, the cotton batting and the towel found in the catch basin, if the State were represented by its experts at the same time.

It is now evident that no jury will be obtained in the Cronin trial until the defense has exhausted all their peremptory challenges. This may take months or more. The defendants are growing visibly depressed over the prejudice manifested against them. Of over a score of prominent business men examined yesterday every one said he believed them guilty.

The Hanley-Farrell Fight.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 6.—The Hanley-Farrell fight, which was to have taken place a week ago, but which was prevented by the Sheriff, was fought yesterday afternoon at Cheektowaga for a purse of $300, under Queensbury rules. Hanley weighed 134 and Farrell 136 pounds. There were but two rounds. In the second round Hanley caught Farrell under the left jaw and felled him senseless to the ground. The timekeeper allowed him 13 seconds, but he failed to respond to the call of time, and Hanley was declared the winner. The betting was 2 to 1 on Hanley.

Stabbed His Wife Five Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Last night G. Edward Johnson, a Sweedish carpenter, 57 years old, stabbed his wife five times with a shoe knife in the breast, near the heart, the woman dying almost instantly. Johnson made no attempt to escape. He has been partially insane for several months the result of a sunstroke, and labored under the hallucination that his wife was running about with other men.

An Explosion Causes a Panic.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 6.—While Thomas Donoihue was handling a lot of fulminate primers at the Winchester Arms Company's shops yesterday they exploded and badly gashed him about the head and breast and cut his left arm and hand. He is in a critical condition. There were 75 girls in the room at the time and they fled panic stricken from the building, but no one was hurt.

Jealousy Causes a Murder.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 6.—Sherman Caswell has been carrying on the farm of Williard Cutler since the latter's death, living in the house with Cutler's daughter. Yesterday she married one George Gould, and after the marriage Caswell, in a fit of jealousy, shot off Gould's lower jaw, and he died shortly after. Caswell was arrested.

Killed in a Drunken Carousal.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 6.—Six laborers of Braddock yesterday visited Beaver Falls, and going out into the woods engaged in a carousal with several kegs of beer. Last night five of the men were found dead drunk and the other one with a bullet hole through his heart. Officer were summoned but the men in the meantime made their escape.

Ironworkers Ask for More Wages.

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 6.—The ironworkers of the Shenango Valley held a meeting at that place and decided to ask for an increase in wages of 10 per cent., the increase to take effect by the middle of this month. Two furnaces have granted their request, and it is thought that the rest will comply.

Big Lumber Fire.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 6.—Fire last night in Laird, Norton & Co.'s lumber yards destroyed 22,000,000 feet of lumber, 7,000,000 shingles, a three-story brick warehouse and contents and other property. Loss, about $300,000; insurance, $178,500.

Platt to be Elected President.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—It is said to have been practically decided to elect ex-Senator Thos. C. Platt as president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company at the approaching meeting of the directors in Nashville.

The London Strike Affects Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Upward of 200 stevedores, longshoremen and freight-handlers are idle at Hoosac Dock on account of the great London strike, which detains three ships of the Furness line in London.

Dempsey Anxious to Fight Again.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 6.—Jack Dempsey, who arrived here to-day from San Francisco, expresses the greatest confidence in his ability to best the Marine, and says he is anxious for another fight with him.

Marshal Nagle's Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—In the trial of Deputy Marshal Nagle for the killing of ex-Judge Terry, more testimony was adduced showing that Terry habitually went armed and indulged in violent acts.

Big Haul of Seal Skins.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 6.—The sealers Vivi, Penelope and Adela, from Behring Sea, have arrived with 5,500 skins. They saw nothing of the United States revenue cutter Rusk.

Drowned at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 6.—Henry B. Weinberg, of Baltimore, while in bathing last evening, was caught in the undertow and carried out to sea. The body was not recovered.

Senator Blair to Speak.

Minister Phelps' Departure.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Hon William Walter Phelps, Minister to Germany, will leave for Berlin to-morrow.

AMONG THE SHIPPING.

Peculiar Sights to Be Seen Around the Chicago Docks.

How the Lumber-Shovers Earn Their Wages—The Hard Lot of Fresh-Water Sailors—Dock Rats, Both Animal and Human.

The docks of a great city offer strange and interesting sights and sounds and present a peculiar phase of life, says the Chicago Times. It has a class of people who not only work among them but who may be said to live there and become peculiar to the place. They seldom go away from the water-side day or night.

The other day I watched a barge from which the lumber was being taken by a gang of seventy-five men. It was a huge, broad boat with two masts, and carried 1,000,000 feet of lumber. The masts are used for sails which serve no other purpose except to steady the boat in a heavy sea as she is being towed.

It was curious to see how these seventy-five men were kept busy pulling that lumber out of the sides of the barge and piling it up on the docks or carrying it to waiting wagons to haul it away. I was sure that some kind of new-fangled machinery was used.

Looking in the hold aft only four men, in pairs, were seen. They were dressed in their underclothing and were trotting back and forth like a horse in a canter, taking seven planks at a time and shoving them out to the men on the docks and trotting back for others. They had to trot. They were expected to keep eight men busy taking that lumber out and putting it in piles to be taken up and carried farther away by eight other men. In reality these four men, with a like four in the bow, kept the seventy-five men on the docks busy. Did they falter in their trot they would be "docked" by the ever-vigilant time-keeper.

These workmen were of all nationalities, it seemed, from the conglomerate sounds made by their talk. There were Poles, Bohemians, Russians, Africans, Greeks, Scandinavians, and, I believe, Scythians, Elamites, Mesopotamians, Romans, friends and countrymen. Their wages ranged from one dollar to one dollar and fifty cents a day.

It was the hardest, fastest and hottest work I ever saw outside of a coal-stoking department of a steamship.

The cabin, or rather sleeping apartments for the whole crew, as captain, mate, boatswain, cook and men all sleep in one place, is veritably a place of contrasts. The bunks are like prison bunks in Russia, and are small, close and dirty. The bedding looks as though it would have to be tied down to keep it from walking overboard. The doors and windows are kept shut tight—probably to keep the blankets from going ashore for fresh air.

But in contrast to this the "galley" is very clean. The pots and pans are bright and inviting and the floor as clean as the deck of a revenue cutter. The cook is an all-round man, too. He is one of the trotters I saw in the hold, but is relieved an hour or two before each meal-time so as to prepare dinner or supper. He must "turn out" early enough to get breakfast for the others. For this he gets a few cents more per day than the others and is happy. None of them seem to mind work, and are joking, laughing and singing all the time. I no longer wonder that so many Russians live through a Siberian exile.

As if to match the Babel mixture of people who live on the docks every class and rig of boat and water craft is seen.

"Chuff, chuff, chuff, chuff, chung, chung, chung, chung," and a tug goes skimming by dragging a little "cat-boat," as the fresh water "salts" contemptuously call those little mosquito-fleet vessels which ply around the edges of the lake. Then one will go puffing and wheezing and laboring down the river, leaving a stench behind and above and around her as she pulls a big steamer out, whistling like all possessed two blocks before she gets to a bridge, so as to have it opened long enough before she gets to it to set a thousand people swearing. The old proverb which says "Never cross a bridge till you get to it" should be made to apply to tugs and vessels not trying to go through a bridge on the Chicago river till they get to it. These little tugs are made up of one part boat, one part smoke-stack, one part ropes, three parts puff, and ninety-four parts of engine and screw. They can pull any thing, it seems. At least they pull any thing which can be floated in the water.

When night comes all is changed. The noise and roar and bustle cease. All is darkness, save where the faint flicker of a street-lamp here and there sends its fitful glare over the piles of goods and stones and behind warehouses and lumber piles. The hundreds of boats lying along the docks for miles and miles up the river become dark, shadowy outlines, looming against the star-lit heavens, but not a glimmer of reflection comes back from the bosom of the murky, frothing, slimy waters. It seems to swallow up the images of all that should be reflected from its bosom, just as it swallows up every thing of life which falls into it.

The rats come out by thousands and fight and feed and squeak as they swarm about in and over and on every thing. And those two-legged dock rats, who infest every city, come out and glide along on their nocturnal mission of crime and murder, and to carry out the dark purposes of their lives. The night history of the docks of a large city would reveal many a crime planned and carried out. It is the very region for such work.

A Patriarchal Land Turtle.

A merchant named Leon Santelli, residing at Carupano, Venezuela, has in his possession a giant tortoise. It is called the "morrocy" by the natives there. The phenomenon weighs sixty-five pounds and is over a hundred years old. Ordinarily this species do not weigh more than seven to eight pounds. Its shell is a dense mass of laminated plates and the little children of the owner ride about on it. When it eats any thing it shows a preference for bananas or leaves of any sort, but it is not particular, and can beat George Francis Train fasting and give him three months start. A proposal was made to Mr. Santelli to send this "ancient" to the Paris exposition, but this was declined.

His Own Grandfather.

Medical Classics tells of a case where a fellow got to be his own grandfather. It says: There was a widow and her daughter-in-law and a man and his son. The widow married the son, and the daughter married "the old man." The widow was, therefore, mother to her husband's father, and consequently grandmother to her own husband. They had a son, to whom she was great-grandmother. Now, as the son of a great-grandmother must be either a grandfather or a great-uncle, this boy was one or the other. He was his own grandfather.

He Was Ready to Repent.

Wife—"Why, John, you don't mean to say that you swore, do you? Then I want you to repent of it, darling, and never do so again." Husband—"I have repented, wife, and I'll never do so again. You see, I swore off from drinking."

FERDINAND WARD

Setting Type at Sing Sing and Kicking a Gordon Press.

Ferdinand Ward has changed more, perhaps, than any of the other prisoners who are in what is generally known as the "distinguished" class, says the New York Press. The gold-rimmed glasses he wears are the only remnants of his former self.

He looks healthy and his eye is bright, but he is not the dashing young banker who once was so petted in circles exclusive. His air is subdued, and his eyes very rarely meet those of a visitor.

He is the printer of the prison, and a very excellent one, too. In his younger years he learned the art, and the State has utilized it to its advantage. He is an actual saving to the institution, and as he has a little office well fitted up all to himself, he appears to be about as content as a man can be who is lifted out of a world of giddy excitement and thrown, himself a criminal, into a prison filled with baser men.

He enjoys no privileges of any nature, and it is simply the fact that he has learned a trade in his youth that now keeps him aloof from "the gangs" who do menial labor. He had both coat and waistcoat off when the reporter entered.

"Oh, yes," he said, with a smile, in an answer to a query of Mr. Connaughton as to whether or not he was busy. "I am rather busy. This bill of Senator Fassett's regulating the labor and the reports has caused us to get out new forms, and I'm busy." He said this as he set away at his case engrossed in his work.

The walls of his little printing office he has covered with pictures clipped from the periodicals of the day. Strangely enough, too, most of these pictures represent scenes of home and of childhood, and odd they look.

With the crime of Ward every body is familiar. Its perpetrator is paying his debt to society as best he can. He occupies a cell flanked on either side by the common thieves; wakes up with the rest of the prisoners at 6:15 every morning, has breakfast, and then goes off to his work. He is back to his cell at 5.45 in the evening, and spends most of his time from that until lights are out at nine o'clock in the evening reading. He has a fondness for works of a scientific nature.

He has but few visitors, but the carpet that protects his feet from the cold stone floor, and the hair mattress on which he sleeps, tell of the thoughtfulness of some who remained faithful to him after his downfall.

These luxuries are permitted prisoners when supplied them by friends. Ward has never been known to speak to a fellow convict, except to answer a message sent through one from the officials of the prison. He seemed pleased when the chief keeper complimented him on some work he had done, but merely bowed his acknowledgment.

Ward's sentence dates back from October 31, 1885, and, in the natural course of events, would not expire until 1895, but he has regularly earned his commutation for good conduct, and, should his high standing continue, he will have only two and a half years more to serve.

STRANGE AFFLICTION.

How the Accidental Swallowing of a Reptile Affects a Young Man.

One of the most remarkable cases with which the medical men of Southern Illinois have had to contend is that of Everett Terry, a fourteen-year-old son of Farmer Terry, of Grove township, Sullivan County, says a letter from Vincennes, Ind. Recently the youth, with a number of companions, went bathing in the Embarrass river. Terry prided himself on his diving abilities. After making a long dive he told his companions that while under water he had swallowed something. He soon became deathly sick, went home and took to his bed. Several days later he was seized with convulsions of the most violent nature, and his sickness took the most peculiar phase. Dr. Maxwell was summoned and was puzzled with the condition of the patient.

Between the hours of five and seven in the morning Everett is able to take medicine. After that time his stomach will retain neither liquids nor solids until four o'clock in the evening, when he seems to crave for food, and partakes of milk, meat and soup with apparent relish. Thirty minutes after eating the patient is attacked with smothering spells. He smacks his jaws, winks his eyes with lightning rapidity and then becomes unconscious. Convulsions become more intense, and finally he grows so violent that it requires the combined strength of three men to hold the patient on a pallet. These fits continue until about nine o'clock, when he gradually grows calmer, eventually dozes off to sleep and slumbers until daylight. His spasms are of several varieties, namely, cataleptic, epileptic and tetanic.

In his convulsions he imitates the voices of animals and birds, the whistle of a locomotive and many other sounds. For four days he was denied food of any kind. On the third day of his starvation the head of a reptile of some kind was seen in his throat, but all efforts to secure it were fruitless. The doctors disagree as to the nature of the case and cause of disease. Some aver it is a disorganization of the nervous system, while others claim that the boy swallowed a serpent, lizard or frog. Despite all theories advanced the mystery is as far from solution as it was a month ago.

ROMANTIC COURTSHIP.

A Story for School-Girls and Sentimental Young Men.

A few weeks ago a girl, whom we will say lived in Troy, was married there under circumstances which the Albany Express considers rather romantic for this prosaic age. She was traveling in Germany, studying art, and whatever else pleased her fancy, when she lighted upon Heidelberg. One day she was sitting in the cathedral there, copying a picture, when a handsome young man strolled leisurely by, and looked so hard at the Troy girl that he could almost be accused of staring. After about an hour he came back, and in passing the young woman went so close that he accidentally knocked down an umbrella which was leaning against her camp stool. He picked it up, and also several scraps and sketches which had fallen to the floor from her portfolio. After profuse apologies for his awkwardness, he complimented the maiden on the excellence of her copy and respectfully expressed the hope that he might see the work when it was done. This was the end of act one.

The next day the girl was sitting, as before, at her pleasant task; and at about the same hour the young man passed, deferentially lifting his hat. The following day he managed to make the acquaintance of the friends with whom she was staying, and thus he procured an introduction to her. He proved to be a young Englishman, well to do, and of good family. It was a case of love at first sight with both of them, for, within three weeks they were engaged to be married.

After the girl had finished her studies she returned to her home in Troy. A year later the young Englishman came over here with his father to claim his bride. There was a quiet wedding, a short bridal trip through Canada and the States, and now the girl is mistress of a home in London.

Chicago Raising the Money.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—The $5,000,000 which the Finance Committee of the World's Exposition Company have called on the Chicago public is easily in sight, and the chances are good for as much more. As yet very few of the subscription books have been turned into headquarters, but the reports from those that are out are so encouraging that the Finance Committee are greatly pleased.

Bush Pleads Not Guilty.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 6.—In the Police Court George Bush pleaded not guilty to a charge of engaging in a prize-fight with Henry Watson at Salem, N. H., on August 24, waived examination and was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury. The punishment for the offence charged may be $1,000 fine or one year in the penitentiary, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

Depot at Clifton, N. J. Burned Down.

CLIFTON, N. J., Sept. 6.—The depot here of the N. Y. L. E. & W. Railroad was entirely destroyed by a fire yesterday, and is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. This is the fifth incendiary fire in this place in the last six months.

Illinois Miners Troubles Still Unsettled.

STREATOR, Ill., Sept. 6.—The great body of coal miners in Streator have not yet recommenced labor in the mines. They are satisfied with the award of 72½ cents per ton, but there are a number of local grievances which they desire settled before going to work.

Younger at the Point of Death.

STILLWATER, Minn., Sept. 6.— Bob Younger, the Missouri outlaw, who is in jail here, is rapidly sinking. He is liable to die at any moment from heart failure, though he may linger along for some time yet.

A Mighty Lucky Man.

If any sea captain has had a more uneventful and successful life than Captain Nathaniel H. Falker, of Biddeford, Me., let him say so. Captain Falker, who the other day sold his last vessel, the schooner Messenger, and retired from business, was born sixty-nine years ago. When nine years old he went to sea, and has followed it steadily ever since. During forty of the sixty years he has been a captain. In these forty years he never lost a man, never had a man die at sea, never lost a spar or a sail and never called upon the underwriters for a cent of insurance money.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Two Hundred Persons Killed in an Antwerp Factory.

THE ENTIRE CITY IN PERIL.

The Shipping at the American Docks Seriously Endangered.

Eighty Thousand Barrels of Petroleum and Several Ships on Fire—The Flames Communicate to the Bourse and Cause a Panic Among the Members—The Property Loss Will Reach Into the Millions.

ANTWERP, Sept. 7.—A large quantity of dynamite exploded in a cartridge factory here to-day, demolishing that portion of the building in which the explosives were kept.

The factory was located in the vicinity of the Bourse, which at the time of the explosion was crowded. Burning fragments of the factory were hurled against the Bourse, setting it on fire and creating a panic among the members, several of whom were injured.

The number of killed is estimated at 200, and of the injured at 500. The damage to property will reach many millions. The fire is still burning fiercely and the heat from the burning masses of petroleum is intense, and it is impossible to approach within a hundred yards. Several vessels have been burned at their docks, and others were only saved through the promptest action of their officers in towing them out of danger.

The explosion occurred in a workshop where a large number of old cartridges were being taken to pieces. Manymen and women were employed in the shop, and they were actively engaged in breaking up the old cartridges. There were fully twenty-five million of these in and about the premises, a part of them already broken up.

The flames covered two acres of ground and rose to an immense height. Amidst the fierce roar of the flames were heard from time to time the loud reports of explosions. These explosions were of packages of cartridges stored in the buildings which seemed to remain intact until the hot tongues of flame were actually upon them.

FIFTY DEAD TAKEN OUT.

Recovering Bodies at the Maurice Wood Colliery.

EDINBURG, Sept. 7.—Fifty dead bodies have been taken from the Maurice Wood colliery at Penicuick, in which an explosion occurred yesterday.

Several more bodies are known to be still in the mine.

The scenes around the mine to-day, when the bodies were brought up, were heartrending in the extreme. Women, children and men who had relatives and friends in the mine, were wringing their hands and mourning it a manner to bring tears to the eyes of many a hard hearted man.

A Woman Blinds a Doctor With Vitrol.

BOURBON, Ind., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Myers, the wife of a blacksmith, last night threw vitrol in the face of Dr. T. F. Linn, a prominent physician, destroying his sight. Her brother then assaulted the doctor, giving him a terrible whipping. It is charged that the doctor took advantage of a professional call to betray the woman. Her husband, finding it out, concocted with his brother-in-law the plot to punish the doctor. The husband left town and the wife invited the doctor to the house. When he arrived the assault was made. No arrests have been made.

Brigadier-Gen. Wm. Truax Dead.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 7.—Brigadier-General William S. Truax died at his home on Cooper street last night after a lingering illness. He was 71 years of age. Gen. Truax was mustered into service as a major in 1861. He was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel in the 10th regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, in March 1862 and was made Colonel in July of the same year. For meritorious conduct on the field he was made a brevet Brigadier General April 2., 1865. He had become very poor and lately a bill was passed in the Legislature appropriating $500 for his benefit.

A Paterson Physician Arrested.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 7.—Dr. Randolph Noelte, a prominent physician of this city, who is proprietor of a drug store at Market and Prospect streets, was arrested here yesterday charged with criminally assaulting two girls 7 and 8 years old. They were sent to the drug store for medicine, and while there they claim that the doctor dragged them into a private room, where the assault was committed. Katie Gunther, one of the girls, was terribly abused. The doctor protests his innocence. He was held for examination in $1,000 bail.

Another Boston Failure.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Another treasurer is missing, and another business failure swells Boston's large list of assignments. This time Denison D. Dana, treasurer of the Douglass Axe Manufacturing Company, has mysteriously absented himself, and the company by his irregularities has been forced into insolvency. Its affairs, so it is believed, are in a hopeless state, and have been placed in the hands of Lawyer Manfield Storey.

NAGLE TESTIFIES.

He Says Terry Looked Like a Man Crazy With Anger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Deputy Nagle testified in the habeas corpus proceedings that Terry struck Justice Field twice, once on the face with his right hand, and then on the back of his head with his left.

Nagle threw out his hand to keep Terry off and shouted, "Stop that, I am a United States officer!" Terry then turned his attention to Nagle. His hand was raised for another blow, while he glared angrily at Nagle. Then he moved his hand toward his bosom, and Nagle, believing his life in danger, fired twice. Terry falling. Nagle said Terry looked like a man crazy with anger. Nagle knew he always carried a knife.

This concluded the testimony. The question of jurisdiction will be argued Wednesday.

Sullivan in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—John L. Sullivan and his brother Mike arrived here this morning for the Academy of Music reception to-night. The managers have got out one of the most gorgeous lithographs that New York has ever seen. John L. is represented in evening dress with an opera hat held carelessly, a fob chain and silk braid shoestrings. The diamond belt, and flowers and plants in pots are lithographed all around the champion.

Grocer Barry's Heavy Fine.

ANSONIA, Conn., Sept. 7.—The case of John Barry, grocer, who assaulted State Dairy Commissioner J. B. Totem in his store several weeks ago, was tried before Judge Munger in the Police Court to-day. Judge Munger found Barry guilty of refusing to sell butter, and fined him the full extent of the law, $100 and costs, and $15 and costs for the assault. Barry appealed.

To-Day's Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—All the members of the Cabinet were present at to-day's meeting except Mr. Blaine. The advisability of calling an extra session of Congress is understood to be the leading topic, and with that subject is bound up the question of what recommendations shall be made to Congress—in other words, what policy the Executive will submit to the legislative branch of the Government.

Rescued from a Band of Gypsies.

KINGSLAND, N. J., Sept. 7.—Alice Lawrence, the eight-year-old foster daughter of Henry Lawrence, of this place, who was kidnapped by a band of gypsies three weeks ago, is now with relatives at Paterson, and will be brought to Kingsland to-day. Through the influence of toys and sweetmeats the child had been induced to accompany the band.

The Knights Templar Conclave.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The chairman of the Knights Templar Conclave Committee, Mr. Parker, called on the secretary of War this morning and asked that permission be given to erect observation stands on public reservations along the route of the parade. This is what is done on Inauguration Day. The Secretary took the matter under advisement.

Aged 101, and Still Lively.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 7.—Last evening the 101st anniversary of the birthday of Sarah Van Nostrand was celebrated at her home at Milestone, Somerset county, by her relatives and friends. She has the full use of all her faculties, and takes a lively interest in affairs.

Next Year's Granger Picnic.

MECHANICSBURG, Pa., Sept. 7.—The 17th annual Grangers' Interstate Picnic Exhibition of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia will be held at Williams' Grove, Cumberland County, Pa., beginning August 24, 1890, and continuing for six days.

Ex-Senator Platt a Railroad President.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 7.—Ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York was elected president of the Tennessee Coal Iron and Railroad Company, at a meeting of the directors in this city yesterday, to fill the place made vacant by the death of Hon. John C. Brown.

Hon. William Lowell Dead.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 7.—The Hon. William Lowell, formerly of Minot, died at Auburn last night, aged 68. He had served in both Houses of the Legislature and figured largely in the combination leading to the organization of the Republican party.

The Duel May be Fought To-day.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 7.—It is believed here that the two legislators, W. A. Huff and R. W. Patterson, will meet on the duelling field near Opedika, Ala., to-day. Patterson has been in Tennessee for two days. Huff and two seconds left here last night.

Man and Wife Drowned.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. John Gunning of No. 1442 Decatur street, were drowned last night in the Middle Branch. They were boating and the boat upset.

The Conley-Cardiff Fight Off.

HURLEY, Wis., Sept. 7.—The Conley-Cardiff fight has been declared off on account of the orders from the Governor to the Sheriff to stop it.

HAMILTON'S SHAME

Robert Ray Tells His Story in a Police Court.

HE LAVISHED MONEY ON EVA.

The Unhappy Man Told the Tale of His Miserable Folly.

He Makes an Affidavit of Extortion and Tells How He Was Induced to Marry the Woman Who Has Caused His Trouble. Inspector Byrnes on the Stand—Mrs. Hamilton Writes a Letter and Claims She Was a Victim.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Robert Ray Hamilton, Mrs. Swinton, Josh Mann, Inspector Byrnes and two or three midwives were present in the Tombs Police Court, together with a large crowd of spectators, when the Hamilton blackmail case came up.

Mr. Hamilton made an affidavit charging extortion, and describing how he had met "Eva" in a house in this city, how she had worked on his sympathies, how he had given her larger and larger sums, how she had finally written him from Elmira that she was about to become a mother, how the babe was afterward exhibited to him for his admiration, and how he was then induced to marry the woman.

Counsel for Mrs. Swinton and Mann examined Hamilton and brought out the fact that any sums he had given them were voluntarily and cheerfully given.

Inspector Byrnes testified to the way the baby was procured, and to Mann's relations with Eva. A letter from Mrs. Hamilton to Inspector Byrnes was produced, in which Mrs. Hamilton offers to tell the whole story if Hamilton will come to her. She says she was more sinned against than sinning, and conveys the idea that Mrs. Swinton and Mann used her as a catspaw.

The specific charge made by Hamilton is that Mrs. Swinton, Joshua Mann and Eva Mann, by falsely representing that Hamilton was the father of the child, obtained from him a check for $500.

Assault on Her Brother.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 7.—A dispatch from Tunkhannock says that Mrs. Hamilton, now in jail at Atlantic City for assault, is under bail in Wyoming County for an assault upon her brother, Mr. Steele, at Laceyville, last fall while visiting there in company with Josh Mann.

Trouble in the Synod.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 7.—At the afternoon session of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New Jersey, there was an exciting discussion regarding certain passages in the liturgy, the Lord's prayer and the Lord's supper. Rev. A. C. Wedekind began an impassioned address disapproving of the action of the General Synod in the matter, but was not allowed to proceed. Considerable feeling was manifested. A charge against Rev. W. J. Jaeger, of the Hartford Church, for indiscretion and giving just cause for criticism was acknowledged by the accused clergyman, who was admonished and recommended to reconcile himself with the people.

Important Matters Before the K. of L.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—General Master Workman Powderly announces that the General Executive Board of the K. of L. will meet in St. Louis, Sept. 30th and continue in session several days. Important questions affecting the Knights in the entire Southwest, embracing Missouri, Kansas, Indian Territory, Arkansas and Texas, will be considered.

Irishmen Honor Gov. Thayer.

MILFORD, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Emmet Association of Milford will next Monday evening tender a reception to Governor Thayer of Nebraska in recognition of his defence of Hon. Patrick Egan.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—About $500 of the borough taxes for 1888 are yet in arrears.

—During daylight and dark last evening the thermometer dropped fourteen degrees.

—The usual out-door meeting will be held in the grove on Grove street, to-morrow afternoon.

—The second annual excursion of the Reform Club to Mauch Chunk will occur on the 11th instant.

—The officers of the Children's Home met on Thursday afternoon and transacted routine business.

—The ordinance of baptism will be administered in Green Brook at Washington avenue bridge, to-morrow afternoon at five o'clock.

—There will be a peach and iced cream festival at the Washingtonville school house, next Tuesday, for the benefit of the chapel fund.

—The usual meeting of the Reform Club will take place to-morrow evening. Competent speakers will be present and deliver addresses.

—The humidity in the Borough Council chamber last evening, was stifling, and the Council could wisely expend a few cents for palm leaf fans.

—The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U., will take place on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Officers will be elected and other business transacted.

—Mr. John Leal will lead the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The devotional committee will meet at 9 o'clock.

—What's the matter with our Street Commissioner? School begins Monday morning, yet the way under the Richmond street bridge is not fit for anyone to pass over.

—Mr. Edward Love will next week remove his wall paper designing establishment from the corner of Park and North avenues to his new building at North avenue and Peace street.

—A row of handsome brick apartment houses with stores below, will be erected on Somerset street from No. 31 to the corner of Craig place, by Mr. Alex Thorn, the owner of the property. Work commenced today.

—The Press was in error yesterday in implying that all could be accommodated at the W. C. T. U. bible readings. A series are being given at private houses, but the size of the parlors make it necessary to limit the attendance to those who have cards of invitation.

To Scotch Plains People.

It was stated in Thursday's Press that on Monday last Mr. Wm. Hazell, Frank Roulstone, Miss Edith Randolph, Miss Bertha Corey, Miss Lida Mooney, Miss Mabel Mooney, Mrs. Mooney and Jim Guttbridge's Ben went in a party to Boynton Beach.

There is a slight mistake in this. All the persons named above did go to Boynton Beach that day, but they did not go in one party. Mr. Hazell and Mr. Roulston went off early in the morning; Jim Guttridge's Ben drove over with a couple of friends; and Miss Randolph and the rest made up a party in a private stage. The latter was an entirely distinct party and had no connection with either of the other parties.

Excitement on Broadway.

The police were summoned to a house on Broadway, late on Thursday evening, to eject a middle-aged man, who with his wife had engaged board there on that day. When the officers arrived at the house they found both the man and woman very much under the influence of liquor. The man who gave his name as J. B. Fortin, and said that he travelled for a large New York house, was locked up. He said the whole trouble was caused by his wife, who is an habitual drinker. Yesterday morning the prisoner was released, and later in the day the couple boarded a train for New York.

Matrimonial.

(From the Somerville Messenger:)

Thursday evening George L. Henry and Miss Lucy J. Hendricks (colored), both of Plainfield, were united in matrimony at the house of the groom's brother, Daniel Henry, on Second street, Rev. B. F. Wheeler officiating. Only a few intimate friends were invited. After abundant refreshments were served the newly-wedded pair took the cars for Plainfield.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Dr. D. G. Atwood has gone to Boston for a week.

Mrs. James Aughitten is at the "Silverdeen," Asbury Park.

Mr. Chas. J. Noel is confined to his home at Netherwood, by sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sandford of West Seventh street, started today for a month's outing in the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. S. H. Jacobus and family of East Front street, have returned from the Adirondacks.

Miss Tillie Alexander of West Fourth street has returned from Waverly, N. Y., where she has been Summering.

Mrs. Chas. Sandford and family of Washington Park, North Plainfield, have returned from the coast of Maine.

Miss Grace Howard, daughter of Mr. Louis Howard of East Ninth street, is expected back from Paris on October 1.

Miss Lizzie Loftus of Poughkeepsie, is spending a fortnight with her friend, Miss Norah Conway, of No. 72 West Third street.

Mrs. J. T. Ellis will be present at the meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms, this evening, at 7.45 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

The aged wife of Wm. H. Lyon died suddenly this morning, in her 66th year. The funeral services will be held at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. A. C. Vail, Eighth street and Madison avenue.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Wigger of the Newark Diocese, will administer the rite of confirmation in St. Mary's church to-morrow morning at 10.30. In the evening Dr. Kennedy of Philadelphia, will preach.

Mr. George Thatcher has refused an offer of an equal partnership with Dockstader, and declined a salary of $400 a week with Haverly's minstrels. The reason is that Messrs Rich & Harris, owners of the Hollis Street Theatre and Howard Atheneum, Boston, give him a much larger figure to go with their specialty company this season, and will next year equip and back the "George Thatcher Minstrels" with a quarter of a million dollars.

Democratic Primaries.

The Third and Fourth Ward Democratic primaries were held last evening and resulted as follows:

Third Ward—Chairman, Levi Kline; Secretary, M. R. Flynn; Delegate to Convention, Levi Kline; Alternate, Jas. Clark; Member County Executive Committee, August Saltzman.

Fourth Ward—Chairman, V. L. Frazee; Secretary, W. H. Warner; Inspector of Election, M. Fields; Delegate to Convention, E. D. Moffett; Alternate, M. R. Flynn; Member County Executive Committee, V. L. Frazee.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Democrats of the City of Plainfield, in primaries assembled, do hereby pledge anew their fidelity to the principles of the Democratic party, and promise earnest and hearty endeavor to aid and advance the election of the candidates of that time-honored organization. We respectfully ask the toiling masses of our fellow citizens to compare the general business depression and universal reduction of wages with the specious and blatant promises made by the Republican leaders of the blessings to follow the success of the Republican candidates in the late contest.

Resolved, That we as one man proclaim that the contest shall be renewed on the line of battle fought in the last campaign, and that the slogan shall go forth, Tariff Reform.

Resolved, That we take no step backward, but still look upward and onward to assured success, knowing that we have been only defeated through unholy alliances and damnable schemes, whereby voters were marshaled in blocks of five as slaves under the lash of the master.

On the Warpath From Netherwood to Washington.

Wednesday's Press told of the presence in this city for the Summer of Gen. Jos. C. Jackson, but that very evening he said good bye to his family and started for Washington, mad clear through.

He went filled with a grim determination of having a plain talk with some one connected with the Administration. He is going to try and find out why Edward Mitchell was selected for District-Attorney of New York in preference to himself. Jackson had a petition that would reach all the way from the Battery to Central Park, and it was signed by thousands of prominent citizens, including most of the leading politicians. It is said that no man was ever so thoroughly indorsed for an office before and Gen. Jackson was sanguine of getting the appointment.

He says that both Platt and Hiscock assured him that they were for him and that Mr. Evarts was among his first supporters. He does not understand how Mitchell got the appointment unless there was treachery somewhere. He will try and learn the truth of the case in Washington. His slogan is "no guilty man shall escape." Gen. Jackson was Grand Marshal of the Blaine parade last Summer, and his defeat may be another blow at the Blaine influence.

But "Nothing in Particular" Has Won Twice.

(From the Somerville Gazette.)

On Saturday last the West End Club played the third game of the series with the Crescents at Plainfield. A most disgusting exhibition resulted, both sides playing as loosely as can be imagined. The Somerville people in attendance enjoyed the spectacle of a team of gilt edged players, selected for their peculiar fitness to play certain positions, being beaten by a team of nothing in particular.

RAINBOW BAZAAR.

The Novel Fair at the Crescent, and Its Novel Features.

The Rainbow Bazaar at The Crescent finished its first day last night. Of course there are no reliable figures yet as to the amount taken in.

The building was very handsomely decorated. As one entered he saw all through the room prettily arranged tables covered with the usual articles to be found at church fairs. Above all these were hangings and banner decorations, the whole making a pleasing and brilliant effect. Nearly all those who took part were from Scotch Plains, a few, however, coming from Elizabeth. The waitresses were arrayed in very pretty costumes; among those who acted in this capacity were Miss Maud Kyte, Miss Ella Frentz, Miss Edith Randolph, Miss Lillie Nicholl, Miss Blanche Sayre and a number of others. Miss Emily Moore and Miss Pence attended at the perfumery table. Here were some magnificent specimens of grapes raised in Mr. Moore's own grapery. Miss Smith, of Fanwood, had a table with a unique thing on it. This was called "Literary Salad," and was made of green and white tissue paper, arranged in such a way as to give it the appearance of an immense salad. The literary part consisted of slips of paper attached to the bottom of each leaf, and on these were written familiar quotations. Whoever drew out one of these leaves was required to give the source of the quotation found thereon. If successful he was entitled to a little badge consisting of a ribbon inscribed with the words "Literary Salad." There was great fun at this table. Judge Kyte drew "All men are created equal." "Prevarication is the thief of time" went unguessed by several who drew that ancient saw.

Mrs. George Bates was in charge of a table devoted to pitchers, vases and ornaments.

Mrs. David A. Sayre and her sister-in-law, Miss Sayre of Brooklyn, had a table of brushes—brushes of all kinds, from a tooth brush to one for blacking boots.

Mrs. Edward Cutler, of Newton Centre, Mass., and Mrs. Deforest Thomae, had a very prettily arranged table covered with divers specimens of that all embracing genus called fancy things.

Two young ladies from Elizabeth had charge of the candy table, which seemed to be a centre of attraction during the evening.

Miss Carter sat enshrined in a bower, from whence she dispensed flowers in profusion.

Miss Pence was attired in a costume that attracted considerable attention. It was odd to a degree, being made to represent a bottle.

Miss Jackson of Brooklyn, and a friend, had a table for cloth, where you could obtain anything from an apron to a curtain.

Mrs. T. J. Nicholl and Mrs. Tappan Townsend were in charge of a very pretty table.

There was a gypsy tent, and very dark and mysterious it looked within. Deep, deep within its innermost recess, you might, if you had sufficient courage to penetrate the Egyptian darkness, have your fortune told. Mrs. McKewan guarded this awful place.

The soda fountain from Randolph's was kept busy all the evening.

Mrs. Samuel Ball furnished the waitresses with iced cream.

Mrs. A. P. Downer acted as cashier, and Mrs. Richardson assisted nearby.

A real, live phonograph was exhibited. This excited continued interest all the evening, and there was hardly a time when the five chairs around it were unoccupied. Five persons listened to the machine at once, sitting with the little tubes tight in their ears. A cornet solo was reproduced to the ears of more than a hundred delighted and astonished auditors.

The most successful table, financially speaking, may have been that of Mrs. George Moore, who had charge of the cakes. All the cakes had been given her so there was no expense.

If there was a prize for the prettiest table or the prettiest costume of the proprietors, it should go to the Japanese booth. Mrs. Cottrell, Mrs. Robert Thomae and Miss Ellen Cottrell were arrayed in Japanese costume, and the illusion being carried out even to artificial almonds on the eyes, the effect was startlingly realistic.

Among others who also assisted were Miss Tuzo, Mr. Louis E. Tuzo, Paul B. Tuzo, Mrs. Clarence Smith, Mr. Pence and Mr. Harry Kyte.

A number of Scotch Plains people were on hand, among them being Mr. David A. Sayre, Mr. Walter S. Force, Walter S. Force, Jr, Miss Gertrude Rhinehart, Mrs. George Marsh, Mr. Clarence Smith and Judge Kyte.

The attendance yesterday was on the whole very light, and it is hoped that more will turn out today.

A Lawn Party to Her Class.

Miss Rachael Mair tendered the young ladies of her Sunday school class, a lawn party at her home on Linden avenue, yesterday afternoon. All enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Those present were: Miss Wally Taynor, Miss Jennie Taynor, Miss Sarah Taynor, Miss Susan Sowden, Miss Millie Linsey, Miss Ida Marix, Miss Ella Marix, Miss Annie Angerbauer.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening, with Mayor Cooley in the chair. All the other members were present except Mr. Bettman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and Mrs. D. Jones was granted a scavenger's license. The Collector reported as follows on the taxes collected for 1888, since June 7, of the present year:

Borough	$12.51
Lights	36.14
Roads	25.02
Fire Department	6.95
Board of Health	2.78
Total	$83.40

A communication was received from property owners along the line of Willow avenue, agreeing to contribute $800 toward macadamizing said avenue, provided the work was done this Fall. Referred to the Street Committee.

Claims were presented, referred and ordered paid as follows: P. Kelleher, $3: H. H. Wilson, $5 and $3; S. Taynor, $2; J. M. VanFleet, $1.30; James Hardy, sundry claims amounting to $76.93; I. Brokaw, $11.40; T. McDonald, $37.50; N. Y. and N. J., Globe Gaslight Co., $269.30; W. M. Pangborn, $5; L. Courad, $7.05.

The report of Chief Martin of the Fire Department, called attention to the necessity of a new fire alarm system, and stated that the department apparatus was in good working order. The report was filed.

The License and Marshal Committee reported that certain repairs had been made to the borough lockup.

Mr. Smalley, from the Street Committee, reported that stone had been spread on Green Brook road for a distance of about 300 feet, and covered with gravel; the washouts at West End and Rock avenues have been filled in; the pay roll during the month amounted to $156.63, and about $100 more would be required to make necessary repairs.

Mr. McGee offered a resolution which prevailed, authorizing the mayor and clerk to borrow $1,000 for street lighting purposes.

Some discussion followed on the subject of cleaning out the gutters on Willow avenue, and as to what disposition had been made of the dirt.

Mr. McGee said he would like to know whether or not the Street Committee and Council favored the Willow avenue petition.

Mr. Smalley asked to have the matter settled without his vote. A lengthy discussion followed in which all the members took part.

At the suggestion of the petitioners Mr. McGee offered a resolution authorizing the property owners along the line of said avenue to proceed with the work of macadamizing that thoroughfare sixteen feet in width and four inches deep, said work to be under the supervision of the Street Committee and Street Commissioner, and in consideration for the same, the Council will complete the work during the coming Spring. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

A resolution by Mr. Smalley authorizing the negotiation for a loan of $200 for street work was adopted.

Council then adjourned.

ALL FORGIVEN.

The Resignation of President French Not Accepted.

There was a good attendance in Reform Hall, Thursday evening last. The meeting opened with the customary devotional services. Vice President Harper presided, and Mr. Vanderbeek's full choir, with the exception of Miss Alice Smith, unavoidably absent, were at their posts of duty. Mr. Wheeler kindly officiated in Miss Smith's place as organist.

It being the regular monthly meeting of the Club, Mr. H. N. Spencer was selected to act as Secretary pro tem. After the transaction of sundry routine business, the resignation of John H. French as President was taken up, and a motion made that it be not accepted. To that Mr. Lamphear moved as an amendment that it be again laid upon the table, and gave at length his reasons therefore. The amendment was lost, and the question then recurring upon the original motion to not accept, it was, after free discussion, so decided by a unanimous rising vote in the affirmative, no one rising to vote nay.

Remarks were made by Messrs Angleman, Vanderbeek, Spencer, Lamphear, Bauersachs, Spicer, Goodwin, Boice and Harper, the prevailing sentiment being that Mr. French having promptly and honorably acknowledged his fault, and publicly reaffirmed fidelity to the pledge and the cause of temperance reform, he was fully eligible to continue the executive position he has so long and faithfully filled, and besides, it remained a cardinal principle of the Reform Club to lift up and cheerfully encourage, in lieu of casting down and forsaking.

The meeting with great pleasure heard Miss Ferris in recitation, and in the name of the Reform Club of Plainfield gave a hearty vote of thanks for the several acceptable favors rendered by her.

North Plainfield Democratic Primary.

At the Democratic primary in North Plainfield, last evening, to elect delegates to the Gubernatorial Convention to be held at Trenton, Tuesday, Sept. 10th. inst., the following officers were elected: David J. Carney, Chairman; E. C. Morse, Secretary; John H. Jackson and John H. Carney, Delegates to Convention. The delegates were given power to fill vacancies and upon motion of Mr. E. C. Morse were instructed to cast their ballots for Leon Abbett.

Threw Up His Lease in Plainfield.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your cotemporary, the Times furnishes its readers with the private opinion of a stranger who, finding himself thirsting for drink, compared our beautiful city to Hades when he found not where to quench his raving thirst.

This week a gentleman coming to this place for a furnished residence, after completing his business with a prominent real estate agent sought out a place to gratify his liking for a stimulating beverage. Finding the order of things under a no-license Council, he deliberately cancelled his engagements with the man of realty, and returned to New York saying "I will not be compelled to join an army of sneaks and hypocrites in order to gratify my limited appetite governed by conventional circumstances.

Sitting Bull in Danger.

BISMARK, N. D., Sept. 7.—Two leading physicians left for Standing Rock Agency this morning in response to an urgent summons to attend John Grass. The belief among the Indians that he has been poisoned by Sitting Bull is increasing, and their attitude is so threateuing that Sitting Bull has been locked up in the guard house as a precaution.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.
QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?
ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.
These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

A SLOW SURRENDER

The Dock Companies Will Soon Have to Yield.

PUBLIC PRESSURE TOO STRONG.

Cardinal Manning and Others Confer With the Dock Officials.

Only a Feeling of False Pride Keeps the Directors from Surrendering—A Belief that the Strike Will End on Monday. Burns Will Run for a Seat in Parliament. Lord Randolph Churchill Blames the Employers for the Strike.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—At a conference held to-day between the dock directors and the shippers on the one side, and Cardinal Manning, the Lord Mayor, the Bishop of London and Sir John Lubbock on the other, the dock directors consented to allow shippers and vessel owners to load and discharge their own vessels, making any arrangements they see fit with the laborers. It was a commercial necessity, and only a feeling of false pride keeps the directors from surrendering, a condition to which they are rapidly and inevitably approaching.

As a result of the conference the dock directors agreed to consider a proposal for a six-penny rate, to begin in January next. This time is fixed in order to allow a readjustment of charges to meet the added outlay. The strikers' committee consented to advise the men to accept this proposal.

Lord Randolph Churchill, speaking at Newtown, said that the strike was the natural outcome of the excesses into which employers had fallen in the effort to extract an undue amount of labor at an inadequate rate of wages.

The third officer of the steamer Clan Graham was attacked by a number of dockmen yesterday, and beaten and kicked to insensibility. His pockets were then rifled.

The Clan Graham had been loaded by Lascars, and the outrage was committed upon the officer out of revenge.

It is believed that the employers will give in and that work will be resumed by Monday.

More Trouble for the Dock Companies.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The corn merchants of London had a meeting to-day and discussed the question of responsibility for the losses they were compelled to suffer through the protracted delays, resulting from the strike, in handling cargoes. They decided to notify the dock companies that they would be held strictly accountable for all losses incurred and to be incurred.

Burns for Parliament.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—John Burns, the leader of the strikers, has been invited to contest the seat in the House of Commons for Dundee as an advanced labor candidate. He has accepted the invitation.

The Labor Question in Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—The various parties of the Reichstag are preparing independent bills upon the labor question, in addition to the Government measures, for the direction and prevention of strikes. The indications are that the subject will occupy much of the time of the coming session.

Against Eight Hours' a Day.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Trades' Union Congress, sitting at Dundee, rejected a resolution this morning favoring a working standard of eight hours' a day. The vote was 86 to 63.

HARRY GENET DEAD.

A Man Who Figured Prominently in New York During Boss Tweed's Reign.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Henry W. Genet, the "Prince Hal" of the times of the "Tweed ring," died at his residence No. 100 West 124th street, yesterday, after a long illness.

He had been sick of cancer in the throat for the last three years and confined to his bed for two weeks. Mr. Genet was one of the men in Tweed's time. He was charged with having collected $4,000 for work alleged to have been done on the Harlem Bridge. He was placed in the hands of the sheriff and a few days later escaped and went to Europe via Canada. He spent twelve years abroad and then returned home determined to face the charges. He was convicted and received a six years sentence and a fine. He paid the latter and quietly served out the sentence. When the indictment was brought he was a State senator and notwithstanding the charges he was re-elected. He refrained however, from taking his seat.

Presidential Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The President has appointed the following postmasters.

Maine—Wm. Dunn, Waterville.

Vermont—Jno. H. Stewart, Middlebury.

Massachusetts—Edgar N. Nash, Newton.

New York—Frank Jones, Ballston; Frank B. Mitchell, Norwich; E. M. Gates, Watertown.

New Jersey—Cornelius Keil, Jr., Hoboken.

Five Horses Struck Dead By Lightning.

COLUMBUS, Wis., Sept. 7.—During the thunder storm on Wednesday, five horses belonging to L. B. Franklin, an extensive breeder living near Fall River, were instantly killed by a stroke of lightning. The animals were passing through bars in tandem order when struck and lay upon the ground as if asleep with marks of the stroke upon the right side of each one. They were of high bred stock.

Cotton Mills to Work Only Half Time.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 7.—Owing to the squeeze in the Liverpool Cotton Market and indications that the "corner" will be successfully carried out, the United Cotton Spinners' Society at a meeting to-day adopted a resolution to work the mills on half time for a month, beginning next Monday.

GRAHAM'S PLUNGE DENIED.

A Man Who Says He Watched the Falls Sunday and No Barrel Went Over.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 7.—An evening paper here to-day publishes a complete expose of Graham's alleged trip over the Falls last Sunday.

The expose in substance is that Frank T. Haggert, stenographer of the Surrogate's Court this city, was fishing in the river near La Salle, last Saturday. At La Salle he met Garrit J. Staley, who said he was employed by Graham to cut loose the barrel on the following morning and send him over the falls in it.

Haggerty proposed to Staley to accompany him and help him release the barrel. Staley consented and the two men went in a boat down to Prospect Point, just above the Falls. There they met a man whom Haggerty thinks was De Vere, the theatrical manager, who said he was watching for the barrel.

We saw no barrel nor did any go over the Falls up to the time we left which was long after the time stated. It was my belief that he and the barrel were below the Falls and had never been up above them. If he was found in the barrel below the Falls he entered it down there and was pushed out into the river.

Haggerty is a perfectly trustworthy gentleman and his statement can be implicitly believed.

A National German-American Holiday.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 7.—The Seebot, the prominent German daily newspaper of this city, to-day devotes a page to the opinions of the German press of the country on the much agitated question of a National German-American holiday, which, it is proposed, is to be celebrated annually by the German-Americans all over the country. The paper sent out 82 circulars to German dailies in all parts of the United States, and the answers received show that a great majority of them are in favor of such a holiday, although some of the most prominent papers sre opposed to it, among them the "Seebot."

The Talk About Tanner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Who will succeed Tanner is of more interest to the politicians now than the exact time that Tanner will be forced to go. It is taken for granted now that the Commissioner will receive his conge early next week. The President and the Secretary of the Interior have decided, it is said, on his dismissal, but the matter is of so much political importance that it was concluded to lay it before the Cabinet meeting to-day.

White Caps Meet Their Waterloo.

DEXTER, Mo., Sept. 7.—A gang of White Caps, one hundred and fifty strong, entered this place yesterday, all of them mounted, heavily armed and without any disguises, and gave it as their intention to drive out a colony of negroes, residents. The marshal secured a posse of citizens and a running fire through the street ensued. The White Caps were driven out, many of them badly wounded. Four were captured and locked up.

ELIXIRS OF ALL TIMES.

How Men Have Always Sought to Seize Immortality.

The Notorious Cagliostro and His Youth-Preserving Mixture—Ponce de Leon's Historic Search for the Fountain of Eternal Youth.

Dr. Brown-Sequard has in the course of ages had several predecessors in the same fascinating school of research, says the New York Mail and Express. Not all of the men who, in the course of time, have claimed to discover a conservator of youth have been as honest in their work as he. The notorious Count Cagliostro, whose name is still synonymous with fraud, was enabled to carry on his swindles by pretending, among other things, that he had discovered an "elixir of immortal youth."

Cagliostro, who flourished in the latter part of the eighteenth century, did a lively business in the "elixir" that was especially popular with the ladies. Cagliostro assured his dupes that by virtue of the specific he had already attained his 150th year, and his charming wife, his accomplice in the swindle, often talked affectionately of her son as an "officer in the Dutch navy."

He and his wife conducted a triumphant tour through Europe until they struck the court of St. Petersburg, where the Empress Catharine and her Scotch physician, Rogerson, who were skeptical concerning elixirs, saw through their deception and they disappeared. They came up again in another part of Europe, and carried on their scheme of fraud with varying success until Cagliostro was put in jail in Rome for Free Masonry. In spite of the virtues of his "elixir of immortal youth," he died in the fortress of San Leone, in his fifty-second year. His wife ended her days in a convent.

Albertus Magnus, who was born in the latter part of the twelfth century, gained so extensive a knowledge of chemistry that he was commonly reputed to be a sorcerer, and many legends of wonder have come down attached to his name.

Roger Bacon, who was one of the earliest scientific inquirers in the realm of the mysterious, flourished in the thirteenth century, though his mind was so remarkably able and his intuitions so clear that he is regarded as having lived four centuries before his time. He was for all practical purposes a modern thinker, whose conception of science was just and clear. He completed his studies at Oxford, though very little is known of his life there. He went over to Paris and took the degree of doctor of theology, and in 1250 was back in Oxford. He was full of vim and aggressive in controversy. Of course he got into trouble on account of his books, and spent fourteen years in prison. He wrote an enormous number of works, though his best-known was his "Opus Majus."

He was a firm believer in astrology and the philosopher's stone, and is reported to have said that he knew the circle had been squared.

Paracelsus was another mysterious genius of the past, who with a great mind groped in the gloomy enambers of knowledge, and, of course, often went astray. He gave up all the studies of the schools and set out through the world, traveling like a journeyman scholar, and studying as he said from nature herself. He spent years studying all the phenomena of mines and the diseases that affected miners. Of course, he acquired a good deal of knowledge that other people did not possess, and his belief in himself was so complete that by sheer force of self-confidence he forced others to listen and have faith in him.

He had his own theories concerning the make-up and the moods of nature. His eagerness to understand the relationship of man to the universe led him to the Kabbala, where these mysteries, as he thought, are explained, and from these unsubstantial materials he constructed a visionary philosophy.

Defective as they may have been and unfounded on fact, his Kabbalistic doctrines led him to trace the dependence of the human body upon outer nature for its sustenance and cure. The doctrine of signatures, the connection of every part of the little world of man with a corresponding part of the great world of nature, was a painful and false exaggeration of this doctrine, but the idea carried in its train that of specifics. Paracelsus had seen how bodies were purified and intensified by chemical operations and he thought if plants and minerals could be made to yield their active principles it would surely be better to employ these than the crude and unprepared originals. He had, besides, by some kind of intuition, arrived at the conclusion that the operations of the body were of a chemical character, and that when disordered they were to be put right by counter oppositions of the same kind. Technically he was not a chemist. He did not concern himself, either, with the composition of his compounds or with an explanation of what occurred in their making. If he could get potent drugs to cure disease he was content, and he worked very hard in an empirical way to make them. He was probably a believer, too, in the philosopher's stone, the fetish of his age.

Ponce de Leon, though he was no chemist, had an abiding faith that an elixir of youth flowed in a fountain somewhere in the world. He became convinced at one time that the well was situated in the newly-discovered land of America, and came out here to seek it. He didn't find the fountain, but he did discover Florida, the land of flowers. He kept up his search for the fountain of happy immortality until he died, when it is to be hoped he found it.

From his day to this there have been scores of people as earnest as he in their belief in the existence of an elixir of life. Some of them simple searchers in the world of affairs and others grave savants delving into the depths of scientific knowledge.

The Influence of Surroundings.

How dependent we are on the atmosphere about us; yet how little thought we give to our indebtedness to the atmosphere! Life or death is in the air we breathe; but whether it is life or death is not ordinarily in our minds as we move on in our daily occupations, helped or harmed by our every respiration. Nor is it alone the natural atmosphere which is all in all to us, in its realm, as a means of life-giving or of life-taking. In our home life, in our school life, in our social life, in our business life, in our church life, we are more dependent on the atmosphere of that life than we are accustomed to consider. We are helped or hindered in our course by every breath of the atmosphere about us there. How grateful we ought to be for a pure and invigorating atmospere in any one of these realms! What prominence we ought to give to the character of the atmospere of the realm in choosing a school or an occupation for one of our chilren, or a home, or a line of business, or a church, for ourselves!

The Japan Gazette says that natives and foreigners alike have been suffering from excessive heat in Foochow, and the authorities, in the hope of bringing rain, have stopped the killing of pigs in the city and neighborhood.

THE LATEST WRINKLES IN DRESS.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The grip of conventionality succumbs to ninety degrees in the shade. In the hot and heavy air people lounge and yawn, perspire and wilt, then get them down to the sea or up to the mountains where they may have a chance to escape from the thraldom of law and order, and run riot in freedom, ease and comfort. The society woman, owing to her environment, has the advantage in coolness and comfort over the rest of her sisters less fortunate in means, and all of her brothers less fortunate in the attribute of sex—at least in summer.

Starch and buckram are relegated to winter quarters, while filmy stuffs and scant draperies from the gauzy silken vest to the diaphanous silken gown, afford ample room for winds be they gentle or strong to cool and strengthen every inch of flesh and bone.

Here is a batch of gowns, all for New Yorkers who are content to summer on the Yankee side of the Atlantic this year. For Mrs. Austin Corbin is an afternoon gown of pale green crepe de Chine and rosebuds in gold beads. The long drapery with Greek border in gold and deep fringe of silk and gold falls in straight folds at the back over the plaiting of the short silk petticoat, and is caught by rossettes above the right knee and high on the left side, where the border falls in cascades to the bottom. Folds of white crepe soften the outlines of the low-cut round corsage, and form the puffed elbow sleeves, while a green crepe scarf adjusted around the armholes and waist falls in ends at the back. Only a diamond spray and earrings are worn with this pretty thing. An evening gown for Mrs. Russel Henderson, a handsome brunette, and wife of the steamboat magnate, was worn at a private dinner. It was of black net studded with gold and amber beads and edged with a deep Greek border in gold. The back was on demi-train over black silk; the front pleated, over which was carried the border to the right hip in form of a Greek apron. The sleeveless low-cut Greek corsage was draped with black tulle, and a harmonizing pink crepe scarf from right shoulder across bust and back, with loops and ends at the left side. Mrs. Henderson wore with this a narrow circlet of diamonds around the throat.

Another exquisite little affair is a dancing frock for a beautiful girl, one of the "Four Hundred" summering at Long Branch. This is a cream net bordered with old rose garlands in a lace setting over cream silk. The draping is similar to the green crepe described, and the rosy garlands forms the puffed baby sleeves and the fluting across the low bust. A wide cream ribbon with the effect of a Spanish waist in front ties at the back in loops and ends.

At tennis the girls have discarded the brilliant stripes and contrasts in vogue in the early season and wear only white and pale tints. A sweet thing, though for a millionaire's daughter, was simple enough for a rosy-cheeked milkmaid. This was only a pink pique with pleated skirt and apron front turned up to hold the balls, and a blouse waist with leg-of-mutton sleeves and a rolling collar turned back to the belt with which was worn a white silk shirt front and undersleeves. Pink corded ribbon with a pearl buckle furnished the band for both the waist and white sailor hat.

One of the pretty accessories of the summer toillette is a white lace fichu with a ruff half a yard deep, pleated on a long narrow oval of net. Thrown over the shoulders during a drive or walk the effect is very soft and lightens up the plainest dress.

As to the vexed question of foot wear, it is conceeded that the most becoming and suitable is a black silk stocking and black shoe, but fashion steps in with her love of color and fitness and slaps down a white canvas slipper for breakfast, a soft tan or grey Suede Oxford tie, or low shoe for all times at home, for carriage, seaside and country wear. A well-known literary woman, who by the way, is a cousin of Amelie Rives, and as brilliant as she is sensible, appeared at one of her afternoons in New York in a violet gown and red Turkish slippers. As she had the foot of a fairy she could well bear the scrutiny that followed the red shoe.

Apropos of shoes and stockings, the yellow garter still fascinates, and with its settings and velvet case is as eagerly sought after as any other jewelled bauble. "See here," said a society swell the other day to a friend, "this is Jim's last present," and flinging aside her silken skirts she disclosed a yellow coil with a snake's green enameled head and glittering diamond eyes clasping her black silk stocking just above the rounded knee. "He has never seen it since," she added with a sigh, as it disappeared beneath the ruffles.

For the fall, it has been decreed in the court of the great queen, wherever that may be, that the Directoire style is passe. It will no doubt be used with some modifications, for it is, notwithstanding its elegance, too convenient and comfortable a dress to be wholly cast aside, even at the nodding of a queen. The Empire gown will remain in favor. Pointed waists much embroidered or braided, cuffs to the elbows, and very full sleeves are to appear. Some of the fall jackets in cloth are close fitting and much longer than usual. They will be becoming to some, but must be avoided by others for another style better adapted to their figure.

The new dress goods will show fine soft woolens in large plaids and stripes, and plain serges elaborately braided in shades of the same color or contrasted tones. The new colors are old copper, which has the glow of dying embers, old rose, soft greens and grays. A very rich effect is produced in these plaids by three or four shades of one color harmonizing with shades of another, as: shaded gray with black, which will be very popular, or shaded olive green with old rose. The style of making must follow the prevailing mode of long lines, though it is said draperies will be shorter.

EMMA POLK HARRIS

FIGHTING BOULANGER.

Bill Posters Arrested While Putting Up His Manifesto.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The French Ministry, as the elections approaches, are more than ever determined to show no quarter to Boulanger and his partisans. Yesterday in Paris alone the police arrested twenty-three men who were posting Boulangist placards, and in the provinces the police are equally watchful lest the recent manifesto of the exiles should see the light of day. The men arrested in Paris are mostly professional billposters, with no special predilection for Boulanger or his cause, and stand as ready to post placards for M. Tirard on the walls of Paris to-day as for the "brave General" yesterday. This fact, however, does not save them from the summary vengeance of a frightened Government, and four of those who were arraigned yesterday were sentenced to ten days imprisonment each for violating the recent decree of M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, prohibiting the hawking or placarding of any documents emanating from General Boulanger, Count Dillon or M. Rochefort.

NEGROES PURSUED BY WHITES.

The Race Trouble Causing General Alarm in Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 7.—A letter from Leflore County, says armed negroes are now scattered in squads in the swamps and are being pursued by 300 armed white men. The letter further says that the gang of negroes that burned Jamieson's store, on the Tallahatchie River, numbered fully one hundred instead of fifteen as was reported in previous dispatches and that they were overtaken by the posse there, and about forty of them were killed.

Governor Lowry is severely denounced by the white people of Leflore for not sending Cromwell back to them.

They charge that Colonel Jones Hamilton, lessee of the State Penitentiary, used his influence to save Cromwell, who is an ex-convict.

A Man and a Boy Cut to Pieces.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 7.—Frederick Shultz and Louis Ludwig, his helper, aged sixteen years, while crossing the Pennsylvania tracks at Bay Way this morning in a covered wagon did not see an approaching express train. The locomotive struck the wagon full in the centre and threw the occupants out, killing them instantly. Both were terribly mangled and the boy was cut in twain. The horse escaped.

ANTWERP'S FLAMES

RECOVERING THE DEAD BODIES.

The Death Roll Will Not Fall Short of Two Hundred.

A Dense Mass of Smoke Hangs Like a Pall Over the City—King Leopold Visits the Injured in the Hospitals—He Whispers Words of Comfort to the Poor Sufferers—The Arrest of the Proprietor of the Cartridge Factory Ordered.

ANTWERP, Sept. 9.—A dense mass of smoke still rises from the burned quarter and hangs like a pall over the whole city. The flames have, however, been subdued, and the efforts of the firemen and the troops to prevent their spread have been successful.

The ruins of the burned buildings are still too hot to admit of much effective work toward recovering the bodies of the dead, but a few were taken out today, and enough have been gathered by the brave explorers among the smoking ruins to make it certain that the death list will not fall short of 200, if indeed it does not largely exceed that number.

King Leopold and a number of his ministers arrived yesterday, and were taken in carriages to the scene of the fire. After spending over an hour among the firemen and the troops at work on the flames, the party were driven to the hospitals where those injured by the explosions are being cared for. Here the King passed from ward to ward whispering words of comfort to the poor sufferers, occasionally stopping to smooth the pillow and cool the forehead of one of the little factory girls stretched upon a bed of pain. Before leaving the King ordered everything possible for the comfort of the patients to be done.

The arrest of Corvillain, the proprietor of the cartridge factory in which the explosions occurred, has been ordered.

WRECKED THE TRAIN.

A Green Brakeman Opens the Wrong Switch With Fatal Results.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 9.—Vestibule train No. 8, the fast New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio train from Chicago to New York was wrecked about two miles below Greenville yesterday.

A freight train was standing on the switch, and B. Ludwig, a brakeman, was ordered to open the rear switch and flag the first train to come ahead. It did so, and at the rate of 25 miles an hour, dashing into the freight train.

The engineers and firemen on both engines jumped for their lives and escaped with slight injuries, except the passenger engineer, Dick Johnson of Meadville, who was seriously wounded but may live. The tender telescoped into the baggage car, which was nearly filled with trunks, instantly killing the baggage master, Alva Cleveland, of Salamanca. When found trunks were piled over him. He had his hands on the door and had evidently tried to escape. He was a married man about 40 years old. The brakeman, Ludwig, lives at Cambridge and was a green hand, this being only his third trip. The passengers were badly shaken up but none injured.

Judge Lynch Ready for Work

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 8.—Yesterday afternoon at the sheriff of Butler County at Eldorado, was taking Robert Snyder, who about one month ago murdered his wife and mother-in-law, to the Court House for a preliminary hearing, a mob formed and made a rush for the prisoner with the intention of lynching him. Several deputies were with the sheriff and a pitched battle ensued which resulted disastrously for the lynchers. No one was killed but Snyder was quite severely injured, being struck in the shoulder with a bullet, and four of the mob were injured, two of them perhaps fatally.

Terrible Explosion in a Coal Mine.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 9.—There was a terrible explosion of fire-damp in the Uffington Coal mine, near this place, yesterday, resulting in the death of John Kinsey and William Kirby, and the fatal burning of John Kirk, while other miners were more or less seriously hurt. The men went into the mine in the morning to begin the work of putting it in order. When they lighted their lamps an explosion followed, blowing the men a considerable distance, covering them with flying debris and almost tearing and burning their clothing from their bodies.

No Love for Editor Halstead.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 9.—Mayor Mosby, of Cincinnati, at the request of the Murat Halstead Club of that city, recently sent a letter here to John A. Logan, Jr., asking for a large portrait of his father, stating the club wanted to place it in its rooms. Mr. Logan has sent an answer refusing the request and in giving his reasons, says that his father, if living, would not want his portrait hung in an organization, named after a man who had slandered, villified and traduced him.

To Prosecute the Fishing Club.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 9.—The committee which had in hand the collection of the money subscribed to push the suit against the South Fork Fishing Club, held a meeting, when it was found that over $1,500 had been subscribed. As only $1,000 was required it seemed to show that the people are in earnest in the matter. It was decided to have the investigations by Messrs Rose and Linton made as soon as possible, and if there is any encouragement, to push the suit.

BRUTAL MURDER.

A Man's Throat Cut and His Body Riddled With Bullets.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 9.—The body of a man, apparently about 50 years of age, was found at East Newark yesterday morning, about one hundred yards from Shanley's stone crusher and the same distance from the river bank.

His throat was cut from ear to ear; two bullets had pierced his heart, another had entered the left side and was lodged in the shoulder, and still another had entered the abdomen. Any but one of the bullets would have caused death, and the wound in the throat was also sufficient to have killed the man.

The deceased was neatly dressed, his shoes were polished and his underclothing clean, and there was not a particle of blood on the clothing. There were no signs of a scuffle, and there is not a doubt in the mind of Chief Hopper that the body was carried to the spot where it was found.

The body has been identified as that of Frank Avedios, who formerly lived in Mulberry street, New York. He has been living in Newark but two months. It is understood that he stabbed his son-in-law in New York, and has since been in hiding in Newark. It is believed that some of the friends of his son-in-law followed him here and murdered him.

A Pennsylvania Town Terrorized.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—Wrightsville, a small town opposite Columbia, on the Susquehanna River, was a scene of terror Saturday night, five barns and the police station being destroyed by incendiary fires. After the first fire a vigilance committee patrolled the streets, but failed to prevent the other fires. During the night James Fiester, alias "Reddy" McEntire, was arrested on suspicion of being the incendiary. He was locked up in one of the burning buildings, but succeeded in making his escape. He was afterward recaptured and taken to the York County Jail.

The Union Prohibitory League.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 9.—The first State Convention of the Union Prohibitory League will be held here Sept. 26. It is not the purpose of this new organization to place candidates in the field, but to co-operate with the existing political parties in placing men in office who are favorable to and will use their influence in the enforcement of the prohibitory measures of existing laws relating to the liquor traffic and the early enactment of more stringent and prohibitory statutes with adequate penalties.

Crying for Help, She Drowned.

RED BANK, N. J., Sept. 9.—Miss Louisa Hancock, a guest at L. D. Jones' Riverdale House, Red Bank, was drowned yesterday while bathing in the river. She was in company with three other ladies, and was seized with cramps. She threw up her hands and cried loudly for assistance. Her cries were heard by Arthur Sladen, who swam out toward her, but she sank before he reached her.

Disappearance of Arthur Dow.

LITTLETON, N. H., Sept. 9.—Arthur F. Dow has mysteriously disappeared. He is a member of Dow Brothers, a large mercantile establishment, controlling the Northern Coal Company and their stores. His business affairs are in excellent shape. Overwork has probably unbalanced his mind, and he is thought to be wandering somewhere under mental aberration.

High Water at Coney Island.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—There was a heavy southeast wind yesterday which drove the waves high over the Coney Island piers and breakwaters. Many small booths were carried away, the marine railway was flooded and walking along the beach was impossible. The water was higher than at any time since the heavy gales of last spring.

Guilford's Celebration.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 9.—The celebration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the towns of Guilford and Madison was begun yesterday at those towns by religious exercises. There were literary exercises to-day, and a grand parade will take place to-morrow.

Drowned at Sea Isle City.

SEA ISLE CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—The sea was extremely treacherous yesterday and ran unusually high. Benedict Blunschei, of Philadelphia, was drowned while bathing, and three young ladies who were with him narrowly escaped. They had come down from Philadelphia with a Swiss excursion party.

Killed While Drunk.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—While Frank Cowen of Gilliam and Frank Blewett of Marshall, Mo., were drunk last night, they fell asleep on the Chicago and Alton Railroad track at Marshall. The Chicago train for Kansas City run over them and killed both.

A Jersey Wife Beater.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 9.—John Gillesheimer beat and kicked his wife so badly last night that she will probably die, and if she recovers she will be crippled for life. She was about to become a mother. Gillesheimer is under arrest. He has been in custody before for the same offense.

Mahone Secures an Organ.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 9.—The "Evening Star" has been purchased by a Republican syndicate and appeared this evening as a Republican paper. It has been Democratic heretofore. It will be a Mahone organ.

A Clergyman's Fall From a Window.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 9.—Dr. H. H. Tucker, one of the best known Baptist clergymen in the South, fell from a second story window in which he was seated yesterday, and sustained injuries which will doubtless prove fatal.

LONDON'S DOCK WAR

The Strike is Still on After a Settlement Was Made.

THE LORD MAYOR DISGUSTED.

Burns Denies That He Ever Accepted the Terms Proposed.

He Says the Men are Not to be Caught by the Sort of Chaff Offered—Prospects that the Trouble Will Soon be Adjusted—A Revulsion in Public Feeling—The Hyde Hyde Park Meeting Passes Off Very Quietly.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Public opinion, which had been almost a unit in sympathy with the strikers in their struggle against the dock companies, has experienced a revulsion which cannot fail to have an influence upon the ultimate result of their fight.

The action of Messrs. Burns and Tillett, the leaders of the men, signifying their approval of a proposition for a compromise, made by Cardinal Manning and the Lord Mayor, and then, when the proposal had been unconditionally accepted by the dock managers, deliberately repudiating it, is almost everywhere condemned.

The Lord Mayor to-day asserts that Burns unquestionably accepted the compromise proposed, and says that now that the men have rejected it, he washes his hands of the whole business. Hints are not wanting to-day that the leaders of the men have ends of their own to compass which are to be furthered only by a continuance of the strike, and that they do not hesitate for purely selfish considerations to sacrifice the best interests of their willing dupes.

Burns denies that he ever accepted the terms proposed, and insists that the men are certain to bring the dock managers to their senses, and that Thursday will see a complete victory for the men. He says that the strikers had excellent reasons for rejecting the compromise by virtue of which the increased pay for which they contended was to be deferred until the first of January next. The dock managers, he says, were willing enough to end their troubles in this way, as this would give them over three months in which to prepare for the change, and long before the end of that time they could have ousted every man concerned in the agreement and filled the places of the men with others who would be perfectly willing to work at any terms offered them. The men, he says, are not to be caught by this sort of chaff. They are well aware that they hold the whip hand at present, and they will not consent to yield their advantage for a deferred advance of wages, the fruits of which they are never likely to reap.

The Lord Mayor and Cardinal Manning have joined in a letter in which they express great surprise at the repudiation by the strikers of an agreement deliberately into by their representatives, and warn the men that if they now persist in continuing the strike they will forfeit the sympathy of all classes which has been hitherto fully accorded them.

The meeting of the strikers at Hyde Park yesterday was an orderly affair and no disturbance of any sort is reported. Burns harangued the men and asked the question whether they desired to accept the mediators' proposition. There was a loud shout of "No."

It is the belief of many persons in a position to be well informed that a compromise on the lines of the rejected proposal will be reached in a few days and that the only modification will be that the increased pay will date from Nov. 1 instead of Jan. 1.

TRYING TO BEAT NEW YORK.

Chicago Has a Scheme That They Think Will Secure Them the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—It has been suggested that the World's Fair Committee raise an issue which cannot fail to carry with it the hearty support of the people of the entire Northwest. It is an issue which will place the two great contestants for the World's Fair—Chicago and New York—in a truer light before Congress and the Nation than anything else could do. The proposition is simply this: That Chicago shall raise $1,000,000, aside from its regular World's Fair fund, and with that sum of money build for the remains of Gen. U. S. Grant a tomb and a monument such as shall be worthy of the man and the nation which he so gallantly served.

Fatal Riot in Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 9.—A riot broke out at New Castle, Del., Saturday between gangs of Hungarian and Irish laborers. Things remained quiet until yesterday morning, when the trouble was renewed. The Huns armed themselves with fence rails and the Irishmen turned out with guns and revolvers. The Huns fled and the Irishmen attacked a row of houses occupied only by Poles. One of the Poles ventured out and was shot dead.

Rev. Dumontier Paralyzed.

MARLBORO, Mass., Sept. 9.—The Rev. J. Z. Dumontier, aged 60, senior rector of St. Mary's Church here, and one of the best known French Catholic priests in New England, has received a paralytic shock at New Bedford, where he had gone to attend a forty-hours' devotional service, and his physicians say he cannot live over two days.

Albany's Ceiling Scandal.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Attorney-General Tabor had the Assembly ceiling contract matter before the Grand Jury to-day. He is seconded by District Attorney Reilly and his assistants. The investigation will be commenced next Thursday and continue through Friday and Saturday.

—There will be a Mothers' Meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society, in Reform Hall, to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock. All are invited to be present.

—The firemen of North Plainfield are requested to meet at the engine house, to-morrow evening at eight o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Relief Association.

—The Sunday school of the First Baptist church, will meet in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock hereafter instead of in the morning at 9:30.

—A couple of colored female engaged in a fistic encounter on the sidewalk on Park avenue near Second street, on Saturday evening. Jealousy caused the fight.

—Mr. John Leal will lead the Y. M. C. A. meeting to-night. It will be one of unusual interest. Following this there will be a meeting of the Devotional Committee at nine o'clock.

—The seashore girl who was unable to find a fellow is now at home and can take her pick of many admirers. The iced cream season is almost over but she can make it up on oysters.

—The great Inter-State Fair will open at Trenton on Sept. 30 and continue to Oct. 4. It promises to be one of the best exhibitions of the kind ever seen in this section of the country.

There will be a peach and iced cream festival at the Washingtonville school house, to-morrow evening, to which the public are invited. The admission will be 25 cents, including peaches and cream.

—It is reported that Mr. David Condon, the former captain of the Crescent base ball team, mashed the index finger on the right hand, while at work in a machine shop in New York on Saturday afternoon.

—The young business man who sat up until three o'clock, yesterday morning, in a West Seventh street residence, looking for "Tom the Peeper," and then shot at a fleeing feline in mistake for the "Peeper," requests us not to say anything about the matter. So we won't.

A Rush of Travel.

The popularity of the Bound Brook route to Philadelphia, via Central Railroad of New Jersey and Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, has become a household word. The excellence of its service has never been surpassed, and the frequency of trains, added to the quick time between the two cities, invites the patronage of all travelers who appreciate comfort, absence of dust and attentive train officials.

Mrs. Ellis at Warren Mission Chapel.

Perhaps the largest audience that has ever assembled in Warren Mission chapel was present last evening, to hear Mrs. J. T. Ellis talk to the young men. The meeting opened with a service of song, after which Mrs. Ellis took charge and spoke eloquently on the subject: "Are you saved?"

Robbery at Scotch Plains.

Wm. Osche was arrested by Constable Hand of Scotch Plains this morning, on a charge of breaking and entering the store of Lyness Walpole at that place, last night. Justice Nash, before whom the prisoner was arraigned, held him for the Grand Jury.

A Late Mail from Plainfield.

Beginning with today a mail will leave this city each night for New York at 8 o'clock. This additional mail will prove a great convenience to the public in general.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

The Crescents Play Their Last Game With the West Ends.

The fourth game of the season's series between the Crescents, of this city, and the West Ends, of Somerville, is over. It was presented to his home club by the umpire, Dr. Matherson, because after Cary had been struck in the face owing to the darkness by one of Harkins' savage balls, and the umpire had refused to either give the little short stop his base or call the game, the Crescents refused to continue play.

The latter part of the game was even a worse exhibition of dirty ball playing than the West Ends are in the habit of presenting. Barring Bergen, Frelinghuysen, Bishop and possibly Williams, the members of the Somerville team are dead set against a square deal, and their management is even more nefarious. The Crescents will hereafter have nothing more to do in anyway with the Somerville team, and will never permit them to set foot upon the Plainfield grounds again.

The umpire of Saturday's game was an "honest man" utterly ignorant of the rules and no more able to tell a ball from a strike, than a babe. In the beginning the West Ends suffered some from his rulings, but he made up for such mistakes before the day was gone by robbing the Crescents of the victory they had earned. In the first inning he called McMurray out on two strikes, and Bowes out on a foul tip. He declared a hit ball "fair" that struck two foot outside the foul line and let in a Somerville run. He declared Bergen safe on second, when Bergen himself says that he caught the ball as he reached second and threw it out of Hammill's way. In running from first Harkins was plainly touched by Hammill, but again in his ignorance Dr. Matherson robbed the Crescents of the put-out.

But the umpire's most blooming efforts shone forth in the tenth inning. The Crescents were compelled to go to the bat in spite of the fact that it was too dark to see a ball low down on the diamond. Cary was struck in the forehead by Harkins, but upon the pitcher's claim that Cary stuck his head forward purposely, the umpire deliberately refused to give the batter the base he was entitled to. That was the last straw that broke the Crescents' back. The allowing of a claim that a player would court death by sticking his head in front of one of John Harkins' balls and in the dark, was too much and the Plainfielders refused to play any longer. Dr. Matherson then declared the game forfeited to the West Ends by a score of 9 to 0.

The language used by the West Ends in general during the game, is mostly unfit for publication. Such terms as "dirty liar" applied by Mister Harkins to McMurray, were but mild Somervillian expressions. Then when the latter went to the bat in the seventh inning—after having already lined out a three bagger in the second—Harkins purposely fired a ball into McMurray's side and then turned his back on him.

The West Ends had announced that they would get the game no matter how many runs the Crescents made—and they did get it. When the Plainfield team stepped into the grounds the eyes of the Jews and Gentiles, who compose the West End club, shone with emerald envy. They saw that the Somerville team were nine foregone conclusions, and knew no way to overcome certain defeat but the way they took. They appointed an ignorant umpire and led him their way by the nose. But so far as Plainfield is concerned, that game was Somerville's obsequy. The Crescents henceforth play with gentlemen only.

The game was so far from being a game that a detailed account is not called for. The Curries did great work and their support was also great. Not one of the West Ends reached first base until the fourth inning. A mistake was made in substituting Gately in the eighth. But it was Walter Currie's own request. The mute, as usual of late, seemed sulky and unable to pitch a little bit.

The score was as follows:

The Colored People Play Next.

On the Bowling Club's grounds, next Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, the Washington Giants will play against the Plainfield Stars for the colored championship of the State. A close and entertaining contest is assured.

ROBBED HIS EMPLOYER.

A Farm Hand Elopes With About $200 Worth of Personal Property Belonging to Farmer Joseph King of Millington—He Drives to Plainfield and Boards a Train for New York.

Charles Myer, a smooth-faced German, aged about nineteen years, who hailed from Union Village, has been employed as a farm hand for the past three weeks by Mr. Joseph King of Millington, a few miles Northwest of this city. Yesterday afternoon while Mr. King's family were away from home, Myer ransacked the house, stole $61 in cash from a bureau drawer, Mrs. King's gold watch and chain and a quantity of wearing apparel belonging to his employer. The man then hitched up one of Mr. King's horses, leaving a young colt behind, and drove to Plainfield, arriving here in time to catch the 5:16 P. M. train for New York. The horse was tied to a post on North avenue where it was found about seven o'clock by Constable James A. Havy of Millington, who tracked the thief to this city.

Mr. King arrived home about an hour after the man had departed, and he at once discovered the robbery. He immediately notified Constable Havy and the two started in pursuit of the fugitive. The man left a small trunk in the buggy, together with a lot of old clothing. Mr. King offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the thief. The matter has been placed in the hands of Chief Carey.

A SET OF BRUTES.

They Attack an Old Man Rob and Almost Drown Him.

Five brutes, called men, set upon an aged and infirm man named Daniel Baker, last Wednesday, and after almost drowning him with buckets of water, robbed him.

The victim lives in a house on Terrill road, North Plainfield, belonging to Mr. A. D. Shepherd. On Wednesday when passing Ilisley's Hotel on Front street at Scotch Plains, five men came out ostensibly to "have some fun with him." He was doused with water until almost exhausted and chilled to the bone. He then started, breathless, for Paff's Hotel, but his assailants followed him, threw away his basket, and picked his pockets of every cent he had in the World.

Mr. Baker is only able to walk with the help of a cane, and is over 70 years of age. He has made a complaint before a Justice, so there is a possibility of his assailants being punished. But—poor folks seldom get redress.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. I. C. Pierson of Broadway, is spending a fortnight at Wyalusing, Pa.

The Misses Josie and Fanny Kissam of the Borough, are home again from Long Island.

Mr. C. W. Beebe and family, of Central avenue, have returned from Southampton, L. I.

Miss Grace T. Johnson of Duer street, is visiting relatives at Brick Church, Orange, N. J.

Mrs. J. T. Ellis will conduct religious services in the Park Avenue Baptist church, this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Force and daughter, Minnie, spent Saturday and Sunday with friends at Somerville.

Miss McCoy of New Brunswick, has been added to the corps of teachers in the North Plainfield public school.

Borough Clerk Jas. K. Arnold, and daughter, Miss Minnie, are visiting Mr. Arnold's sister, near Boston, Mass.

Mr. Edward D. Pound and family, of West Fourth street, have been spending a few days at the Delaware Water Gap.

Mrs. A. M. Gillem and daughter, Miss Emma, also her niece, Miss Phebe Mills, are home again after an absence of nearly two months.

Miss Lottie Mills, organist of the M. E. church of Patchogue, L. I., is spending a week with her friend, Miss Ella Milligan, of West Fourth street.

Mme. Albert of Dunellen, another soprano singer of considerable note, who is on trial for membership of the Trinity Reformed church choir, sang quite acceptably at both the morning and evening service in that church yesterday.

Y. M. C. A.

The Workers' Training Classes of the Young Men's Christian Association, which have been so successful in past years, are to be started again soon. It is expected that two classes will be formed, one for beginners and the other for advanced scholars. The course of study in both classes will be for the purpose of fitting the members for better Christian work.

The first part of the lesson hour will be devoted to Bible study; the second half to the study of individual cases of inquirers. The lessons will be entirely different from the Sunday school lessons, but will be very useful to Sunday School teachers. The classes will be open to men only, but in order to accommodate the ladies their class will be continued. Any one who desires to join the classes or who desires further information may call on the Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., at the rooms of the Association, Nos. 8 and 10 East Front street.

—The terra cotta for the cornice on the Hart building at Park avenue and Fourth street, has arrived from Perth Amboy, and is being placed in position.

PLAINFIELD'S FOOLISHNESS.

A "Birdseye" View of Prohibition in this City.

(From the New York Hotel Mail.)

When you can make men virtuous, self-restraining and temperate by statutory laws you will have taken a long step backward; towards the days when the people were considered to be only vassals of some ruling monarch, not capable of thinking for themselves, and throwing all conscientious responsibility on the shoulders of the priests. Even the most radical exponents of the cold-water doctrine are beginning to see that prohibition is the worst enemy of temperance. They are trying local option now in Plainfield, N. J., and the best element of the town and the heaviest taxpayers are heartily sick of it. The thousands of dollars that used to come from the licenses of hotels and saloons now comes from the pockets of the people. Instead of thirteen licensed saloons and hotels there are now more than sixty—paying no license and doing a flourishing trade. And drunkenness flourishes too.

While men are human they will drink; and the best the law can do is to see that no unnecessary temptation is thrown in their way. Plainfield would undoubtedly be better off, both financially and morally, with a license, say of $1,000, than with local option. At this rate, ten respectable hotels and saloons, holding their licenses under strict conditions as to good order, would pay the required revenue, and it would be to the interest of the licensees to see that no back-alley unlicensed business was done. There is no more determined enemy to alcohol than Mr. Bradley, of Asbury Park, but even he admits now that high license is better than prohibition.

EX-COUNCILMAN SERRELL'S MONUMENT.

A Handsome Structure of Granite Which is Being Erected in Hillside Cemetery.

Ex-Councilman L. W. Serrell, of West Front street, is erecting in his plot in the Hillside cemetery, a handsome family monument of granite. The monument, which consists of three separate stones, and weighs in the aggregate about fourteen tons, was furnished by C. E. Taynton & Co., of New York. There are also four corner stones of granite, and a foot stone. The bottom piece or base of the monument weighs about six tons, and it required the combined strength of five horses to haul the stone to the cemetery.

The monument occupies a prominent position in Mr. Serrell's family plot, which adjoins the plot of Mr. C. Potter, Jr., and can be seen for a long distance. The total cost will reach somewhere up in the thousands.

Reform Hall.

There was a very encouraging attendance in Reform Hall last evening, notwithstanding the numerous attractions elsewhere. Vice President Harper presided, Mr. Cleaver officiated as Chaplain, and a fine selection of music was rendered by a full choir led by Mr. Vanderbeek.

Interesting and appropriate remarks were made by Messrs Eden Boice, George M. Angleman and George W. F. Randolph. The speakers all bore convincing testimony against the liquor evil and on behalf of the ennobling and saving cause of temperance. They were listened to with close attention.

Vice President Harper gave notices as follows: The excursion to Mauch Chunk on Wednesday next, 11th; a Mothers' Meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society in Reform Hall, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and of a special meeting of the Reform Club on Thursday evening, at which an important matter would come up for consideration and decision.

After a few well-timed words from Mr. Cleaver in favor of the pledge, the meeting closed with the benediction.

Re-Opening the Schools.

The public schools, both in this city and North Plainfield, reopened for the Fall term this morning. The attendance of visitors at the several schools was large. At the High School Vice Principal Goodrich presided and read an interesting letter from Miss Julia E. Bulkley, telling of her travels in Europe, and also admonishing the pupils to begin the school year with a determination to advance rapidly. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis and Judge L. F. Wadsworth each welcomed the scholars back to school. Many new faces were noticed among the pupils.

The morning session was devoted principally to classifying the scholars.

At the North Plainfield school over 500 pupils were present at the opening session, and Rev. T. L. Murphy made a few remarks to them.

Republican Primaries.

The Republican voters of this city are requested to meet on Thursday evening, September 12, at the following named places, for the purpose of electing one delegate from each ward to the Gubernatorial convention to be held Tuesday, September 17: 1st ward at the Association rooms, East Front street, at 7:45 o'clock. 2d ward, at the Association rooms, at 8 o'clock. 3d ward, at the Park House, at 8 o'clock. 4th ward, at the Association rooms, at 8:15 o'clock.

By order of the City Executive Com.

C. M. GODDARD, Chairman.
J. B. COWARD, Secretary.
Plainfield, Sept. 4, 1889.

WHO IS SHE?

An Unnatural Plainfield Mother Wants to Rid Herself of Her Child.

A New York paper writing of "baby farming" in general, and how children are bought and sold, goes on to say:

"If you doubt the extent of this traffic in children advertise in any newspaper of wide circulation that you would like to adopt a baby. In the course of a week you will receive so many answers that unless you are a person of leisure you will be obliged to employ the services of a secretary to attend to your correspondence.

"Such recently proved to be the actual experience of a married man of means, living on Staten Island. His family consists of a wife and two grown-up sons. About six months ago he lost his only daughter, a bright little girl some twelve years of age. His wife was so grieved at the child's death that the gentleman determined, if possible, to replace the little one.

"This he found a comparatively easy matter, and a new daughter, as nearly as possible resembling the lost one, was soon installed in his household. But for many days after he had adopted the child letters continued to pour in upon him till the gentleman began to think that parental affection was an exploded idea.

"Judging from their tone and the paper on which they were written, a few of these letters were from people of refinement and education. One, in particular, was inscribed in a feminine hand, the paper was bordered with a a black edge and the writer was presumably a widow. She said that providing the gentleman could furnish her with first-class references, she would be willing to absolutely surrender to his care and keeping a winsome girl, three and a half years old, with dark eyes, a sweet voice and pleasant manners. This epistle was signed 'X. Y. Z.,' and dated at Plainfield, N. J."

AH, THERE! STAY THERE!

A Young Man Who Wears Corsets With Pleasure and Comfort.

A gentleman residing in this city and connected with the New York office of one of the largest corset manufactories in the World, permitted a PRESS reporter to see the following letter recently received by his firm, from Rotterdam. It will probably entertain the public in general:

GENTLEMEN—I write to find if you ever make to measure corsets for gentlemen's wear, and if so your prices for same.

I formed the habit of wearing corsets while yet a child and at school in Italy. While there we were always led to believe that it was the correct way and were always encouraged to lace them as snugly as we could. As a result of this quite a number of the students while yet under 15 years cultivated very elegant and stylish figures, some of us not measuring more than 15 English inches at the waist. And I must say that a few of the students had the most lovely and graceful tapering waists I have ever seen anywhere.

When I left the school I soon found that it was not the custom for gentlemen to wear corsets as tightly laced as we had been taught, and then tried to give up the practice, but the habit so carefully followed for 8 years was firmly fixed and after every attempt to leave off my corsets I have always returned to them with pleasure and comfort.

I am now wearing a French C. P. long waist corset, 20 inch waist, but it is a poor fit at the bust, and so as I am about to visit the States I would like to call on you and get suitable ones made if you can accommodate me.

If you cannot do so could you direct me to some first class maker who could.

HE'S GOT IT BAD, THIS YEAR.

The Hay Fever Continues to Stir Up Bradley, and He Stirs Up the Commissioners.

Emperor Bradley, of Asbury Park, who has at last awakened to the honest conviction that it is better to have a few licensed and public bars than a hundred sneaking rum holes, has something also to say about other illicit sales in his borough.

Mr. Bradley is in the mountains seeking relief from hay fever, and writes as follows to his home organ: "Query: Is it right for our Commissioners to expect Daniel Brower, Beseau Brown, T. H. Beringer and others of our respectable cigar dealers to close on Sundays while fellows calling themselves pharmacists—some coming from the Lord knows where—keep open and sell rum, cigars and numerous other articles that have no possible connection with medicine? Our own citizens should demand some protection from the Commissioners in this matter, or is their oath of office fulfilled when they care for the streets and light and sprinkle the town's driveways?"

With Thatcher at the Head.

The following from the Boston Globe may be of interest, although already told in these columns:

Since George Thatcher, the celebrated minstrel, had the disagreement with Primrose and West, with whom he was associated in the minstrel business for several years, there have been many rumors in the profession as to his future plans. There have been many shows and many combinations which have claimed him for their own, but Thatcher refused either to deny or affirm the truth of any of the reports. He has been quietly living at his country home and enjoying the life of a farmer. Now, however, an announcement is made which is among the most important of the dramatic season just beginning. Messrs Rich & Harris, the energetic Boston managers, have succeeded in obtaining Mr. Thatcher's signature to a contract for a several years' engagement. "This year he will lead the Howard all star specialty company, and I feel sure that he will be the greatest feature among others which are all great. Next season we shall have a great surprise in store for the amusement public. We will have Thatcher under our management, at the head of one of the greatest minstrel shows ever seen in this country," says Mr. Harris.

BALTIMORE'S BIG SHOW.

The City in Gala Dress and the Parade Reviewed by the President.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9.—The Maryland Exposition commenced to-day and will continue until Saturday.

Every nook and corner of the Monumental City is festooned and decorated. The city is filled to overflowing and every hotel and boarding house is full and every private family has its guests.

The great civic and trades display was the largest Baltimore has ever seen. It was headed by a guard of honor composed of the sons, grandsons and great-grandsons of the "Old Defenders," who fought to save Baltimore in 1814. The lead was taken by Chief Marshal T. Frank Supplee and his staff of 100 aids. President Harrison, surrunded by members of his Cabinet, reviewed the monster procession.

The veteran and volunteer firemen made a fine display and the Grand Army division was the largest they have ever paraded. The civic societies' division alone numbered 6,000 men, and the German-American division was exceedingly attractive. The trades' display division, numbering more than 300 floats and decorated wagons, included every industry and manufacturing concern in the city.

The historical floats graphically represented every phase of the city's history from 1730 to 1889. Beginning with the repulse of the Indians under Marapoclos in 1735, the arrival of Gen. Lafayette, the bombardment of the city's fortress, and the attack upon the city by the English in 1812-14. The attack by the mob on the Sixth Massachusetts Regiment on April 19, 1861, and finally the peace float representing the Baltimore of to-day in the very height of its prosperity.

A prominent tobacco firm contributed a number of floats showing the manufacture of tobacco in its various ramifications. The negroes at work sang old plantation melodies making a very beautiful and odd scene. A brewing company showed how beer was made, and the Adams Express Company had a globe on wheels as its contribution, showing its far-reaching trade. This was preceded by an old man trundling a wheelbarrow, as the company had its starting point from a wheelbarrow pushed by Adams himself.

After the parade Marshal Supple, Mayor Latrobe and Gov. Jackson and his personal staff drove to Pimlico where they entertained the President and party with an elaborate banquet.

To-morrow will be devoted to racing and awarding premiums for fine horses, cattle, etc. In the evening a tournament will take place, and the arches and race track will be brilliantly lighted by electric lights. Twenty-five of the finest riders in the State, representing each county, will ride.

Big Strike of Miners Liable.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—Five thousand miners in the district about Brockwayville, Du Bois, Reynoldsville and Punxsutawney, are liable to strike this week for an advance of from five to ten cents, so as to place their wages in the scale that has been granted in adjoining regions.

Our Commercial Relations With Canada.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The United States Senate committee appointed to investigate the commercial relations between the United States and Canada, will give a public hearing to those interested in the question on Sept. 11, at the office of the Railroad Commissioners.

May Hang for Arson.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 9.—Four white men, charged with burning the barn of a colored man, have been held without bail to answer before the Circuit Court. The offense is punishable by death, as there were persons asleep in the house at the time.

Another Man Goes to Canada.

MEDINA, N. Y., Sept. 9.—W. D. Jones, manager of the Union Pacific Tea Company store here, has fled the town. One of the company's agents who was taking an inventory of the stock found a shortage of nearly $500. Jones is thought to be in Canada.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE: and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

More Talk of Queen Victoria's Retirement.

A ROYAL CONFAB IN FLORENCE.

An Effort Will Be Made to Induce Her Majesty to Leave the Throne.

The Prince of Wales Has Reformed and Will Leave Baccarat and Ballet Girls Alone—He is Ingratiating Himself With the Germans and Their Ruler—Speculation Regarding the Royal Meeting in Italy Next Month.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—There is considerable speculation as to the meaning of the proposed meeting of royalties in Italy next month. The Empress Frederick will make her residence at the villa occupied by her mother last year at Florence, where she will be visited by her son, the Emperor of Germany, and his wife, although the objective point of the latter pair will ostensibly be Rome, where, at the Emperor's request, his reception by the Italian monarch will be informal and unmarked by reviews or display.

Although great pains have been taken to keep the fact from the public, the Queen of England will join her daughter and her Imperial grand-son at Florence, where a matter of the highest importance, not only to Great Britain, but to the world will be decided. This is nothing less than the proposal that Queen Victoria should abdicate in favor of the Prince of Wales.

The Prince has been pleased to announce that his health has been much improved by quaffing the German waters, thus still further ingratiating himself with the Germans and their ruler, which it is his role to do now for most powerful reasons.

Their outward conciliation at least is now complete, and the Prince has privately given it out that he intends to henceforth abandon all frivolous habits of life, discard all loose acquaintances, however entertaining, and conduct himself as becomes the heir to a throne, undoubtedly the most enviable of any in existence. Daughter and grandson are expected to impress this edifying resolution upon Queen Victoria at the meeting of the trio in Italy and another attack will be made on her to relinquish the cares of state. It is well understood that the reason that a former assault failed was the old lady's vigorously expressed objection to seeing, putting it as delicately as possible, a person leading such a life as the prince has led, assume the regency over a people accustomed at least to a virtuous, she might even have said a prudish, court.

Now that he has determined to forswear ballet girls and professional beauties, abstain from baccarat and similar seductive games, and accept only the society of the grave and learned, it is hoped that the last objections of the Queen to retiring to private life will be overcome, and that she can conscientiously gratify her secret desire to pass her declining years wherever she pleases in the companionship of her widowed daughter.

JUBILANT BOULANGISTS.

A Move of the Government Which They Consider as a Sign of Weakening.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The Government has consented to allow the Prefect to receive the candidacy of Boulanger and Rochfort and to permit display of their placards, etc., in Montmartre and Bellville. The Boulangists are jubilant over the Government's change of front, considering it a sign of vacillation. The Ferryists on the other hand are furious.

The endeavor to restore harmony threatens to jeopardize the Government's success in the elections.

The Pope Will Remain in Rome.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Rome correspondent of the "Chronicle" says that the Pope has definitely abandoned the idea of departing from Rome, Germany having conveyed to the Vatican assurances that in the event of war Italy would respect strictly the position of the Holy See.

London Imports and Exports.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The returns issued by the Board of Trade for the month of August show the imports to have increased £2,900,000 and the exports £240,000, as compared with August 1888.

Bulgaria Buying Arms.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 9.—Orders have been placed with factories at Liege for 33,000 Berdau rifles and 2,000,000 cartridges for the Bulgarian Government.

New Jersey's Democratic Convention.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 9.—George T. Werts, who presided over the State Senate last winter, will probably preside over the Democratic State Convention, which assembles in Taylor Opera House at noon to-morrow. He will be the permanent chairman of the Convention, unless the present programme is altered. It is not yet certain who will be the temporary chairman.

Mrs. Swinton and Josh Held

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Mrs. T. Annie Swinton and Josh Mann have been held in $1,500 bail each by Judge Hogan in the Tombs Police Court on the charge of larceny in the second degree as charged by Robert Ray Hamilton.

AN OUTLAW CAPTURED.

Nymphia Brown Recovered But She Will Not Tell the Story of Her Abduction.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 9.—Sylvester Morales, the notorious outlaw, who has been terrorizing for some time past certain sections in the southern portion of this State, was captured near the head of Almitos Bay yesterday by Constable Wiloon, of Ocean Side, and two deputies.

Morales had just emerged from some brush in which he was concealed and was in the act of washing his hands when the Constable and his deputies covered him with their rifles. He surrendered quietly.

Nymphia Brown, the girl whom the outlaw abducted, was also found in the brush. She was taken from her home a month ago by Morales. She refused to say whether she accompanied the outlaw willingly or by force.

The officials took the prisoners to San Luis Rey. The girl will be turned over to her parents and Morales held for the murder of Henry Charles, the wealthy rancher, whom he killed while stealing some horses.

A LUNATIC IN CHURCH.

James Corkey Strikes the Censer From a Priest's Hand.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A wild-eyed man entered St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday morning during the celebration of the children's mass.

Father Lavelle was burning incense at the time. As he waved the censer, he of the wild eye gave a yell, ran at full speed up the middle aisle, bounded over the rails of the sanctuary, scattered the little altar boys right and left, and, striking Father Lavelle's censer a vicious blow with his fist, uttered a long streak of profanity.

Several members of the congregation jumped from their seats and hurried to the altar. Three of them seized the stranger and rushed him out of the church. On Madison avenue he was handed over to a policeman, who took him to the Fifty-first Street Police Station.

He said his name was James Corkey, and he was once a school principal at South Amboy, N. J. When asked why he created the disturbance in the Cathedral he said: "Because I have waged war against superstition and I rock the cradle of young America."

BRODIE'S LAST ACT.

He Returns Home and Sticks to the Story that He went Over the Falls.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Steve Brodie has returned here and says he accomplished the object of his life by going over the falls.

Brodie looks a little pale, but beyond that he is all right. He has only one bruise on his right ankle, a mere scratch. He says he will soon have affidavits from every member of the party who saw him go over the falls.

"I will take an oath and hope I may drop dead and my arms may rot off me if I didn't see Steve Brodie go over the Falls," said Lewis Ledger. "He was thrown out about ten feet, maybe more, by the water, and I saw him as plain as I see you know. I put a 200 foot rope rround me and swam over to him. Harding stood on shore and pulled us in."

Harding is still in Canada but an affidavit is expected from him in a few days.

St. Louis Would Not Play.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 9.—The St. Louis—Brooklyn game which was to have been played yesterday was not played, the St. Louis Club absenting themselves. The umpire gave the game to the Brooklyns. The St. Louis Club's refusal to play was because they objected to the umpire's decision Saturday refusing to call the game on account of darkness, and giving it to the Brooklyns.

ROMANCE OF THE FLOOD.

A Brave Girl Saves a Man's Life, and Then Marries Him.

John Prowley, a young fisherman, whose good-natured habits have made him popular for many miles along the Susquehanna river, walked into the Perry County courthouse the other day and asked for a marriage license, writes a Harrisburg (Pa.) correspondent. His face was not so brown that it did not betray his blushes when he announced the name of his prospective bride, but it was not because she had ever been guilty of a wrong-doing that he flushed. The girl was Mary Yerger and he was very proud of her. They had lived within ten miles of each other for years, but it was not until the recent great flood in Pennsylvania that they were brought to an acquaintance.

John is a carpenter's son, and he industriously aided his father to provide for a large family by fishing and piloting fishing parties from the big towns around the river. Most of the time was spent along the Susquehanna, near which his parents lived. When the June flood came people from all parts of the country hurried to the river to see its sights. Mary Yerger and a boy, son of the farmer with whom she lived, loitered on the water's edge until dusk of the day when the water had reached its highest mark. Few persons had tarried so long, but she and the boy forgot the time while looking out on the swift waters at a boom-log catcher. He was standing in a frail skiff, hooking the big booms with a long pole and towing them to land on the opposite side of the river. Boom after boom was thus secured, and he operated with such vigorous regularity that it seemed his strength would soon be exhausted. He had just landed one of unusual size, which took all his strength, and Mary thought he would rest awhile before going out into the troublesome waters again. But he didn't, and, wiping the perspiration from his brow with a part of his torn shirt-sleeve, he quickly rowed out and was headed toward a large walnut log. Before he reached the coveted prize his boat had been caught between a mass of the booms, which ground it to pieces like a thing of glass. He escaped most miraculously from instant death by climbing over the logs and reaching the water. He tried to swim for the shore, but it was plainly seen that he was too much overcome to get even half the distance. The current was swift, and he was beginning to go down with it.

Mary Yerger knew that he would drown unless she saved him, for nobody else was in sight. It was a perilous attempt, but she did not hesitate. She was not the kind of a woman to see a human life thus sacrificed without at least an effort to rescue, and with almost superhuman strength she dragged into the water a rowboat that had been pulled up on elevated ground, safe from the rising water. When she reached the man he was so nearly exhausted that he could not climb into the boat without her assistance. That night from the same table at which John Prowley ate his supper, Mary Yerger's meal was also taken. It was at John's home, and the two sat around the table a long time, telling their experience of the early evening to John's parents, and their other children. Mary was always thereafter a welcome guest at the Prowley home, and John spent much of his time in her company.

It was with a proud satisfaction that John related this circumstance while the clerk was filling out his marriage license. John and Mary are married now, and they expect to get a pretty good start toward housekeeping when the Lumberman's Exchange, of Williamsport, pays for the logs which John caught.

MARRY A GENTLEMAN.

Excellent Advice for Young Women of a Marriageable Age.

It was excellent advice I saw lately given to young ladies urging them to marry only gentlemen, or not marry at all. The word is used in its broadest, truest sense. It did not have reference to those who have fine raiment and white hands and the veneering of society polish, merely, to entitle them to the distinction, but to those possessed of true, manly and noble qualities, however hard their hands and sun browned their faces.

A true gentleman is generous and unselfish. He regards another's happiness and welfare as well as his own. You will see the trait running through all his actions. A man who is a bear at home among his sisters and discourteous to his mother is just the man to avoid when you come to the great question which is to be answered yes or no.

A man may be ever so rustic in his early surroundings, if he is a true gentleman he will not bring a blush to your cheek in any society by his absurd behavior. There is an instinctive politeness inherent in such a character which every where commands respect and makes its owner pass for what he is—one of nature's noblemen. Do not despair, girls, there are such men still in the world. You need not die old maids. But wait until the prince passes by. No harm in delay.

You will not be apt to find him in the ball room, and I know he will never be seen walking up from the liquor saloon. Nor is he a champion billiard player. He has not had time to become a "champion," for he has had too much honest, earnest work to do in the world. I have always observed that these "champions" were seldom good for much else.

Be wary in choosing, girls, when so much is at stake. Do not mistake a passing fancy for undying love. Marrying in haste rarely ends well. Do not resent too much the interference of your parents. You will travel long and far in this world before you will find any one who has your true interest at heart more than your father and mother, and age and experience have given them an insight into character which is much beyond your own. It is very unsafe to marry a man against whom such wise friends have warned you.

I never yet knew of a runaway match that was not followed by deep trouble in one way or another, and matches made "in spite" are pretty sure to end in life-long repentance.

Seven Things Worth Knowing.

If a whole egg is too much of a burden for the invalid's stomach try the yelk only.

If poisoned by ivy, bathe the affected parts three times a day with sweet spirits of nitre.

Damp salt will remove the discolorations of cups and saucers caused by tea and careless washing.

To clean willow furniture use salt and water. Apply it with a nail-brush, scrub well and dry thoroughly.

A room with a low ceiling will seem higher if the window-curtains hang to the floor. Lambrequins may be used to extend the curtains to the ceiling and thus carry out the effect.

A London medical man says: "Be careful in your dealings with horse-radish. It irritates the stomach far more than spice, and an overdose will bring on an unpleasant sensation for days."

For excessive perspiration of the feet one part of alum with two parts of glycerine should be rubbed on the feet at night and a light, open sock worn. In the morning the feet should be washed with tepid water.—Washington Capital.

WORK AND WORKERS.

SENATOR GIBSON, after a European trip, says: All over Europe continental policemen no longer browbeat the common people, who are better dressed, better behaved and happier looking. Aristocracy he sees everywhere declining, and he is satisfied that plutocracy will be given a chance of taking its place. The common people have also an air of self-respect, which was certainly not the case thirty years ago.

AMERICAN letter in Rochdale (Eng.) Observer: "The country having the greatest natural resources is sure in the long run to attract the world's capital and labor and be the center of the world's manufacturing and commercial industries. That country is at present the United States, and on this fact I have always based my argument for the removal of commercial restrictions."

WAS HIS OWN WIFE.

How a Swindler Collected Insurance Money on His Own Life.

Insurance frauds more remarkable than that alleged to have been attempted in the Hillman case have been attempted in Germany.

There is the case of the man Kumf, who was imprisoned for collecting insurance money on his own life, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This man was a skillful impersonator, and, disguised as a woman, he applied for an insurance on his own life.

As the husband of the applicant he presented himself for medical examination, was accepted and the policy issued. In course of time he feigned sickness and was attended by a short-sighted old physician he had selected as a man easily to be duped.

One day during this spell of sickness he got up quietly, disguised himself once more as his wife, went to the insurance office, paid a premium about due, and tearfully announced the grievous sickness of the insured.

The company seem to have suspected that this illness was not at all straight, for, having casually asked the name of the attending physician, they sent to that gentleman, whose replies to their questions allayed their suspicions.

One day this doctor was called in great haste and told that Kumf was dead. The old fellow does not appear to have been very conscientious or painstaking.

On his arrival at the house he was met by Kumf, this time disguised as the wife or alleged widow, and taken to a darkened room in which lay a corpse. His examination of this must have been nominal, for in a short space of time he quit the house, leaving behind him the required death certificate.

As the bereaved widow, Kumf attended the interment of what purported to be his own body. Still, as the widow of himself he obtained the insurance money on his own life and his little plot had answered admirably.

Unfortunately for him, however, he got intoxicated, first with success and then with liquor, whereupon he neglected to keep up the disguise, went about as the dead man redivivus, was detected and still languishes in jail.

POINTED RESOLUTIONS.

Penurious Kentucky Youths Called to Their Senses with Emphasis.

For some time the greatest indignation has prevailed among the fair young ladies of Calhoun, Ky. The young gentlemen recently have not been as attentive as Kentucky gallantry warranted. There have been no picnics, no ice-cream parties, no lawn festivals, no boat rides. In fact, whenever and wherever money was to be spent the beaux were absent, but if no funds were required they appeared in numbers. This may not have been due to stinginess, but to a temporary poverty which they could not prevent; but, in the judgment of the girls, that did not suffice for an excuse. Accordingly the indignant belles held a recent meeting and adopted the following resolutions, which were printed in the local paper, the Constitution:

Whereas, We, the undersigned, believing as we do that we have not received the treatment from the young men of this town that we merited, have, with a view to self-protection, mutual benefit and future welfare, organized ourselves into a body; and

Resolved, 1. That we will allow no young man to "catch on" and accompany us from church, prayer meetings, ice-cream suppers, entertainments, etc., who has not been our escort to such places.

Resolved, 2. That if we can not be "table cloth" we will not be "dish-rag"—in other words, we will not accept a card if we find or know that the sender has sent one to some other young lady previously to sending to us the same evening.

Resolved, 3. That we think the young men of this town display unbounded audacity and temerity when they accompany us to places where no cash is necessary, but are conspicuously absent when something takes place which would necessitate going into their pocket-books.

Resolved, 4. That every member of this organization be furnished with a copy of these resolutions. Miss ——— ———, Secretary.

As a result of this bold manifesto the boys have managed to rake up some cash, and are spending it quite liberally in order to regain the good graces of the Calhoun young ladies, who are as handsome as any in Kentucky.

Sullivan Will Be a Valuable Prisoner.

PURVIS, Miss., Sept. 9.—The statement that Mr. Rish has leased the prisoners of Marion County, and will have charge of Sullivan and Kilrain, is erroneous. Mr. Rish is only one of several bidders for the labor of prisoners. The bidding will be unusually lively on account of the undoubted value of Sullivan's muscular strength.

Sullivan for Congress.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—John L. Sullivan will remain in town for a few days. His friends say that he is determined to round out his career after the style of the late John Morrissey. The big slugger told Muldoon yesterday that he proposed running for Congress from his district in Boston.

How Boss Says His Prayers.

W. S. Wells, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the possessor of a beautiful black and white cocker spaniel, which for intelligence perhaps is not surpassed by any dog in the State, says the Philadelphia Press. Every morning as soon as Boss hears his master stirring he brings his slippers, after which he scampers to the front porch for the morning paper, always being careful to close the door after him. Boss never thinks of retiring for the night without first saying his prayers. He places his front feet upon a chair, bows his head reverently, closes his eyes, and nothing but "amen" pronounced by his master will induce him to cease his devotions. One evening last week, as Mr. Wells was closing the house, Boss came in with what his master supposed to be a bone, but when ordered out with it refused to obey, and insisted upon delivering to Mr. Wells what he held in his mouth. Upon examination Mr. Wells found, to his great surprise, not a bone, but his spectacles and case that he had dropped by accident in the barn while attending to his horse. Boss is not for sale.

FIRE CUT THEM OFF

Women Perish in the Flames at Albany.

A BIG PAPER HOUSE BURNED.

A Number of the Operatives Jumped from the Upper Stories.

The Flames Spread With Great Rapidity and a Large Number of Employes Had a Narrow Escape from Death—Men Dragged Out of the Flames Fatally Injured—Spontaneous Combustion the Origin of the Fire.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Fire started yesterday afternoon in the paper stock warehouse of P. J. McArdle.

The building was a frame structure. The flames spread with great rapidity and the entire structure was soon a seething mass of flames.

A cry of horror went up as a woman was seen in a four-story window surrounded by the flames. She looked below for a moment and then jumped to the pavement. Her ribs were fractured and she sustained internal injuries that will prove very serious. Her name is Ella Frank.

Daniel Gannon, a boy, was the next to appear at the window. He jumped, receiving a fracture of the ribs.

Richard Gamble jumped down the elevator shaft and was fatally injured.

A Mrs. Powers jumped from a fourth story window and fell upon a pile of iron. She was horribly bruised and will die.

It is reported that a number of operators did not have time to escape. The most alarming reports were circulated. It was impossible to obtain the names of the operatives and naught but a search will reveal the truth or falsity of the exciting rumors. A large number were employed in assorting, many of them women of an advanced age. Later in the afternoon it was reported that a dozen had met death in the building.

When the fire started there were four men and twelve women in the building, all in the fourth story. The flames spread so rapidly that there was no time to escape by the stairway and the roof and windows were used. Three men got out by the hoisting apparatus, but Richard Gamble, the bookkeeper, jumpnd down the elevator shaft and was injured so that he died last night. Four women jumped from the fourth story window. Mrs. Mack, 50 years of age, fell on a pile of scrap-iron, sustaining injuries from which she died at 11 o'clock last night.

Others badly injured were: Lulu Hartman, Carrie Swartz, Ellen Franks, Mrs. McShane, Daniel Gorman and John Beglin. All of the latter will recover.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Eddie Hill Dragged Aloft 1,000 Feet in a Hot Air Balloon.

PORTLAND, Ore. Sept. 10.—A very exciting and thrilling incident occurred here last evening. Prof. P. H. Redmond, an æronaut, was to make an ascension in a hot air balloon. Just as the large airship sailed away skywark a lad aged 12 years, named Eddie Hill, became entangled in the ropes attached to the trapeze. His neck got caught in a half noose and the boy could not extricate himself. He clung desperately to the ropes with both hands, and by winding them around both arms managed to save himself from falling and from chocking to death.

The balloon arose over 1,000 feet and drifted several miles away to the southeast, finally coming down as light as a feather, landing the lad without a scratch. The boy was frightened nearly to death, but soon recovered after finding himself safely on earth.

Prof. Redmond did not go up at all, for if he had his weight would have choked the boy to death. When he saw how the lad was caught he let go the ropes and remained on the ground. Great excitement prevailed during the time the balloon was in the air.

Gov. Thayer's Reception at Milford.

MILFORD, Mass., Sept. 10.—The reception last evening to Governor Thayer of Nebraska by the Irish societies of Milford was a very successful affair. The streets were crowded with enthusiastic people and the illuminations and decorations were quite general. A big procession escorted Gov. Thayer from the Mansion House to the Town Hall, where P. H. Curran delivered an address of welcome, to which Gov. Thayer responded appropriately. There were also speeches by a number of prominent Irish-Americans, after which an informal reception was held and a banquet followed. The Governor was presented with a fine gold-headed cane by the Emmet Association. The occasion of these honors to Gov. Thayer was his recent defense of Hon. Patrick Egan from the attacks of political enemies.

Charlemagne Tower's Will.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The terms of the will of the late Charlemagne Tower of Philadelphia have been made public. Four-tenths of the estate is bequeathed to the widow and the remainder is to be divided among the five children of the deceased. On the death of the widow her property is also to be divided among the children. Mrs. C. B. Putnam, wife of an attorney in this city, is a daughter of the deceased and her share is estimated at $4,000,000.

Suspect Coughlin's Wife as a Witness.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Maggie Coughlin, wife of the Cronin suspect, is in the city. She says that she is willing to tell what she knows on the witness stand. She avers that the statement that her husband wore his uniform on the night of the murder is incorrect. She complains that she has suffered the indignity of having all her personal letters opened in Chicago before they reach her.

KILLED THE MURDERER.

A Police Officer Compelled to Shoot a Negro Who was Trying to Escape.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 10.—John Kolbe was killed last evening by being struck in the breast with a brick alleged to have been thrown by a negro named Wm. Chester, in the saloon of John Frisch on East Monument street.

At 9 o'clock Sergeant Tohs. F. Hogan, who was looking for Chester, came up with his man and arrested him. Chester tried to escape. He struck the sergeant a heavy blow and knocked him to his knees. Hogan drew his pistol and fired four shots at Chester. One of the bullets struck Chester in the back of the neck and killed him.

Kolbe was 30 years of age and leaves a widow and three children at No. 504 Rose street.

Terrible Boiler Explosion.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Sept. 10.—At 12:35 this forenoon, a boiler used on the farm of John W. Snyder, half a mile east of this city, exploded with disastrous results. Five men lost their lives, viz: John W. Snyder, Thomas Lyget, Andrew Lyget, John Biggs and Isaac Miller (colored). The men were grouped about the boiler which was leaking and giving trouble. Mr. Snyder gave the order to shut down, when in an instant the boiler exploded. Wm. G. Spiller was blown some distance and escaped with a broken leg. All the men except Andrew Lyget have families and all are residents of this vicinity.

The New York Sheriff's Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Margaret Smith and her sister testified before the Grand Jury in the Flack case that they did not make the affidavits purporting to have been made by them, which were used in the divorce proceedings, and in which it was stated that Flack lived with Mrs. Raymond at Mrs. Smith's house. They stated that they signed the affidavits upon misstatements by ex-Judge Monell as to the contents.

The Story Disbelieved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—The story that 400 miners are starving on the Yukon River in Alaska is not believed here. The statement is based on a letter written over a year ago to the effect that the miners were nearly out of provisions. Communication with the Yukon region has been open since April, with no confirmation of the report. Game and fish are always plenty there, and there are not 400 miners in the region.

Playing With Dynamite.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 10.—An Italian working on the Midland Railroad eight miles north of here picked up a dynamite cartridge yesterday and began tossing it to a companion, who let it fall and it exploded. Two of the Italians were literally torn to pieces, while others were seriously injured. The names of the dead men were not learned.

A Minister Killed by the Cars.

WARREN, N. H., Sept. 10.—The Rev. Salmon Gleason, aged 85 years, was struck and killed by the Montreal express train yesterday evening. He was located here as a clergyman over half a century ago. Some years ago he went into the lumber business in Minnesota, but had spent the last six years of his life here.

The Long-Expected Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The President has made the following appointments: George W. Lyon, Surveyor, of Customs for the Port of New York; Theo. B. Willis, Naval Officer of Customs in the district of New York; Ernst Nathan, Collector of Internal Revenue for the first district of New York.

Incendiaries Arrested.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 10.—Since July 4 there have been six incendiary fires in Roslyndale. Last evening R. G. Duffee, aged 21, of West Roxbury, and Benjamin Davison, aged 26, of this place; were arrested in the act of firing an unoccupied house and were held for the Grand Jury.

A Deaf Man Struck by an Engine.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 10.—John Pell, aged 68 years, residing at 155 Orange street, was struck and killed by the through Niagara Falls express yesterday. He was walking along the track when the train rounded a curve and he was struck by the engine. He was deaf and failed to hear the whistle.

The Inventor Wants a Divide.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 10.—Byron B. Floyd, of this city, inventor of a roller toboggan chute, has brought suit against Ezra V. Merrill of Stafford Hollow, N. H., who furnished capital for the early business of the company for $100,000 and for an accounting of the doings of the company.

California Pioneers Celebrate.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—The Society of California Pioneers of New England celebrated the 41st anniversary of the discovery of gold in California by a banquet, last evening at Odd Fellows' building. At a business meeting Wm. H. Thomas was elected President for the ensuing year.

An Old Postmaster Dead.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Postmaster R. V. Cunningham died at his home in this city last night, aged 83 years. He was one of the oldest residents of this city.

Guilford's Celebration.

GUILFORD, Conn., Sept. 10.—The celebration of the 250th anniversary of this town's settlement was continued to-day. Col. T. W. Higginson, Senator Hawley and others delivered addresses.

The President Returns to Deer Park.

WASHINGTON, Sept., 10.—The President went to Deer Park this morning. Private Secretary Halford who is still unwell, accompanied the President.

HON. S. S. COX DYING

The Genial Congressman Very Low With Pneumonia.

HE HAS BEEN ILL BUT A WEEK

His Physicians Have Only a Bare Hope that He Will Not Die To-day.

His Disease Contracted in Washington—He is Full of Courage and Says He is Willing to Die if it Must Be—Six Physicians in Consultation this Morning—The Congressman's Chief Regret is to Leave His Wife.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Congressman Samuel Sullivan Cox is reported to be dying at his home, No. 13 East Twelfth street this city, by an attack of what is supposed to be malarial fever.

This rapidly developed into acute pneumonia which has defied the best medical skill.

SUNSET COX.

Six physicians, including Dr. Fordyce Barker and Dr. Stanton of Washington, were in consultation over his case. At noon all hopes of his recovery were given up. His wife was prostrated with grief. Mr. Cox returned several weeks ago from a lecturing tour in Dakota and Washington Territory in his usual good health. Two weeks ago he went to Washington in the interest of one of his constituents, and caught cold which was followed by malarial fever. His physicians thinks he can hardly live through the day. It was not until yesterday that his illness assumed the danger necessitating the calling of so many physicians.

It is not generally known, but the death of Congressman Cox will remove from the field a candidate for President.

To his efforts the Dakotas, Montana and Washington, owe their Statehood, and his visit to these newly-made States was to start his little boom for 1892.

Congressman Cox was to have lectured on his visit to Yellowstone Park before the Steckler Association tonight.

EXPENSIVE JURORS.

What it Costs to Get Twelve Men to Try Dr. Cronin's Alleged Murderers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—This is the tenth day of the effort to secure a jury for the trial of the alleged murderers of Dr. Cronin. According to present appearances the dreary work may go on from week to week for another month.

Between the prosecution and the defense 150 peremptory challenges are yet held in reserve, and as both sides resort to every possible means to secure a challenge for cause, it is evident that the number of peremptory challenges that remain can be spread over a very long period.

This kind of justice is decidedly expensive, not so much to the defense as to the taxpayers.

The cost of running the court is very close to $90 each hour, and on this basis the amount expended on Mr. Gross, who, after being accepted by both sides was fired out by the State, was in the neighborhood of $2,500.

If the trial occupies three months, and this is not an impossibility, the cost to the county will be very close to $45,000.

In the meantime the defense has been advised that the Eastern Triangle camps of the Clan-na-Gael have refused to respond to a call made upon them for $1 per week per head, saying they cannot stand the drain.

Accident Near Lynchburg, Va.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 10.—A freight wreck occurred yesterday four miles below this city on the Norfolk and Western Railroad, resulting in the killing of Fireman Charles McDowley of Petersburg, and perhaps the fatal injury of Brakeman Randolph.

A Prominent Catholic Drops Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—James McInerney, Supreme Trustee of the Catholic Knights of America, a very influential benefit society, dropped dead at Coney Island last evening. He was fifty years of age and was widely known and respected throughout the order.

A Fiendish Act Unearthed.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 10.—Investigation by the Grand Jury of Fayette County has brought to light a most fiendish plot. About a month ago Chas. West, a well-to-do white man and prominent politician, was murdered by a desperate negro named Turner. The negro was lynched the same day. It now turns out, one of the guilty parties having confessed, that Turner was hired to kill West and then those who hired him lynched him to close his mouth. Several prominent people interested have fled the country.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The thermometer this morning dropped to 67 degrees.

—There has been no failure about the mosquito crop this season.

—Some of the reckless drivers of this city need the attention of the police.

—The annual parade of the Uniform Rank, K. of P., will be held in Trenton, Sept. 23.

—The elements are shaping for the annual rain storm during the week of the State Fair.

—The base ball "feller" will shortly have to take a back seat to make way for the politicianer.

—Miss Nettie Mattison will resume lessons upon the piano on Thursday, Sept. 12, at 147 Somerset street.

—The Rahway grocers have formed a Retail Grocers Protective Association, similar to the association organized in this city.

—Miss Fawcett's Kindergarten and school at 48 Craig place, will open on Wednesday of next week, as advertised elsewhere.

—To-morrow the members of the Plainfield Reform Club and their friends will go on their excursion to Mauch Chunk and Glen Onoko.

—The firemen of North Plainfield are requested to meet at the engine house, this evening at eight o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a Relief Association.

—Mrs. J. T. Ellis will be present at the Warren Mission young people's meeting this evening, and have something to say which will interest all. Everybody welcome.

—A team of farm horses attached to a covered wagon, ran away in front of THE PRESS office this morning, but were captured before any serious damage was done.

—Sebring Bros, are making an elegant display of Fall suitings and trouserings at their clothing establishment, 27 Park ave. Their cut, finish and style, are unsurpassed.

—Margaret Brennan of Dunellen, was arrested on Saturday on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Justice T. Leonard Coles committed her to jail for 30 days.

—Mrs. J. T. Ellis delivered one of her old-time addresses before a large audience at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. Great enthusiasm was manifested throughout the service.

—The police were summoned to a house on Lake street, late last evening, to "fire out" a couple of drunken men. Officer Cooney went down, but the men had left before he arrived at the place.

—Upon the ending of the season at Asbury Park, Mr. Charles Krewson has closed his pool and bowling rooms at the Coleman House, and is again in charge of the Olympia alleys in this city for the Winter.

—Messers Homan & Ryerson, the carriage manufacturers of Somerset street, have just turned out a handsome new delivery wagon for Mr. James O'Neill of South Second street, who is the agent for the Hill Union Brewery of Newark.

—The largest fish caught out of New Market Pond was landed yesterday by Joseph Maitland. It was a carp and weighed 13 pounds. He also caught the largest eel ever caught in New Market pond. It weighed over six pounds.

—On account of increased business Messrs. VanEmburgh & White, the West Front street dry and fancy goods dealers have found it necessary to establish a free delivery system, and they have accordingly added a handsome new delivery wagon, beautifully lettered, to their rolling stock.

—Nothing has yet been heard from Chas. Myer, the farm hand who robbed Mr. Jos. King of Stirling, on Sunday, of about $200 worth of personal property, and escaped to New York. It is safe to say, however, that the thief will never show himself around this part of the country again.

M. J. Coyne, one of the best cutters in the city, has been secured by Mr. A. C. Horton to take charge of the custom clothing department that he has just opened in connection with his gentlemen's furnishing goods establishment, 5 West Front street. Mr. Horton will hereafter make a specialty of men's fine clothing to order, and will soon offer the handsomest line of Fall overcoats ever seen.

LEON ABBETT NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 10—Hon. Leon Abbett, was this afternoon unanimously declared the nominee for Governor, by the Democratic State Convention assembled here. The Convention was harmonious throughout.

JACK'S TWELFTH.

The Ripper Resumes His Terrible Work in Whitechapel.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Whitechapel has been visited again by Jack the Ripper.

The twelfth and most horrible of all the murders committed by this fiend incarnate was committed last night in that district.

A workman passing through Backchurch lane, in the extreme south end of Whitechapel, came upon the body of a woman murdered and multilated in a most horrible fashion.

The Monarchs of Minstrelsy.

Primrose & West, the millionaire monarchs of minstrelsy, will open their present season at the Taylor Opera House, Trenton, next Saturday night. During the past twenty years numbers of minstrel companies have risen and fallen. In almost every organization that has attained success the names of George H. Primrose and William H. West have been prominent. Beginning together along in the sixties, they have struggled together until their names are as well known in their profession as the name of Barnum in the circus world or Jennie Lind in the realms of song.

The public has been very generous to them and has given them fortune, but the people have also given them approbation, and this they esteem more highly than money. It has always been their boast that some day they would put the grandest show of the World on the road. Their present organization is the fulfillment of their promise. They have spared neither pains or expense to procure elaborate, special scenery, gorgeous costumes, special features and artists of world wide fame.

The company will appear at Music Hall, on Monday evening, Sept. 16.

W. C. T. U. Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the rooms, No. 73 West Front street, yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Officers were elected as follows: President—Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson; Recording Secretary—Mrs. J. H. French; Corresponding Secretary — Miss May Tomlinson; Treasurer—Mrs. J. H. Mac Naughton.

Encouraging reports were read by the superintendents of the various departments.

Plenty of Peaches in Hunterdon.

(From the Flemington Democrat)

While the city papers—which know everything—publish paragraphs every day or two about the failure of the Hunterdon county peach crop, car-load after car-load of fine fruit is being shipped to market daily. Last Monday evening twenty-one cars, piled to the roof with peaches, left the Central station in this place. The greatest trouble is to get suitable baskets enough to hold the yield.

Two Females in a Fight.

A couple of females got into an altercation on the railroad track near Grant avenue, last evening, and one of them knocked the other down, cutting her head badly. The injured woman came to town bareheaded, and with blood flowing from an ugly wound on the back of the head. She sought to have the woman arrested, but the police advised her to wait until morning, and to then swear out a warrant.

—Miss S. G. Kenny's school for little girls, will reopen Thursday of next week at 3 First place.

—The handsome paper for the Primrose & West Minstrel Company is being put up about the city this afternoon.

—A large number of persons from this city signify their intention to attend the grand ball at the Mt. Bethel Hotel, tomorrow evening.

—Mr. E. A. Laine, the North avenue tonsorial artist, has a miniature base ball team placed in position in his show window, which attracts considerable attention.

—A box wagon belonging to Mr. J. S. Cutter, the grocer, broke down under the weight of four barrels of oil near the freight house, yesterday, and two of the wheels were completely wrecked.

—Sealed proposals for "County Road Bonds" to the amount of $150,000, at $1,000 each, were advertised for by the Board of Freeholders in THE PRESS of yesterday. The bonds will bear interest at four per cent. Proposals will be received at the Court House, Elizabeth, until Thursday, Sept. 26.

Positively Delicious.

So delightful to the taste are HAMBURG FIGS that they could be placed upon the table for dessert, and no one would suspect that they were more than very superior crystalized fruit. This property is what makes them so popular with ladies and children for the cure of indigestion and sick headache. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co, N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. B. T. Barnes and son, are at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. E. M. Laing of North Plainfield, is visiting relatives at Millstone.

His Honor, the Mayor, is enjoying a two weeks vacation at Saratoga.

Mr. James Lancey and family, are at The Plimpton, Watch Hill, R. I.

Mrs. C. T. Erskine, of Third place, and Miss Erskine, have returned from Sheffield, Mass.

Mr. John H. Cuthbert and bride arrived in town last evening and will remain here indefinitely.

Miss Anna Moore of Plainfield is visiting Miss Clara Scott at her home on First avenue, Elizabeth.

Mr. Fred Elliott and family have left New Brighton, S. I., and taken up their residence in this city.

Mrs. M. M. Walker and mother, are enjoying some days of recreation at Mt. Airy and Germantown, Pa.

Miss Gertrude Conover returned home from Jersey City, on Friday, after spending a month with relatives there.

Mrs. Dr. J. E. Danielson, of Brooklyn, with her infant daughter, Clara Lilian, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. L. Force, of Duer street.

Mr. James M. Whitfield, son and Miss Whitfield have returned from Pine Bush, N. Y., and taken possession of their Tenth street residence.

Subscriptions are already being received for another series of chamber-music concerts by Mr. A. Venino and the Beethoven String Quartette.

Col. Geo. W. Povey of Newark was present at a regular meeting of Crescent Division, No. 13, Uniformed Rank, K. of P., held in Perseverance lodge room, last evening.

A very private wedding occurred at the residence of Justice T. R. C[illegible]sley, in North Plainfield, last evening. The contracting couple were Mr. Alexander Weir and Miss Katie Donohue, both of this city.

Mr. W. A. Coddington, the efficient assistant in the office of the City Judge, started for Boston, yesterday, where he goes to settle up the well-known Montague estate, amounting to upwards of $50,000, having been given power of attorney by all of the heirs. Mr. Coddington will prove himself equal to the emergency.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredric M. VanEmburgh have returned from their wedding trip and are at home in Westfield. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. G. L. Van Emburgh, of this city, and a buyer with Spellman Bros., of New York. He was married Aug. 26., last, at the bride's home, Bergen Heights, to Miss Cora Rappelye, daughter of Nestor Rappelye, Esq.

The funeral of the late Mary C. Lyon, who died on Saturday, took place from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. A. C. Vail, at the corner of Madison avenue and Eighth street, at noon yesterday, and was largely attended. The Rev. Dr. Lewis spoke at length in eulogy, and the Rev. A. R. Dilts offered prayer. The remains were taken to South Hingham, Mass., for interment.

The Other Way.

Seashore travel is reversed now—the haste is in the opposite direction, and the railroads can hardly get trains enough at any point to carry the tide of travel. It seems as if everybody had been at the seaside. A few years ago it was said the tide turned Aug. 15, but now it is truer to say Sept. 1. The seasons lengthen, the travelers increase, the resorts extend until they merge into one another, but still there is no end of it.

Gone But Not Forgotten.

John Bowman was arrested on Sunday evening for disorderly conduct on the street. Yesterday morning before Judge Stillman he pleaded not guilty to the charge, and he was released on his own recognizance to appear for trial in the afternoon. When the time arrived for hearing the case, the defendant failed to materialize, and he is now wanted by the police.

Called for the Police and They Came.

Geo. S. Paine, a farmer, drove into town with a load of hay on Saturday, and spent the proceeds in the borough barrooms. During the evening, at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, he shouted for the police, and Officer Giesse was soon on hand and escorted him to the city jail. Yesterday he was fined $5.

City Court Proceedings.

Michael Cox was yesterday fined $10 for disorderly conduct on the street, Saturday night.

James Harding and James Coffield, were arraigned before Judge Stillman today for fighting. They were fined $10 each.

Paul Axmann was fined $5 for disorderly conduct.

Committed to the County Jail.

Constable Amos Moffett last evening took William Oeche to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury, for breaking into a store at Scotch Plains, on Sunday night. The man, it is said, has already served a term in State Prison for larceny.

Sudden Death.

Heart disease is developed by modern civilization, and is increasing to an alarming extent. Let him who suspects the existence of this cause of sudden death take DR. FLINT'S REMEDY, and let all persons read his treatise on "Heart Disease," which will be sent on application by Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

When They Ran a Stage From Plainfield.

The man about town of a New York paper, says: "The railroads are gradually wiping out the old stage routes in the back counties of New Jersey, and the lumbering coaches that used to wake the echoes in the hills have gone out of service. Even the old stage drivers have apparently been laid upon the shelf, and it is a rare thing nowadays to meet one of these relics of a quarter of a century ago.

"I met on Cortlandt street the other day Stage Driver Stevens of former days. I remember him as he used to look, twenty-five years ago, perched on the front seat of the old stage coach which ran from Plainfield, on the New Jersey Central road, to Basking Ridge and Liberty Corners. He carried the mail bags then on the floor of the stage between his feet, and his approach was signaled by a long blast on an old tin horn.

"The children on his route used to hang on the fences and wave their chubby hands as he bowled along the old country road, and the coming of the mail was always a great event in the lives of the village lads and lasses. Mr. Stevens is living at Bound Brook now, and it is a long time since he gave up stage driving as a means of livelihood."

A Voice From Home.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have read with interest your articles on Westfield and your replies to the Editor of the Standard. The only trouble with that esteemed contemporary is that "he bites off more than he can chew."

The first bite was the school question, and it sticks in the editorial throat yet; also the "electric light" and "borough government." So, twixt the three, with other morsels not quite so prominent, it makes quite a mouthful. The good editor must also see that his shoes are blacked "abaft the shaft," as he has earnestly urged his young readers to be particular about; and it has pained me considerably to notice on a number of occasions that there has been a lack of polish on that part of his costume, which does not accord with the advice so freely given.

Go slow, Mr. Standard, and don't try and get ahead of the procession. The funeral is not all yours, and will get there if you will only keep in the ranks and not try and headoff the hearse.

ROY, JR.

Second New Jersey Brigade.

The second reunion of the Second New Jersey Brigade Society, will be held at Elizabeth, New Jersey, on Thursday, September 26, 1889. The Society will be called to order promptly at 11 o'clock A. M., in Library Hall, Broad street, for the transaction of business.

Immediately after, the Society will be welcomed by His Honor P. H. Grier, Mayor of the City. Response by Gen. Wm. J. Sewell, President of the Society. Addresses are expected from Governor R. S. Green, Generals Sickels, Sharp, Carr, Rusling, and others.

Sauce for the Goose is Sauce for the Gander.

A good many gunners seem to labor under the delusion that a farmer must put up signs against trespassing if he would enforce the penalty. A much better delusion to labor under is that a farmer owns his property and that it would be the proper thing to go and ask permission to tramp over a farm. The gunner would think the farmer very rude if he were to come tramping through his house without asking permission, and what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

No Inquest Held.

On Saturday County Physician Westcott after viewing the remains of the late Frederick Schultze and Ludwig Blosbauer, who were killed by the cars at Elizabeth on Friday, ordered that a coroner's jury be impanelled but later on rescinded the order by request of the friends of the deceased and granted certificates for burial.

Invited to Bayonne.

Engine Company No. 2 of this city, has received an invitation from the fire department of Bayonne, to be present with their apparatus and participate in the annual firemen's parade in that place on Oct. 3. The company will either accept or decline the invitation at a regular meeting to be held on Thursday evening of this week.

Ho! for the Mountains!

If you want to feast upon the magnificence of nature, and imbibe the health giving nectar of pure mountain air, fail not to join the Reform Club excursion to Mauch Chunk and the Switchback tomorrow. The expense is moderate and you will be abundantly repaid in genuine pleasure. The train leaves Plainfield at 9.25 A. M.

Must Show Papers.

Job Hiles, an old soldier, declined to pay his taxes at Millville some weeks ago, on the ground that he was entitled to $500 exemption. His property was sold, and he brought suit against the city, but it being shown that he had refused to show his papers, it was ruled that he could not claim exemption.

Lamp Explosion on a Train.

A lamp exploded in a car on the milk train of the New Jersey Central Railroad on Sunday night, and set fire to the roof of the car. The conductor in trying to put out the blaze fell off a seat and was severely burned. There was almost a panic among the passengers. The damage was slight.

The prospects for Fall shooting along the beaches of Southern New Jersey were never known to be more favorable than now. September is the month to test the sportsman's mettle and skill, and with perseverence he is sure to return home laden with small game. Owing to the wet season there are more rabbits than have been seen for years, and quail are equally as plentiful. This is specially so in and about Monmouth county. The swamps are full of water, the birds have hatched their young, and the rabbits have selected their breeding places on high ground.

It is a great many seasons since so many field plover have visited New Jersey, especially in the lower counties. About Atlantic City the fields are reported full of them, and many of them have been shot in Monmouth county. A novel way to shoot these birds is from vehicles. A man driving about in a light wagon can approach within a few yards of this game bird, where they will flee at the approach of a man on foot fifty or a hundred yards away. In Shrewsbury township and about Long Branch some bull-head plover have been shot. When raised, it is usual for the first shot to be used as a stool, when the remainder of the flock will circle about and return to the same place where the bird is supposed to be feeding.

While the upland birds are more plentiful than they have been for many seasons, yellow legs and other seacoast birds are being found in large and numerous flocks from Atlantic City to Sandy Hook. Along the Shrewsbury River snipe are being shot from rowboats, and in some sections from the piazzas of dwellings. Old sportsmen predict that reed birds are going to be very numerous. The season opened on Sept. 1, and a number have already been shot by persons gunning after blackbirds. The reeds are rank and full of seeds—a good sign—and everything looks favorable for a successful season of shooting. The time for marsh hens opened Aug. 25, a week earlier than usual. Gunners report that blackbirds are very scarce as compared with last season at this time, and in and about Monmouth county have been almost exterminated since the blizzard of last year, which killed millions of them.

The Wilson snipe, robin snipe, yellow legs and curlews are now in good flight and are being shot in large numbers. The Autumnal flight of plover will soon take place and the tell-tales will shortly be along. There is no law against shooting these birds in New Jersey and one only needs plenty of ammunition, a good aim and the disposition and endurance to tramp over the marshes and along the beaches, and the ability to handle a gunning skiff.

The best shooting of this kind is to be found about Sandy Hook and along the grassy region at the mouth of the Shrewsbury River, off the Highlands, and the marshes at its head, near Newman Springs where John Sheehan, a well-known gunner of Red Bank, has purchased a large tract of land on the river bank, where he will locate his shooting box.

Better gunning at this time of the year cannot be found anywhere along the coast than in the vicinity of Atlantic City, Great Egg Harbor, Grassy Bay and Brigantine. The sod beach of the latter place is a favorite feeding ground for the robin-breasts, as they are generally called by New York gunners, or robin snipe as they are known to local sportsmen. There is an old hunter, who annually visits this favorite shooting spot, who says that for fifteen years he has shot robin-snipe on Brigantine from behind a blind near the old Smith House before daybreak, catching a bead on their nimble bodies only when the white comb of a breaker flashed in the background, showing up the bird like unto a spot on a white target.

The season for deer will not open until November 1, next year, and as the closed season of the three years will increase the large game wonderfully, the prospects of deer shooting then are good. Many traces of these animals have been found this season as far North as Winslow junction, and in Atlantic county lots of their tracks are noticeable about Weymouth, Buena Vista and Doughtyville, while in Cumberland county many traces are seen.

For extra sport in wing shot the gunner must visit Grassy and Barnegat Bay, which are convenient of access from Atlantic City and Toms River. At these places wild duck and geese are found in large numbers. English snipe may be shot between Oct. 1 and Dec. 12. Woodcock shooting will begin again on Oct. 1 and will last till Dec. 1.

Another Tournament.

Messrs David H. Lenox, Clarence O. Murphy, James H. Hallock, John P. Munn and Frank L. C. Martin, were appointed a committee at the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, last evening, to arrange for another Fall athletic tournament. It will be a success again.

The State Fair.

The thirty-first annual fair of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society will open at Waverly on Monday next. The tickets issued this year are a piece of workmanship and show great taste. Both the regular and complimentaries are printed from steel plates.

If you could see your own scalp through an ordinary magnifying glass, you would be amazed at the amount of dust, dandruff, and dead skin thereon accumulated. The best and most popular preparation for cleansing the scalp is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY.

A Young Woman of Camden County, N. J., Murdered and Robbed.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept 12.—The most brutal murder in the annals of Camden County was perpetrated on the farm of Chalkley Le Coney, who lives on Church Road, about a mile and a half from Merchantville, yesterday. The victim was Miss Anna Elizabeth Le Con , a young lady of 28 years of age.

Miss Le Coney was a niece of Chalkley LeConey, and had kept house for him and his brother for the past eight years. Mr. Le Coney and a hired man, named Garrett W. Murray left the house at five o'clock in the morning to gather cantelopes and watermelons about a quarter of a mile from the house. The men had been at work about four hours when they were startled by the appearance of a little girl who told them that Miss LeConey had been murdered.

The two men went to the house and on entering the kitchen door they saw the body of Miss LeConey lying near the window. Across the throat was a great gash which investigation showed had severed the wind pipe and jugular vein. The clothing was disarranged as though there had been a severe struggle.

Blood covered the floor for a small space about the body, but so far as could be seen was no where else.

The fact showed that the struggle between the assassin and the girl must have been short and its scene circumscribed to a very narrow compass. Mr. LeConey, after taking a hasty glance at the kitchen and the body rushed up stairs to his own room to a large wooden chest, in which he kept his money. The lid of the chest was down, but in the keyhole was a bunch of keys which, when he left the house, were in a pair of trousers in an adjoining apartment. On lifting the lid it was discovered that $78 in gold, and $100 in bank notes had been stolen. In a little kit, or tray in the chest was a wallet containing between two and three hundred dollars in bank notes, and a little bag with thirty or forty dollars in gold and silver. These were undisturbed.

Across the hallway is the bedroom of Miss LeConey. On entering it Mr. LeConey found the murdered girl's trunk broken open and the contents partially taken out and thrown around the room. As his niece had had considerable money in her room, Mr. LeConey supposed the murderer had rifled the trunk. On the bed lay an old blank book about fourteen inches long and eight wide, and on the floor lay a few articles of wearing apparel. The book and other things Mr. LeConey passed over and searched the trunk and finding no money concluded the five or six hundred dollars which he knew his niece possessed, must have been stolen

Damages Against a Priest.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 10.—The jury in the case of Dr. Louis Morasse, a practising physician of Southbridge, vs. Rev. Father S. Ely Brocher, pastor of the Notre Dame Church, brought in a verdict yesterday in the Superior Civil Court giving damages for plaintiff of $1,500 with interest, or a total of $1,730. Dr. Morasse was a parishioner of Father Brocher. He was divorced from his first wife and was married to a second wife by a Justice of the Peace. For this he was denounced from the pulpit by Father Brocher which caused Dr. Morasse to bring the above suit.

Another Man Goes to Canada.

MEDINA, N. Y., Sept. 10.—W. D. Jones, manager of the Union Pacific Tea Company store here, has fled the town. One of the company's agents who was taking an inventory of the stock found a shortage of nearly $500. Jones is thought to be in Canada.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Hon. R. B. Dunn, a prominent Maine man, is dead at his home in Waterville, aged 87.

At Cincinnati, Sunday, Anton Brown and Benjamin Cable suicided and Mrs. G. Bernard was killed by falling from a buggy.

An unknown man was killed at Green's crossing near Rochester, N. Y., on the Falls road yesterday. There is no clue to his identity.

Ira Cobb shot and killed Alex. Waggoner, Jr., a merchant of Silverville, Ind., Sunday. It was an old quarrel renewed. This is Cobb's second homicide.

—It's money, matrimony and alimony that consumes most of the time of the courts.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.
QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?
ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.
These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

NEWS FROM ABROAD

A Rumor that the Strike in London Will End To-Day.

A SECRET CONFERENCE HELD.

Bosses and Strikers Brought Together by the Lord Mayor.

O'Connor's Defeat in the Boat Race the Talk of London—A Hint Thrown Out that the Canadian Oarsman Flunked—A Big Acquisition to the Greek Catholic Church—Irish Police Shadows on English Members Ordered Off.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Several wharfingers, an addition to those conceding the demands of the strikers on Saturday, announced this morning that they had decided to accept the terms of the men. The strike fund was augmented to-day by £1,500 received from various sources. The leaders of the strike are in conference with Cardinal Manning with reference to that prelate's further mediation.

The negotiations looking toward a settlement of the great contest have scarcely been interrupted by the slight outburst of feeling caused by the refusal of the strikers to endorse the action of their leaders in accepting the last compromise proposed.

The Lord Mayor, notwithstanding his threat to wash his hands of the whole business after the strikers had rejected his proposals, again went to work with Cardinal Manning and Bishop Temple to harmonize the two opposing interests. Conferences were held with representatives of the dock companies and striking laborers. All the parties to these conferences were bound to secresy but it is learned that a compromise agreement was formulated which met the approval of all present and which will to-day receive the formal ratification of the dock managers on one side and the strikers on the other to make it binding. It is confidently expected that the strike will be declared at an end to-night.

O'CONNOR'S DEFEAT.

He Admits that Searle is the Greatest Oarsman of the World.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The sculling race between Searle, of Australia, and O'Connor, of Canada, excited more interest in sporting circles than any event for years. The betting began very strongly in favor of Searle, at one time reaching odds of 15 to 10, but O'Connor's stock went up until even money was staked. The amount of money wagered was enormous. Heavy purses were cabled from Canada and Australia to be staked for the friends of the respective champions, Spencer Brothers, of Australia, placing £10,000 on Searle.

Both men were in splendid form. Searle weighed 163 and O'Conner 162, pounds and their preliminary spurts on the river indicated that they were evenly matched in all respects.

At Hammersmith Bridge, 1¾ miles from the start, Searle led by two lengths and he crossed the line an easy winner by six lengths.

Searle's time was 28 min., 42 sec.

The result of the boat race is the talk of London, and while little surprise is expressed at Searle's victory, O'Connor's bad form is everywhere commented upon. It is pointed out that O'Connor in his race did not begin to show the fine form which was so noticeable all through his practice, and his friends speak of overtraining. They say if this is not the true explanation of his defeat they can only believe that he flunked.

The Pope Thanks German Statesmen.

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—The Pope has sent a telegram to Herr Windthorst, the leader of the Clerical party in the German Reichstag, thanking him for convening the Catholic congress at Bochum and another to Prince Bismarck conveying his thanks for permitting the congress to assemble. Bismarck replied to the Pope's telegram that notwithstanding he had sanctioned the convening of the congress he was not at all in accord with the work it had done.

Police Shadows Unnecessary.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Irish police have been ordered to refrain from shadowing English members of the House of Commons travelling in Ireland. This course is no longer considered necessary for their safety.

8,000 Join the Greek Church.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 10.—Fully 8,000 Roman Catholic Czechs, residing in the Government of Vilna, have renounced their own religion and joined the Greek Church.

DANA'S DISAPPEARANCE.

A Story Which May Show Where He Has Gone To.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Mr. Wholly, owner of the yacht, Marguerite tells a story which may have some bearing upon the disappearance of Treasurer Dana, of the Douglas Axe Company and his son. According to his statement, the yacht while returning from a pleasure trip down the harbor was hailed from one of the East Boston wharves by two men who answers the general description of the missing parties. They desired to be taken aboard the ship lying out in the stream. They boarded the Marguerite and the elder one enquired of the watch on the vessel they desired to be taken on, "Where are you bound for?" On receiving the answer "Buenos Ayres" he seemed satisfied and was assisted aboard.

The men were evidently cultured persons and this, together with the nervous way in which they called attention when the boat was tacking, to the fact that they were not going toward the ship showed that they knew nothing of sailing.

Mr. Wholly could not give a clear description of his passengers, owing to the darkness, but believes they were the parties above named.

He could not give the name of the vessel upon which the men embarked.

The ship Earl Burgess sailed hence for Buenos Ayres Thursday morning.

New Jersey Democrats.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 10.—The Democratic State Convention met at noon today. Assemblyman Marsh was chosen temporary chairman. It is conceded that Hon. Leon Abbott will be the party's unanimous choice for Governor.

THE ENGINEER TO BLAME.

Two Trains Come Together With Terrible Force—One Man Killed.

BELFAST, N. Y., Sept. 10.—A bad collision between freight trains occurred on the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad, near Cuba, yesterday. Two sections of an eastbound train had orders to meet train No. 81, the Erie fast freight at Cuba Summit, four miles from Cuba Station. The first section had proceeded about a mile when the fast freight came thundering down the heavy grade, and the two trains crashed together, throwing between fifteen and twenty cars down the high embankment, completely demolishing them and their contents, consisting mostly of dry goods, butter, stoves, etc. The trainmen escaped with slight injury by jumping, except brakeman Gray, of Wellsville, who was caught under the cars and instantly killed.

The blame is laid to the engineer of the fast freight, who had orders to meet the other trains at the Summit.

The loss is heavy. The trains were delayed only a short time.

AMERICAN ACTIVITY.

Jealousy Over the United States Bothers the Frenchmen.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—For the last month there have been periodical displays of French jealousy at what several French journals have been pleased to term "American activity on the Coast of Hayti," and much secret uneasiness has been felt lest the United States should seize and perhaps hold the harbor of Port-au-Prince. It evidently flatters French vanity to keep up a sentimental affiliation with these half savage negroes because they speak the French language, with the idea probably that they look upon France as a friend and protector.

The defeated Legitime is a brutal butcher, to be sure, but as masscre is a custom of the country, this will not disqualify him for French consideration and it is doubtful if any of the opposition will question the action of the Government in receiving him on board a French gunboat and granting him a liberal subvention during his residence in France. What use can they make of him unless to hold him in terrorem over the heads of the other faction, it is difficult to conjecture.

Daylight Highwaymen in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 10.—In broad daylight, at five p. m., in the Old Cove promenade, John Otzman, aged fifty, was seized by five highwaymen. He shouted for help, whereupon a gag was thrust into his mouth knocking out his teeth and cutting an ugly gash. He also received a knife wound in the wrist. The thieves obtained over $50 in money and escaped, leaving no clew.

Ives' Trial Commenced To-day.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The trial of Henry S. Ives and George S. Staynor, for issuing fraudulent Hamilton and Dayton Railroad stock, was to have come off to-day in General Sessions. Counsel for the prisoners demanded separate trials. It was decided to try Ives first and the case is now on.

New York Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The following are the latest appointments of fourth-class postmasters in New York State: John M. Hagglund, Centreport; F. A. Wicker, Hemlock Lake; J. E. Armstrong, Long Eddy; J. J. Eldridge, North Creek; Alonzo A. Rhoades, West Constable; Robert S. Seabold, Williamsbridge.

A QUEER MYSTERY.

The Message That Caused a Father's Hair to Turn White.

How a Politician Was Notified of His Son's Approaching End—An Important Message Delivered by a Supernatural Messenger.

That was a strange story told by an ex-Congressman the other day, and the circumstances under which it was related, writes the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, were somewhat peculiar. The story was told as the literal truth, and there can be no more reason for doubting its author's veracity than there is for denying that he is one of the brightest and most honorable men in public life. He is yet a young man, but his hair is as white as if silvered with age. How it came to be white is a part of the story.

It was a few evenings ago that the ex-Congressman sat with a couple of newspaper correspondents and a Government official in the latter's room in a big hotel. They were discussing politics and the ex-Congressman was talking when he was interrupted by a knock at the door. In response to an invitation the door was opened and a messenger-boy stood at the entrance. In his hand was an envelope with a heavy black border. It was such as those used to inclose a death message or to indicate deep mourning. The boy paused for a moment, evidently speculating in his mind as to the proper person to receive the letter. Finally he tendered it to the ex-Congressman, who was nearest the door. That individual turned pale and trembled, but extended his hand as if to take the message. He hesitated an instant and his hand dropped nerveless. A second time he essayed to take the message from the boy, and again he failed. It was only after the third effort that he was apparently able to reach it, and by that time the Government official for whom it was intended had come to the door, read the address and took the message from the trembling hand that had received it.

"Ah," said he, after opening and reading it, "it's only a note from an office-seeker. Why it should be in mourning I don't know. As the office-seeker is a woman, I presume it is merely a feminine freak."

Every body had noticed the strange demeanor of the ex-Congressman, and, observing that an explanation was expected, he finally said:

"I think the use of black-bordered envelopes ought to be prohibited by law. The very sight of one unnerves me. When I tell you why you may doubt the truth of the tale, but it is true, nevertheless. Ten years ago I was making a political canvass in my district. At the close of a speech one afternoon I received a telegram from home stating that my boy, the idol of my life, was dying, and that if I wished to see him alive I must come at once. I went immediately to the hotel, took my sachel and started for the depot. There was no passenger train due for some hours, but a freight was pulling out, and I jumped aboard. It was late when I reached the little town on the river where I could take a boat for home. I hurried to the wharf and found that the steamer would not pass until after midnight, and that I would thus be delayed many hours. I was undecided whether to wait for the steamer or hire a boat and leave at once. While I stood on the wharf hesitating a messenger boy suddenly appeared before me. Before I could say any thing he thrust into my hand a white envelope with a heavy black border. A strange feeling came over me, and it was only by the greatest effort that I was able to open the letter. The apprehension I felt in the few moments was awful, for I knew that it must contain dread news. When finally I looked at the letter there appeared in a strange hand the single sentence:

"'You must come quick.'

"There was no signature and nothing to indicate the origin of the letter, and when I turned to inquire of the messenger he had disappeared as completely as if swallowed by the earth. I knew that the message referred to my boy, although I was entirely ignorant of its source. I knew that I must hurry if I would see him alive. The message decided me, and at once I sought a boatman, and, securing his services, started down the river. I reached home some hours ahead of the steamboat upon which I had originally intended to come. I rushed to the house and was ushered into the presence of my dying boy. As I approached the bedside he recognized me with a smile, and then said:

"'Papa, I've been waiting for you.'

"Those were his last words, and in a moment he was dead. I then knew that the message I had received had come from him, and that he had been waiting for me. None of my family or friends had seen the message, nor did they know any thing about it. Afterward I made the most searching inquiries at the town where I waited for the boat; but nobody had seen the messenger or ever heard of him. Not the slightest trace of him was to be found, and I was led to the inevitable conclusion that the messenger had never appeared to any one but me, and that I alone had seen the message.

"You can understand now why a black-bordered envelope always fills me with the greatest dread and apprehension, and why it was that I turned pale and trembled when the messenger-boy who just appeared in the door tendered me the ominous-looking message intended for you.

"You will observe that my hair is white, although I am yet a young man. Before that eventful night my hair was as black as a raven's wing.

"After I received the black-bordered letter from the mysterious messenger who came to me at the boat-landing that night, a feeling came over me such as I never knew before nor have known since. The awful agony of that trip down the river will remain fresh in my memory until death ends all. When I reached home and stood at the bedside of my boy my hair was as white as snow. It has darkened some in the years that have since passed, but it will never be black again."

A PERSIAN'S WILL.

A Verbose Document Probated in the Courts of England.

Probate in England of the will, which bears date the 5th Rabi-i-Thanx, 1305 (December 20, 1887), of his Excellency Nasser oul Moulk Mahmoud Khan, late of Teheran, Persia, Minister of Foreign Affairs and Governor-General of Khorassan, who died on December 24, 1887, has been granted to the executor, his Excellency Aboul Kassem Khan Mosheer-i-Hozour of Teheran, the grandson, and the value of the personal estate in England has been sworn at £18,395 16s 6d. The will, as translated for the Probate Registry begins:

After offering praises and prayer to God, I quote the noble saying of the Koran: "By the Lord of Ages every man is at loss except those who believe in God, mutually do good, make their wills in justice, and mutually bear one another in patience." It is also said in the same Koran "He who does good as little as the weight of an atom, he will find it." The serene, glorious, honorable and magnificent Nasser oul [illegible] (may his Majesty last forever), whilst in the best of his health, and in the use of his sound mind, of his own free will, constitutes as universal executor his great son (scion of his son Ahmad), Aboul Kassem Kahn Mosheer-i-Hozour, in order that when his (the testator's), last breath has gone to God he may act according to the settlement of the first Jamony Thany, 1303. This settlement provided that one-third of the testator's property, including his freehold estate, should be applied for the good of the deceased's soul, and should be spent "in hiring men to fast on his behalf, to pray for the repose of his soul and to make pilgrimages on his behalf in the most holy and venerable places at Mecca." After providing for these expenses the executor is to erect a hospital in the most noble and sacred places of Kaz-mure ("may peace be on them"), or elsewhere, for sick Moslems of the tribe Esna Arajy; and to insure that the hospital may fulfil the purposes for which it is founded, the management and direction are to be vested in Aboul Kassem Khan during his lifetime, and at his death to devolve upon his male descendants, or them failing, upon Khadija Sulham Khanem and her male descendants.

TRAVELING IN INDIA.

Hotel and Railway Life in Victoria's Eastern Empire.

A Country Where Nothing Is Done for Hotel Guests Unless They Are Willing to Pay for "Extras"—Description of an Eastern Railway Car.

Your train stops at a station where you wish to spend a day and you are about to step from the car when from three to six coolies block the door, all wishing to grab some parcel from the car. They have no baggage-car in India, says a correspondent of the Buffalo Express, and every one must take his baggage into the car where he rides and look after it himself. Perhaps you may save four parcels; if so, then at least eight coolies, who have blocked your door, will endeavor to handle it as it is taken out of the car and put into a "gharri," or carriage. When you come to settle with them at least ten will want to be paid, and in order to get away from the mob (for they will literally mob you) you pay three times as much as you ought, and yet feel thankful that it is as well with you as it is.

On arriving at your hotel you are booked at the office and shown to your room, when the same rush for your baggage is repeated by the coolies, only their number is less. In due time your four bundles are safely deposited in your room and the coolies have disappeared. Now comes a time for reflection and you drop into the first chair you come to. One of the first objects that attracts your attention is the bed. You proceed to examine it closely and take an inventory. First there is a hard mattress; second, one sheet; and these comprise the whole thing. You put in an appearance at the office and make inquiries as to bedding and room-boy. You are told by the clerk with one of his most bland expressions that this hotel does not furnish bedding nor servants to look after your room; but in a quiet tone, just above a whisper, he will inform you that a servant will be sent to your room, but you must pay him. By this time you are in a condition to say "yes" to any thing, and you say: "All right, send him on."

The boy puts in an appearance and you try to make him understand your mother-tongue; but it is of no earthly use. If you chance to have a little smattering of French or German you try them in succession, also to no use. Then by motions and gestures you make him understand that you wish to wash. Water is brought, but you have neither towel nor soap furnished. But you may have had an inkling of what you might expect, so you open your valise and bring them forth.

It is the same with your rugs and bedding, and after all are brought to light you motion to the boy to make up your bed and he does it with alacrity. Your seven-o'clock dinner is announced and you proceed to the dining-room. After being shown a seat you naturally look around for something to eat, or perhaps more particularly for some one to wait upon you; but no one comes. Waiters are passing and repassing on your right and left and there you sit with "cuss-words" running through your mind swift and fast. You can not help it and you are not to blame for what you can not help. Finally when you think forbearance has ceased to be a virtue, you look about the room for the "head man," as he is called in India. You beckon him to your side and, in tones of smothered indignation, say to him that you want something to eat.

He will pleasantly say to you: "We have an abundance to eat but do not furnish table-waiters; I will send you one if you like, but it will be charged in your bill."

The servant comes to do your bidding, but can not understand a word you say. However the courses are designated by numerals, 1, 2, 3, etc., on the menu cards, so you say bring this or that number. You ask for tea or coffee and are informed that neither is furnished at dinner. At the same time you hear the report occasioned by the opening of wine, beer and champagne bottles, which, by the way, is quite suggestive to one—that is, if he be a prohibitionist. In this manner you manage to get through with your several meals. After remaining twenty-four hours you wish to go to the next objective point or city, and in order to make the most time you ride at night. You order your bill sent to your room, and at the same time you order your "gharri" to take you to the station in time for the eight p. m. mail train, which is always on time and is the best train to ride on in India.

As the room-boy comes in followed by half a dozen coolies you are made aware that the "gharri" is at the door. Now each coolie wants a job and will come for his backsheesh whether he does any thing or not, so you let the six coolies carry four pieces of baggage. You give the room-boy the amount thought necessary to pay all and shout to the driver to go.

The station is just reached in time, and by the help of the station watchman and a large number of coolies you are quickly stowed away in the car, a room eight by twelve feet. Your car door is beset by coolies as well as the watchman, all asking for backsheesh, and, after distributing all your loose change to those you think earned it, they still clamor for more. For the life of you it is impossible to tell one from the other, for they dress, or, rather, undress, alike.

Up to this time no one else has come into the car, which is calculated to carry at least four persons. The train moves out of the station, and you find yourself the sole occupant. You look for the bell-rope in case of accident, and then for the short cord on the side of the car with which to set the air-brake, and are unable to find either. Then the car doors are locked on both sides, and you find yourself shut in with no visible means of escape, and, as you have nothing else to do, you unroll your bundle and make up your bed or couch. Now, if you do your duty you will commend your spirit to the God who gave it and retire to your virtuous couch, and in the morning be thankful that your unprofitable life has been preserved through the night.

Rev. Bailey Smith's Sudden Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Rev. E. Bailey Smith, who was found dead in his bed at 357 W. 57th street was a leading clergyman of the Apostolic Catholic Church. He preached at the church of that denomination in W. 57th street Sunday night, and having mislaid his notes, was obliged to speak from memory. He afterward told a physician who lived in the house with him that the unusual mental effort had made him ill. He vomited, but the physician relived his pain and he returned to bed. The appearance of his room indicates that he arose, dressed, and packed his valise, preparatory to starting for his home in Middleton, Conn., when he was taken ill, lay down on the bed and expired. He was 70 years old, and was a very eloquent preacher. He was stationed in Chicago four years before coming to New York.

Pennsylvania's New League.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The first State Convention of the Union Prohibitory League will be held here Sept. 26. It is not the purpose of this new organization to place candidates in the field, but to co-operate with the existing political parties in placing men in office who are favorable to and will use their influence in the enforcement of the prohibitory measures of existing laws relating to the liquor traffic and the early enactment of more stringent and prohibitory statutes with adequate penalties.

Terrific Storm at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—Atlantic City was visited last night by a terrific ocean storm, the waters extending to a point at least 500 feet from the beach proper, damaging the bath houses and pavilions along the beach to the extent of about $50,000.

Five People Drowned.

DUBLIN, Sept. 10.—A boat containing a christening party was capsized at Killarney last evening, and five of the party were drowned.

A Patriarchal Land Turtle.

A merchant named Leon Santelli, residing at Carupano, Venezuela, has in his possession a giant tortoise. It is called the "morrocy" by the natives there. The phenomenon weighs sixty-five pounds and is over a hundred years old. Ordinarily this species do not weigh more than seven to eight pounds. Its shell is a dense mass of laminated plates and the little children of the owner ride about on it. When it eats any thing it shows a preference for bananas or leaves of any sort, but it is not particular, and can beat George Francis Train fasting and give him three months start. A proposal was made to Mr. Santelli to send this "ancient" to the Paris exposition, but this was declined.

A Storm Strikes the Atlantic Coast With Great Force.

IMMENSE LOSS OF PROPERTY.

Popular Seaside Resorts Threatened With Utter Ruin.

The Storm Prevails Along the Atlantic Coast from Cape Hatteras to Eastport—No Loss of Life Has Been Reported—Coney Island and Atlantic City's Peril—Shipping Paralyzed and Business Badly Crippled.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The greatest tide that has ever been experienced struck Coney Island yesterday and increased in volume and fury until to-day. Consternation reigned everywhere. Water poured in volumes underneath Manhattan Beach Hotel. All of the lampposts which bordered the path next to the sea have been literally torn from their foundations and bent and broken as if they were straws and dashed against the hotel piazza.

The cellar of the hotel has five feet of water in it. Manhatten and Oriental hotels stand by themselves on a little island that is fast being eaten up.

The mammoth bathing house was beaten down by the thundering waves. The old Marine railway structure has been carried away. It was taken with a crash over the new Marine railway fully 250 feet inland, carrying the latter away bodily and overturning and smasing cars like kindling wood. The old Brighton Beach bathing pavilion followed it with a deafening crash and the driftwood carried with lightning rapidity and herculean force against the new bath house, tearing part of that away.

The Brighton Beach Hotel is surrounded by over two feet of water. The Brighton Beach Railroad is submerged. No trains are running. The angry waves dashed against Seidl's music stand, each wave tearing away great chunks of it at every burst. There is no land between it and the sea, and the mountainous waves thundered and crashed against it free of obstruction. All efforts to save the structure have been abandoned. No such time has ever been experienced in the history of the Island.

Alarm for Atlantic City.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Telegraphic wires in this city and throughout the adjacent country are in a demoralized condition and railroads are also badly interfered with by the storm. Reports of damage come from all coast points. Ocean City is almost entirely under water. No trains can get in or out of Atlantic City, and as the water is reported rising the situation there is alarming The place is on low ground and if the flood continues people might have difficolty in getting away in boats.

The tide at Lewes is the highest since 1867. Many schooners are ashore and both wooden piers have been destroyed.

The tide at Cape May was the highest for thirteen years. The horse railway along the beach is destroyed and the meadows and drive flooded. Many cottages and hotels were partially wrecked and the conformation of the beach seriously altered. The pier at Cape May Point is wrecked and Coulton Hall undermined.

New York's Damage.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The damage by the storm along the water front here has been very great. Along South street and West street nearly all the cellars have been flooded and goods destroyed in many of the warehouses.

The few vessels that have put into the bay for safety report very heavy weather and seas all along the coast.

The landing stage at Castle Garden is almost completely submerged, a state of affairs never known to have existed before.

Destruction at Rockaway.

ROCKAWAY BEACH, Sept. 11.—This place was strewn to-day from one end to the other with a mass of drift and a large amount of destruction has been done here by the severe storm yesterday. The excessive high tides since Sunday have floated away nearly every portable article on the beach besides destroying numerous small stores, booths and bath houses. The tide was very high this morning and in many parts of the beach small boats were called into use to get occupants of hotels and cottages to the mainland. It is feared that further and more serious damage will be done to-night when the tide is higher.

Worst Storm in Five Years.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, Del., Sept. 11.—The Italian bark Il Salvatore, from Philadelphia for Gibraltar or Cagliari, is ashore near the iron pier. She is full of water. Her stern was badly damaged by colliding with the iron pier. The crew were safely landed. The worst storm in five years prevails here now. The tide is very high. The schooner Charles P. Stickney, from Philadelphia for Norfolk, dragged ashore in the harbor and is apparently full of water.

Considerable Damage in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 11.—On Pavonia Avenue, the thoroughfare leading from the ferry, the water was two feet deep and extended beyond the Erie's train sheds. The horse cars were over their wheels and passengers were landed by means of temporary bridges. The entire Erie frieght yard was entirely submerged and thousands of barrels of flour are reported damaged

A Northeaster at Vineyard Haven.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 11.—A heavy northeast storm prevailed here. The regular steamers to and from the mainland which carry mails and passengers are not running. Ocean steam tugs, R. W. Morse, Underwater and Knickerbocker, brig Rochester and a large fleet of schooners and several barges are harbored here.

FARMER ORDWAY'S LOSS.

Covered With a Revolver and Robbed of $9,500.

CROCORD, N. H., Sept. 11.—Joel S. Ordway, aged 80, a well-to-do farmer of Loudon, N. H., was robbed of $9,500.

Yesterday a smooth-faced well-appearing man of 30 called upon him and talked about buying his farm. This man drove into Mr. Ordway's yard and induced him to go with him to Concord and draw $9,500 from the bank to prove his responsibility and that he could give a good title to the farm.

On their return the two men were met by a youth of 20, an acquaintance of the prospective purchaser. The two men engaged in a game of cards in which the elder apparently lost $10,000. He asked Mr. Ordway to lend him the $9,500 with which to win back his money. The old gentleman refused to comply with his request whereupon one of the men covered him with a revolver while the other took the money from his pocket.

The robbers then drove rapidly away. Mr. Ordway walked to Loudon and was brought here, where he notified the police of his loss.

15,000 Miners Out on Strike.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 11.—Fifteen hundred miners are out on a strike at the Watson & Adrian mines for an increase in wages. Yesterday the company brought 300 men from Buffalo, Rochester and Bradford. After arriving, the men refused to go to work, believing the miners justified in the stand they have taken. Most of the men returned to their various homes to-day. The company claim to have 400 negro miners on the way here from their mines in West Virginia. Everything is quiet, but trouble is expected at any moment.

Congdon's Victim Dead.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 11.—News has been received via Charlestown and Westerly, that Thomas Slocum, who was shot at Exeter in the extreme Western part of the State by Manuel Congdon in a quarrel over the ownership of some chickens, died last Sunday, a week after the shooting. No information could be obtained as to whether or not Congdon had been arrested. Exeter is 15 miles from the nearest railway station, and far removed from any telegraph office.

Earthquake Shock at Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 11.—People in this city were considerably agitated by a sharp shock of earthquake which occurred at 8:15 last evening. Buildings in Ashley, Kingston, Pittston and the surrounding country trembled for several seconds vigorously enough to rattle the glassware and crockery. So far as heard from no property has been seriously damaged or persons injured.

Scarlet Fever Among Colored Orphans.

ALLEGHENY, Pa., Sept. 11.—There is a startling epidemic of scarlet fever in the Colored Orphans' Home on Greenwood street. One of the children became ill about a week ago and the attending physician ordered its removal to the hospital department. More cases developed each day and to-day the patients number twenty-six.

William Boss Released.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Wm. Boss of New York was arrested at Merchantville, N. J., on suspicion of being concerned in the murder of Miss Le Coney, but was released. He had been loafing around the place, but there was no evidence against him. It is still the general belief that the negro Lingo was the murderer.

Abbett for Governor.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept 11.—It took the Democratic convention just seventy minutes to renominate Hon. Leon Abbett for Governor, to indorse ex-President Cleveland and cheer for Gov. David B. Hill. The platform favors low taxes, equal rights, opposition to trusts and protection to labor.

Confessed the Murder.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Dilliard, arrested on suspicion of complicity with Bartholomew in her husband's murder, has confessed that she consented to the murder because her husband was about to move to another place in order to separate her from Bartholomew.

The Newark Murderer Not Known.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 11.—The mystery surrounding the death of the old Italian bootblack, whose body was found in the East Newark meadows, is as deep as ever. Dilantonio Russo, the man's son-in-law, was discharged from custody.

A New Railroad Link.

TWIN MOUNTAIN HOUSE, N. H., Sept. 11.—The Maine Central Railroad's extension from Fabyans to Scotts, the link between the Canadian Pacific and Boston and Maine systems, was opened yesterday with an excursion of officials.

Sent to the Concord Reformatory.

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—Hurlbert B. Cunningham, of Newtonville, who embezzled $5,000 from his employers, Soley, Gay & Dorr, was sentenced to the Concord Reformatory for an indefinite period. He plead guilty.

Poughkeepsie's Flood.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The flood tide on the Hudson River is the highest for many years. The steamboat landing here is submerged, and the water covers the dock for nearly 100 feet from the usual waters-edge.

Forest Fires Caused by Tramps.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 11.—Extensive forest fires are raging around Georgetown, Deer Lodge county. They were caused by tramps setting fire to the grass. Hundreds of men are fighting the flames, which, nevertheless, continue to spread, and threaten the destruction of much valuable property.

HIS SUN HAS SET!

Congressman Cox Passed Away Last Evening.

A BRILLIANT CAREER ENDED.

He Died of Heart Failure and Was Conscious to the Last.

Sketch of His Life—Editor in Ohio When His Well-Known Appelation of "Sunset" Was Won—He Served Many Years in Congress and Was Minister to Turkey—He Achieved a National Reputation by His Adroitness in Debate.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Congressman Samuel Sullivan Cox died last evening at 8:30 o'clock at his home, No. 13 East Twelfth street.

Two hours before he died his colored servant, who had just arrived from Washington, went to his bedside and Mrs. Cox asked her husband if he knew him. He answered "yes," and pressed the man's hand, at the same time tenderly patting his wife on the shoulder.

Mr. Cox was conscious up to half an hour before his death. He then failed to recognize those around him. He had not spoken at any length since 11 o'clock in the morning, when he talked rather incoherently about the new States and of what he expected to do when he re-entered Congress next session. He fondly but feebly caressed his wife's arm with his hand just before losing consciousness.

Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Hardenburg, sister of Mr. Cox, and Mr. N. J. Kearney, a close friend of the statesmen, were present when Mr. Cox died. There were also a number of intimate friends down stairs waiting for news from the sick chamber.

The immediate cause of his death, Dr. Lockwood says, was heart failure, superinduced by peritonitis.

A large number of telegrams of sympathy from people among the most prominent in the country were received during the day.

Sketch of His Career.

Samuel Sullivan Cox was born at Zanesville, Ohio, on September 30, 1824. His grandfather, James Cox, was also a Congressman, besides being a brigadier general of the New Jersey militia and a noted Democratic politican. Samuel's father left the old homestead at Monmouth, Ohio, shortly after Congressman Cox's death, emigrating to Zanesville, where Samuel first saw light.

After passing through an ordinary common school course the youth was sent to the Ohio University. Here he remained two years, leaving the State to attend the Brown University, at Providence, R. I., where he graduated in the class of 1846. On his return to Ohio he opened up a small law practice. The profession, however, soon became distasteful, and he relinquished it for a tour through Europe. His first book "A Buckeye Abroad," relates the story of his tour.

In 1853 he became the editor of the "Ohio Statesman," published at Columbus, and two years later he was appointed secretary of legation to Peru by President Pierce. This was the beginning of his political career. His election to the Thirty-fifth Congress followed, and he was successively returned to the Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth Congresses. In 1864 his defeat by the Republican candidate occurred, and in the spring of 1865 he moved to New York city.

His next literary work, "Eight Years in Congress," was issued at this time, together with several amusing reminiscences of travels. His first appearance as a metropolitan candidate occurred in 1868, when he was elected over Starr, the Republican candidate. In 1870 he ran against Horace Greely and was again elected. Two years later when he ran against Lyman Tremaine for Congressman-at-Large he was defeated. A few months afterward he was chosen to fill the seat made vacant by the death of James Brooks.

Since that period Mr. Cox has been almost constantly in Congress, and has achieved a national reputation by his wit and vivacity and his adroitness in debate. Under President Cleveland's administration Mr. Cox was Minister to Turkey, and would have represented the Ninth district in the forthcoming Congress.

His well-known appellation of "Sunset" was won for Mr. Cox by a glowing description of a sunset which he once wrote. Mr. Cox was a prominent member of the Tammany Society, though never directly connected with the Tammany Hall political organization.

The Business Directory of Johnstown.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 11.—A new business directory of Johnstown and surrounding boroughs contains the names of over five hundred business and professional men. It also shows that there are now thirty-six grocery stores and fifty-one saloons open in this place. A complete list of all the dead in Cambria Borough has been made by Mail Carrier Bridge, and he finds that there were 32 people drowned in the flood. This district was below the Stone Bridge, and the full force of the water did not extend it. It is the only absolutely correct list of any part of the flooded district yet published.

Swept to His Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Banker Eugene Kelly's twenty-five-year-old son, Joseph T. Kelly, met with a sudden and awful death shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was swept from the platform of a passenger car on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad while it was crossing the Hudson county meadows. He was almost instantly killed.

Sheepshead Bay Races Postponed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—There was no racing at Sheepshead Bay to-day on account of the severe storm raging in the vicinity. To-day's programme will be run off to-morrow.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Overcoats were numerous on the streets, last evening.

—White hats will be worn by women until the frost nips them.

—September is the most beautiful of all the months for a vacation.

—Four hundred pupils attended the Franklin school yesterday.

—A handsome flag was unfurled to the breeze at the Washington school building on Monday morning.

—The present rain storm will prove disastrous to the crop of late peaches, the high winds having blown much of the fruit from the trees.

—The School Board is already feeling around to ascertain what portion of the delinquent taxes collected in by Justice Nash, will revert to the schools.

—The report in circulation that Mr. Barney Fagin, of Primrose & West's Company, had severely sprained his ankle, was not true up to this morning.

—Reduced rates to Trenton and return for the Republican State Convention, are advertised elsewhere by the C. R. R. of N. J. Tickets good for three days.

—In his advertisement elsewhere, Mr. Geo. W. Force calls attention to his elegant line of Fall and Winter footwear, which he is offering at reduced rates.

—THE PRESS is requested by one of them to state that there were not five brutes who assaulted Dan'l Baker at Illsley's Hotel, last week, but only two.

—The usual trotting contests on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association on Saturday, between local horses, attracted a large number of spectators.

—A change of advertisement of J. C. Allen, 44 West Front street, calls the attention again of housekeepers to the large line of goods that he offers at five and ten cents.

—A meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association will be held this evening, at which time delegates will be elected to the State Convention which meets at Long Branch on Sept. 25.

—About 5:30 o'clock last evening a large limb blew down from an elm tree at the corner of Fifth and New street, and striking the iron post which supports the street lamp at that point, broke the post into three pieces.

—The Autumnal Equinox is with us a week too soon, this year. According to various opinions that means a severe Winter, a green Christmas, a long spell of warmth, frost twenty feet deep and a failure of the coming ice crop.

—There will be lots of fun at the ball grounds to-morrow afternoon, when the "Giants" of Washington cross bats with the "Stars" of this city. Both clubs are composed of colored players, and some laughable coaching may be expected.

—The high wind which prevailed during last night, made it extremely dangerous for those who were obliged to go out of doors. Several persons narrowly escaped being struck by falling limbs. Bricks were also blown from chimneys.

—Charles Myer, the farm hand who robbed Mr. Joseph King, of Stirling, on Sunday, is still a fugitive from justice. Despite the fact that Mr. King offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the thief, the man is still at large.

—At the Board of Education meeting last evening, reference was made to the teachers training class, but the Board decided that it was useless to incur any unnecessary expense in fitting up a meeting room for the members as the class is so small.

—The Board of Education, at its meeting last evening, received an anonymous communication from some one reflecting upon the ability of a certain teacher. The paper stated that so far as mathematics is concerned, said teacher did not know what one-third of a hundred amounted to. The communication, as a matter of course, was consigned to the waste basket.

—Other papers if read would create an impression that the drunken couple who were driven from the city as told in Saturday's PRESS, boarded with Mr. Henry T. Smith of Broadway and Tenth street. The facts are merely that the woman engaged board there on the day before the disturbance, but when her husband, John Forgie appeared on the scene, they were both ordered to leave.

HOODOOED HARKINS.

How Somerville's Pitcher Was Struck Out By a Bouquet and an Umpire.

The New Brunswick Fredonian in speaking of last Saturday's game at Somerville, said: "At the end of the game Harkins was presented with a handsome bouquet by a lady admirer."

The truth of that little episode is that the bouquet was presented him in the very first inning of the game by some homely looking man who so hoodooed Harkins that he immediately struck out. In the words of that immortal song THE PRESS has already quoted:

Three hundred eyes were on him as he rubbed his hands with dirt:
One hundred tongues applauded when he wiped them on his shirt.
Then while the writhing pitcher ground the ball into his hip.
Defiance gleamed in Harkins' eye, a sneer curled Harkins' lip.
And now the leather-covered sphere came hurtling through the air,
And Harkins stood a-watching it in haughty grandeur there.
Close by the sturdy batsman the ball unheeded sped—
"That ain't my style," said Harkins, "Strike one," the umpire said.
From the benches, black with people, there went up a muffled roar
Like the beating of the storm waves on a stern and distant shore.
"Kill the umpire! Give us Bradley!" shouted
some one on the stand.
And it's likely they'd have killed him had not
Harkins raised his hand.
With a smile of Christian charity great Harkins' visage shone:
He stilled the rising tumult, he bade the game go on:
He signalled to the pitcher, and once more the spheroid flew:
But Harkins still ignored it, and the doctor said, "Strike two."
"Fraud!" cried the maddened hundreds, and echo answered "Fraud!"
But one scornful look from Harkins and the audience was awed.
They saw his face grow stern and cold, they saw his muscles strain,
And they knew that Harkins wouldn't let that ball go by again.
The sneer is gone from Harkins' lip, his teeth are clinched in hate:
He pounds with cruel violence his bat upon the plate.
he lets it go—
But the air alone was shattered by the force of Harkins' blow.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. David J. Carney, of the Central Times, was a delegate at the Trenton Convention, yesterday. He was summoned the day before, by wire, to a conference with Gov. Green at the Executive Mansion.

Miss Clara Burt, a teacher in the High School, has so far recovered from the operation she underwent at Muhlenberg Hospital, a few weeks ago, as to be able to go out. The young lady's great ambition is to return to her school work.

Mr. A. M. Laing—one of the U. S. Government's faithful employees who has held his office for many years past under both administrations—accompained by his wife and daughter, is on a thirty-days' leave of absence visiting friends and relatives in this city and elsewhere.

Miss Annie Miller and Miss Valentine Chandor held a fair at 19 LaGrande avenue, last Saturday afternoon, for the benefit of the Children's Home. This generous effort of these two young women alone, resulted in the clearing of $32.07 for the worthy object in view.

Mr. C. W. L. Martin, ex-Director of the Board of Freeholders of this county, was elected one of the Vice Presidents at the Trenton Gubernatoral Convention, yesterday. Mr. Martine resides quietly at Fanwood, nowadays, having withdrawn somewhat from active politics in spite of the desire of his friends to put him in office again. His house is just across from the station, yet his parlor floor is on a level with the Crescent Avenue church steeple in this city.

Public School Matters.

The members of the City Board of Education met in regular session last evening, with President Jacob Kirkner in the chair. The other members present were J. W. Murray and L. F. Wadsworth. The clerk read the minutes of the July meeting and they were approved as read.

The following claims were presented and ordered paid when properly audited, those marked with a star (*) indicating that they were referred for investigation and certification:

P. Hoagland, $9*; Times Printing and Publishing Co., $3.90; Spencer Conway, $25*; A. D. Cook & Bro., $41.99; Spencer Conway, $9.50; Holmes Express, $5.30; J. C. Pierson, $1.08*; Field & Randolph, $2.50*; N. Y. & N. J. Tel. Co., $40; W. F. Adams, $12.10, John Brown, $25; Estate of D. J. Boice, $10.60; A. W. Rand, $8.50; Woolston & Buckle, $183 and $342; Chas. H. Runk, $1,150; Plainfield Evening news, $5.50; Chas. M. Raybert, $6.50; J. P. Emmons, $97.03; W. C. Ayers, $71.96; J. P. Laire & Co., $6.06; A. Swalm, $36.19*; J. T. Odam, $52.75; W. C. Ayers, $19.25; A. S. Barnes & Co., $310.12*.

Tax Collector Johnson reported the following collection of school taxes for the past three months; June, $272.50; July, $567.60; August, $519.35.

Upon resolution adopted the janitors of the various schools were re-appointed at the same compensation as last year.

Mr. Murray stated that the accounts for the fiscal year were all in, and Mr. Wadsworth and himself were appointed a committee to prepare a statement for the public.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that all pupils entering school must take the regular course of studies, except upon presentation of a certificate from a physician showing that the scholar is physically incapable of attending all day sessions.

Several communications were received from parents who desired to have their children transferred from one school to another, and they were either referred or sent back. One of these communications was from Mr. W. D. W. Miller, and Secretary Wadsworth has replied to it as follows:

W. D. W. Miller, Esq:

DEAR SIR:—Your communication to Mr. Kirkner, President, was considered by the Board of Education, last evening.

Certain lines have been established to determine what school each pupil shall attend, and those in which your residence is situated, show that your son should be a pupil at the Bryant building.

Many parents have a preference for a particular teacher, and make applications for transfers. The Board are satisfied that the granting of such requests will be productive of serious injury.

They have therefore resolved that children residing within the lines established for their grade must attend the school building situated therein, unless there shall be such physical inability as to induce the Board to permit them to attend the school nearest to their place of residence.

(Signed) LOUIS F. WADSWORTH, Sec'y.

Acting Principal Goodrich reported some suggestions made at the last teachers' meeting to relieve and advance certain grades in the Bryant and Franklin school, namely: the third, fourth and sub-primary grades. Children in these grades living on and between Plainfield avenue and Arlington avenue will hereafter attend the Washington school, and those living East of Arlington avenue up to and including Washington street, will hereafter attend the Franklin school.

A communication was received from Miss Bulkley with reference to the transfer of a certain class in the High School building. It was referred to the acting principal.

The Board decided to suspend the study of drawing during the month of September, and the matter of engaging a musician for the high and grammar schools was referred to the Principal and the Committee on Teachers.

The Board then adjourned.

Firemen's Relief Association.

President T. O. Doane and Secretary Edward Mosher of the Firemen's Relief Association of this city were present at a meeting of Warren Engine Co., No. 1, of North Plainfield, last evening, called for the purpose of organizing a Relief Association among the members of that company. There was barely a quorum present, however, and the matter was laid over for one week.

A Gentlemen's Tournament.

A tennis tournament, consisting of gentlemen's doubles, will be held on the grounds of the Plainfield Lawn Club, on Saturday, Sept. 14, play to commence at 2 P. M.

The tournament is open only to present or former members of the club. Entries may be handed in to A. A. Tilney, 50 West Eighth street, up to Friday at 8 P. M.

The Storm Put the Lights Out.

The elements caused the electric circuit to "run aground" a number of times last evening. On one occasion the branches of a tree falling on the wires at Fifth and New streets, made the sparks fly and cut off all the lamps along the line. Chief Doane notified the company and saw that the danger was remedied at once.

—The great Inter-State Fair will open at Trenton on Sept. 30 and continue to Oct. 4. It promises to be one of the best exhibitions of the kind ever seen in this section of the country.

—A testimonial concert, followed by a full dress hop, will be given at The Netherwood, Saturday evening. There will be an enlarged orchestra for the occasion, and a programme of instrumental selections especially fine.

THOSE NEW ROADS.

City Attorney Bergen of Elizabeth Thinks the Complaint from Summit is Unreasonable.

City Attorney Bergen, of Elizabeth, who drew the County Road act, was spoken to Tuesday about the article which appeared in The World concerning the Union county roads. He says some of the statements in the article are erroneous and ought to be corrected. In the first place, the bonds which the Freeholders propose to issue will bear interest at 4 per cent., not 4½, and everybody with any money to invest will have a fair chance to bid for them, as advertised in Monday's PRESS.

As to the complaint of people of Summit, because contracts were not awarded at the recent meeting of the Freeholders to complete the road to New Providence, Mr. Bergen says it was from no disposition to discriminate against any part of the county, but due entirely to the fact that by the estimates for the work it was found that it would cost about $240,000 to macadamize the three principal roads which the Freeholders have adopted—that is from Elizabeth to Rahway, from Elizabeth to Plainfield and from Elizabeth to New Providence via Summit. Under the law as it now stands the Freeholders can only issue bonds to the amount of $150,000, which, of course, prevented the construction of all the roads at present.

Mr. Bergen further says that at the meetings of the citizens of Union county held last Winter to consider the project it was estimated that it would cost from $250,000 to $300,000 to pave the three roads with Telford, that is about 10,000 a mile. As the bill was originally drawn and introduced it gave the Freeholders power to issue bonds for road purposes to the extent of 3 per cent. of the assessed value of the real estate in the county. This would have permitted bonds to be issued to the amount of $700,000. The bill met with considerable opposition in the Legislature, especially for the reason that it permitted the expenditure of so much money, and it was necessary to amend it in this particular in order to insure its passage. It was understood at the time the bill was passed that not enough money could be raised under it to improve the roads in this county as they ought to be, but it was thought best to make a good beginning with the money provided and obtain authority from the next legislature to issue whatever additional bonds may be needed.

Mr. Bergen thinks the Freeholders have fairly distributed the money at their command this year. More is to be expended on the road towards Summit than on the road to Plainfield. Both must remain unfinished until more money can be raised. The whole work of improving the three roads will be less than the original estimate. He does not think there is any doubt at all about the completion of the roads according to the plans laid out by the Freeholders within a year.

Justice Smythe, editor of the Summit Record, was in Elizabeth the other day. He said the taxpayers of Summit were up in arms against the county road scheme and bitterly denounced the Board of Freeholders for the shabby manner in which, it is claimed, Summit was treated.

To the Friends of the Children's Home.

Back to our work once more after our Summer rest, we find ourselves facing our old perplexity—an almost empty treasury. At the close of our year in May, we had, it is true, a balance of $500. Of this amount we have used $170 to pay for painting the outside of our building, and have paid the household bills, (which average from $190 to 200 per month), for three months. At our meeting on Sept. 5, our treasurer reported less than one hundred dollars in hand—$95.96.

There are eight forlorn, little children waiting at our doors for admission to the Home. What shall we say to them for you? What shall we say to all the other poor little waifs, who as the cold Winter comes on will claim our care? We are poor in purse, but rich in faith in the loving hearts and generous minds that have always responded so loyally to our needs. "Our need is our only claim."

For the Association,

N. E. KIMBALL, President.

Woodcock in New Jersey.

The N. Y. Sun, in a comprehensive article on Fall shooting, says:

"New Jersey is essentially the woodcock State. Climate and soil are there alike favorable to these birds. They are found there in greater abundance and in better condition than in any other part. A famous ground for woodcock in New Jersey is what is called the Big Piece, a large tract of excellent territory on the Passaic river near Caldwell. English snipe are also found in the marshes thereabouts in large numbers. On the mountains near Hackettstown, are many spring holes. These are favorite spots for woodcock. The shooting there is peculiarly interesting, as most of it is done in the open. A November woodcock flushed near one of these spring holes will make the sportsman hustle to get the drop on him. In that month he is a lively bird. The Musconetcong valley is another admirable territory, also the Sucasunna Plains and Schooley's Mountain. These shooting grounds are noted as being superior to any others in the State."

—The Central Railroad Company has placed danger signals on either side of the overhead bridges along the line, so as to warn the brakemen on freight trains of their near approach to the bridge.

DRUNK AT THE CHURCH DOORS.

A Plainfield Lady Writes Further of Scenes in "Prohibition" Asbury.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A unique and diverting circumstance, occurred on the avenue containing all the leading churches, Sunday evening. As the solemn hour of service approached, and the bells were ringing their commingled calls to the faithful, a peculiar and strange sound of discord was heard almost before one of the church doors, proceeding from a man, who evidently desired to personate David, when he shouted and danced for joy over his victories. But his demonstrations caused a panic among the pious folk, while it drew "a cloud of witnesses" from Heaven knows where. Seeing that the time and place was the most quiet on earth; some one asked the cause of the commotion, and was told that it was a man "crazy drunk."

It was a study to see the long drawn, avenging countenances, cast upon the bacchanlian whose crime seemed to them unpardonable. However a horse and high-seated buggy, driven by a Sunday-dressed, solemn policeman, appeared upon the scene, and alighting, he took hold of the "crazy drunk" and hauled him into the buggy which was much too small, to hold him. Hence he began to kick, heels up, and his yells so frightened the poor horse, the guardian of the peace had more than he could manage. So out he dumped the exhausted kicker and drove away to obtain assistance, returning soon after with the same conveyance and a brother officer. Then the awe-struck observers saw the "heavy weight" lifted up to the floor of the buggy; the policemen climbed in and sat on him, and with the legs and arms of all three, violently gesticulating, the old nag bore them away to the lockup.

The policemen down here are very sober looking men. When I pass one occasionally on the street, his stoical visage indicates no sort of ready protection or advice, but rather a ready warning not to walk on the grass, or not to raise the dust when crossing the street, or some other waywardness. But the postmen who are sons of dominies and deacons, are necessarily the most sober of all the town officials. The one who delivers my letters carries a very funereal aspect, as if to prepare me for a notice of death in one of the letters. Their very gait denotes their conservatism, as their uniforms prove their importance.

The musicians, playing in the big pavilion look very sober and thirsty these warm nights, but a large hydrant of fine artesian water stands just outside, inviting them to quench their thirst, which which they never do but play on, dreaming of the sweet by and by, when, discarding their sober garb, they can find in the foaming glass, the satisfaction and warmth they crave.

All this sobriety is agreeable to the large number of hotel men and boarding house keepers, for a more sober set of people could not be found, since they enter and remain, in the valley of doubt bordering on despair, until nearing the the end of the season they find, perchance, cause to smile over their unexpected gains. They tell me that Prohibition keeps the mind sober as well as the body and that the functions of both are thereby rendered serious and abstemious. And that to do away with Prohibition, would be to destroy the chief charm of Asbury Park which is its sobriety.

LOOKER ON.

Half Rates for the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will convene at Columbus, Ohio, September 16 to 22. This meeting will undoubtedly bring together the largest assemblage of the order ever before gathered on a similar occasion. It is expected that 15,000 members, including a large number of Patriarchs Militant, will be in attendance. The parades and public ceremonies which will extend through the week will be highly interesting to the public as well as to members of the order. For this occasion the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all principal stations on its lines East of Pittsburg and Erie (except New York), September 13 to 16, valid for return until September 26, 1889, at the rate of a single fare for the round trip.

The universally admitted superiority of the Pennsylvania Railroad's great system of through trains, equipped with coaches, sleeping and dining cars, affording every convenience to the traveler, commends this route to the favorable consideration of visitors.

Another Beat on the Road.

Scarcely a week passes but some fradulent customer makes his appearance. This time he turns up where one would least expect—in a cemetery. An exchange says that a man is traveling about soliciting orders for cleaning up grave stones that have become discolored from dirt or mildew. He does the work easily with diluted acid, but the polished surface of marble head stones is ruined by the acid. Look out for him. Granite monuments might not be injured, but the use of nitric or sulphuric acid on marble ought not to be tolerated for a moment.

Helping the Home.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS: Allow me to acknowledge through your paper the receipt of $32 from a Fair held by Annie D. W. Miller and Valentine Chandor.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Great Suffering Among the Families of the London Dock Men.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The destitution in the East End of London, among the families of the striking dockers is something appalling. Many of the women and children have been for whole days without food and all the relief afforded by the charitably disposed scarcely makes an impression upon the distress, so great is the extent. During the first days of the great strike the wives of the men managed to get an occasional meal for themselves and their children, by taking their few household goods, piece by piece, and their clothing to the pawnbrokers' shops. But there are few now who have anything left to pawn; the shop men have long ago been forced to refuse all credit, and as a result these poor unfortunates are dependent solely upon charity for sustenance. Notwithstanding their deplorable condition the dockers' wives are quite as determined as their husbands in fighting their fight against their employers to the bitter end, and it is even said by those living among these people that the strike would have been over a week ago and the men would have gone to work at the masters' terms but for the persistent obstinacy of the women who preferred to suffer the pangs of hunger rather than permit their husbands to submit to defeat.

The second compromise submitted to the strikers has met the fate of the first and has been rejected. This was a proposal made by Cardinal Manning on his own initiative and one which had not received the approval of the other mediators nor of the dock directors. It provided for the immediate resumption of work by the strikers and the concession of the increased pay demanded, to date from November 1. Mr. Burns told Cardinal Manning to-day that the temper of the men was such that it would be futile to urge the November compromise.

Subscriptions for the benefit of the strikers continue to flow in and the result is that many of the dock laborers are faring better in idleness than they ever did while working, and though this is only true of the more shiftless of the men, the fact has a potent influence in postponing the day of settlement.

Burns Ashamed of American Workmen.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—John Burns in addressing the strikers to-day said that the workmen of American had forwarded sentiment and sympathy enough to encircle the globe if it were committed to paper, but not a single cent to relieve the wants of their fellow workmen. He was ashamed of the organized workingmen of America

Arrested for Speaking German.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 11.—The entire bench of judges of the district circuit in the Department of Riga have been arrested by order of the Government. They are accused of persistently using the German language on the bench after they had received orders from St. Petersburg to use the Russian only.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish a the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealful in food, and dries up the brea.. material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

HYDROPHOBIA'S HORRORS.

Terrible Suffering of Two Children Who Were Bitten by a Pet Dog.

READING, Pa., Sept. 11.—A very sad sight was witnessed in the home of Edward Gunning, at Avondale, Chester county. His two children, pretty little girls, aged eight and six years, were held in bed suffering from violent spasms in the worst stages of hydrophobia. They were seized with fits on Sunday evening and were carried from the porch upstairs.

The sight of water hurried them into convulsions, their eyes rolled and mouths frothed. All of Monday the spasms continued. Finally the eldest died yesterday and the other will not survive the day.

The horrible sight of the struggling, dying children will never be forgotten by those who assisted in holding them. Both children were bitten by their own pet dog last July.

ON ROUND TOP.

Arranging for the Erection of a Memorial Hall at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Sept. 11.—The members of the Pennsylvania Reserves are here in force. Last night a special meeting of the organization was held and the following resolution offered by Col. John H. Taggart, of Philadelphia was adopted,

"That the President of this Association shall appoint a committee of one from each regiment and battery in the Reserve Corps, whose duty it shall be to apply to the State Department at Harrisburg, without delay, for a charter or act of incorporation for an organization, to be known as 'The Gettysburg Memorial Hall Association of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Reserve Corps.'

The Council of Red Men.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 11.—The great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men in session in this city opened with a "long talk" by the great Incohonee, Thomas J. Francis, of New Jersey, after which reports of committees were read and routine business transacted. The number of members in the Order, as shown by the reports, is 85,174, an increase over last year of 10,805. The number of tribes instituted last year was 23, making a total of 91. The tribal receipts were $639,730; paid out, $147,274; for relief of widows and orphans $4,557 burial of dead, $40,197; other disbursements, $248,217. Total disbursements, $721,711. Amount now in treasury, $320,162. There are 200 delegates in the convention.

The Phillies' Protest to Be Looked Into.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—"As soon as Johnson's affidavit reaches me," said President Young yesterday, "I will send copies of the document to the Board of Directors of the League, and request a vote on the Philadelphia's protest against the recent 12-inning game with the Bostons. Messrs. Hewitt of the Washingtons; Day of the New Yorks; Brush, of the Indianapolis and Nimick of the Pittsburgs, constitute a committee who will have the settlement of this matter."

Financially Embarrassed.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 11.—The oldest firm of woolen goods dealers in this section, Burt & Snow, are financially embarrassed. Notes went to protest yesterday and the firm will make an early assignment. The liabilities are estimated to be about $100,000; assets unknown. The cause of the failure is said by one of the firm to be a general lack of confidence in the woolen trade and slow collections.

Accident on a Staten Island Road.

TOMPKINSVILE, S. I., Sept. 11.—Yesterday the train from Perth Amboy to St. George, running at a rapid rate just behind a South Beach train, crashed into the latter on the bridge between Tompkinsville and Stapleton. The rear car of the South Beach train was full of passengers. Three of them were injured, John Lang, and two sailors living at the Sailors' Snug Harbor.

A Seized Steamer Released.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Menhaden steamer Joseph Church, of Tiverton, seized yesterday by State officers, was released to-day, having been bonded in the sum of $20,000, and has sailed for her home port with officers and crew who are also under bond to appear in court at Barnstable on Monday next.

A Prominent Lancaster Man Dead.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 11.—Samuel H. Reynolds died here yesterday, aged 57. He was President of the Peoples' National Bank and for many years a prominent leader of the Lancaster bar. At one time he was prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination for Governor and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1873.

World's Fair Sites.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Executive Committee of the World's Fair Site and Buildings Committee has decided to report four sites to the full committee from which to make a selection, namely: Claremont Park and vicinity, Oak and Barrelto Points, Fort George and Inwood, Riverside and Morningside Parks.

Pardoned By Gov. Hill.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Frank McCormick, an Onondaga County convict, serving a four year sentence for grand larceny, was released from Auburn prison on a pardon from Governor Hill yesterday. He is in the last stages of consumption and cannot live more than a few days.

Committed Suicide in a Barroom.

DECKERTOWN, N. J., Sept. 11.—James H. Adams, of this place, committed suicide in a hotel at Unionville, N. Y., yesterday. He was of a good family, but of late very much addicted to drink. When left alone in the barroom he shot himself twice in the forehead.

Trespass Cases Settled.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 11.—The cases of Edwin Furman against W. F. Fisher and the Raritan River Railroad for $10,000 in each case, for trespass at Sayreville last spring, were settled out of court, the company paying $6,000 and securing the desired right of way.

Gaudaur Willing to Row Searle.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 11.—J. A. St. John says he will back Gaudaur to beat Searle for $5,000 a side if Searle will consent to row in this country. He considers the American at a disadvantage in the tidewater on the Thames.

THE QUEEN OF UTAH.

Past, Present and Future of Lovely Salt Lake City.

Mormonism on the Decline All Over the Territory—Polygamy's Hateful Creed Being Driven Out by the March of Civilization.

"What a pity that such a beautiful city, with such splendid possibilities, should be held back from the magnificent proportions it will some day assume simply by the religious and social differences." Such was the exclamation of Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, after we had driven around the environs of the once famous, but now extinct, Brigham Young.

After spending two days in Salt Lake City with the leading Mormons and gentiles, and seeing every part of the city, with its vast interests, and talking with the members of the Utah Commission and with Bishop Cannon—the latter the head of the Mormon church—I have come to the conclusion that polygamy has received its death-blow, and that the Mormon church is on its last legs, says a Salt Lake correspondent to the Philadelphia Press. If the church did not depend upon recruits from Europe it would make an assignment within two years. About every three months a missionary or elder arrives from Europe with a small band of benighted individuals, mostly an extremely ignorant and unattractive people, who have been proselyted and captured for the church. These are distributed around the Territory, and go to fill up the links made vacant by the operation of the Edmunds law. Very few are dropped here.

The tithing system is entirely broken up by the law, so far as can be seen, although it is supposed that it is carried on to a limited degree under the guise of "voluntary contributions." The Federal Government confiscated the valuable property belonging to the Mormon church and occupied by the Desert News as a tithing office. It is an immense square, partly covered by a building for the publication office and offices for the clerks. There is an abundance of room where the poor, ignorant people dumped the fourth of every thing they produced, and which was sold to regular customers, the same as a general merchandising house. Every fourth load of wood, grain or wool, or other produce of the farm or factory was brought here and given over to the church. Some other buildings belonging to the church organization, and used for business purposes, were confiscated, placed in the hands of a receiver, and they are now rented to the church; but they are not used for the purposes they were once. Nothing tending to the teachings of the polygamous branch of the Mormon faith is permitted.

The Federal officers, at the outset of the Edmunds law five years ago, took charge of the great temple, which the Mormons began to construct forty years ago, which has cost $3,000,000, and is to cost as much more and be the finest religious edifice in the United States, but it was soon found that it could not be confiscated. It was church property, and, although the business concerns of the church could be taken, the edifice could not. When I asked the superintendent of construction when the temple would be completed he smiled softly and in his good Mormon regulation way said:

"We do not know. You see, sir, the church was cut off from its regular and honest tithing by the Edmunds law, which gave it a backset in money matters. It may be a quarter of a century yet. It is to be used not as a place of worship, but as a place of ceremonies, marriage and other rites, ordinations and so forth, and there is no hurry about it."

It is my honest opinion that the temple will never be finished by the Mormon Church organization, for I believe the church will fast decay. It was once as powful, tyrannical and ambitious, in its way, as was Rome under the Cæsars, but it will be remembered that the Roman empire fell. The building of railroads here was the first black eye to Mormonism. If they could have been kept out a quarter of a century longer no one knows what trouble or what loss of life and property would have been necessary to dislodge the Mormons, for they originally intended an organization and entrenchment which would have been invincible except to the Invisible. Brigham Young opposed mining, because it would tend to bring in strangers not converted to his practices. He advocated agriculture, that being for him more productive of both people and tithes. The railroads brought in those who exposed him.

While the sound of the ox-driver pulling around the great marble blocks for the temple is heard, the music from the wonderful organ in the tabernacle is wafted out through the city, the soft low notes of the choir in the assembly hall penetrate the boiling sunlight, the old tithing house stands, the tomb of Brigham Young is viewed by every passer-by, and the immense banking and mercantile houses founded by the Mormons bear their original signs and have their original customers, Mormonism has lost its grip.

With Mormonism and its blightings out of the way, Salt Lake City will become powerful, and is a splendid field for the real-estate speculator. Property is rapidly doubling up, and it will continue to grow rapidly in value.

As soon as the gentiles get control of a Utah city Eastern men come in and real estate speculation goes wild. So confident are the gentiles of success that many of them, and some of the shrewdest Mormons, are quietly buying real-estate. Now Eastern money will not come here on any security. Salt Lake's plot is most liberal. Her blocks are 140 rods on the sides, without alleys, and the streets 132 feet from curb to curb, level, clean and beautiful. There are street-car lines, electric lights, valuable buildings, and a charming mountain scene in the distance, turn as you will.

A Question of Bowing.

A man applied to a judge at Odessa, in Southern Russia, for a writ to compel his daughter to leave the house, because when she saluted her parents she did not bow to them. He said that he would withdraw his application if she would ask pardon and make the regular obeisance. The girl agreed. She asked pardon, but when she bowed the father cried: "Lower down with your head—down below the girdle!" She replied: "I won't bend as low as that, not if I have to leave the house." The judge thereupon ordered her to leave, but she gave in finally and bowed her head to the girdle.

Difference in Sharks.

The report that a "two-ton man-eating shark" had been caught at Santa Cruz, Cal., leads an old fisherman to write to a San Francisco newspaper that the shark was not a man-eater, but a basking or ground shark. The man-eater seldom weighs over 1,500 pounds; but the ground shark often weighs as much as fifteen tons, so the old fisherman says, and sometimes its liver weighs two tons. They are the slowest fish that swim the seas. "No one," writes the fisherman, "need have any fear of them or any thing else that carries a liver that weighs one-sixth of its body."

A GREAT intellect requires a pure heart as much as the dullest intelligence.

THEY LOVE LAWSUITS.

Queer Cases of Litigation Reported Among Maine Yankees.

Maine countrymen are great lovers of litigation and argument, and nothing tickles them better than a long and badly mixed-up lawsuit. They will go to law about any thing, from a tin kettle up, and when their cases come to trial the whole countryside turns out to witness the legal fray. The Bangor correspondent of the New York Sun remembers a case which was tried in Somerset County a few years ago, wherein the issue at stake was the ownership of a pair of steelyards. The contestants fought tooth and nail through several terms of court, appeals, postponements and continuances, stretching the dispute over many months of time, while the lawyers' bills reached alarming proportions. Finally a level-headed judge, when the jury declared themselves unable to determine which man owned the steelyards, threw the case out of court and then called for the apparatus in question.

"Mr. Sheriff," cried his honor, "I want you to take these steelyards and throw them into the middle of the Kennebec river." The officer did as directed, and that ended the celebrated case.

In the town of Winn, Penobscot County, the other day, a backwoods lawyer sued another ruralist for the sum of $12, the same, he claimed, being due for hay, legal advice and an accordion. After a long and exhaustive hearing of the case the presiding justice decided that there was the sum of 11 cents due the plaintiff, but whether for hay, legal advice or the accordion he did not state. As 11 cents will buy neither accordion nor hay, the inference is that the defendant owed for 11 cents' worth of law. Both parties objected to the decision, and the case will go to a higher court.

There is a man in Houlton jail for debt who owns a farm worth $800 and receives a pension. He could pay his way out, but he won't. He says the farm belongs to his wife, and that his pension money is needed by his family. The creditor has made provision in his will for the debtor's board, and swears that he will have to pay up or die in jail.

BETRAYED BY A GOOSE.

A Pennsylvania Lover's Experience in the House of His Best Girl.

A young man over in Brushvalley township was desperately in love with a farmer's daughter, says the Punxsutawney (Pa.) Spirit. She reciprocated the tender passion, but her father was sullen and obdurate and gave the young man to understand in the most emphatic terms that if he ever entered that house it would be at his peril. He would, he said, "kick the daylights out of him."

One night recently, when the old gentleman had gone to Indiana to be absent over night, the young man took advantage of his absence to visit the daughter. They were sitting in the front room, beaming with joy. It was nearly midnight. Presently the daughter heard a noise which she recognized as her father's footsteps. There was a bed in the room, and the girl drew back the calico curtains and told the young man to hustle under. He did so. She had forgotten to tell him that there was a goose under there engaged in a motherly effort to hatch out a dozen young goslings. Scarcely had the young man gotten himself securely stowed away when the girl's father entered. Just about this time the old goose made a hissing noise, drew back its long neck and struck the already frightened intruder a smart blow on the left ear, nipping a piece out. That was enough. He was sure he had been bitten by a snake, and, with a blood-curdling yell, the young man rushed from his hiding-place, screaming at the top of his voice:

"Snake! Snake! I'm bit by a snake! and I don't care a dang who knows it!"

And the clandestine lover made a break for the door and ran home with furious speed, yelling at every jump.

The old man was at first very much startled at the strange apparition, but he soon realized the situation, and both himself and daughter laughed heartily.

TOEING THE SCRATCH.

The Noisy But Harmless "Defi's" Hurled at Each Other by Two Negroes.

There had been some hard words between Julius and Moses before as near as I could make out, says a writer in the New York Evening Sun. Moses was blacking my boots on the verandah when Julius came around from the kitchen and began:

"Look heah, boy; I'ze dun got my eyeball on you, an' de fust thing you know I'll pound you to squash!"

"Shoo! Does you know who you is conversin' wid?" demanded Moses. "Doan' you talk to me dat way, black man."

"Who's black man?"

"You is."

"You was a liar, sah!"

"So was you!"

"Look out, boy! A feller dun called me liah one time and de county had to bury him."

"An' you look out for me, black man; I'ze mighty hard to wake up, but when I gits aroused I was pizen all de way frew."

"Shoo! I just want to say to you dat de las' fight I was in it took eight men to hold me. Doan' you get me mad, boy—doan' you do it."

"Bum! I dass put my hand right on yo shoulder."

"An' I dass put my hand on yours."

"Now what yo' gwine ter do?"

"Now what you gwine ter do?"

"Shoo!"

"Shoo!"

And after standing in defiance for a moment each backed slowly away and went about his business, to renew the "defi" at the first opportunity and always with the same result.

AN OPERATOR'S RUSE.

How He Managed to Make the Enemy Take to His Heels.

Dr. J. Emmet O'Brien contributes a paper to the Century entitled "Telegraphing in Battle," from which this incident is quoted: "On one occasion an operator started out from Fairfax Station on a hand-car propelled by three contrabands to attempt to restore the line so that Pope's operators could communicate his whereabouts. Finding the line cut beyond Pohick bridge, he spliced it and got signals from both directions. While so engaged a party of guerrillas emerged from the woods to the track and surrounded him. Bidding the negroes stand fast, he dictated a swift message over the line, which was being repeated back to him and copied as the Confederate leader leaned over his shoulder and read the significant words: 'Buford has sent back a regiment of cavalry to meet the one from here and guard the line. If you are molested we will hang every citizen on the route.' The instrument ceased ticking as the operator firmly replied: '. . — . —' (O. K.). A painful pause ensued. The Confederate might have suspected a ruse if at the moment a gleam of sabers had not shone in the direction of Fairfax Court-House. Hastily starting for the woods, the leader exclaimed: 'Come home, boys; these yere ain't our niggers;' and they disappeared, while the hand-car, as if driven by forty contraband power, sped rapidly rearward. Pope's wires were not well guarded at any time."

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

A Negro Mother's Long But Successful Search for Her Sons.

An interesting incident has just been brought to light in this city, writes an Owensboro (Ky.) correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat. Martha Cabble served a great portion of her life in slavery in Virginia, and forty years ago was separated from her children, in order that her master might secure money with which he could enter an adventure for enriching himself. The mother and her offspring were owned by a planter near Richmond, Va., and at the breaking out of the gold excitement in California in 1849 her master sold her two sons, aged eight and ten years, to a slave trader from New Orleans to secure money to go to the gold fields. The boys were taken to New Orleans, where they were again sold, the oldest, Thurston Cabble, to parties in Henderson, Ky., and his brother Ned to a party living in Texas.

As soon as her boys were taken away from her, the mother, who was held by the chains of slavery, set about to learn where her children were taken to, and to keep track of them, hoping that some day they might be reunited. She succeeded in learning that they had been taken to New Orleans, but here she lost all trace of them, but did not despair, and continued her search by means of letters written for her by friends to various parts of the country, all of which were fruitless. As soon as she was given her freedom she worked hard and saved her earnings to enable her to pursue her search. She managed by stinting herself to visit New Orleans, thence she went to Memphis, Nashville, Tenn., and many other places, at last returning to Richmond, Va. During all her travels she would get friends to write for her to points where she would occasionally receive information, which might possibly bring her some news of her boy.

Finally she, by way of accident, learned that Thurston had been sold and taken to Henderson County. She got some of her friends to write to the members of the Baptist Church at Henderson. A reply was returned that he had gone to Davies County, Ky. A letter was addressed to the Baptist Church in this city, which was handed to Thurston Cabbell, who has been employed for some time as porter in the Deposit bank in this city. Thurston at once secured money and forwarded it to his aged aged mother, who is now in the eighty-fifth year of her age and is nearly blind. The money brought the mother to this place this morning, and the meeting of the faithful parent and her son was a joyous scene. She was also rewarded by learning that her other son is doing well near Dallas, Tex.

A Brig in Distress.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A large brig flying signals of distress, was seen off Coney Island to-day. Her name could not be learned.

THE STORM'S WORK

Ruin and Devastation All Along the Coast.

ATLANTIC CITY'S GREAT PERIL.

The Guests Imprisoned by Water and a Famine Imminent.

Several Lives Lost and Terrible Suffering Endured—Fire Added to the Terror of the Floods—Coney Island Badly Damaged—A Number of Vessels Encounter the Storm King's Fury—New York City Suffering from the Flood.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Atlantic City is submerged. The ten thousand permanent residents and more than ten thousand hotel guests are panic stricken at the steady encroachments of the sea and the awful hurricane prevailing. Not a train can reach or leave the city for fully a week. A famine is threatened. There is no milk, no vegetables, no meat, no eggs, and ere another day dawns there will be nothing left but bread and water. Luckily the supply of flour is plentiful. No trains have left the flooded city since Monday morning. The devastation and ruin are appalling, and the loss of life is as yet a matter of conjecture.

Fire Adds to the Terrors.

SOMERS POINT, N. J., Sept. 12.—Communication has been established between Atlantic City and the mainland at this point by means of yachts and steamers and a frightful state of affairs is shown. The storm is still raging with unabated fury, and added to the horror of the wind and waves is that of fire. A steamer brought the news that a fire was raging in Atlantic City, and that houses alongside the burning buildings were being demolished to prevent a general conflagation. What the burning buildings are the captain of the steamer could not say.

Perilous Times at Ocean City.

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 12.—The destruction wrought by the storm at Ocean City is great. All the porch columns at the hotels and cottages are washed away, the doors and windows broken, and furniture is floating about the beach. A train was sent to the rescue of the dwellers on the beach. The work was done by a large number of men joining hands and wading through the water waist deep. They brought the women to the cars one by one, seated on their joined hands.

A New Jersey Bridge Swept Away.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 12.—The highway bridge over the creek at Cheesequakes was swept away during the storm. The bridge cost $6,000. A railroad wash-out near Perth Amboy is reported, and much other damage has been done in this and adjoining counties. Wires are down and details can not yet be obtained.

CONEY ISLAND'S DAMAGE.

The Beach Strewn With Wreckage and Great Destruction Wrought.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The fury of the Coney Island waves has subsided but wreckage is strewn from one end of the island to the other, and driftwood is jammed in massive piles in scores of places. All that is left of a quarter of a mile of the once pretty concourse is an irregular line of jagged blocks of concrete pavement.

Although the Oriental Hotel stands on a site higher than any other hotel on the Island the lawn and flower beds were sunken and debris scattered all around. Chairs, benches and lamp-posts are piled together in masses and the concrete walks undermined and sunken. The waves sifted through the rows of piles forming part of the bulkhead and ten feet of lawn has been eaten away by the sea, leaving a yawning, jagged rift the entire length of the bulkhead.

Manhattan Beach grounds are ruined The bulkhead has been broken asunder and great gaps have taken the place of the once smooth walks. There are scarcely ten feet of the concrete blocks left. They have been washed away or covered with sand or mud. All about the big building great holes have been made, and the cellar is flooded with four feet of water. All the fires were put out and the gas pipes flooded with water. In the back yard water stood three feet deep. The great bathing pavilion to the left and in front of the hotel is a total wreck. The music stand has been knocked out of shape. Portions of it are two feet from the ground and all around its base the sand was sunken and the ground broken. A canal three feet deep has been formed beneath. Great piles of driftwood from the bulkhead were piled around it and crushed in its sides. On the beach between Manhatten Beach and Brighton Beach Hotels, the only strip of beach left there was a regular line of wreckage. To the west of Brighton Beach Hotel there is an expanse of wreckage and debris one hundred yards long and fifty wide.

The elevated station is beaten and broken and ready to fall. From Tom Kearns' Hotel to the tower the Island is a desolate waste. The iron piers are damaged beyond use, and back of Herzberg's Hotel the scene of the wreck is terrible. Piles of wood, dirt and debris are stacked against the rear of the houses which withstood the storm. Booths and small houses are overturned and row boats embedded in the sand. The Manhattan and Brighton Beach hotels have closed their doors two weeks before they intended.

The Shelter House situated opposite the Boulevard, from which William Murray and his family had such a narrow escape from drowning, was lifted clear off the poles and carried off to sea.

Thirty Vessels Lost.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 12.—Thirty vessels have gone down in the terrible gale which has prevailed off the Atlantic coast for the past three days. The gale has done immense damage at Lewes and will be as memorable as the famous blizzard of March, 1888.

Schooner Badly Broken Up.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12.—The schooner Harriet Samantha which went ashore at Cape Ann last night is badly broken up and her cargo of lumber is lost.

Tammany Hall's Grand Sachem.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A. B. Tappen has been elected Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall in place of Sheriff Flack, who resigned.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

Not a Game Played Yesterday on Account of Rain and Wet Grounds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The storm king had full sway yesterday and not a baseball game of any importance was played anywhere along a good many miles of the Atlantic coast.

It is extremely doubtful if any games can be played to-day, although the Chicagoes are scheduled to cross bats with the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The Brooklyn and Louisville teams are scheduled to play at Washington Park this afternoon.

The St. Louis Club Heavily Fined.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—President Wikoff, of the American Association, has notified President Byrne, of the Brooklyn club, that a fine of $1,500 in each case has been imposed upon the St. Louis club for their refusal to finish the game of September 7 and to play the game of September 8 at Brooklyn, and that the Brooklyns may retain all percentage of receipts due the St. Louis club for playing any scheduled games with the Brooklyns. All other clubs have received notice to retain the St. Louis' percentages of games until the above amounts have been made up.

To Equalize Shoemakers' Wages.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The Executive Board of the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union which now comprises 75 local unions in the chief shoe centres of Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, has decided to propose a conference in November of the workmen and such of the New England manufacturers as believe that an equalized price list should be adopted. It is stated that a difference of 50 per cent. in prices for given quality and quantity, exists between different manufacturing points in New England.

Against Woman Suffrage in New Mexico.

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 12.—In the Constitutional Convention to-day the majority refused to permit the incorporation of a Woman Suffrage Clause in the article relating to the elective franchise, whereupon the handful who believe in the right of woman to vote undertook to delay final action on the article. These favor withholding from all persons who shall engage in prize fighting. They also made a vigorous contest to incorporate their views in the article, but the report of the committee as amended was adopted without these additions.

In the Tombs for Alleged Libel.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—E. D. Mann, editor of "Town Topics," was arraigned in court on a charge of criminal libel, in stating in his paper that Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton's father, the late Philip Hamilton, had two wives and two sets of children. The statement occurred in an article on the Robert Ray Hamilton matter. Dr. Hamilton is the complainant. Mann declined to plead at present and was committed to the Tombs.

New Jersey Railroads Inundated.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Passengers of the train that was upset near Anglesea reached Cape May uninjured and are being cared for. The Anglesea and Avalon branches of the West Jersey Railroad are submerged for a distance of six miles, and washed out in several places. Trains cannot be run for some days.

New England Road Cutting Rates.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The Boston and Main road has just put into force a new through passenger tariff, which even cuts under the Fitchburg road's recently reduced rates. The Chicago fare is three dollars lower than the West Shore rate, and two dollars lower than the Erie rate.

Fire at New Haven, Conn.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 12.—The fire yesterday completely gutted the fourth floor of the Yale bank building and caused a loss of about 5,000. The principal losers are the Southern New England Telephone Company. The fire is said to have been caused by an electric light wire becoming crossed during the gale.

City of Paris' Latest Trip.

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 12.—The time of the passage of the steamer City of Paris, which arrived here last night from New York, was six days, three hours and fifty-eight minutes. Her daily runs were: 360, 442, 443, 447, 454, 495 and 217 knots.

TANNER COMPLIES

His Resignation Sent to the President To-Day.

THE LETTER A CORDIAL ONE.

He Expresses Esteem for the President and Devotion for His Party.

Strong Efforts Made for His Retention—A Cabinet Meeting Held Last Night to Discuss the Matter—Several Successors Mentioned—A Report that General Warner Has Been Called from Kansas City to Take the Office.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The retention, removal and resignation of Commissioner of Pensions Tanner were the subjects of protracted conferences at the Executive Mansion yesterday between the President and most of his Cabinet officers. Informal conferences were held during the day between the President and Secretaries Noble and Tracy; but the formal Cabinet meeting to discuss the matter did not convene until nearly 4 p. m., and lasted until 6 o'clock last evening.

Secretary Noble was with the President as early as 2 o'clock. He brought with him the report of the committee which has investigated re-rating in the Pension Office during Commissioner Tanner's administration, presumably to be used as an argument for securing the Commissioner's vacation of the office.

Members of the Cabinet are extremely reticent about what happened at the meeting. The President, however, authorized the statement that "Commissioner Tanner had not been removed, and that he had not asked for the Commissioner's resignation."

Commissioner Tanner declined to talk about the imbroglio, further than to say that he had not been suspended and had not resigned. Efforts are undoubtedly being made to induce the Commissioner to resign, by offering him another equally lucrative and honorable position; but whether he will yield to such persuasion is not known, and further conferences and more time is needed to settle the matter.

Now that it is generally believed that Commissioner Tanner will vacate, or must go, rumor is rife with candidates to succeed him. Ex-Pension Agent Poole, of New York, and ex-Congressman Brown, of Ohio, and Thomas, of Illinois, are already mentioned among others for the place.

Vice President Morton at the Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Vice-President Morton called at the White House last evening while the President and his Cabinet were considering the case of Pension Commissioner Tanner. He was shown into the Cabinet room and joined in the discussion.

Warner Called from Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.—Major William Warner is reported to have left Kansas City for Washington in response to a telegram from the President or the Secretary of the Interior asking him if he would accept the position of Commissioner of Pensions to succeed Commissioner Tanner in event the latter should be removed. Major Warner was a member of the House of Representatives for two terms, and afterward was Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Tanner to Take Rosecrans' Place.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—It is said today that Tanner is to succeed General Rosecrans as Register of the Treasury and that Congressman McKinley, of Ohio, has been offered the position of Commissioner of Pensions. McKinley has gone to New York to attend the funeral of Congressman Cox. From there he will come back here, but it is understood he will decline the position, as he has strong hopes of becoming Speaker of the House.

Tanner Resigns.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Commissioner Tanner this afternoon sent a letter to the President resigning his position. The letter is a cordial one, expressing highest esteem for the President, and continued devotion to the Republican party. It is very brief, scarcely fifty words in length, with no evidence of ill-feeling.

Republicans Carry Newport.

NEWPORT, Sept. 12.—The city election resulted in a Republican victory. Mayor Coggeshall was re-elected by a majority of 42 over the Democratic and Independent candidates. City Treasurer David M. Coggeshall, Republican, was re elected by 716 majority. The Board of Aldermen is entirely Republican and a majority of the School Board and Common Council are also Republican.

Pilots Carried Away on Steamer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Nine pilots were carried out yesterday on the steamers which they were guiding from port. They could not find pilot boats outside to bring them back. Some will have to take involuntary trips to Europe, others to Southern ports. By law they are entitled to receive $25 per week and first-class board during their enforced absence from port.

Injured by a Falling Derrick.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 12.—By the breaking down of the big derrick known as the "traveler" at the brown stone quarry near Hummelstown John Thomas, the engineer, was terribly scalded with steam, and Augustus Kinley had an arm broken and his back sprained. The derrick fell 30 feet.

Knights of the Mystic Chain.

YORK, Pa., Sept. 12.—The Select Council of the Ancient Order of Knights of the Mystic Chain elected D. H. Retew, of Columbia, Pa., Select Commander; John F. Davis, of Pittsburg, Corresponding Secretary and W. C. Brown, of Pittsburg, Select Treasurer.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The straw hat will soon repose on the shelf.

—A meeting of the Order of American Firemen will be held this evening.

—An adjourned regular meeting of No. 2 Engine Co., is called for this evening.

—The Republican State Convention will be held at Trenton on Tuesday, September 17.

—The subscription list for Prof. Venino's chamber music concerts can now be seen at Reynolds' pharmacy.

—Nineteen brakemen were laid off on the Central Railroad Monday, on account of the discontinuance of seaside trains.

—In the Crescent Avenue church, last evening, there was a monthly missionary meeting. Subject: "Japan and Korea."

—A new order has been issued by the Central railroad requesting all station, ticket and freight agents to wear a uniform.

—The Republican ward primaries in this city, for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Convention, will be held to-night.

—Patrick Fitzgerald of South Plainfield, has made application to the District Court at New Brunswick for a license to sell ale and beer.

—An opportunity will be given next Sunday in the Crescent Avenue church, for parents who wish to present their children for baptism.

—The grand ball which was to have taken place at the Mt. Bethel Hotel, last evening, has been postponed to Tuesday, September 24.

—The storm, from all appearances, is yet far from being over and a strong East wind still prevails. Fair weather, however, is promised for to-morrow.

—There will be a special meeting of the Reform Club, this evening at 7:45 o'clock, for the consideration of important business. A full attendance is desired.

—The State Fair opens at Waverly on Monday next. $20,000 in cash will be offered as premiums, $4,900 of which will be for trotting, pacing and running.

—It is considered very "nice" to have bon bons distributed in fancy trays in all parts of the house. The little boy will clip this out and show it to his sister.

—Much of the late corn in this vicinity has been laid low by the wind and rain storm of the past few days, and the late fruit has also suffered to a great extent.

—The Central Railroad Company are putting up automatic block signals from Jersey City to Bergen Point. The system will eventually go into effect all along the line.

—Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co., was to have taken their truck out to practice with the extension ladder on Tuesday evening, but on account of the storm the trip was postponed.

—The season for balls and sociables has arrived. Societies contemplating the holding of such would do well to call at The Press office before having their printing done elsewhere.

—Services will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, No. 73 West Front street, on Sunday at 10:30 A. M., under the auspices of the German Lutheran church. Rev. E. F. Moldenke, D. D., will officiate.

—The property-owners along Willow avenue, North Plainfield, have not yet commenced the work of macadamizing that thoroughfare, pursuant to a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the Borough Council.

—On account of the storm it has been found impossible to post the handsome paper for the Primrose and West Modern Minstrel Combination, but the company will appear in Music Hall on Monday evening next, notwithstanding.

—The regular weekly meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held as usual this evening, in the S. of T. rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue. All the members that can are requested to be present, as several new members will be initiated and other business of importance transacted.

—At the September term of the Middlesex County Court, at New Brunswick, on Tuesday, the Grand Jury began the investigation of the charges of murder preferred against Superintendent Hendrickson and Contractor Hussey, of the Raritan River Railroad, for complicity in the fatal riots that followed their attempt to lay their tracks over Furman's brickyard, at Sayreville.

A NORTH PLAINFIELDER COMMITS SUICIDE.

Mr. George W. Townley Deliberately Shoots Himself With a Double-Barreled Shot Gun—The Cause of His Rash Act a Mystery.

Mr. George W. Townley, a well-known and universally esteemed resident of North Plainfield, committed suicide by shooting himself in the left side, in his barn on Grand View avenue, about nine o'clock this morning. He apparently enjoyed good health, and no direct cause is assigned for the rash act. He was about fifty years of age, and leaves a widow, three sons and one daughter. Mr. Townley had been depressed in spirits for several days past, so much so that his immediate friends noticed it.

This morning he arose as usual and attended to his accustomed duties about the house. As early as eight o'clock he went to the house of his son, Warren Townley, on Linden avenue, and borrowed the latter's double-barreled shot-gun, under the pretext that he wanted to shoot an annoying cat. Instead, however, he went direct to his barn, about fifty yards Northwest of his residence, and entering the building he deliberately shot himself in the left side, a few inches below the heart. Members of the family heard the fatal shot, and rushing out to the barn found the dead man lying on his back, with arms extended. An ugly wound with blood oozing from it told the fearful story. The gun, with one empty barrel, laid on the floor, directly under the corpse.

Borough Marshal McDonald was immediately notified and he in turn notified the authorities, but through some misunderstanding word was sent to County Physician Westcott, who has no jurisdiction in Somerset county, and later County Physician Wagener of Somerville was telegraphed for. Up to this writing the County Physician has not yet viewed the remains, and it is not known whether an inquest will be deemed necessary.

Mr. Townley was a mason by trade, and for many years past, he has been one of Mr. Isaac W. Pangborn's trusted and competent employees. A few weeks ago, while work was slack, he took the contract for re-building the line bridge on Green Brook at Grant avenue, for $325. The bad weather during this week interferred with his work, and to friends he expressed his desire to complete the work within a certain time so as to fulfill his contract. This is said by some to have worked upon his mind, and is credited as the cause for his rash act. By others it is claimed that unhappy domestic relations led to the suicide.

Members of the family say that Mr. Townley was restless and uneasy during last night, and that he walked the floor continuously.

About five years ago Mr. Townley married Mrs. Aaron Lines, who originally came from Newark. No children came to bless the union, the surviving children having been born to his first wife.

During the war, in 1861, Mr. Townley enlisted in Co. I., N. J. Vols., from here, and served three years. He was a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., and was considered an excellent working member.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

LATER.

County Physician Wagener came down from Somerville this afternoon, and after viewing the remains gave the usual burial permit, deeming an inquest unnecessary.

Caught the Robber.

Harry Foster, a young man, was arrested by Borough Marshal Van Fleet, at his home on Grove street, last evening, charged with entering and robbing Mrs. E. J. Olssen's house on East Second street, recently, while the family were away on an excursion. The prisoner pleaded guilty to the charge, and was held in $200 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Reduced Rates to the Republican Convention.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. announces that on the occasion of the Republican convention at Trenton, Sept. 17, 1889, excursion tickets will be sold from all stations on the united railroads of New Jersey division within the State of New Jersey, Sept 16 and 17, valid for return trip until Sept. 18, inclusive, at a rate of two cents per mile.

Death of Mrs. Peter Hoagland.

At her home on West Front street, about half-past eight o'clock this morning, occurred the death of the estimable wife of Mr. Peter Hoagland. Mrs. Hoagland was in the 58th year of her age, and has been a sufferer from Bright's disease for some time past. Her latest illness dated back for a period of only a few days.

Delegates to the State Convention.

The members of the Firemen's Relief Association met last evening and elected the following delegates to the State Convention which meets at Long Branch on Sept. 25: T. O. Doane, E. C. Morse, H. M. Sherwin, Edward Mosher.

—The Union County Board of Freeholders will meet at Elizabeth on Monday afternoon.

—Mr. S. A. Davis, of this city, has assumed the proprietorship of the "Elm House," at Nos. 1210 and 1212 East Grand street, Elizabeth. The place which has been newly papered and renovated has a cafe attached, and is open both day and night for transient guests.

BLACK LISTED.

The Plainfield Bowling Club Condemns the Conduct of the West Ends.

At a meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club held last evening, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"In consideration of the thoroughly discourteous and unjust treatment received by the Crescent ball nine of this Club at the hands of the West End team, at Somerville, last Saturday afternoon, the Plainfield Bowling Club hereby resolves to have nothing to do in the future with the West End Club in any way, and that under no pretense will it be allowed to play again on the ball grounds in this city."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh has returned from his trip to the far West.

J. E. Morse and family of Franklin place have returned from a visit to Oneida county, N. Y.

Mrs. J. Loeffler of Tompkinsville, S. I., is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. F. J. How, of Bay street.

Mr. Michael Watson and Miss Lizzie McFadden, both of this city, were united in marriage, last evening.

Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of North Plainfield was chairman of the recent Somerset County Prohibition Convention.

Miss Emma Whitlock of North Plainfield has been visiting friends in the vicinity of Plainville, Somerset county.

Miss Clara Dunn, of Park avenue, will spend the coming few weeks with her brother, Rev. C. E. Dunn, of Albany, N. Y.

The population of North Plainfield was increased Sunday night to the extent of one, Mrs. Theodore Stites having given birth to a boy on that night.

Mrs. Sadie Randolph of West Fourth street, left Plainfield this morning accompanied by her brother, on a visit to friends in the Bermuda Islands.

Mr. "Jere" Moore, of West Fourth street, is the happy father of a thirteen pound girl baby, whose age will be recorded from Tuesday evening.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church in this city, was among the clergymen who represented the Congregational church at the meeting of the State Prohibitionists held in Association Hall, Newark, on Wednesday.

The death is announced of Mr. Chas. E. Hobby, which occurred at his home on East Second street, last evening, of consumption. The funeral will take place from Warren Mission chapel to morrow at 4:30 P. M. Rev. J. B. Cleaver will officiate.

Mrs. C. Thorp, of West Front street, slipped and fell while descending the steps leading from the Friends' meeting house on East Front street, yesterday forenoon, and sustained painful injuries to her back. She was taken home in a carriage.

Janitor S. R. Hope of the Bryant school building met with a painful accident a few days ago. He was trimming trees with a hatchet, when the limb he was cutting swayed and the hatchet struck his right hand between the thumb and forefinger, cutting a deep gash.

The Storm.

The effects of the present storm is plainly felt in this city, more especially by the electric light and telephone men. Telegraph and telephone wires in many instances it is said have dropped and crossed the electric street lighting wires, thereby interfering with the latter service.

Last night all that district Southwest from Park avenue and Fifth street in the Third Ward was in total darkness, and a little after nine o'clock every street lamp in the city went out. The difficulty was remedied and in a short time the streets were lighted again.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate have recently been made in North Plainfield:

Aug. 27—Henrietta B. and D. S. Berry to Evalyn P. Dyer, lot in North Plainfield, $100.

Aug. 28—Jane Roome to Joseph O. Osgood, lot in North Plainfield, $1,900.

Sept. 5—Daniel Cory to Mary Adams, undivided half of property in North Plainfield, $150.

Somerset County Fair.

The coming fair is attracting attention and exhibitors are considering what they will send. It should be a fine exhibition and in many respects, doubtless, will surpass any past fairs. The premium list is an excellent one, and offers superior inducements to our stock raisers, horse breeders, farmers and others.

Sunday, Oct. 20, 9 A. M., consecration meeting, led by Prof. Wilbur; 4 P. M., young men's meeting and women's meeting. In the evening platform meetings in two churches.

NETHERWOOD'S PLEASURES.

How the Hotel's Guests Entertain Themselves.

A grand progressive euchre party opened the week's festivities at this charming resort, Tuesday evening, and like its predecessors was pronounced a great success. The beautiful prizes were selected by Mrs. Benary, whose cultured taste in their choice received warm commendation not only from the fortunate winners, but the entire household. Your correspondent was one of the players but fate has decreed that no prizes shall ever fall into his net from this source.

Despite the fearful storm that has prevailed for the past few days throughout the country, devastating other Summer resorts, the Hotel Netherwood stands on its beautiful height, untouched, proud and defiant.

A complimentary benefit is bulletined for Saturday evening next for the benefit of the members of our orchestra, whose excellent playing during the season the guests deemed deserving of some such tribute. The programme announces selections from favorite operas etc. After the concert the usual Saturday evening hop will conclude the festivities. I trust that our Plainfield friends will make a note hereof.

The Hotel contains about the same number of guests as mentioned in my last letter. Everbody seems happy under the guidance and provision of our worthy proprietor, who is ably assisted by his Chief Lieutenant, Col. Frank H. Whiting.

TO HAVE A CLUB HOUSE.

The Bowling Club Decides on a Home for Its Members.

The Committee on sites for a permanent home for the Plainfield Bowling Club, reported favorably, last evening, on the property at 11 East Second street, and they were empowered to make a lease for a term of years with the privilege of purchase, and to make contracts for fitting up the house with bowling alleys, billiard rooms, etc.

Action was also taken associating the Club in the Union County bowling league, and pledging the Plainfield team to take part in a schedule of games during the Winter for the championship of the county, with teams from Elizabeth, Roselle and Westfield.

The following were suggested by a vote of the members present, as a Board of Trustees for the incorporation of the Club: D. C. Adams, C. P. Leggett, C. C. Burnet, F. M. Slater, John Ulrich, G. W. Rockfellow and R. M. Stelle.

Prohibition Failure.

Under the above caption the Daily Advertiser, of Newark, a conservative journal, says yesterday:

Plainfield has had an opportunity to give Prohibition a practical trial, with the same result as in all other places where an attempt has been made to prevent the sale of liquor. One writer says: "Since March 1 only one liquor man has been arrested for illegal selling, and his case has been postponed from time to time, until now the city's witnesses are scattered and a conviction even in the lowest court seems improbable. No attempt is being made to hinder the illegal selling of stimulants. The Common Council has refused to appropriate any money to pay for a detective's services, as have also the Prohibitionists. Almost all the selling is 'on the quiet' in saloons formerly licensed to do business. Upon the exterior of these are invariably posted signs of 'temperance drinks.' Customers who are known are served with what is called in the ring 'German ginger,' which is only another name for lager beer."

—This is the time of year when the thoughtful man takes time by the forelock and purchases his supply of coal for the Winter.

MR. DAY'S HOME ROBBED

And Other Interesting New Market Notes.

The public school opened its session on Monday last.

The Lehigh Valley R. R. Co., are putting up gates on the crossing of the main road between New Market and Dunellen.

The pear trees in the lawn of Mr. W. J. Davis, are now in bloom for a second time this year.

Some petty thieves broke into the cellar of Mr. G. W. Day's residence recently, stealing cake, wine and preserves. They will go it once too often, ere long.

Considerable indignation is felt at the loss of so many fish caused by the letting off the water of the lake. With previous experience it is to be regretted the State Commissioners do not place a wire screen at the gates. The last day or two bushels of fish have been picked up, some weighing as high as 13 lbs.

The sidewalks after a storm are in a disgraceful state, the centre being hollow. Pedestrians have to wade through water ankle deep from New Market to Dunellen. Not a dollar of the road money has been outlayed upon the foot paths, and the village taxpayers who contribute a full share of the cost of the roads have a right to complain. A fair share of the money should be expended for the benefit of those who cannot afford to ride.

The Dunellen end of the road is, if anything, in a worse condition, and the Borough Commissioners need waking up to the wants of the public in this respect.

THE SUMMER'S PECULIARITIES.

A Cool Season Although Preceded by a Warm Winter.

The Summer of 1889 has been a rather remarkable one. There have been a great scarcity of boiling hot days and a great abundance of rain, which has caused a considerable amount of damage and no end of inconvenience. The Summer has been cool and does not keep up the observations recently made and confirmed by looking over the reports of the last forty years, that half the warm Winters in that time were followed by warm Summers.

The two most peculiar months of the year were June and July, the former being very changeable. June's mean temperature was 72.63 degrees, ranging from eighty-nine degrees to fifty-two degrees and making the highest for that month for many years. The rainfall was 2.27 inches, which was by no means excessive and in fact a little below the average. The other peculiar month, July, had a mean temperature of seventy-four degrees, and the unprecedented rainfall of 10.80 inches, making a total rainfall during those two months of 13.07 inches.

In August the rainfall was 4.78 inches, swelling the Summer's precipitation to 17.85 inches. The fall of water in July exceeded anything known before, the only approach being that of July, 1872, when the rainfall was 8.94 inches. The oddest changes of weather have been noted during an occasional twenty-four hours and have reminded travelers of the Pacific coast, where the days are warm and the nights very cool.

Suit Against the Central Railroad.

James R. Walker, pilot of the tug Municipal, has brought suit against the Central Railroad of New Jersey, in the United States Circuit Court for injuries received, the result of a collision between the railroad company's ferryboat Fanwood and the tug Municipal. On Dec. 27 last the Municipal, in command of the complainant, was going up the North River when the Fanwood emerged from her slip. Her whistle, it is alleged, was not blown as is required by law. The Municipal signaled, but was not answered. In trying to avoid running into the wreck of the sunken steamer Atlas, the Municipal veered around and was run into by the Fanwood. The tug was forced backward under great pressure, and her rudder was shifted to starboard, causing the pilot wheel to be wrenched from the hands of Pilot Walker. The wheel revolved rapidly, striking Walker on the arm and breaking it.

Twenty-five Years in Service.

Letter carrier Thomas R. Trimble, one of the veterans of the Rebellion, has just completed twenty-five years of service in the employ of the United States Government. He entered the postoffice at the Port, when Mr. Luther T. Hand was postmaster, at the close of the war, and served eight years as clerk. After that he became a letter carrier, one of the original ones appointed by Postmaster Harris, and has served seventeen years as such. Mr. Trimble has served faithfully during these twenty-five years, and is yet in love with his calling.—Elizabeth Journal.

With a feeble appetite and imperfect digestion, it is impossible for the body to secure the requisite amount of nourishment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla not only stimulates the desire for food, but aids the assimilative organs in the formation of good blood and sound tissue.

FISHING IN ICELAND.

The Season Very Late—New and Unknown Banks Discovered.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12.—Captain John Marshall, who has just returned from a fishing voyage to Iceland in the schooner Landseer, brings some interesting and valuable data.

The Landseer sailed from this port April 5 and arrived at Dyerefiord April 26. No drift ice was seen on the passage which was something unusual. Another remarkable fact was that no ice was seen on that coast during the three months stay there, while during the three preceding seasons there were large quantities of heavy drift ice which impeded the progress of fisherman in April and May.

The Landseer sailed 120 miles further to the northeast than American vessels ever fished before and discovered new fishing grounds off Skagastrand. The bank discovered was from 5 to 6 miles wide and 14 miles long. The water from 35 to 50 feet deep and around it the sea was 800 fathoms deep. This bank is not laid down in the British Admiralty chart nor is any note made of it by the Danish survey. The tide on that coast set eastward two-thirds of the time and when within 10 miles of land the compass was found to work very hard, being presumably affected by some magnetic influences. In places, notably in the vicinity of Faxafiord, Skagasirand, Bught, or Home Poin the compass would hardly work at all.

The Landseer started home in August coming well to the northward within 75 miles of Cape Farnwell, but saw no ice until August 14th in latitude 54.04 longitude 49.30 when she passed 37 enormous bergs drifting southward.

It was found here that the current set continuously south and the vessel made 40 miles out of her course every day.

GETTYSBURG CROWDED.

The Court House and Churches Thrown Open to Accommodate the Visitors.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 12.—Fully 25,000 veterans and visitors are here today, crowding the town to an unheard-of extent. The Court House and Rink were thrown open to strangers last night and many of the churches were also used.

Yesterday was occupied with the formal dedication of fifty monuments scattered all over the battlefield. The veterans of each regiment formed in line, and headed by band or drum corps marched to their monument, where the exercises were held. No system was observed and each regiment went its own way. Four or five would be scheduled for the same hour, and there were loud complaints over the way things were conducted. The 12th Regiment, P. N. G., was inspected at their camp near the Springs Hotel, Gov. Beaver being present.

Among the late arrivals are General Sickles, General Carr and Major Richardson of the New York Monument Committee. Twelve thousand veterans or Pennsylvania have been given transportation here and fully 11,000 are present to-day.

The Battlefield Commission approved the designs for the monuments of the 57th and 96th Regiments.

Governor Beaver held a reception at the Springs Hotel last night. The reception was followed by a ball, at which all of the officers were in full dress. The scene was a very brilliant one.

Searching for Connecticut Men.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 12.—Rev. C. M. Pegg, George N. Harford, Jacob Smith and Captain Daniel Craft, of Norwalk, left that place in an 18 foot catboat Monday afternoon for Long Island and it is feared they were lost in the storm which raged shortly afterward. Telegrams to various Long Island ports have failed to elict any information about the men. Parties have gone out in boats to search for them.

Shot by a Syracuse Officer.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—John Gleason, a big and burly New Mexican, who came to this city a few months ago, was shot last night by Policeman W. A. Brand. The officer attempted to arrest Gleason for fast driving and boisterous conduct. The New Mexican, who intended leaving town and was going around bidding his friends good by, resisted, and in the struggle that followed he was shot by the policeman. But little hope is entertained of his recovery.

Prominent Men Home from Europe.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Among the passengers who arrived by the steamer City of New York last evening were Senator Sherman and Chauncey M. Depew.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ugly Rumors About the Last Whitechapel Murder.

TIDINGS FROM MR. STANLEY

Making Toward Mombassa After Conquering Natives.

A Doubt About Emin Pasha Accompanying the Expedition—Cardinal Manning Still Working to Settle the Strike—Another Bad Blow for Boulanger—Trying to Locate the Blame for the Antwerp Conflagration.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The inquest in the case of the woman whose headless body was discovered in the Whitechapel district was conducted with closed doors, and extraordinary precautions are taken to prevent the medical testimony in the case being made public.

Thn rumor is afloat, but cannot be traced to an authoritative source, that one of the doctors has pointed out that the surgical work of the murderer bears a remarkable resemblance in certain features to peculiarities which have frequently been noted by the profession in the work of a well known London surgeon, a man of the highest standing in his profession, but exceedingly eccentric. The police stoutly maintain a discreet silence and refuse to either deny or to verify the rumor. They appear to be active, however, and their conduct indicates that they have a clue of some sort.

The body of the murdered woman has not yet been identified.

News From Stanley.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 12.—The "Mouvement Geographique" says that Stanley is marching to the coast with Mombassa as his objective point. From information just received from an absolutely trustworthy source, it learns that Stanley after fighting his way through and conquering Umjora and Uganda established the authority of the British East Africa Company from the upper Nile to the East coast. It is extremely doubtful that Emin is with Stanley, all information tending to show that he remained behind.

The Dock Strike Situation.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A large meeting of workingmen was held at Tower Hill, this morning. Messrs Champion and Fillett addressed the crowd, congratulating the strikers on the increased subsciptions to their relief fund and the fact that the committees were better organized for the distribution of relief. Both speakers expressed belief that Cardinal Manning, who was deeply impressed with the justice of the demands of the strikers, would succeed to-day in arranging a settlement with the dock directors.

Cruelties to American Christians.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 12.—It is reported that the Porte has concluded to dispense with a trial in the case of Moussa Bey, charged with cruelties to the American Christians and to exile him. Moussa declares that he will not tamely submit to this treatment and threatens to produce letters from the Turkish Governor urging him to the depredations with which he is charged with a view to mutual profit.

Trying to Locate the Blame.

ANTWERP, Sept. 12.—The officials inquiring into the causes which led to the disastrous explosion and conflagration in this city is progressing. The proceedings are being conducted secretly. It is officially denied that the cartridges which exploded in the factory contained dynamite. It is believed the explosion occurred in the cartridge factory before the petroleum reservoirs caught fire.

£5,000 for the Head of Bushiri.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 12.—Capt. Wissman has offered a reward of £5,000 for the head of Chief Bushiri. This has been done in consequence of Bushiri's threat to destroy the missions in the interior. The stations are not sufficiently fortified to withstand the attack.

Another Blow for Boulanger.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The Prefect of the Seine has refused to accept tne candidacy for membership in the Chamber of Deputies made by General Boulanger and Henri Rochefort.

The Niagara Suicide's Body Found.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The body of Miss Annie Mead of Binghampton, who committed suicide by going over the American falls last Thursday was recovered from the whirlpool yesterday and taken to the Canadian shore. Word was sent to the Coroner, who delayed coming, and the body lay on the shore, no one being permitted to remove it until the arrival of the Coroner. It was a most disgraceful proceeding.

Damages Against Her Father-in-Law.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mary M. Banister obtained a verdict of two thousand five hundred dollars against Gouverneur Banister, her father-in-law, in the Circuit Court here, for slander in circulating a report against her character. Banister, Sr., is a rich, retired farmer aged over 70 years. He felt such an antipathy to his son's wife that, when she married him, he immediately altered his will, cutting his son off without six cents.

Disastrous Cave-In.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 12.—The big cave-in at No. 5 colliery, Poke Hollow, is worse than was first reported. The disaster is the greatest that has occurred in the coal regions for years. In some places the earth has gone down over 20 feet and twelve caves in all are badly damaged. The loss to mine-owners will exceed $100,000. Luckily there were no dwellings on the tract.

She Wants $150,000 Damages.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Dr. Mary Jones, proprietress of a woman's hospital, has sued the "Eagle" for $150,000 damages for libel, the alleged libel being the publication of charges of malpractice, murder, forgery, conspiracy and larceny in connection with the treatment of patients in the hospital.

A Prominent Albany Merchant Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Samuel Bacon, senior member of the firm of Bacon, Stickney & Co., widely-known and prominent Albany merchants, died yesterday at his home in Loudonville, aged 60 years.

RULES OF THE ROAD AT SEA

The Coming International Conference at Washington.

What it is Expected to Accomplish—The Present "Rules" Generally Regarded as Inadequate for the Increasing Ocean Traffic—How to Avoid Collision.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

To the landsman the mere mention of the "Rules of the Road at Sea" conjures up a gloomy picture of stormy days, foggy nights and rockbound coasts. How vessels can follow a beaten track across seemingly pathless oceans; how they can communicate their wants and wishes to each other when many miles apart, and, above all, how they can avoid collision in the fog and darkness, is a mystery to him. As to the "Rules" themselves and the code of signals through which they are interpreted, he is usually profoundly ignorant.

The International Code, which governs the vessels of all maritime nations on the ocean highways, is a ponderous affair. Originally it employed numerals, from 1 up to several thousand for the signals, and the number of words and phrases was limited to those likely to be used at sea. It was, in fact, a simple yet fairly comprehensive cipher, based on the same principle that is used by large mercantile firms in transacting business by cable. As steam was introduced and great freighters and passenger vessels began to multiply, the code was found to be inadequate to the needs of commerce, and it was reconstructed accordingly. In the place of numerals, the 18 consonants of the alphabet were used and with 18 code flags, and about 30 arbitrary signals it was found that no less than 78,000 distinct signals could be made by combinations. One, two, three or four flags are used in making the combinations, the latter being the maximum number under the code.

This system, which has been in use for many years, having been subjected to occasional revision, has again been found insufficient for the requfrements of the vast traffic of the maritime world, and is now to be remodelled. On October 16, there will be held in the city of Washington, a conference of the Maritime nations, each country being represented by six practical seamen. This conference has been called for the stated purpose of revising "The Rules of the Road at Sea" and from the comprehensive nature of the task before it, it is probable that it will be a prolonged one. The United States will be ably represented, and France, Germany, Russia, Spain and Denmark will also be represented, while Italy, Austria and Portugal are expected to send delegates.

England's representatives in the conference will be Mr. Thomas Gray, of the British Marine Department, Chairman; Sir Digby Murray, Captain Wilson, Sir George Nares, Captain Hozier, the Secretary for Lloyds, and Admiral McClintock of the Trinity House. These gentlemen recently reported to the British Board of Trade that the entire signal system needed revision and suggested certain alterations. They declared that the two-flag system was faulty and should be rearranged and that there should be a special list of signals, to be made at night or during a fog by white or flash lights, and by day with flags or whistles.

There are three classes of signals in the International Code: Day signals, night signals and fog signals. Color, combination and position are all significant. Thus, when the lookout on the deck of a steamer or sailing vessel, or the vigilant watch at Fire Island, who first discries in the offing the incoming vessel as she leaves the high seas and lays her course for New York harbor observes her signal hoisted, he can tell by the code her name, nationality and calling. If she has met with an accident her signals again tell the story, and assistance is speedily on the way.

There are some signals that have a sombre meaning to mariners, and their display by a vessel always sends a thrill of horror through the observer. Among the saddest are those that convey the intelligence of impending and seemingly unavoidable calamity. Up runs the two-flag signal "N. M." and the lookout announces the fact to the officer on duty, who, referring to the code, translates it: "I am on fire." An answering signal of encouragement is sent, with the assurance of succor; but almost at the same moment clouds of black smoke begin to rise from the doomed ship or steamer, and amid them can be seen the signal, "N. D.:" "I must abandon the vessel." "Remain on the ship," signal back the rescuers as they make haste; but it is too late. Once more the burning vessel signals, and it is her last. Up run the flags "W. V." "I am sinking!" Before the boats can reach her, all may be over, and another added to the long list of ocean tragedies.

The "Rules of the Road at Sea" include regulations and steering rules for the prevention of collisions and are observed not only on the high seas, but in all the coast waters of the United States and other countries. The essential points are as follows:

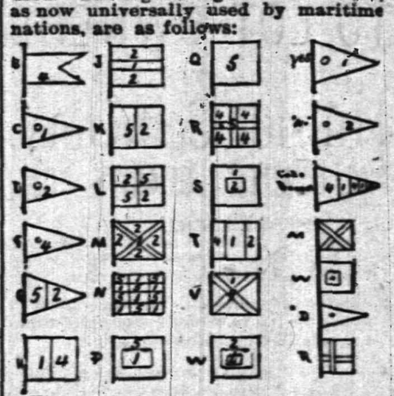
LIGHTS—A steamer under way must show a bright white light in front of foremast, green [illegible] red lights. A steamer towing another vessel shows two white lights on foremast, one three feet above the other. A sailing vessel carries same lights as steamer, omitting the white light. A vessel being overtaken by another shows a white light astern.

FOGS—Speed must be moderated during fog, mist or falling snow. Steamers to blow a fog whistle every two minutes. Sailing vessels blow at same intervals, giving one blast for starboard tack, two for port, and three when wind abeam. Ring fog bell every two minutes.

COLLISIONS—When two steamers meet "end on," each must alter her course to starboard, thus passing on port side of one another. "End on" is where each vessel sees the mast of the other in a line with her own; or, at night, where the lights are seen in a line. Where two steamers cross each other the one on the starboard side must give way. A steamship must always give way for a sailing ship. In every case where under the rule one vessel gives way the other keeps on her course. In narrow channels every steamer must keep to starboard.

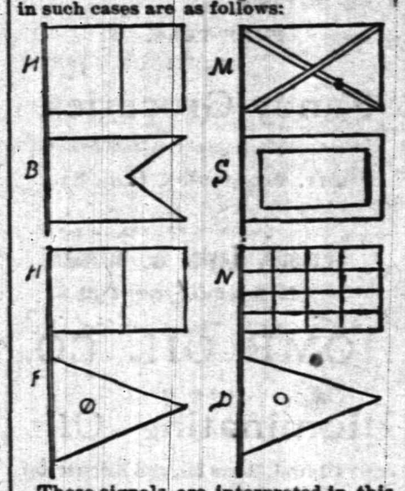
So numerous and disastrous have been the collisions at sea, in fog and fair weather, owing to misunderstandings about the "Rules of the Road," and so many questions have come up before marine tribunals for settlement involving similar disputes, that it is exceedingly probable that the "Rules" will be extensively amended by the Conference. In the marine disasters of recent years which have been attended by loss of life, fully twenty per cent. have been caused by this same misunderstanding, resulting in collision. The unavoidable conclusion in seagoing circles is that as captains are only too anxious to observe the rules, the fault rests with the code itself.

The International Code employs one, two and three-flag signals in all cases except for signalling the names of vessels, when four flags are invariably used. The regular signals of the Code, as now universally used by maritime nations, are as follows:



The small figures indicate the color of the flags, thus: White, 1; blue, 2; black, 3; red, 4; yellow, 5. The pennants at the top of the fourth column in the diagram, are simple affirmative and negative and the code pennant below is used to challenge attention to the fact that the code is about to be used. The four flags M, W, D and R, show the method of signalling the name of a vessel of war, or a merchantman.

There are many instances where vessels in distress find difficulty in communicating their needs through the code. A few of the signals now used in such cases are as follows:



These signals are interpreted in this manner:

H. B. "We want immediate assistance."
H. F. "We are coming."
M. S. "Do the best you can, we cannot give assistance."
N. D. "I must abandon the vessel."

Among the other communications provided by the Code are:

N. C. The International signal of distress.
H. N. "Engine or machinery disabled."
M. K. "Remain by the ship."
M. P. "Landing at this point is impossible."
M. Q. "Look out for a line."
M. V. "Lights will be kept at the best places for coming ashore."

These signals can be used either between vessels at sea or between vessels and a land station, with equal facility.

England's representatives will submit to the Conference nine new signals for adoption, and will ask that they be incorporated in the two-flag system. They are:

"I want assistance; please remain by me."
"You are standing into danger."
"Beware of derelict dangerous to navigation."
"Have encountered ice."
"The way is off my ship: you may feel your way past me."
"Stop, or heave to: I have something to communicate."
"Am disabled; communicate with me."
"Steer more to port."
"Steer more to starboard."

The two latter are for the use of vessels in signalling to tugboats in harbor.

The first code of marine signals, which was introduced in the English Navy in Queen Elizabeth's time, was a very primitive affair. "Good Queen Bess" found that her small but active men-o'-war were constantly fouling each other, and that the loss from this cause was about as serious as from wrecks by storms. So, in 1790, a regular day and night code was adopted. Many of the signals were arbitrary, but being recognized by the seamen, they were quickly understood. Here are two of them:

Loose maintop sail meant to "unmoor ship."
Loosen fore-top sail and one gun meant to "prepare for sailing."

From these and some fifty others have sprung the three great systems of signals now in use—the day Code, with its square and triangular flags and pennants, the night, with its lights and rockets and the fog signals with their whistles, horns, bells and sirens.

In the American Navy and merchant marine, great interest is felt in the work of the approaching Conference. Leading shippers and importers all over the world, the managers of the great steamship lines who have many thousands of lives committed to their care every season, and the magnates of the coasting trade are all profoundly anxious that the code should be so revised as to limit the probabilities of collision in fog or darkness. Many of the veterans are also interested.

"When I commanded a vessel many years ago," said old Capt. Amorose H. Snow, "there were no rules of the road. The captain did pretty much as providence directed him, and there were fewer accidents then than now, when captains sail according to written rules. It's true, there were fewer big steamers, though. The rules of the road are very useful when two ships are a great way apart, but when during a thick fog, a great iron hulk looms suddenly up before you, right under your bowsprit, you want to do something and mighty quick too. You try to remember the Rules of the Road, but you're in a muddle. Your experience tells you to do one thing, your rules tell you to do another. You make a third movement and, two days later, one or two of your survivors arrive in safety at the destination of the other ship."

It is not believed that the subject of fog signals will be taken up specially by the Conference, although in these days of rapid ocean travel and six-day-trips to Europe, it may well be considered an important one. The fog signals now used are whistles, horns, sirens and bells. The number and duration of the sounds are significant. Here is an illustration, the dashes representing long or short whistles:

— — — — means "Attention!"
— — — "Full speed astern."
— "I am going to starboard."
— — "I am going to port."
— — — — "Yes."
— — — — "No."

The best of all fog signals is the siren, which can be heard a distance of twenty-five miles. It is, however, too ponderous an affair and requires too heavy machinery to be used on a vessel, so it is generally in a lighthouse or land station.

One very ingenious invention which will be laid before the Conference for consideration is a clock to be used in connection with fog signals. It works on the stop-watch principle, and is designed to measure the distances between vessels by recording the number of seconds that elapse between the fog signal blown by each vessel. Thus, suppose two steamers or sailing vessels are in a heavy fog off the Banks of Newfoundland, the captain of one vessel blows his fog whistle and simultaneously touches the clock button; when he hears the answering fog signal from the other vessel, he again touches the clock and it instantly stops ticking. The dial records the number of seconds that have elapsed between the signals. Sound travels at the rate of 1,100 feet a second and this number, multiplied by the number of seconds, gives the distance between the two vessels. If the gap is considerable, the signal is not blown for a full minute, when it starts again and the clock ticks simultaneously. At the response, it is stopped as before, and by the same calculation, the captain is enabled to tell whether the distance is decreasing or increasing, and will regulate his speed accordingly. If increasing, then he can proceed at full speed; but if decreasing, he will instantly signal the other vessel again and will change his course so as to give it a wide berth. Mr. N. H. Borgfeldt, of Brooklyn, is the inventor of the clock. It has been examined by a number of gentlemen interested in maritime affairs, including Captain Cowles of the United States Steamship Dispatch, Lieutenant Blow of the Hydrographic Office and Captain Ambrose H. Snow of Washington, but none of these gentlemen have tested its efficacy at sea. Sea-going experts believe that its success or failure as an experiment would depend a good deal on the promptness of the response and they are not prepared to say whether or not sound travels with the same velocity through a fog that it attains in the clearer atmosphere.

Another system of signals which may be discussed by the Conference is that invented by Mr. John Latham, and is designed to enable two ships to let each other know their position in a fog. The same inventor has an addition to the code for the use of the vessels in distress, by which they can let passing vessels know the nature of the trouble and whether they are in need of assistance.

"For some unexplained reason," said Mr. D. L. Bradley, editor of the "Marine News," the illustrated code signals, showing the flags which were issued from the Government printing office at Washington, have been allowed to go out of print and for a year and a half, captains of ocean steamers and sailing vessels have been unable to secure the flags in this couutry. They have been compelled to buy them in England. It is a strange oversight that such a thing should not have been remedied earlier; but I expect that after the Conference, the Government will print enough code flags to meet all demands."

CORRUPTION CHARGED.

An Address to the Citizens of Massachusetts by the Nationalist Club.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—An address to the citizens of Massachusetts was issued by the Nationalist Club at a meeting last night.

The address recites that the General Court of 1889 was openly charged by the public press and public opinion with being the most incompetent and corrupt body that ever sat in the State House, and that it almost invariably favored the demands of private and moneyed interests at the expense of the public.

Attention is called to the immense growth of single corporations during the past quarter of a century, and to the great power of the lobby. The address asks if the people will allow the State to become a permanent plutocracy, and it calls upon the people to attend the primaries for the next election and get the candidates to pledge themselves to regulate corporations and extend the powers of municipal administration in matters of public services, such as gas, electric lighting, water supply and street railroads.

McAuliffe Whips Killen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 12.—A fight to a finish, Queensbury rules, between Pat Killen and Joe McAuliffe for a purse of $2,500, $500 to the loser, took place at the Golden Gate Athletic Club last night, and was won by McAuliffe in the seventh round. Paddy Ryan and Con Riordan seconded McAuliffe, while Prof. Anderson and Dave Campbell performed that duty for Killen.

The Wauregan Mills Settlement.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12.—At an adjourned meeting of creditors of the Wauregan Mills an extension for five years at 6 per cent. interest was recommended. All of the creditors present at the meeting favored this scheme.

Centennial Memorial Service.

WINCASSET, Me., Sept. 12.—A centennial memorial service was held at the Old Meeting House at Alna yesterday. The old house retains all its old antique features, and the Scriptural reading was from the same Bible used 100 years ago.

THE DEAD CONGRESSMAN.

The Funeral to Take Place To-Morrow—Many Letters of Condolence.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The funeral of S. S. Cox will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The body will be taken to the First Presbyterian Church this evening at 5 o'clock, and will lie in state there until the hour set for burial, when it will be temporarily placed in a vault at Greenwood cemetery.

Telegrams of condolence were received yesterday by the widow from Vice-President Morton, Gov. Hill and Congressmen from different parts of the country.

This letter was received from ex-President Cleveland.

MY DEAR MADAM: On my arrival home after an extended absence I was shocked to learn of the death of your husband. I can not refrain from the expression of my deep and sincere sympathy in your great bereavement, and my feeling of personal sadness upon the loss of a valued friend. Your husband's honorable career and the tributes which his fellow countrymen will pay to his useful life will not lessen the poignancy of your affliction, but I hope they may mingle with the kindly memories which are yours alone, to afford a solace in this hour of gloom. Yours very sincerely, GROVER CLEVELAND.

The following gentlemen have been selected as pall-bearers, but several changes in the list may prove necessary: General Sherman, Vice-President Morton, J. T. Agnew, Senator Dawes, Superintendent Kimball, Gen. F. A. Walker, ex-Attorney-General Garland, ex-Gov. Hoadly, C. A. Dana and Col. Cockerill.

The Congressional Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Gen. Clark, clerk of the House of Representatives has appointed a committee on the part of the House to attend the funeral ceremonies over the remains of Representative Cox. The committeemen are named below. Ex-Speakers Carlisle and Randall, Messrs. Holman, Felix Campbell, Seney, Heard, Mutchler, Kelley, Cannon, Reed, Burrows, O'Neill (Pa.), and McKinley.

Israel's Friend.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Hon. Simon Wolf, president of the Jewish Order O. K. S. B., has sent the following telegram to Alexander Reinstein, the secretary of the order: "Hon. S. S. Cox, a friend of Israel, in and out of Congress, has fallen. I recommend memorial services throughout the order."

The Ladies' Aid Society.

PATERSON, N. J. Sept. 12.—The third annual encampment of the Ladies' Aid Societies, auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, opened yesterday. The annual reports show a great increase in membership and in interest manifested during the year.

KASKINE,
(THE NEW QUININE.)

Stimulates the Digestion, Calms the Nerves, Clears the Mind Yet Contains No Narcotic.

A POWERFUL TONIC.
A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

"After five years suffering from malaria, which nearly destroyed my constitution, having used quinine without permanent benefit, I tried Kaskine and got better right away. The malarial symptoms all left me, and health, sleep and strength returned."—Henry Knarke, 563 Washington street, New York.

"I had all the symptoms of malarial poisoning; headaches, rheumatic pains, great nervous depression, loss of sleep, indigestion, &c. The old quinine proving useless, I tried "the new quinine" and soon got better."—W. Goldburg, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

THE STORM'S WORK

Blasts of Death and Big Loss of Property.

ATLANTIC CITY IS ALL RIGHT.

The Water Subsides and Provisions are Plenty.

Great Havoc Reported Everywhere Along the Coast—Seabright and Cape May Are Heavy Losers—Over Fifty Lives Lost at the Delaware Breakwater—New York City Water-Soaked—The Worst Storm Since the Blizzard.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The story of the great sea-born cyclone of September, 1889, is far from told. It raged yesterday nearly as furiously as when it sent its first huge tides roaring against the shores of the Atlantic. For nearly one thousand miles along the coast, between Virginia and Halifax, the winds howled and the rains decended and the tides beaten with a combined fury never known in this latitude. It is impossible to estimate the damage done to summer-resort property, but it will reach far into the millions.

The storm along the entire New Jersey coast from Sandy Hook Point to Cape May City, and up the Delaware river as far north as Trenton, was, beyond question, the most severe that has visited that portion of the Atlantic coast within the memory of the present genesation. It is impossible to estimate in dollars and cents what the loss will be, but it will run up in the millions. The contour of the coast has been changed to a remarkable degree in many places.

WATER-SOAKED NEW YORK.

Steamers Report Heavy Gales—A Strong Downpour of Rain.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—In the immediate vicinity of the city the storm spent its destructive power during Tuesday and Wedesday, and yesterday there was little damage done hereabout, although there was a heavy fall of rain all last night.

All steamers arriving report having been struck with the gale of Monday night and Tuesday. As the passengers and officers come ashore the stories they tell fully confirms all that has already been told of the violence of the big storm outside Fire Island.

Capt Healy, of the National line steamer England, which arrived to-day, was seen by a reporter shortly after his arrival. The captain said: "I have been crossing the Atlantic for sixteen years, but the gale I just encountered was the most terrific I ever witnessed off this coast. On Tuesday night at nine o'clock the wind blew great guns from the east while mountainous seas rolled completely over us. I seldom saw their equal. About 11:30 that night we took on a pilot. The yard arms dipped into the seas as the ship rolled midst the big waves. The only mishap we had was the loss of a fireman by being washed overboard.

A telegram to the Maritime Exchange to-day states that the steamer W. R. Grace from California in ballast had gone ashore at Cape Henlopen.

The Old Dominion steamer Richmond which left here for Norfolk on Tuesday night, returned to her dock this morning. She had not been able to go further than Gravesend Bay.

ATLANTIC CITY ALL RIGHT.

Trains Now Able to Run to and from Atlantic City.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 13.—An engine from Atlantic City and one from here have met on the Meadows and this establishes communication by rail with the city by the sea. The railroad officials have worked hard during the past few days and the heads of the departments have been enthusiastically seconded in their work by the daring engineer and assistants on the trains.

A locomotive left Atlantic City yesterday in charge of one of the best engineers, who determined at all possible risks to reach the outside world. At about the same time another engineer took his engine from here with a similar result and the meeting of the two engines on the storm washed meadows was hailed with joy. This will allow all the passengers from Camden to go right through.

A train left Atlantic City for Camden at half past ten. It was at first thought that Judge Reed would leave on that train for Egg Harbor City, taking a carriage from there to Mays Landing and open the September term of Court, at which Mrs. Hamilton's case was to be tried. This is now out of the question as the Judge is quite ill from diabetes and in no condition to hold Court. A trip through the storm might prove fatal to him.

The people of the city, although appalled by the devastation, wreck and ruin that mark the visit of the storm, are in a most cheerful mood this morning. The earlier report stating that there was a scarcity of provisions were not altogether correct. No one has suffered in the least from lack of food, and there was no danger of famine unless the city had been cut off from outside communication, for two weeks at least.

SEABRIGHT'S LOSSES.

It Will Take Half a Million Dollars to Repair the Damage.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Sept 13.—The storm has done fearful damage at Seabright and vicinity, and it is safe to say that half a million dollars will not cover the loss to property and land entirely destroyed or irreparably damaged.

The most serious individual losses are those of several cottage owners. One [illegible] summer residence belonging to A. F. Carpenter and occupied by Mr. A. Van Sawvart, of the Albany Line of steamers, costing $18,000, was attacked by the waves with the most disastrous results. The cottage was carried off its foundations, and in an incredibly short time was reduced to mere wreckage.

Another cottage, owned by George Blayden, of New York, and valued at $9,000, was destroyed in a like manner. The sea washed over the site and has made a pool of the cellar.

About fifty feet of the New Jersey Southern Railroad track, a short distance from Seabright, has been torn out by the waves. No trains have passed over this line for forty-eight hours and the Sandy Hook boats are not running. The track is covered with sand for four or five miles.

DAMAGE AT CAPE MAY.

The Storm About Over, but Serious Damage is Done.

CAPE MAY, Sept. 13.—The wind has apparently done its worst, and the tremendous sea of the past three days is being kept in check. The tide did not rise so high as last night by two feet, and the damage was correspondingly less. The worst is certainly over, so much so that cottagers who forsook their homes last night in the eastern part of the town returned this morning to pack for home, having seen enough of the sea for the present.

Some 300 feet of the boardwalk over by Stockton was washed out by the late tide, smashing up things generally and scaring the people of the neighborhood. Through the opening in Poverty Beach the tide passed in a relentless current, converting the meadows into a vast sheet of water several feet in depth. Keeper Sooy abandoned his boat house and with his crew spent the night in the old Mineral Springs Hotel, where he now is, having saved the property of the Life Saving Station by unremitting toil.

The Sewell's Point Railway has been almost entirely destroyed, and the Delaware Bay and Cape May Railroad cannot be operated for several weeks, as the track over about one-third the distance has been swept away.

The Athletic Park was filled with water to the depth of five feet.

The waves reached to the fence around Postmaster General Wanamaker's cottage.

RUIN AT ASBURY PARK.

Ravages of the Winds and Waves—Much Damage Done.

ASBURY PARK, Sept. 13.—The storm has gradually moderated. Everything hereabouts presents a scene of ruin and desolation. Many trees in the public squares have been uprooted and the streets are strewn with debris of broken signs, blinds, shutters &c., torn by the fury of the gale from the buildings. The Colonnade Hotel is unroofed, and the roofs of Sunset Hall and Oriental hotels were badly injured.

Last night the sea swept clear over into Ocean avenue, and several adjoining avenues were submerged. The waves washed across into Wesley Lake, causing it to overflow its banks, but serious damage was averted by allowing the flood gates to remain constantly open.

THE STORM AT LEWES.

The Most Savage and Disastrous Ever Known by the Town.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 13.—Despatches received here state that the lives of fifty sturdy seamen and over hundreds of thousands worth of property have already succumbed to the fury of the most savage and disastrous storm Lewes has ever known. Last night's casualties will most likely increase this list and add to the great woe this brutal warfare of the elements has awakened.

Hugheyville, a suburb between the town and beach, is still submerged and the two hundred inhabitants fled for their lives from their homes, leaving everything behind.

Damage at Long Branch.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 13.—While the Branch has stood too high for actual damage to property, the famous drive along the beach has contributed big chunks to the angry waves. A broad gap was cut in the roadway near the West End Hotel last spring and for 650 feet along the bluff in nearly the same locality from five to twenty feet of the roadway has been cut out. It is now impossible to drive along certain portiong of the avenue, and the morning light may see further inroads upon the drive. The road is strewn with debris torn from the hotel and cottages along the beach front.

The Missing Boat Party Safe.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 13.—Rev. C. M. Pegg, pastor of the East Norwalk Methodist Church, in company with Oakley Smith, Daniel Craft, Geo. Hanford and Mark Dunn, who left this city on Monday morning in a small yacht on an excursion to Long Island, and who last evening were reported lost, have been heard from. A telegram to Mrs. Pegg from her husband, dated at Huntington, states that the party are safely quartered there. All hands are expected home to-night.

Wilton's 150th Anniversary.

WILTON, N. H., Sept. 13.—This town yesterday celebrated the 150th anniversary of its settlement and a large number of people attended the exercises. There was a parade of local organizations, literary exercisees in the Town Hall and an exhibition of heirlooms of the people of 100 years ago.

The Albany Ceiling Conspiracy.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Grand Jury are at work on the ceiling conspiracy case. Among the witnesses present in answer to subpoenas served on them were Manager Sabold, of the Western Union Telegraph Company; Capital Commissioner Isaac G. Perry, and Stenographer McEntee who made six type-written copies of the papier mache ceiling contract. The principals were not summoned to appear although all have been served with subpoenas.

TALK ABOUT TANNER

His Resignation the Leading Topic in Political Circles.

THE PRESIDENT IS RELIEVED.

General Warner, of Missouri, Seems to be in the Lead for the Succession.

A Belief that Assistant Secretary Bussey Will Have to Go—Tanner's Friends Very Sore Against Secretary Noble—The Corporal Talked of for Commissioner of Deeds in the District of Columbia—He May Become a Pension Claim Agent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—It is said that now that Corporal Tanner is out of the way a determined effort will be made to bring about the resignation of Assistant Secretary Bussey of the Interior Department. He is credited, whether justly or not, with having stirred up the feeling in Secretary Noble's mind which has just culminated, and now it is asserted that a clean sweep must be made and that General Bussey must follow Tanner.

One of the theories about the disposal of Commissioner Tanner is that he will be made Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia. The office pays $10,000 a year in fees. It was held by Fred Douglass under President Arthur and a colored man named Trotter now holds it.

The President has given Commissioner Tanner permission to resume control of the Pension Office pending the appointment of his successor and the formal acceptance of his resignation. He was at his desk in the Pension Office this morning.

The President has made public the following correspondence:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
BUREAU OF PENSIONS,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12, 1889.

TO THE PRESIDENT:

The differences which exist between the Secretary of the Interior and myself as to the policy to be pursued in the administration of the Pension Bureau have reached a stage which threatens to embarrass you to the extent which I feel I should not call upon you to suffer, and as the investigation into the affairs of the Bureau has been completed, and I am assured, by both yourself and by the Secretary of the Interior, contains no reflection on my integrity as an individual or as an officer, I herewith tender my resignation in your hands, to take effect at your pleasure, to the end that you may be relieved of any further embarassment in the matter.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES TANNER,
Commissioner.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Sept 12, 1889.

HON. JAMES TANNER.

DEAR SIR—Your letter tendering your resignation of the office of Commissioner of Pensions, has been received, and your resignation is accepted, to take effect on the appointment and qualification of your successor. I do not think it necessary, in this correspondence, to discuss the causes which have led to the present attitude of affairs in the Pension Office.

You have been kindly and fully advised of my views upon most of these matters.

It gives me pleasure to add, that so far as I am advised, your honesty has not at any time been called in question: and I beg to renew the expression of my personal good will.

Very truly yours,
BENJ. HARRISON.

Mr. Tanner and his friends are sore about the Corporal's treatment by Secretary Noble and Assistant Secretary Bussey, and are liable to open fire on them at any time.

The contest between Majors Poole and Warner is already waxing hot, but it is believed that it will be settled after the Missouri gentleman has held an interview with the President. It is understood that Senator Hiscock has enlisted the services of Vice-President Morton in behalf of Poole.

Corporal Tanner has thus far repelled the different positions which have been offered him. It is believed that he will settle down here and become a pension claim agent. George E. Lemon and W. W. Dudley, the two most successful men in the business at present, are bidding one against the other for the use of his name as a partner. He will probably go in with Dudley.

FUNERAL OF HON. S. S. COX.

A Great Throng View the Remains of the Lamented Statesman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—In the vestibule of the First Presbyterian Church last evening, between 6 and 10 o'clock, it is estimated that 5,000 friends of the lamented statesman, Hon. S. S. Cox, took a last look at his face. Half a dozen members of the Steinwehr Post No 192 acted as a guard of honor over the body.

The funeral services took place at 10 a. m., and were conducted by Dr. W. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the House of Representatives.

The following gentlemen were pall-bearers: General Sherman, Vice-President Morton, ex-President Cleveland, Governor Hill, Charles A. Dana, Judge Charles P. Daly, Edward Cahill, Colonel John Cockerill, Admiral Franklin, S. J. Kimball, W. D. Bishop, Senator Dawes and John T. Agnew.

Mayor Grant closed his office and attended the funeral with his staff. The City Hall flags were at half-mast.

After the services at the church the body was escorted to Greenwood by a funeral procession, in which the Tammany Society, the Letter Carriers' Association, the Life-Saving Society, Steinwehr Post, G. A. R., and the Manhattan Club participated.

Gobbled Up by Pennsylvania Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—It was learned to-day that a valuable pine land deal was consumated at Madison, Wis. Tuesday by which William F. Vilas, John H. Knight of Ashland, and W. F. Rust of Eau Claire, disposed of their interest in the Superior Lumber Company for seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The parties to whom the stock was sold are Paine, Cochrane & Co. and J. E. Dubois, Pennsylvania capitalists and heavy lumber men.

—Very few persons, if any, now living, will again date a document without using a "9." It now stands on the extreme right—1889. Next year it will take third place—1890, where it will remain 10 years. It will then move into second place—1900, and there will abide for a century.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Ida Haywood of Rahway, is the guest of Miss Augie Feytel of North Plainfield.

Rev. C. B. Mitchell, the pastor, will preach in the M. E. church on Sunday, morning and evening.

Mrs. L. E. Wright and family of Park avenue, have returned from a Summer outing in the mountains.

Mrs. P. M. Demarest is confined to her home on Craig place, suffering from a severe cold and malarial troubles.

Mr. Joseph English, one of the founders of the Plainfield Reform Club, is holding a series of tent meetings at Dover, N. J.

Miss Fannie Mattison, of North Plainfield, has been engaged to take charge of the vocal music department of the Somerville classical school.

Mr. "Bert" Demarest, one of the Crescent ball team, is rapidly recovering from a recent successful surgical operation performed by Dr. E. W. Hedges.

Mr. C. D. Paul of Carlton avenue, is about to remove from the city and take up his residence at West Orange. By Mr. Paul's removal from the city, Plainfield will lose one of her valued citizens.

Chief Doane and Second Assistant James A. Martin, have been invited by the Hackensack fire department to be present and take part in the annual parade at that place on Monday, September 16.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Peter Hoagland, who died suddenly, yesterday morning, will take place from the late residence of the deceased on West Front street, Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

Cards are out for the wedding of Mr. Herman Klinsman and Miss Augusta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Keller. The ceremony will take place at the residence of the bride's parents on Harrison street, North Plainfield, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, at 7:30 o'clock.

Messrs John B. Naylor and Edward M. Devine, both of this city, attended the annual reunion of the 37th Regiment New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, as the guest of Gen. E. Burd Grubb, at his handsome residence, Edgewater Park, near Burlington, yesterday. They report having been courteously entertained.

Mrs. Elijah Stites, of Chatham street, and Mrs Mary A. Martin, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, left this afternoon for Deckertown, N. J., to attend the funeral of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Thos. Martin, which will be held at her late residence to-morrow morning. Interment will be made at Sparta, N. J.

Rev. C. B. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. church, arrived in Plainfield this morning on his return from Europe. Rev. and Mrs. Mitchell landed in New York on Saturday last, but went direct to Pittsburgh on account of the recent death of Mrs. Mitchell's mother. Mrs. Mitchell is still in Pittsburgh, and will remain there for a week or ten days.

It was Miss Annie McFadden who was married to Mr. Michael Watson, by Rev. Father Stafford, at St. Mary's church on Wednesday, and not Miss Lizzie, as previously reported. A reception followed the wedding at the bride's residence, No. 63 West Fourth street, at which a large number of guests were present. The gifts were numerous and of a high grade.

Master Warren Church, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Church of North Plainfield, is again seriously ill, having had a relapse from his late illness. His condition is one of extreme weakness, and is such as to give the family cause for great anxiety. Drs. Probasco and Endicott held a consultation on Wednesday, and arrived at the conclusion that acute gastritis was the cause of the boy's illness.

The Late George W. Townley.

There is still a mystery surrounding the tragic death of the late George W. Townley, who committed suicide by shooting himself in his barn on Grand View avenue, yesterday. Some people are inclined to believe that he was temporarily deranged, and in an unguarded moment took his own life; while others assign various causes. Nearly all agree, however, that Mr. Townley had become terribly agitated of late with reference to the completion of the bridge which he had contracted to build over Green brook at Grant avenue, and several persons claim to have heard him remark that he was afraid he would lose money on the contract. At all events the man certainly could not have been in his right mind to resort to such means for ending his existence.

The funeral will take place from the house on Sunday at 2 P. M. Interment will be made in the Presbyterian cemetery.

CHAUNCEY B. RIPLEY.

Biographical Sketch of a Well-Known Westfielder.

(Extract from History of Tolland County, Conn., 1888.)

Chauncey B. Ripley, a practising lawyer in New York city, born in South Coventry, May 14, 1835, at the Ripley homestead, known as Ripley Hill, is the son of Chauncey Ripley, born at the same place, educated at Yale College, who was the son of Jeremiah Ripley, an officer in the army of General Washington during the Revolutionary War, and afterward county judge, from whom the homestead descended and takes its name. Chauncey B. Ripley prepared for college mainly at the Connecticut Literary Institution, Suffield, teaching in Windsor Locks and East Granby, Hartford county. He afterward taught at Scotch Plains and Westfield, Union county, New Jersey, was principal of the academy in Springfield, New Jersey, continuing his preparatory studies at Scotch Plains, under Rev. James Fuller Brown, D. D., a life-long friend, who subsequently became Chancellor of the University at Lewisburg. Entering the freshman class, University of Rochester, New York, in the Fall of 1860, he there took the first and second years of his college course. During junior year he had the chair of mathematics in the Flushing Institute, Flushing, Long Island, pursuing, meantime, the junior studies of his class, and entered the senior class of the University at Lewisburg in the Fall of 1863, where he was graduated in 1864, "an honor man," receiving then the degree of A. B., delivering the Master's Oration at his alma mater three years later, when he took the degree of A. M. After graduating from college he entered the law department of the University of the City of New York as a law student, and also the law office of Benj. Vaughn Abbott, Esq., then one of his professors in the law school, graduating in June, 1865, from that school, the valedictorian of his class, with the degree of LL. B. He remained in the office of his late preceptor, Professor Abbott, for a short time after graduating, and then opened a law office on his own account in the New York Times building, where he remained till the demolition of that building, in the Spring of 1888, when he removed to the Potter building, next door, where he is still in practice.

October 4, 1865, he married Cornelia Ross, daughter of Hon. Gideon Ross of Westfield, Union county, New Jersey. His wife, Cornelia, died March 14, 1883.

While attending to the duties of an active practice in his profession, Mr. Ripley has found time to develop and improve real estate in Westfield, New Jersey, where he resides, to the great satisfaction of himself and the admiration of many city friends who visit him at his country home. Mr. Ripley is one of the largest real estate owners in Westfield, and has opened and graded more than ten miles of public streets and avenues, planting the margins with shade trees, building houses and otherwise beautifying his grounds during the twenty years or more he has been engaged in the practice of law.

June 27, 1888, the faculty and board of trustees of Bucknell University (formerly known as the University at Lewisburg), Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, conferred upon its alumnus, Chauncey B. Ripley, the scholastic degree of LL. D., "for distinguished attainments in legal learning." Mr. Ripley has been twice elected president of the New York Alumni Club of Bucknell University, which office he now holds.

He was also elected and served several years as president of the Alumni Association of the Law Department of the University of the City of New York, and is now chairman of the executive committee of that association. For more than twenty years past Mr. Ripley has been annually appointed by the law faculty of that University on the committees for the examination of candidates for degrees in the Law Department and for the award of prizes for excellence in scholarship. He delivered the address on behalf of the Alumni of the University Law school at the inauguration of Doctor Howard Crosby as Chancellor, in 1870, and again on their behalf, in May, 1888, delivered the address on the occasion of the presentation to the council of the University of the memorial portrait of Professor John Norton Pomeroy, LL. D., formerly dean of its law faculty.

After the resignation of David J. Hill, LL. D., president of Bucknell University, he was selected to prepare a valedictory address to the out-going president, on behalf of the alumni of that institution. He was also named for the presidency of Bucknell University to succeed Doctor Hill and was urged by many friends and patrons of the University to become a candidate for that high office; such an undertaking, however, was so inconsistent with his chosen profession and other interests, that it could not be entertained by him. In addition to his practice in the State and Federal courts, the following is of record in the leading journal of the denomination referred to: "Chauncey B. Ripley has been long and favorably known in the higher judicatories of the Presbyterian church, for his marked ability as an ecclesiastical lawyer."

—The 25th annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday-school Association will be held in the Presbyterian church at Dayton on Wednesday, September 18.

Republican Primaries.

The Republican voters of this city, held their primaries last evening, to elect delegates to the Gubernatorial Convention, which is to be held in Trenton, on Tuesday next. The First, Second and Fourth Ward primaries were held in the Republican Association rooms on East Front street, and the Third Ward primary was held at the Park House. The officers of the meetings and the delegates elected are as follows, each Ward being entitled to one delegate:

FIRST WARD.
Chairman—Joseph B. Coward.
Secretary—E. J. Olsen.
Delegate—J. B. Coward.

SECOND WARD.
Chairman—Vincent W. Nash.
Secretary—Chas. Hand.
Delegate—John Ulrich.
Alternate—V. W. Nash.

THIRD WARD.
Chairman—Wm. Thompson.
Secretary—Ernest B. Ackerman
Delegate—Elias R. Pope.
Alternate—John W. Murray,

FOURTH WARD.
Chairman—Abram Angleman.
Secretary—Joseph Randall.
Delegate—Tunis J. Carey.

No alternate was elected in the First Ward, and in the Fourth Ward the delegate was authorized to appoint an alternate.

A Missing Rig Recovered.

John Shay of Elizabeth, was sentenced to State Prison in 1884 for burglary, and was afterwards declared insane and sent to the Morris Plains Asylum. He escaped yesterday and stole a horse and buggy belonging to James McCollum of Morristown.

Shay drove the stolen horse over the mountain and into North Plainfield, where he abandoned the rig after tying the horse to a post in the driveway leading to the rear of Mr. Samuel Hudson's residence on Somerset street. The animal was left standing there all day in the rain and last evening Constable Bauersachs was notified. He in turn communicated with Chief Carey, but the latter had already been notified of the robbery.

The two officers found the stolen property in Mr. Samuel Moore's barn on Manning avenue, where the horse had been taken for shelter. In the buggy there was a lady's sandal, No. 2. Chief Carey at once telegraphed to the owner of the rig, and he arrived in town today and identified the stolen property.

A Daft Motor for Mt. Prospect Avenue.

The Daft Company expects to put one of its storage battery motor cars on Mount Prospect avenue, says a Newark paper, yesterday, to replace the accommodation bob-tail car that has served the residents there for several years. The car was shipped from the works at Marion a week ago, but was first taken to Plainfield, where the manufacturers had contracted to have one in operation by September 1. It was returned yesterday morning and is now in the Bloomfield avenue car-house. Mount Prospect avenue is very level and the storage battery can be operated there, probably, as well as anywhere. There will be an opportunity, also, of ascertaining how large a grading the system can be adapted to. The Mount Prospect avenue line is equipped with one car only and it belongs to the Essex Passenger Company.

Dr. Carroll Will take the Census.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, LL.D., editor of the N. Y. Independent, and a resident of North Plainfield, who has been secured to take charge of the religious census of the United States, has decided to establish his office in this city. Dr. Carroll has an important branch of the national census of 1880 to look after, and it will probably require nearly two years to complete the work.

Will be Dedicated in October.

The McClellan monument, which is to be erected in Riverview cemetery, Trenton, is nearly completed and will be set up in October. Secretary Kelsey went to Boston last week to see it. It will be an imposing shaft made of Quincy granite, seventeen feet high, and weighing over 75 tons. The exact location for the monument has not yet been determined upon.

We Think So, But We Give It Up.

The following unintelligent item appeared in this week's issue of the Illustrated News, under the head of "Answers to Correspondents:"

D. Q., Plainfield, N. J.—He is a good ball player, being captain of a noted team. He never fought in the prize ring. He weighs in the neighborhood of 390 pounds.

Inter-State Fair.

It is expected that fully 100,000 people will visit the coming Inter-State Fair, at Trenton. The great success of last year's exhibition, the excellent location of the grounds directly between New York and Philadelphia, and the liberality and enterprise of the management are sure to result in an enormous attendance at Trenton.

—A colored man with a livery rig collided with a wagon belonging to Mr David Randolph, on Park avenue, a few evenings since, and both vehicles were considerably wrecked.

—At the present time there are 972 prisoners in the State Prison at Trenton. It is expected that by October 31, which is the date of the expiration of all the contracts, that over 600 convicts will be put at work in the several shops under the new contracts. The general health of the institution is reported good.

Reunions of the Veterans.

For the information of the Grand Army veterans who reside in this vicinity, the following list of the annual reunions is herewith published:

Company A, Third regiment, New Jersey volunteers, will hold its annual reunion at Glasboro, on September 14, the anniversary of the battle of South Mountain.

The annual reunion of the Fourteenth regiment, New Jersey volunteers, will be held at Trenton on Thursday, September 19.

The veterans of the Twenty-eighth regiment, New Jersey volunteers, will have a reunion in New Brunswick, on September 21.

The Twenty-third New Jersey volunteers hold their annual reunion at Gen. Grubb's residence, Edgewater Park, next Thursday.

The Twenty-second New Jersey regiment will hold their reunion at Hackensack, on September 23.

The third annual reunion of the Ninth New Jersey veteran volunteers' association will be held at Toms River, on Tuesday, September 24.

The Second Brigade association, of which Gen. Sewell is president, hold their second annual reunion at Elizabeth on Thursday, September 26.

Phil Kearny's First New Jersey brigade, Gen. Grubb president, have a reunion at the house of Gen. J. Watts Kearny, September 14.

An Unexpected Yield of Fish at New Market.

The water from the pond at New Market was drawn off to make repairs to the mill on Sunday evening, and the pond was almost dry on Tuesday. A large number of fish of all kinds, including bass, cat fish, pickerel, etc., were floundering about in the mud.

This pond was once stocked with German carp by the Fish Warden, and is the same body of water which Mr. Otto, the miller, let out unintentionally, together with a fine lot of fish, about a year ago. One of these fish was hauled out from the mud by a Mr. Maitland which weighed 13 pounds. A large number of people took advantage of the situation and secured many messes of fish.

Mr. Maitland has been very successful in catching fish from this pond, having once captured two cat fish, one weighing two pounds and two ounces and the other two pounds and three ounces. He also caught a bass weighing three pounds and fourteen ounces and an eel weighing five pounds and two ounces.

How the Rain Affects the Farmers.

The farmers are having rather hard luck this season. While their grain and grass crops have not fallen below the average, their fruit crops will in many instances be almost total losses. Melon vines have been destroyed either by wet weather or worms, and there will hardly be a half crop of muskmelons and watermelons. On a few farms the tomato crops has been almost entirely ruined, and in some cases the crop has been greatly injured by the fruit being beaten to the ground by the heavy rains and covered with dirt. The potato growers will be the heaviest losers. This is particularly noticeable in heavy ground, where the soil has become literally soaked. Those farmers who planted their potatoes in light, sandy soil are more fortunate, and their losses will be comparatively small. Truckmen in this city say that potatoes will rise in price to $2 a bushel during the Winter.

The Monarch Minstrels.

Messrs Primrose & West, the Monarchs of Minstrelsy, will present an unusually attractive programme at Music Hall on Monday evening next, the date for their appearance here. Mr. Barney Fagan has been specially engaged to present his greatest effort entitled "the Promenade of the Popinjays," and Mr. "Bob" Slavin, the favorite comedian, will perform some of his quaint and humorous specialties. The list of comedians include such well-known names as Messrs Primrose, Slavin, Wood, Shephard, Powers, LeMack, Smith, Waldron, Haley, Martin.

The vocalists are Messrs Fred W. Oakland, Raymond Moore, Thos. B. Dixon, Fox Samuels, Joseph Natus, Edgar Wilson, Frank Reynolds, Henry Sharpleigh.

Morristown Takes the Cake.

In Morristown, within a week, a married man eloped with a married woman, a married man went off with a woman not his wife, and a wife deserted her husband.

Passing Counterfeit Bills.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 13.—Little Peter Smith, formerly a counterfeiter in Cincinnati, was arrested here for passing counterfeit bills. Several Italians and others had been swindled.

Another Batch of Mormons.

NEW YORK, Sept 13.—At Castle Garden to-day there were landed 3,089 immigrants, among them 154 Mormons, who proceeded at once to Utah. About half of them were women.

A Well-Known Paper Dealer Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Samuel Holcomb Molleson, a well known paper merchant of this city, died at his home in Brooklyn yesterday of pneumonia after a short illness.

Snow in Dakota.

HOPE, D. T., Sept. 13.—The first snow of the season fell here to-day.

With a feeble appetite and imperfect digestion, it is impossible for the body to secure the requisite amount of nourishment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla not only stimulates the desire for food, but aids the assimilative organs in the formation of good blood and sound tissue.

FIPKEVILLE DAM DISASTER.

The Pawtuxet Valley Company Responsible for the Lives Lost.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 13.—The decision of Coroner N. E. Church in the matter of the Fiskeville dam disaster, in which Mary Hopkins, May H. Tew and Rufloyd Tew lost their lives, is that the deaths were caused by the neglect and carelessness of the people who built the big dam, and the poor spirit of economy shown by the Pawtuxet Valley Company.

The State Commissioner of Dams, Samuel E. Stone, comes in for a share of the criticism. The Pawtuxet Valley Company is held responsible for the loss of life, and it is said that some steps will be taken in the courts to secure the people from similar disasters in the future.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Senator John C. Spooner is quite ill at his home in Hudson, Wis. Fears of his death are entertained.

Eliza Bult, aged 64, was instantly killed by being struck by a train at Boylston Station, Mass., yesterday.

The city of Liverpool has voted £30,000 for the construction of isolated petroleum depots with a capacity of 19,000 tons.

It is reported that the Nag's Head Hotel, off Roanoke Island, N. C., was blown down Tuesday night and a number of persons killed.

Mrs. Andy Savage, of Stafford Me., was called to the door by an unknown man yesterday and shot dead. A neighbor named Davis was arrested.

Troops have been sent to Haslon county, Ky., to guard the court and witnesses in the trial in connection with the Howard-Turner feud.

There is promise of a brisk rate war among some of the Western railroads. Already the fare to New York from St. Paul over the South Shore is cut to $18.

One masked man "held up" Bartlett's California stage, near Leesville, yesterday, and robbed the passengers, and took away Wells, Fargo's express box.

Meagre information comes from Jollico coal mine in Tennesee of a terrible explosion there yesterday. The despatch says that eighteen people had been killed.

Joseph Sperdo, believed to be guilty of the East Newark murder, and Dominico Seroponi, Victor Avidiosa and a bootblack, all of whom resided with the murderer, were taken to the county jail at Jersey City yesterday.

Weather Indications.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

AND SO FORTH,

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

NEWS FROM ABROAD

An English Clergyman's Mysterious Disappearance.

IS IT ANOTHER CRONIN CASE?

Vague Rumors that the Minister Has Been Lured to Ireland by Invincibles.

It is Again Reported that the London Dock Strike Will Be Settled To-Day—Cardinal Manning Working to that End—The Mansion House Committee Say the Feeling on Both Sides is More Amicable—An American Chemical Works Burned.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The disappearance of Rev. Mr. Barfield, a Congregational minister, from Wallsall, continues to be a subject of much speculation. He is said to have incurred the enmity of the Irish Invincibles by some utterances of his in a series of Tory political speeches in London.

There are vague rumors of his having been lured to Ireland by a fictitious invitation to lecture there, but the police have not yet been able to verify this supposition. It is hinted that the detectives are working on a vulgar and prosaic theory of their own that the dominie may have temporarily fallen from grace, and that his absence may thus be accounted for. The clergyman's friends, however, fear that it is another Cronin case.

Dock Strikers Still Firm.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The conference between Cardinal Manning and the dock directors, which was to have taken place Tuesday, was held to-day. The directors informed the Cardinal that they were unwilling to agree to the compromise proposed by him, that the terms which the dock companies have already conceded go into effect on November 1, instead of January 1, provided that the strikers resume work immediately. The Cardinal was successful, however, in persuading the directors to again consider the proposal and postpone this decision for the present.

The Mansion House Committee announce that the feeling on both sides is becoming more amicable, and that only extraneous questions prevent an immediate ending of the strike. It is hoped that the causes of difference will be entirely removed and a satisfactory settlement reached this afternoon.

Big Chemical Works Fire.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The chemical works of the American firm of Burroughs & Willcome, at Wandsworth, were burned to-day. Loss $100,000. A fireman was killed by falling walls.

Uneasiness for the Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—No information has been received at the Navy Department from the United States steamship Atlanta, and much uneasiness is expressed as to her safety. The Atlanta left New York for Newport on Monday, and should have arrived there on Wednesday morning at the latest. When last seen by a passing schooner, the Atlanta was plunging badly and the schooner's crew reported that she did not show much buoyancy. The Atlanta, however, is regarded at the Navy Department as a first class sea boat. Her non-arrival is, therefore, inexplicable.

Assemblyman Sheehan's Libel Suit.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Hon. Wm. F. Sheehan has brought suit in the Supreme Court of Erie county against the "Albany Evening Union" for libel, and places the damages at $50,000. The summons and complaint states that the defendant published an article on August 20 last, headed "Sheehan, the Traitor," which reflected upon the character of the plaintiff, and with intent to destroy his good reputation.

Destructive Whirlwind.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 13.—A whirlwind at Lulu Island, B. C., Tuesday, devastated the whole country through which it passed, uprooting gigantic trees and leaving the thickly wooded surface bare as a board. As far as can be ascertained at present no lives were lost, though several homesteads were torn down with terrible fury four and five miles away.

Rochester University's New President.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 13.—David Jayne Hill, L L. D., the new president of the University of Rochester, assumed the duties of his office for the first time at the opening of the term yesterday. He made a speech to the students, who greeted him with great enthusiasm. Sixty-six freshmen have entered in the class of '93.

97th Year of Williams College.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Sept. 13.—Williams College opened its 97th year with the largest attendance in its history. The total number of students is 314. Prof. Russell, late of Yale Theological Seminary, begins his duties as Mark Hopkins Professor of Intellectual and Moral Philosophy.

The Greenbackers' Convention.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13.—The Greenbackers' Convention selected Mr. O. Thomas, of Kentucky, for chairman, and Mr. Sharp, of Indiana, and Mr. Richards, of New York, secretaries. George O. Jones, of New York, read an address in which the keynotes of the party were touched on.

Death of Hon. Nathan H. Weeks.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 13.—Hon. Nathan H. Weeks, of Plymouth, died yesterday, aged 64. He was prominent in New Hampshire political and business circles and a member of the Legislature from 1879 to 1881.

Shot and Killed Himself.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—John Cannon, aged 22 years, shot and killed himself this morning on the bluff near Lewiston. Ill health and liquor was the cause.

Drowned in Owasco Lake.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Claire, the six-year-old daughter of Chas. H. Sager, president of the Sager Drug Company of this city, fell off the dock at Ensenore, at Owasco Lake, and was drowned.

Canandaigua's Old Brewer Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 13.—James D. McKechnie, the prominent banker and brewer of Canandaigua, died at his house in that village last evening. He was 74 years of age.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

A Visit to "The Little Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

No Longer a Show Place, and Admittance to Its Cellars Only Gained by Great Influence—Flunkies in Gorgeous Raiment—Its Night Protection.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Westminster Abbey, the House of Commons and the Bank of England are the three great objects which the American sight-seer has first in view when he reaches London. England's Pantheon, and the great Parlimentary buildings have much that interests the sight-seer, but there is something about the Bank of England—perhaps its enormous wealth—that acts as a magnet to the tourist. A stranger in London will have no difficulty in finding it. Three score and over omnibus lines center at the famous monetary institution. From all parts of the city and its suburbs these omnibus lines run, and on every one of them is painted the words "Bank of England."

It is better known than the Mansion House, the residence of the Lord Mayor, and, indeed, the people reckon distances from the Bank of England. Seen for the first time through American eyes it is disappointing. It is an insulated assemblage of buildings and courts occupying nearly three acres of ground. It is dirty and grimy as all London buildings, but when examined closely the exterior shows wonderful taste and skill. The "Little Old Lady of Threadneedle street," as the Bank of England was called by its opponents in its early career, was designed by an architect who had an eye for the beautiful. It is built of brick and Portland stone, of incombustible material, one story and without external windows. The architecture is Corinthian from the Temple of the Sybil of Tivoli, of which one angle exhibits a fac simile portion. The chief cashier's offices represent a portion of the temple of the Sun and Moon at Rome. The entrance to the bullion yard is copied from Constantine's arch at Rome, and has allegories of the Thames and Ganges. There are magnificent halls, rotundas, public offices and committee rooms, an armory, engraving and printing offices, and an apartment for officers and servants of the bank. There is plenty of room even for the transaction of the enormous business of the bank. At each one of the entrances to the building is stationed a wonderfully costumed lackey. How many of these there are I don't know, but during a morning's stroll through the bank and its beautiful courts, I saw at least two score of them. They were all dressed alike, black trousers, light colored coats and vests, and wore black silk hats. Here and there as I passed through from one department of the bank to another I would suddenly stumble across a broad-shouldered Englishman, who wore a sort of cockade, and a coat of many colors which reached almost to the floor and gave the wearer quite an imposing look. This over-dressed individual apparently had nothing to do. He carried in his right hand a stout little stick or mace and paced up and down through the halls looking as magnificent as an alderman on Lord Mayor's Day.

A well known New York banker had given me a letter of introduction to Mr. F. May, cashier of the bank, whose signature, by the way, is better known than that of any other person in the world, for on every Bank of England note is printed a fac simile of his name in his own handwriting, and I may say here, furthermore, that a Bank of England note is the safest piece of paper in the world. As a loyal American citizen I am a believer in Uncle Sam's coinage, and it is all well enough for the United States, but there is no part of the civilized globe where a Bank of England note is not recognized, and they can be carried so conviently that a great many travelers prefer these notes to letters of credit. Mr. May received me courteously. He is rather a good looking Englishman, with high forehead, clear eyes, short thin curly hair, a firm mouth and somewhat of the appearance of a student, although he was a famous oar in his day and a good all round cricketer. He explained to me that the bank was no longer a show place, that so many people, not only strangers, but Englishmen considered it their duty to visit the famed institution that it interfered with the routine of business, and now a pass to inspect the building is rarely given. However, I was one of the fortunate ones, and Mr. May detailed one of the magnificently dressed flunkies with the big cockade to take me over the building, show me its vaults and cellars, and, in a word, explain to me the workings of this great pivot of the world, for after all the Bank of England is the money center of the universe.

It was a few minutes before ten o'clock when we began our inspection and the first object of interest to which I was directed was the clock in the roof of the building. It is a marvel of mechanism and is connected with all the clocks in the bank offices. The hands of the several dials indicate precisely the same hour and second, and when it points to ten in the morning the bank is open for business, and in every monetary centre of the world is flashed the news that the directors of the Bank of England at their daily meeting have declared the rate of discount to be so and so—whatever those worthies may have decided upon—and which is the fixed standard of discount for all England, and influences the rest of the financial world.

The interior of the bank has little of special interest. There is an air of respectability and solidity everywhere. There is no end of well dressed clerks counting money, paying it out, making entries in various big books, and explaining to this or that person the intricacies of the bank system. There is row after row of bank messengers, dressed in swallow-tail coats, waiting to make deposits or draw out money. There is a ceaseless jingle of gold, scurrying of messenger boys, and the din and rattle of omnibuses and cabs outside. There are any number of bank servants who seem to have nothing to do but stand erect and look magnificent. Their superiors who wear the cockades and flowing gowns of many colors, are so gorgeously dressed, and so haughty in manner, that they are allowed to twirl their maces and walk with measured step from one court yard to another. Through these court yards there are doors or gates from which the various divisions of the bank are reached. All of them are low, solidly constructed and modest and grouped about in nine court yards. In one of these are three stalwart elms while beneath them is a fountain, a neat bit of soft well kept turf and clusters and hedges of rhododendrons. This strikes the transatlantic visitor as a little odd. He is hardly prepared to find a green court yard, robust trees, and the sentimental music of a fountain in the heart of the greatest bank in the universe, and it is safe to say that no other trees in the world grow in such expensive soil.

The basement of the bank is very interesting. The visitor is taken through a carefully guarded iron door into a low roofed circular vault, near which are a number of small trucks loaded with gold ingots, collateral for the bank's notes. The ingots on each truck are built up in stacks to the amount of £80,000, or $400,000 of American money. These constitute the assets which the bank possesses against its liabilities on account of circulation and deposit, and the difference between the several amounts is called "The Rest" or balance in favor of the bank. For weighing, admirably constructed machines are used, and are accurate even to the weight of the most infinite small atom. Gold is almost exclusively obtained by the bank in bar form, although no form of deposit would be refused. It may interest the reader to know that a bar of gold is a small slab. It weights 16 pounds and is worth £800, or $40,000. In the basement also is the barracks wherein, a half hundred soldiers are quartered from 7 o'clock every evening until 7 o'clock the next morning for the protection of the bank. There is a library for the use of the men, who are also provided with a bountiful supper and breakfast, plenty of good tobacco and enough beer to satisfy even a thirsty Londoner. Every night in the year an officer at the head of this company of soldiers is marched over from the tower of London. At 7 o'clock he takes possession of the bank. This is a custom that dates back since the Lord George Gordon riots. All night long these men patrol through the halls, courts, and offices of the bank, and the outside is as carefully guarded. Indeed it may be truthfully said that from 7 o'clock in the evening until 7 o'clock in the morning "The Little Old Lady of Threadneedle street" is as well protected by Her Majesty's soldiers as Her Majesty in her palace at Buckingham. As there is plenty to eat and drink and a good wine cellar to choose from, it is not considered a bad post for even an officer, and it often happens that late passers by can hear music and songs issuing from the building, for be it known also that the secretary, superintendent and various other officials with their respective families are compelled to live in the bank. They form a set of their own, and the young ladies give delightful little musicales, and teas, which somewhat surprise the unsentimental American sight-seer. Just imagine a musicale or afternoon tea in Wall or Broad street.

In the weighing offices is shown an ingenious machine, invented to detect "light" gold. About eighty or a hundred light and heavy sovereigns are placed indiscriminately in a round tube. As they descend on the machinery, those that are light receive a slight touch which moves them into their proper receptacle, and those which are of legitimate weight fall into their appointed place. The light coins are defaced at the rate of two hundred in a minute, and by the weighing machinery thirty-five thousand may be weighed in one day. There are a dozen of these machines, and one hundred thousand pieces have been weighed without an error. More than a quarter of the gold tendered in a year is light. The silver is put into bags each of £100 value, and the gold into bags of £1,000 value. These bagsfull of bullion are sent through a strictly guarded door or rather window into the Treasury, a dark gloomy apartment fitted up with iron bars, and made secure with solid locks and bolts.

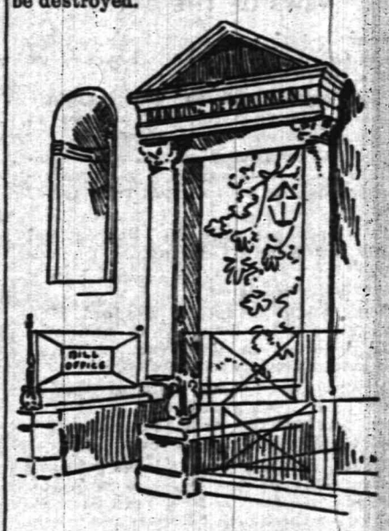
The bank-note machinery exerts by the steam engine a power formerly employed by the mechanic in printing the note. The bank notes are numbered by a wonderfully accurate machine. As soon as a note is printed and the handle is reversed to take it out and put another in its place a steel spring attached to the handle letters and numbers that which is to follow. No note of a higher denomination than £1,000 is issued. The press is capable of producing these at the rate of three thousand an hour. There are other presses which print £5 and £10 notes. The number and date of each note are printed at both ends of it, and as the separate halves are thus easily identified it is no uncommon thing in England to cut a note in half and transmit each by separate mails or in different envelopes. The paper on which the notes are printed is made at a special manufactory. About 18,000 reams are supplied to the bank yearly and not the smallest scrap of it is wasted. If a note is spoiled in the printing it has to be accounted for just the same as a perfect one. The dies by which the water marks are made, and the plates used for printing are manufactured in the bank itself.

Mr. May told me that brittle as the paper seems to the touch it is almost as strong as parchment, and it is possible to hold a piece no larger than a note by the edges and place a fifty-pound weight upon it without tearing it. Its thinness and transparency prevent erasures, and other illegal alterations.

The Treasury, a sombre looking room surrounded by fire proof cupboards into which are stored eighty thousand sovereigns or an equivalent amount of notes, may be well said to be an interesting room. It is customary for the attendant to unlock one of these cupboards and take out a bundle of thousand-pound notes which he places in your hands. Each note is for £1,000 or $5,000. There are a thousand notes in each bundle, which weighs about five ounces, and is worth £1,000,000 or $5,000,000. They represent nine tons of gold and never fail to cause expressions of awe and wonderment from the visitor.

The Bank of England is the banker of the Government, for here are received the taxes, the interest of the national debt paid, and the Exchequor business transacted. Considerably over a million is paid into the bank daily in the shape of notes. When cashed, a corner is torn off, and this now valueless piece of paper, after being duly entered in the books is deposited in chambers beneath the sorting room, and is kept there for ten years in case it may be required as testimony at some trial or to settle any other legal difficulties. In a furnace in one of the court yards once a month all the notes received a month previous ten years back are consumed. The furnace is seven feet high, by twelve feet in diameter, yet it sometimes has to be filled twice by the number of notes to be destroyed.



ENTRANCE TO THE BANK.

The bank possesses a very fine collection of ancient coins. Visitors are shown some bank notes for large amounts which have passed between the bank and the Government, including a single note for £1,000,000 kept in a frame. Among the curiosities are the bank note autographs. When any distinguished visitor arrives he is requested to place his autograph to an unsigned note which is immediately posted in one of the spaces. I was shown the autographs of Napoleon III, Henry V, Kings of Sweden, Portugal and Prussia, some members of the nobility and a few literary celebrities. The Committee of the Treasury meets weekly, and is composed of all the directors who have passed the chair.

Noland, chief cashier of the bank from 1788 to 1807, had slept in the bank building for twenty-five years. He had never absented himself a single night. There are in the bank over a thousand clerks at salaries ranging from £65 to £800 per annum. There are twenty-four directors, each having a nomination to admit one clerk, provided he be found qualified on examination. From twenty-five to fifty junior clerks are elected every six months. The sons of the clerks already in the service are sometimes given preferences. A scale of pensions for length of service and faithful work prevails.

An interesting chapter on the forgeries on the bank could be written. It would be a melancholy story. Through one person the bank lost £320,000 and through another £300,000. Of late years, however, there has not been much attempt at forgery. Everything is so carefully guarded, and all the employes are so well known and trusted that it would be impossible for the bank to lose anything by rascality or in any other way.

It would be impossible in the space of an ordinary newspaper article to give more than a brief outline of the bank and its workings. It has had its ups and downs. It has been now a suppliant then a dictator. Nurtured by Halifax, bullied by Walpole and coaxed by Pitt, it was thought to have been on the verge of bankruptcy more than once, and once it saved the country from bankruptcy. It is not generous to its enemies, and because it has not in all seasons of commercial distress been willing to play the part of benfactor it has been assailed by so many persons that the titles of their effusions cover thirty pages of the British Museum catalogue.

The most important function of the bank is the manipulating of the National debt by which it relieves the Government of all the details attending the transfer of stock and the payments of dividends. The National funded debt of the United Kingdom is now in the neighborhood of £700,000,000 and there are several hundred thousand persons who own Government securities.

So wonderfully accurate is the Little Old Lady of Threadneedle street and her thousand clerks that they have not been known to make a mistake these many years.

DAVID WECHSLER.

BALTIMORE'S CELEBRATION.

The New Postoffice Dedicated and a Great Parade To-Day.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—The new postoffice building on Monument Square was dedicated last evening. On account of the rain the ceremonies were conducted in the main hall of the building. The hall was well filled with invited guests.

The centre of interest was Postmaster-General Wanamaker. Major Latrobe opened the exercises by welcoming Mr. Wanamaker to Baltimore, and then introduced the Postmaster-General. In the course of his speech Mr. Wanamaker, after referring to the good that the surplus had accomplished in erecting fine Government buildings, including the Baltimore postoffice, he said:

"It is true that the soldiers get a large and good portion of the surplus, and so they should. We would not have it otherwise." He concluded with a tribute to the efficiency of Frank Browne, the present postmaster of Baltimore, who is a Democrat. Mr. Wanamaker received a most hearty greeting, and was liberally applauded.

The great military parade took place to-day under the command of Governor E. E. Jackson. There were about ten thousand troops in line, divided into seven regiments, seven batalions, ten detached companies, two squdrons of cavalry, three batteries, an ambulance corps and field staff officers in hordes.

This evening, it is said, the bombardment of Fort McHenry will be reproduced. This event will prove one of the most extraordinary spectacles ever witnessed in America.

The Sheriff in Full Possession.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 13.—After the adjournment of the meeting of creditors of the Wauregan and Nottingham companies, the property in this city was attached for $10,000 by the Fitchburg National Bank. Sheriff McCabe now has the entire property of the companies, in this state, in his possession.

Pretty Bad Showing.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 13.—The report of the creditors of the Phœnix Woollen Company, whose mills are at East Greenwich, gives a pretty bad showing. The liabilities are $800,000 and assets $408,816. An offer of 25 cents on the dollar is recommended by the committee.

Beat Carver's Record.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Dr. Bartlett finished at 5:30 p. m. yesterday his effort to beat Dr. Carver's record of breaking 60,000 glass balls by rifle shots in six days. He broke 64,017 in all.

THE STORM IS OVER

Incoming Vessels Report Rough Experience.

STARVING SAILORS RESCUED.

Exposed for Two Days and Two Nights to the Fury of the Elements.

Picked Up Just as They Had Abandoned All Hope—One Life Lost at Sea Isle City. Another Deluge at Coney Island—Railroad Communication With Atlantic City. The Imprisoned Cottagers at Beach Haven Make Their Escape.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The fury of the cyclone having somewhat abated, a large number of belated vessels have been enabled to take on pilots and make port. The coastwise vessels have been the greater sufferers from the elements.

While the situation on the whole is bad, it has been greatly exaggerated. Much damage has resulted, but most of the destruction has been wrought to fashionable summer resorts and is of a character that can be replaced. Most of the losses have fallen on people who can well afford the loss—wealthy summer residents and proprietors of hotels. The loss to the poor people is not great.

The destruction of vessels and loss of life on the sea, however, may prove to be very great.

The big transatlantic steamers are all safely in and the ones who are delayed by the cyclone are the coasters who have to face the storm during nearly the whole of their journey.

The fact that not a sailing vessel has yet come into port seems to augur ill for the safety of these vessels.

At the ship news office this morning it was stated that none of the over-due steamers had arrived and that no sailing vessel had yet entered port.

The City of Columbia, which sailed from Havana on September 5, is already five days overdue and serious doubts are beeing entertained as to her safety.

The Bermuda from St. Croix, the Cienfuegos from Havana, the Knickerbocker from New Orleans, the Russian from Shields and the Ludgate Hill from London are due, but have not been reported yet.

Several other coasters are due or will be due in a day or so and much anxiety is felt.

CONEY ISLAND'S CLOUD BURST.

The Well-Known Summer Resort Has a Deluge to Add to Its Misery.

CONEY ISLAND, Sept. 14.—Shortly after midnight last night, there was a cloud burst directly over the island, the water coming down in tremendious quantities and doing almost as much damage to the lawns in the rear of the big hotels as the waves had done in front. It swelled the many lakes that have been made all over the island. This morning many of the houses and all the small hotels were completely surrounded with from three to five feet of water. Some of the early risers had secured boats and were rowing around picking up hen coops, boards, barrels and other property that was floating about on the new made lakes.

The cloud burst did considerable damage to the Brighton Beach, Manhattan Beach and Oriental hotels. Sheepshead Bay has been greatly swollen by the cloud burst and heavy tides has flowed over, completely surrounding many of the houses with from three to five feet of water. The inhabitants in the lower portion of the village are going about in boats and everybody is living in the upper stories of their houses.

Communication With Atlantic City.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—The Camden and Atlantic Railroad trains to and from Atlantic City are running on schedule time with the exception of an hour's delay in crossing the meadows. The water has almost subsided from the meadows between Atlantic City and the mainland, and the tracks are about clear. Each incoming train brings heavy loads of passengers. As to the damage to the road-beds of the various lines running to Atlantic City, it is probable that the Reading is the most completely wrecked, although the West Jersey will need much attention. Both companies are actively engaged in repairing the tracks. The accumulation of mail matter from the surf-bound towns is being rapidly disposed of, and it is hoped to have the mails soon moving regularly.

Captain and Crew Picked Up at Sea.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Captain Joseph McKea of the steamship Yemassee which arrived this morning from St. Augustine, Fla., reports that at noon yesterday, when off Northeast Lightship he picked up two life boats containing the Captain C. A. Bull, his wife and two children and fourteen of the crew of the bark Alaylos, which they had abandoned on account of her sinking condition a few hours before. The bark Alaylos was from Copenhagen, oil laden.

Rescued from the Rigging.

CHATHAM, Mass., Sept. 14.—Schooner Nellie V. Stokes, Capt. Low, of Deer Isles, Me., from Mt. Desert for New York with a cargo of granite, went ashore on the outer bar here last night in an easterly gale and thick weather. The vessel was swept by tremendous seas and the six men forming her crew were driven into the rigging. They were rescued at daybreak by a boat from the Chatham Life Saving Station.

Damage at Sea Isle City.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—At Sea Isle City the lighthouse was tilted and the keeper and family were taken from it by the Life Saving corps. George Sayers attempted to swim out and save his yacht and was drowned. This is the only fatality reported.

A Vessel in Distress.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 14.—A brigantine rigged steamer, name unknown, went ashore near Cape Henry last night at 7 o'clock. She displayed signals of distress and the life saving crew are now endeavoring to get a line to her. She has a red and yellow funnel, and came from the South.

Beach Haven Cottagers Escape.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—The imprisoned cottagers and hotel guests at Beach Haven succeeded in making their escape by boat to Tuckerton. They had a rough passage across Little Egg Harbor, and were drenched by the spray that dashed over them.

THEIR FATAL JOKE.

A Mill Employe Horribly Mutilated and Killed by His Friends.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Facts have just come to light regarding the death of John Gordon, an employe at the mills of the Lake George Pulp and Paper Company, Ticonderoga, which show it was the direct result of an idiotic practical joke of his fellow-employes.

Gordon came into the mill and, feeling tired and sleepy, lay down on some bagging, with a swiftly revolving shaft almost directly over him. While he was asleep the jokers tied oneend of a rope around his feet and concluded to throw the other end over the shaft, thinking that it would arouse Gordon from his slumber and badly frighten him, and then they would cut the rope and free him.

The plan worked admirably with the exception of one vital detail. The end of the rope was thrown over the shaft, which was making 125 revolutions per minute. It caught in the whirling mechanism, and before either of the men could prevent, the body shot up into the air, and his waking cry of surprise was the only cry he ever uttered. He was whirled around and around by the machinery and hurled with terrible force against a beam. Death was instantaneous. The body was horribly mutilated, and appalled by their fatal folly, the men who encompassed the tradgedy stood stupefied with horror. With the shock went the reason of one of the miserable jokers. The other will probably be held criminally responsible for Gordon's death.

MILLIONS OF ACRES.

Several Indian Reservations in Minnesota to be Thrown Open.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 14.—According to Major James Whitehead, who arrived here last night, 4,000,000 acres of land in Northern and Central Minnesota heretofore occupied by Indians as a reservation is about to be opened for settlement. He states that Comissioners Rice, Whiting and Marty got into a row with the Indians at Leech Lake and came near forfeiting their lives. They could do nothing with the Indians and were compelled to send for Major Whitehead to conduct the negotiations. The Major, who is an old Indian agent and well acquainted with the Indians of the Northwest, succeeded in arranging for the opening of Leech Park, Prairie Point, Pogegama Falls and Sandy Lake Reservations. The land is rich and well adapted for farming purposes.

Secretly Married for a Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Considerable comment has been caused in Washington society by the announcement of the secret marriage of Miss Blanche Wales, daughter of ex-Surgeon-General Wales of the navy, to Mr. N. Minor Goodlett, also of this city. The news could not be kept secret any longer owing to the information that a child had recently been born at Asbury Park. It is stated that the marriage took place over a year ago, the certificate being witnessed by two friends of Mr. Goodlett.

Gov. Hill's Private Secretary.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Governor Hill to-day appointed T. S. Williams, of New York City, to be his private secretary in place of Col. W. G. Rice, resigned. Mr. Williams is a native of Ithaca, N. Y., a graduate of Cornell University, and for some years has been connected with the New York "Commercial Advertiser." Col. Williams will assume his new duties on Sept. 23d.

An Alleged Abductor Arrested.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 14.—S. S. Cook, a prominent builder of Newton, N. J., was arrested here last night on suspicion of having abducted a 15-year-old girl named Lizzie Merritt. The two boarded the Mary Powell at New York yesterday and their actions aroused the suspicion of some Poughkeepsie firemen, who reported the case to the police.

Crops Ruined in Virginia.

ONONACOCK, Va., Sept. 14.—The terrible storm this week did much damage on the eastern shore. Crops were ruined. Reports from the Metompkin life-saving station are to the effect that the beach has been badly washed, and that the station is in danger of being swept away.

A Millionaire Philanthropist Dead.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 14.—Wm. Gooderham, the millionare philanthropist and temperance advocate died suddenly last evening of heart disease. He had just finished offering prayer at the Home For Fallen Women and was announcing a hymn when he fell back gasping and died in a few minutes.

A Vermont Farmer Fails.

LYDONVILLE, Vt., Sept. 14.—J. F. Cunningham, a farmer, has filed a petition in insolvency, placing his liabilities at $25,000. The indebtedness was incurred as security for his brother, Ira W. Cunningham.

Found Mangled on the Track.

CLYDE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—An unknown old man was found yesterday on the West Shore track dead and his body terribly mangled.

Gaudaur Won the Boat Race at McKeesport.

NO DECISION OF THE REFEREE.

Claims of Foul Made and Gaudaur's Trainer Assaulted.

The Race Stubbornly Contested—The Defeated Sculler Claims that Trainer Hamm Rowed in Front of Him—Hamm Escorted to the Station Under Police Protection—McKeesport Sports Had $25,000 on the Race—Decision From the Referee To-day.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—John Teemer and Jake Gaudaur rowed their race for $1,000 a side over the McKeesport course, from Port Perry to McKeesport, a distance of four miles, yesterday afternoon, Gaudaur winning in twenty-three minutes.

He was not awarded the race, however, owing to Teemer putting in a claim of foul. He claims Hamm, Gaudaur's trainer, fouled him at the critical stage of the race by rowing in front of him and in his water. Hamm claims that he was fifty feet in front of Teemer and did not foul him.

Referee Pringle took Teemer's claim under consideration and will render a decision as to who won the race at 5 o'clock to-day. Teemer's claim of foul will not likely be sustained.

About 30,000 people witnessed the race, which was started at 5:40 by Referee Pringle. The men both took the water together, Teemer pulling 33 strokes and Gaudaur 31. At the eighth of a mile Teemer increased his stroke to 36 and Gaudaur to 34. Teemer kept up at the rate of 36 strokes for two miles, when he gave out, rowing the balance of the way home at the rate of 30 strokes, while Gaudaur still kept pulling steadily at 34, and crossed the line a quarter of a mile ahead of Teemer, in 23 minutes.

No official time was taken at any stage of the race, it not being an official course.

Teemer's brother assaulted Hamm after the race, and Hamm had to be escorted to the railroad station under police protection. The betting was 2 to 1 on Teemer and the McKeesport people have $25,000 on the result.

J. A. St. John, Gauder's backer, says says Teemer set the pace but could not keep it up.

Hanlan Would Like Another Race.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 14.—Oarsman Hanlan states that he will be most happy to cross the Atlantic and row either Matterson, Bugbear, Wallace or Ross, if either of them will guarantee to raise a stake of $2,500 a side and allow him a reasonable amount for expenses.

Searle Willing to Row Gaudaur.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Searle is willing to row Gaudaur on the Tyne or the Henley course, provided the race can be arranged to come off within five weeks from September 16.

City of Rome Had a Narrow Escape.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The Anchor Line steamship City of Rome, which arrived last evening did not reach her dock until to-night. The passengers were all taken off to-day by one of the river steamers and landed in this city. Some of the passengers state that the City of Rome had a narrow escape from being run into by an outward bound steamer yesterday while lying outside Sandy Hook. The rain and fog were so thick that a person could not see a boat's length. The City of Rome was waiting for a pilot when up loomed a big steamer in the fog, coming right towards her. The steamer's name was not learned, but she gave the Anchor liner a close shave.

Another Suit Against the Sharon Estate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 14.—It is learned on good authority that a suit involving $1,000,000, will be brought in the Probate Court against the Sharon estate by Leonide E. Burling, widow of William Burling, who died in 1875. She calls on Sharon's executors for an accounting, saying that Ralston was her husband's executor, and that her husband's estate was taken by Sharon along with the Ralston property, which Sharon seized after Ralston's death, on the claim that Ralston had embezzled funds of the Bank of California.

Trouble Over a County Seat.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 14.—Despatches from Garfield county say the County Treasurer, W. T. Williams, an Eminence partisan, made his escape from Ravenna by moonlight Thursday night with all the official property and reached Eminence in safety. There was a hard chase and some shooting, but only horses were wounded. Much excitement prevails. Eminence was declared by the Supreme Court to be the legal county seat. In the event of an attempt to retake the books, trouble is expected.

Railroad Collision at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—An incoming passenger and outgoing freight train collided about 9 o'clock last night near the tunnel just outside of the city on the Pennsylvania Railroad. James Jameison of Philadelphia, the engineer of the passenger train engine, was instantly killed, and several passengers injured, one of them, Lewis S. Slemmer, of Baltimore, quite seriously. Several of the freight cars with contents were badly wrecked and damaged and the track was torn up considerably.

The Fort Lee Rioters.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 14.—The Fort Lee riots and the Mathe embezzlement cases are being considered by the Bergen County Grand Jury to-day. It is rumored that bills have been found against Mathe and members of the Fort Lee Law and Order League.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—On Sept. 21 the days and nights will be equal in length.

—A "combined donkey-tail and watermelon party" is the latest relaxation for charity's sake, in some cities.

—It takes a woman to pack a trunk, but a man to unpack it—when he wants to find his razor at the bottom.

—There can be no doubt that the present storm is the equinoxial, and it is likely to continue for several days yet.

—Nearly all of the city clergymen have returned from their vacation, and will occupy their individual pulpits to-morrow.

—The ball game between the Crescents and the Winthrops, set down for today, had to be postponed on account of the wet weather.

Miss Scribner of East Front street, arrived home from Europe on the steamer "City of New York," on Thursday, after a very pleasant trip abroad.

—On Thursday next at 3 P. M., the members of the W. C. T. U. will hold one of their helpful and interesting mothers' meetings. Come and see.

—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders is to meet next Tuesday to consider the granting of another bridge across Peters brook in Somerville.

—It is remarked that the foliage is beginning to fade very early this year. Some attribute this to the exceedingly wet and cool weather of the early part of the season.

—The Pastimes of Westfield have been admitted to the Union County Bowling League, and the Fanwood Club dropped out because of their inability to raise a team.

—The Central Railroad company offers reduced rates for the State Fair. The fare for the round trip, from this city, including admission to the grounds is one dollar.

—Drill engine No. 30, at the freight house, has a crew of five men, four of whom have the familiar name of John; the conductor being the only one not of that name.

—The members constituting the Board of Engineers of the Plainfield Fire Department, met in the office of Chief Doane, last evening, and transacted routine business.

—About half-a-dozen Republican voters who read the news wandered about town, last evening, inquiring as to the place for holding the First, Second and Fourth ward primaries.

—A county convention of Union county Prohibitionists has been called by the county committee, to be held at Temperance Hall, 206 Broad street, Elizabeth, on Saturday, Sept. 28, at 2.30 P. M.

—At the next regular meeting of the Plainfield Bowling club, to be held early in October, the matter of amending the constitution and by-laws governing the club, will be brought up for consideration.

—Over 40 car loads of peaches have been shipped over the Central division each day since the peach trains have been put on; and this in the face of reports that the peach crop was small in Hunterdon county.

—The theory that September is the most delightful part of the season at the seaside was given a bad black eye by the cyclone. This is especially so, so far as Coney Island, Rockaway and Atlantic City are concerned.

—According to a list recently made there are 270 newspapers published in New Jersey, of which 62 are Democratic, 67 Republican, and 73 independent in politics. Twenty-one of these publications are printed in German.

—The Republicans of the borough and township of North Plainfield are requested to meet at Republican headquarters, Spencer's Hall, this evening, at 8 P. M., for the purpose of electing delegates to the county and State convention.

—The W. C. T. U. meetings will be held as usual in their rooms 73 West Front street to-morrow, to which all are cordially invited. 9:15 A. M., Consecration hour. 4 P. M., Gospel service, Seely Edsall leader. Remember also this evening's service at 7:30 and come.

—The news said last evening: "Don't fail to attend the Republican primaries to-night." The whole truth of the matter is that all of the four wards in the city held their primaries on Thursday evening, as told exclusively in THE PRESS of yesterday. Thus our so-called contemporary is a day late as usual.

—The buckwheat cake is a distance off yet, but many are waiting with happy anticipation of its arrival soon.

—It is said that the Crescents suits have been exposed to the late rain storm, and that they are completely wet through.

—Prof. T. E. Hazell, teacher of music, presents his card today. Mr. Hazell makes a specialty of the art of reading vocal music.

—The members of the Plainfield Cornet Band held a rehearsal in Mr. N. Guttman's store on West Front street, last evening.

—The Primrose & West minstrel combination begin their season at Taylor Opera House, Trenton, this evening. The company will arrive in Plainfield to-morrow.

—On account of the rain storm the special business meeting of the Reform Club, announced to take place on Thursday evening, has been postponed for one week.

—The troops of pretty girls that are now to be seen with books under their arms wending their way to school, makes the young men whistle: "Oh, when shall the harvest be?"

—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held in the law offices of Messrs Jackson & Codington on Monday evening at eight o'clock.

—Some of the authorities in North Plainfield are doing some tall "kicking" over the reward which Chief Carey received yesterday, for the recovery of the horse and buggy stolen from Morristown on Thursday.

—Mr. L. H. Bigelow will lead the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Monday at 8 P. M. An attractive feature of these meetings are the brief practical remarks by young men. All men most cordially invited.

—The New Jersey Shooting Association announces its fourth tournament to take place on the grounds of the Jersey City Heights Gun Club at Marion on Sept. 24, 25, 26 and 27. The association has not held a tournament in four or five years.

—Harry Forster, the man who pleaded guilty to robbing the house on E. Second street, a few days ago, is still confined in the lockup. It is believed that he is the mysterious "Tom the Peeper," and an effort will be made to have him identified as such.

—Extensive preparations are being made for the forthcoming tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club, which is to take place on the club's grounds at Dunellen, on October 8, 9, 10 and 11. Thirteen hundred dollars in guaranteed purses will be offered.

—On Tuesday, September 24, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the Joint Committee from the Union and Somerset County Freeholders will meet at Force's Hotel in this city, and award the contract for the new line bridge over Green Brook, on Somerset street.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Emma Whitlock of North Plainfield, is back from Hunterdon county.

Hunters will have great sport this Fall. The rabbit and quail crop is said to be very large.

Mrs. E. M. Butler, of Florence, Kansas, is visiting her brother, Mr. F. H. Martin, of East Fifth street.

Miss Jennie Voorhees and Miss Grace Johnson, have returned from a visit at Brick Church, near Orange.

Miss Davidson of Louisville, Kentucky, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John L. Van Neste, of East Second street.

The appointment of Richard A. Ross as Postmaster of Bloomington, near Bound Brook, was announced yesterday morning.

Miss Edith Clark of West Front street, is among those who have been hemmed in by the high water at Atlantic City, during the past few days.

Mrs. Robert Stevens, an old colored lady, died at the residence of her brother, Peter Anderson, on Manning avening, North Plainfield, on Thursday, from old age. She was 67 years old.

Mrs. L. L. Martin and daughter, Mrs. E. M. Butler, have arrived in our city from "Breeze Lawn," Florence, Kansas, the home of Mrs. Butler. Mrs. Martin greatly enjoyed her visit and speaks in high praise of Breeze Lawn and Kansas generally.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Strohmeyer and family, of Gates avenue, Brooklyn, who have been spending the Summer in North Plainfield, returned home a few days ago. They made many warm friends during their stay in the Borough, and they and their lovely children are greatly missed.

The funeral of the late Chas. E. Hobby, who died on Wednesday, took place from Warren Mission chapel at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. J. B. Cleaver officiated, and at the close of the service the body was interred in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield.

On Thursday afternoon in special cars attached to the 1:06 o'clock train for New York, the members of Phoenix Hose Co., No. 1, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., passed through this city, on their way home from the Baltimore Exposition. Mr. Samuel J. Moore, a former Plainfielder was among the number.

Mary A., wife of Tunis C. Brokaw, died at her home in Green Brook at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, in the 64th year of her age. She had been ill for about six months with brain trouble. The funeral took place from the house at 11 o'clock this morning, and interment was made in the Bound Brook cemetery.

That's, Just What We've Advocated.

The Elizabeth Journal of yesterday, says editorially of the recent ball match between the Crescents of this city and the West Ends of Somerville:

"Plainfield and Somerville papers are in the depth of a hot controversy about the merits of their respective base ball clubs. It does not seem to be so much a question of which has the better club, as which can accuse the other club of the most ungentlemanly conduct. If the two enterprising cities will take a lesson from the former relations between the Crescents of Plainfield and the E. A. C. of this city, it will be to their advantage. In the days referred to there was the hottest kind of rivalry, but it was accompanied by the warmest friendship. The result was a series of games never surpassed for earnest and brilliant playing, and a series of audiences as enthusiastic, as impartial and as refined as ever gathered to witness athletic sports. It may be well to add that fully half those who witnesed these games were ladies. Play ball, gentlemen, but play as if character on all occasions were worth more than supremacy on the diamond."

THE PRESS has always advocated honest and legitimate ball playing and for that purpose alone went to Somerville on Saturday last to witness. But what's the use of trying to play against a green and prejudiced umpire, and a nine which openly declares that the game shall belong to them, either by fair or foul means. Last Saturday's game was won fairly and squarely by the Crescents, through superior playing, but they were euchred out of it.

An Exciting Runaway.

The handsome team of iron grey horses belonging to Mr. Lambert DeCamp, of "Dog Corners," ran away on North avenue, about half past eleven o'clock today. The horses were attached to a heavy stone wagon. At the corner of Park and North avenues, the bit in the "off" horse's mouth broke, and the animals became unmanageable. The driver remained at his post, and made a heroic effort to guide the frightened horses along the crowded thoroughfare.

Dr. Geo. W. Endicott's carriage stood along the curb in front of Reynolds' pharmacy, and the runaway team collided with it, damaging one of the wheels. A farm wagon belonging to Mr. J. H. McVey, which was standing in front of his restaurant, was struck by the stone wagon and badly damaged. At this point one of the horses fell, and the team was captured before doing further damage.

An Enterprising Firm.

Messrs R. W. Rice & Co., the enterprising grocers of North Plainfield, are the owners of a valuable tract of land situated near Wilkesbarre, Pa. The tract embraces about 450 acres, and contains in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons of coal. The firm is about to dispose of the land and invest the money in this city, where they now have about $42,000 invested in their business and in real estate, their latest purchase having been the Harriott estate on East Front street. The firm has recently completed extensive improvements to their store, corner of Duer and Emily streets, where they are building up an extensive grocery trade.

Special Notice.

The members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., are requested to meet at their lodge room, on Sunday at 1 P. M., to attend in a body the funeral of their late brother, George W. Townley. Visiting Odd Fellows are invited to attend with the lodge.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, on Grand View avenue, North Plainfield, at two o'clock. By order of DAVID R. WEAVER.

M. E. Church Sociable.

The members and congregation of the M. E. church, tendered a reception in Vincent chapel, last evening, to their pastor, Rev. C. B. Mitchell, who returned home from Europe, yesterday. There was a very large representation of the members present, and all of them had a kind greeting for their pastor. During the evening there was vocal and instrumental music, and refreshments were also served.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The fifth annual Union county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be held in the Baptist church at Roselle, on Tuesday, Sept. 17. The county officers are:

President—Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson.
Cor. Sec'y—Mrs. T. B. Abel.
Rec. Sec'y—Mrs. Thirza Greaves.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. F. Nicoll.

Vice Versa.

She offered him mince pie, the tramp
Had oft before been bitten.
"We pass on pie," said he, "because
We don't know what we're gittin'."
Conversely, Plainfield people say—
Ne'er with the truth coquetting—
"We always buy at Collier's 'cause
We know just what we're getting."

A Campaign by the Ladies.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has engaged the services of Mr. P. A Burdick, a well-known gospel temperance speaker, for a two weeks' campaign, which will commence Nov. 10. Place for holding meetings to be noticed hereafter.

Awarding the Bridge Contracts.

A joint committee from the Union and Somerset County Freeholders met at Illsley's Hotel at Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon, and awarded to the Dean & Westbrook Bridge Company of New York, for $1,075, the contract for the erection of an iron bridge over Green Brook on Union avenue, Scotch Plains. The new bridge will be 40 feet long and 20 feet wide. The contract for the stone work was awarded to William T. Johnson, of Scotch Plains, for $149.

The old bridge on Union avenue is to be transferred to a point beyond Seeley's mill, known as Somerset pond. Isaac Colthar of North Plainfield, received the contract to remove and rebuild the old bridge for $85, and George Walton is to put up the two abutment walls for $6 a cubic yard.

Will Begin Work on Monday.

Michael Mahon, the contractor who is to construct the county road from Elizabeth to Springfield, will begin work on Monday, with a full force of men, and will proceed as rapidly with the work as circumstances will admit. He went over the route of the proposed improvement yesterday morning with the view of hiring unoccupied buildings for the occupancy of the men who are to do the work. It is expected that a large force of men will be employed in the construction of the road, and property owners and others residing along the line will be pleased when the new road is completed.

Somerset County W. C. T. U.

The fourth annual convention of the Somerset county W. C. T. U., will be held in Somerville on Thursday, Sept. 19. The morning and afternoon services will be held in the Second Reformed church chapel. Mrs. Downs, President of the State Union, Miss M. H. Roundy, Miss K. T. Cone and Mrs. Johns will be present and take part in these exercises. In the evening a mass meeting will be held in the church, to be addressed by Mrs. Clara C. Hoffman of Missouri, Vice President of the National W. C. T. U. All are cordially invited.

100 Years Old.

The village of Millstone, near Bound Brook, with its vicinity, is noted for its healthfulness. There have generally been for many years past about thirty people within the radius of about three miles, over 80 years of age. Of these, four or five have generally been over 90; and now one, Mrs. Sarah F. VanNostrand, has reached 100 years. She is remarkably well and hearty. She was born in what is now East Millstone, and on the spot where the Franklin House now stands, on September 6, 1789.

New Road for Bound Brook.

Application will be made at the opening of the September term of court in Somerville for a new road from Bound Brook to Chimney Rock. It will start on Union avenue, Bound Brook, East of Prof. Flack's residence and keep up on high ground all the way to Mr. Haelig's place. The Middlebrook washed the old road so badly this Summer that the people who use this road will be glad to get a better route.

Down on the Excursions.

Asbury Park will soon be called upon to look into the excursion question. Many prominent citizens and property owners object to the whole excursion business, claiming that the material interests of the town, as represented by the cottagers and season visitors at the hotels and boarding houses, suffer to an incalculable extent from transient excursionists.

Minstrels on Monday Night.

Primrose & West will appear at Stillman Music Hall, Monday night. These gentlemen claim that their present organization is the strongest that they have ever been connected with. They have invested money with a lavish but judicious hand in procuring elaborate scenic effects, magnificent costumes, attractive special features and eminent artists.

New Jersey is Their Harvest.

The New Jersey fire report again demonstrates the fact that New Jersey is a banner State for insurance companies. The figures are as follows: The total fire risks written was $398,583,077; premiums received, cash, $2,911,634; notes, $362,336; total, $3,273,970. Losses incurred, $1,152,220; losses paid, $1,146,805; gross profit, $2,127,165.

The Waverly Fair.

The thirty-first annual fair of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society, will be held at Waverly Park, September 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20. The attractions this year will prove interesting to all and will outnumber those of any previous exhibition.

—The Republican State Convention will be held at Trenton on Tuesday, September 17.

—The city council will meet in adjourned session on Monday evening, when the subject of water works will be discussed.

—This is the time of year when the thoughtful man takes time by the forelock and purchases his supply of coal for the Winter.

—The 25th annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday-school Association will be held in the Presbyterian church at Dayton on Wednesday, of next week.

SWALLOWED HER TEETH.

A Reading Woman's Death Caused While Laughing in a Theatre.

READING, Pa., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Frances Dunsford, aged 32, wife of George H. Dunsford, was carried out of the Academy of Music on Tuesday night in an unconscious condition. She had been laughing inordinately at the play of the "Old Homestead," when suddenly she fainted and fell back in her chair. She was removed to her home, 403 Elm street, in an unconscious condition.

It was not known exactly what caused her affliction. Her false teeth were missing, and it was apprehended that she might have swallowed them. The doctors failed to locate any obstruction and the lady lingered in agony until yesterday, when she died. A post mortem located the missing teeth securely lodged in her windpipe. There were two teeth fastened to a silver plate. Mr. Dunsford until recently lived at Franklin, near Newark, N. J., and moved here to take the superintendency of the Reading Paper Mill Company.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Italy's Prime Minister Stoned by a Lunatic—Twelve Deaths in Germany From Trichinosis—The Vatican to Publish Correspondence in Reference to the Italian Occupation of Rome—Big Wheat Crop in France—Crowds to see Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—At the close of business hours to-day it was considered certain by both the dock companies and the leaders of the striking laborers that the great contest over the wage question was virtually ended, unless some unexpected hitch should occur in regard to the lightermen's resuming work.

The dockers were greatly aided during their struggle by the lightermen refusing to work even at advanced wages, and now that the employers of the lightermen seem inclined to withdraw their concession, which was made in the hope of inducing them to continue at work, the dockers will return a favor by not resuming work unless the lightermen express themselves as satisfied. It is thought, however, that this minor impediment to harmony will be got rid of without much trouble, and that by Monday at the latest the great docks will resume their wonted appearance of activity, and the commerce of the world's metropolis will regain its normal proportions and channels.

There is an almost unanimous agreement of opinion that the amicable and mutually creditable settlement of the trouble, now apparently secured, is entirely due to the untiring efforts and great sagacity of Cardinal Manning, who voluntarily took the part of mediator between the obstinate contending parties, and thus, but not for the first time, practically illustrated his conception of the functions of a prelate of religion—to be a public servant in the highest sense of the word. The service rendered to society by the wise and efficacious counsels of the Cardinal in this case are simply inestimable. Though Burns is a man of extraordinary force of character, with remarkable command over his followers, even his control of the situation could not have lasted indefinitely. And while the success of the dock companies was only a question of time, or the amount of money they were willing to loose in prolonging the lockout, there is no doubt that before work would have been resumed on the old basis of wages, acts of violence would have occurred, the outcome of which might have been appalling.

Mussulmans and Hindoos at War.

SIMLA, Sept. 14.—During the celebration of a religious festival at Roblak, the Mussulmans and Hindoos became involved in religious disputes which led to rioting. The police were compelled to interfere to stop the fighting, but before they succeeded in quelling the disorder many of the rioters were shot by the officers. The Mussulmans at Delhi, 42 miles northwest of Roblak, are organizing to avenge insults put upon them by Hindoos.

Curiosity to See Mrs. Maybrick.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The convict chapel at Woking has been so besieged every Sunday since Mrs. Maybrick has been confined in the prison there that the Home Office has found it necessary to order that the public shall be excluded from it at times of service, except in the cases of persons who shall be provided with special permits.

Big Wheat Crop in France.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—The latest government report concerning the wheat crop of France shows that 7,160,000 hectares were sown this year against 6,978,134 hectares last year. It is estimated that the yield will be 111,360,218 hectolitres against 98,740,728 hectolitres in 1888.

Italy's Prime Minister Assaulted.

ROME, Sept. 14.—While Prime Minister Crispi was driving to-day, a stone thrown by a man on the roadside struck him in one of his eyes, inflicting a painful but not serious injury. The assailant was arrested and found to be a lunatic.

Senator Voorhees Illness.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. — Senator Voorhees, who had a a billious chill yesterday is much better to-day. No alarm whatever if felt about his condition and he hopes to be out in a few days.

HORRIBLE REVENGE.

A New York Merchant Shot Down in His Own Store by an Alleged Inventor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—F. W. Gesswein, the millionaire hardware dealer, doing business at No. 39 John street, was murdered in his office yesterday by Christian Deihl, a machinist, of Philadelphia.

The man who, like Mr. Gosswein was an elderly person, entered the store about ten o'clock, and shortly afterwards the two men were heard using very loud and vigorous language in the private office. The clerks had no intimation that the quarrel was a serious one until they heard a pistol shot and the fall of a heavy body. Rushing in they found Mr. Gesswein lying on the floor with a bullet hole in his body. He died instantly.

A policeman was called in and the murderer was taken to the Old Slip station. The Coroner was notified.

On the way to the station house Deihl gave the following account of his trouble with Gesswein.

"I invented an article useful to any jeweller," he said, "and showed it to Gesswein, whom I thought was my friend. He stole it,— him, and beggared me. I have two daughters married and living in Philadelphia.

"I went to law with him but got no redress.

"He had money and beat me. I became crazy thinking of my wrongs, and finally determined to come here and get justice at any cost.

"Since my arrival I lived at the Jim Fisk restaurant. I went down this morning and asked him for $500.

"He laughed at me and said: "If I gave you that I would be as big a fool as you are!

"Then I shot him," he concluded.

A BOX OF HUMAN SKULLS.

New Bedford Workmen Make a Startling Find While Excavating for a Building.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 14.—While workmen were excavating yesterday for the foundation of a new building, a box containing half a dozen skulls and a number of human bones was exhumed a short distance below the surface.

Inquiry developed the fact that while digging a cistern at the same place about forty-five years ago, several skeletons were unearthed and reburied.

Tradition has it that the bones belong to the crew of an English vessel who died of an epidemic and were buried here about the time of the Revolutionary War.

Judge Veazey's Successor.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 14.—Governor Dillingham announces the appointment of Hon. Loveland Munson, of Manchester, to be Sixth Assistant Judge of the Vermont Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Hon. Wheelock C. Veazey to the Inter-State Railroad Commission. Judge Munson is 46 years of age and has served as a member of both branches of the State Legislature, and was a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1870. At present he is Judge of Probate in the district of Manchester.

Mines Damaged by Floods.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 14.—The heavy rains of the past few days have caused additional damage to No. 5 mine of the Delaware and Hudson Coal Comcompany at Plymouth, where the great cave-in occurred. Water is to-day running into the newly made cave holes, and it is finding its way into the mine. It is reported that the Bennett mine is also flooded, and that there is great danger that other openings adjoining will also be considerably damaged.

A Village Swept by Fire.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—A fire was discovered at two o'clock this morning in the upper part of Howell's store at Danby, this county. The store was soon totally burned and the flames had communicated to the surrounding property. The village is without a fire department and the entire business portion fell a prey to the flames. Among the buildings burned were: Howell's store, Wise's stores, house and barn, W. Biesce's store and the Danby Hotel and barn. Hotel loss $22,000; insurance $9,000.

Trying to Match Gaudaur and Searle.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—The proprietor of the London "Sportsman" cabled J. A. St. Johns, Gaudaur's backer, yesterday, as follows: "Searle will row Gaudaur on the Thames, England, within a month, for $2,500 a side, allowing Gaudaur $500 for expenses. If this is not satisfactory he will row him at the same terms on the Paramatta river, Australia." Gaudaur won't accept the above proposition at those terms, but will row him on a lake course in England.

Canada Taking a Hand.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 14.—A movement has been started here in favor of assisting Chicago in any way possible to secure the World's Fair in 1892. The local government and provincial societies will co-operate in sending a vast exhibit of the cereal and root products of the country if the fair is held in Chicago. Whereas if it goes to New York no effort will be made to have any representation from this country.

They Had Robbed Another Man.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 14.—Officers just returned from an unsuccessful pursuit of the bunco men who robbed farmer Ordway, of London, bring information, hitherto concealed by the Durham police, that three weeks ago a Durham farmer named McDaniel, aged 70, was swindled out of $2,000 by two men answering the description of those who robbed Ordway.

Judge Milo Olin Dead.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 14.—Judge W. Milo Olin died last night, aged 76 years. He was a native of New York. He voluntarily acted as a nurse for the sick during the yellow fever epidemics at Norfolk, Wilmington, Savannah, Memphis and Jacksonville, and refused to accept any compensation for his services.

Can't Indict Mrs. Artz.

Two Bodies a Day.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14.—Bodies continue to be taken out of the debris and the rivers. On an average two bodies are found a day.

The Flack Case Adjourned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The Grand Jury adjourned the Flack case until Wednesday next.

MR. AND MRS. KATYDID.

The Amusing Antics of a Couple of "Grasshopper Birds."

The Little Green Lady Gets Into a Huff and Goes Off by Herself, Deaf and Blind to the Affectionate Appeals of Her Contrite Spouse.

Recently a little girl in this village found a katydid in her bedroom, writes a Lakewood (N. J.) correspondent of the New York Sun. She endeavored to cultivate its acquaintance, but it escaped. She had, however, become sufficiently interested in the "grasshopper bird" to lead her to determine to capture another. Her efforts were so successful that she succeeded in catching two of the family, a male and female. These she has now had some two weeks, and they have been very interesting companions not only for herself, but for the entire household as well. When first caught the katydids were kept in a jardiniere of nearly their own color, and over them was drawn a piece of mosquito netting to prevent their departure. In the jardiniere were placed some green twigs, upon which they sit, salent through the day, but musical as soon as the evening comes.

At nightfall the roof of their house is removed and they come out in single file, the male invariably preceding the female. When they were first caged they were strangers, and did not talk at all kindly to each other, but after two days they became well acquainted, and are now as loving as a newly-married couple. When coming out of the jardiniere the male walks in a stately way, beating time with his taborets, to which the lady keeps step. From their domicile they walk across the table, upon which it rests, to a bit of white paper. On this are placed two slices of banana and a few sugared whortleberries. When they get near the fruit the female closes the distance between herself and her better half, but never ventures to take the lead. The fruit reached, both begin eating voraciously, the male still keeping up his clatter, but at longer intervals. Generally they make a meal of the banana, but occasionally they eat of the berries, when only the outer skin of this fruit is eaten, leaving the pulp untouched.

If disturbed, as he frequently is, now that his pugnacity is known, the male katydid scolds vehemently, and if the teasing is persisted in shows fight by chasing the finger as it is drawn in different directions or zigzag across the table. Permitted to reach the finger he will endeavor to bite it, but the effort is little more than a smart pinch which fails to penetrate the skin. A bit of apple was offered to the pets but they declined it, walked seriously away a short distance and paused close together, as if in consultation. The other fruit being offered, by placing it near them and then removing it to the sheet of paper, they followed quickly, and made their supper as usual. When they have eaten the female usually leaves the paper first, her appetite being apparently less vigorous than that of her mate, and marches toward the base of the German student lamp. Thither she is soon followed by the male, who follows her to the ring in the top of the standard of the lamp. There their antics are very amusing, and not unlike those of expert trapeze performers, the male giving orders for the changes of positions almost constantly. Naturalists who have accredited the female katydid with incapacity to "sing" are in error. When not pleased at something which her companion does his mistress can and does make very decided, though, it is true, not very emphatic objections. Her note is something like that of her mate, very much reduced in emphasis, and in fact rather a weakly whispered imitation of it. Being offended, as she generally is after the trapeze performance has been continued a few minutes, she utters her protest and marches down the standard, evidently in a huff, as her step is much more lively than that with which she made the ascent. Her shape and movements easily encourage the supposition that she has her back up.

One evening, in what was supposed to be the middle of the performance, the female suddenly left the ring, ran quickly down the standard, and away to the window casing, up which she went toward the ceiling at a very lively pace. The male did not follow as quickly as usual, but continued his acrobatic amusement for some time. Presently he stopped and seemed to look about him, working his long "feelers" in every direction. It was very evident that he had missed his mate. Without tarrying longer he hurried down the standard. At the base he hardly paused, but was silent, as he had been from the beginning of the descent. Suddenly he started in pursuit of his spouse, and, with a great clatter, "flinging his saw" as he went, he followed along the track that she had taken, thus confirming the belief of naturalists that the scent of insects is very acute. When he found her he ceased working his taborets, and as they sat upon the curtain poles made what seemed to be demonstrations of much affection. But he was repeatedly rebuffed and had his trouble for his pains, as the female left his company and came down the casing to a vase filled with scarlet, pink and variegated flowers. He followed, but had to be content with the occupancy of a bloom apart from the one occupied by his mate. The female liking for bright colors is not lacking in Mrs. Katydid, as she nightly takes her repose among the flowers until returned to her home in the jardiniere.

Reserved for Men.

A Pennsylvania editor answers a correspondent who propounded the query, "Did you ever see a bald-headed woman?" in the following strain: "No, we never did. Nor did we ever see a woman waltzing around town in her shirt sleeves, with a cigar between her teeth. We never saw a woman go fishing with a bottle in her hip pocket, sit around on the damp ground all day, and go home 'boozed' in the evening. Neither have we seen a woman yank off her coat, spit on her hands, and swear she could whip any man in town. All of the foregoing 'privileges' are reserved for men."

A Tough Old Tartar.

There is a man living at Saratoff, Russia, who is 140 years old. He acted as adjutant to Field Marshal Pugatcheff and took part in the storming of Kasin and Simbirsk and in the bombardment of Samara. He was arrested with Pugatcheff and brought back to Simbirsk, where he was subjected to 180 blows with the knout and condemned to hard labor for life in the Siberian mines. After thirty-eight years' banishment and hard labor Samoiloff was permitted to return to his native city. Despite the hardships of his exile he is described as still retaining all his faculties.

Hints from a Clothier.

Yes, we have a good deal of complaint from customers about the shrinking of flannel shirts. All materials will shrink some; we generally allow half an inch for flannel, and if it is properly washed there is no reason why it should shrink perceptibly after that. The proper way is to souse the garment in hot soap-water, never rubbing it, and put it repeatedly through a wringer. The garment should never be wrung with the hands and never put in cold water.

WONDERFUL CAJAH POND.

It Is Full of Floating Islands from Which Fishermen Troll for Pickerel.

A dispatch in a New York paper from a place in Minnesota, announcing as a remarkable fact the discovery of a floating island in a small lake in that State, inclines the residents of Honesdale, Pa., to the belief that if one floating island in a State so famous for natural curiosities as Minnesota is considered a wonder, they have been living all their lives with a still greater wonder close by without attaching any great importance to it. They have a lake a mile from Honesdale which is filled with floating islands. This lake is known locally as Cajah pond. It is two hundred feet above the village. It is dotted with a dozen or more islands. These are covered with trees, some of them twenty feet high, and a dense growth of thick-foliaged bushes.

The island bottoms are marshy, but the soil is stiff enough to sustain easily the weight of the fishermen who troll for pickerel from the islands in the summer fishing season. In the summer these little islands are pleasing variations in the beauty of the scene the lake presents to the spectator as he gazes upon it from the hills that encircle it. If the wind happens to be strong and variable, as it generally is on the lake, the visitor who looks upon the lake for the first time can hardly help being startled to see these islands moving about from one point of the compass to another as the wind shifts. On one day these islands may be seen huddled together in one spot, and on another day, perhaps, they will be seen scattered widely apart. An island from which the fisherman casts his line at one end of the lake to-day will, in all probability, invite him to it from the other extremity to-morrow.

The largest of these islands was some years ago partial to the lower end of the lake, and hugged the shore there with only slight changes in position day in and day out. During a stiff wind one day this island tacked first to one side and then to the other side of the lake, moving slowly the while to the upper end, until it was floated against the shore at that end. It remained there for two or three years through some of the hardest winds that blew off that shore. One day while three pickerel fishermen were fishing from the island's outer edge it suddenly was seized with a whim, induced or prompted only by a gentle wind, and before the fishermen knew it they found themselves fifty feet from shore. The island floated slowly across the lake until it had almost reached that shore, when a counter breeze struck it and sent it down the lake. It finally landed near the spot where it started from a year ago, and it has remained in that vicinity ever since, simply taking a short trip now and then to and fro across the lake, but always returning to or near its old moorings.

Although these fair islands are constantly shifting their places in the lake, they annually add perceptibly to their area. There are six or eight of them, and the scientific theory is that in time the roots of the trees that cover them will extend down into the water so far that they will anchor the islands in the lake, and that by the slow but certain processes of nature they will be increased in size until the surface of the lake will become solid land.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

Breckenridge's and Benjamin's Escape from the Country.

Recently I saw in a Southern paper a highly-colored and sensational account of the narrow escape and flight of General John C. Breckenridge and Hon. Judah P. Benjamin in their hasty trip through Florida in April, 1865, writes a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times. Their fearful races and concealment to elude capture, apprehensive of recognition, dangers encountered, deprivations and perils experienced, were all glowingly portrayed. In the summer of 1875 I met General Breckenridge in Richmond, and one Sunday afternoon we were sitting alone in front of the Ballard Hotel. I said that, if not unpleasant, it would be gratifying to have him give an account of his escape and how it occurred that Mr. Benjamin was separated from him. He replied that he would cheerfully do so, and said that after following Mr. Davis some distance on the retreat he became satisfied that Mr. Davis had selected the most dangerous route, and to continue under his guidance, which he persisted in, capture would be certain and inevitable. "I decided to pursue a different course, and taking with me some trusty men and as few as possible, left Mr. Davis and his escort and struck off for the Florida coast. Soon afterward Mr. Davis, as I predicted, was captured. I met with some soldiers of the Federal army. They did not recognize me, and nothing specially occurred to cause me to apprehend my arrest or safety. I passed a squad of them in a gallop, but no demonstration was made against me, nor did they seem to be aware who I was." He said: "Having been accustomed in early life to hunt and travel in the night in Kentucky, I recalled the experience of my youth and adapted myself to change of circumstances, traveling incognito and with a few faithful and fearless fellows. In a short time, with nothing specially perilous during the journey, we reached the coast in safety. We then procured a small boat and supply of provisions, which were easily obtained, as I was supplied with some gold, and with a small pocket compass which I always carried with me, and with J. Taylor Wood and two others in an open boat we started for the coast of Cuba. In two days and three nights of the most delightful and propitious weather we landed within one mile of the island, our only guide being my pocket compass. Captain Wood fell overboard during the voyage, but was soon hauled in, and was not the least disconcerted or alarmed. He was one of the bravest of men. After reaching Cuba I found friends and accommodations. I remained there a brief time, and then went to Paris and back eventually to Canada. The rest you are no doubt familiar with."

"Where is Mr. Benjamin?" I asked.

"He remained with me only a day after leaving Mr. Davis. He was a remarkable man; could adapt himself to any society or circumstances; could speak French, German and other languages fluently. He traveled through the country as a Jewish merchant, and sailed from Charleston, so I have learned."

I made a memorandum of this conversation at the time, and this is a verbatim report.

A Story of Justice Stephen.

An amusing story is told by the London Star of Mr. Justice Stephen's testiness on the bench. He was trying a poaching case, and to poachers he has always had a strong aversion. The barrister who defended the prisoner was frequently interrupted by the judge in the course of his speech. "Really, you ought to know that this is quite irrelevant," said the bench, and, at last: "You are confusing the case so much that the jury can't distinguish between the prisoner and the plaintiff." "Exactly, my lord," said the counsel, with great readiness. "You have put my case completely. The question of identity is most difficult, for the night was so dark that I don't wonder at the jury mistaking the plaintiff for my client." There was a verdict of acquittal, much to Mr. Justice Stephen's disgust.

Christina Brown Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 14.—Mrs. Christina Brown, who was found yesterday at her home in French's Court, Camden, N. J., suffering from injuries in the head, died last night. The entire Anton family, of whom Mrs. Brown rented the miserable attic in which she lived, have been arrested upon suspicion of having been concerned in the injuries to the old woman.

Hungarian Miners on Strike.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 14.—Twenty-five hundred Hungarian miners are now on strike in the Punxsutawney district, and 500 more will likely join the strikers next week. The Huns struck because the mine bosses pay the English speaking miners forty cents and the Huns in the same coal mine only thirty-five cents.

HE DEFIED NIAGARA

Walter Campbell Swims the Whirlpool Rapids.

HE WORE A LIFE-PRESERVER

A Dog Accompanied the Swimmer and Came Out Alive.

Campbell Has a Terrible Struggle in the Driftwood—He Says He Has Accomplished the Greatest Feat on Record, but Could Not Be Induced to Repeat the Trip—Steve Brodie Indulges in Another Jump in Ohio.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 16.—William G. Campbell, despite the predictions of all who knew anything about the whirlpool, yesterday afternoon passed through and lives to tell the story.

During the morning he bought an old clinker boat, which was taken down the river some distance above the Maid of the Mist landing, and hidden behind a rock. Early yesterday morning, fearing arrest, he went down the road to the landing and dressed in his suit of tights heavily padded with cotton, over which was strapped a cork life-preserver. In the boat was a cockerel spaniel encased in a life-preserver, which accompanied him in his perilous trip.

At 3:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon a newspaper was dropped from the Suspension Bridge as a signal for him to start. In an instant the boat shoved out from shore with several people in it. A landing was made at the Maid of the Mist landing, and all but Campbell stepped ashore. Precisely at 3:26 o'clock Campbell pulled away from the landing, heading obliquely for the Canadian shore. Standing up he drew in the oars, laying one in the boat and using the other as a paddle to straighten the course of the boat, and passed under the Cantilever and Snspension Bridge at 3:28, forming a picture never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it in breathless silence. As he struck the first rapids he dropped the paddle, crouched down in the boat and grasped the sides.

The first pitch was passed over, the boat going out of sight for an instant, but when seen again Campbell was still hanging to the boat. Opposite the first elevator below the bridge is another pitch, when the dog was thrown out and could be seen swimming ahead of the boat, which was still right side up but full of water, and Campbell still hanging on. Opposite the Bulting Elevator the boat was thrown clear of the water, and Campbell was out of it struggling in the rushing water.

At 3:37 he was seen to enter the whirlpool, but whether dead or alive those on shore could not tell. He was seen to float directly across toward the north shore and it was thought he would make a landing.

He came near enough for those on shore to see that he was alive, but not close enough that help could be rendered. Here he caught an upper current and was carried back. For some time the water in the pool has been very low and a large quantity of driftwood was floating around and into this Campbell was carried. It was a dangerous place, for most of the drift was heavy sticks and he stood in great danger of being killed. For a moment he could be seen struggling for life. Then he extricated himself from the driftwood and struck out manfully for the shore, calling for help. He reached the shore at the upper end of the pool on the Canada side, unaided, at 3:40.

Willing hands reached down to pull him out, his father being among them. With the exception of an apparently severe nervous strain, Campbell seemed none the worse for his trip, and he was able to walk to the foot of the incline, some little distance away.

The dog was seen to clamber out on the Canadian shore, while a remnant of the boat could be seen floating around the center of the pool, bottom up.

"Tell the people," said Campbell, "that I have accomplished the greatest feat on record. I did not lose my head only for an instant, and that was just as I entered the whirlpool. I remember distinctly when I left the boat." When asked if he would repeat the trip, Campbell replied: "No, sir. You could give me New York State and then pile all the others on top, and I would not go again. I am going home now."

Brodie's Latest Drop.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper, dropped from a cable at Beyerle's Park, a local summer resort, into a poud yesterday afternoon. The fall is about 100 feet. There was nothing particularly dangerous in the feat. Brodie was uninjured.

For Abducting a Child.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 16.—C. T. Goodman, a young man from Philadelphia, was arrested here yesterday, charged with the abduction of a 12-year-old girl. They were found at a hotel, where they were passing as father and daughter.

Killed His Brother.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Late last night in a dispute over a game of cards, John Franchiskello stabbed and killed his brother, Michael Franchiskello. The murderer escaped and has not been arrested.

A Ten-Year-Old Boy Committed Suicide.

TRAVER'S CITY, Mich., Sept. 16.—Cyrus Curtis, aged 10 years, a farmer's boy living at Williamsburg, five miles north of this city, committed suicide by hanging. The cause for the act is unknown.

Voorhees for Temporary Chairman.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 16.—Assemblyman Voorhees, it is said, has been chosen by the Republican State Committee for the temporary chairmanship of the Convention.

MINERS WIN A STRIKE.

The Men in the Punxsutawney Section Get Everything They Ask For.

BROCKWAVILLE, Pa., Sept. 16.—The strike in the Punxsutawney section has been settled. The men get evrything they asked for. This will no doubt have the effect of settling the strike on the Erie road, as Supt. Robertson said last week that if the raise were granted elsewhere the Northwest Company would not be behind anybody in giving the advance. This will have the almost certain effect of influencing Reynoldsville and the other sections to follow during the week. The early victory is a surprise to everybody.

Gov. Hill Commutes a Sentence.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Gov. Hill has commuted the sentence of John McKeown, who was sentenced in 1883 to ten years in Auburn prison for manslaughter, having caused the death of Mrs. Moreland. McKeown has served four years, ten months and twenty-two days and will be released this afternoon. The commutation was reached through the efforts of a number of prominent citizens of Seneca Falls.

The Cronin Jury.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The fourth week of the Cronin trial commenced to-day. Three hundred and twenty-seven venire men have been examined. All have been excused except Culver, the real estate dealer, and farmer Pearson. Culver is a probable juror. Pearson will doubtless be excused by the State. Thus far the State has used twenty-four and the defense fifty-two of their peremptory challenges.

Shot His Sweetheart.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Abraham Rosenbaum, 22 years of age, of No. 400 North Clinton street, at 9 o'clock last night shot his sweetheart, Minnie Coleman, at her home, No. 55 Delevan street. He afterward gave himself up and is now in custody. Miss Coleman is dangerously injured and may not recover. Jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

Grant, Sherman and Sheridan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The portraits of Generals Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, which were painted by direction of Mr. Geo. W. Childs for the United States Military Academy will be formally transferred to that instution Oct. 3. Gen. Horace Porter will represent Mr. Childs upon the occasion and will deliver an appropriate address in presenting the portraits.

Killed by a Blast Explosion.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 16.—By the explosion of a blast which had been prematurely fired at Brigham's Cement Works, on Rondout Creek, near here, a man named Moore was killed, and the superintendent of the works and two other men were severely if not fatally wounded. Physicians were sent from here to attend the injured.

Pledged to Support Kean for Governor.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 16.—Returns from all the townships of Middlesex County show that the delegates elected to the Republican State Convention are pledged to support ex-Congressman John Kean for Governor. Every delegate elected in the six wards of this city is similarly pledged.

Gen. Butler to Publish His Memoirs.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Gen. Benjamin F. Butler has at last signed a contract with publishers in this city for the publication of his long anticipated memoirs. The work will be a voluminous one, covering the events which led up to the rebellion as well as the history of the reconstruction period.

Connecticut Soldiers at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—One hundred and twenty members of the Sixteensh Connecticut Infantry arrived yesterday on a special excursion train. They will inspect the battlefield to-day and leave for Antietam. The party are from Hartford, New Haven and New Britain.

A Bank President Missing.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 16.—Prof. J. Wiss, one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Texarkana, late president and manager of the Texarkana Savings Bank, is missing with $37,000 of other people's money. He was a man of exemplary habits, and his escapade causes the greatest surprise.

BIG FIRE IN LOUISVILLE.

Several Firemen Killed and Hotel Guests Had to Flee For Their Lives.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 16.—The five-story building, corner of Seventh and Main streets, occupied by Bamburger, Bloom & Co., the largest wholesale dry goods house in the city, was discovered on fire this morning. The entire city fire department endeavored to prevent the spread of the flames.

The guests had to leave the Louisville Hotel, which nearly adjoins the burning building on Main street, many of them escaping by means of the fire escapes and ladders on the Sixth street wing, the intense heat making escape from the Main street front impossible. It is estimated that the loss to the dry goods firm alone will reach $1,000,000.

Three firemen were taken out dead from beneath fallen walls. Others are thought to be still under the debris.

Big Fire at Medina, N. Y.

MEDINA, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The most destructive fire that has visited this village in several years started in the oven of the pail manufacturing establishment of A. M. Ives & Sons, on Main street, at about 5:30 a. m. yesterday, and was not subdued until property valued at nearly $30,000 had been destroyed. A new building recently erected by S. C. Bowen, and used by him as an evaporator, caught fire from the flames and was burned to the ground.

BALL FIELD GOSSIP

On the Homestretch in the Struggle for the Pennants.

BOSTON AND BROOKLYN LEAD.

The New York Giants Only Four Points Behind the Boston Club.

Each League Club Has Eighteen More Scheduled Games to Play—Boston and Philadelphia and New York and Washington to Play This Afternoon—The Result of Yesterday's Association Games. Brooklyn Wins After Fourteen Innings.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The struggle for the League championship has never been so close as it is this year. The Giants left on their last trip last night. Boston will play at home with Philadelphia to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday, and New York will play Washington on the same dates.

Each club has eighteen scheduled games to play. The New York and Boston clubs have two or three postponed games abroad, and if one should succeed in playing off the postponements and the other should not, the chances would be in favor of the club upon which the weather happens to smile. So far this season the New Yorkers have proved themselves much better than Boston away from home.

The New York players are apparently still full of confidence that there is still a show for them to wrest the pennant from Boston's grip. They believe they will come home from the West in first place. Perhaps too much importance is placed in this Western trip. On the first tour the Bostons only won 8 and lost 8 of the games played. The New Yorks on the other hand captured 10 and lost 5. When they went West again, however, the Beaneaters lost only two games more than Mutrie's men.

The Bostons, too, will fight with more confidence in their coming games away from home, knowing that everything depends upon their winning every game if possible, for, if they lose, the championship is beyond them. They will also have a stronger batting team, Quinn and Smith having been added to the infield, and Richardson will cover the left garden. Radbourne's work against Chicago last week has inspired the players with renewed energy, and they will make greater efforts to capture games when he is in the box than during other periods of the season.

Brooklyn now has a winning lead in the Association struggle, and, barring accidents, will win the pennant without much difficulty. The feature of the week has been the continued fine work of Columbus. At present the various clubs hold these respective positions:—

More Race Trouble Brewing.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 16.—Reports from Chocaltaw County, Alabama, as to the effect that the race feeling is somewhat strained. White men were in Meridian to-day to buy guns to prepare for the threatened trouble, information concerning them through what they consider reliable sources having been obtained.

Big Purchase of Coal Lands.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Sept. 16.—The McClure Coke Company has purchased the Colonel Evans coal property of 2,9 acres near Uniontown, and will immediately erect new ovens. This will prevent the Frick Company from obtaining control of the market.

Lost His Mother and His Reason.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Mr. Franklin Holmes, of Congressville, was struck by a north-bound passenger train last evening and instantly killed. He young son had a narrow escape, and since the accident has acted as if bereft of his reason.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Iced cream is quietly fading out of the bill of fare.

—Perhaps the Council will grant Plainfield Water Works franchise, this evening.

—The Fair in aid of St. Mary's church will open on Thursday evening next in the parochial school hall.

—Mr. W. S. Stevens of Dunellen is authority for the statement that there is not a single vacant house in that borough.

—Corn may be gnawed off the cob at a public table without indecorum, but audible suction of it is no longer admissible.

—Officer Grant arrested a young man at the depot, on Saturday night, for disorderly conduct. Yesterday he was fined three dollars.

—Have you had enough of the equinoxial which THE PRESS prophesied last Wednesday was likely to continue for some days to come?

—A horse attached to a bone wagon ran away on East Front street, Saturday afternoon, and wrecked the wagon to a considerable extent.

—The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union are invited to be present at the county convention to be held in Roselle, to-morrow, Sept. 17.

—The regular business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society, will be held to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock, in Reform Hall. A full attendance is desired.

—The case of John and Wm. Sullivan, for an alleged assault upon Wm. Ross, several weeks ago, was today discontinued in the City Court, and the suit was discontinued.

—Every man in the city is reminded of the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., at 8 o'clock to-night. Spirited singing and live talks from young men may be expected.

—A drunken man on horseback created some excitement on North avenue, yesterday afternoon. The fellow was so full that he could hardly maintain his equilibrium on the animal's back.

—Mt. Olive Baptist church has been remodeled, and four new class rooms have been added to the building. The Sunday school room was occupied yesterday for the first time since the repairs were made.

—Thomas S. Judd, a late employee at the Pond Tool Works, was found sleeping on a baggage truck at the Grant avenue station, early yesterday morning, and he was arrested. Judge Stillman fined him two dollars.

—To-night the City Council will meet in adjourned session. The Primrose and West Minstrel Company is on hand, so gentlemen "play ball," and you may get through your business in time to see the audience disperse from Music Hall.

—A traveler can go 156,000 miles by railway in the United States. The tourist who might explore all this involved and elaborate system, if he should live to get through with it, would have a very proper idea of the girth and greatness of the country.

—The gospel meetings held every Sunday in Reform Hall, at 4 P. M., under the auspices of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society, are full of interest, and good spirited music, under the leadership of Mr. J. D. Moon, adds greatly to the success of the meetings.

—The frescoing of the interior of the First Baptist church was awarded to G. F. & C. E. Brown, of New York. They expect to begin work this week. The several other contracts for recarpeting, cushioning, painting, carpenter work, etc., have not yet been given out.

—"Jim" Peterson, one of Westfield's colored population, assaulted a white man at the railroad station in this city, on Saturday evening, and for his trouble he was locked up. The young man whom he assaulted appeared before the City Judge this afternoon, was adjudged guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $5. Peterson will be arraigned later in the day.

—Saturday—one of the "Black Letter Days," according to Roman Catholic Use—one of the 67 "Minor Festivals" in the Prayer Book Kalendar of our Holy Mother Church of England—commemorated the above Festival, which is annually celebrated in remembrance of the honor which has ever been paid to it by the Faithful since the discovery of the Holy Cross in the fourth century.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

Some time after midnight on Saturday, John McFadden, a married man aged about forty years, and Joseph McCabe, a companion about the same age, while under the influence of liquor, went to sleep on the railroad track, about fifty yards West of the Grant avenue station, and a half-hour later engine No. 117, attached to a pipe train going East, came along and struck McFadden. McCabe escaped injury.

The engineer on the owl train due here at 1 o'clock A. M., from New York, saw the men lying along the track and telegraphed back word from Dunellen. Officer Flannigan was notified, and he in turn secured a hack. A lantern and stretcher was procured from the railroad station, and Dr. J. T. Fritts, the railroad physician, was informed of the accident. A PRESS reporter accompanied the doctor and Officer Flannigan to the Grant avenue station, and after searching along the track for the injured man, it was ascertained that Mr. John Cooper, the night-watchman for Kline & Staats, had secured a stretcher from Muhlenberg Hospital, and with the assistance of the crew from a passing train, had carried John McFadden to the Hospital. When Dr. Fritts arrived there the patient was found to be suffering from shock. A hasty examination showed that McFadden's left foot was entirely severed at the ankle, the foot remaining in the shoe, and the flesh was stripped from the leg from the knee down, exposing the bone to view. The patient's left hand was also terribly bruised and discolored.

Dr. Endicott was summoned to the Hospital by telephone, and he and Dr. Fritts held a consultation. It was decided not to amputate the leg until a reaction set in. Accordingly at nine o'clock yesterday morning Dr. Endicott, assisted by the whole medical staff of the Hospital amputated the left leg above the knee.

Today the patient's condition is reported as slightly improved, but his recovery is decidedly uncertain.

Some two hours after the accident occurred Officer Flannigan found McCabe doubled up in a heap in the grass along side of the track. His hat was missing, and in appearance he resembled a dish rag. He was brought to town and locked up. Yesterday morning he was fined two dollars and released.

So-Called Prohibition in Plainfield.

We find the following editorial paragraphs in the Unionist-Gazette of Somerville:

Plainfield is a prohibition town, yet statistics show that more beer is drunk under no license than before. In August, 1887, it required 18 barrels of beer per day to supply the town; in 1888, it required over 18 barrels. In August, 1889, under no license, the consumption averages 22 barrels a day, an increase of nearly 25 per cent.

The foregoing taken from the Philadelphia Record is probably copied from some Democratic newspaper in this State, which has not printed the truth. We call upon the news and Central Times of Plainfield to say whether the fact as set forth above is based upon anything substantial or not. The statement concerning the sales in 1887 and 1888 may be true; the statement concerning the present sales we believe to be totally false.

The statement is probably "totally false"—as the Gazette asserts—as it emanated entirely from the news of this city. By this time our Somerville contemporary should know the news and its character so well that it need not make such a blunder as to appeal thereto for truth of any sort incompatible with its spite or financial profit.

At Trinity Reformed Church.

Rev. U. D. Gulick, who was expected to preach in Trinity Reformed church yesterday, was unable to keep his engagement, and sent the Rev. Giles H. Mandeville, D. D., Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Education of the Reformed (Dutch) church of America. Mr. Mandeville proved to be a very able expounder of God's word. At the morning service he preached an eloquent sermon from the 12th chapter of St. John, 32d verse: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." At the evening service he again commanded the closest attention of his audience, as he discoursed on the continuing or unseen city, taking his text from the 14th verse of the 13th chapter of Hebrews. The learned divine gave such general satisfaction that many expressed the wish to hear him again, if opportunity offers.

Mr. Robert Gorton led the singing at both services, and at the morning service he sang "Calvary," by Rodney, as a solo, in a very acceptable manner.

A Wagon Stolen.

Sometime during Saturday a two-seat wagon was stolen from Brittin's Hotel at Scotch Plains, and Mr. Brittin, the owner, offers a reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

—The Republican State Convention will be held at the State House in Trenton, to-morrow at noon.

—It takes a woman to pack a trunk, but a man to unpack it—when he wants to find his razor at the bottom.

—There were no regular trotting events on the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association, on Saturday afternoon, on account of the heavy track.

—The Somerset street photographer who makes four large pictures for 25 cts., or gives away sixteen small ones at the same price, will remain a week longer to accommodate those who were kept away by the storm. Corner of Linden avenue.

Mrs. Elijah Stites, of Chatham street, and Mrs. Mary A. Martin, of Linden avenue, North Plainfield, returned home today from Deckertown, after attending the funeral of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Thos. Martin, which took place from her late residence, Saturday morning.

Union County W. C. T. U. Convention.

The fifth annual Union county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at Roselle, to-morrow, in the Baptist church of that place.

The morning session will be called to order at 10 o'clock, and will be opened with devotions, led by Mrs. Yates. Roll call and reading of the minutes will be next in order, after which the annual report of the corresponding secretary and treasurer will be read. Mrs. Dr. T. H. Tomlison, of this city, president of the union, will then make a brief address, after which the annual election of officers will take place. There will be a noontide prayer meeting at 1 o'clock P. M.

Well Said.

(From the Central Times.)

The Republicans of North Plainfield have united upon Borough Counsel Chas. A. Reed as the assembly candidate in Somerset, and he will doubtless receive the nomination. He ought to be elected. Being the son-in-law and also partner of the well known Democratic ex-Congressman, Alvah Clark, of Somerville, he will naturally attract many Democratic votes. He is therefore an available candidate. But what is more to his credit, he has personal qualities which entitle him to the support of all classes of voters.

—Miles Sweeney, a late promenader in North Plainfield, came up Somerset street on Saturday evening, and meeting Officer Giese at the corner of Front, he remarked: "Ah! there, officer, who the h—— are you?" The officer placed him under arrest for disorderly conduct, and yesterday Judge Stillman fined him $15.

—Mt. Olive Baptist church has been remodeled, and four new class rooms have been added to the building. The Sunday school room was occupied yesterday for the first time since the repairs were made.

—Thomas S. Judd, a late employee at the Pond Tool Works, was found sleeping on a baggage truck at the Grant avenue station, early yesterday morning, and he was arrested. Judge Stillman fined him two dollars.

—To-night the City Council will meet in adjourned session. The Primrose and West Minstrel Company is on hand, so gentlemen "play ball," and you may get through your business in time to see the audience disperse from Music Hall.

—A traveler can go 156,000 miles by railway in the United States. The tourist who might explore all this involved and elaborate system, if he should live to get through with it, would have a very proper idea of the girth and greatness of the country.

—The gospel meetings held every Sunday in Reform Hall, at 4 P. M., under the auspices of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society, are full of interest, and good spirited music, under the leadership of Mr. J. D. Moon, adds greatly to the success of the meetings.

—The frescoing of the interior of the First Baptist church was awarded to G. F. & C. E. Brown, of New York. They expect to begin work this week. The several other contracts for recarpeting, cushioning, painting, carpenter work, etc., have not yet been given out.

—"Jim" Peterson, one of Westfield's colored population, assaulted a white man at the railroad station in this city, on Saturday evening, and for his trouble he was locked up. The young man whom he assaulted appeared before the City Judge this afternoon, was adjudged guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $5. Peterson will be arraigned later in the day.

—Saturday—one of the "Black Letter Days," according to Roman Catholic Use—one of the 67 "Minor Festivals" in the Prayer Book Kalendar of our Holy Mother Church of England—commemorated the above Festival, which is annually celebrated in remembrance of the honor which has ever been paid to it by the Faithful since the discovery of the Holy Cross in the fourth century.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

Some time after midnight on Saturday, John McFadden, a married man aged about forty years, and Joseph McCabe, a companion about the same age, while under the influence of liquor, went to sleep on the railroad track, about fifty yards West of the Grant avenue station, and a half-hour later engine No. 117, attached to a pipe train going East, came along and struck McFadden. McCabe escaped injury.

The engineer on the owl train due here at 1 o'clock A. M., from New York, saw the men lying along the track and telegraphed back word from Dunellen. Officer Flannigan was notified, and he in turn secured a hack. A lantern and stretcher was procured from the railroad station, and Dr. J. T. Fritts, the railroad physician, was informed of the accident. A PRESS reporter accompanied the doctor and Officer Flannigan to the Grant avenue station, and after searching along the track for the injured man, it was ascertained that Mr. John Cooper, the night-watchman for Kline & Staats, had secured a stretcher from Muhlenberg Hospital, and with the assistance of the crew from a passing train, had carried John McFadden to the Hospital. When Dr. Fritts arrived there the patient was found to be suffering from shock. A hasty examination showed that McFadden's left foot was entirely severed at the ankle, the foot remaining in the shoe, and the flesh was stripped from the leg from the knee down, exposing the bone to view. The patient's left hand was also terribly bruised and discolored.

Dr. Endicott was summoned to the Hospital by telephone, and he and Dr. Fritts held a consultation. It was decided not to amputate the leg until a reaction set in. Accordingly at nine o'clock yesterday morning Dr. Endicott, assisted by the whole medical staff of the Hospital amputated the left leg above the knee.

Today the patient's condition is reported as slightly improved, but his recovery is decidedly uncertain.

Some two hours after the accident occurred Officer Flannigan found McCabe doubled up in a heap in the grass along side of the track. His hat was missing, and in appearance he resembled a dish rag. He was brought to town and locked up. Yesterday morning he was fined two dollars and released.

So-Called Prohibition in Plainfield.

We find the following editorial paragraphs in the Unionist-Gazette of Somerville:

Plainfield is a prohibition town, yet statistics show that more beer is drunk under no license than before. In August, 1887, it required 18 barrels of beer per day to supply the town; in 1888, it required over 18 barrels. In August, 1889, under no license, the consumption averages 22 barrels a day, an increase of nearly 25 per cent.

The foregoing taken from the Philadelphia Record is probably copied from some Democratic newspaper in this State, which has not printed the truth. We call upon the news and Central Times of Plainfield to say whether the fact as set forth above is based upon anything substantial or not. The statement concerning the sales in 1887 and 1888 may be true; the statement concerning the present sales we believe to be totally false.

The statement is probably "totally false"—as the Gazette asserts—as it emanated entirely from the news of this city. By this time our Somerville contemporary should know the news and its character so well that it need not make such a blunder as to appeal thereto for truth of any sort incompatible with its spite or financial profit.

At Trinity Reformed Church.

Rev. U. D. Gulick, who was expected to preach in Trinity Reformed church yesterday, was unable to keep his engagement, and sent the Rev. Giles H. Mandeville, D. D., Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Education of the Reformed (Dutch) church of America. Mr. Mandeville proved to be a very able expounder of God's word. At the morning service he preached an eloquent sermon from the 12th chapter of St. John, 32d verse: "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." At the evening service he again commanded the closest attention of his audience, as he discoursed on the continuing or unseen city, taking his text from the 14th verse of the 13th chapter of Hebrews. The learned divine gave such general satisfaction that many expressed the wish to hear him again, if opportunity offers.

Mr. Robert Gorton led the singing at both services, and at the morning service he sang "Calvary," by Rodney, as a solo, in a very acceptable manner.

A Wagon Stolen.

Sometime during Saturday a two-seat wagon was stolen from Brittin's Hotel at Scotch Plains, and Mr. Brittin, the owner, offers a reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

The fifth annual Union county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at Roselle, to-morrow, in the Baptist church of that place.

The morning session will be called to order at 10 o'clock, and will be opened with devotions, led by Mrs. Yates. Roll call and reading of the minutes will be next in order, after which the annual report of the corresponding secretary and treasurer will be read. Mrs. Dr. T. H. Tomlison, of this city, president of the union, will then make a brief address, after which the annual election of officers will take place. There will be a noontide prayer meeting at 1 o'clock P. M.

Well Said.

(From the Central Times.)

The Republicans of North Plainfield have united upon Borough Counsel Chas. A. Reed as the assembly candidate in Somerset, and he will doubtless receive the nomination. He ought to be elected. Being the son-in-law and also partner of the well known Democratic ex-Congressman, Alvah Clark, of Somerville, he will naturally attract many Democratic votes. He is therefore an available candidate. But what is more to his credit, he has personal qualities which entitle him to the support of all classes of voters.

—Miles Sweeney, a late promenader in North Plainfield, came up Somerset street on Saturday evening, and meeting Officer Giese at the corner of Front, he remarked: "Ah! there, officer, who the h—— are you?" The officer placed him under arrest for disorderly conduct, and yesterday Judge Stillman fined him $15.

ADDED AFFLICTION.

A Plainfield Family Doubly Bereaved by Death, Within Three Weeks.

On Tuesday, Aug. 27, Hiram W. Templin, died of Bright's disease in the 57th year of his age at his home on the corner of Sixth and Sycamore streets. He was seriously ill for about four weeks, and left a wife, four sons and a daughter sadly bereaved by his death.

Mr. Templin was an exemplary Christian and a valued employee of the Scott Press Works. He was a quiet, unassuming man and highly esteemed by all who knew him, because of the upright life he lived during his residence of nearly two years among the citizens of Plainfield.

On Aug., 29, his remains were taken to Doylestown, Pa., his former home, for interment in the family plot. Today the body of one of the sons who survived him was also taken to the same place and placed beside that of the father.

Elmer E. Templin, son of Hiram Templin, was taken sick with typhoid malaria just a week before his father's death. He died last Saturday aged 27 years. He leaves a wife but no children. He was an employee of the Pond Machine Tool Company.

The Work of Mrs. Ellis.

(Contributed.)

The ladies of the Plainfield Woman's Christian Temperance Union, have been encourged and enthused by the presence and earnest words of Mrs. J. T. Ellis. During the week that Mrs. Ellis was with us, she addressed three evening meetings, including and beginning with the anniversary exercises held in the First Presbyterian church, on Thursday, Sept. 5.

Three delightful parlor meetings were held in private houses—invitations having been sent to between five and six hundred ladies. Music and light refreshments added to the attractiveness and sociability of these gatherings, and all present were interested in and touched by the inspired words of the speaker.

Many were enlightened as to the magnitude and breadth of the work which this band of two hundred and fifty thousand white ribbon women is striving to do; many were impressed with the horrors of intemperance and the prevalence of the evil among women in high life, and all felt anew the responsibilities of motherhood.

Mrs. Ellis is not a stranger in our city, and the good work she has done here will not be forgotten.

At Reform Hall.

There was a fair attendance in Reform Hall last evening. Vice President Harper occupied the chair, Mr. J. B. Cleaver conducted the devotional services, and the full choir of Mr. Vanderbeek's furnished, as usual, the finest of music.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Cleaver, who in his usual forcible manner antagonized liquor selling and liquor drinking as the destroyers of both body and soul, and argued that if the liquor traffic was a good thing there was no need of regulating it, but if bad and destructive, the only proper course was to wipe it out of existence. He showed by pointed illustrations the absurdity of licensing evil for the sake of revenue, and concluded by declaring his own position to be—Firstly, a prohibitory law unto himself as an individual; secondly, to endeavor to influence others to do likewise; and thirdly, to educate public sentiment up to the enforcing standard of right duty. His remarks were received with great interest.

The Late Geo. Townley's Funeral.

The last sad rites following the tragic death of the late George W. Townley, who committed suicide on Thursday, took place from the deceased's late residence on Grand View avenue, North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon at two o'clock; Rev. C. B. Mitchell officiating. The house and yard adjoining were filled with sympathetic friends of the family. The pall-bearers were all members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member.

At the grave the service was conducted by the Odd Fellows, who were present in a body.

A singular incident happened at the grave. The late rain has so thoroughly soaked the ground that the sides of the grave caved in, when the body was about to be lowered into it, and it became necessary to excavate a considerable quantity of earth before the closing scenes were enacted.

Washingtonville News.

The recent heavy rains and high winds have caused heavy losses to peach growers throughout this part of the State, as most of the late kinds, such as Crawford's late and "Rare Ripe" were still on the trees before the storm. The ground is literally covered with the finest of fruit, which will be a total loss to the peach growers, as they cannot be placed on the market in their inferior condition.

Robbers at Evona.

The residence of Mr. Henry Williams of Evona, was entered by some person or persons unknown, during last night, and robbed of a considerable quantity of eatables, etc. Entrance to the place was effected through the cellar, the entire contents of which, consisting of canned fruits, green vegetables, potatoes, etc., were stolen.

Canine Restaurant.

A Treat of Mirth and Music.

Primrose & West's minstrels opened to a packed and delighted audience at Taylor Opera House in Trenton, Saturday night. The Trenton papers speak of them in glowing terms of praise and say that the Crystal first part, with its splendid scenic effects and gorgeous costumes presented a picture of exceptional beauty. They say that Primrose & West never appeared to better advantage and that the graceful evolutions in dancing creations by the gifted Barney Fagan gave unbounded delight.

The special features by Barber, "the Wizzard of the Wheel;" the original "big four," Powers and Lemack, Hurley and VanAucken, and a list of other novelties too long to mention, added to the music rendered by such renowned artists as Raymond Moore, Fox Samuels, Fred Oakland, Joseph Natus, Thomas Dixon, Charles Noble, Ernest Sinclair and others, and the incomparable funny things by George Primrose and Bob Slavin, made the evening from the rising of the curtain to the going down thereof, one of exquisite pleasure. New jokes, sensational novelties and artists of exceptional merit are seen and heard during the whole entertainment. The company will be at Stillman Music Hall, to-night.

State Weather Report.

The State Weather Bureau at New Brunswick has issued its report of the August weather, in which it says:

The mean temperature for August, 1889, 69.6 degrees, is 2.4 degrees below the normal for the month, and 2.9 degrees below the average for the corresponding month of 1888. The warmest days of the month were the 2d, 8th, 9th, 20th and 21st, when temperatures ranging from 84.0 to 95.0 degrees were recorded. The coolest days were the 12th, 13th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 27th, 28th and 30th, the temperature ranging between 45.0 and 58.0 degrees.

The average precipitation for the State, 5.18 inches, is 0.44 inches above the normal and 0.95 inches below the average for the corresponding month of 1888. One station reports a total exceeding nine inches, four exceeding seven inches, two exceeding six inches, nine exceeeding five inches, nine exceeding four inches, four exceeding three inchches, and one exceeding one inch.

All the Big Guns Will Be There.

Today the State Fair opens at Waverly, and it will continue up to and including Friday. The managers expect to have many of the most distinguished men of the State and of the country as guests. Among those confidently expected to be present are Secretary Rusk, of the Department of Agriculture; Vice President Levi P. Morton, ex-President Grover Cleveland, Gov. David B. Hill, of New York; Gov. Green, United States Senators McPherson and Blodgett, ex-Gov. Leon Abbett, the Democratic candidate for the Governorship, and also the Republican candidate who will be selected to-morrow. These would form a brilliant galaxy of statesmen to be stared at and admired on President's Hill by the multitudes who flock to the fair on Thursday, politicians day.

A Question for Mr. Cleaver.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Mr. Cleaver discoursed upon the "few that will be saved," to his people at Reform Hall, yesterday, and his conclusion seemed to disparage our confidence in John's Revelation—"a great multitude which no man could number." They are before the throne of God and serve Him day and night. Will Mr. Cleaver tell us what he knows about the baptism of these?

Truly,

TRUTH.

Middlesex County Freeholders.

The Board of Chosen Freeholders of Middlesex county met at Dunellen on Saturday to decide whether or not a new bridge shall be erected at that place. The bridge is in a very dilapidated condition, and it is the opinion of many that a new bridge will be ordered. The new structure will cost from $5,000 to $6,000, and certain members of the Board claim that they can hardly afford that outlay at the present time.

Sunday Luck.

Arthur Giles, yesterday, secured a German carp from New Market Lake, that weighed 10½ pounds, and was 28 inches long.

Oh! For a Street Railway!

There will be a meeting of citizens at the Association Rooms over the City National Bank, East Front street, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of conferring together in reference to the Daft Electric Street Railway.

F. W. Childs of New York, a man of experience in street railroad affairs, will be present to explain the necessary steps to effect a good working incorporation. Mr. Daft will explain in detail the proposed method of working, and will exhibit a sample of the track, with models and drawings.

Training Class Conference To-night.

An opportunity will be afforded at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening at nine o'clock, to all young men who wish either to be enrolled a member of one of the Workers' Training classes of the Association, or to obtain information in regard to conduct of such classes. Sunday school Superintendents and teachers are especially invited.

—Young People's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church. Visitors are always welcome.

Sullivan and Muldoon to Travel Separately

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—John L. Sullivan started for Boston last night with his father. He will remain in that city until Wednesday night when he will return to New York to complete the details for the sparring exhibition he intends to give in Brooklyn next Monday evening. In the latter part of the month he will go West as far as Denver giving exhibitions in all the principal cities on the route. It has been decided that Muldoon will run a show of his own and in the future Sullivan says that he will look after his own interests. What the reason for this rupture between himself and Muldoon is the big fellow refuses to state.

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs. 53 from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the brea.. material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

ONLY A SKIRMISH.

London Workmen Hold a Monster Demonstration.

A GREAT OVATION TO BURNS.

He Declared that the Strike Just Ended Was Only a Preliminary Skirmish.

A Federation of Labor to Be Organized Throughout England—London Newspaper Men Hunting for "Jack the Ripper—Smith to Fight Slavin and Box Jackson—Edison to Visit the Emperor and Bismarck—Davitt's Strong Language.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The workmen of London held a monster demonstration at Hyde Park, yesterday afternoon, to celebrate the victory of the dock laborers in finally securing from the dock directors almost every concession for which they contended during the heroic struggle of the past month.

John Burns was, of course, the chief speaker, and when he arose to address the audience from one of the numerous stands which had been erected in different parts of the park, he was greeted with deafening cheers, and so great was the enthusiasm of those present that for fully five minutes Mr. Burns was compelled to stand, hat in hand, bowing to the right and to the left of him in acknowledgement of the unceasing ovation, but unable to utter a syllable for the deafening shouts which rent the air. When from sheer exhaustion the men desisted and a measure of quiet was restored, Burns delivered what was evidently a carefully prepared speech showing more than ordinary thought and study.

He declared that the strike now so happily concluded was only a preliminary skirmish with which was opened the great battle yet to come. A Federation of Labor would forthwith be organized throughout England and when this work was once completed, the war would be carried into Africa. The thanks of the whole civilized world, he said, were due to the generous contributions to the strikers' relief fund and the victory of the men was in no small measure due to their timely aid. Every penny of the fund he said would be accounted for by the East End unions under whose direction it has been distributed.

THE WHITECHAPEL MURDERER.

Detectives of London Newspaper Offices Looking for "Jack the Ripper."

LONDON, Sept. 16.—In spite of all probabilities the belief obtains among the lower classes, as well as in the minds of many others, that the mutilated body found in the Cable street archway must be added to the list of "Jack the Ripper's" victims. Certain London and provincial journals have kept men detailed in the Whitechapel district for months past in hopes of discovering the fiendish murderer who has added a distinctive name and method to the history of the crime, but notwithstanding their watching night after night their efforts have as yet been of no avail.

Each one of them has a different theory, and, if the wretch is finally caught or definitely ceases his murderous work, the story of their labors, their suspicions and their baffled hopes would be really interesting reading if they could be induced to put aside wounded vanity and relate their true experiences.

The police detest these amateur detectives, refuse them any information and throw every obstacle in their way. Their most haunting fear is that these impertinent intruders upon their sphere of action may really discover something, with the obvious result of covering them with discomfiture, depreciating their reputation below even its present status and making their stupidity a jest and byword. They already bear the press no good will on account of the sarcastic remarks lavished upon their lack of shrewdness and energy, and here are, unfortunately, no signs of a better understanding.

The dailies appear to agree that the last case does not look like "Jack the Ripper's" handiwork, and they might even go further and say that there is no evidence of a murder having taken place at all. An anatomist might have desired some portions of the body and got rid of the rest in the easiest manner possible.

Of course, the prophets, fortune tellers and "mind readers" are reminding their little circles of admirers that they foretold another murder some time since, and some of the believers in this class of frauds have rushed into print with their sudden awakened recollections of such prognostications.

Was He Promised Immunity?

DUBLIN, Sept. 16.—The "Freeman" publishes a letter from Patrick Delaney, now serving a term of life imprisonment in the Maryborough prison, addressed to a prominent official of Dublin Castle. Delaney was sentenced to death for complicity in the Phoenix Park murder, but Earl Spencer, when Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, commuted his sentence to imprisonment for life. He was brought before the Parnell Commission last January to give testimony for the "Times" and in the letter published he piteously implores the official addressed to obtain his release from imprisonment as a reward for his evidence, intimating that promises of a recognition of his services that amount to immunity from further penal servitude were made as an inducement for him to testify.

Davitt Calls Them Cowards.

DUBLIN, Sept. 16.—Michael Davitt writes to the "Freeman's Journal" severely condemning the attitude of some of the speakers at the recent fortnightly meeting of the National League on Mr. Balfour's Irish University scheme. Mr. Davitt accuses these gentlemen of begging the whole question in true grandmotherly style, instead of opposing the scheme, as they should, or honestly admitting their preference for it if they are content with chaff instead of substance.

The Irish University Bill.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The "Irish Catholic" publishes an alleged forecast of the Government's Irish University bill. According to this the Royal University will not be abolished, but its establishment will be largely reduced. The Queen's College at Belfast will be maintained and will be empowered to confer degrees. The endowment of the new University will be partially met by the extinction of the Queen's College at Cork and Galway and a retrenchment in the Royal University's allowance.

CATHOLIC PROGRESS.

Cardinal Gibbons Speaks on the Growth of the Church in this Country.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The laying of the corner stone of the new St. Peter's (Catholic) Church yesterday was attended by elaborate ceremonies. It was preceded by a parade of Catholic societies in uniform, the procession being an imposing affair. The music was furnished by the marine band and a chorus of 100 voices. Contractor Donnelly laid the corner stone. An address was delivered by Cardinal Gibbons, who said:

"When Bishop Carroll was consecrated in 1790 the whole United States contained not quite 4,000,000 inhabitants. The Catholic population was then estimated at about 40,000 souls, including a small but heroic band of missionary priests, chiefly, if not exclusively belonging to the Society of Jesus. Churches there were none in those days, unless we are to designate by that title the modest houses of worship which were erected for the accommodation of the faithful. Hospitals there were none, absolutely none. There was but one seat of learning for the Catholic ministry throughout the length and breadth of the United States, and that was Georgetown College, just then foun d ed. Thanks, brethren, to the overruling Providence, and to the blessings which God has thrown upon our country, and to the beneficence and inviting character of our civil and political institutions, the United States now contains a population of 65,000,000 of inhabitants, and thanks to the fructifying influence of the holy spirit, we can count to-day a Catholic population in the United States of 9,000,000 inhabitants.

"We have 8,000 clergymen ministering to the faithful; 10,000 churches and chapels. We have 650 colleges and academies for the higher education of the youth of both sexes, and we have several hundred asylums and hospitals for the moral, mental and spiritual maintenance of the youth of both sexes and for the alleviation of every phase of suffering mankind.

"I rejoice in the growth and progress of the Catholic religion, because I am convinced that the growth of the Catholic faith in this country will more than any other means promote the welfare and stability of our American institutions."

A GIGANTIC SYNDICATE.

American Brewers Form a Combination Against the English Syndicate.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 16.—The American brewers have projected a gigantic syndicate or pool to protect themselves against the encroachments of the English beer syndicate.

Mr. Charles Merkel, of New York, vice-president of the Kraus-Merkel Malting Company, is now in this city attending a meeting of the directors of that organization. In an interview, he said: "There will be formed a gigantic stock company that will buy up or control the more important breweries of the country. Its capital stock will be $100,000,000. The brewers of St. Louis have already organized to this end, and are ready to join the combine. The important brewing centres, New York, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, New Orleans and Kansas City, will be visited and brought into the scheme."

Captain Fred Pabst, president of the Pabst Brewing Company, August Wihleim, of the Schlitz Company, Valentine Blatz and other brewers of this city have expressed themselves in favor of the projected combine.

GLASS WORKS START UP.

Chambers & McKee the Only Firm to Sign the Workers' Scale.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—This morning at one o'clock, the second tank of the window-glass works of Chambers & McKee, at Jeannette, Westmoreland county, started up and the entire factory is now running. This is the only window-glass house in the western district that has signed the workers' scale and the only one running so far. The establishment employs now about 1,500 men, and is the largest window-glass works in the world. The annual production of the firm will amount to 500,000 boxes of window glass per year, which is one-sixth of the entire production of this country and about one-eighth of the total amount of window-glass used in this country. The weekly pay roll of the firm amounts at present to $30,000.

Suicide of Charles Alexander.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Charles Alexander, aged about sixty-five, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens of Walton, Delaware county, committed suicide at that place last night. He was temporarily insane from worry over the estate of Horace Hill, of which he was assignee. Mr. Alexander was a well-known horseman.

Major Warner Still Undecided.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Major Warner has not yet decided whether he will accept the position of Commissioner of Pensions. Private Secretary Halford will go to Deer Park to-morrow, and will probably take with him to the President Major Warner's answer.

Destructive Fire in Methuen, Mass.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 16.—The barn of A. L. Welton, a milkman, in Methuen, was burned last night, with thirty tons of hay, two horses, four cows and a large amount of farming tools and stock. A two story house adjoining it was also burned. Total loss $6,500.

Indianapolis Has a Candidate.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—The Grand Army veterans of Indianapolis have started a boom for Gen. Knefler for Pension Commissioner to succeed Corporal Tanner, and a petition will be forwarded to Washington at once, urging his appointment.

Edison in Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—Mr. Edison has gone to Heidelberg for a brief stay. He will return here before the close of the week to exhibit his phonograph to Emperor William, Prince Bismarck and Count von Moltke.

Smith and Slavin to Fight.

LONDON, Sept. 16. — Arrangements have been made for a fight between Jem Smith and Slavin, the Australian champion, for $2,000. Smith will also box with Jackson, the negro pugilist, ten rounds for $5,000.

Annual Parade of Firemen.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 16.—This afternoon the Paterson Fire Department held its annual parade, and it was a brilliant affair. A large number of visiting fire-engine companies participated in the celebration.

DOWN THROUGH THE ICE.

Horrible Fate of Three Horse-Thieves and Their Slayer.

The Mysterious Disappearance of a Nebraska Man Explained After Thirty-Five Years—Startling Confession of a Dying Man.

The following narration, which was fully vouched for by Rev. Mr. Gassman, was written for the San Francisco Examiner from facts furnished by him:

In 1854, in Brownville, Neb., a man named George Tract, who was a commission merchant on a small scale, mysteriously disappeared.

There was no clew whatever as to his fate, and the idea was general that he was in some way disposed of at the same time that three horse-thieves were put out of the way by a vigilance committee.

His wife stated that he had gone out that evening at seven o'clock, saying that he might not return until late. This was the last ever seen of him.

Another queer circumstance was the fact that the three horse-thieves who were taken from the jail the same night that Tract disappeared were never heard of again. It was an old custom in Nebraska to string such people up to a tree, with a placard attached to their persons, but on this occasion all trace of them was wiped out. The sheriff said a gang of masked men had taken them from the jail, and that was the last of his knowledge of them. It was not customary for a sheriff to follow lynching parties in Nebraska in those lawless days.

The disappearance of Tract was a source of wonderment for years, but the secret of his death appeared to have perished with him.

Residents of Brownville, Neb., will, on reading this article, realize for the first time what became of Tract, and several parties who were with him on that fatal night and saw him die will recognize the truth of this narration. Lest some of them might feel troubled at the revelations made here, they can feel assured that while the facts are given truthfully the names of the parties who know all about Tract's death are in the possession now of no living person. The truth of the story is as follows:

The night of December 2, 1854, three horse-thieves were taken from the rude log jail at Brownville, Neb., and put to death under peculiar circumstances. They were thrust through a hole in the ice by a party of masked men, most of whom are yet alive. One of the men who was drowned was a murderer, and the other two were horse-thieves and regular desperadoes. A parishioner of Rev. Lawrence Gassman made the following statement on his death-bed:

"I helped to drown them, and it was such an awful thing that it has haunted me ever since. We took them handcuffed from the jail at Brownville, and about two o'clock in the morning led them to the river. It was winter, and the ice was a foot thick and full of air-holes.

"The poor fellows never suspected the awful fate in store for them until we reached a place in the middle of the river, where there was an air-hole about ten feet across.

"We set the lanterns down alongside the hole, and then, for the first time, they realized what they were there for.

"We told them to kneel by the brink and pray, if they wanted to. One knelt and the other two began to struggle, but it was no use; they were bound and handcuffed, and we dragged them to the edge where the other was kneeling. He clasped his manacled hands at the edge of the ice, and then, lifting them above his head, asked the curse of Heaven on us all.

"Around him stood a determined group, and below the dark, rushing water, where the swift, swishing currents of the river sped beneath us.

"Some of the crowd began to weaken, but the majority were determined, and, as the poor fellow was calling down the curse upon us, some one hit him alongside the head with the butt of a revolver, and he fell on his side stunned. They pushed him in, and he disappeared in a second.

"The other two men were then pushed struggling over the edge of the ice. They fought as desperately as men can who were handcuffed. One of them got his teeth in one of his captor's clothes, and when they wrenched his head away two teeth came out.

"They were pushed into the water, but they held on to the edge of the ice with their manacled hands, cursing and blaspheming horribly.

"One man stamped on these hands with the heel of his boot until he mashed the fingers to pieces, and, while he was doing it, the other man, still in the water, suddenly caught his foot, and, before any one knew what was being done, his other foot slipped and he was in the hole.

"Both men let go the ice then and grabbed him. A dozen hands were stretched over the hole to rescue the poor fellow, but the others held him with their teeth and manacled hands. Before this they were trying to keep their bodies as far out of the water as possible to keep from the resistless current, but the instant they got their victim they sank as far as they could.

"It was a terrible scene. We beat on their faces with our revolvers to make them let go, but they had the death grip, and the current, which was running like a mill-race, sucked the three struggling men under and we had to let go to save ourselves.

"Two or three hands that held the man we were trying to rescue let go, and the additional strain was too much for the rest, and they had to loosen their grip also, and the three disappeared together.

"The name of the man we tried to rescue was George Tract. No one cared to investigate the antecedents of the men taken from the jail, but the disappearance of the other man was the talk of the town for a long time.

"It was a terrible mystery, and those who knew never breathed a word.

"I am dying and want to tell some one before I go that the mystery surrounding the disappearance of George Tract may be cleared up. He had no friends outside of his relatives to mourn his loss, and was so brutal in stamping on those poor fellows' hands that it seemed like justice to have him die with the others."

Our Duty to the Indian.

According to the Carlisle (Pa.) Red Man, the highest duty of the Nation to the Indians requires that the Nation shall create means to make the Indians acquainted with the people of this country, its resources, and the demands of good citizenship in it. Also, that the Nation shall use methods in dealing with the Indians which will enable the people to become acquainted with and friendly and helpful to the Indians, to the end that all may unite and work together for the common good. Schemes of management that hinder or prohibit these ends are wicked to the Indians, and enemies of the Nation, no matter under what guise they operate. Both schools and churches may be so used as to keep the Indians Indians, and thus defeat the high purposes of the Nation.

TONY ON HIS TRAVELS.

A Dog That Passes Most of His Time on the Mail Cars.

There passed through Brattleboro, Vt., the other day a pretty little dog who has seen a good deal more of the world than most dogs of his age, writes a New York Times correspondent. His name is Tony, and those who ask whose little dog he is are informed that his master is the postmaster at Albany, N. Y. Tony is a Skye terrier, and is as pretty as he is intelligent, and curious about the world.

The mail clerks at the Albany post-office early conceived a liking for Tony, who for a morning constitutional used to walk with his master to the office. He liked them, too, and took great joy in watching them sort the mail and lock the bags. Soon he began to follow the mail wagons to the trains, and not long after he followed the bags into the mail car. One day he was found comfortably seated on the topmost bag; one of the clerks shared his dinner with him, and the dog rode on to Boston over the Boston & Albany. When the mail was taken out he betook himself to the baggage-room and waited for a train back, smuggling into the mail car again and again sharing lunch with the clerks. He rode back to Albany, but the next week was found in another mail car, and soon he began to spend most of his time "on the road." He did not always go to Boston. Sometimes he went to Springfield, and more often he tired of traveling and left at the smaller stations. He became known by all the clerks on the road, and lived in comparative luxury during his trips.

After leaving the car he always stayed around the station till a return train pulled in, and then made for the mail car if it had one. Sometimes he got off on a branch road, and then he would be gone for weeks before he would find his way back to the Boston & Albany line. On the present trip he had been gone three weeks. At Springfield he got on a Connecticut River train, and by the time he reached Brattleboro he had discovered his mistake and jumped after the mail when it was tossed from the car. He waited about the station all the morning, and then boarded a northern train and went to Bellows Falls; found there that he was still going away from home, and came back again. For two days he rode about on different trains, and then he fell in with a mail clerk who had known him on the Boston & Albany and who put him off at Palmer, gave him a good square meal and started him toward home.

Tony, who spends about five-sixths of his time on the road, is sometimes known as the Wandering Jew.

DOMESTIC ANIMALS.

Ancestry of the Ass, the Cat, the Horse and the Goose.

In studying zoological distribution the range of the domestic animals is not to be taken into consideration, for man has been so long engaged in scattering them over the world that it is now impossible to trace their original homes. Indeed, any attempt to assign them to wild progenitors must to a large extent be simply guesswork. The tame cattle of our farmyards and fields may perhaps be sprung from the urus and other wild oxen which at one time roamed through the vast forests of Europe, and the sty-living pig from the fierce wild boars which still hold their own in many parts of the continent and in the thickets of northern Africa. In like manner the cat is supposed to be descended from a Persian ancestor, and the various dogs of different barbarous tribes can with some confidence be considered merely the tamed wolves, foxes, or jackals of the regions which they inhabit.

The ass is evidently a civilized form of the wild-ass of Abyssinia, but it is doubtful whether we have yet made any progress in the search after the progenitors of the horse and the camel. No doubt a so-called wild horse has been found in Central Asia, and wild camels are not unfrequent in the same region. But whether these animals are not tame species which have escaped from domestication long ago and re-established their freedom is a question to which a favorable answer might quite as readily be given as to the contrary thesis. The turkey, it is certain, came from America; the peacock is an Indian bird and the guinea fowl was originally from Africa.

The domestic goose is regarded as descended from the graylag or common wild goose, though all the species are capable of domestication, while the duck in our ponds is in its wild state known as the mallard. But the domestic fowl has been so long a servant of man that it is now mere speculation to attempt to assign to its progenitor any exact home, the Bankiva fowl of Java and other islands of Malaysia having no better claim to this distinction than the jungle fowl of India, which for a time was proclaimed as the barbarous ancestor of the barnyard hen. Much the same remarks may be made regarding the honey bee, the silk-worm and the Mexican cochineal. For though they have all been traced to wild forms they have been kept so long under the control of man that their exact origin is either lost or at best doubtful.

FIVE SNAKE TALES.

All of Them Should Be Taken with a Grain or Two of Salt.

Here are a few snake stories from the Pittsburgh Dispatch: Misses Mollie and Minnie Madison, of Hillsdale, Pa., a few days ago exterminated a rattler four feet in length. A curious coincidence is that they killed the same kind of snake at the same place and of the same length last year.

A few days ago one of the Ford negroes in Worth County, Ga., killed a huge rattlesnake, which, upon being examined, sported sixteen rattles, measured 7½ feet in length, 3½ inches between the eyes, and when the skin was prepared to be stuffed it held over a peck and a half of sawdust.

A few days ago Miss Susie Gourley, living a few miles south of Bartley, Neb., found a large rattlesnake on the prairie. Finding no stick or stone she took off her shoe and threw it at the reptile several times. As she picked up her shoe the snake struck her on the hand, biting her glove but inflicting no injury. The girl then jumped on the snake's head and stamped it to death.

John Seren, of Derry Township, Westmoreland County, while mowing grass in his meadow the other day, noticed a blacksnake protruding his head far above the grass. Mr. S. kept his eye on the serpent nearly all the forenoon, but missing him after awhile, he began to wonder where the reptile had gone, when lo! his mowing machine came to a standstill, and on his making examination as to the cause, he discovered the huge blacksnake twined around the cutter bar, stopping the motion.

On Tuesday afternoon, says the Altoona Times, when one of the inoffensive postal clerks went to put a package in the post-office box of Andrew Todd, he was horrified to see the head of a snake sticking out of the box and slyly trying to flirt with him with his tongue. He, of course, made a hasty retreat and summoned the rest of the force to the scene. After considerable maneuvering with ropes and grapnels, the reptile was at last gotten to the floor, where one of the clerks succeeded in crushing it with his foot. The snake was fifteen inches in length, and it is said that the executioner covered its entire length with his foot. These are facts.

To Wed Secretary Blaine's Daughter.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 16.—There is a rumor that Mr. Walker J. Damrosch, son of the late Dr. Lepold Damrosch, the celebrated musician and composer, is engaged to Miss Margaret Blaine, second daughter of Secretary Blaine. Mr. Damrosch was a guest of Secretary Blaine at his Bar Harbor cottage in mid-summer, and last week he was there again in company with Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

A Banquet to Hon. Leon Abbett.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 16.—A banquet will be given the Democratic nominee for Governor, Leon Abbett, by the Joel Parker Association at Saenger Hall tomorrow evening. Among the well-known people who will attend are Governor R. S. Green, Senator McPherson, Attorney-General John P. Stockton, Senator Werts, Mayor Cleveland of Jersey City, B. F. Lee of Trenton, and Mayor Grant of New York.

Millions for American Heirs.

MARSHALL, Mo., Sept. 16.—The Fisher estate in Germany, amounting to $51,000,000, it seems is now ready for distribution. T. J. Doke, who lives near Herndon, has just received a letter conveying the welcome news that the property has been secured and an advertisement published calling on the heirs to come forward and prove their identity and get their money. There are about twenty-one heirs in this country.

Trotting at Dundee Lake Track.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 16.—The Northern New Jersey Fair Association will hold its annual fair at the new grounds, near Dundee Lake, Oct. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19. The principal feature will be the trotting races, which will take place on the mile track. Entries will close Tuesday, Oct. 1.

An Old Chestnut Revived.

An old preacher after service one Sunday, announced his reading for the following Sunday. During the week some mischievous boys obtained his Bible and pasted two of the leaves together, right where he was to read. Sunday morning coming, the aged divine opened his book and read as follows: "And Noah took unto himself a wife who was"—and here he turned the leaf—"forty cubits broad, one hundred and forty cubits long." With a look of astonishment he wiped his glasses, re-read and verified the passage, and then said: "My friends, although I have read the Bible many times, this is the first time I have ever seen this passage, but I take it as another evidence of the fact that man is most fearfully and wonderfully made."

THE LECONY MURDER

The Dead Girl's Uncle Placed Under Arrest.

BLOOD STAINS ON HIS CLOTHING

The Woman Whom He Employed to Clean It Also Arrested.

His Requisition Asked for from Ohio—A Strong Suspicion that He Murdered the Girl—The Hired Man Says that Leconey Killed Her—His Arrest Effected While Attending the Girl's Funeral—The Motive for the Crime.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 17.—As soon as he had learned that Chalkey Leconey had been arrested in Waverly, Ohio, charged with the murder of his niece Annie, in accordance with his request, Prosecutor Wm. Jenkins, telegraphed to Governor Green at Trenton, applying for requisition papers to bring Leconey back. It is expected that the requisition papers will arrive at Camden within forty-eight hours, when an officer will be despatched to Waverly to secure the custody of Leconey.

Garret Murray, Leconey's hired farm hand, told Prosecutor Jenkins that he accompanied Leconey to the house just before the murder. Murray says that Leconey went into the house and a few minutes later he heard groans from within.

Soon after this Murray says he went away. Later he was met by Leconey and William Smith, who threatened to fasten the crime on Murray if he attempted to squal.

It has now leaked out that Chalkey Leconey was suspected soon after the crime was committed, and that he was constantly watched by detectives up to the time of his arrest.

One of the strongest links in the circumstantial evidence against Leconey is the discovery of his blood-stained clothing, which were found in the possession of Bridget Smith, a washerwoman. The latter has been placed under arrest. He gave her the bloody garments soon after the murder was committed, and, it is alleged, told her to wash them and not to say anything about the matter to any one, and that he would pay her well for her work.

There is much speculation as to the motive for the crime. When the murder was first discovered it was the common belief that Annie Leconey had been the victim of a horrible crime before she was killed. This feeling led to the arrest of the negro, Frank Lingo.

The theory of many is that Leconey and his niece had not been on the best of terms on account of trouble over the property of Leconey's dead brother Richard. It appears that Richard left the larger portion of his property to Annie Leconey, which caused Chalkey to entertain resentment toward her. Those who entertain this theory believe that the bitter family feud ended at the breakfast table.

Annie Leconey's Funeral.

WAVERLY, Ohio, Sept. 17.—The funeral of Annie Le Coney, who was murdered at Merchantville, N. J., last week, took place here yesterday. Her uncle, Chalkley Le Coney, accused of her murder, attended in the custody of an officer and seemed to be greatly affected. He stated to some of his friends yesterday that he would return without the necessary requisition papers.

EVA INDICTED.

Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton Will Plead To-Day for Atrocious Assault.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 17.—The Grand Jury indicted Mrs. Evangeline Hamilton for atrocious assault upon Nurse Donnelly.

Officer Biddle, of the Atlantic City police force, who arrested Mrs. Hamilton at the time of the cutting, was the only witness who appeared before the Grand Jury. He told his version of the arrest, and exhibited the clothing of both Hamilton and the nurse, in which there were several knife-cuts. The testimony of the other witnesses was read from their sworn statements.

Robert Ray Hamilton did not enter the Court House at all. One of his companions was Edward Vallmer, the young man who came to Atlantic City after his personal effects. It was stated this morning that Mrs. Hamilton would in all probability be called up to plead at to-day's session.

Josh Mann and His Mother Indicted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Grand Jury examined the witnesses and papers in the Hamilton case and afterwards found two indictments, one for grand larceny and the other for conspiracy, against the trio—Mrs. Swinton, Josh Mann and Eva Hamilton. The indictments were handed to the court in Part I. of General Sessions, and Mrs. Swinton and Mann were called upon and pleaded not guilty.

An Alleged Poisoner Called for Trial.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 17.—The case of Mary Glynn, of Pittston, who is accused of poisoning her mother, Mrs. Mary Creghan, of Scranton, and also being implicated in poisoning her father-in-law and her mother-in-law, was called for trial in the criminal court here. It is alleged that the three victims were murdered by Mrs. Glynn and her husband, Edward, in order that they might obtain the insurance placed upon their lives. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until next week.

The Telegraph Operator's Negligence.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The coroner's jury investigating the causes which led to the recent collision on the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad, which resulted in the death of Engineer Jamieson, found a verdict to the effect that the collision and Jamieson's death were due to the negligence of E. H. Kramer, the telegraph operator. Kramer was held for the action of the grand jury.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.

Joseph Hillman Before the Court at Woodbury, N. J., for Killing a Peddler.

WOODBURY, N. J., Sept. 17.—This pretty little town is the focus of attraction just now for a large proportion of the male population of Gloucester County, general curiosity and interest being excited by the opening of the trial of Joseph Hillman, the accused murderer of Herman Seideman, the Philadelphia peddler.

The sensational incidents of the crime are still as fresh in the public mind as though it had been six weeks since their development instead of six months; how the body of the peddler, mangled and putrefying, was found floating in a slimy pond near Turnerville, Gloucester County; how after two days of sensational surmise and mystery the body was finally identified as that of Seideman, and how the net of evidence was woven, mesh by mesh, which finally landed young Hillman behind the bars of the Woodbury jail on the charge of committing the murder.

The vividness of all these incidents, coupled with the more than usual uncertainty which prevails in the public mind as to the guilt or innocence of the accused prisoner, serves to make the trial one of the most crowded, as concerns outside attendance, that has ever been known in Gloucester county.

Seven witesses for the prosecution were examined yesterday and to-day. It is expected that the trial will last for fully two weeks, as none of the witnesses for the defense have been summoned to appear before next Thursday.

Stabbed Thirteen Times and Still Alive.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 17.—A dispatch from Mexico, Oswego County, says: Captain Boyd, proprietor of the Boyd House, and a man named Hayes of Little Falls, a manufacturer of piano sounding boards, after playing billiards in the hotel quarreled. Captain Boyd stabbed Hayes thirteen times about the head and body. Hayes staggered to his room and locked the door. Friends burst in a window and bandaged his wounds. Last night his case was considered hopeless. This morning he is a little better. No arrests.

Mysterious Suicide.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Sept. 17.—Della Walker, aged 19 years, committed suicide by drowning at Langdon, N. H. She was a beautiful and accomplished girl, and the cause of her suicide was a mystery. She was an intimate friend of Mrs. Skinner, of Keene, and Miss Walker, of Springfield, Vt., both of whom suicided last winter. All three attended the Vermont Academy together.

Gen. Faulkner on Trial Again.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The United States District Court now convened in this city promises to be one of the longest and most important sessions held in some time. The principal case is that of Gen. Faulkner, charged with conspiracy to break the Dansville Bank. The case was called the first thing this morning. There are between 40 and 50 men subpœnaed on the part of the Government, among them being Hon. Roswell P. Flower.

Railroad Officials Indicted.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 17.—It is rumored here that General Ripley, president of the Raritan River Railroad; W. Hendrickson, agent; Thos. Hussey, contractor, and Wm. Fisher, the brickmaker of Sayreville, have been indicted for murder or account of the riot at Sayreville last spring by which a man was killed.

The Senate Committee in Massachusetts.

CONCORD, Mass., Sept. 17.—Senators Hoar, Pugh, Butler and Eustis, of the Committee on Relations with Canada, yesterday visited Cambridge, Watertown, Lexington and Concord. They dined at Concord, where they were the guests of Judge E. R. Hoar, and returned to Boston late last evening.

Warner Will Not Accept.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Major Warner, it is understood, has arrived at the concluded that he cannot afford to accept the office of Pension Commissioner. It is now among the possibilities that Judge Rae, of Minnesota, or Gen. Fairchild, of Wisconsin, will be selected to succeed Commissioner Tanner.

The Inter-State Fair at Elmira.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—On account of the unfavorable weather the attendance at the opening of the great Inter-State Fair was rather light. The prospects for a large attendance during the week are good, as the railroad companies have arranged for excursions from all directions.

A New Hampshire Paper Sued for Libel.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 17.—F. W. Hartford, a newspaper correspondent, has sued the "Evening Times" for criminal libel, alleging defamation of character. The sheriff has placed an attachment on the office. The case comes up Oct. 9.

Passenger Conductors Suspended.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—It is learned to-day that the West Shore has discharged six of its passenger conductors, four from the eastern division and two from the western. The latter are Daniel McGaughy and Edward Heiser. No cause is given.

Disappeared from Her Home.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Annie Sweet, aged 22, has disappeared from her home on West Chippewa street and her mother claims that Bert H. Halstead, engaged in the piano business, is responsible for her flight.

From Chicago, Too.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A conscience contribution of $200 in an envelope postmarked Chicago was received by Secretary Windom to-day. Accompanying it was the the following note: "This is Unkle Sam's. Put it to his Kredit."

Great Enthusiasm in New York Over the Victory—The Baseballists May Turn the Tables on Their Rivals To-Day—Yesterday an Off Day for the Association Clubs—Result of Yesterday's League and Atlantic Association Games.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Giants yesterday took the lead in the League race, and the players say they think that they will be able to hold it. They say that even if the worst happens they can only drop back a point or two, and that they will have the lead again before the finish were is reached on October 5.

A happier family never sat around a dinner table than New York's players last night. The players all feel highly elated over passing their Boston rivals.

Crowds of people visited their hotel last night and congratulated the Giants on the plucky fight they have made. Many New Yorkers were present, and the appearance of each New York player in the corridor was the signal for hearty applause.

NAGLE RELEASED.

Judge Sawyer Orders that the Deputy Marshal be Discharged.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—Judge Sawyer, in the United States Circuit Court, has rendered a decision in the habeas corpus case of Deputy Marshal Nagle, and ordered that Nagle be discharged from custody.

A bill of exceptions filed by counsel for the State was allowed by the court, and pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court Nagle was ordered released on his own recognizance, with bonds fixed at $5,000.

Tanner Wants the Recordership.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Commissioner Tanner, accompanied by Albert Daggett, of Brooklyn, called on Secretary Tracy to-day, and had a long conference. It is understood that General Tracy was importuned to use his influence with the President to appoint Mr. Tanner Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. The three were together for more than an hour and at the end of that time Mr. Tanner and Mr. Daggett went away together. The latter says that Tanner will secure the Recordership, which pays nearly $15,000 per year in fees.

Granted Alimony and Counsel Fees.

Mrs. Matilda G. Stryker, (nee Miss Tillie G. Tingley) of this city, about two years ago instituted proceedings against her husband, Wm. H. Stryker, now of Newark, for divorce, on the ground of infidelity. The case has been in the courts ever since, the last testimony having been taken in the Spring of the present year.

The testimony taken by Special Master in Chancery Blair of Jersey City, was submitted to the Chancellor, and on the 7th inst., Mrs. Stryker was granted a divorce and allowed $4 a week alimony and $50 counsel fees.

The Chimney Fell on Him.

John Case, a young man, employed by Mr. D. W. Littell, the plumber, was climbing to the roof of Mr. Littell's residence on North avenue, when a brick chimney toppled and fell over on him. The brick struck the young man on the arms and shoulders inflicting painful bruises. Today he is able to be about, although feeling quite lame from the injuries he received.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

The Committee on Water Works Recommends the Acceptance of the Proposition of Messrs Moore & Lovell For the Introduction of Water Works—Final Action Deferred.

The City Council met in adjourned session at 8:20 o'clock last evening, with all the members present except Mr. Watson. The minutes of the previous meetings of August 5th and 20th, were read, thus closing the fifth volume of the minutes of the Plainfield Council. The minutes of the regular September meeting were also read and approved.

Manager Moore, of the Electric Light Company, communicated with the Council, calling attention to the loss the company sustains by the malicious breaking of lamps and wires, and asking Council to protect the company's property. The matter was referred to the Police Committee.

Mr. Asa Collier asked for permission to erect a two story frame building with metal roof, 35x45 feet in dimensions, in the rear of the Olympia Bowling alley. Referred to the Building Committee.

Collector Johnson submitted his tax duplicate. It was referred to the Finance Committee, and later in the evening it was approved and accepted.

Mr. Marsh, from the Street Committee, submitted a modified ordinance, designating a route for the Hall Electric Pump Company to string wires for the purpose of furnishing electrical power for pumping water. The ordinance was read for the first time, and when put on its second reading the first section was lost, Messrs Dumont, Erickson, Jenkins and Marsh voting in support of it. The ordinance was then tabled.

Mr. Newhall, chairman of the Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery, made some preliminary remarks, before presenting the Committee's report on the matter of Water Works. He said among other things, that he did not want to accuse any member of the Council, but it seemed to him as though certain obstacles and influences had been undertaken to retard the Committee's progress in this important matter; one member of the Council, he said, had held an important document up to eight o'clock this evening. The Committee, he continued, have selected from among the bids, one which is in every particular, most favorable, so far as the Committee has any knowlege, and to let this opportunity go by, would be detrimental to the city's interests. The company referred to offered to supply a liberal number of fountains, and also to furnish water for churches and municipal purposes free, the rates to private consumers, Mr. Newhall said, are cheaper than those offered by any other company. He then presented the Committee's report, and accompanying resolutions as follows:

Your Committee have examined the several propositions for the construction of Water Works, referred to them on August 5, 1889, and now beg to report recommending that the proposition signed by Chas. K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell, dated Plainfield, N. J., August 5, 1889, be accepted subject to such modifications as may be required by the Common Council.

In the examination and comparison of the proposals your committee have been assisted by a comparative schedule prepared by Mr. Hering. This schedule we herewith submit for your examination.

The proposition of Messrs Moore & Lovell contemplates the laying of over 3,000 tons of 12, 10, 8, 6 and 4 inch pipe. Your committee believe the total tonnage is amply sufficient, but recommend the use of 16, 14, 12, 8 and 6 inch pipe as one of the modifications to be required.

HENRY. B. NEWHALL,
E. N. ERICKSON,
Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery.
Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 16, 1889.

Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery be received.

Resolved, That the city clerk be directed to return all certified checks received with proposals for construction of Water Works on August 5, 1889, excepting the check for $2,000 which was received from Messrs Charles K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell

Resolved, That the Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery be directed to prepare a contract in accordance with the proposition of Messrs Charles K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell, with such modifications in the interest of the city as may be deemed advisable, and to present the same for final consideration of the Common Council at the earliest practicable date, of which ten days notice shall be given, and copy of contract be placed on file with City Clerk ten days before the meeting.

Mr. Marsh said he was heartily in favor of Messrs Moore & Lovell's proposition, but he thought it best to know who was to employ the engineer; the matter, he considered, was an important one, and the people should have a voice in it. He made a motion to the effect that a further consideration of the matter be postponed until Sept. 30, and that the clerk notify the property owners by public notice that at that time they would be heard. No action was taken on the motion.

A long discussion followed, and finally the second resolution was adopted, authorizing the clerk to return all certified checks to the bidders except that of Messrs Moore & Lovell.

Mr. Marsh then moved to postpone further consideration of the first and third resolutions until the October meeting. The motion was lost.

Previous to voting on the above motion Mr. Squires took the chair, and President Dumont stated his views. He said he thought that the public sentiment was strongly in favor of the introduction of both water works and sewers. He thought the citizens should be given an opportunity to express their views as to whether or not the Council should go on and introduce water works independent of sewerage. Councilman Moffett concurred with the President.

After a lot of "rag chewing" the first and third resolutions were amended and adopted. [The resolutions as amended are published in full above.]

Mr. Erickson made a motion which prevailed, that 500 copies of the contract be printed for distribution. A resolution was also adopted by a vote of 6 to 4, authorizing the Water Committee to expend a sum not exceeding $200 for the employment of an engineer to assist in drawing up a contract.

The Salaries, Officers and Election Committee, recommended the following polling places, which were adopted:

First Ward—Peter Hoagland's express office on North avenue.

Second Ward—The Crescent building on Broadway.

Third Ward—J. J. Sharp's carriage factory on W. Sixth street.

Fourth Ward, First District—Alert Hose Company's House on Madison avenue.

Fourth Ward, Second District—North corner of Muhlenberg place and South avenue.

Certain existing vacancies in the First, Second, Third and Second District of the Fourth Ward election boards were filled.

Mr. Marsh read a letter from Mr. Leo Daft stating that owing to a delay in forming a corporation he was not prepared to apply for a franchise to-night, but he hoped to be able to do so at the next meeting.

The collector was directed to prepare an index for his tax books, and the Finance Committee was authorized to procure a book for the delinquent tax collector.

Council adjourned at 11.05.

The Finest of All Minstrel Shows.

Messrs Primrose & West's minstrels entertained, last evening, the largest audience that has crowded Music Hall in many months. The entire programme was of the best, and every act was thoroughly well rendered. The costumes were elegant, and those of Messrs Primrose, West and Slavin in the first part, were especially the handsomest ever seen on the minstrel stage.

Better singing than usual was the feature of the opening. Barney Fagan's "Promenade of the Popinjays," and "Language of Flowers," were quite new and fully equal to anything the great "producer" has yet arranged. A "few minutes" with Bob Slavin were amusing minutes, but they brought with them to the audience an acute sense of the absence of the "Only George" Thatcher. His loss was felt.

Testimonial Concert and Hop at The Netherwood.

The event of the past week at the Hotel was a complimentary benefit given the musicians of the orchestra on Saturday evening last. The handsome sum of $100 was realized and paid over to the leader of the orchestra as subscribed by the guests of the Hotel. The usual Saturday evening hop closed a week of pleasant enjoyment.

The Hotel is well filled for the season, and a solid sense of comfort pervades the atmosphere. From present indications our worthy host will record an enjoyable Fall season, and we trust a profitable one. The Hon. Randolph B. Martine and family, of New York, are at present sojourning with us. A Mean Joke.

One of the employees of the news office was made the victim of a practical joke this morning. The young man was sent out on an errand, and as he was going some distance, he was told to take possession of a horse and buggy which stood in the rear of the office. The rig belonged to Mr. D. F. Randolph, and as the unsuspecting youth drove past Mr. Randolph's shoe store on West Front street, he was hailed by that gentleman and told to return the rig where he got it, which he did.

The young man then started out to complete his errand on foot, when he was arrested by Officer McCue. After a general explanation the matter was settled.

Ladies Training Class.

The Ladies' Workers Training Class for Bible study will resume its sessions on Friday, Sept. 27, at 4 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on East Front street.

A short preliminary meeting for organization, etc., will be held on Friday Sept. 20, at 4:30 o'clock, to which all are invited.

It is hoped that many Christian ladies will avail themselves of this class during the coming season. The method and plans of study will be found very helpful to all who are engaged in Christian work of any kind. And while entirely distinct from the Sunday school lesson this study will be of advantage to the Sunday school teachers and advanced scholars.

The use of calomel for derangements of the liver has ruined many a fine constitution. Those who, for similar troubles, have tried Ayer's Pills testify to their efficacy in thoroughly remedying the malady, without injury to the system.

GRUBB THE CHOICE.

NOMINATED ON SECOND BALLOT.

The Republicans at Trenton Today, Chosing Their Candidate for Governor.

SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 17.—Trenton is alive with Jersey Republicans of every stripe and faction. General Sewell is at the headquarters of the State Committee and gives it out as his opinion that Grubb will be the nominee on the first ballot. George Halsey is not a candidate, he assures all his friends.

Nearly all the West Jersey delegates are here, and the scenes around General Grubb's apartments are exciting. Everybody is decorated with glaring red badges, reading "Our choice for Governor. Edward Burd Grubb." The General is surrounded by many prominent men.

Ex-Congressman Kean has many admirers. His devoted friend, Foster W. Voorhees, who ably led the Republican minority last Winter, is with him, and he was surrounded by many of the prominent workers of Union and Middlesex. The Magowan boom has shown evidence of having been carefully worked up, and Trenton's lively ex-Mayor accords all who call a warm welcome.

Ex-Congressman J. Hart Brewer was with him last night and is helping him. The Essex and Hudson men were in close consultation with him nearly all evening.

The outlook at the present time is that Grubb will be nominated. The platform will reiterate the position of the Republican party on the liquor question. Nearly all of the members of the State Committee express the belief that Grubb will be nominated,

Kean and Magowan were closeted for some time and it was thought that they made a deal, but both men deny it. They say they will be candidates until somebody is declared nominated.

FIGHTING ALL AROUND.

TRENTON, Sept. 17; 10 A. M.—The situation this morning is very perplexing, and it is apparently anybody's race yet. Still Gen. E. Burd Grubb's friends at the Trenton House insist that he has the call and will be nominated for Governor on the second ballot. The Grand Army men are backing him.

Ex-Mayor Frank Magowan, of Trenton, has made a big gain since last night, and his supporters are accordingly jubilant. He claims over 200 delegates.

Ex-Congressman John Kean, Jr., is working quietly, but he has Union county solid and a large following in Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson and northern counties.

Ex-Assemblyman Frank O. Cole of Hudson, will be temporary chairman, and this means a row in the Hudson delegation from the start.

Early this morning it was said that most of the weaker candidates, who are opposed to Grubb, would unite their forces on some dark horse like Congressman James Buchanan, Amzi Dood or Franklin Murphy of Newark.

It is not known, however, that either of them will accept the nomination, and then, too, there is the fear that Magowan may come to the front with his 200 votes and capture the convention.

There is also quite a tussle over the question of local option in the platform, and it is probable that it will be left out altogether.

NO CHOICE YET.

TRENTON, Sept. 17, 3 P. M.—Balloting has been going on, with no choice yet.

SEWELL'S MAN GETS IT.

TRENTON, Sept. 17, 4 P. M.—Gen. Grubb was nominated on the second ballot

Poor Somerville.

At the minstrel show, last evening, Tambourine George Primrose and Interlocutor William West, had a "talk" in which the former proposed to give modern instances to fit any romantic titles the latter would name.

"Bound to Succeed;" quoted West.

"The Plainfield Ball Nine," answered Primrose.

"Dead to the World;" said the middle man.

"The West Ends," was the answer, and Music Hall shook with applause for some minutes.

THE GREAT METROPOLIS INTERESTED.

Even the New York "Sun" Devotes its Columns to a Tale of Plainfield and Somerville's Base Ball Battle.

Sunday's New York Sun contained the following: "There are a good many things which New Jersey is proud of, and one of them is its amateur nines. There are so many of the nines which have done crack work at the bat that an attempt was made during the Summer to form a State league of professionals, but many of the clubs preferred to remain as amateurs. It was a pleasure to do a hard Saturday morning's work on the street, come down into the suburbs at 3 o'clock, and help the home club to win a smashing victory. Some of Plainfield's players are college men and some are New York business men, and all are enthusiasts at the game.

"The deadly enemy of Plainfield is Somerville, further down the line of the Jersey Central Railroad. Somerville is proud of its club, too. Last year Somerville won the pennant from Plainfield. This year it set out to do the same thing. The Somerville West Ends had for pitcher Harkins, a professional, who formerly twirled the ball for Brooklyn. Plainfield had Gately, a deaf mute and a student in the New York Institute for the Deaf and Dumb. Cadmus, the regular catcher, is a crack player in the Cornell University team. In the first game at Somerville, Plainfield had a silent battery, Gately being supported by a deaf mute chum. Both teams were fresh from victories with clubs from New York and surrounding towns. Harkins goose-egged the Plainfielders till the sixth inning, when they sent home three of their players in spite of his nimble delivery. In the next inning but one it was West End's turn, and four of their players kissed the plate amid tremendous excitement. Another run made victory for the home team certain. But Plainfield spat on its hands and proceeded to toboggan round the bases. Score, 7 to 6 for Plainfield.

"When the next battle came along Plainfield had defeated Elizabeth and Newark and wiped the dust off their ball grounds with the Tempest Club of New York. Harkins came up smiling in the box, but he had a scrub team behind him, gathered in miscellaneous lots from all over the State. Harkins was plucky, however, and led the forlorn hope to the end of the game, which resulted in 9 to 2 for Plainfield. Somerville's opponents, however, generously agreed to call it a practice game, not to be counted in the final result. The Somerville commuters continued to place abiding faith in Harkins. He was a professional; therefore he was a great man. Was he going to let a lot of schoolboy amateurs sit on him? Not much. The Plainfield commuters smiled tantalizingly. Meanwhile both nines exercised themselves toying with teams from Trenton, New Brunswick, and round about.

"When Somerville stepped into the field again, Harkins was in his usual place and in the right place, too. But the umpire had a picnic all by himself. He was a former player in the Plainfield nine, and when he decided a doubtful point which settled the game in favor of Somerville, the whole population in the town gathered in the field was thunderstruck. Harkins was also allowed to take it easy in the box and pitch just as he pleased. Gately, the silent pitcher, was as great as Harkins in this instance. Both pitchers presented goose eggs to their opponents for eight innings. Then the Somervillians danced in and got six runs to Plainfield's two. That put the town in mourning for several days, but when the home club wiped up the diamond with the noted Buttermilks of New York, stripes of white were sewed to the bunting and Plainfield prepared to wallop Somerville. It sang a tune of 10 to 9 before it was done, and the score stood two games for Plainfield to Somerville's one.

"The last game was fought at Somerville. The Plainfield commuters say it wasn't a game any way, but the Somervillians smile disdainfully, and refuse to deliver up cash on their bets against a tie between the clubs. A fourth of the population of Plainfield traveled down to Somerville to see that there was fair play. When Harkins stepped into the field ready for a triumph, a homely man stepped forward to present him with a bouquet as beautiful as the Somerville ladies who had put it together. From that moment there was a lively time in the grand stand. Hammill of Plainfield scored the first run in the third inning, and in the next inning Plainfield secured another potato. Then Somerville sailed in for one run and then for two, and Plainfield tied the score. A ball fell outside the foul line, but Dr. Matherson, the umpire, thought it was safe. That raised a yell from the Plainfield commuters. Harkins got nervous and hit McMurray of Plainfield with the ball. McMurray is a strapping fellow, and promptly swished his bat at Harkins' head. Harkins escaped.

"The ninth inning saw the score 5 to 5. Somerville hugged the pretty girls in the grand stand tight and hung breathless on the result. Two more for the home team put Plainfield's dander up. Dr. Matherson glanced anxiously around to see that the police were near. An ugly ball from Harkins' hand hit Cary's head. Cary started for first base, but Harkins protested that Cary had put his head purposely in the way. With a side look at the Plainfield commuters the Doctor guessed that Harkins was about right. It was too much for the commuters. They started on a wild run to paint Somerville red, but changed their minds when they saw the train home coming, and started for the cars instead. Dr. Matherson awarded the game to Somerville, 9 to 0. As a consequence the town is happy and satisfied. The commuters are thinking of getting the clubs to play one more game, and holding a prayer meeting over the umpire before the game."

The Royal Arcanum.

Under the new order of things existing in the Royal Arcanum New Jersey has been divided into eight districts, each presided over by a deputy. Once a year the grand regent, with his entire staff and whole council board of officers of all the councils in the district, makes an official visit to one council selected from each district.

The amount received by the grand regent and New Jersey councils for the Johnstown sufferers was by a singular coincidence exactly $1,105, the mystic number of the order. The total amount sent from New Jersey was $1,430.50. The order has paid the full amount of his certificate—$3,000—to the family of one member whose body has not been found, but who was undoubtedly lost in the Johnstown flood.

The Jewish New Year.

The Jewish New Year will be celebrated with the usual religious services on the 26th and 27th of this month. Most of the Jewish stores will be closed on this occasion. The Day of Atonement will begin at sundown on Oct. 4, and close at sundown of the 5th. It will be observed as a fast day, neither water nor food passing the lips of males above the age of thirteen years. The Feast of the Tabernacles, in commemoration of the Jews dwelling in tents during their journey through the desert, will begin on Oct. 10, and continue eight days. The first two will be full, the next four half, and the last two full holidays.

Newark Wheelmen to Parade.

A lantern parade under the auspices of the Atalanta Wheelmen of Newark will take place in that city on Oct. 10. It is expected that 300 wheelmen will be in line, as visitors are going from New York, Brooklyn, Westfield, Plainfield, Elizabeth, Rutherford and Orange, besides the unattached wheelmen of Newark. A banquet will be in order after the parade.

—The third annual reception of Cypress Commandery, No. 6, Drill Corps, of this city, will be held at The Crescent, on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 17. It is expected that thirteen Commanderies will be represented from various cities in New York and New Jersey.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful but perfectly safe medicine.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

PRINTERS' INK

PRINTERS' INK is just what it purports to be, "a journal for advertisers." It is issued on the first and fifteenth days of each month, and is the representative journal—the trade journal, so to speak—of American advertisers. It tells the intending and inexperienced advertiser in plain, comprehensive articles how, when, and where to advertise; how to write an advertisement; how to display one; what newspapers or other media to use; how much to expend—in fact, discourses on every point that admits of profitable discussion. If you advertise at all, PRINTERS' INK can help you. Perhaps you expend but Ten Dollars a year in advertising; if so, PRINTERS' INK may show you how to obtain double the service you are now getting for one-half the money. A year's subscription costs but One Dollar; a sample copy costs but Five Cents. Advertising is an art practised by many but understood by few. The conductors of PRINTERS' INK understand it thoroughly. Surely their advice, based on an experience of more than twenty-five years, will help you. Address:—

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8 feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 1 degs 53 from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

WILLIAM E. JONES, Somerset county.
ANDREW VANDERBEEK, Union county.

THE DOCKERS HAPPY

The "Blacklegs" at Work Will Have to Go.

THEY WILL BE WEEDED OUT.

Work Will Be Scarce for Them Though Plenty for the Old Men.

The Favorable Termination of the Strike a Leading Theme for the London Press. Home Rule Divided into Three Factions by the Irish University Bill—Davitt Says It is Only a Bait—Bad Luck Follows the Antwerp Factory Proprietor.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The dissatisfaction over the retention of "blacklegs," or "rats," by the Dock Companies, is not thought likely to have any serious consequences.

The directors of the companies have no special love for the men who took the strikers' places, especially as they were not sufficiently numerous to enable the managers to win the day. The companies, however, are obliged to make a show of protecting these men, and could hardly be expected to throw them out on the first day or two that work was begun under the new agreement. It is understood that at the conference of the mediators a tacit understanding was arrived at by which the "blacklegs" will soon find their occupation gone, without any special reason being given therefor. Work will be scarce for them, though plenty for the old men, and they will gradually be dropped from the pay rolls. On the other hand, the strike leaders agree to do all they can to prevent the regular men from assaulting or in any way interfering with the men so long as the retention of the latter is deemed absolutely necessary. This is not likely to be very long, as the "blacklegs" are mostly so frightened by the threats of the regulars that many of them are already clamoring to be sent back to the cities whence they were brought here.

The favorable termination of the strike continues to be a leading theme for comment in the press, and the lesson drawn from recent events seems to be, in the great majority of cases, that a vast change has been wrought in public opinion during the past few years in regard to the proper relations of society to the individual.

THE IRISH UNIVERSITY BILL.

Home Rule Divided Into Three Factions by the Measure.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—The Liberal newspapers in general are continuing to treat the suggestion of a Catholic University, thrown out by Chief Secretary Balfour, at the closing of the Parliamentary session, in the most cautious manner possible. If Balfour had laid subtle plans to disrupt the Home Rulers, as many believe was his motive in introducing the subject in Parliament, he could not have chosen a more effective firebrand with which to destroy his enemies.

If the Government persists in the plan of introducing the bill, as it undoubtedly will at the next session, it is likely to divide the Home Rulers into three hopelessly antagonistic parties. The Irish members who follow Mr. Parnell will make terms, practically, with the Government that has persecuted and imprisoned them, and will vote with their quondam enemies for the bill.

Mr. Parnell's ready acceptance of the suggestion betokens this, if it does not show actual collusion with the Government.

Besides, when one remembers Mr. Parnell's attitude in reference to the Irish Appropriation bills, passed last session, when the Irish leader admitted that he would accept any money for Ireland that the Imperial Parliament would give, and not thank England for it either, it cannot be doubted how he will receive the new proposition.

The Irish members who will not follow Mr. Parnell's lead, and who are already denouncing the project, will form a second division; those who are disgusted with the acceptance by the Irish of anything at Balfour's hands, and who will in consequence forsake everything Irish, will form the third party. Mr. Gladstone as yet gives no opinion in the matter, but, on the other hand, Michael Davitt, who has a large following in Ireland, leaves no doubt as to his position.

His stinging letter utters a powerful protest and rebuke to the Irish members at Westminster who would make terms with the hated Balfour, and shows the need of an Irish Parliament. He maintains that the question of a Catholic University is essentially one for a Home Rule Parliament, and bitterly denounces what he intimates is a "deal."

The subject furnishes a fruitful source of controversy during the recess and however gingerly the newspapers touch upon it, they find it necessary to say something. The matter is bound to be thoroughly aired before the next session begins, and the lines which each separate clique will pursue are becoming more definite daily.

The Strikers Were Orderly.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—At the opening of the Old Bailey Court, the Recorder, in charging the Grand Jury, referred to the recent strike in London. He said that though a great number of men had been out of work for weeks and had suffered great privations, there was not a single case on the calender arising from the strike. The peaceful behavior of the men, he declared, was a subject for national pride.

Bad Luck Follows Him.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—There was an explosion to-day in a foundry on Rue Popincourt, belonging to M. Corvillain, the Antwerp manufacture at whose factory in that city the recent disastrous explosion took place. At the time of the explosion the employes in the foundry were engaged in melting bullets, which had been extracted from a quantity of old cartridges that M. Corvillain had purchased. Several men were slightly injured.

Latest from Samoa.

BERLIN, Sept. 17.—The latest advices from Samoa are that Malietoa has been quietly restored to the throne. He and Mataafa have taken up a temporary residence on the Manono Island, where they will remain until the decisions of the Berlin Conference are confirmed. The German Consul at Apia has notified Tamasese that Germany is precluded from giving support to any party.

THE TEEMER-GAUDAUR RACE.

St. John Declares that the Referee's Decision was Rather Peculiar.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Mr. John A. St. John, the backer of Jake Gaudaur, says he does not propose to have anything to do with Teemer in the boat-racing line hereafter.

Mr. St. John said: "The decision of the referee that Gaudaur should row the McKeesport race over was rather peculiar, but he had to choose between a broken head and such a decision, and I can't blame him much. On the night of the race I felt reasonably sure from what he told me that the decision would be given to Gaudaur. I do not charge the referee with being dishonest; he seemed to be a well-meaning fellow, but he hailed from the wrong town to decide against Teemer.

"On the evening of the race Teemer's principal backer acknowledged to me that Gaudaur had won fairly and squarely. Hamm was on the course to keep it clear, and Teemer agreed that he should be permitted to do so."

EXCURSIONISTS KILLED.

Terrible Result of a Collision of Trains Near Elmira.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—A Tioga train leaving here at 6 p. m. had seven coaches of excursionists returning from the fair at Elmira, and when it arrived at the junction of the Fall Brook Railroad, collided with the Fall Brook coal train. Two coaches were burned and twenty people badly hurt.

Henry Olvin, of Union, N. Y., and a newsboy named Dempsey, of Elmira, were killed. Engineer Green and Fireman Higgins are badly hurt. J. T. Nivens and wife, of Jackson, N. Y., can not live.

Superintendent Knibloe and other Erie officials are here doing all in their power for the injured. Men are at work clearing up the wreck, and trains will be running this afternoon.

SHOT THE SHERIFF.

Two Brothers, Under Sentence of Death, Escape from the Somerset, Pa., Jail.

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Nicely brothers, confined in jail here under sentence of death for the murder of farmer Umburger, yesterday overpowered the sheriff and when a deputy sheriff went to his assistance one of the brothers, with the sheriff's revolver, shot the deputy and made good their escape.

The deputy's wound is a serious one, and the physician could not give an opinion as to whether it would result fatally or not. It is thought the men will be captured.

Wanted the Question Settled in Church.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 17.—A strange story comes from Marion County, Ala. A white Justice of the Peace recently went to a negro church there while a meeting was in progress and, stopping the preacher, asked the attention of the congregation for a few moments. Entering the pulpit the officer of the State drew a paper from his pocket and announced there were two columns on the sheet for signatures. All who were in favor of the race war were asked to sign in one column and all opposed were requested to sign in the other. The negroes were thrown into a state of intense excitement, and the meeting broke up without any signatures being given.

Gideon P. Brown Not in Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—One of Gideon P. Brown's counsel says he knows where Brown is and communicates with him regularly; that Brown has certainly not been in Boston since his hasty departure; that he does not intend to return until summoned by his counsel, which will be on November 6 next, when the second meeting of the creditors will be held in the insolvency court at Dedham. It is generally believed that he is now in seclusion in the far South.

Withdraws from the K. of L.

DANVERS, Mass., Sept. 17.—The shoemakers of Danvers, hitherto connected with the Knights of Labor, through local assembly 635, have withdrawn from the organization, and have attached themselves to the Boot and Shoe Workers International Union. Knights of Labor were once numerous here, but the withdrawal of this assembly removes the last vestige of the K. of L. from the town.

Favors a Pension for All Soldiers.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 17.—Commissioner of Internal Revenue, John W. Mason, addressed a reunion of Maulsby's battery at Palatine, and he declared in favor of a service pension for honorably discharged soldiers. He thought this would not raise the total pension list, over $100,000,000 per annum, and with the large increasing revenues of the Government this expenditure could easily be met.

Efforts to Relieve Suffering Miners.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 17.—The Hon. Adelbert Hamilton, of Chicago, came here to-day to lay before Gov. Fifer a memorial touching the suffering and destitute Spring Valley miners. It beseeches him to visit Spring Valley and personally investigate, and to call a special session of the Legislature. Gov. Fifer expressed deep sympathy with the suffering people and promised to do all in his power to aid them.

A Skeleton Found at Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 17.—The skeleton of a man was found yesterday at the corner of West Thirteenth street and Seventeenth avenue by workmen who were digging there. An examination of the skull showed that it had been fractured. Many people are convinced that the man was the victim of a murder, and that his body was buried in this field, without any coffin, to hide the crime.

In Aid of the Dock Strikers.

BOSTON, Sept 17.—The committee in charge of the meeting in Faneuil Hall for the benefit of the London strikers called for this evening, has issued a note saying that although the strike has happily ended the meeting will still be held, as one of congratulation and agitation. Contributions will still be acceptable for the relief of cases of hardship resulting from the strike.

Imprisonment for a Railroad Official.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—Isaac A. Sweigard, general superintendent of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, has been sentenced by Judge Finletter to pay a fine of $1,000 and to undergo an imprisonment of six months for maintaining a nuisance in erecting a fence along the line of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, of which he was convicted last May.

THE GIRLS PLAY BALL.

A Woeful Story of an Unfortunate Man Who Umpired for Them.

The National Game In Feminine Hands Is Much More Dangerous Than a Sewing Circle But Not Quite So Scientific.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

My wife has been down to the seashore for a month. I do not put this up as a bluff. She really has and no mistake. She hasn't been simply keeping out of sight like some other women I know who have given up indulgent parents with money sticking out of all their pockets, and homes where the luxuries of life were so crowded that they fell over each other—who have given up all this, I say, for the love of an honest man and a five room flat.

FIELDING GETS INTO TROUBLE.

This is the mistake that my wife made, and it is the only one I ever knew her to own up to in my presence. However, she bears up bravely, and sometimes says that she doesn't mind the poverty one bit so long as she has me. At other times she says that she could stand the poverty well enough if it wasn't for me, so on the whole we do not repine.

But, as I said before, my wife has been down to the seashore. She wrote me that she was enjoying the hops, sea bathing, and other proprieties very much but that the nicest thing of all was a baseball nine composed entirely of women. She said that there was another feminine nine at a neighboring resort, and that hers had challenged them for a game the following Saturday. They were to play for a banquet, and the defeated side was to pay for it. This was the reason why I accepted her invitation to come down and umpire the game. I thought I could save more money for our family in that capacity than my wife could playing away out in centre field.

It was in this way that I came to secure the ill will of eighteen women to a degree that, I think, has never been equalled outside of Salt Lake City.

My wife's nine was called the Daisies and the others were the Lilies. The Daisies came onto the field with nine captains, so far as I could understand the situation. They all addressed the umpire at once, which was pleasant but not instructive. They had one substitute, and I was led to understand that she was a substitute for a captain.

I had met several of the Daisies before but the Lilies were all strangers to me. In view of this fact I requested Maude to refrain from ordering me around, because if the Lilies discovered that I was her husband they might object to my umpiring. Maude said that she did not think that they would suspect her of such a thing, but to guard against it she had arranged to flirt with a nice looking young fellow who sat on the grand stand. I suggested that to heighten the illusion perhaps I had better bestow some delicate attentions upon the pretty second baselady of the Lilies. Maude said that she didn't care, but she would simply call my attention to the fact that the large, fine looking gentleman who was gracefully leaning on a ball bat near the edge of the field was the husband of the second baselady, and had the reputation of seeing almost everything that went on in his wife's vicinity.

The game was more dangerous than a sewing circle, but not quite so scientific. When I called play the Lilies took the field. Their pitcher was a muscular young person with a determined eye. I had never before seen a woman who could throw a ball more than ten feet, but the pitcher of the Lilies was different. She was a widow, and the way she could throw things led me to wonder whether her late husband died of a teacup or a plate.

The catcher wore tan colored gloves and a light blue liver pad—at least that is what the professionals call them. When I saw what sort of ball the widow was throwing I implored the catcher to put on a mask. At first she said she would not wear the horrid, unbecomming thing, but when I called to her attention how much more unbecoming it would be to go through life with no nose she consented to get behind the cage. When two strikes were called she came up behind the bat just like Buck Ewing, but, of course, she did not catch the ball. When the widow shot it at her she said: "Oh!" and got out of the way. Then the ball went back to the catcher's fence and I had to chase it. This added considerably to my duties which rapidly became arduous. They were also dangerous, for whenever a young woman had three strikes called on her she screamed in a highly disquieting manner; shut her eyes; threw her bat wildly into space (and usually in my direction), and then made a frantic plunge in the direction of first base. When she got there, as she invariably did while I was chasing the ball, I always had to call time while she fixed her hair. Meanwhile the nine captains of the side that was out came up and reviled me cruelly for not chasing the ball faster.

Some of them had only a misty idea of the rules of the game. Maude was one of these. On one occasion she reached first base while I was making my customary excursion after the missed third strike. It was her idea to get back to the home plate somehow and thus secure the applause of the grand stand which was liberal for the first two or three dozen runs that were made. Maude always was fond of admiration. When the girl Daisy who was at the bat after Maude had swiped the air three times she put her head down and set out for first base. This looked like an elegant chance for Maude, and so she came cavorting home over the first base line with her eyes shut. She and the other Daisy met midway with a crash that scattered hair pins all over the field. The widow, who understood the game to admiration, ran up and touched them both with the ball and I had to declare them out. The way Maude treated me after that episode very nearly led to the discovery of the relations between us. That, however, was reserved for the melancholy future.

The first inning threatened to be eternal, for the catcher of the Lilies was entirely ornamental. She could not have stopped one of the widow's shoots if she'd stood in front of it, and she was too cautious to try that. In the course of time, however, one of the Daisies hit the ball, and this so delighted one of her admirers in the grand stand that he sent her a bouquet by a boy. With a desire to triumph over a rival she walked off her base and sweetly asked the widow to pin it on for her. The widow promptly touched her with the ball, and that settled it. The victim said that the widow was an ugly mean thing and she'd never speak to her again.

The Lilies weren't so long about it. The pitcher of the Daisies just tossed the ball in, and the first Lily to take the bat knocked the ball right down to first base. The first baselady fell down on it as it was passing over the bag and secured an "out" which won her much applause. Then the catcher got hit with a third strike, and it made her so angry that she grabbed the ball and chased the batter all over the right field with it. Away out in centre field they both got tired and sat down; so I decided that the Lily was out for running out of the base line. She said that it was real mean anyway, and she continued to sit where she was; and refused to be comforted.

Pretty soon the Lilies had to take the field, and the widow with the wicked eye was in the box again. I had a grudge against her for making me chase the ball so much, so I tried to coach the batters on the other side.

There was one pretty little Daisy in particular who came to the bat after my wife had reached second base. I was telling her lots of points about batting, and in order to make her listen I breathed a little delicate flattery into her shell-like ear. This tickled her so that she turned round to me and said, coquettishly: "Now do you really think I'm ——"

She never got any further than that because, at that moment, the widow hit her in the back with a vicious in-shoot, and she fell into my arms in a dead faint. Maude had been fixing her hair out on second base, but at this unfortunate moment she looked up and saw me supporting the inanimate Lily. Maude always was of a jealous disposition, and this sight was too much for her. She just came straight for the home plate cutting off third worse than Mike Kelly did.

WHAT MADE MAUDE ANGRY.

"Now Howdy," she said, "that is no part of the umpire's duties."

"Maude," said I, sternly, "you're out."

"No, I'm not out," she said, beginning to cry. "I didn't think you'd behave so right before all these people."

The way she went on let the secret out, and all the Lilies began to accuse me of giving the game to my wife's side, and they said I didn't know any more about baseball than a cow. Then I got mad and called the game.

At this the reporters came upon the field, and got eighteen different versions of the score and of my infamous duplicity which they published in all the papers, under the heading of society news.

The female baseball season is now practically over, but alas we play the unfortunate game, which I have briefly sketched, around the domestic hearth every night. I shall never, never hear the last of it; and, by jingo! neither shall Maude. HOWARD FIELDING.

An Unfortunate Combination.

Lady of the house—"Well, sir, what do you want?"

Agent (affably)—"I have here a charming little book written by one of our greatest writers, which I think would be particularly interesting to you. It is called 'The White Horse of the Nile.' It is a beautiful—"

After the neighbors had tenderly extricated the remains from the front gate and had picked up the scattered leaves of the book, the lady of the house opened the door again, armed with a broom, and yelled, "Now, if there's anyone else in the crowd that wants to insult my hair, let them do it. I'm ready for 'em."

Bound to Keep it Going.

The attention of the passengers in a Southern smoking car was riveted on a strangely behaved negro. He rocked himself from side to side without ceasing. "What's the matter with you?" asked a traveller who was in the car. "Does you know Dan McGary?" inquired the negro. "Yes." "Well sah, he sold me a silver watch for $20," added the negro, still swaying from side to side, "an' ef I stops movin' dis here way de watch doan go no moah."

Sampson's Great Rival.

Mrs. Lumkin's (reading)—I declare, there must be some strong men in Boston!

Mr. L.—Yes, there's Sullivan.

Mrs. L.—I don't know whether it's Sullivan or not, but it says here that the "auctioneer" finally knocked down the house, stable and twenty horses for $50,000.

An editor in reply to a young writer who wished to know which magazine would give him the highest position quickest, advised "a powder magazine especially if you contribute a fiery article."

Put to Sleep in the 49th Round.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Billy Welch and Hite Peckham, local pugilists, fought 49 rounds yesterday morning near Tonawanda for $150 and the gate receipts. Peckham had the best of it from the start and put Welch to sleep in the 49th round.

Great Reunion of Odd Fellows.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 17.—The reunion of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in session here is the greatest in its history. Delegates are present from every part of the country, and incoming trains are thronged with fresh arrivals. Over sixty thousand Odd Fellows are in the city to-day.

For the Murder of Grocer Lucca.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 17.—The Grand Jury have found indictments against McElvaine, Quinlan and Dinion for the murder of Grocer Lucca. The charge is murder in the first degree.

New Haven's School Board Election.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 17.—The School Board election resulted in an overwhelming victory for the free text book candidates by majorities of from 1,500 to 2,100

The Influence of Surroundings.

How dependent we are on the atmosphere about us; yet how little thought we give to our indebtedness to the atmosphere! Life or death is in the air we breathe; but whether it is life or death is not ordinarily in our minds as we move on in our daily occupations, helped or harmed by our every respiration. Nor is it alone the natural atmosphere which is all in all to us, in its realm, as a means of life-giving or of life-taking. In our home life, in our school life, in our social life, in our business life, in our church life, we are more dependent on the atmosphere of that life than we are accustomed to consider. We are helped or hindered in our course by every breath of the atmosphere about us there. How grateful we ought to be for a pure and invigorating atmosphere in any one of these realms! What prominence we ought to give to the character of the atmosphere of the realm in choosing a school or an occupation for one of our children, or a home, or a line of business, or a church, for ourselves!

New Way to Bring Rain.

The Japan Gazette says that natives and foreigners alike have been suffering from excessive heat in Foochow, and the authorities, in the hope of bringing rain, have stopped the killing of pigs in the city and neighborhood.

KASKINE,

(THE NEW QUININE.)

Stimulates the Digestion, Calms the Nerves, Clears the Mind Yet Contains No Narcotic.

A POWERFUL TONIC.

A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

"After five years suffering from malaria, which nearly destroyed my constitution, having used quinine without permanent benefit, I tried Kaskine and got better right away. The malarial symptoms all left me, and health, sleep and strength returned."—Henry Knarke, 583 Washington street, New York.

"I had all the symptoms of malarial poisoning; headaches, rheumatic pains, great nervous depression, loss of sleep, indigestion, &c. The old quinine proving useless, I tried "the new quinine" and soon got better."—W. Goldburg, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

SCORED BY KNIGHTS

The Two Political Parties Arraigned by the K. of L.

DISMAL FAILURE IN POLITICS.

The National Legislative Committee of the Order Disgusted.

They Complain that Both Democrats and Republicans Played "Dog in the Manger" on Labor Legislation—The Land Question Discussed and a Sharp Rebuke on Railroad Grants by the Government—A Word About the Tariff Bill.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—The report of the National Legislative Committee of the Knights of Labor, which will be presented at the next session of the General Assembly of that organization at Atlanta in November, is a lengthy document.

It tells how the Committee made a dismal failure of the work entrusted to them. Not a single labor measure was passed. Members of the order are blamed for not assisting the Committee by securing signatures to petitions and a suggestion is made that the General Assembly pass a law, compelling members to do so and to vote only for candidates pledged to labor legislation.

The Committee was in an embarrassing position as every member who had previously supported labor measures was defeated for re-election.

The land question is discussed and a protest entered to claims of railroads for some 49,000,000 acres. The report says that the persons voting for the passage of this law for the railroad grants, if it is to stand as constituted by Justice Field, are guilty of knowingly swindling and robbing the Government and the people.

They complain that the Republican Senate wasted its time discussing a tariff bill which it knew could not pass, and that both parties generally played "dog in the manger" on labor legislation for political effect, neither being willing to accept what the other advocated.

NEW JERSEY REPUBLICANS.

General Grubb Nominated for Governor on the Second Ballot.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 18.—When the State Convention called on the counties for nominations for Governor, Burlington named Gen. E. Burd Grubb, Mercer, Frank A. MacGowan; Essex, George A. Halsey, and Union, John Kean, Jr.

On the first ballot there was no choice. Grubb received 264 votes, Kean 162, MacGowan 79, Halsey 90 and Brewer 1. The names of MacGowan and Kean were withdrawn and on the second ballot General Grubb was unanimously nominated for Governor.

The platform was then adopted. It endorses the National Republican platform and President Harrison's administration; denounces the State Legislature of 1889 and its acts; favors the enactment of statutes reforming the election laws of the State to prevent fraud and false registration, and for the purpose of establishing the Australian system of voting; recognizes the public demand for the reorganization and simplification of the courts of civil procedure to the end that multiplicity of appeals may be avoided and trials of causes made expeditious and inexpensive; demands the enforcement of the compulsory education laws and the child labor laws; declares the present system of taxation of corporate property and franchises for State purposes the policy of the party; and demands greater economy in all departments of the State Government.

The temperance plank is as follows:

The Republican party of New Jersey stands committed by its platforms and legislative enactments to the most thorough measures that will be sustained by the people, and pledges itself to such legislation as will most speedily and thoroughly eradicate the evil of intemperance. We resent the intrusion of the liquor power as an organized force into the politics of the State. The attitude of the two parties on this question is so clearly marked that no intelligent voter can be deceived by any omission of either to make a declaration on the subject.

After the resolutions were adopted, Gen. Grubb was brought forward, and after a brief speech the convention adjourned, the band playing and the delegates singing "Marching Through Georgia."

A Lady Well Connected a Co-Respondent.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 18.—In the Superior Court a hearing in the divorce suit of Mrs. L. N. N. Phillips against W. E. Phillips, late Superintendent of Letter Carriers at Fall River, who has fled to South America to avoid trial on a charge of robbing the mails, was held. The co-respondent named in the libel, which is based on the grounds of adultery, is Miss. Sarah E. Deane, of Fall River, of high social connections, allied to some of the first families of that city and hitherto of unblemished reputation. The court announced that a decision would be given to-day. Miss Deane was not allowed to take part in the proceedings because Phillips made no contest.

McElvaine Wants a Separate Trial.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 18.—Charles McElvaine, Thomas Quinlan and Martin Dineen, who were yesterday indicted for murder in the first degree for the killing of Grocer Luca, while attempting burglary, were to-day arraigned before Judge Moore in the Court of Sessions. McElvaine pleaded not guilty through his counsel who asked that he be given a separate trial. The other two will plead on Thursday.

A Chief-of-Police Killed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 18.—Wm. Watkins, Chief-of-Police of Parsons, a mining town three miles from here, while on watch for burglars early this morning, fell asleep on the edge of the platform of the Delaware & Hudson depot at Parsons, and was instantly killed by a fast freight train.

ODD FELLOWS' CONVENTION.

Young Men Eighteen Years of Age Not Eligible to Membership in the Order.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 18.—The important business transacted in the Sovereign Grand Lodge so far was the discussion and action on the proposed constitutional amendment providing that young men 18 years of age shall be eligible to membership in the Order of Odd Fellows. The amendment was lost by a large majority.

The Daughters of Rebekah went into National Convention, which was called to order by Past Grand Sire Nicholson, who addressed the assemblage and introduced Mrs. Lizzie Phillips, of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State organization of the Daughters of Rebekah, who delivered the address of welcome to the delegates.

DEATH IN THE PRIZE RING.

A Lightweight Pugilist Dies in His Corner After Fighting Eleven Rounds.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 18.—Thos. Jackson, a well known young man, and Ed. Ahern, a clever light weight pugilist, engaged in a prize fight in Daly's sporting resort in this city last night.

Eleven rounds were fought and at the end of the eleventh round Jackson died a few minutes after being taken to his chair and before medical attention could be secured.

The Brennan Inquest.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept, 18.—The evidence given at the inquest upon Thomas Brennan, of Holyoke, who it is alleged was poisoned by his mother, has been made public. The father of the deceased testified that when Thomas came home sick his sisters gave him ice cream. Next morning he was very sick. He was given a cup of tea and complained that there was tobacco in it. The testimony given by Mrs. Brennan's son, Dennis, is conflicting, and the case will be further investigated.

Mr. Blaine in Excellent Health.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—W. E. Curtis has returned from Bar Harbor, where he went to get Secretary Blaine's approval of the programme of the American Nations. Mr. Blaine, he says, is looking better than he has seen him in many years. He is not as fleshy as he was, but his color is healthy, and his eyes bright. He is active and in the best of spirits. Mr. Blaine will be in Washington on the 29th of this month.

Ex-Secretary Whitney's Response.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. — Secretary Tracy has received the following reply to his telegram congratulating ex-Secretary Whitney on the remarkable performance of the cruiser Baltimore:

LENOX, Mass., Sept. 18, 1889.
Many thanks for your kind dispatch; I have felt certain the result would be satisfactory, as I do also that you will continue to raise the standard and in your time register much higher results than these. W. C. WHITNEY.

Students Return to College.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 18.—The Freshmen Class of Yale has arrived in the city and most of its members are engaged in passing conditions, although the Faculty state the class came to the examinations unusually well prepared. In the Academic department the class is the largest which has entered Yale and will number fully 220. In the Scientific department there is also a very large class, 140 having passed the examinations.

"The Fox" Still at Large.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The police deny that Cooney, "The Fox," who is wanted in connection with the murder of Dr. Cronin, was arrested on Wednesday last at St. Paul and secretly held at a police station in Chicago. They claim that they know nothing whatever of the present whereabouts of Cooney.

To-Day's Trotting Race at Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—Among the trotters who will face the judges to-day for the great $10,000 guaranteed stake race at Beacon Park are Nelson, Alcryon, Junemont, Granby and Pilot Knox. It is estimated that 25,000 people will witness the race.

Settled With Their Creditors.

READING, Pa., Sept. 18.—Kessler & Son, hat manufacturers, who recently failed for $35,000, have settled with their creditors for forty cents on the dollar, and have resumed operations under the name of the Reading Hat Factory. They employ seventy hands.

Gas Explosion Results Seriously.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 18. — Alfred Crow and John Tocas were fatally, and John Murphy and William Calvin seriously burned by an explosion of gas in the Neilson shaft last evening. The explosion was caused by the carelessness of Tocas.

Burt & Snow's Creditors.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 18.—At the meeting of Burt & Snow's creditors, Cashier Torrey was made chairman. No statement was ready, and a committee was appointed to examine the firm's affairs and report Friday if practicable.

Mayor Gleason Scores Another Victory.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The Grand Jury have dismissed the charges of maladministration brought by City Treasurer Blackwenn and Alderman Starkey against Mayor Gleason.

Engineer Killed in a Railroad Wreck.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 18.—A local freight train on the Auburn branch of the New York Central ran into two freight cars on a dead side track at Brighton last night. The engine and four cars were wrecked, and Engineer MacGregor was killed.

For Beating His Wife to Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Charles Schultze, charged with having beaten his wife to death, was to-day committed without bail, pending the result of the Coroner's inquest.

FLED TO THE HILLS

Another Dam Bursts in a Pennsylvania Town.

THE PEOPLE WARNED IN TIME.

Several Buildings Carried Away by the Rushing Waters.

The Break Caused by a Heavy Fall of Rain—No Lives Reported Lost—Streets Turned Into Rivers in McKeesport—Considerable Uneasiness in Plainfield, N. J.—The People Alarmed About the Feltville Dam—Burlington Flooded.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 18.—The breast of the large dam belonging to the Kennebec Ice Company, of Wilmington, Del., located at Hibernia, this county, burst yesterday, and a tremendous amount of water rushed down the Brandywine, overflowing the banks and sweeping everything before it. The large bridge which crosses the Brandywine just below the dam was swept away, and several frame buildings were carried down to Coatesville. Several of the streets of Coatesville are four feet under water.

The people living along the stream were warned by the sound of the rushing waters and escaped to the hills. So far as heard from no lives have been lost.

The flood has made the creek road impassable. In places the meadows are covered to the depth of eight and ten feet. The break was caused by a heavy fall of rain.

A Deluge at McKeysport, Pa.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Sept. 18.—The heaviest rainfall in years was experienced at this place yesterday. Streets were turned into rivers. Cellars and first floors of many public and private buildings were flooded. Two houses were overturned, while a number in process of erection were so badly damaged it is believed they will have to be reconstructed from the foundation up. Several of the streets are impassable. The tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio, Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston and Belle Vernon Railroads were washed out, and in several places obstructed by heavy landslides. So far as learned no lives were lost.

Bridges Carried Away at Bloomfield.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Sept. 18.—There was another heavy downpour of rain last night which overflowed the banks of the Second River. The bridge over the Orange branch of the Erie Railway over Second River, at Watseeing, has been carried away. It has been found necessary to close that branch of the road. Much uneasiness is felt among the inhabitants residing near the river.

Massachusetts Will Stop Porgy Piracy.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—Chief Wade of the Massachusetts District Police force was here yesterday and intimated his determination to suppress the porgy piracies in Buzzards Bay. To a reporter he said: "Governor Ames has told me that the Massachusetts laws must be respected and enforced. I shall seize and prosecute every vessel that comes into Massachusetts waters and violates this special law. We shall not cease our efforts to make Rhode Island fishermen comprehend that we have laws and they must be respected."

Justice Was Long Delayed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 18.—Tom Allen, ex-champion pugilist of the world; Tom Kelly, Dan Daly, Ed Kelly, Artie Flint and Charlie Daly, who took part in the Daly-Kelly prize-fight in Lincoln county, Missouri, two years ago, the longest fight of its class on record, have been arrested and were taken to-day to Troy, Mo., for trial.

Shocking Suicide.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 18.—Barbara G. Schipper committed suicide in a shocking manner. Having raised the second story window of her house, she seized a large carving knife, cut her left hand almost off at the wrist until it hung by a thread, and then deliberately sprang out of the window into the stone-covered yard. She was unconscious when found and death speedily followed from loss of blood. She leaves a husband and child.

New York's World Fair Committee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The Executive Committee of the World's Fair Finance Committee have a plan under consideration which will probably be adopted and announced at the meeting of the Finance Committee next Tuesday. The Committee on Site will, it is understood, announce their selection Friday afternoon.

Acquitted After Being Convicted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Alice Dyke, on trial for the third time for the murder of John Hamilton two years ago, was acquitted last night. The first trial resulted in conviction and a sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary. The second jury could not agree on a verdict. The prisoner claimed the deed was done in self-defence.

The Kemmler Case.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The arguments in the Kemmler case have closed. It is believed that the judge will declare the law of execution by electricity as unconstitutional.

Hartford Architect and Builder Dead.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 18.—John C. Mead, a prominent architect and builder of this city, died yesterday evening of inflammation of the liver.

Stricken With Paralysis.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 18.—J. B. Barnaby of this city has been stricken with paralysis, and is in a critical condition.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Mechanical Drawing classes will be reorganized at the Y. M. C. A., early in October.

—The local freight from Somerville which is due here at 1:05 P. M., did not arrive, yesterday, until after six o'clock.

—The piano business established by Messrs Jacob Bros., at 17 East Front street, has been sold to Thompson Pack, of Springfield, Mass.

—The citizens' meeting called for last evening to consider the proposed Daft Electric railway for this city, was postponed because of the storm, until Friday evening next at eight o'clock.

—The boys' Mission Band, "Earnest Workers," was to hold their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon, at quarter past four, at the residence of Mrs. C. M. Goddard, 17 Third place.

—The City Market at Second street and Park avenue, have secured the services of Mr. George Orleman, formerly in the employ of J. Vetterlein, and he would be pleased to have his friends call on him in his new place.

—Messrs Pearson & Gayle were today awarded the contract for building Mr. A. Venino's new dwelling house on Madison avenue. They also have the contract for building the row of stores on Somerset street, for Mr. Alex. Thorn.

—Officer Lynch last night arrested two young men from Elizabeth, whom he caught pilfering from the fruit stands in this city. This morning they were given an opportunity to pay $10 each or spend ten days in the county jail. They took the latter.

—Peter S. Bergen, the silver-tongued orator of Somerset county, will address the people of Somerville, at the Somerset House, on Monday evening, the 23d inst. The subject will be announced from the platform, which is a sure guarantee that he will have something to say.

A NEW FREAK.

Lightning Takes the Plating off the Harness and Paralyzes the Horse.

The lightning struck and paralyzed a horse belonging to M. Higgius, proprietor of the Plainfield omnibus line, yesterday afternoon, about five o'clock. The horse, attached to a rockaway, was in front of the Seminary on Seventh street when the flash came, and it seemed to Maurice Higgins who sat in the driver's seat, as if the lightning went directly down through the animal's neck.

The horse fell to the ground, breaking the shaft, and then plunged around wildly for a few minutes. Subsequently he seemed to all draw up in a knot, and his eyes stuck way out of his head. It was necessary to unhitch him and lead him home as he could not pull the carriage.

The silver plating on one side of the hames the horse wore around his neck, was all taken off, and the leather covering was somewhat blistered. The plating has also entirely disappeared from the metal tip of the shaft on the same side. The harness is now on exhibition in the window of The Press office. The horse is much better today. Young Higgins the driver, felt a slight shock at the time.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. J. Fred MacDonald has gone to Lake Hopatcong for a brief rest.

The hearing in the contested Latimer will case began this morning in Elizabeth, before the Orphan's Court—Judges Mc Cormick, Hyer and Wiley.

The season at the West End Hotel, Asbury Park, having closed, Mr. J. Allen Sangston of the West End pharmacy, is visiting friends in this city.

The wedding will take place this evening at the home of the bride's father, Mr. L. L. Manning, at Grant avenue and Seventh street, of Miss Carrie Manning and Philip MacIntyre of North avenue.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis is lying in a state of extreme prostration at his home on Central avenue. A severe attack of dysentery has kept him from his pulpit one week, and will probably confine him to the house for some time.

The word "musician," as used in last week's report of public school matters, had reference to a proposed accompanist, and not to a teacher of vocal music, as some have inferred. Mr. T. E. Hazell is, as heretofore, director of that branch in the Plainfield public schools.

PLAINFIELD WATER WORKS.

A SYSTEM FAVORABLY CONSIDERED AT LAST.

What is Proposed by the Fortunate Contractors, and What the People Will Pay for it All—The Rates for Hydrants, Faucets and Bath Tubs—The Public Buildings and Fountains That Will be Supplied Free.

At last the Council has taken a step towards granting a franchise for the construction and maintenance of a system of water supply for domestic purposes and fire protection in the city of Plainfield.

As The Press readers expected—after the announcement exclusively made in these columns of Monday that perhaps the Council would grant a franchise that evening—the following action was taken at the meeting reported in full in yesterday's issue:

Your committee have examined the several propositions for the construction of Water Works, referred to them on August 5, 1889, and now beg to report recommending that the proposition signed by Chas. K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell, dated Plainfield, N. J., August 5, 1889, be accepted subject to such modifications as may be required by the Common Council.

In the examination and comparison of the proposals your committee have been assisted by a comparative schedule prepared by Mr. Herring. This schedule we herewith submit for your examination.

The proposition of Messrs. Moore & Lovell contemplates the laying of over 3,000 tons of 12, 10, 8, 6 and 4 inch pipe. Your committee believe the total tonnage is amply sufficient, but recommend the use of 16, 14, 12, 8 and 6 inch pipe as one of the modifications to be required.

Henry B. Newhall,
E. N. Erickson,
Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery,
Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 16, 1889.

Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery be received.

Resolved, That the city clerk be directed to return all certified checks received with proposals for construction of Water Works on August 5, 1889, excepting the check for $2,000 which was received from Messrs Charles K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell.

Resolved, That the Committee on Water, Printing and Stationery be directed to prepare a contract in accordance with the proposition of Messrs Charles K. Moore and Edward A. Lovell, with such modifications in the interest of the city as may be deemed advisable, and to present the same for final consideration of the Common Council at the earliest practicable date, of which ten days notice shall be given, and copy of contract be placed on file with City Clerk ten days before the meeting.

So far, so good. The nine proposals were dissected and tabulated in comparison columns, for the committee's convenience by Engineer Hering, showing at a glance what each offered and agreed in the way of hydrants, tonnage of pipe, rates, free service, etc. Then the most favorable proposal as a whole, was recommended as above. One thing in particular wherein the specifications of Messrs Moore & Lovell excelled the others, was the pipe tonnage. They designate the laying of 3,603 tons of pipe ranging from six to sixteen inches in diameter. This is more than any of the other bids proposed.

As to their standing, the fortunate contractors refer to John Taylor Johnston, John F. Plummer and others. As to the workmanship of their plant and system, they direct attention to the works they have erected at Greenport and Sag Harbor, N. Y. Mr. Moore is a resident of Fanwood, and Mr. Lovell is a resident of New York.

The committee are now to draw up a contract to submit for final consideration after ten days' notice to each member of the Council. As this will take time, even if the franchise is then granted, probably no work can be done before next Spring.

As the matter of water works in this city is now the all engrossing subject of conversation and curiosity, The Press, as usual, is foremost in presenting for the interest of its readers a brief synopsis of what the contractors propose to do, how it is to be done, and what the people will pay for it, as follows:

The source will be from a subterranean water-bearing strata, by means of a sufficient number of wells to insure a steady and constant supply of 4,000,000 gallons of water per twenty-four hours.

Compound duplex steam pumping machinery will be erected with a capacity as above against a pressure equivalent to 200-feet head, or to throw five fire streams 100 feet high at one and the same time through 50 feet of 2½ inch rubber hose and one-inch nozzles, from any five hydrants on the line of the mains.

Wrought iron or steel water towers will be erected on high ground, of a capacity of not less than 500,000 gallons, and of sufficient height to give the city first class fire protection at all times.

A system of cast-iron water pipes will be laid, ranging from 16 to 6 inches in size in accordance with a map of Plainfield submitted to the Council. The pipe to be tested to a hydrostatic pressure of 300 pounds per square inch, and to be laid in trenches and covered with not less than 3½ feet of filling.

In laying the pipe "specials" will be provided at frequent distances so that hydrants may be connected with the system at the option of the Council.

It is also agreed to furnish and place in position a number of non-freezing fire hydrants—double delivery—2½ inch opening, threaded to fit Plainfield fire department hose. The number and location of said hydrants to be as shall be determined by the Council, and they shall be connected either during the progress of the work or afterward as the Council may decide.

The cost to the city for all water used from the hydrants for fire purposes, shall be an annual rental of $15 for each hydrant.

It is also agreed to furnish and erect five ornamental drinking fountains for man and beast—and to supply the same with water—to be located at such points as the Council may select, free of all cost to the city. Also to supply water for flushing the sewers of the city, and for the uses of the public schools, all municipal buildings, fire engine houses, Y. M. C. A., building, and churches, free of charge.

For the faithful performance of all these and any other contracts entered into with the city, the contractors will agree to execute a bond of $50,000 with such sureties as shall be approved.

The city shall have the right to purchase the works at the expiration of ten years from the date of completion, upon mutually equitable terms to be provided. Or they may be purchased immediately upon completion, at the actual cost with 15 per cent added.

Pure and wholesome water is to be provided to residents and other consumers at rates not exceeding the following per year, which are lower than offered by the other bidders:

LAST NIGHT'S STORM.

The Somerset Street Bridge at Last Succumbs—Cedar Brook Overflows its Banks But No Damage Done.

The rain storm which set in yesterday afternoon, was one of the heaviest experienced in this locality this season. The rain came down in torrents completely submerging many of the streets, and under the railroad bridges the water backed up to a depth of several feet.

Park avenue from North avenue to Front street, resembled a minature river, the water completely covering the roadbed and flowing along on the sidewalk. In many instances cellars were flooded.

Between five and seven o'clock the water in Green Brook rose over four feet, flooding the low lands between Somerset street and Tier's dam. Crowds of curious people gathered along the banks of the brook, and watched the water rise, and by eight o'clock the brook, which is usually less than a foot deep on an average, was a rushing torrent. Debris of every description floated down stream, but so far as reported no buildings were swept away, and no lives were lost.

Fully 200 persons gathered on Somerset street when the bridge at that point went out about nine o'clock, and for an hour or so the water flowed ankle deep over the roadbed on Somerset street.

Cedar Brook overflowed its banks inundating many of the cellars in the Eastern section of the city, but aside from this no great damage resulted. Stony Brook in the vicinity of the notch was swollen to alarming dimensions, but with the exception of a few washouts no damage was done.

At Bound Brook, the water in the Raritan river was very high. The tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad East of that place, were under two feet of water and it was with much difficulty that locomotives ploughed their way through.

Died During the Honeymoon.

The wife of John H. Cuthbert, died suddenly of heart disease, at Toledo, last evening. She was the eldest daughter of J. J. Brodhead, Esq., of Oil City, Pa., and had been married to Mr. Cuthbert just two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert were visiting in this city only a few days ago. The bereaved husband started today for Oil City, with his wife's remains.

St. Mary's Fair.

On Thursday evening of this week in the parochial school hall, the fair in aid of St. Mary's church, will commence. The fair will last for a week or ten days, and will no doubt prove as successful as any heretofore held under the direction of the above-named church.

More Defamation.

PEERLESS DYES Are the BEST.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION IS STRADDLED

Because Some of the Republican Delegates Confessed They Were for License.

When the Essex county Republican delegates went into caucus at Trenton, yesterday, they adopted as expressive of the sentiment of their constituents, this resolution:

Tests and trials wherever made have furnished incontrovertible proof that Prohibition, State or local, does not prohibit, and neither eliminates nor to any perceptible degree diminishes intemperance. The Republican party, desirous of checking the evil of intemperance as far as it is possible so to do by legislative enactments, is in favor of practical measures to that end. We therefore declare ourselves for the regulation of the sale of intoxicating beverages by a strict license system, under whose provisions all low dives can be suppressed and exterminated, while by the licensing of respectable citizens and places an adequate revenue may be secured to our cities and towns. Also for laws looking to the suppresion of all adulterations of distilled and fermented liquors,

Then all hands assembled in convention and adopted this "straddle" of the question: "The Republican party of New Jersey stands committed by its platforms and legislative enactments to the most thorough measures of temperance reform that will be sustained by the people." Which means, if it means anything, that the Republican party is for local option or high license if the people will put them in power and keep them there.

In the words of the Trenton True American, "The great Republican party is for local option in South Jersey, and against it in North Jersey, and instead of leading public opinion is prepared to be anything to everybody everywhere."

Y. M. C. A. SINGING CLASSES.

A Rare Chance for Men and Boys.

Mr. E. O. Embury will teach free classes in vocal music at the Y. M. C. A. rooms each week as follows:

Young men's class Mondays at 9 P. M.

Boys class Fridays at 4:45 P. M. The former class will be organized Monday, Sept. 30, at 9 P. M., and the latter Friday Sept. 27, at 4:45 P. M.

The association is exceedingly fortunate in securing a gentleman of such large experience in voice training as leader of these classes.

Full information about conditions of admission will be given and names enrolled at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Literary Notes.

"The Coming Subjection of Man," by Elizabeth Bisland, is the article in the October Belford's that will be read with pleasure by the ladies.

An article of unusual interest to Grand Army men and readers generally by Gen. H. V. Boynton in the October Belford's, gives the true story of the Battle of Shiloh. He claims that the documents Sherman has to show that he was not surprised then, are forged.

Belford's for October will contain besides its complete long novel, "The Devil's Anvil," by Mary Kyle Dallas, no less than thirty other articles; it will be the most complete and interesting number from every point yet issued.

Hon. Jefferson Davis' paper in the October Belford's, "Does the Majority Rule?" will be looked for with interest by a large class of readers.

Home Decorators.

Nothing in the way of interior decoration has been done in this city for years to excel the work of Messers VanSciver & Moore, a pair of enterprising young men who have recently established themselves in the Chotola, on North avenue, opposite the station. They are now at work on the parlors of the home of John W. Murray, Esq., and are treating the ceilings and walls with a quiet elegance most gratifying to the eye.

They are artists of taste and experience, with all the requisite judgment and skill to carry out a blending and display of tint and color that would suit the most fastidious. A fine stock of all the best papers—including opalescents, lustrines, flickers, golds, bronzes, felts and blanks—are displayed at their store for selection and combination. Messers VanSciver & Moore do their own work and can therefore figure lower than any competitors.

Peapack May Have a Railroad.

Last Saturday a public and enthusiastic meeting was held in the Peapack school house to feel the public pulse as to how the natives would consider the idea of having a railroad. Of course a railroad would be a blessing and benefit to the quiet village, and so the people want it. J. N. Pidcock, President of the Rockaway Valley Railroad Company, said the company would put up one-half the capital required if the Peapack people would advance the other half, which is $15,000. A good hustling committee was appointed, and in a short time it is believed the Rockaway Valley Railroad Company's tracks will be extended to Peapack.

Saturday's Ball Game.

The management of the Crescent Ball nine is negotiating for a game, next Saturday, with that celebrated professional team, the Acmes of New York.

There is every probability that the game will be arranged, and consequently the Plainfield people are promised another very fine exhibition of ball playing and a close contest for victory.

THE FRAZEE LEE WILL CONTEST.

A Trial by a Struck Jury Ordered.

Another move was made in the above contest yesterday, it being the granting of a rule for a struck jury by Justice Van Syckel. The motion was made by Messrs Jackson & Codington, the attorneys for the defendants, the Scotch Plains Baptist church, in the ejectment suit which will come on for trial in the October term of the Union county Circuit Court at Elizabeth.

The grounds of the application were the importance of the issues involved, the great value of the property in controversy and practically involved in the suit—over $100,000 worth of real estate—and the great amount of testimony which will likely be taken, requiring that men of known probity and intelligence should be selected for its trial. Argument on the question was had before Justice Van Syckel, at Toms River, yesterday, where he was holding Circuit. Ex-Chancellor Runyon and John H. Jackson, of Jackson & Codington, appeared for the Church and the executors; and R. V. Lindabury, for the heirs, Ezra D., and Daniel Hetfield. The Court held it was a proper case for a struck or special jury, and so ordered.

An Office-Holding Democrat Appreciated.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Mr. Wm. D. Holmes is Postmaster of Belleville, N. J. Upon the advent of the Cleveland administration he was appointed to succeed Mr. Wm. Stevens who had held the office for twenty-four years. When Mr. Harrison was elected, Mr. Holmes announced himself as ready to vacate the office upon the appointment of his successor. The Republicans of the town, regarding themselves as "master of the situation," circulated a petition in the interest of a new postmaster. One hundred and twenty-eight names were obtained, only three of which were Democrats, and the petition duly forwarded praying that Mr. Holmes be his own successor. His bonds have been renewed, and it is understood that he will remain at his post of duty.

Mr. Holmes is a life-long Democrat but not an "offensive partizan" in any sense of the word, and his popularity among all classes of citizens of the town is accounted for, from the fact that the business of the office during his incumbency has been conducted upon business principles. He had the "office" removed into a more commodious building than formerly—had it made a "money order" office, then a "postal note" office—and being a good telegraph operator established a telegraph office in connection with the postoffice and has exerted himself to the utmost to provide the very best postal and telegraphic facilities to the public.

Personally, Mr. Holmes' habits are most exemplary. He is strictly temperate, never used liquor or even tobacco in his life. His manners are of the most affable and agreeable character, a perfectly upright, Christian gentleman, a deacon of the Belleville Reformed church, respected and beloved by everybody who knows him and the tribute of one hundred and twenty-five Republican signatures to a petition for his retention may be regarded as an expression of their belief that he is just "the right man in the right place."

The writer has been intimately acquainted with Mr. Holmes for twenty-five years and knows whereof he speaks.

A DYED-IN-THE-WOOL-REPUBLICAN.

Why Old Men are Placed at Railroad Crossings.

"I notice," said a railroad officer, "that we are condemned by some people for placing old or injured men to watch crossings. Now, these men are placed at crossings because we have found by long experience that they fill the bill better than any other class of employees. An experienced man knows the responsibility of his position better than a young man who is liable to be thinking about something else, and the same is true of those who have been injured in accidents. They keep a much better look-out than any class we could employ. A young man who will accept such a job as watching a railroad crossing is too lazy to eat. Such a man is worse than nobody. A position of that kind has no future, and a young man who accepts it amounts to nothing. All the duties of the situation can be attended to by an old man or one partly disabled by accident, and nobody can fill the bill any better."

Frederick Warde as "Belphegor."

The Pittsburg Times of a few days ago, said this of the actor and the play that are to be the next attractions at Music Hall, Sept. 24.

It has been quite a number of years since "The Mountebank," D'Ennery's strong and dramatic play, has been given in this country. The principal part requires an actor, versatile and strong in the depiction of contradictory emotions. In a great many respects Frederick Warde, in his impersonation of William Belphegor, a wandering mountebank, at the Grand Opera House, last night, realized the expectations of the not-too-exacting audience. At the close of the second act he was generously applauded for his neat and effective close of the act, which was one of the best things in the drama. In its entirety "The Mountebank" is full of blemishes, inconsistencies and superfluous business. However, in the face of these facts, Mr. Warde and his company made the strong features of the drama stand out in such a manner that the faults were momentarily overlooked. In his company is a son of J. Sleeper Clarke, who, as Fanfaronade, gave a most delightful character sketch. The remainder of the cast was well represented.

—White hats were called in on the 16th instant, but they will be seen on the street for some time yet to come.

—Considerable damage was done by the storm in the neighborhood of Grove street and Green Brook road.

WAITING FOR LECONEY.

Camden's Murder Sensation Still the Talk of the Day.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 18.—Deputy Sheriff West, armed with the necessary requisition papers from Gov. Green, started for Waverly, Ohio, yesterday to bring back Chaulkey Leconey, the wealthy farmer who is accused of murdering his niece, Miss Annie E. Leconey, in his farmhouse two miles from Merchantville, N. J., a week ago yesterday.

Leconey is in jail in Waverly. If he be guilty of the crime charged he displays a wonderful nerve.

Despatches from Waverly state that he spends his time in his cell reading. He appears perfectly cool and unconcerned.

When interviewed by a reporter he declared: "I want to go back to New Jersey as quick as I can. I will readily prove my innocence.

"Open these doors and I will take the first train back to Philhdelphia and hurry from there to face my accusers."

He related again his movements on the morning of the murder.

"I arose at 5 a. m. My colored man, Murray, was with me. We ate breakfast together.

"In company we went to the citron patch, and as proof of our industry I can show by the produce man to whom they were sold that we gathered upward of seventy baskets of citrons before I was informed of the terrible death of my niece.

"Murray was with me all the time."

"Did not Miss Annie have a suit pending against the estate on account of money owed her by your dead brother, Richard?" he was asked.

"No, sir. Whatever claim she had was settled some time ago. There may have been a few weeks' wages coming to her, but that is all."

In justice to Mr. Leconey it is only fair to state that neither his brother James, father of the murdered girl, nor any of his other relatives in Waverly, believe him guilty of the murder.

Leconey is a man of medium height, broad shouldered, with large blue eyes and a frank, open countenance.

State Senator Nominated.

GLENNS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 18.—L. W. Emerson was nominated for State Senator yesterday. The ballot stood: Emerson 32, Abbott 10, Dennison 1. Twelve delegates left the hall before the last ballot was taken, refusing to vote.

GETTYSBURG, Sept. 18.—Granite monuments were unveiled yesterday by four New York veteran organizations, the Forty-Third, One Hundred and Fortieth and One Hundred and Fiftieth and Battery L.

Death of Oarsman McSweeney.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 18.—Daniel J. McSweeney, well known among oarsmen all over New England, died at his residence in this city yesterday, after a brief illness, of typhoid pneumonia.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Samana, California, yesterday afternoon.

Cholera has made its appearance in Bagdad and the disease is spreading in Western Persia.

It is now stated that 25,000 families in Montenegro are likely to suffer from the famine prevailing there.

Lorenzo King, the Chicago wife poisoner, died in jail at Joliet, Ill., yesterday. He is said to have poisoned three wives.

Patrick Magee, of Poughkeepsie, while in Newburg, N. Y., yesterday, was run over by a West Shore freight train and killed.

Mrs. Canter, a widow, living at White Creek, Ky., was found murdered in her home yesterday. A bachelor suitor is suspected.

An attempt was made Monday night to lynch John McCully at Sparta, Ill. The sheriff got wind of the plot and slipped the prisoner away to the jail in another town.

In a hundred yard swimming match at Rono, California, between E. C. Pinkham, of Stockton, California and Albert Sundstorm, of New York. Pinkham won. Time, 1 minute 6 seconds. This is said to be the fastest time on record in America.

Chas. W. Rice, auditor of the S. T. & H. Railway, stationed at East Saginaw has confessed to having embezzled $8,000. The company had notified him of his promotion to the General Management of the road, and he feared his successor would discover his shortage.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—For New England: Rain; westerly winds; lower temperature.

For Eastern New York and New Jersey: Rains; westerly winds; stationary temperature.

For Western New York: Rain, followed by [illegible] weather; northwesterly winds.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:
AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CLEVELAND BROTHERS, ALBANY, N. Y.

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs. 53, from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

THE LONDON DOCKS

Strikers Have a Skirmish With the "Blacklegs."

THE LATTER BADLY INJURED.

The Disturbance Quelled by the Police and Work Resumed.

A Famous English Scientist Does Not Think Electricity Would Take the Place of the Hangman's Rope - Jack the Ripper Writes Another Letter and Says He Will Soon Have Victim No. 13—A Protest from the Pope.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The ill-feeling between the recent strikers and the "blacklegs," as the men are styled who took the places of strikers, culminated in an assault on the latter.

A lively encounter followed, in which twelve of the "blacklegs" were roughly handled and considerably injured.

Temporary order was finally restored, but the Dock Commissioners have demanded five hundred police to preserve the peace and protect their property in the yards.

DEATH BY ELECTRICITY.

An English Official Says that New York's Law Will Be Rescinded.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—In a discussion before the British Association on the subject of electricity, Mr. W. H. Preece, Chief Electrician of the Postoffice Department, said that the act recently passed by the New York Legislature, providing for the execution of condemmed murderers by electricity, would have to be rescinded.

He claimed that it was impossible to get a current of sufficient intensity to kill a man with certainty. He has experimented with an enormous induction coil and had tried with a spark twenty inches long to kill a pig, but could not.

He knew of several instances of persons taking shocks and who at the time were supposed to have been killed, but who were afterward quite well. He said the sensational reports published in the newspapers about people being killed by shocks from electric wires, had upon investigation been found to be nonsense.

Jack the Ripper Writes.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The "Central News" is in receipt of a letter signed "Jack the Ripper" wherein the writer promises to commit another murder in about a week. The handwriting of the note is the same as that on the letters and postal cards received by the "Central News" some time ago in which the Ripper declared his intention to pursue his course until he should reach the number of 15 victims and there is no doubt of the letter's authenticity.

A Scottish Peer Accused.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Several of the London newspapers contain articles charging a certain Scotch peer, whose name is not mentioned, with having committed an indecent assault upon a child and allege that although affidavits, setting forth the charges specifically, have been made before magistrates, those functionaries are afraid to act in the matter on account of the rank of the accused

The Pope Protests.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The "Chronicle's" correspondent at Rome says the Pope has addressed a protest to the French Governor relative to the circular letter sent to the Bishops by M. Thevenet, the French Minister of Justice, in which he reminded them that they were prohibited by law from taking part in the elections.

Natalie En Route to Belgrade.

ODESSA, Sept. 18.—Ex-Queen Natalie of Servia who is going to Belgrade to visit her son, King Alexander, arrived here to-day from Yalta, on board a Russian gunboat. She was officially received with royal honors. She will proceed on her journey to Belgrade to-morrow.

The Dowager Empress Ill.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—The Dowager Empress Frederick is confined to her bed with an attack of fever, which in its present stage is more troublesome than dangerous.

An Irish M. P. Arrested.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—Mr. Redmond, Nationalist member of Parliament, was arrested at Annamore yesterday on a charge of conspiracy. He was admitted to bail.

Found Dead in a Chimney.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Mary Ann Kenny, a beautiful woman of 25 years, who, grief-stricken at the death of her husband, became demented, sought death in the most horrible manner. She lowered herself down the chimney of her house and there awaited death. Whether she died under the slow torture of starvation in her narrow tomb or was mercifully suffocated was not known. The body was found last evening. It had been entombed in the chimney for eleven days, and was in a frightful state of decomposition.

Eloped With the Man She Loved.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Ellen Langdon, the wife of a well-to-do Englishman living in the northern part of the city, eloped yesterday with Lewis Reese, a machinist employed in the axle works. The woman is 27 years of age and pretty. She took with her $300 belonging to her husband, and left this note: "Good-by, Tom I am going with the man I love."

The Late Prof. Loomis' Large Gift to Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 18.—The will of the late Prof. Elias Loomis bequeaths the bulk of the estate, which is valued at $300,000, to Yale University, to be known as the "Loomis Fund." This is the second largest gift ever made to Yale.

Mrs. Logan for Commssioner.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18.—The Standing Committee of the Logan Invincibles of Maryland, largely composed of old soldiers, adopted resolutions last night strongly recommending Mrs. Gen. John A. Logan for the office of Commissioner of Pensions.

Death of Duryea, the Starch Man.

GLEN COVE, L. I., Sept. 18.—Wright Duryea, president of the Glen Cove Starch Manfacturing Company, died here yesterday of a complication of diseases.

THE SECRET OUT.

Window Glass Manufacturers Form a Combine to Build a Monster Factory.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 18.—The local window glass manufacturers have within the past few weeks held several secret meetings, the object of which was not ascertained until to-day, when it was learned that they have formed a combination, with a capital of $2,000,000, for the purpose of building a monster window glass factory with two or more tanks. This plant will be used in competition with Chambers & McKee's tank plant at Jeannette.

The location of the new plant has not been positively determined, as all details have not yet been fully considered, but the town of Belle Vernon, twelve miles above McKeesport, on the Monongahela River, receives the more favorable mention.

A Woman's Bequests.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The late Charlotte Spaulding left bequests of $8,000 each to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions of Massachusetts and the Home Missionary, $5,000 to the American Missionary Association, $1,000 each to the Boston City Mission, Women's Board of Missions, Women's Department of the Home Missionary Society and Seamen's Home Society.

A Brooklyn School Teacher Missing.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The police of this city are much mystified by the disappearance of a school teacher named Virginia M. Wagner, who disappeared from her home on July 3, and has not since been heard from. The authorities have been indefatigable in their efforts to find some trace of the missing woman, but up to the present have not succeeded.

Freight Workers' Strike Still On.

BUFFALO, Sept. 18.—The strike of the New York Central freight men for extra pay for Sunday work is still on. Freight Agent Clark says he will not grant the demands and intends to pay off and discharge the strikers this afternoon. Track hands are doing the work now, but considerable freight has been delayed. The strikers are non-unionists.

Assaulted Him Once too Much.

BRISTOL, N. H., Sept. 18.—Yesterday afternoon, Charles Scales was fined for assaulting Frank E. Smith. After the trial both men returned to Alexandria, where they reside, and there Scales again assaulted Smith who retaliated by shooting Scales with a revolver inflicting a mortal wound. Smith was arrested.

Found Dead in a Brook.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 18.—George W. Chandler, aged 45, and a well known citizen, left home in his team as usual yesterday morning. Last evening his horse was found wandering about Methnen, and this morning Chandler's body was found under a culvert with his head partly submerged in the brook. No cause is known for the suicide.

A Colored Divine Jailed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 18.—A colored man who says he is the Rev. G. W. Williams of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is wanted there on a charge of grand larceny in disposing of furniture that was not paid for, was arrested here to-day and will be taken back.

Woman's Suffrage Party Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 18.—The Woman's Suffrage Party will hold its State Convention in the Court of Appeals Chamber of this place on October 3rd and 4th. The authorities tendered them the use of the chamber and town hall.

Attacked By a Bull Dog.

BROCKPORT, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Fred. Eller, a feeble old man of 70 years, was attacked by a vicious bull dog and very badly bitten. His nose was almost entirely taken off and his face, arms and body badly chewed. He is in a serious condition.

THE GIRLS OF CUBA.

They Understand the Art of Flirting and Keeping Comfortable.

The Houses in Havana Built With an Ey to the Girls—The Windows Barred to Prevent Romeo and Juliet Schemes. Hot Weather Customs.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Life in Cuba, whether in January or July is an unending struggle to maintain an agreeable temperature. The Cubans achieve this important object by never exposing themselves to the sun, sitting indoors or in shaded piazzas, riding in covered victorias, providing themselves with large parasols, placing awnings over the sidewalks, and even stretching canvass across the narrow streets. Curiously enough shade produces coolness, as Cuba enjoys constant winds, blowing softly but steadily, by which the people are fanned and cooled. In direct conflict with the sun's rays, these breezes amount to nothing; it is the shade which makes them so cooling, that stepping out in the sunshine in Havana, is like going from a New York sidewalk into a cellar. Nobody walks in the daytime. Ricketty, tumbledown victorias are so numerous that there always seems to be a vehicle in front of every fourth or fifth house. The ever sleeping drivers must be aroused with blows and endearing epithets when one desires to use a victoria for shopping, sight-seeing, making calls or even going from a hotel to a cafe only two blocks distant.

During my year's residence in Cuba I have been astonished at the number and variety of cooling drinks in ordinary use. On entering a cafe a Cuban will commonly order a glass of cocoanut milk, or a glass of cocoa and gin or tamarind water; or penales and water, which is merely the white of an egg and sugar made into a cake of frothy lightness and dissolved in a glass of water. The number of drinks made from water having the sting taken out of it with wine, alcohol, fruit or sugar, is surprisingly great, and the amount of good they do in cooling humanity is immense.

Old Sol prescribes the style of architecture as well as the mode of life, to such an extent, that were the Cubans not Christians, they would doubtless be sun worshippers. Cupid, too, has a hand in this important matter. Every afternoon a Cuban town resolves itself into a beauty show. As soon as the sun's rays slant enough to throw the streets into shade, the girls, wearing their lightest costumes, lounge in picturesque attitudes in the windows to enjoy the street scenes and the admiration of the passers-by. Those windows are Cupid's own. They are as large as stable doors while the cool marble sills, composed of China tiles, are as wide as ordinary sofas, and a foot or two above the sidewalk. Here the large orbed, languid beauties repose at half length, resting their bodies on the window frames, displaying their high art shoulders, and perhaps an inch or two of gay silk hose and manifest an entire surrender to dreamy indolence and chronic langor, killing time with an ease and grace that defies Northern competition and rivalry. But though so near, the belles are yet distant, for they are caged. Whether with or without glass, the windows are protected with possibly ornamental iron bars, which give their seats a prison like aspect. Every afternoon witnesses an amatory campaign that the beaux call "doing the bear," and in which the slaves of beauty walk up and down the opposite sides of the streets, like bears in a cage, in order to attract attention and possible smiles of the fair ones, and the smitten swain seeks an occasion to look his desire, that his enslaver grant him an estate in her thoughts. The winner of a smile, after repeated success in the preliminary skirmish, will suddenly approach, and dart to one side, and flattening himself against the wall, will edge up close to the corner of the window bar, where senorita is sitting. Nor is he empty handed, but presses through the bars a box of bonbons into the dimpled hand stretched out to receive it. With this he reaches up on tip toe, and whispers in her ear a sentence or two, which causes her to smile and nod her head, while she replies to a question addressed to her by some member of the family. He will continue whispering to her for some time, while she joins in the conversation of her relatives with an air of pretended interest that an actress might envy. One never sees a woman reading in Cuba, and for that matter nobody weakens their eyes by such an amusement. Every club has its library, but the collection of books is slender and the volumes are dusty and abandoned-looking. The women and girls sometimes hum a pretty Cuban tune, or chat among themselves and comment on the passers-by; but often they are content to loll lazily, as they fan themselves with that graceful mastery of their huge fans peculiar to Spanish and semi-Spanish women. The only women to be seen in Cuba who possess energy, are the ballet-dancers in the theatres. But inactive as they are, their listlessness does not exceed that of the men, as no one allows himself to be disturbed with work. By eight o'clock in the evening, the main streets of a Cuban town hum with activity. On the clear and cool evening air the ladies come out in full force, accompanied by their husbands, mothers or duennas on their way to the theatre, or to sit in one of the parks and listen to the music of the military band. Here the beaux and belles meet again, and exchange shots with the missiles of the eye. At the band concerts the swains "do the bear" as assidiously as in the afternoon, while senorita never fails to look charmingly unconscious that a young man has taken a seat exactly opposite, although the swain stares at her intently as if he feared that she would suddenly vanish, and he was resolved not to lose the last sight of her. At length the concert concludes, and the grand rush of ladies and gentlemen to their carriages begins, during which the timid maiden may perhaps drop her hand by her side to have it pressed just a little by somebody, or to have a note left in it by the bold wooer, who squeezes through the crowd to do so. The thin and withered men with dark skins and hair almost invariably black, who have dyed their systems with incessant coffee drinking, and tanned themselves with sunshine and tobacco, contrast strongly with the pink cheeked beauties who are nearly all on their way to stoutness. Tobacco has not dried, nor coffee tinctured, nor sunshine baked those faces, necks and arms in the windows, in the darkest of which their is no hue, except that of the blending of the olive and the rose. But there is a love of mischief in those orbs, which for the stranger are full of revelations in the possibilities of the pastime of flirting, which Cuban girls have reduced to a science. But to be dangerous she must have her fan, that deadly implement of Cupid, which she understands how to employ with ravishing potency. Without her fan she will not engage in the combat, as in such a case, flirting becomes raw and clumsy, while with one it is artistic, electric, and instead of requiring boldness, the effect is heighted by the suggestion of modesty. If a man is inclined to hasten matters by seeking an early introduction to a Cuban girl, she has only to close her fan and look at him with cool surprise to make him go away uncertain whether she has been playing with him or his eyes have deceived him. They add to the effect by combining their few signals with a movement of their fans. A glance of admiration must be caught on the instant. Between the removal and replacing of the fan and the glance seems a thousand times more mischievous than it would have looked had not the fan lent it something of slyness and secrecy. The flirting girl smiles behind her fan, allows the young man to see the mischievous expression, and then hides her face in confusion. Imagine a roguish laughing glance at the top or side of a fan quickly replaced by the view of a demure round face, resplendent with its coal black eyes and ruby lips, turned calmly in another direction, and wearing the expression of a statue. There is probably more flirting in Cuba than in any other place, but this is doubtless to be attributed to the fashion the women have of lolling in the windows, which is taken advantage of by the young men, and has led to a curious custom.

If a youth is smitten by a maidens charms, and does not know her name, or how to become acquainted with her, he walks by her window of an afternoon, passing and repassing, and directing side glances at the object of his admiration. She is quick to notice this, and if inclined to encourage him, she remains in her seat. In time, he may venture to speak to her, and may secure an invitation to call upon the family, after a few whispered chats at the window, or will have a way pointed out to him for a formal introduction. But if his manners and looks are distasteful and offensive to the young woman, she waits till she is certain that he sees her, and then quits the window with a show of great displeasure, flouncing into the room and banging the window shutters behind her. Cuban girls may not go into the street on shopping excursions, to make calls or for any other purpose unless they are attended by a servant or an elderly person.

Thus does the Cuban belle, from whom the flirtatious American girl may learn so much in her favorite art, pass by many but easy gradations up Cupid's stairway. The heated term is gliding swiftly away and with the advent of September, the absent belles are returning to the city with an infinite unconsciousness and self-complacency of manner, that savours of a falling mercury and coming marriage. May they repose in the reflection that the past is secure, and quaff the cup of assured expectation until the flowers fade, till winter, or perhaps till Easter, when they may finally scale the heights of happiness by the ladder of love.

GEORGE F. CLARKE.

The Man Who Never Makes Mistakes.

I don't want anything to do with the man who never makes mistakes. None of that kind for me! You can bet your life he's a stick-in-the-mud! Why, it can't be otherwise! The man with originality and push must all the time be poking his nose into unexplored country. He's a Stanley, and he must expect to have Stanley-luck part of the time. But the Stanleys are the locomotives that drag the world's train along in spite of its inertia.

How to Collect Debts.

The Rev. Dr. Sutton once said to the late Mr. Peech, a veterinary surgeon, "Mr. Peech, how is it that you have not called upon me for your account?"

"Oh," said Mr. Peech, "I never ask a gentleman for money."

"Indeed," said the Vicar, "then how do you get on if he doesn't pay?"

"Why," replied Mr. Peech, "after a certain time I conclude that he is not a gentleman, and then I ask him."

Eva Hamilton Pleads Not Guilty.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 18.—Captain Perry, counsel for Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton, asked and obtained the consent of the presiding Judge and Prosecutor of the Pleas to enter a plea of not guilty on behalf of his client. The reason assigned was the continued illness of Mrs. Hamilton, who is confined to her bed with an attack of nervous prostration.

Schooners Collide.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Sept. 18.—The schooner J. A. Parsons, from Bangor for Bridgeport, Conn., collided yesterday with the schooner Zulette Kenyon off Cross Rip lightship and sunk her. Captain Ames, his wife and the crew of the Kenyon were rescued by the schooner Mary V. Wellington and brought to Cottage City. The Kenyon is a total loss.

Pennsylvania Firemen's Convention.

CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 18.—The tenth annual State Firemen's Convention in session here has over 300 delegates in attendance. Eighty companies will constitute the parade to-morrow.

Le Caron, the Spy, in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—A letter carrier claims to have seen Le Caron, the British spy, in the postoffice here yesterday. The letter carrier was well acquainted with Le Caron when he was in Chicago.

Reserved for Men.

A Pennsylvania editor answers a correspondent who propounded the query, "Did you ever see a bald-headed woman?" in the following strain: "No, we never did. Nor did we ever see a woman waltzing around town in her shirt sleeves, with a cigar between her teeth. We never saw a woman go fishing with a bottle in her hip pocket, sit around on the damp ground all day, and go home 'boozed' in the evening. Neither have we seen a woman yank off her coat, spit on her hands, and swear she could whip any man in town. All of the foregoing 'privileges' are reserved for men."

A Tough Old Tartar.

There is a man living at Saratoff, Russia, who is 140 years old. He acted as adjutant to Field Marshal Pugatcheff and took part in the storming of Kasin and Simbirsk and in the bombardment of Samara. He was arrested with Pugatcheff and brought back to Simbrisk, where he was subjected to 180 blows with the knout and condemned to hard labor for life in the Siberian mines. After thirty-eight years' banishment and hard labor Samoloff was permitted to return to his native city. Despite the hardships of his exile he is described as still retaining all his faculties.

IN THE JURY'S HANDS

Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton's Case Concluded To-Day.

HER HUSBAND TELLS HIS STORY

The Court Room Thronged With a Fashionable Audience.

The Defendant's History of Herself Does Not Agree With that Furnished by the Police—She Refuses to Say Whether "Baby Beatrice" is Her Child—The Wounded Nurse and Eva Tell Different Stories About the Stabbing Affray.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 19.—The ancient-looking little Court House at this place was thronged with spectators yesterday, many of whom were handsomely-dressed women from Philadelphia and Atlantic City, who had come to court to witness the trial of Mrs. Evangeline Hamilton, indicted for stabbing Mary Ann Donnelly, her nurse, at Atlantic City.

While the jury was being selected Robert Ray Hamilton entered the court room and took a seat near Mrs. Rupp, and but a few feet away from the prisoner. Hamilton appeared cool and manifested a deep interest in the proceedings. Mrs. Hamilton looked pale and haggard. She wore a long cloak, the same she had on at the time of her arrest. Mrs. Rupp, of the Noll Cottage, and Mary Ann Donnelly occupied seats inside the rail. Nurse Donnelly was pale, but otherwise seemed to be in her usual health.

Nurse Donnelly testified that Mrs. Hamilton took out of her trunk the knife with which the cutting was done. Mrs. Hamilton called her a vile name, and she asked a retraction, which Mrs. Hamilton refused to make. Mr. Hamilton warned her not to strike Mrs. Hamilton, and the witness left the house to see the Swinton party.

On her return she noticed that Mr. Hamilton's trousers had been cut on the right knee and that his coat had been split down the back. The knife and garments both were offered in evidence.

Mr. Hamilton's testimony was to the effect that the nurse was very abusive toward Mrs. Hamilton. The rent in his coat he explained by the fact that early in the day he had quarreled with the prisoner. The knife with which the cutting was done was bought in Norway in 1874. The witness never referred to Mrs. Hamilton while on the stand as his wife, but always as the defendant. She had shown him bruises and scratches inflicted by the nurse.

Mrs. Hamilton testified that her husband upheld the nurse, and that he was very abusive to her. The nurse told her she would cut her heart out if discharged. Mrs. Donnelly threw her on the bed and placed her knee on Mrs. Hamilton's stomach. The knife, which was lying on the bed, was then used by Mrs. Hamilton in self-defense. The prisoner said that she first met Mr. Hamilton four or five years ago in New York at Mrs. Brown's. She afterward met Mr. Hamilton on the street and finally he called upon her.

Neither of her parents are living, she declared, and she has money left her by her father. She said she is no relation to Mrs. Swinton, but met her in a boarding house at No. 10 East Twenty-eighth street, New York, where she also met "Josh" Mann. She said she was married last January to Mr. Hamilton, but declined to say whether she had been married before or was the mother of baby Beatrice.

Both sides then rested, and Judge Reed stated that the arguments of counsel would be made and the case given to the jury to-day.

THE LONDON STRIKE.

The Dock Strikers Make Another Assault on the Blacklegs.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—Three thousand dock laborers assembled outside of the gates of the Victoria dock this morning and demanded the dismissal of the "blacklegs" employed there, otherwise they would not return to work.

The directors of the dock company refused to comply with the demand and called upon the police to protect the men at work. A strong force of police appeared on the dock and the "blacklegs" are working under their protection.

The directors of the dock companies have sent a protest to Cardinal Manning and the Lord Mayor, pointing out the cases of violence on the part of the strikers since the agreement for the settlement of the strike was arrived at and stating that a number of the men are refusing to submit to the terms of the agreement of the directors, and ask the Cardinal and the Lord Mayor to use their influence in the interests of peace.

Cardinal Manning and the Lord Mayor held a conference with the dock directors' committee this forenoon with reference to the complaints made by the directors that the strikers have not kept their agreement. The Cardinal promised the directors to exhort the strikers to observe the agreement under which the strike was settled and particularly the clause binding them not to molest the "blacklegs." The Cardinal also said that the Lord Mayor and himself would issue a proclamation to the men warning them against rioting.

Disastrous Fire at Rushville, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The village of Rushville, near here, was visited yesterday by a very disastrous fire which destroyed nearly all the business portion of the village. The fire was caused by a defective chimney.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Elizabeth S. McClellan, mother of Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, died yesterday at the residence of her niece, Miss Rebecca Coxe, at Drifton, aged 90 years.

10,000 LIVES LOST.

Big Floods and Landslides Cause a Terrible Disaster in Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Japanese papers received by the steamship Gaelic to-day, placed the total number of persons drowned in the floods of August 20 in the city of Wakayoma and in the districts of Minami-Muro, Higashi-Muro, Nishi-Muro and Hidaka, at 10,000 and the number of persons receiving relief at 20,424.

The river Kinokuni rose from 13 to 18 feet above its normal level and the embankments at the village of Iwashi were washed away. Immediately the village and about 48 other hamlets were covered by the raging waters.

On the morning of August 19th an enormous mass of earth fell from the mountain near the village of Tennokawa, stopped the course of the river of the same name, which submerged the village and drowned nearly all the inhabitants. A number of the villagers belonging to Tsujido took refuge in their temple which was on high ground, but when the land slide occurred about fifty persons were buried alive.

YALE'S ANNUAL RUSH.

The Usual Scene on the Campus and Several Freshmen "Shirted."

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 19.—Yale's '93, the incoming freshmen class, was formally mustered into the ranks last night by the sophomores, who, 150 strong, met the freshmen on the Grammar School grounds, and after a hard struggle hustled the new-comers all over the lot.

After the rush was over a large ring was formed and impromptu wrestling matches took place. The sophomores captured the bulk of the honors.

About a dozen freshmen were successfully "shirted," but no one was badly injured. A heavy rain put a sudden stop to the sport.

The Inter-State Fair at Elmira.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The weather is clear and cool, and a large crowd is in attendance at the Inter-State Fair. It is estimated that over 12,000 people visited the fair yesterday. To-night Duncan Ross, Sergeant Walsh and Captain Daly will engage in a mounted broadsword contest. To-morrow will be given to the soldiers and entertaining Governor Hill of New York and Governor Beaver of Pennsylvania.

The Wauregan Plan of Extension.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 19.—The Wauregan Mill Company's plan of extension has been sent out to its creditors in circular form. The plan is substantially the same as the one previously sent out except that it separates the interests of E. P. Taft from those of the mill. Most of the city banks, it is believed, will accept it. The creditors are considering the plan.

Trotting at Fleetwood Park.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The trotting events scheduled for yesterday in the grand circuit at Fleetwood Park were postponed until to-day on account of the inclement weather. The Executive Committee decided to move the scheduled events ahead one day. On Saturday Harry Wilkes and Gean Smith will trot for a special purse of $4,000.

J. W. Payson Dead.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—J. W. Payson, of Hyde Park, the world-renowned artist penman, chief author of the Payson, Dunton & Scribner copy-books, and the man who first gave the students of America a scientific analysis of script writing, died yesterday afternoon, aged 74. He received many medals in his lifetime for superior work with the pen.

Advance Granted to Miners.

BROCKWAVILLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Northwestern Company has granted the 5 cents advance to the miners, and 1,200 men resumed work between Dagus and Brockwaville to-day. This settles everything practically in this field but Du Bois and Reynoldsville, and they are to get an answer soon from the officials at Rochester.

The Site Committee's Selection.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The World's Fair Site Committee are understood to favor the selection of the 425 acres including the northern part of Central Park from 90th to 110th streets, the vacant land north of the park between 5th and 8th avenues, all of Morningside Park, part of the Bloomingdale lands, and all or part of Riverside Park.

Schooner Pounding on the Rocks.

EASTPORT, Me., Sept. 19.—The three-masted schooner Keystone, Boston for Calais, in ballast, while anchored off Campobello in the fog, dragged anchor and is pounding on the rocks in a heavy southeast wind. She will probably go to pieces. A tug that went from here was unable to get her off.

Warner Positively Declines.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—There is no longer any doubt that General Warner has declined the President's tender of the Commissionership of Pensions, or that Colonel George S. Merrill, of Massachusetts, will receive the appointment, which will probably be made public within the next two days.

Schooner Ashore.

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 19.—The schooners Abbie Thaxter, Portsmouth for Bangor, and Decatur Oakes, Portsmouth for Rockland, are ashore on Whitehead. Their crews were taken off by life-saving men. The vessels will be a total loss.

Big Fire in a Delaware Town.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 19.—A destructive fire occurred yesterday at Seaford. Engines were sent from here. The town hall, Masonic hall, Odd Fellows' hall, ten stores and several dwellings were burned.

STILL IN THE LEAD

The New Yorks Six Points Ahead of Boston.

BOTH CLUBS WON YESTERDAY.

The Giants Gained an Advantage by Playing Two Games.

The Bostons Played Their Last Championship Game of the Season on the Home Grounds—Pittsburg Takes Two Games from Cleveland—Chicago Loses to the Hoosiers—Brooklyn Plays a Tie With the Athletics—Standing of the Clubs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—New York and Washington played two games here yesterday, the former winning both in fine style.

The first game was a magnificent contest from the outset, and abounded in brilliant fielding and at times heavy batting. The most conspicuous features of the game were a marvelous running catch by Hoy and another of the same order by Beecher.

The second game had many errors from the start. New York batted Krock all over the lot with the greatest freedom, and the home club gave him poor support. The game was called at the end of the sixth inning on account of darkness.

Lockport's Ex-Mayor Injured.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Ex-Mayor P. D. Walter, of Lockport, stepped into an elevator well at the Brackett House in this city last night. He received a severe gash on the forehead and also complains of pain in the side. His advanced age makes his condition somewhat dangerous.

Pennsylvania's Board of Pardons.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Board of Pardons are considering several cases. It is reported that the applications of Edward Slattery and Edward Coyle, murderers, of Allegheny County, have been rejected, but no action will be announced for several days.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Today is known as politician day at the State Fair.

—On Saturday the days and nights will be of equal length.

—The managers of the Dime Savings Institution meet in regular session this evening.

—A new six-ton burglar proof safe of the Herring make is today being placed in the Dime Savings Institution on East Front street.

—The Ladies Training class conducted by Mr. E. L. Suffern will be re-organized at the Y. M. C. A., to-morrow, Friday, at 4:30 o'clock. All ladies welcome.

—Rev. C. A. Gray, who left the M. E. conference at Plainfield last Spring to take the steamer for India as a missionary, died there a few weeks since.

—The veterans of the 7th N. J. Volunteers, of whom there are quite a number in Union county, are holding a reunion and banquet at Passaic, N. J., today.

—An adjourned meeting of the Reform Club will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock. A matter of important business is pending and a full attendance is desired.

—Fifteen loaded coal cars were wrecked in a collision on the Central Railroad yesterday, at High Bridge. Both tracks were obstructed, causing delay to all trains.

—The recent storm washed several deep gullies in the roadbed on Scott place, and that thoroughfare needs the immediate attention of the Street Commissioner.

—The Y. M. C. A. of Pittsburg, Pa., receives $8,000 from the will of the late William Thaw, $2,000 to be paid the first year and $1,000 in each of the following six years. Mr. Thaw gave $30,000 toward the erection of the Y. M. C. A. building in that city.

—The Electrical Construction and Supply company, of which Mr. Fred Dunn is the manager in this city, has just closed a contract with Mr. Charles Hyde to wire the latter's handsome residence on East Front street for electric bells and incandescent lighting.

—On Sept. 25 and 26, the last two days of the Flemington Fair, Prof. Jewell, the famous balloonist, will make an ascension from the fair grounds, and at the height of 2,000 feet will boldly leap from the balloon and descend to the ground with the aid of a parachute.

—Governor Green has spent nearly all his Summer at Camp Green headquarters. New Jersey probably never had a Governor who took so much interest in the National Guard. Two or three hours practice on the rifle range every day has made him quite a skillful marksman.

—The regular weekly meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held as usual this evening, in the S. of T. rooms, corner of Front street and Park avenue. All the members that can are requested to be present, as several new members will be initiated and other business of importance transacted.

—We frequently receive contributions for publication, to which the writer fails to sign his name. All such are thrown into the waste basket. We are always glad to receive anything of interest to our readers, but it is necessary for us to have the name of the writer, not for publication, but only as evidence of good faith.

—Do not trade with tramp dealers. They pay no taxes and have no interest in the city except to skin the people and then skip out. Deal with reputable business men who are responsible, and do not sell shoddy goods to the injury of their reputation. People who patronize tramp dealers always get the worst of it, and nobody pities them.

—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company yesterday launched at Elizabethport a big float, 257 feet long, with a double track on it, for the conveyance of cars across from St. George to New York when the big bridge is finished. This is the second float launched by the company, which is building a fleet of transports at its Elizabethport shipyard.

—The preliminary arrangements incident to the proposed pilgrimage of Coeur de Leon Commandery, of New Brunswick, to Washington, have now been completed. The Commandery will leave on Oct. 7, to attend the 24th triennial conclave of the Grand Encampment. It is also expected that twelve members of Trinity Commandery, of Plainfield, and the wives of six of these members will join the party.

MACINTYRE—MANNING.

A Very Pretty Wedding Consummated Last Evening—List of the Guests.

The residence of Mr. L. L. Manning, on West Seventh street, was last evening the scene of a very pretty home wedding. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiated. The contracting parties were Miss Carrie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Manning, and Mr. P. B. MacIntyre. The bridal party entered the parlors to the sweet strains of Lohengrin, being led by the ushers Mr. Russell, of New Brunswick, Messrs Frank Heyniger, and Warren Burt, of Plainfield. Mr. Henry Manning, of New Brunswick, acting as best man, and Miss Fowler, of East Orange, as maid of honor. The bride, a striking brunette, and one of the most popular of Plainfield's young ladies, wore a handsome gown of ivory white faille, with pearl and silver trimming and Duchesse lace. The long sweeping tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms added much grace to the elegant costume. She carried a large cluster of white rosebuds tied with white ribbon, the ends reaching to the floor. The maid of honor, a petite and attractive blonde, was sweetly and simply attired in white crepe de chene, cut circular neck and trimmed with thread lace. She carried a bouquet of fragrant pink roses. The presents were numerous and costly, including a silver, gold lined berry dish and spoon, and a Mexican Onyx clock from the employees of the Tide Water Oil Company, which company Mr. MacIntyre is connected with. Handsome gifts were also received from members of the firm.

A noticeable feature of the wedding was the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Bay City, Mich., who acted as bridesmaid and groomsman at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Manning, the parents of the bride. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mrs. and Mrs. R. Small, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Warren, Mr. Robert Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Balsley, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. George Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Purdie, Mrs. and Miss Ogden, all of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Mercein Thomas, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Dalrymple, of Elizabeth; Mr and Miss Hooker, of Mt. Pocono; Miss McDowell, of Stelton; Mr. Chas. R. Fowler, Jr., East Orange; Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Manning, Mrs. Jos. Manning, of Trenton; Mr. Caldwell Manning, Mr. and Mrs. David Townsend, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. R. Mason, editor of the Bound Brook Chronicle, Miss Sheperd, Messrs L. S. and F. H. Cook, Mr. Runyon Field, of Bound Brook; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burt, Mr. Robert Rushmore, Mr. Maltby, Miss Laura Baker, Miss Minnie Wilson, Miss Edith Harold, Mrs. Catherine Sebring, Mr. Wm. H. Sebring and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Sebring, Mr. and Mrs Edward Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Manning, the Misses Manning, Dr. A. Manning, Miss Hetfield, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Manning, Mrs. Ranson, Miss Kittie Manning, Mr. D. H. Manning and family, Mrs. Catherine Randolph, Mr. Howard Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Manning, Mr. Manning Vermeule, Mrs. Wm. Sanford, Miss Sanford, Mr. Joel Randolph, Mrs. Sarah Manning and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. MacIntyre, Mr. George MacIntyre, Mr. and Nrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Heyniger, the Misses Heyniger, Mr. and Mrs. Wiechers, Miss VanDeventer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Green, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Smith, Mr. Frank Baynon, Miss Florence Pierson, Miss Thorn, all of Plainfield.

The Best of the Season.

The testimonial concert at the Hotel Netherwood, tendered by the guests to the musicians, proved a grand success in every respect, as was exclusively reported in Tuesday's PRESS. Each number of the programme was received with hearty applause. The immense parlors were brilliantly lighted, and the elegant toilets of the ladies added greatly to the beauty of the scene.

The leader of the orchestra, Professor Stoelzer, deserves great credit for the excellent programme rendered and especially for the solo composed by him and played on the Viola D'Armour. This instrument, so little known, is the sweetest toned of the viol family. It has 14 strings and is perhaps the most difficult instrument known. As a performer, Professor Stoelzer has no equal in this country.

After the concert the guests enjoyed dancing. One dance composed by Prof. Stoelzer—dedicated to the ladies and named by him Netherwood Polka—was received with great enthusiasm by one and all. Besides the substantial money benefit, over $100, Prof. Stoelzer was the recipient of a beautiful cover for the Viola D'Armour.

It was somewhat regretted that Miss Mears was not able to aid the concert with her voice. Those who were fortunate to be present will long remember the concert and hop as the pleasantest of the many enjoyable evenings passed at the Hotel Netherwood this Summer.

—The early chestnuts are ripening, and the average school boy, is anticipating a heavy yield.

—The wet weather has damaged the tomato crop. Yesterday tomatoes were selling for $1 basket.

—The board fence which encloses the Crescent ball grounds was nearly blown down during the storm.

—Mr. H. P. Talmadge of Belvidere avenue has macadamized the driveways running through his spacious grounds.

—The Hope chapel Temperance Society will resume their Friday evening Gospel temperance meetings to-morrow. Several new features will be introduced this Winter.

IS FRED RICHTER MURDERED?

He Disappeared From Stirling in a Mysterious Way.

Fred Richter, a German, living in Stirling, six miles Northwest of this city, disappeared in a very mysterious way one day last week, and has not been heard of since.

Mr. Richter started Monday, Sept. 9, on his monthly trip to Summit, Chatham and Morristown, which keeps him away from home some two or three days at a time collecting and looking after the business of a Life Insurance company, of which he is general agent. The last that is known of him since is where he stayed that night at a house in Chatham. Owing to the heavy rains, he stated his intention of returning home; but he has not reached it yet, and it is feared he never will.

Some two or three days after his disappearance, a wagon was found by some hunters in the woods near Chatham, and the next day a man near where the wagon was found, discovered a strange horse in his pasture. It is not known, however, whether it was the horse and wagon that Richter had. Fears are entertained that he has been made away with in some manner, as some hard threats were made against him a short time ago.

Richter had very little money about him, for he had not gone all the way round on this trip as has been found out by one of the company's men.

His wife is almost crazy over her great misfortune. The poor woman is left almost destitute, with an infant to take care of. Some ten dollars have been given her by the people of Stirling, and the neighbors are doing all they can to console her. It is feared she will not be able to bear the terrible news that may come sooner or later regarding her husband's fate. Men are searching the country for miles around but without result as yet.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. L. P. Smith and daughter of Netherwood have returned from their European tour.

Miss Addie Bellemere of West Fifth street, will spend the coming two weeks in the Adirondacks.

Mr. David Gloak, for the past three years employed as a machinist at the Scott Printing Press Works in this city, sailed for Europe, yesterday, where he will remain permanently.

Capt. Doane and his daughter, Mrs. J. Hervey Doane of LaGrande avenue, are home again after a charming trip to Cape Sable Island and the quaint towns along the shores of Nova Scotia.

Mr. Peter Seader made a tour of inspection of the cells in the Borough lock-up yesterday afternoon, and while in one of the cells some one playfully locked the door, making him a prisoner.

At the eighth annual reunion of the Phil Kearney First New Jersey Brigade, held at the Soldiers' Home in Kearney, on Saturday, Dr. Wm. E. Mattison of North Plainfield was elected a vice president.

Mrs. E. J. Waring of North Plainfield, entertained the choir boys of the Church of the Holy Cross, last evening, in a very hospitable and bounteous manner. There were social enjoyments and refreshments.

The marriage is announced of Miss Mamie E Canfield and Mr. John W. Kerr, which occurred at the residence of the bride's brother, in North Plainfield, yesterday. Rev. J. B. Cleaver was the officiating clergyman.

Counsellor W. K. McClure and family left today for Lake Hopatcong, and will seek there and subsequently in the Adirondacks, a return of the good health enjoyed by Mrs. McClure and her children before their recent serious attacks of malarial fever.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Chas. Hyde fell asleep in a Summer house in the rear of his residence on East Front street, and when he awoke he was hemmed in by the high water. Mr. Hyde was obliged to wade through a foot or more of water in order to reach the house.

Mrs. S. G. Smith of Central avenue, returned home Saturday from a visit to her parents at Hartwick, New York. Mrs. Smith left here on July 15, for a Summer's recreation, but soon after she arrived at Hartwick she was taken ill with typhoid fever, and to her the season was one of sickness rather than pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Brower are home from the camps of the Megantic Game and Fish Club, among the lakes and forests of Maine and Canada. Mr. Brower is a member of the Club which owns 200,000 acres of the finest country in the World. Ex-Senator Livingston, of this city, is also a member. Mr. Brower found trout fishing, moose hunting, and other sport in abundance.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful but perfectly safe medicine.

—This morning the thermometer dropped below sixty.

—At the present time there are but five prisoners in the Somerville jail.

—Justice V. W. Nash reports having collected in over $5,000 in back taxes. Last month alone about $280 was paid in for poll tax.

A PLAINFIELD YOUNG LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

Her Graphic Description of a Remarkable Explosion a Mile Away.

The little niece of a Washington avenue resident, writes to her uncle the following bright description of her personal experience and knowledge of the recent remarkable explosion at Antwerp:

"ANTWERP, Friday, Sept. 5.

"I must tell you all about the awful explosion today. Just after lunch, when we were preparing to go out, we were startled by the most awful noise. It sounded as if a ton of iron had been thrown at the Hotel, it shook so violently. We rushed to the window, and saw a dense mass of smoke rising. We were much frightened, as we heard glass falling and crashing.

"A large gunpowder factory had exploded, and as it was near the Belgenland, bullets fell in showers upon the deck and the sailors. Houses were blown up, (one occupied by nine persons,) roofs were shaken off, and a very few windows in the town escaped. Many were killed and hurt, and a petroleum factory took fire and burned all day. We were a mile away, but some of our windows were shattered. The streets were covered with broken glass, and carts are going around taking it up."

The Freshet.

Tuesday night's freshet did more damage in this city than was first reported, especially so far as flooding the cellars are concerned. Few if any cellars in the vicinity of Broadway, Tenth street and Putnam avenue escaped being flooded, and in many instances the water flowed into the cellars to a depth of two feet. All day yesterday the work of pumping out the cellars went on. The basement in ex-Councilman Ginna's residence on Broadway, which stands on what was hitherto considered high land was flooded and the kitchen had to be abandoned. In scores of other dwellings the water was several inches deep in the cellars. Board walks on Tenth street were washed away and the roadbed was badly damaged.

Tier's ice cream pavilion had a narrow escape from total destruction, during Tuesday evening.

A Sad Case of Absent-Mindedness.

Last evening a well-known gentleman of East Fifth street, who up to a late hour had been busily engaged writing, picked up some scraps of paper from the table and proceeded to the kitchen for the purpose of burning them up. He lifted a lid from the range in which there was a red-hot fire, and turning around ignited the papers by the flame of the gas and threw them in the range, burning his finfiers in the act.

It was some time before he realized what a ridiculous thing he had done and requested that no mention of it be made to a living soul. We will therefore keep quiet.

Building Loan.

At the Directors' meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association held last Monday evening, the Secretary submitted semi-annual statements of the assets and liabilities of each series, as of record on the 26th of August, and which showed the Association to be steadily growing in financial strength.

The officers are:

President—Joseph S. Cutter.
Vice President—Lewis E. Barkalew.
Treasurer—William R. Codington.
Secretary—Nathan Harper.
Solicitor—John H. Jackson.
Finance Committee—John Chandler, B. Frank Coriell, Wm. R. Codington.

To Meet in Another Chapel.

The first meeting of the Fall and Winter series under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue church, will be held Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, in Bethel chapel. These meetings will be continued every Friday unless notice to contrary is given, and will be held in Bethel Chapel until the new chapel is completed. It is earnestly hoped that the young people of the Crescent Avenue church will make these meetings a regular engagement for Friday evening.

We Pause, Too.

(From the Central Times.)

Some members of the council oppose a proposition to allow the Hall Pump Co., to stretch wires about the city to connect with their electric pumps. One reason given is that the city is to have water works and there will be no need of such pumps. Is that the way people are to be bulldozed into using aqueduct warer? We pause for a reply.

The use of calomel for derangements of the liver has ruined many a fine constitution. Those who, for similar troubles, have tried Ayer's Pills testify to their efficacy in thoroughly remedying the malady, without injury to the system.

—The season for balls and sociables has arrived. Societies contemplating the holding of such would do well to call at THE PRESS office before having their printing done elsewhere.

—Extensive preparations are being made for the forthcoming tournament of the Middlesex Gun Club, which is to take place on the club's grounds at Dunellen, on October 8, 9, 10 and 11. Thirteen hundred dollars in guaranteed purses will be offered.

How Nice!

A child who has once taken HAMBURG FIGS as a cathartic will never again look on them as medicine, but will be likely to ask for them, under the impression that they are simply preserved fruit. 25 cents. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

BAD WEATHER IN FANWOOD, TOO.

No Arrests for the Baker Assault—Station Manager Brown in Uniform—Postmaster Hand's Improvements School News.

There are no further developments in the case of Dan Baker. As THE PRESS predicted, no arrests have been made. It is probable that nothing more will be heard of the affair.

Postmaster Hand, of Fanwood, found himself compelled to erect an additional barrier between the Government offices and the public hall. He has put up a neat wooden partition extending from the front of the letter boxes nearly across the room. People straying in and out and coming into the rear during the sorting of the mails necessitated this change.

The public school is again in full operation, with a good attendance and undiminished enthusiasm. Observe, I say undiminished, and not the stronger unabated. The enthusiasm for school of little children, especially of small boys, is a thing subject to frequent and serious variations; in fact it is not unusual to find a lad of twelve or fourteen without any enthusiasm for school at all. In School District No. 14, there is probably as little apathy among the youth of the village as in any school in the county, for under the able management of Mr. Goodenough the young idea is taught to shoot in an agreeable manner, and thorough withal. Wherefore, we welcome him back, and the other teachers as well; the good wishes of us all extend of course to "the new teacher," who has arrived with the opening term.

The sands are numbered that make up the life of the old school building. Amid driving showers and unpropitious skies the trustees laid out the site for the new building, and on Monday work was begun. And then it rained again.

There is nothing to say about the weather, nothing that would do it justice; absolutely nothing. To say that it rained for ten days running and hasn't stopped yet doesn't mean anything. To remark that the sidewalk on Park avenue is partly under water is vague and indefinite. To exclaim "Well, if this isn't the meanest, cussedest, rainiest weather I've ever seen," is highly inelegant, to say the least—but that's what everybody says just the same.

Station Master Brown is going to adopt the Central Railroad's uniform. Mr. Brown's many friends and admirers will be pleased to hear of this; it will give them joy; real, heartfelt joy. Mr. Brown is one of those men who look well in anything, but blue flannel and brass buttons will serve to set off his manly features in a way worthy of their wearer. And when Mr. Brown calmly tells the impecunious commuter that his year is up and that he will have to pass again through three months at ten dollars,—then, even then, will he be forgiven.

Owing to a combination of causes, the new organ, the new organist and the new soprano did not make their appearance at the Episcopal church, last Sunday.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

A Mad Dog Scare.

Quite an excitement was created Tuesday last in the vicinity of Stony Hill by the report of a mad dog being at large. A big yellow bird-dog ran into Mr. Carter's yard in Washington Valley and bit two of that gentleman's dogs severely. Before guns could be procured the dog made his escape, going in the direction yf Berkley Heights, where there is a public school that the children of the vicinity attend.

A young lady, Miss Layot, volunteered to warn the teacher of the impending danger to the scholars, as most of them were likely to come in the direction the dog had gone. Mounting her saddle horse Miss Layot rode to the school house and delivered her message. While on her way back the horse became frightened at something and ran away. Miss Layot kept her seat in the saddle, but was not able to check the speed of the frightened animal until near Mercier's corner, when he stumbled on some loose stones and threw the brave girl to the ground, somewhat bruised and stunned by her fall. Kind neighbors conveyed her to a house nearby, where she received the kindest attention until her parents could be informed and she be taken home. Miss Layot is still confined to her home, suffering from the shock and bruises.

The dog has not been seen since. He had a collar and chain attached to him, showing he broke away from some kennel.

Court of Special Sessions.

The Court of Special Sessions convened at Elizabeth, yesterday morning, with Judges McCormick, Hyer and Wiley on the bench. The attendance of spectators was small although legal talent throughout the county was well represented, the Lattimer will case having been called for the day, but on motion of ex-Chancellor Runyon, argument was deferred for another week, opposing counsel presenting no objection.

William Osches, of Fanwood, charged with burglary, plead guilty and was sentenced to State prison for five years. Osches, who is a man at least 60 years, acknowledged to the court that he had already served a term of 10 months in State prison.

—The last order from Gen. Supt. Olhausen of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, gives notice that commencing with the next change of uniforms on that road, freight agents, ticket agents and station baggage masters will be included in the list of those required to be clothed in uniform apparel when on duty.

THE CAMDEN MURDER.

Chalkley Leconey Starts from Ohio Under Police Escort.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 19.—A despatch from Waverly, O., states that Chalkley Leconey, the farmer suspected of murdering his niece, started East in custody of Marshal Donovan, who arrested him.

Deputy Sheriff West, of Camden, has gone to Harrisburg, where he will meet the Marshal and his prisoner and escort them to Camden. The party is expected to arrive at Merchantville this evening or to-morrow morning.

Although there are many people who are firmly convinced that the erstwhile-respected farmer is entirely innocent of the grave crime charged against him, the legal authorities who have the case in hand seem just as sure that he is guilty as principal or accessory.

Assistant Prosecutor Ridgway says he is at a loss to know what motive could induce anyone to murder Annie Leconey. Various theories have been advanced, but the right one has not even been conjectured outside of the prosecutor's office

Late last night Detective Gallagher hurried into the Camden County Jail with a mud-stained valise in one hand and the rumor went forth that he had found the money, a blood-stained hat and other important evidence buried in Leconey's grounds. It is known that he and Detective Warner have been digging all over the farm.

The Coroner's inquest will be resumed on Sept. 26, when all the evidence against Leconey will have to be produced if it is not made known before.

CHICAGO SCHEMING.

Fixing Up a World's Fair Surprise to Spring on Congress.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Chicago is preparing a surprise for Congress in connection with the World's Fair project.

By the time the Senators and Representatives are ready to take up the question of locating the fair Chicago will fire a broadside at them in the shape of $10,000,000 pledged as a guaranty fund, a site selected, plans drawn, information collected by a study of the greatest expositions of the Old World, engineers employed and all matters arranged so that as soon as Congress gives the word the work of letting the contracts for constructing the buildings can be commenced.

This line of action was decided upon at a meeting of the Executive Committee yesterday afternoon.

Convention of Workingmen.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. Sept. 19.—The fourth annual convention of the National Trade District of Miners and Mine Laborers of the United States is in session here. An aggregate membership of 20,000 is represented. They will attend a monster mass meeting at Nanticoke this evening.

Oneida N. Y., Republicans Elect Delegates.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs. 53, from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

PARIS IN A FERMENT

Popular Excitement Over the French Elections.

MANIFESTOES THICK AND FAST.

Boulanger Adopts a New Scheme to Catch Additional Votes.

He Begs that No Votes Be Cast for Him in Any Place Except Montmartre—It is a Close Fight and a Second Ballot May Be Necessary—An Army of Bill Stickers Busy in Paris—The Pope's Protest and the Clerical Vote.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The streets of this city are blazing with election placards and the usual scenes of excitement on such occasion are visible on all sides.

No one expects that anything political will really be decided here next Sunday. The trouble lies in the multiplicity of aspirants for legislative honors. It is evident from the great number of candidates that are in the field, and the consequent confusion which must result in many localities, that the elections of the 22 must necessarily fail to fix the eventful composition of the Chamber of Deputies one way or the other.

It will no doubt quite frequently occur that, out of several candidates for the same seat, no one will have a majority, and the result will be a second trial. Therefore, the political complexion of the new Chamber will be decided only upon the reballot. A perfect army of billstickers is engaged in this city every day, posting all sorts of appeals to the people to vote for one or the other of the almost innumerable candidates.

The number of electoral manifestoes is bewildering, and one effect is such a mingling of all sorts of ideas, that any one who reads many of these special pleas for political preference is apt to know a good deal less of the situation than if he had let them alone.

Boulanger has taken a new method to catch a little additional popular applause, under an appearance of urging his followers to strictly obey the laws and honor the existing government. He begs that no votes may be given for him in any place except Montmartre, where he has formally proposed himself as a candidate, according to the order of the government that no candidate shall stand in more than one place.

The indications just now are that the Revisionists will succeed in obtaining a small majority. They cannot, however, or at least it is not at all probable that they will, obtain anything like a working majority in the Chamber. Their success must be confined to the polls; and as it takes three virtually distinct parties—the Royalists, the Imperialists and the Boulangists—to effect even this, they can scarcely reckon upon the events of the next three days to advance very materially in power, even under the most favorable circumstances. It is a close fight, in any case.

POPE LEO'S PROTEST.

His Move in the French Election Contrasted With Dr. McGlynn's Case.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The statement made by a Rome correspondent of the "Chronicle," and confirmed by the press representatives at the Italian capital, that the Pope has solemnly and vigorously protested against the action of the French Minister of Justice in excluding the French clergy from participation in the coming general elections to the extent of influencing suffrages, has aroused a good deal of comment on what is generally regarded as the Vatican's refusal to admit that sauce for the goose may serve for the gander.

Concerning the protest of His Holiness, a prominent politician, himself a Catholic, said to-day:

"Of course the Vatican has everything to gain and nothing to lose in France, whereas in America, where the priest McGlynn and others of his calling and faith were inhibited from active political work, the conditions are reversed. Still, the number of persons in this country and on the continent who are unable or unwilling to reconcile the two cases is very large and growing, and the conviction is strengthening that the position taken by the Pontiff in asserting the political rights of the French clergy must certainly weaken the premises from which the conclusion of McGlynn's culpability was deduced."

The foregoing expression of opinion reflects the sentiments of many others of the faith, leading them to regret that their spiritual leaders should have voluntarily placed them in a false position, especially when no good results can be foreseen from any point of view whatever.

Six Persons Killed With Hatchets.

VIENNA, Sept. 19.—A fearful tragedy is reported at Szatmer, Hungary. A Jewish family of six persons were killed with hatchets, and terribly mutilated, by unknown persons. The motive of the crime was robbery.

New Jersey United American Mechanics.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—The State Council of the United American Mechanics elected the following officers: State Counselor, Dr. J. S. Gilbert, of Burlington; State Council Secretary, W. H. Davis, of Camden; State Council Treasurer, Abner Sparks, of Camden; Inductor, W. D. Towsend, of Gloucester; Examiner, J. B. Andrews, of Camden; Protector, William Fletcher, of Gloucester; Representative to the National Council, G. S. Smith, of Hudson. There are thirty-five councils in the State, with a membership of 2,383.

A Public Plunderer.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 19.—The sensation of the hour is the arrest of Henry B. Webb, Secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, and Territorial Secretary of Montana under Cleveland's Administration, for embezzlement of funds while in the latter office. He is charged with having stolen all kinds of sums from $5 up to $2,000.

Tennis Championship Match Postponed.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 19.—The second tennis match in the series between Kerr and Pettit for the professional championship of the world has been postponed until Saturday.

Mr. Barnaby Improving.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 19.—J. B. Barnaby was resting comfortably this forenoon. His physicians regard his condition as improved.

MRS. LOGAN DISSENTS.

Interviewed in Reference to Being Appointed Commissioner of Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Logan was interviewed to-day on the suggestion that the place of Commissioner of Pensions be given her.

"It is very kind of my friends," she said, "to mention me for the position. These newspaper men are always saying some kind little things about me, and though, of course, this is not serious, it is pleasing, nevertheless."

The reporter insisted that the people were in earnest.

"Oh, well, if you are talking seriously, let me tell you I would not consider such an idea for a moment. I have too keen an appreciation of the duties and responsibilities of the office and of my own unfitness to assume them, even to think of it for a moment, even if the place were proffered me, which is absurdly improbable."

BIG RESULTS PREDICTED.

Important State Witnesses in the Cronin Trial to Be Presented.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—A paper here today says: "Luther Laflin Mills and W. J. Hynes, the assistants of the State's Attorney in the Cronin trial, have won a most signal victory for the people in the present prosecution. Mr. Hynes formed the plan and Attorney Mills executed it, through Pinkerton and other detectives at an enormous cost.

"The result of their joint efforts will place on the stand in the trial now pending, LeCaron, Beach, J. T. Kirby and Patrick Cooney. Cooney is already in charge of the police in Chicago and all denials of this statement are worthless. Kirby is held at Niagara, Ontario, and will be brought to this city at the proper time. Le Caron is also in Canada and will accompany Kirby to Chicago, and the three will tell the whole story of the conspiracy and the murder."

The Cigarmakers' Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Various amendments to the constitution were discussed at the Cigarmakers' Convention in Tammany Hall. A proposition to hold the convention every third year instead of every two years, as is now the custom, was voted down. An amendment to take the power of naming the place of convening from the hands of delegates and leaving it to the vote of the members, was lost. The following basis of representation was adopted: One delegate for each local union of 25 members. Unions having more than 500 membrs shall be entitled to two delegates and for every 200 more members additional one delegate.

Republican Delegates Instructed.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 19.—At the Republican convention for the first district of Jefferson County held yesterday Fred Lansing, I. P. Wodell, E. C. Warner, H. Fuller, J. Mullin and L. G. Chase were elected delegates to the State Convention and instructed for A. C. Coxe for Judge of the Court of Appeals. H. J. Lane of Sacketts Harbor was renominated for member of Assembly.

Reunion of Abolitionists.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The reunion of old-time abolitionists to be held in Tremont Temple September 23 promises to be a very interesting affair. Fred. Douglass, Parker Pillsbury, Col. Higginson, Oliver Johnson and other noted surviving anti-slavery leaders will be present. Gen. Benjamin F. Butler is expected to deliver an address on "Contrabands." A feature of the occasion will be the inauguration of a plan to raise $200,000 with which to build a free public hall to commemorate the virtues and achievements of Wendell Phillips.

Ashton too Ill to Spar.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—To-day a dispatch was received here from Jack Ashton, announcing that he was indisposed and unable to fulfill his agreement to spar with George Godfrey at the Parnell Athletic club to-night. A physician's certificate was also received stating that Ashton was seriously ill of malaria and unfit to spar for at least six weeks. The fight is virtually off.

A Minister Arrested for Slander.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 19.—J. A. Ressler had Rev. B. C. Black, pastor of the Church of Christ, arrested last night on the charge of slandering his (Ressler's) wife. Ressler is a member of Black's congregation and has been the cause of considerable trouble in the church. Black has been released on bail.

Shot by Her Baby Sister.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 19.—While playing about the house of their parents, at West Newburg, yesterday, Charles and Annie Bond, aged respectively five and three years, found an old revolver. It was discharged while in the hands of the girl, and the bullet lodged in the breast of the boy just above the heart, inflicting a fatal wound.

Probably a Murder.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 19.—Cornelius Tyerson shot and fatally wounded his wife at his home, corner of North Third and Temple streets, yesterday. Ryerson is a painter by trade, but does little work, spending most of his time in disposing of a pension which, being a veteran of the war, he receives.

Suicide of a Student.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Sept. 19.—Caleb J. Dusenberry, of Flemington, a student at Hackettstown Seminary, committed suicide yesterday by shooting. The act, which was caused by family trouble, was committed in his room just after his class had been called. Letters found in the room show that the deed was premeditated.

Domestic Troubles Cause Suicide.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 19.—Mrs. Abbie A. Foss, wife of Oliver S. Foss, of Northwood, committed suicide at the residence of Andrew H. Brown, at Stafford, yesterday, by taking poison. The cause was domestic troubles. She was a daughter of Stephen P. Hill, of Stafford. Her age was 37 years.

Arrival of the Chinese Ambassador.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Tuey Gwok Ying, Ambassador to the United States, arrived on the Gaelic to-day from Hong Kong, accompanied by a large delegation of Chinese dignitaries.

Killed and Horribly Mangled.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 19.—Francis Cole was struck by the eastern express on the Pennsylvania Railroad and instantly killed here yesterday, his body being horribly mangled. He got off a freight train standing on the siding.

SHELLS AND SCULLS.

John Teemer Describes the Progress Made in the Art of Rowing.

The Evolution of the Oar—Radical Changes That Have Been Made In the Art of Training—How the Oarsman Earns a Living.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Rowing has its ups and downs like every other athletic sport in society fashion. The men who know this best are the professional oarsmen who one season are heroes wherever they go and make money hand over fist and another are scarcely recognized outside of aquatic circles and earn only enough cash to keep body and soul together. At present it is in high feather. All over the country boat clubs and college navies are practicing, competing and exhibiting and in every case draw great crowds and elicit any amount of enthusiasm. The interest is on the increase on account of the fierce rivalry between our leading universities. Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Michigan have each one of them navies of which they can be proud and which in season and out do work of the best class. Even the smaller and poorer institutions of learning like Brown, Amherst, Williams, Dartmouth, Lehigh, Union and Toronto have excellent organizations, whose members, both as individuals and crews, will compare favorably with those of the larger and richer colleges. When it is remembered that these great schools have on their rolls over eight thousand names and close onto a hundred thousand alumni, it is easily seen how large an interest is centered in rowing events.

Besides this, and to my mind, of greater importance, is the rapidly increasing number of boatclubs in every part of the Union. Go where you please and in every place you will find a club, and generally a good one. Even in such a small city as Montpelier, Vermont, there is a first-class organization which practices every day upon that badly-named but beautiful river, the Onion. So along the Long Island Sound and the Hudson River, there appears to be a club-house every ten miles, and the traveler along the Harlem River, and around the beautiful shores of Staten Island will be amazed at the number and at the excellent appointments of the club-houses that are to be seen there by the score. I have never heard how many there are, but judging from what I have seen and know I should say that there were at least four thousand boat-clubs in the United States with a membership of over half a million young men. These figures may seem large but when you think of such affairs as the New York Athletic Club, the Atalanta and Manhattan Athletic Club, the New Jersey, Williamsburg, Brooklyn and Staten Island organizations, each one of which musters a full regiment, the numbers seem understated rather than otherwise. Why, there are successful clubs on such little lakes as Greenwood and Ronkon Koma, and in such little towns as Bristol, Rhode Island and Sheepshead Bay in New York.

"Is there an improvement in rowing?"

"Of course there is and in every respect. Everthing connected with aquatics has undergone the same change for the better as has everything in all the other fields of life. The oars or sculls, in the first place, are finer and more efficient to-day than ever before. The substitution of the spoon for the flat blade of the past was a vast improvement. Of almost equal importance have been the unnoticed alterations made in the shape and finish of the handle, in the lightening of the oar as a whole, in the curvature and outline of the blade and even in the selection and treatment of the wood from which it is made. The modern scull is lighter, stronger, handsomer and more effective than any past model known. There is the same development in boats. Whether made of cedar or paper, they are finer and lighter than ever before and their lines have less resistance and friction. Patent bracing, patent outriggers, patent sliding seats, patent foot-rests, patent metal cut-waters and patent diagonals, tell the story of how much thought and inventive genius have been devoted to the rower's art and of how much progress has been the result. One consequence has been the shortening of the time in every event. All records when examined turn out to be of recent date and coincide with the introduction and use of the inventions mentioned. Many of the great oarsmen of thirty years ago were better men than some of the champions of to-day and could have beaten them on even terms. But the improvements I have referred to have given the latter a great advantage and enabled them to eclipse the former in every feat from "singles" to "eights."

There has been a huge improvement in training methods, thanks to our doctors and experts. It is more like some Chinese school of medical treatment than anything else to read how oarsmen were put into condition in the old days. They took salts and senna, sulphur and magnesia, cathartic pills and blue mass until the wonder is that they did not die from excessive drugging. Then there was at that time a holy horror against fat, and the luckless oarsman had to wear "sweaters," which are the thickest jerseys that can be knitted out of woolen yarn, heavy overcoats, two and three suits of clothes, thick shoes and stockings and sometimes even comforters and tippets in order to produce copious prespiration and melt the fat through the pores. Beyond this there were all sorts of useless exercise. Dumb bells and Indian clubs, lifting heavy weights and shaking unwieldly bars were a small part of the training which a man in training had to undergo. Dieting was another feature. The candidate was not allowed to smoke or drink and was restricted to a bill of fare from which sugar, fats, starch, many meats, all pastry, confections and sweetmeats were rigorously excluded. The result of this treatment was disastrous in any number of cases. It weakened the man at his strongest points and threw needless strains upon other parts of his body. There is no doubt that the famous sculler Brown came to an untimely end from the unnecessary strain upon his heart produced by this method of training. It had one humorous phase, however, in producing boils all over the body of the rower and especially where he came in contact with the seat. On one occasion three of the famous Columbia College crew of 1875 were troubled in this way and for two weeks were unable to sit down and in fact to hardly move. The same trouble occurred to great crews of Harvard and Yale in this country, and to Oxford and Cambridge in England. This style, I am glad to say, is now out of vogue not only in aquatics but in every form of athletic exercise. People know more about the laws of health and strength and apply their knowledge in a very sensible and satisfactory manner.

The present style of training is simplicity itself. Its first principle is the avoidance of any shock to the body. The smoker is not compelled to give up tobacco and so suffer indescribable nervous pain, but merely to moderate and limit his use of the weed. The drinker is treated similarly and is allowed his bottle of Bass, his claret or Rhein wine with his meals. The regular course of nature is followed as far as possible. The athlete must go to bed and get up early. He must take long walks and runs, eat well and eat everything he desires that is not intrinsically unwholesome. He must bathe so as to keep the skin clean and allow the pores and glands to do their best work. In his exercise he must pay particular attention to the organs upon which his success depends. These are not so much the great muscles as is commonly believed, but the lungs and heart. When these are in bad form the oarsman, a minute after he has started, is in distress. The lungs are moving faster and the heart is overpowered with blood. The result is that the brain becomes surcharged and the man sees indistinctly, the breathing becomes hot, fast, irregular and then painful and, finally, the muscles refuse to do their proper work. To put these organs into good shape all that is necessary is to use those forms of exercise which call them most into use. Running, playing football, jumping the skipping rope, rowing, swimming, sparring, fencing and the like are invaluable in this respect. As to reducing weight, there is no need for heroic measures. The Schweninger system of drinking as little as possible and the Banting of confining one's self to a diet of lean meat and acid or sub-acid vegetables, exercise, warm bathing and regular hours are the chief means upon which the modern trainer relies. But above all he endeavors to avoid weakening the system by too much or too intense a training. It is far better for a man to be a trifle too "beefy" than to be overtrained. I may say in this connection that there is a curious fact which has long been known to all oarsmen but is almost unknown to the general public. This is that when a man's waist hollows in, his staying powers are nearly always poor, but when his waist curves out he is all right. Any training which changes a fellow's condition from the latter to the former is therefore very objectionable.

This is the reason why oarsmen are so much healthier than they used to be. They are also better appreciated in every respect. On the stage George Hosmer has been a drawing star for two seasons now, and promises to remain so as long as he stays upon the boards. Courtney and a dozen others earn large money in coaching college crews and ambitious managers. Then here and there in summer-resorts by lake, river or arm of the sea are energetic hotel keepers, who employ professional oarsman to give regattas and exhibition rowing or to take care of the boats and guests of the hotel. This latter practice is far more common in the West than in the East. The salaries paid in all cases are very handsome and the skuller is put on a par with the musicians, actors and other entertainers who, every summer visit our watering places.

HARD AT WORK.

There is no reason why he should not be. Rowing is a charming accomplishment on the one hand and a necessity on the other. Every child should be taught how to handle the oars and manage a boat. There is no knowing when that knowledge will be of the greatest value. Besides this, it is of the highest benefit to the health. Judge Joseph F. Barnard, of the New York Supreme Court has been upon that bench for more than twenty years, and has probably lost less time during that period from sickness than any other Justice in the State. The secret of his health lies in the fact that for at least thirty years he has used a "single" every day, when he has had the opportunity. His boat, as he makes it spin upon the Hudson, near his home at Poughkeepsie, is probably the most familiar object upon those waters.

Americans do not appreciate the high perfection to which oarsmanship has been brought in this country. No other nation can show such a roll as Hanlon, O'Connor, Lee, Ross, Courtney, Gaudaur, Hamm, Pilkington, Hosmer and Plaisted. They have gone to every land to meet rivals and have conquered fifty times where they have lost once. On the other hand, how many foreign oarsmen have ever come to the United States? Just as we have excelled in almost every other field to which we have given our attention so we have in aquatics. Our yachts are the swiftest and the safest, and our oarsman the finest and the best. JOHN TEEMER.

Simply Eclipsed the Palace Car Porter.

A passenger train was recently robbed in Wisconsin by one man, and the incident is being widely commented upon as a specimen of individual audacity. That single robber merely did at a single stroke what the palace car porter occupies a little more time in doing.

Don't Be a Clam.

"How are you?" said the oyster to the clam. "So you are picked up and carried away to be eaten just like the rest of us." "Yes; it is sad. Oh, if I had only heeded the advice I received in my early youth." "What was that?" "Don't be a clam."

OPPOSED TO THE NEGRO.

Senator Gibbs' Remarks In the Alabama Legislature.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 19.—Senator Gibbs' speech yesterday in the Legislature, in regard to forcing the negro to leave the State, has created a sensation. He said the whole race were vagabonds.

"Emancipated," he said, "the negro becomes useless and dominant, and lapses into barbarous voodooism. The lives and honor of Southern women are in danger at the hands of the scoundrels. The time will come before long when the white people of the State will rise as one man and demand the banishment or extermination of the race.

"I approve of the whipping of the negro at Eastpoint. When white men strike for their home and fireside I am with them every time. The time has come when the whites must stand up and defend themselves and their families.

"There is not room enough in this country for both the negro and the Yankee. The negroes are always at the call of the carpet-bagger. I want to see this State at least rid of the whole race."

The vote on the question was a tie, and the president gave his vote against Gibbs.

First Snow in Michigan.

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Sept. 19.—The first snow of the year for this section of the Upper Peninsula fell here to-day. It was only a sprinkling but was followed by a bitterly cold wave.

Important Baseball Changes.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 19.—There are to be important changes in the baseball associations next year. Cincinnati, it is said, is to connect itself with the League, taking the place of Indianapolis, whose franchise has been purchased by the League. Detroit will take the place of Cincinnati in the American Association. Columbus is to be retired and its place in the Association taken either by Troy or Worcester

Hints from a Clothier.

Yes, we have a good deal of complaint from customers about the shrinking of flannel shirts. All materials will shrink some; we generally allow half an inch for flannel, and if it is properly washed there is no reason why it should shrink perceptibly after that. The proper way is to souse the garment in hot soap-water, never rubbing it, and put it repeatedly through a wringer. The garment should never be wrung with the hands and never put in cold water.

KASKINE,

(THE NEW QUININE.)

Stimulates the Digestion, Calms the Nerves, Clears the Mind Yet Contains No Narcotic.

A POWERFUL TONIC.

A Specific for Malaria, Rheumatism, Nervous Prostration.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

"After five years suffering from malaria, which nearly destroyed my constitution, having used quinine without permanent benefit, I tried Kaskine and got better right away. The malarial symptoms all left me, and health, sleep and strength returned."—Henry Knarke, 563 Washington street, New York.

"I had all the symptoms of malarial poisoning; headaches, rheumatic pains, great nervous depression, loss of sleep, indigestion, &c. The old quinine proving useless, I tried "the new quinine" and soon got better."—W. Goldburg, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. Sold by druggists or sent by mail on receipt of price.

KILLED IN A RIOT

Americans Reported Slaughtered on Navassa Island.

SECRETARY TRACY'S ACTION.

He Orders the Galena to Repair Immediately to the Scene of the Difficulty.

The Island is Owned by Americans—Very Meagre Information Received by the State Department—Only a Brief Despatch from the Consul at Kingston, Jamaica—A British War-Ship Goes to Navassa at the request of the Consul.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A cablegram was received at the State Department yesterday from Consul Allen at Kingston, Jamaica, stating that a riot had occurred at Navassa in which a number of Americans were killed.

At the request of the Consul a British warship left Jamaica immediately for the scene of the difficulty.

The despatch contained no particulars.

The State Department immediately informed Secretary Tracy of the occurrence and the latter cabled to St. Nicholas Mole, Hayti, the cable terminus for the U. S. S. Galena, which is cruising in those waters, to repair immediately to Navassa. Admiral Gherardi is on the Galena.

Navassa is a guano island owned by General B. F. Butler and an American company. It is about 250 miles from Kingston. Though under no particular jurisdiction, it is looked upon as being under the protection of the United States and is inhabited chiefly by Americans.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 19.—With regard to the reported riot on Navassa Island, the Navassa Phosphate Company of this city, which owns the island, state that yesterday they received a despatch from a sea captain in which he referred to a "revolution" on the island, without giving any details.

To-day they received another cablegram, via England, which contains no reference to the revolution. The latest mail advices is a letter dated Sept. 10. It does not give any intimation of trouble.

France Proud of Her Army.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—M. de Freycinet, Minister of War, reviewed the Sixth Armry Corps to-day. After the review General de Mirabel, Commander of the Sixth Corps, addressed the officers of his command saying that France, supported by her army, would be reinstated to her former rank among nations. France he declared feared nothing or nobody. M. de Freycinet congratulated the troops and said that with such an army as France could secure she could command respect.

Spain's Warlike Demand.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—The Spanish Government has ordered a fleet of war vessels to proceed to Morocco to demand the release of the captain, four sailors and one passenger of the Spanish vessel captured by natives off the Riff coast of Morocco, and has ordered that 10,000 men be held in readiness to embark for Morocco at a moment's notice.

Parnell to Speak in Wales.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Mr. Parnell will make a number of political speeches in Wales before the close of the present recess of Parliament.

FIGHTING ON HORSEBACK.

The Broadsword Contest at the Elmira Fair Terminates Seriously.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The weather for the fourth day of the Inter-State Fair was not more pleasant than on the previous days, except that there was less rain. But 10,000 people were on the grounds.

The broadsword contest between Duncan Ross, Captain Daly and Sergeant Walsh proved to be more of a fight in earnest than was anticipated. Ross received a cut in his left arm and immediately made a stroke at Walsh's head. Walsh was knocked from his horse insensible, and remained unconscious for several minutes. He was carried to his hotel in a very weak condition, but he has recovered considerably and is out of danger.

Governor Hill of New York, Governor Beaver and Lieutenant-Governor Davies of Pennsylvania are the guests of the Fair Association to-day.

Pardons Refused.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—The Board of Pardons announces its refusal of the following applications for pardon: Slattery and Coyle, Allegheny county, murder in the second degree; Dr. Cox, Northampton, abortion; Luke Kelly, Luzerne, robbery; B. Agnus Leinburg, Philadelphia; selling liquor illegally. Pardon was recommended B. D. Brady, Venago, conspiracy, on acount of the condition of his health.

Brooklyn Will Not Join the League.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—President Byrne says the Brooklyns have taken no steps toward admission into the League. Their relations with the Association had been agreeable until very lately, and were not yet so disagreeable as to lead them to seek a change. He expected all causes of irritation to be amicably removed.

Hotel Proprietor Decamps.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Felix Doherty, the former proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, has decamped, leaving creditors in the lurch to the amount of $1,500.

Masonic Supreme Council.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Masonic Supreme Council has closed, and the next session will be held at Cleveland in September, 1890.

TWO YEARS IN PRISON.

Mrs. Hamilton Swoons in Court When Receiving Her Sentence.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 20.—When the jury pronounced Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton "guilty as she stands indicted," a dramatic scene was enacted that brought tears to almost every eye in the court room.

Mrs. Hamilton was led into the court room by Sheriff Johnston, and when the foreman of the Jury declared the verdict she fell in a swoon on the reporter's table.

Judge Reed waited a few moments to give the prisoner's counsel time to make a motion for a new trial, but no such motion being made the Judge in a cold, hard voice said: "Evangeline Hamilton, stand up." She was assisted to her feet by the Sheriff, when the Judge said: "You have been convicted of atrocious assault, but we have taken into consideration the conduct of the nurse and we give you a lenient sentence of two years in the State Prison."

It was learned after court was dismissed that the jury stood 11 for conviction and one for acquittal on the first ballot. Charles Whippy of Atlantic City was the one in favor of acquittal. He was soon induced to agree with the others, however, and thus ends the celebrated Hamilton case.

MR. CLEVELAND'S OPINION.

He is Pleased With the Action of Democrats on the Tariff Question.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Ex-President Cleveland's friends having asked for his opinion on the action of several recent Democratic State Conventions in approving the tariff reform plank of the last National Democratic Convention, he expressed himself as much pleased with these evidences that the attitude of the Democratic party on this question was still courageous, consistent and aggressive.

He thought that the careful examination of the tariff question by the people was bearing good fruit, and that all indications pointed to the triumph of the Democratic party's view of the subject. He added: "If among those counted as Democrats there are found timid souls, not well grounded in the faith, who long for the flesh pots of vacillating shifts and evasions, the answer to their fears should be 'Party honesty is party expediency.'"

Philadelphia's Gift to the New Cruiser.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—A number of citizens held a conference at the Mayor's office and decided to present to the new Government cruiser Philadelphia a comprehensive library for the use of those who may be assigned to duty on the cruiser. The proposed gift is to show the appreciation of the citizens of having the vessel named after this city.

Blast Furnaces Sold.

READING, Pa., Sept. 20.—The two anthracite blast furnaces of the Keystone Furnace Company, which failed recently, were sold to the Reading Iron Company for $100, subject to a mortgage of $175,000. This gives the Reading Iron Company control of four furnaces besides its numerous mills. In two weeks all four furnaces will be in blast.

Four Waterspouts.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Several cottagers at Ontario Beach witnessed a phenomenon yesterday. Four distinct waterspouts were plainly visible about five miles from the shore, and gave the spectators a fine view for several minutes. There was an off-shore breeze and the columns moved rapidly in a southern direction.

Ahearn Arrested for Jackson's Murder.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 20.—Eddie Ahern, who engaged in the prize-fight with young Jackson in this city Tuesday night, and who died soon afterward, has been arrested on a charge of murder in the second degree. Warrants will also be issued for all the participants in the affair.

Largest Dock in America.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 20.—The Halifax Graving Dock, the largest in America, was formally opened to-day by the entrance of the war-ship Canada. The dock cost $1,000,000, and has been three years in building.

Snowing on Mt. Washington.

CRAWFORD HOUSE, N. H., Sept. 20.—Several inches of snow has fallen on Mt. Washington, and the summits near here are also covered. It has rained heavily here since yesterday, and the barometer fell sharply this evening.

Silver in Pennsylvania.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 20.—What is said to be a valuable find of silver ore has been discovered in the mountains near this place by Joseph Avrington, who lives in a shanty near the bluestone quarry.

Bad Time for Fishing Boats.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., Sept. 20.—A heavy northeast gale, with rain, has prevailed for the past twenty-four hours. Fishing boats have had a bad time. One life was lost at Truro and there were many narrow escapes.

The Army of the Cumberland.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 20.—Gen. Rosecrans was re-elected president of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland, and Toledo, Ohio, will be the next place of meeting. The Confederate veterans were thanked for courtesies.

A Famous Horse Case Settled.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The celebrated suit over the trotter Howard J. has been settled by Benjamin Troop, of Scranton, Pa., the defendant, paying $10,000 in cash to Benjamin Herrick, and the suit which has been pending in the United States Courts has been withdrawn. The case has been running for seven or eight years and the costs amount to nearly $15,000. It has been a famous case among horemen.

CRUSHED BY ROCKS

Several Persons Killed by a Landslide.

A SCENE OF WILD EXCITEMENT.

A Part of the Heights of Quebec Fall on the Houses Below.

The Street Buried Twenty Feet Deep—The Fall of the Rock Witnessed by a Number of People—Men, Women and Children Buried Under the Avalanche of Earth—Horrible Scenes Witnessed While Rescuing the Unfortunate Victims.

QUEBEC, Ont., Sept. 20.—About 7:30 o'clock last evening a terrible land slide occurred immediately below Dufferin terrace by which seven houses were crushed out of shape and from twenty to forty people killed and wounded.

Those who say the fall of the rock say that they heard a long, loud noise, as of several cannon, and on looking up toward the terrace and citadel, were horrified by the sight of an immense mass of stones, rock, and earth breaking loose and rushing down the 300 feet of declivity upon the doomed houses below.

Immediately the air was filled with dust, so that no one could see ten feet in front of him, and breathing was made difficult. This was followed by the sounds of timbers crushing and yielding to the immense power of the avalanche, and the shouting and screaming of men, women and children, in all the agony of despair.

The avalanche was caused by the hot weather of the past few weeks cracking the earth and rock, which were driven down by the heavy rain of the last few days.

The men of the water police, whose station is near the scene of the accident, set to work at once to rescue the imprisoned persons, while the general alarm was sounded which called out the fire brigade and the police, for, with lamps and stoves breaking the houses soon caught fire.

As each of the sufferers was rescued he was carried into the quarters of the water police, where a large staff of medical men was on hand, as well as a priest, who did all they could to alleviate their sufferings. All sorts of wild rumors were soon flying about the city, and conflicting reports were met with everywhere.

It was said that as many as twenty were killed, and then again that the injured were few and far between. This is accounted for by the fact that it is next to impossible to obtain particulars, owing to the fact that when the rock fell it covered the road-bed to the depth of twenty feet.

Six bodies have been taken from the ruins, viz.: Thomas Farrell and two of his children; also two children named Burke and one unknown child. Farrell's mother-in-law, Mrs. Allen, and her husband are still in the mine.

About thirty-five persons have been removed from the debris badly injured. Some have broken arms and legs, and others are badly crushed and mutilated.

FARMERS WANT REVENGE.

The Nicely Brothers Still in Danger of Summary Justice.

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 20.—The two murderers, Joe and Dave Nicely, are still confined in the jail here, and as yet no attempt has been made by their friends to liberate them, nor have the residents made any effort to lynch them. Last night Sheriff McMillen had an extra number of officers inside of the jail, and several others were stationed about the grounds surrounding the little prison.

The class of people feared by the Sheriff and the cool-headed citizens are the farmers living in the neighborhood where Unger was murdered. The farmers for twenty miles around in Somerset and Westmoreland counties express themselves as anxious to see the prisoners hung without loss of time. Nearly all of them keep their savings under their own roofs, and say the only way they have of protecting themselves is to make an example of the Nicelys.

The September term of court will open here on Monday next, when the town will be crowded with farmers. The court has now five murder cases to dispose of during the September term, four of which are for outright murder, while the fifth is that of Dr. Miners, of Meyersdale, for alleged fatal abortion.

Gave Birth to Six Children.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Hiram Snell, of Malad, Idaho, has given birth to three boys and three girls, weighing altogether eight pounds, and all are bright and lively.

Serious Charge Against a Father.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 20.—W. J. Hart, a member of the Common Council, pleaded not guilty to the charge of indecent assault upon his 17-year-old daughter, and the trial was set for Monday.

Death of Lumberman Smock.

EATONTOWN, N. J., Sept. 20.—G. V. Smock, a wealthy citizen, died here yesterday. He was seventy years old and was engaged in the lumber business at Asbury Park.

Brakeman Killed.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Albert Germwalt, a Northern Central Railway brakeman, was killed near Zurish station last night. He fell from a car and another carpassed over his body.

Republican Nominations.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The Monroe County Republican County Convention nominated for Surrogate Jas. A. Arlington; for County Judge W. E. Werner; for District Attorney Geo. J. Benton; for Coroner Dr. M. E. Graham and Hyram Kleindienst; for Justices of Sessions D. H. Bly and H. C. Fuller.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The State Fireman's Association convenes at Long Branch, next Wednesday.

—The water pumping act was again performed in many of the cellars in the Second ward yesterday.

—The leaves are beginning to turn and are falling rapidly, which is a sure indication that Fall is upon us.

—In many of the residences in this city, fire were started in the furnace last evening, for the first time this season.

—The Somerville Woollen Mills have been incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000 and paid up capital of $50,000.

—The weather indications say that another storm is approaching which in severity will more than equal the late one.

—Furriers say that beaver is to be one of the very fashionable furs next Winter. It is a becoming fur, and very amenable as a trimming for gowns and wraps.

—Oh for a watering cart. The streets in the heart of the city were so dusty this morning that many a pedestrian swallowed a portion of his or her allotted peck of dirt.

—A regular meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, will be held at No. 12 East Front street, on Monday evening, Sept. 23. A full attendance of the members is desired.

—At the regular weekly meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. Order of United American Mechanics, held in the S. of T. rooms, last evening, three more members were initiated.

—There has been a decided change in the weather within the past forty-eight hours. Last night and today overcoats were in great demand, and they were seen on the streets in large numbers.

—The authorities at Muhlenberg Hospital, entertain hopes for the ultimate recovery of John McFadden, the patient who lost a limb by being run over by the cars at Grant avenue on Saturday night.

—People cannot be too careful this windy weather, when starting up their heaters. The late rains have washed down the soot in the chimneys, and the utmost precaution should be used when building fires.

—For weddings and anniversaries THE PRESS is furnishing handsome designs in the way of invitations, either printed or engraved, in the highest style of art, at one half the city price. Call and examine our special designs.

—The new six-ton Herring safe for the Dime Saving's Institution arrived yesterday, but a truck could not be found in this city sufficiently strong enough to transfer the safe from the freight house to the bank building. One of the Herring's trucks was brought out this morning, and the huge safe was removed with little difficulty.

—The Utica, N. Y., Y. M. C. A., has provided 530 lockers in their new building every one of which has been engaged in advance. They have room for adding a few more but already the indications are that they will be utterly unable to meet the demand of the young men. They will dedicate their building sometime in October.—Exchange.

A Bad Cut

Mr. George VanBlake, a member of Cypress Commandery, colored Knights Templar, cut his hand very badly, yesterday, but Dr. Hedges sewed and dressed it in a manner that will assure speedy recovery.

VanBlake, who is Mr. Wm. Bloodgood's coachman, was opening a jar of preserved fruit for his employer's family at their residence on Belvidere avenue. The jar burst and the glass cut a deep gash the entire length of his hand.

Somerset County Courts.

The September term of the Somerset County Courts will convene at Somerville on Tuesday next. Judge Magie having returned from Europe, will preside. The indications are that the session will be brief, as there are but nine cases on the Supreme Court Calendar and two cases in the Circuit Court.

Hand Mashed.

A colored man employed in the foundry of the Pond Tool Works, met with a painful accident while at work in the shop on Wednesday. In some unexplained manner a heavy piece of casting fell on the man's right hand, terribly crushing the same. A physician dressed the wound.

HARRY DAY STILL AT IT.

How the Son of a Former Plainfield Minister Got Himself Married for Nothing.

Almost everybody in Plainfield remembers Harry Day, son of the Rev. William Day, for so many years the beloved pastor of the M. E. church of this city. During his early residence in Plainfield Harry was quite a lamb and his wool was of, at least, a light color; but he developed eventually into a very black sheep.

He made one or two bad breaks here, but ostensibly reformed and led the young people's prayer meetings with a zeal and fervency that brought tears to the eyes of his companions. After he left Plainfield, however, he went rapidly to the bad. His latest exploit was to present a forged draft as a marriage fee. The story is about as follows:

Pastor Freund, of Hoboken, who has married more couples since the beginning of the year than any other clergyman in Hudson county, was shamefully imposed upon in the early part of this month by Day.

On the 4th inst., Rev. Mr. Freund was sitting in his library at his residence, No. 135 Hudson street, when a tall, fashionably dressed young man, accompanied by a stylish-looking young woman, was ushered into his presence. The pastor recognized the man as Harry C. Day, the only son of Rev. Wm. Day, of Trinity church, Newark. The visitors said that they wished to be married. The nuptial knot was tied, the lady giving her name as Mrs. Loretta Sterling, nee Cranston, of No. 51 West Twelfth street, New York City. After the certificate was made out and handed to the bride the groom drew a draft from his pocketbook. It bore the signature of Snow, Church & Co., of No. 265 Broadway, New York. It was drawn in favor of "Pastor John W. Freund," and was for $11. Day handed this to the clergyman, remarking:

"Retain $6 for your services and advertising and kindly let me have the change."

"I'm not sure that this is all right," remarked Mr. Freund.

"Oh, yes it is. I am employed by Messrs Snow, Church & Co., as collector," was the reply.

"Then I'll give you the change when the draft is honored," said the clergyman.

The bridegroom said Mr. Freund might keep the draft and then left. The next morning the draft was sent to the First National Bank, Hoboken, and on the 9th inst., it was returned to Pastor Freund as "no good." He then wrote to Snow, Church & Co., and yesterday the clergyman received the following letter:

SNOW, CHURCH & CO.,
265 BROADWAY.
CAMPBELL & MURPHY, Counsel.
NEW YORK, Sept. 18, 1889.

Rev. J. W. Freund, 135 Hudson street, Hoboken, N. J.

DEAR SIR: We are in receipt of yours of the 16th in reference to the draft left with you by H. C. Day, and on which we presume you have paid him some money. Mr. Day is no longer in our employ. In reply we are unable to give you any definite information as to his financial responsibility. Will you kindly return us the draft left with you? Yours truly,

SNOW, CHURCH & CO.

Pastor Freund wrote to Day's father in Newark, telling him of the occurrence. When seen by a reporter last night the clergyman said:

"Young Day played a mean trick on me. If he had asked me to marry him for nothing I would have done so willingly, but he wanted to make a big showing before his bride, the foolish fellow. His father was a well known Methodist minister in this city. He was pastor of the First M. E. church before the present incumbent, and is now very popular in Newark."

While Harry C. Day resided in Hoboken he was always well supplied with money. He led a gay life, and was compelled to absent himself for a year. After returning he had some shady moneyed transactions with Messrs Wiggins and Abel of Washington street, Hoboken, but his father settled the difficulty and the matter was hushed up.

Pastor Freund said he would not prosecute the man, but he believes that Snow, Church & Co., will.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO-MORROW.

Who Will Play in the Gentlemen's Doubles Postponed from Last Saturday.

The gentlemen's tennis tournament announced in THE PRESS to take place on Saturday last on the Central avenue grounds of the Plainfield Club, was postponed until to-morrow on account of the rain. If the weather be propitious, and the courts get somewhat dryer, the gentlemen's doubles will then be played between the following contestants:

Messrs W. R. Richards and Wm. D. Murray; C. L. Goodrich and L. Goodrich; Walter Murray and H. W. Beebe; S. Mc Cutchen and A. VanDeventer; H. West and Arthur Beebe.

Another Bridge Contract Awarded.

A committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders met at Summit, yesterday afternoon, and awarded to the Wrought Iron Bridge Company of Canton, Ohio, the contract for the erection of a new beam bridge over High street in that village. The bridge is to be twenty feet long and fifteen feet wide, and the total cost will be $815.

A Remarkable Record.

Although in existence seven years with a membership of over 100, there has never yet been a death in Plainfield Council, Royal Arcanum. This not only reflects credit on the society's medical examiners, but speaks volumes for the healthfulness of Plainfield.

BASE BALL BABBLE.

To-morrow's Game—Somerville Blacklisted Elsewhere—Other Nines Anxious to Play the Crescents.

The professional "Acmes" of New York, will play the Crescents—as exclusively reported in Wednesday's PRESS—on the Plainfield Bowling Club's grounds to-morrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. It promises to be a perfect base ball day, and extra seats will be provided for the crowd that should attend.

The "Acmes" team is one of the strongest—their catcher Cuff being the man hired by the West Ends to back up Harkins in their last game against the Crescents. The Acmes were once beaten by the Somerville team by a score of 4 to 3, but the former says the latter robbed them of the game and they will never play them again.

The New York Sun this morning says: "The Monroe, champion semi-professional team of Brooklyn, will play any semi-professional team in the State of New York or New Jersey, the Crescents of New Jersey, Senators, Long Island Stars, or Metropolitans preferred."

The colored "Stars" of this city, have again been obliged to postpone their game with the "Little Giants," of Washington, until Thursday afternoon of next week.

PRESIDENT FRENCH BOUND TO RESIGN.

But He is Made a Member of the Reform Club Executive Committee.

An adjourned business meeting of the Reform Club was held last evening, with Vice President Harper in the chair, and Mr. Bauersachs acting as Secretary.

After the customary opening exercises, Mr. Vanderbeek, Chairman of the Executive Committee, presented and read a communication from President John H. French positively declining to serve longer in that official capacity. Consequently, the former action of the club was reconsidered and the resignation accepted. By the wording of the Constitution the vacancy must be filled, for the unexpired time, at the next regular meeting, October 3.

Following the foregoing action, the Vice President was authorized to fill a vacancy in the Executive Committee, which he did by at once appointing ex-President French.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss M. J. Powers, of West End, is a guest at the City Hotel, for a few days.

Major and Mrs. Rufus K. Case left today for a pleasure trip to Norfolk, Washington, &c.

Dr. J. E. Danielson, a rising young physician of Brooklyn is visiting relatives in the borough.

Miss May Hawley of Crescent avenue has arrived home after an extended visit at Milwaukee, Mich.

Mrs. Elizabeth Milliken and daughter, Miss Lillian, left today for a week's visit with friends in Brooklyn and New York.

Mr. C. B. Corwin and family of East Ninth street, returned on Wednesday from a Summer outing at Newfoundland, N. J.

Mr. William Laing, of Brooklyn, leaves for home to-morrow after a short visit with relatives and friends in this city and North Plainfield.

Mr. Oscar Fay Adams the well-known journalist, returned to his home on Duer street, North Plainfield, Tuesday, after a three month's trip in Europe.

Mrs. L. A. Dunn, formerly Miss Mattie Webster of this city, is quite ill at her home in Elizabeth, the result of a severe cold contracted during one of the recent stormy evenings.

There has been a change for the better again in the condition of Master Warren, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Church, of Craig place. The little lad is now reported as out of danger.

A special cable despatch from the Maritime Exchange in New York, to THE PRESS, states that the steamer City of Berlin, upon which Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church of this city, is a passenger, was sighted off Fire Island this afternoon. The steamer will arrive at her dock about 5.30 o'clock P. M.

Mr. S. R. Struthers, Secretary of the Home B. & L. Association, of this city, will go to Omaha to read a paper of professional interest before the national convention of bankers in that city. Mr. Struthers is a teller in the Manhattan Bank, of New York, and his selection to represent that city so prominently in the Convention, is a deserved recognition of his ability to do so creditably.

The latest addition to the ranks of New York's petroleum brokers, is Mr. James Murray, of this city, son of School Trustee John W. Murray of Central avenue. He is already one of the most active young men in the market, and the way he mounts three and four flights of stairs at a time with deliveries, gives great promise of how he will always climb up ahead of the rising quotations when he begins to plunge for himself.

—The nomination of Leon Abbett for Governor will be ratified by mass meetings to be called within a few days in the principal cities of the State.

It is astonishing how rapidly the feeble and debilitated gain strength and vigor when taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For what are called "broken-down constitutions," nothing else has proved so effective as this powerful but perfectly safe medicine.

A COMING JOURNALIST.

How a PRESS Carrier Reported a Local Casualty.

Master Myrie Sutphen, one of THE PRESS' newsboys, handed in the following on his way to school this morning. The comprehensiveness of detail is most commendable.

BITTEN BY A DOG.

Mr. Ross of West Front street was bitten by a dog on Central avenue, last evening, while delivering some orders for L. Heyniger of Somerset street where he is employed.

He is confined to his home. It was a very bad bite and may prove serious. He is also a member of No. 2 Engine company. He has two sons, a girl, and he and his wife.

THEY ALL DO IT.

How Other Papers Throughout the County Feed on THE PRESS.

Yesterday's Elizabeth Journal contained a full account of the latest move in the Frazee Lee will contest, copied verbatim from THE PRESS of the day before.

Yesterday's Elizabeth Herald contained a full account of the remarkable stroke of lightning that paralyzed Mr. Higgins' horse and took the plating off its harness, copied verbatim from THE PRESS of the day before.

Yesterday's news contained nothing of interest except what it had copied from THE PRESS of Wednesday—the water rates to consumers, and the casualty to Mr. Higgins' horse were two of the stolen articles.

How to Stop a Runaway.

A policeman who has distinguished himself in stopping runaway horses, gives the following points as to how to accomplish that end with the greatest success: "When you see a runaway coming do not try to check him by a rush to the opposite direction or the side, for you will be immediately knocked flat by the collision; but, instead, prepare yourself for a short run with the horse. Measure with your eye the distance, start for the run while he is yet some way off, perhaps ten feet, in the case of fair to medium runaways. You may depend upon his keeping a straight line, for a really frightened horse is half blind and would not veer for a steam engine. He will go straight ahead until he smashes into something.

"So do not get too close to the line on which he is rushing, and as he passes you grab the reins near the saddle. Gather the reins firmly, and then, leaning backward as you run, give them a powerful jerk. You may be able to brace yourself somewhat as you give this jerk, half sliding on your feet. The strong jerk on the bit tells the horse that he again has a master, and prepares him for a final struggle. A step or two forward after the first yank, do it again. This is the finishing stroke. It never fails when given by a determined man. Keep a firm pull on the reins till you grasp the horse by the nostrils, and hold him so till he is pacified."

American Mechanics.

The State Council of the Order of United American Mechanics held their annual session in Concordia Hall, Trenton, on Wednesday.

The following is taken from the State Council Secretary's report: The number of members received during the year, 258; the number of Councils in good working order, 37; membership, 2,572; the amount of money received by the 37 Councils during the year as dues, $13,409.92; the amount paid out for benefits and relief, $8,873.71; amount of Widows and Orphans' fund, $55,999.53; total worth of the subordinate Councils, $68,972.35; net gain during the year, $2,834.25.

A Peculiar Accident.

An accident of a peculiar nature happened in Mr. H. J. Martin's blacksmith shop on Somerset street, about eight o'clock this morning, but fortunately no one was injured. At that time an employee was fanning the fire in the forge, when the bellows filled with coal gas, and exploded with terrific force. The noise made by the explosion could be heard a block away. The bellows was completely wrecked.

—Great preparation is being made for the third annual reception of Cypress Commandery, No. 6, Drill Corps, of this city, which is to take place at the Crescent, on the evening of Thursday, October 17.

ASSAILING THE WIDOWED AND FATHERLESS.

A Bereaved Woman Forced to Protect Her Dead Husband From the Slander of the "news."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The evening news of this city, with its usual disregard for truth and to satisfy its well-known propensity for slandering our citizens, in its issue of Sept. 12,—in an article headed, "Chas. E. Hobby, Dead. Sorrow and Sickness at last Overcame Him."—put before the public an article teeming with lies and misrepresentations that I wish to set in their true light through your valuable and truth loving paper.

The first deliberate lie is that Chas. Hobby died at the residence of Mark Lees, on West Second street. Mr. Mark Lees live on Chatham street, North Plainfield, and Chas. Hobby died at his own residence, rented by him for his family, on East Second street. The next referred to—while the father whose lips were sealed in death lay in his coffin awaiting burial—was the scandal with which the daughter's name became connected some time ago. This news—a viper in human form—says Mr. Hobby was greatly troubled over his daughter's conduct and drove her from the house. The father condoned his daughter's offense, and instead of driving her from the house, she continued to live at home with him till the family removed to Paterson, where she went with them. Many of our citizens have seen her riding on the streets of our city with her father since that time.

Lie No. 3—that a family quarrel resulted and the mother sold the house and went to reside in Paterson on the proceeds of said sale. Who told this lying news all this, or is it only the promptings of its own black heart? It is true the family moved to Paterson into rooms rented for them by Mr. Hobby himself. The house was sold at his urgent request, and of the proceeds the goodly portion was retained by him.

Lie 4th—that his wife was sent for against his wishes. Mr. Editor, lying upon my table as I write this is a postal card, the last written by Mr. Hobby to his wife in Paterson, urging her to come back to Plainfield to live, and that upon a favorable answer from her he will secure rooms and send Mr. Geo. Conover to bring her goods to Plainfield. As to the check for eight hundred dollars, Mr. Winckler denies receving a check for any such sum.

Let us draw a veil over the inhuman and cowardly conduct of a paper that would assail the reputation of the living during such a sad bereavement and on the eve of the father's burial. Let us drop a tear of sympathy with the living. Children! there is the grave of your father. You have recently heard the clods of the Valley groan upon his coffin. The parent stem from which you grew and to which you fondly clung, has been shattered by the lightning stroke of death and its terrible shock is now felt in every fiber of the wrenched and torn branches. Yours is now a widowed and an orphaned home. The disconsolate members are left helpless and hopeless in the world. The widowed mother sits by the dying embers of her lonely rooms overwhelmed with grief and poor in everything but her children and her God. These orphans are turned out upon the cold charities of an unfriendly world, neglected and forlorn, having no one to care for them but a poor broken-hearted mother; and in this enlightened age and in this Christian community, you see the sad spectacle of these orphans being assailed by a cowardly, sneaking, inhuman newspaper. Mr. Editor, the time is not far distant when silence on the part of an outraged public will cease to be a virtue, and Plainfield, like some other localities, will not be a pleasant home for the news.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. HOBBY.

Plainfielders Escape.

(From the Elizabeth Herald.)

A struck jury for the purpose of trying the case of the city of Elizabeth vs. the Central Railroad company, in regard to the ownership of the dock at the foot of Elizabeth avenue, was drawn at Elizabeth Tuesday, before City Attorney Bergen, Counsellor Williamson and the Hon. Fred C. Marsh. The case will be tried in October. The jury is as follows:

Fanwood—Stites M. Parse, Lewis W. Miller.

Rahway—Chas. A. Watson, Henry Howard, B. Frank Crowell.

Summit—Geo. Gates, Wm. B. Coggershall, Morris Spinning.

Springfield—Joseph Meeker, Enoch D. Miller.

Union—D. Hobert Sayre, Stephen S. Patter, Leonard B. Passman, James W. Higgins.

Linden—Wm. B. Martin, Wm. B. Crane, Job M. Winans.

Cranford—Edward Bookhout, Jr.

Westfield—Luther M. Whittaker, Daniel T. Pierson, Silas E. Beebe.

Clark—Frank B. Bullman.

—Complaint is made against a number of men who were down at Dunellen, last evening, and made the night hideous by their yells and curses. This is the third time a disturbance of a similar nature has taken place, and the local authorities have been instructed to look out for the men when they again visit Dunellen.

The use of calomel for derangements of the liver has ruined many a fine constitution. Those who, for similar troubles, have tried Ayer's Pills testify to their efficacy in thoroughly remedying the malady, without injury to the system.

MINERS DELIBERATING.

Interesting Information Brought Out at the National Trade Assembly Meeting.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 20.—The National Trade Assembly of the Miners' United States Legion held its third day's session here this morning. Master Workman Roe, of Pittsburg, made an aggressive address in which he said miners would continue to be the most illy-paid body of workmen in the country until they learned the value of organization. Assembly 135 had a membership of 25,000, but it should have 100,000.

Secretary Pellman reported that it cost $50,000 to run the Assembly last year; but he said the investment was a good one. Favorable legislation had been brought about by the executive committee in five of the Western States while many concessions had been received from employers. These concessions aggregated $400,000 during the year from July, 1888, to August, 1889.

Forty-six local assemblies had been added to the organization, making a net increase in local assemblies of 36.

The Master Workman said the social relations of the Assembly with the general officers of the Knights of Labor were not cordial. The operators of the Anthracite region were denounced for their arbitrary action in refusing to reduce the price of powder. It was claimed that the companies now made $2 on every keg of powder sold to the men.

Resolutions were adopted to encourage the miners in the anthracite region until they had their grievances redressed. A committee was appointed to solicit funds.

The miners' mass meeting at Nanticoke last night was largely attended. Addresses were made by T. V. Powderly, L. M. Barry and others. Another mass meeting will be held in this city tonight.

THE LECONEY MURDER.

The Suspected Uncle is in Camden Jail Awaiting Trial.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 20.—Chalkley Leconey in in jail here awaiting the result of the investigation into the murder of his niece. He was accompanied from Waverly, Ohio, by his brother.

The father of the murdered girl denounces in bitter terms the suspicions against Chalkley. He said Annie loved her uncle as a father and Chalkley had always treated her as a daughter. He declared that no one was more anxious to discover Annie's murderer than he, and that he was prepared to turn heaven and earth to discover the villain. He was anxious to know if the negro Lingo was still confined in jail, and upon being answered in the affirmative said significantly, "Keep him there."

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Except CHOCOLATE; and you don't know what chocolate is capable of until you try our CHOCOLATE ICE-CREAM SODA, (Whitman's chocolate, our own cream.) It is pleasant to be thanked—as we sometimes are—for suggesting some of these favorites.

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs. 53' from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of P. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

BATTING FOR POINTS

Boston and New York Both Add a Game to Their List.

EXCITEMENT RUNNING HIGH.

The Giants to Play Two Games in Philadelphia To-Day.

Chicago and Indianapolis Win—Brooklyn Loses to the Athletics—The Hoosiers Will Not Disband Next Year and the Brooklyns Will Remain in the Association—A Gift of $1,000 Awaits the Bostons if They Win.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Yesterday's game was an exhibition of batting by both teams, and as the champions did the most of it they won with ease. Nearly every time they hit the ball it went hissing into the outfield. Ten men were retired on fly balls and most of them were long hits, seven struck out, leaving only seven men retired at the bases. The Giants pounded Casey until life was a burden to him, and finally drove him out of the game altogether. Tiernan, who is fast becoming known as silent Mike, led the onslaught. He hit the ball square in the eye every time he was given a chance, being credited with two home runs and a single. Fifteen hits secured a dozen runs, half of which were earned.

President Nick Young and Col. John S. Rogers have both decided that it is within the rules for the champions to play off in Philadelphia, or any other city, postponed games originally scheduled in New York. Consequently the Giants play two games here to-day.

Boston Defeats the Senators.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The cold and disagreeable weather yesterday greatly militated against good fielding and consequently errors were abundant. Washington was at no time in the game.

Betting on the Result.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—What little betting has been done in a small way is on a general basis of 5 to 4 in New York's favor. This expresses the undercurrent of sentiment rather than a certain and well-backed conviction.

Indianapolis Not to Leave the League.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 20.—Concerning rumors current in this city and Cincinnati, that Cincinnati would enter the National Baseball League in the place of the Indianapolis club, Director John Martin, of Indianapolis, said: "There isn't a word of truth in it, I know that President Brush is making arrangement to keep the club here next year and to strengthen it. There is no danger of Cincinnatti going into the League. That club can't live except in the Association."

A Prize Offered to Secure the Pennant.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—The "Globe" announces this morning that it will present $1,000 to be divided among the members of the Boston Baseball Club if they win the pennant this year.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Three Passenger Coaches Thrown Down an Embankment By Spreading Rails.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 20.—Spreading rails threw the east bound St. Louis & San Francisco passenger train from the track near Leon, Butler County, yesterday. Three coaches left the track while the train was going at the rate of thirty miles an hour and rolled down a sixteen-foot embankment. The coaches were not well filled, and thus the loss of life was not so great as it otherwise would have been.

R. M. Beemis was instantly killed. He was thrown through the roof of the car. Isaac Dean of this city was fatally injured, having his breast crushed in by car timber. Mrs. Matzka, also of this city, was fatally crushed.

Mrs. John Mitchell of Fort Smith, Ark., had one arm and one leg broken.

Mrs. R. A. Hodges of Arkansas City had an arm and several ribs broken, and may die.

R. L. Lathrop of Kansas City had his right leg broken in two places, and received internal injuries. About ten more were slightly injured.

Myer Ready to Fight Carroll.

STREATOR, Ill., Sept. 20.—Billy Myer is ready to fight Jimmy Carroll for from $2,500 to $10,000, either under the auspices of the California Athletic Club or at any place that may be mutually agreeable. He is ready to cover any forfeit posted by Carroll if the latter will let him know where he has deposited his money. Myer and his backer, Alf Kennedy, complain that they have received no communication whatever from Carroll or his friends, and only know of his alleged challenge from newspaper reports.

Hon. Jerothmel B. Barnaby Dead.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 20.—Hon. Jerothmel B. Barnaby, of the firm of J. B. Barnaby & Co., clothiers, in Providence, Boston, Kansas City and many other places, is dead, aged 58 years, 11 months. In 1877 he was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Rhode Island, and also candidate for Congress. He leaves a widow and two daughters. Mr. Barnaby was for a number of years member of the National Democratic Committee.

The Leo Probably Blown Up.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 20.—The body of another of the missing yacht Leo's victims was discovered on the lake shore a short distance west of this city this morning. It proved to be that of John Pelow, aged 21, of Loraine. Pelow's clothing had been badly burned and gave conclusive evidence that the Leo had been blown up. There is now no doubt that all were lost.

Cable Cars Stopped by the Sheriff.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—Last evening Sheriff Sitlington levied on the street car company's engine which furnishes the motive power for the cable system, to satisfy an unpaid claim against the company, leaving the cars standing on the tracks in a string from end to end of the line. A settlement was patched up and to-day the cars are again running.

Farmers' Sons Arrested for Robbery.

RANDOLPH, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Lester Bryant and Andrew Vidal, sons of prominent farmers, are under arrest, charged with the robbery of $1,000 in greenbacks from the residence of Mrs. Freeman at Napolis on Saturday evening. Vidal confessed and told where the money was secreted. Over $500 was recovered. The boys were committed for trial.

Bosworth Defeated in Ten Rounds.

JOHNSTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Arthur O. Upman, heavy weight champion of Connecticut, and Frank Bosworth, of New Jersey, fought for $500 a side, Marquis of Queensberry rules, last night. The fight took place just over the Hamilton county line and was attended by about 200 sports. In the tenth round Bosworth was knocked out by Upham.

The C. W. & B. Railroad Sold.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.—The Cincinnati, Washington and Baltimore Railroad was sold to-day at the Court House for $5,000,000 to E. R. Bacor, representing the bondholders and stockholders in this country and England. The road was sold on forclosure of a mortgage.

A Well-Known Horseman Dead.

ORANGE, Mass., Sept. 20.—Stephen S. Ballou, a celebrated horse trainer and rider, died at his hotel, the Summit House, in Wendell, this morning, aged 44. He had been a prominent figure at horse trots throughout New England for the past 20 years and had owned many blooded horses.

An Eccentric Cattle Dealer Arrested.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Isaac Dreyfoss, the eccentric Pittsburg cattle dealer, was found last night by a policeman in South Fifth avenue, unable to take care of himself. He was taken to the station house where, upon being searched, $7,500 in bonds and $55 in cash was found upon him.

Two Children Burned to Death.

OAKLAND, Md., Sept. 20.—Information has just reached here of the burning yesterday of the house of Mrs. A. Senbower, two and a half miles from Deer Park. The two children of Mrs. Senbower, aged 3 and 6 years respectively, were burned.

Beacon Park Races Postponed.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Owing to the continuous rainy weather and the consequent heaviness of the race track at Beacon Park the Balch $10,000 stallion race has been again postponed, this time until to-morrow.

A Millionaire's Son in Trouble.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 20.—John Lester, a young man from Chicago, was convicted here yesterday of grand larceny. He is the son of a millionaire in that city who is the largest glue and tallow maker in the country.

Major Merrill's Candidacy Losing Ground.

DEER PARK, Md., Sept. 20.—It is stated on what is considered fair authority that Major Merrill's candidacy for the Commissionership of Pensions is losing ground. There has been no communication between him and the President to-day.

Across the Country on Horseback.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 20.—John Allen and E. H. Pratt, both of New York, arrived last night, having ridden on horseback the whole distance. They left New York May 14.

FACTS ABOUT RUGS.

Where and How the Best and Costliest Are Made.

According to a Chicago Importer Carpets Are Being Discarded by Wealthy People for Oriental Rugs—Facts for Housewives.

"It is only a question of time," said one of Chicago's most extensive importers to a Times reporter, "when carpets will be discarded by all people of means and their place taken by rugs. Rugs combine the excellencies of elegance and durability to so much greater an extent than carpets," he continued, "that they recommend themselves to all who have money to buy handsome and desirable appointments. A good rug not only lasts for generations and is always far more artistic and effective for the floor, but it can at any time be gathered up, carried out of doors, and shaken. A carpet, however fine, wears but a few years at most. When it is once stretched on the floor it must lay there until the recurrence of each dread house-cleaning epoch.

"Rugs in the greatest demand now are, of course, the oriental, made either in Turkey or Russia. They are all hand-woven. The occupation of rug-making, an important industry in these countries, is followed by both men and women. Certain patterns and designs have been handed down in families from parent to child from a time back of reckoning. The durability of the rug is due in great measure to the dyeing of the material from which it is manufactured. No destroying chemicals are used in the preparation of the dyes, the coloring substances being all vegetable. To use aniline dyes is, in fact, a capital offense, and a man or woman is executed for this crime with as little compunction as if guilty of atrocious murder.

"Rugs take their trade names from the province in which they are made. There's the Afghan, Blandhor, Candahor, Khorassan and the Mirzapoor, which, by the way, is made of a sea fiber, so soft and flexible and closely resembling wool that none but an expert can detect the difference; it is almost indestructible, and wear gives it a sheen like satin. There are the Koonah, Persian, Savaler, Ahloowaied, Ouchak and Cabul, all valuable rugs, with a recognized place in the market. The Delhi is a high-priced rug, but it is now very scarce.

"There are excellent rugs of American manufacture, made in imitation of the Oriental, but they do not possess the wearing qualities of the latter, which are dyed with vegetable coloring and hand-woven. Good rugs range in price from $7.50 to $1,500. They are used not only for the floor, but also for divan and table covers and for hangings. Very fine and rare specimens are now placed in handsome fret-work frames and hung the same as pictures.

"The silk 'Afghan' is a particularly handsome rug. It is not made of silk, but of the finest wool, possessing the gloss of silk. It will last for generations, and the longer it is used the more beautiful it becomes. The peculiar sheen of the much-sought prayer rug is the result of long usage. The agents who are employed in the rug-producing districts are always on the lookout for some Moslem who has become sufficiently degenerate or impoverished to commit the sacrilege of selling his prayer rug to the unbeliever. Prayer rugs find their way by some means, too, out of the mosques into the hands of the dealers.

"Only long experience in handling rugs enables a person to judge of their value and decide where they are made. There is no other method to guard against impositon and deception in the rug trade than the use of judgment. Unlike carpet manufacturers, oriental rug-makers are unknown and oftentimes unreliable. The workers of the East manufacture the rugs in their own homes, either contracting with agents for their sale or disposing of them haphazard as any chance buyer may come along. Newly made and inferior rugs are often sold to the inexperienced purchaser as old and of great value.

"The genuine oriental rug, to which long usage has imparted the indescribable gloss that only comes by age and service, always commands a high price. It is never wide. It is impossible to find one of a wide weave. None but narrow rugs come from the olden-time looms. The people of the Orient laid them only in the center of the apartment. Upon either side were still narrower rugs, similar in width to our stair strips. At the head of the room always sat the host. The guests were seated down the length of the middle rug. At the foot the servants stood, waiting for orders. When serving the guests they passed up and down back of them on the narrow rugs. One end of the wider oriental rugs of by-gone manufacture will always be found to be much more worn than the others. The nap has been pressed down by the feet of the servitors who patiently awaited the commands of the master.

"Those who are replacing carpets by fine rugs are storing up a legacy for their grand-children of the fourth and fifth generations, and far beyond that. There are rugs in existence that were woven in the far East a thousand years ago. The modern rug manufactured in the same localities is identical with them in texture, pattern and coloring, with the exception that the hues of these ancient specimens have beed toned to wonderful softness of tint as the centuries passed them by. A thousand or 1,500, or even 2,000, years from now the fine rugs that adorn so many elegant mansions in the United States may have place in the museums of the land or be held in possession by descendants of their present owners who will proudly reckon a long line of free-born American ancestry."

Gulls and Their Young.

Every bird watches over and cares for her own nest, though the numbers are so great and the tumult so excessive that it is difficult to conceive how each gull can distinguish her own spotted eggs, placed in the midst of so many others, exactly similar in size, shape and color; and when at length the young are hatched and are swimming about on the loch or crowded together on some grassy point, the old birds, as they come home from a distance with food, fly rapidly amid thousands of young ones exactly similar to their own, without even looking at them, until they find their own offspring, which, recognizing their parents among all the other birds, receive the morsel without any of the hungry little creatures around attempting to dispute the prize, each waiting patiently for its own parent, in perfect confidence that its turn will come in due season.

He Had to Draw the Line.

A good story is being told about town of an old gentleman who has lived for years at one of the Stamford hotels with his family. Several years ago his eldest daughter, who was married, died. After a suitable time the bereaved widower asked for the hand of the next daughter. Not long afterward he was left alone again, and again he sought for the hand of the third daughter of his old friend. At last, when he came for the fourth, the old man exclaimed: "Yes, take her; but, hang it all, when she's gone what'll you do? You can't have the old woman, too."

THE BABOON WON.

How a Little Monkey Took the Conceit Out of a Prize-Fighter.

In the old St. Louis museum we had, among other attractions, a baboon called Dick, says a writer in the New York Sun. He was a solid chunk of a fellow, good-tempered and a great favorite. He had one peculiarity, though, which we had to cater to. He took short naps twice a day, and if aroused before his time he was as ugly as sin all the rest of the day. We had him dressed up as a little boy, and when the time came to take his nap he crept into an old-fashioned cradle and the fat woman generally rocked him to sleep. That very thing was quite a draw, and plenty of people came in solely to see the baboon rocked off to slumber.

One day, soon after Dick had closed his eyes, a half-drunken chap entered the place and created considerable disturbance. He went by the name of Awful Pete and was a hard slugger. I tried to reason with him and get him out, but he unfortunately caught sight of the sleeping baboon and at once demanded that the animal be aroused and put through his tricks. I sought to explain, but he wouldn't have it, saying:

"I paid to see the bab, and I'm going to see him or bust the b'iler!"

"But if you wake him he'll fight."

"Then I'll wring his neck!"

Before I could stop him he dodged under the rope and lifted Dick out of the cradle. The animal woke up and took in the situation in about the tenth part of a second, and then he fastened his hands into Pete's hair, got a grip with his teeth on the slugger's nose, and we had a museum, menagerie and circus combined for the next five minutes. Pete roared and whooped and pranced around in pain and terror, and the bab pulled handfuls of hair from his head, and bit and scratched like a wildcat. When we finally got him off that slugger was a sight to behold, and had to be taken to the hospital at once. Two hours after he had had his wounds dressed I went to see him, and as soon as I spoke to him he began crying and asked:

"Was it a baboon which did this?"

"Yes."

"Big as a lion?"

"Oh, no. He weighs about twenty-six pounds. Why do you weep?"

"Hadn't I orter weep?" he savagely demanded, as the tears came afresh. "I've had thirteen fights and knocked my man out every time, and now to be downed by a weazen-faced monkey in one round has broke me all up."

SMALL BUT WICKED.

How a Little Wretch of a Boy Broke His Sister's Heart.

The compassion or the scorn with which the masculine mind regards the female of the race begins so early in life, says the Boston Courier, that it is most difficult to say whether it is the result of imitation or is one of the gifts of intuition. The small boy feels himself superior to his little sister quite without regard to whether he or she is the more clever. He is he and she is only she.

A small five-year-old lad, in whom this sense of masculine superiority was not wholly lacking, was one day arrayed in his first trousers. Standing before his sister, a couple of years younger, he drew himself up for her inspection and then proceeded to address her to this effect:

"Kittie," he said, "you can't never wear trousers."

He paused, apparently to let his words take their full effect.

"Kittie," he continued, "you can't never have a mustache."

He paused again and let this dreadful announcement in its turn eat into his sister's soul; then he brought out the climax with a triumphant thrill in his voice more eloquent than any words could have been.

"Kittie, you can't never be a man nohow!"

Poor, small Kittie, overwhelmed by these successive statements, of which she comprehended the import only as something unspeakably dreadful, and took that from the tone, probably, rather than from the words, looked at her brother one agonized moment, and then gave vent to her anguish in one wild howl, which brought nurse from one direction and mamma from another. At sight of the audience Kittie burst into tears and lamentations piteous to behold, and when the small boy was reproved for making his sister cry his answer was:

"Well, I just told her she'd always got to be a girl, 'cause I thought she'd be disappointed if she got to be five and couldn't have on trousers."

There seemed to be nothing in particular which could be said to this, and the elders devoted themselves to assuaging the grief of the small girl as well as they might, leaving the boy to strut about in his new trousers in the full consciousness of having done his duty to the weaker vessel.

ANECDOTE OF DR. RUSH.

The Power with Which Memory Asserts Itself in Our Sleep.

Dr. Rush was, perhaps, one of the most untiring students that ever lived, says the New York Ledger. Two young physicians were conversing in his presence once, and one of them said: "When I finished my studies—" "When you finished your studies!" said the doctor, abruptly; "why, you must be a happy man to have finished so young; I do not expect to finish mine while I live."

The writer once asked him how he had been able to collect such an immense amount of information and facts as his publications and lectures contained. "I have been enabled to do it," he replied, "by economizing my time as Mr. Wesley did. I have not spent one hour in amusement in thirty years." And taking a small note-book from his pocket, and showing it to me, he said: "I fill such a book as this once a week with observations and thoughts which occur to me, and facts collected in the rooms of my patients, and these are all preserved and used."

I once heard the doctor relate the following dream, to show that the memory sometimes exerts itself more powerfully in our sleeping than in our waking hours in calling up things that have been forgotten: A gentleman in Jersey, of large property, had provided in his will that his wife, in connection with a neighbor, should settle his estate. After his death, in fulfilling the intentions of his will, a certain important paper, which could not be dispensed with, was missing. Repeated and diligent search was made for it, but in vain. The widow at length dreamed that the said paper was in the bottom of a barrel in the garret, covered with a number of books. The dream made so strong an impression on her mind that she was induced to make an examination, and there, to her astonishment, she found the paper. The doctor's explanation was that no supernatural agency had been employed, but that during the abstraction of all external objects and impressions from the senses in the sleeping state, the memory exerted itself with an intenseness that it could not do in the waking state. He supposed that her husband had informed her at some time of the situation of this paper, and that the fact had become dormant in her memory until the dream called it up.

Death on the Highway.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 20.—Edward Gisler, a shoemaker of Bareville, was found unconscious on the highway near his home yesterday suffering from injuries which resulted in his death last evening without his having regained consciousness. Gisler had been a witness of a quarrel the previous evening and passing a remark on the combatants had also been assaulted. He left then and started for home but never reached there. No arrests have been made.

The Cigarmakers' Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The proposed amendment reducing the price of the union label from $6 to $4.50 per thousand was defeated by a large majority. A motion to sell the union label to the Ninth District of Pennsylvania was also lost. An amendment was adopted making it optional with the local unions to consider a shop a strict union shop with or without the packers being members of the International Union.

The Simpson Dry Dock Opened.

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Sept. 20.—The Simpson dry dock was formally opened yesterday when the U. S. S. Yantic was successfully docked. The ceremony, which occurred at eleven o'clock, was witnessed by a large number of visitors from Baltimore, Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

Snow at Newburg.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The first snow of the season began falling here yesterday afternoon, but soon turned into a cold drizzling rain. The air is quite cold.

Mr. Bayard's Refusal.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 20.—Ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard has flatly refused to stand as a candidate for the office of Governor of this State.

Sampson's Great Rival.

Mrs. Lumkin's (reading) —I declare, there must be some strong men in Boston!

Mr. L.—Yes, there's Sullivan.

Mrs. L.—I don't know whether it's Sullivan or not, but it says here that the "auctioneer" finally knocked down the house, stable and twenty horses for $50,000.

An editor in reply to a young writer who wished to know which magazine would give him the highest position quickest, advised "a powder magazine especially if you contribute a fiery article."

QUEBEC'S DISASTER

Many Sad and Thrilling Scenes Among the Ruins.

THE DEATH ROLL NUMBERS 25.

Horrors Witnessed in the Search for the Living and the Dead.

The Terrors of the Dreadful Calamity are Succeeding Each Other—A Husband Becomes Violently Insane After Viewing the Remains of His Wife—Preparations for the Funerals of the Killed—The Number of Lost Not Definitely Known.

QUEBEC, Sept. 21.—The extent of the disaster by the fall of rock at Cape Diamond exceeds that which occurred on nearly the same spot on May 17, 1841, when eight buildings were destroyed and thirty-two persons killed. In 1852 several were killed half a mile further up the street by a similar avalanche of rock.

The search for the dead and injured is going on slowly, though a large force of men is engaged in the labor. The shipping office in the Dominion Government building has been turned into a temporary morgue. It is difficult to identify some of the bodies, so much have they been disfigured and crushed.

How many were swept to the bottom and covered over with the displaced earth cannot be told just yet. Nor is there any accuracy in the estimate of the number of people killed and wounded. First the deaths were not supposed to be more than fifty. Now it is estimated they will count up to 200. The work of excavating is still going on.

The loss sustained by the surviving victims of the disaster is very great. Some of the workingmen who are deprived of their homes lose all their furniture and other effects, even their summer earnings, and many are left penniless at the beginning of a Canadian winter.

The horrors of the dreadful day are still succeeding each other. While workers were clearing the debris of a crumbled building, they discovered the bleeding body of Joe Kemp. The man is in the most miserable condition. Both legs, his left arm and several ribs are broken. Kemp will not live two hours. Two hours later his wife's body was taken out. Her head was almost severed from her body, and indications pointed to a most revolting and violent death.

Further away the corpse of Mrs. Lawson, who had been greatly admired for her beauty and amiability, was extracted from under a rafter on which about ten tons of stone and dirt were lying. She was smashed almost flat. The abdomen was ripped open and the entrails scattered about. Her husband became violently insane after viewing the remains.

A man named Michael Bradley who had gone almost crazy when told that all his family had perished in the landslide, discovered, while working over the wreck of his house, his five-year-old daughter still alive. His joy was indescribable. He kissed and fondled her as a mother would her babe. It is now thought the child will live. Up to this time the number of corpses found is 25, and the wounded number 18.

Preparations are being made for the funerals of the killed. They will be buried at the joint expense of the city and provincial governments.

Among those under the rocks are a young couple named Nolan, who had been but a few weeks married. Nolan could have escaped but lost his life trying to get his wife out of the house.

It is thought the king's bastion of the citadel will have to be removed, as it is now too near the edge of the rock, with unsafe crevices in front of it. As a precautionary measure, all communication with the bastion has been cut off.

Some 20,000 persons visited the scene of the disaster during the day. It was decided to use small charges of powder to break up the huge bowlders covering the roadway, as it is certain that there can be no one alive beneath them.

Elmira Honors Gov. Hill.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Governor Hill was given a big reception at the Interstate Fair here yesterday. About 10,000 people were present and the Governor's appearance was the signal for a grand ovation. In his address the Governor carefully avoided all political topics. Among other things he spoke of the World's Fair and said the idea suggested itself to him to write to Mayor Grant, of New York City, stating that if New York couldn't get the World's Fair it would compromise with Elmira or Chicago. The Governor paid a high tribute to artisans and farmers who had made the fair the success that it was.

Indianapolis to Get a Crack Battery.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 21.—Burkett and Wilson, the crack Worcester battery left here on last evening's western train and it is reported that their releases have been sold to the Indianapolis club for $2,500. It leaked out last night that President Soden of the Boston club wrote to Treasurer Pierce of the Worcesters asking for terms for the release of Stafford, the Worcester pitcher. The letter was dated September 7, but was miscarried and did not reach the Worcester directors until yesterday.

Will Represent Pope Leo.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—A Rome dispatch says that the celebrated theologian, Archbishop Satalli, will represent Pope Leo at the celebration of the centenary of the Catholic church in America in Baltimore next November.

A Pensioner of 1812 Dead.

CONTOCOOK, N. H., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Catherine Burbank, aged nearly 91 years, a pensioner of the War of 1812, and probably the last one in this vicinity, is dead. She was the widow of Jonathan Burbank.

POSTMASTERS IN TROUBLE.

A Number to be Summoned Before the United States Commissioners.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 21.—A number of Connecticut postmasters, chiefly in New Haven and Fairfield counties, are about to receive summons to appear before a United States Commissioner for violation of law. Some time ago the firm of "Palliser & Palliser," architects of New York, sent bundles of circulars to about seventy-five postmasters in Connecticut asking that the circulars be stamped and mailed and the bill forwarded. In many small county offices postmasters receive a cent for every stamp cancelled, and their pay is based on the business done.

It is a violation of the law for them to seek business outside of that which really belongs to the office. It is also a violation for any Postmaster to sell stamps on credit. Further the New York firm, it is alleged, did not at once pay for all the stamps purchased, and the Postmasters further violated the law by making false entries in their returns for the quarter's business. They reported the stamps sold to the New York firm and not paid as stamps on hand. The penalty for the violations varies from $50 to $500. The names of the Postmasters cannot be obtained, nor the precise number who have erred.

THE UNKNOWN SUICIDE.

Now Believed to Be W. J. Armstrong of Merchantville, N. J.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 20.—The belief is growing that the man that killed himself on a grave in Oakland cemetery here last Sunday, was W. J. Armstrong, who disappeared from Merchantville, N. J., on September 10, and for whom a large reward is offered. The description given of Armstrong tallies with the appearance of the stranger except in age. The suicide was evidently carefully planned. In the watch pocket of the trousers was this note:

"Life is an awful burden to one destitute of friends and homeless. I am not insane as some people say. Sufficient money will be found on my person to give me a Christian burial."

The handwriting was that of a person of education. The friends of Armstrong have been communicated with, and an attempt was made to keep the body until their arrival, but it was necessary to bury it on Tuesday.

He Stole a Horse and Buggy.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 21.—Edward Lebengood, of Manayunk, drove to the stables of the Hartranft House with a splendid black trotting horse attached to a Hunt & Son's falling-top buggy. He wanted to borrow $20 on the team. Proprietor Blackburn suspected that something was wrong and offered to buy the outfit, and got Lebengood to wait while he went out on pretense of borrowing the $250 demanded. Instead he brought the police, who arrested Lebengood. On his way to jail he confessed to having taken the team that afternoon from the Gentlemen's Driving Park. He said he had no money. The team awaits an owner.

The Regular Ku-Klux Style.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 21.—The front door of the residence of Capt. Pierce, a well-known townsman, was embellished with large posters, warning him to leave politics or leave town yesterday, and skulls, cross-bones and other white cap devices served to lend force to the warning. There is no clue to the identity of the guilty parties.

Marks on Leconey's Body.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 21.—The examination of the body of Chalkley Leconey, under arrest upon suspicion of having murdered his niece, developed scratches on the back and on the hands of recent infliction and as if made with finger nails in a struggle. There are new developments in the case to-day.

Mentioned for Attorney-General.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Hon. J. Van Voorhis, of this city, is being mentioned prominently for the nomination by the Republican State Convention for Attorney-General. Mr. Van Voorhis is now in the White Mountains, but his friends here say that he is a candidate for the nomination.

A Noted Boston Character Dead.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Mr. T. Mackenzie Axe, known to most New Englanders as "the telescope man" of Boston Common, died here yesterday. He was a native of York, Pa. He lived alone, and an examination of his effects will be made by the authorities.

Looks Bad for Hillman.

WOODBURY, N. J., Sept. 21.—In the trial of Hillman for the murder of Zideman, the peddler, Dr. Forman testified to finding blood on the wheelbarrow belonging to the prisoner and in which it is supposed he conveyed the body of his victim to the pond into which it was thrown.

Site for the World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The site for the World's Fair of 1892 has been selected by the Site and Building Committee this afternoon. It embraces that plot of land from 97th street to 127th street, and from Fourth avenue to the North River. Morningside and Riverside Park are included in this area, but that portion of Central Park above the reservoir will not be used unless it is found to be absolutely necessary. Hon. Roswell P. Flower was elected Vice-Chairman of the Committee.

The Miners' Convention.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 21.—The National Miners' District Convention authorized the District Assembly to call a convention of the coal and coke workers of the United States, to be held in January next, to fix a uniform rate of wages and take definite action on the eight-hour question. The delegates to the general convention, which meets in Atlanta, Ga., next month, were instructed to vote against the order going into politics as an organization. Officers will be elected this afternoon.

TO-MORROW'S FIGHT

The Elections in France Creating Great Excitement.

BOULANGER'S FRIENDS NOISY.

President Carnot Issues a Manifesto to the People.

He Warns Them that the Enemies of France Have Entered Into an Unholy Compact to Destroy the Republic—The Government Likely to be Sustained, but Will Lose a Number of Deputies—Retired Officers Sympathize with Boulanger.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—The excitement over the elections of to-morrow is hourly increasing throughout the whole of France. In every city and town of the Republic political meetings of one set of partisans or another are held nightly, and when to-morrow arrives and the French elector will have to register his choice for the Republic as it is or otherwise, he need not falter in his choice for lack of sufficient counsel.

The Boulangists are making prodigious efforts to galvanize their idol into a semblance of life, and, though they are sorely handicapped by the enforced absence from prudential considerations of their hero, they yet succeed in keeping up a heap of noise. In these efforts they have the active, though blind and unintentional, aid of the frightened Government, who really give the Boulangist cause all the respectability it possesses by laboriously and idiotically sending large bodies of troops to all their meetings.

At last night's meeting at the Cirque Fernando, in Paris, the well known Boulangists Laguerre, Laisant and Delouredo spoke to over 4,000 of their sympathizers, but at the same time they were compelled to address their arguments to nearly a thousand police and soldiers, who had been sent by the Ministers ostensibly to preserve order, but really to overawe the meeting.

Notwithstanding their presence the Government was roundly abused, and shouts of "Vive Boulanger" rose from all parts of the great hall. After the meeting over a hundred of those who took part were arrested and thrown into prison with no charge whatever against them.

The best informed opinion in Paris is that the Government will be sustained to-morrow by the people, though they will lose a considerable number of Deputies. President Carnot has prepared a manifesto, which will be issued to-night, on the eve of election, in which he will appeal to the people of France to save themselves from the dangers which threaten the Republic.

He warns them that the enemies of France have entered into an unholy compact to destroy the Republic for no better purpose than that they may have the chance to fight afterward over their prey.

Boulanger's Friends Wish Him Success.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Fifty retired officers of the French army, who were formerly comrades of General Boulanger, have presented the General with an address protesting against his prosecution by the Government and expressing the wish that he may gain a striking victory in the coming elections for members of the Chamber of Deputies.

An Honor to Lady Stansfield.

DUBLIN, Sept. 21.—The freedom of the city was conferred upon and accepted by Lady Sandhurst Stansfield to-day amid great enthusiasm. Lord Mayor Sexton in making the presentation highly eulogized the services of the lady in behalf of Ireland and said this was the first instance in modern times of the freedom of the city being conferred upon a woman. Such work as that of Lady Stansfield and the British democracy would ensure home rule at an early day.

Brigands Burned in Their House.

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—The political correspondence publishes the following story: In the Servian village of Losowiks, recently, a body of Gendarmes surrounded and set fire to a house in which a party of brigands had taken refuge. The leader of the band, who was a woman, and two other members, perished in the flames, after making desperate attempts to fight their way out. The other members of the band were captured. One Gendarme was killed.

Gladstone's Shot at Balfour.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Mr. Gladstone writes that he regards Secretary Balfour's Irish University endowment scheme as a lightning conductor, intended to divert the stroke that would fall upon the Parnell Commission.

Sheriden Shook Assaulted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Sheriden Shook, the well-known politician, hotel man and former theatrical manager, was assaulted in the Morton House by Thos. Patten, a wealthy real estate man. Mr. Shook was cut on the neck and face by Mr. Patten's fists. He was taken unawares while seated, and could not at first defend himself. He finally grappled with Patten and floored him. The men were then separated. Mr. Shook has since remained in his room, though it is said he is not seriously injured. The trouble between the men grows out of the failure of certain proposed legislation at Albany last winter which Mr. Shook was pushing and in which Mr. Patten was interested.

The State Department's Thanks.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The State Department has directed Minister Lincoln to thank the British Government for the prompt action of the commander of a British war vessel in going to Navassa, where rioting is reported, at the request of Mr. Allen, the U. S. Consul at Kingston, Jamaica.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The Street Commissioner has been filling in some of the low places on Park avenue.

—It is disgusting to the average citizen to see the oh-I'm-so-glad smile on the coal dealers.

—The utmost care should be observed now-a-days, as this is good weather to catch a cold.

—The milk inspectors in the various counties of the State are busy gathering samples for analysis.

—The West End, Jrs., will play the Diamonds of this city, next Wednesday, on the Somerville grounds.

—All the street lights went out again about ten o'clock last evening, but they were soon burning again.

—Fresh Jersey pork and sausage meat at Vetterlein's Market, West Front street. See adv. in another column.

—It is expected that all the sextons will fire up to-night or early to-morrow morning, and get the dampness out of the churches.

—The plans for the new railroad station at Somerville are completed. The building will be something like the Plainfield station.

—"Dear George," said she, with anxious eye.
"What's semper felix? Tell me, do!"
"It fits," quoth George, "to those who buy
Their goods at 3 Park avenue."

—Janitor Hope continues to find articles of every description in the school yard adjoining the Bryant building. He will probably open a curiosity shop.

—The recent storm washed several deep gullies in the roadbed on Scott place, and that thoroughfare needs the immediate attention of the Street Commissioner.

—A stage will leave the City Hotel at seven o'clock, on Tuesday evening next, to accommodate those who wish to attend the ball at the Mt. Bethel Hotel on that evening.

—Stealing fruit is a great annoyance as well as a loss to owners, and we hear of a good deal of it going on. Proper punishment should be administered to these provoking thieves.

—There is something new in Van Emburgh & White's space. They have added a new department—jackets and New Markets—and are showing a very handsome line of these goods.

—The horses, harness and trucks known as the property of No. 2 Engine company, and the trucking business connected therewith, are offered for sale to the lowest bidder, in an advertisement elsewhere.

—Photographs have been taken of the wagon of Mr. George A. Moore, the butcher, that attracted so much attention in the Labor Day parade. It was a "piece of work" and took Messrs James Heath, Walter Martin and Oscar Terry a whole day to complete.

—Strangers coming into the city are astonished to find Plainfield so little damaged by high water. One lady who arrived in town on Thursday says that actually she would not have believed that the late storm could have caused so little damage here, if she had not made a tour of the city for wreckage in vain.

—It is the busy men who keep the World moving. It is the busy men who sustain society, and the busy men who are the projectors of progress and improvement. The lazy man is full of trouble and is a detriment to the town in which he lives. He never succeeds and finds fault with everyone but himself.

—Edsall says on account of his new and extra large and superior stock for the Fall and Winter season, and the extremely low prices at which he is selling, he is expecting the largest business this season that he has ever done in this city. His new advertisement today announces new Fall and Winter goods in great variety, and prices are guaranteed to be the lowest. There is certainly but little excuse for going to New York when such excellent opportunities are offered at home.

Four O'clock Meeting.

The members of the W. C. T. U. are requested to attend their four o'clock evangelistic meeting to-morrow afternoon, as far as possible.

The leader of the meeting desires to begin the Fall and Winter work in earnest, and wishes the hearty co-operation of not only the W. C. T. U. but also of all Christian workers regardless of denomination. The most cordial invitation to everybody to attend this meeting is extended.

THE STREET RAILWAY QUESTION.

The Storm Again Interferes With the Citizens' Meeting, But Mr. Daft Explains the "Modus Operandi" of the Proposed System.

The citizens meeting called for last evening, to confer with Mr. Leo Daft with reference to the proposed street railway was again postponed on account of the storm. Another meeting will be called early next week.

A few persons, however, were present at the Republican Association headquarters last evening, and listened attentively to Mr. Daft while he explained the workings of the storage battery system. Mr Childs, who was to have been present and explained the proposed mode of organizing a corporation, was unavoidably absent on account of illness.

Mr. Daft exhibited a sample of the steel rail, which if to be used in case the company is granted a franchise, and also illustrated its superiority over the other rails now in use in other cities.

During the evening Mr. Daft stated that it would cost $65,606 to build and equip the proposed four miles of track, and to meet this expense a capital stock of $75,000 would be issued.

Mr. Daft said that in the beginning four cars would be put in active service and that three additional cars would be held in reserve. In answer to a question concerning grades, Mr. Daft said that the heaviest grade to be encountered was on Clinton avenue and from the Peace street bridge up to the railroad station. These grades, he considered, were of no importance.

A REPLY TO THE PRESS.

What Mr. Cleaver Will Have to Say To-morrow.

The "First Church of Christ in Plainfield," will hold services as usual, to-morrow, in Reform Hall. They will be as follows:

10.30 A. M., 1st—Reply to question of "Truth," published in THE PRESS, as to baptism of the 144,000, and of "the multitude which no man can number." Rev. VII. 2d—Discourse by Mr. Cleaver. Subject: "What must the churches do to be saved?" 3d—The Lord's Supper.

Bible school 2.30 P. M. Social meetings Wednesday and Friday evenings.

At Music Hall Next Tuesday.

(From the Pittsburg Press, Sept. 3.)

Fred. Warde opened his engagement at the Grand Opera House, last night, in his new version of an old standard play, "Belphegor," which he calls "The Mountebank." It is needless to say that he was excellent in the tragic passages. He has shown his power in such work so often that he has an acknowledged place among the best tragedians of our day. It was in the earlier portion of "The Mountebank," however, that Mr. Warde proved how accomplished he was as a comedian as well as a tragedian. There is a marked strain of domestic feeling throughout the earlier scenes of "The Mountebank," wherein Mr. Warde seemed to be thoroughly at home. The story is a simple one. A strolling player, Belphegor, is married to a woman who, unknown to him, is superior in station.

Her wealthy relatives plot against his domestic happiness and take away his wife. True manhood overcomes the machinations of the unscrupulous friends and the curtain falls upon a reunited family. The character is cast in that heroic mold which suits the tragedian so well. The company were all strong, and did careful and meritorious work.

Arrested for Illegal Selling.

Officer Lynch yesterday afternoon arrested a man named Michael Watson, who it is alleged runs a "joint" in the vicinity of the Pond Tool Works, charged by Chief Carey with having illegally carried on a liquor business. The complaint embraces four distinct charges, and on each one the defendant was required to furnish $200 bail to appear for trial on Monday afternoon next at two o'clock. Watson's father-in-law went on his bail bonds.

The defendant is a brother-in-law of John McFadden, the man who is now a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital, suffering from the injuries he received by the cars at Grant avenue, a week ago to-night, and it is alleged that the night the accident occurred, McFadden was on his way home from Watson's place.

Mrs. Osborn to Lecture.

Mrs. Osborn, a returned missionary, who is now at the head of a training school in Brooklyn, N. Y., where ladies and gentlemen are prepared for missionary work, will deliver a free lecture in Vincent chapel, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 24, at 3:30 o'clock. Subject: "Missionary work in foreign fields."

Mrs. Osborn is a lady of many years experience among the heathen in foreign lands. Her discourse will be instructive as well as entertaining, and she will no doubt draw the close attention of her audience. It will cost nothing, therefore all who can, should avail themselves of the opportunity of being present. All welcome.

'Twill Make Some Citizens Squeal.

Ye who owe your grocers, prepare to pay them now! The Grocers Protective Association of Plainfield, is considering the plan of publishing the names of their delinquent customers and advertising their accounts for sale by auction. This is done in New York and possibly other States. The account is offered for the highest bidder and sold if only ten cents is bid.

AFTER-CLAPS.

A Somerville Paper Still Howling About That Game of Two Weeks Ago.

(From Yesterday's Somerville Democrat.)

"PLAINFIELD DARE NOT PLAY."

The garbled report in Sunday's N. Y. Sun of the Plainfield-Somerville ball games, was written by a Plainfielder, and, we would wager, emanated from the Press office. It is copied in Tuesday's Press. The whole thing is a misrepresentation and only written to please Plainfielders, who are still smarting from the defeat administered by the West Ends. Give them another sugar tit. Plainfield dare not play another game with the West Ends, for they are afraid of being beaten.

OUR WOFUL IGNORANCE.

The Crescents were outplayed by the West Ends, and the latter never said that they would have the game by foul or fair means. This statement was made by the Plainfielders, however, who now try to saddle it off on the West Ends. As to the umpire, every fair-minded person admits that he favored the Crescents more than the West Ends. If the base ball editor of the Press knew as much about the game as the umpire, he would not make such a public show of himself. You were fairly and honestly whipped, Plainfield, and what is the use of squealing so loud and playing the "baby act." You are the laughing stock of the State. Better crawl in a hole and pull it in after you.

THAT MALIGNED ANGEL, HARKINS.

Is Harkins the only pitcher who ever hit a batter? Well, we guess not. It is a common occurrence. To try to malign and prejudice the public against Harkins is more malicious and dastardly than to hit a man with a ball. Harkins never hit a man intentionally. He does not resort to such small tactics, and to try to justify McMurray's conduct by impugning Harkins, is a lame way of excusing the former. The whole truth of the matter is that Plainfield is desperately jealous of Harkins and the rest of the West Enders. We know it is a bitter dose for Plainfield to have such a team defeated as they sent up here on that memorable Saturday to wipe up the diamond with the West Ends, but grin and bear it. Do not howl so loud that they can hear you in the adjoining counties and enjoy your discomfiture.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. E. C. Cloid and family are home from Woodstock, N. Y.

Mr. S. P. Tallman, of Dunellen, was this week granted a patent for a stock car.

Miss Mamie McClain of New York, is the guest of Miss Maggie Manning of Franklin place.

Mrs. Gertrude Lees, daughter and son, of No. 7 Chatham street, North Plainfield, are visiting friends in Atlantic City and Cape May for ten days.

Miss Susan Gilbert, an efficient Vice Principal, of the Irving School, has resumed her duties after a long confinement to the house by illness.

At No. 39 West Seventh street, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 2, at 8.30 o'clock, will occur the marriage of Miss Maria E. Webley and Mr. James H. Mann.

Mr. Frank Hubbard, a son of Assessor Hubbard of West Fifth street, has returned home after an absence of two years at Rock Creek, Wyoming Territory.

Mr. John Talmage, brother of the Rev. DeWitt Talmage, for forty years a missionary in China, is visiting friends and relatives in Bound Brook. He intends returning to his life work after a short rest.

Mr. George H. Earl, of Canon City, Col., who has been visiting at the homes of Mrs. Annie Freeman and Miss M. E. Brown, returned on Thursday. Mr. Earl whose wife is a sister of Mr. H. M. Gilligan, is a prosperous pharmacist.

Mr. Joseph L. Moore, of East Seventh street, Assistant Foreman of Alerts, has been called to Pittsburgh by the death of his brother-in-law in a railroad accident. This death is the second among Mr. Moore's relatives from the same cause within a month.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, arrived home from Europe on the steamer City of Berlin, last evening, having experienced a very pleasant journey over. Mrs. Schenck, who was stopping with her mother in Philadelphia, was summoned by telegraph last evening, but did not receive the message, and in consequence did not arrive in Plainfield until half-past nine o'clock this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Schenck are stopping at No. 46 East Second street.

A Remedy for Indigestion.

For ladies and children whose taste cannot be offended with impunity, HAMBURG FIGS form a remedy for indigestion and liver complaints which is as pleasant to take as it is effective in use. 25c. Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

—That bogus weather prophet, DeVoe, said there would be frost on the 13th. Like all his predictions it proved untrue.

Grape Culture.

It is fast becoming a leading business of this country, and that together with wine making requires years of practice. Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, one of the largest producers in the East, commenced years ago in a small way to make wine from currants, blackberries and other fruits. He soon turned his attention to grape raising and planted large vineyards of the Portugal vines from which his famous Port Grape Wine and Unfermented Grape Juice is made, which chemists and physicians say rivals the world for its beneficial effects on weakly and aged persons.

Mechanical Drawing.

Classes in Mechanical Drawing will be organized at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Tuesday evening, Oct. 1. Mr. A. J. Gavett, civil engineer, will with competent assistance again teach these classes which have been so eminently successful in past years.

The classes of last Spring will have an opportunity for continuing their study and a new class will be organized for the benefit of those who are not competent to do the more advanced work. The membership fee $2.00 entitles to the above and all other privileges of the Association.

Important Improvements.

(From the Westfield Standard.)

The approaches to the passenger station and freight depot on the South side of the Central Railroad, Westfield, are being put in perfect order by roadmaster Abbott and the overseer of Road District, No. 2, Mr. Ripley. Not less than thirty car loads of crushed stone have already been supplied by the company and placed around the approaches by the road overseer, and last Friday and Saturday a car load of 12 inch iron pipes were put in the place of the old culverts. Mr. Abbott inserted these pipes to the great convenience of those moving freight and approaching the station and freight depot.

South avenue, which is to be put in order from Westfield avenue to Central avenue at a cost of about $2,000 is well under way. Mr. Abbott declares it is so far as constructed to be one of the most perfect pieces of road between New York and Easton. He would be glad, if the Central company would let him do such complete work on its roadbed, but they will not incur the expense, he says. This new road unites the two county roads, one leading from Rahway to Westfield, the other from Plainfield to Westfield. Mr. George W. Peek has just built, by private subscription, a first-class sidewalk on the South avenue, from Westfield avenue towards the depot, a much needed improvement. The walk is to be continued by the overseer from the depot West to Central avenue.

Mount Ararat will soon be ready for the inspection of Roy, Jr., of Plainfield Press Corps. Come up Petit Roi, and bring with you a reporter, and we will show you around among our improvements. If you can exhibit as complete a carriage road in Plainfield as our South avenue from Westfield to Central avenue, then we will admit that it is in order for a Westfield funeral. Otherwise another Plainfield funeral is to occur.

A Somervillian Sneer.

Poor Plainfield? We offer some of our surplus dirt to help lift the little town to a level with the surface of the earth. The town suffered on the 17th from another freshet. We trust that our neighbor's danger storehouse at Feltville Dam, will not empty its threatening contents unawares upon the slumbering town. No doubt there are many wicked people there, but we believe in giving even that class a chance to flee to the mountains. It ought to have a location among the habitable places of the earth.—Somerset Democrat.

Thanks, neighbor! You can keep your dirt—we never use it. And have no fear about the Feltville Dam. She's all right! The painters have been up and put another coat of white lead on it, the terrible leaks have been stopped with unread copies of the dying news, and the "bulge" has been straightened by the exertions of "couriers on horse back."

"Make Plainfield Fix Her End."

A Scotch Plains correspondent writes: "And while you are about it, gentlemen of Scotch Plains, men of property, spend some money yourselves to improve your property. Trees should be planted in Park avenue. Stir up your officials. They are enterprising men and ready to second any effort you may make in the direction of the improvement of the village or the township at large. Make Plainfield fix her end of the Terrill road that has not been worked for four years and is sadly in need of repairs. (Plainpapers please copy). Come gentlemen, wake up; kick off the bedclothes; dress yourselves; eat a good breakfast and go to work to make a town. You've got the tools to work with!"

How to Test Milk.

Many a housekeeper has been puzzled to know at times whether or not the milkman is honest. Of course, it is to be presumed that the milk supplied our Plainfield people is not adulterated with water, but all may have the means of determining for themselves by the following test: Set away a tumblerful of the milk in some place where it will not be disturbed until it has become thick and loppered, when, if it is held up before a strong light, the water, if any, will be found at the bottom. The milk will be solid as jelly in the middle and the cream on top.

Gambling at Waverly.

The detectives employed at the Waverly fair Thursday evening arrested Edgar King of New York, and Edgar Chandler of Newark, for conducting a game of "sweat" in a tent at the fair grounds. Next morning one of the detectives made a formal complaint against King, and he was committed for trial in the Special Sessions. No charge was made against Chandler, and he was discharged.

Let This Be Done.

The way to stop the overflowing of Green Brook forever, is to enlarge its course through the city's limits. Excavate it to four times its present size, properly bank it, and Plainfield will never know another freshet and the papers that have done the city so much harm with exaggerated accounts of great damage by water, will be silenced for all time.

New Jersey Democrats.

The New Jersey Democratic State Committee met at Taylor's Hotel in Jersey City, yesterday, and organized by electing Allen L. McDermott as chairman, Willard C. Fiske, secretary, and Ben Lee, treasurer. The session was a secret and long one.

SETTLING HER AFFAIRS.

Eva Hamilton Will Leave for Her Prison Home Next Week.

MAY'S LANDING, Sept. 21.—To-day the little jail at May's Landing, where Mrs. Hamilton awaits the execution of her two year sentence, is besieged by a lot of women and girls who hanker after some bit of the woman's clothing as a memento of the trial. They have succeeded in making Sheriff Johnston's life wretched. Eva will have, as her traveling companions, two negro "ladies," who were sentenced yesterday by Judge Reed to the same length of imprisonment for relieving a young man of his gold watch in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Hamilton will remain for several days at the Sheriff's house, arranging her affairs before her removal to Trenton. She is quiet, but bitter, this morning and Mrs. Johnson does not expect any further trouble with her charge. She has drifted into a state of contemptuous stolidity and has simply lost interest in everything but her cigarettes. She does, however, feel some regard for Charles Whippey, the lone juryman who hung out for a two-year sentence, when she might have had ten but for his obstinacy. She will be free in twenty months if the usual allowance for good behavior is made.

Rumors were rife here last night that Mrs. Hamilton had committed suicide, but they were soon contradicted.

She will be removed to the penitentiary next week. She has provided for the care of the baby Beatrice.

A Prominent Mason Missing.

NEW YORK, Sept 21.—A circular was read in all the Masonic lodges in this city last night requesting that the members make every effort to ascertain the whereabouts of John A. Greenlee, a prominent mason, of Kearney, Neb. He left Belle Plains, Iowa, for Des Moines on May 26 last, since which time nothing has been heard of him. One member of the Masonic fraternity stated to a reporter to-day that he thought he recognized in the description a man who called upon him for aid on the 16th inst.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Surrey dock directors have confirmed the concessions granted to their dockmen.

Samuel Murray was shot and killed by his son, aged 18 years, at Louisiana, Mo., yesterday.

William Pulz, 66 years old, set fire to his house and then shot and killed himself at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Julius Meyers' restaurant at Decorah, Iowa, was burned yesterday and Meyers perished in the flames.

Joseph Thomas Raymond, alias Thos. Brown, was hanged in the corridor of the jail at Moorhead, Minn.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish a the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

GRAPE CRUSH: PEACH CRUSH:

AND SO FORTH.

QUESTION:—What are they? Why are they better than common Fruit Syrups, (not to name the dangerous slops made from "Essences")?

ANSWER:—CLEAN, RIPE FRUITS are bodily crushed with sugar, the skins and seeds are strained off, and we have syrups rich with the UNCHANGED JUICES of the FRUITS, doubly rich, also, with their LUSCIOUS PULPS.

These FRUIT CRUSHES originated with us last year, and had a big run. And so again this year During their proper season, in fact, they run out all other drinks

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs. 53' from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

GIANTS LOSE A POINT

The Leaders Struggling Hard for First Place.

IT IS A BATTLE OF PITCHERS.

Keefe Faced the Quaker City Team in Both Games.

New Yorks Win One Game and Tie the Second—The Senators Easily Defeated by the Bostons—Brooklys Win from the Athletics—Chicago Loses to Cleveland. Rumors of a War Between the Brotherhood and League.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The New Yorks and Philadelphias played two games yesterday, the first battle resulting in a victory for New York and the second being a draw. The weather was cold, damp and threatening, and the high winds made life in the grand stand anything but pleasant.

Ward and Richardson won the honors for New York, while Fogarty, Farrar and Hallman did phenomenal fielding work for the Quakers. Every one of the Giants made a hit. Philadelphia got half a dozen hits divided among that many players. Keefe pitched in both games.

The Bostons' Good Luck.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The Senators gave a very stupid exhibition of base running and lost a game to Boston which should have been an easy victory. Umpire Powers, however, was rather hard on the home team, and gave three outs at bases where runners appeared to be safe. The home team batted Clarkson hard and fielded well, despite the bad condition of the grounds, but all the luck was on Boston's side, and, although they only secured four hits, they were so well placed that all resulted in runs. Kelly made the winning run in the eighth inning on his double, a steal and Nash's single.

Money to Fight the League.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—It was asserted last night that a gigantic syndicate has been formed in this city to back the Baseball Brotherhood in its fight against the League in case the Brotherhood have any fight against the League. One member of this syndicate has offered to get $1,000,000 with which to back the players. The syndicate proposes to lease the plot just north of the new Polo Grounds on which the coming New York team will play. It belongs to the Lynch estate and is managed by J. J. Coogan. Mr. Coogan does not deny that such a scheme is on foot.

Snow Whitened the Hills.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., Sept. 21.—Snow whitened the hills at Gulp Summit, Broome County, New York, seven miles east of here, this morning.

A GOLD FEVER.

One Worth $50 a Ton Discovered in a New Jersey Town.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Residents of Irvington, a suburb of this city dreamed of fabulous wealth yesterday when they heard that there was gold under the ground and not a few of them worked with pick and spade in search of the precious metal. A man named Powers picked up an odd-looking stone last week while working on the Clinton avenue road. The stone contained a quantity of iron pyrites which glittered like gold. Powers threw the stone to a companion, who took it to one of the employees of Glarieu & Woolsey, refiners. An analysis showed that the stone contained gold, and was worth about $50 a ton.

"I know very little about the matter yet," Mr. Glorieu said yesterday, "but I would be very glad to hear that there is sufficient ore here to make it profitable to mine. The specimen that was brought to me was only roughly assayed, but such ore would yield about $50 a ton. I have taken steps to find out if there is anything in this matter, and will have some digging done in the neighborhood to see if the ore can be found in quantities."

The place where the stone was found is on hilly ground on Clinton avenue, about half a mile from Springfield avenue.

"This section," said Roadmaster Van Clief yesterday, "is full of the rock. I remember picking up some of it seven years ago on Elmwood avenue, which crosses part of this same ridge. Since the assay was made and the ore found to contain gold, quite a number of people have been hunting for the stone. I heard that one piece was assayed and showed a yield of $120 a ton."

Others have picked up pieces of the rock, but as yet there is nothing to show that the gold exists in any quantity to make it worth mining. There is a small gold fever among the people who are on the tiptoe of expectation until some conclusive experiments shall have been made. They ridicule the idea that the stones were scattered around to cause a temporary boom in real estate.

Duellists to Settle Trouble by Arbitration.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 21.—Haff and Patterson have agreed to refer their differences to a committee for settlement. The one on whom the committee place the blame must retract or apologize. The committee consists of clergymen as follows: Rev. E. W. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist Church; Rev. T. R. Kendell, pastor of the Mulberry Street Methodist Church, and Rev. W. B. Jennings, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. They will consume several days in the investigation.

No Trouble at Navassa Up to Sept. 1.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 21.—The bark Dom Pedro II. arrived at this port today from Navassa Island, whence she sailed on Sept. 1. Captain Benson states that everything was quiet on the Island when he left it, and that there was no manifestation of discontent among the people, and no indication of trouble from any source.

Death of a Labor Leader.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 21.—John G. Caville, a formerly prominent labor leader, died in St. Mary's Hospital last night of a complication of diseases. He was general auditor of the Knights of Labor in 1885, and later was secretary of D. A. 49, K. of L., in New York. He led several successful car strikes in New York and Brooklyn in 1886. He ran for city auditor in 1886, and also for the Assembly.

To Spend 89 Years in Prison.

SEATTLE, W. T., Sept. 21.—Chief Justice Hanford sentenced Charles Clark, James Davis and Barney Martin to terms in the penitentiary aggregating 89 years, for assault with intent to kill, robbery and burglary. They are desperate characters, and recently nearly killed their jailor in an attempt to escape.

An Electric Railroad Smash.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 21.—A car on the electric railroad up Mission Ridge slipped on the side of the hill yesterday, the track being covered with dew. The car was heavily loaded, and the passengers at the bidding of the conductor jumped off. The persons injured were visitors in attendance at the reunion of Wilder's Brigade.

No Tickets for Chinamen.

READING, Mass., Sept. 21.—The Boston & Maine Railroad Company has instructed its ticket agents to sell no more tickets to Chinamen for points in Canada or to points in the United States by any route requiring the passenger to go through Canada. This rule is made necessary by the national legislation regarding Chinese immigration.

A Shoemakers Strike Declared.

HOLBROOK, Mass., Sept. 21.—A strike was declared yesterday in the factory of Edmund White in this town by the local branch of the boot and shoe makers' International Union. The trouble was caused by an attempt at a reduction in factory prices and efforts of the employers to establish a free shop system. Over 150 hands are out.

The Three Americas' Exposition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the Three Americas' Exposition Executive Committee, held here last night, it was decided to hold a convention of the National Board of Promotion, composed of Governors, Mayors' committees of Boards of Trade, officers of State Granges and others, at the city of Washton on the 23d of October.

Serious Charge Against an Old Man.

CANAAN, N. H., Sept. 21.—Sylvanus W. Hill, of Dorchester, aged fifty, and Alice Balon, aged fifteen, were arrested last night charged with infanticide. Hill, who is married, procured the girl from a charitable institution three years ago to bring up. She recently gave birth to a child which has disappeared.

Leather Workers Strike for More Pay.

WOBURN, Mass., Sept. 21.—The eighty men employed by the Duncan Leather Manufacturing Company struck this morning for a restoration of wages to the rates paid previous to the recent cut-down of about fifteen per cent.

Crushed Out of Shape.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Sept. 21.—Hugh Roberts and Anthony Marchetty, miners employed at the Alaska Colliery, were instantly killed by a fall of rock. They were crushed out of shape.

BESIEGED BY A COBRA

A Ride on a Locomotive with a Venomous Reptile.

An Experience Which Came Near Turning a Young Man's Hair White—Saved at the Last Moment by a Courageous Fireman.

I was stationed at Sooramungalum in 1875, where I formed a close friendship with Tom Newdegate, the assistant traffic manager of the western section of the Chennaputnam railway, says a writer in Chambers' Journal. He was a widower and I was a bachelor, and, being the only Europeans in the station, with the exception of Major Nimrod, the Government district engineer, whose duties seldom allowed him to be at home, we naturally spent a good many evenings at each other's bungalows.

It was a very hot June evening, and Tom and I were stretched in long American chairs in the veranda of my bungalow smoking our "trichies," when my "boy" came to ask for my instructions about a journey I had to make by train on the following day to a station a few miles down the line.

The prospect was not a pleasant one, as the land wind was still prevailing, and I had little inclination to face that parching, fiery blast. Therefore, I did not look forward with eagerness to spending a day in the Dak bungalow at Sunkery Droog.

"Why not go to-night?" asked Tom. "I am running a special 'goods' to Pothanore at twelve o'clock, and you can be dropped at Sunkery. Or better still—I will go with you, and we will ride on the engine, the coolest place in the train by day or night."

I readily closed with the offer, the chance of traveling by night instead of by day at that time of the year being too good to be lost, and telling my boy to pack up a day's provisions, not forgetting a bottle of Exshaw and half a dozen sodas, and ordering the black chef to join him with his cooking utensils, Tom and I dozed off in our chairs to be wakened at half-past eleven o'clock. At that hour precisely we were aroused by the boy's monotonous "Sah! Sah!" and we were forthwith driven to the railway station.

We were soon off, and I found out at once that Tom was right about the engine being the coolest place. The velocity of the engine creates a current of air which rapidly absorbs the abundant moisture thrown out from one's pores when the thermometer registers ninety degrees at midnight.

With our cheroots burning fragrantly we bowled along very chattily, and felt regretful that we had not a longer run before us. Nothing worthy of notice had happened until the driver ordered his fireman to make up the furnace.

Sooramungalum being upward of two hundred miles from the sea, coal or compressed patent fuel would be too costly t. burn in the engines on account of the expense of bringing it from the coast; besides, coal perishes very rapidly under a tropical sun. Therefore, the furnaces are constructed to burn wood, of which there is a fair supply available from the company's jungle reserves. Of course, all fuel is precious, and drivers must take the fat with the lean—that is, roots as well as logs.

Now, snakes very much affect the hollow crevices of roots of old trees in India, and thus they are frequently carried into the wood-yards at the railway stations, and thence are occasionally transferred to the engine tenders.

This was exactly our case. As the fireman took up a log to throw it into the furnace, down dropped a lively cobra on to the foot-plate. It was not a very large species of "spectacles," about four feet long; but a one-foot hooder is quite enough to grant a passport to the stoutest man that ever hopped, and to frank him to that country from whose bourne no traveler returns. So, being four human beings on that foot-plate, and consequently somewhat crowded, we skipped back with much alacrity. Unfortunately none of us had a stick, or the matter could speedily have been ended. As it was, all we could hope for was that the reptile would glide off the engine, and drop on to the track.

But the creature showed no inclination to go. Either it knew the by-law against leaving the train while in motion, or it liked the fierce heat from the open furnace. It reared itself up, and in the hope of frightening it I made a kick at it, taking care, of course, not to let my foot go within striking distance, as my light ducks would have been no protection against those awful fangs.

It was an unfortunate demonstration; for the snake, so far from being intimidated, accepted the menace as a causus belli, and advanced upon us.

We were besieged.

The driver sprang out on one side of the engine, holding on the hand-rail which runs along the boiler; the fireman went up the pile of logs behind him like a mountain cat; "Tom" vanished from the scene on the opposite side of the engine to that the driver had taken, calling to me to follow him. They were all as much at home skipping around on the engine in the dark as squirrels on the top branches of a beech tree; but to me the unfamiliar situation was perfectly bewildering, and being partly fascinated by the loathsome thing, I was unable to stir, and my feet seemed rooted to the spot.

The cobra raised itself to strike!

I tried to jump off the engine, but I could not move. I would have called out, but horror had tied my tongue. The next instant I expected to receive the mortal wound, when the fireman slipped down from the logs behind the snake, seized it by the tail, and flung it bodily into the furnace. It was a relief to see that cobra squirming in the fire.

Sunkery Droog signals were now in sight, and "Tom" and I were soon after enjoying a peg in the station. But before the train went out there was a short interview between that fireman and myself; and by the very broad grin on his good-natured face, and the hearty "Salaam, Iyer!" with which he brought both his palms to his forehead, I judged he was well satisfied. Certainly I was.

Care of the Eyes.

Dr. Webster Fox, in the journal of the Franklin Institute, maintains that the majority of blind people have lost their sight from want of proper care during infancy, and nurses or mothers who heedlessly expose an infant's eyes to the glare of the sun for hours may be laying the foundation of the most serious evils. He protests against permitting young children to use their eyes in study, and declares that the eye is not strong enough for school work until the age of seven to nine. Children should not be allowed to study much by artificial light before the age of ten, and books printed in small type should be absolutely prohibited in the school-room.

No Time to Dawdle.

She—"Pa said you mustn't stay so late, dear." He—"Do you think he meant it?" She—"Yes. He always puts on his slippers when he comes home, but he didn't do so to-night."

A SUBMARINE DUEL.

A Desperate Conflict Between Two Divers in the Ocean.

One of the best divers I ever met was old Captain Compton, who was murdered at the bottom of the sea, says a New York Herald writer. We were working at the time on the wreck of an East Indiaman, in the Atlantic side of Cape Cod, the peninsula side of Massachusetts. Among our crew was a huge Haytian negro known as "Nigger Jack," who had for some reason taken a violent dislike to Compton. He never lost an opportunity of picking a quarrel. Time and again they had tried to settle the matter with fists, the negro invariably getting the worst of the conflict. On the occasion I mention Compton, Jack and another diver were sent down together. After working a short time the negro suddenly drew his knife, and, springing at Compton, made a vicious lunge at his right side, hoping to cut through the canvass coat and dispose of him. The old captain was too quick for him, however. He caught the assassin's arm and threw him off, at the same time drawing his own weapon. Then began a battle afor life beneath the waves. The captain glanced into the blazing eyes glaring at him from behind the negro's helmet, and knew that the life of one or the other would soon pay the penalty of the feud. Again and again the negro sprang at Compton, only to find his blows parried. Around they circled, jumping here and there, and we above grew alarmed at the strain on the air-pipes and life-lines, until suddenly a rush of water into Compton's pump told us that his pipe had parted. Quickly I sprang to the hoisting ropes intending to raise him before the air in the helmet should give out, but to my horror they were slack, showing that they, too, had parted. At this instant came the "quick hoist" signal on the line of the other white diver and wild with fear we grasped the ropes and soon had him in the boat. Quickly we removed his helmet and plied him with questions. For a moment he could not speak; then he gasped: "Compton's dead; the nigger killed him; he cut the pipe and lines," and fainted. The shock of the submarine murder had been too great for even this strong man.

We tested the negro's lines; they were still taut, and arming ourselves with clubs we hoisted the murderer to the boat; he offered no opposition as we removed the suit and securely bound him. I instantly dressed and descended after Compton's body; the water around him was tinged with blood, and as I bent over him I noticed with horror that the front of his jacket had actually been cut to pieces, no less than a dozen wounds being afterward found upon his body. The negro was tried and convicted, but committed suicide by choking himself with the sleeve of his shirt.

AN ENGINEER'S STORY.

He Plugged His Engine to Avoid a Collision with a Lawn Party.

"One of the worst scares I ever had in my life was when I was running on the P. & R. road," said an engineer to a St. Joseph (Mo.) News reporter at the Union Depot, as a gang of enginemen were seated on the trucks, waiting for their turn to pull out. "It happened in this way: It was my second or third trip, I do not remember which, now, and I had the throttle wide open and working her in the last notch. I was pulling a mixed train, and among other things was a car-load of coal-oil in barrels. At that time we had no tank-cars, and the oil was not of as high test as at present. It was between nine and ten o'clock in the evening and as dark as a stack of black cats with their eyes punched out. It was a pleasant evening, just cool enough to be enjoyable. I was leaning out of my cab window smoking my pipe and keeping a bright lookout ahead. The old engine was pounding along smoothly, as though she enjoyed the run, and I fell to thinking of Molly and the little ones at home. Suddenly we swung around a curve on a side hill and a head-light flashed in my face. I did not wait for a second look. I pulled the whistle and the old machine fairly shrieked. I 'plugged' my engine, for we had no air-brakes then, and I went off, shouting to my fireman as I did so. I landed in a patch of blackberry bushes, and have a dim recollection of seeing the car loaded with oil whiz past me. I could hear the whiz of the drivers in the back motion and the rattle of the brakes as the boys swung on them for dear life. I shut my eyes and listened for the crash, but it did not come. I looked up and the way car had stopped opposite me, while the passengers were poking their heads out of the windows of the coach behind it, asking: 'What's the matter?' I scrambled up the fill and ran to the head of the train, and there I found that the head-light I had seen was on a lawn where a summer-night festival was in progress. There were several head-lights there, but this was placed in such a manner that the light shone full on the track, and looked exactly like an approaching engine as we swung around the curve. It was many a long day before I heard the last of 'plugging' my engine to avoid a collision with a lawn party."

DISPENSARY HUMOR.

Even So Gruesome a Place as a Hospital Has Its Funny Side.

A woman who was being treated for a stomach difficulty at the north end dispensary, writes Arlo Bates from Boston, found in the ash heaps of the dump a bottle containing some gruesome black mixture, and the next time she presented herself for examination she brought it with her.

"Doctor," she said, "will yer plase to taste o' that? I thought to take a little last night; ye wouldn't believe the power o' distress I was in the whole blessed time."

"Distress!" the doctor exclaimed in vexation; "I'm glad of it. Didn't I tell you that if you kept taking things I wouldn't have any thing more to do with you?"

"Yes, I know, doctor, an' I ax yer pardon. But I couldn't bear to waste it, for fear it might be just the very medicine I'd need."

And when she went away she asked for the bottle, as she had a sister who was not well and she thought it might help her.

On another occasion I happened to be in the room of the dentist of the dispensary when there came in an elderly Irishwoman with her daughter, a strapping woman of two or three and twenty. The mother was urging the daughter to have a tooth extracted, and it became apparent from the conversation that they had been there the day before, but that the daughter's courage had not been brought up to the sticking point. This time, however, the woman was persuaded to get into the chair and to allow the dentist to examine her teeth; but upon the inquiry which was the offending tooth, the interesting fact was developed that there were none of the young woman's teeth particularly out of order, but that it being a superstition to which she and her mother religiously held that whenever a woman bore a child she must lose a tooth, they had thought it best to have one taken out before it became painful.

"Which one would you like me to take out?" inquired the dentist, much diverted.

"O, shure an' it's yerself'll be after knowin' which one it'll be will be achin'," was the reply. "It's her first child, an' he's the finest boy ever yez laid eyes on." From which it will be evident that even so gruesome a place as a dispensary has its humors.

L. O. O. F. Next Encampment at Topeka.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 20.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., decided this morning to hold their next annual encampment at Topeka, Kas., commencing the second Monday in September, 1890.

Twenty Years of Coercion.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Marquis of Londonderry, recently Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, made a speech at Stockton last night, in which he expressed the belief that twenty years of coercion would pacify Ireland.

Killed by Her Ten-Year-old Sister.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Maggie Tobin, aged 10, yesterday shot and killed her six-year-old sister while playing with a revolver that had been carelessly left within the children's reach.

Seven Men Lost.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 21.—The British war-ship Lily has been wrecked on the Labrador coast. Seven men were lost. The survivors are being brought here by the warship Emeraldi.

The Landlady Died.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Jas. Farrell, proprietress of a boarding house at Mayville, near this city, died under mysterious circumstances last night. There were a few marks of violence on the body. There was a jollification in the house during the night in which all the occupants participated. Three men are under arrest.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 21.—Montgomery W. Whitlock, a retired tobacco manufacturer of Brooklyn, accidentally killed himself at his residence near this city yesterday. He had gone to a field to shoot a hawk, and on returning to the house the gun exploded in the hall. He expired almost instantly from a wound in the stomach. His age was about 45.

Bound to Keep It Going.

The attention of the passengers in a Southern smoking car was riveted on a strangely behaved negro. He rocked himself from side to side without ceasing. "What's the matter with you?" asked a traveller who was in the car. "Does you know Dan McGary?" inquired the negro. "Yes." "Well sah, he sold me a silver watch for $20," added the negro, still swaying from side to side, "an' I'stops movin' dis here way de watch doan go no moah."

THE VICTIMS BURIED

Fifteen Hearses in the Quebec Funeral Procession.

THE BODIES PLACED IN VAULTS.

To-Day a Large Force of Men Are at Work on the Ruins.

More Corpses Are Expected to Be Found. The Uneasiness of the Inhabitants Has Not Yet Subsided—They Are Anxious to See the Overhanging Walls Made Secure and All Traces of the Wreckage Entirely Removed.

QUEBEC, Sept. 23.—The funeral of the victims of the recent terrible landslide took place yesterday. Ship laborers, about 700 strong, headed by President Mahoney, led the procession. Then followed the police force bearing costly flowers presented by the City Council. Then came fifteen hearses containing 21 of the victims.

The funeral services took place at St. Patrick's Church. Father Hayden, assisted by Father Welch celebrated divine services, after which the procession proceeded to Woodfield Cemetery where the 21 bodies were deposited in vaults prior to final interment.

Some 200 hundred men are actively working at the debris to-day and some more corpses are expected to be found shortly. The anxiety and uneasiness in which the inhabitants of this city were plunged at the catastrophe has not yet subsided nor will it until all traces of the wreckage have disappeared and the overhanging walls made secure.

OYSTER MEN AT WAR.

Trouble Between Virginia and Maryland Over the Potomac Oyster Beds.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—The oyster-gathering citizens of Maryland accuse Virginia oysterers of a wanton violation of the oyster laws governing the Potomac River. The Virginians claim that their acts are sanctioned by their State.

In 1884 a compact was formed between Virginia and Maryland which gave both States equal rights on the Potomac regarding oyster catching. Each State enacted laws for the mutual protection of the oyster beds. The laws are alike and apply to the citizens of both States. Dredging in the Potomac is prohibited between April 1 and November 1. Virginians are now taking oysters at the mouth of the Potomac, the State of Virginia, they claim, having granted permits for that purpose.

The oystermen in Maryland are excited over it, and say that the State of Maryland shall hold Virginia to a strict observance of the law.

Sad Story of Destitution.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Mary Mullins, 20 years old, entered a station house early yesterday with a dead babe in her arms and told a sad story of destitution and suffering. Her husband, a stereotyper, left her about three months ago to look for work in the country, and since then she has not heard from him. Mrs. Mullins went to live with her mother-in-law, but was turned out of doors Saturday night, and walked the streets until yesterday morning with her child. The babe died during the night of cold and exposure. The mother was committed to the care of the Charity Commissioners.

A Child Arrested for Begging.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Jennie Hatfield, nine years old, was arrested last night by an agent of the Children's Society, charged with begging in the street. She is a daughter of John Hatfield, the old-time baseball player, who is now a bookmaker in Chicago. Hatfield left his wife some time ago, taking with him the oldest girl, claiming that she was his only legitimate child. Mrs. Hatfield is so poor that she had to send her children out to beg. Jennie was committed to the care of the Children's Society. Hatfield is said to be worth $60,000. The society has two other children of Mrs. Hatfield in their charge.

Pugilist Sullivan Not a Candidate.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A special from Boston says that John L. Sullivan, before his departure for New York, stated that the talk about his running for Congress from a Massachusetts district was nonsense. He says he never wrote the letter announcing his candidacy, which appeared in a New York paper, and that he would make the editor of that paper retract it.

A Notorious Character Arrested.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The police have arrested a notorious character named Alvah Davis, who committed robberies in many places. There were found on him a gold and silver watch, eight watch chains, and a yearly pass between Jersey City and Chicago, issued by the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad to Charles Austin and wife. The silver watch has a horse's head in gold set in the case.

Disorderly Sunday Prize Fight.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 23.—James McCann, of New Beaford, and James Powell, of Woonsocket, had a 14-round prize fight at Ironstone, Mass., yesterday morning. The contest went on amid great disorder. In the last round Powell was fought down and was unable to rise. There was no interference by the police.

No More Slavery in Zanzibar.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 23.—The Sultan of Zanzibar has issued an edict which empowers Great Britain and Germany to search all Zanzibarese dhows and other boats with the object of suppressing the slave traffic. The edict also declares that every person entering Zanzibar after November 1st shall be free.

TERRIBLE TRIPLE CRIME.

A Pennsylvanian Shoots His Wife, Mother-in-Law and Himself.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.—Seeley Hopkins, while intoxicated yesterday provoked a quarrel with his wife, and becoming violently enraged, procured a revolver and shot her dead. He then went upstairs and shot his wife's mother dead, after which he proceeded to an adjoining livery stable, where he shot himself twice in the head, but neither shot will prove even serious.

He was placed under arrest immediately, and confessed the terrible triple crime. He was taken to Bellefonte to-day and placed in jail to await trial at the November term of court.

A medical examination of the man was made and he was pronounced entirely sane.

Jealousy and a belief in the faithlessness of his wife are believed to have been the reasons that incited Hopkins to the crime. When arrested a letter was found upon his person written evidently with the thought that his attempt at suicide would be successful. In it he charges two citizens of Phillipsburg with being criminally intimate with his wife, and says that he had been hounded to get out of town in order not to interfere with his rivals in his wife's affections.

Hopkins was arrested Saturday for an assault and battery on his wife committed a week ago, and was committed to jail in default of bail. For some unknown reason the constable failed to take him to jail, but gave him his liberty.

The Missing Carpenter's Body Found.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 23.—The body of Philip Lannon, a carpenter, aged 35, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found in the river yesterday, bearing cuts and bruises. Lannon was doubtless robbed and murdered, and the indications are that more than one person took part in the crime. He was over six feet tall, and of powerful build. He probably became intoxicated, and was killed in a brawl, the body being carried to the river for concealment.

Capture of a Colored Brute.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 23.—Henry Carpenter, a colored brute, was captured by the police last night, and the victim of his lust, a 16-year-old white girl, who had been visiting in the city, lies at the point of death. The man enticed the girl to the river, where he outraged her. She was found an hour later unconscious and apparently dying from the effects of her terrible struggle. Guards have been placed about the station to prevent a lynching.

The Woman Suffrage Convention.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The Board of Trade have given the Woman Suffrage Party the use of their office as headquarters during the party's convention here October 3 and 4. The Citizens Association are also aiding the preparations for the convention. Part of the sessions will be devoted to exercises in memory of Dr. Clemence S. Lozier, of New York, for many years chairman of the State Committee.

Ex-Gov. St. John in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Ex-Gov. John P. St. John, of Kansas, addressed the American Temperance Union at Chickering Hall yesterday afternoon. The ex-Governor alluded forcibly to the recent convention of liquor dealers held in this State, and to the alliance of politics with the rum power.

Knocked Out in the Eighth Round.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.—At an early hour yesterday morning Billy Bissell and Jack Ryan, of this city, fought eight rounds to a finish at a place a short distance down the Panhandle railroad, Ryan being knocked out in the eighth round. The victor weighed 165 and Ryan 145 pounds. The purse was $150.

Blessed and Laid the Cornerstone.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 23.—Bishop O'Hara, of Scranton, blessed and laid the cornerstone of St. John's Roman Catholic church at Pittston yesterday. Special trains were run from Scranton, Plymouth, Carbondale and Wilkesbarre, and a large number of people were in attendance.

The Clergyman Stole a Horse.

OSWEGO., N. Y., Sept. 23.—Joseph Bloom, the young English clergyman who was arrested for stealing a horse in Oneida last winter, was convicted at Pulaski on the second trial and sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory. On the first trial the jury disagreed. Mr. Bloom conducted his own case.

A Long Strike Declared Off.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 23.—The long strike at the Columbia Rolling Mills has been formerly declared off by the Amalgamated Association. The strike has lasted nearly seven months, and most of the strikers' places have been filled with non-union men.

Jersey's State Geologist Dies Suddenly.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 23.—Dr. George H. Cook, State Geologist, and vice-president of Rutger's College, died suddenly yesterday of heart failure, in his 72d year. He was born in Hanover, N. J.

Fifty Days on a Bicycle.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Thomas Rice, the Chicago bicyclist, started from the Palace Hotel at noon yesterday on his journey by wheel to Chicago, where he expects to arrive in fifty days.

Thirty-five Horses Perished.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The stable of John Lynch, contractor, at 3,926 Girard avenue, was burned last night, and thirty-five horses perished. Loss, $8,000.

Only Four Jurymen.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The fifth week of the Cronin trial opened to-day with only four jurors in the box. Thus far 495 men have been excused.

A QUIET ELECTION

Result of the Vote in France Not Known.

GEN. BOULANGER IS ELECTED.

Thus Far the Returns Show a Majority For the Government.

A Re-Ballot Necessary in Over Ninety Districts—Minister Goblet Defeated at Amiens and M. Ferry Beaten in the Vosges District—The Boulangist Committee Room Attacked and the Election Papers Burned.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The election returns have come in so irregularly and are so badly mixed that it is impossible to determine the results of yesterday's balloting. So many candidates have failed to secure the requisite majority of the votes cast in their respective districts, that an unusually large number of second ballots will have to be taken. From present indications those second trials will be disastrous to the Boulangists, who cannot acquire much more strength than they have already registered. Boulangist nominees head the polls in sixteen sections of Paris, yet they can point to only one assured election. In all the other sections the majority of the voters array themselves against the adherents of the General, and on a second ballot the Government can count on certain victory in thirty-one of the sections.

So far as can be learned to-day the results in the provinces are encouraging for the Government. Rochefort and Naquet are assured of defeat on the second ballot. Dillon is elected.

The re-election of the Ministers appears to be beyond doubt. The editors of the "Temps," "Paris" and "Batataille" say to-day that the results thus far announced indicate the smash and collapse of Boulanger.

The election passed off tranquilly in Paris, only a few minor disturbances being reported. Reports from the provinces also indicate that no serious trouble occurred in the country districts.

There was a riot in the city of Avignon, where a crowd broke into the Boulanger Committee rooms, burned the voting papers and set fire to the building. Thence the mob proceeded to the Boulangist Club, breaking in the doors, wrecking the furniture and driving out the members of the club.

M. Ferry has been defeated in the Vosges district by M. Picot, a Revisionist. M. Leon Say is elected in Pau, and Casimer-Perier, Republican, in Nogent sur Seine. M. Paul Deroulede, Boulanger, is elected in Angouleme. M. Spuller is elected for Beaune.

Reballots are necessary for M. Clemenceau and M. Constans.

The latest totals are: Republicans 158, Anti-Republicans 89, reballots 145.

All night long and to-day the boulevards were crowded. There were incessant cries of "A bas Ferry."

The Prefecture of the Seine has issued the official figures of the result in Montmartre as follows: Registered electors 18,743, voters 11,686, blank voting papers 2,484. Boulanger received 5,880 votes.

According to these figures a second ballot will be necessary in Montmartre. This result is probably accounted for by the number of "blanks."

Latest Returns.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Latest returns show that in nearly all the electoral districts of Paris there is "ballottage"—that is to say, no candidate has the requisite majority, and the election will take place again next Sunday. Such is the case with Lockroy, Floquet, Yves, Guyot and Naquet. Laisant, Boulanger and Laguerre are elected. Goblet is beaten by Milletvoye, a Boulangist, in Department of the Somme. The results are that fifty republicans and forty-six conservatives or Boulangists are elected and forty-seven "ballottages." Indications are that the government is badly defeated. It is announced that Jules Ferry has been defeated in the Vosges. The 'Figaro" is the authority for the statement that General Boulanger has not been elected and that a "ballottage" occurred in his district.

The Reballot Struggle.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Standard's Paris special says the opinion is quite general that the Government will be worsted in the reballots. The struggle will certainly be a severe one.

Engineer Morse Dead.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 23.—John H. Morse, the engineer who on Friday night jumped on a knife which he had point uppermost in his own pocket, died yesterday morning from loss of blood. He was 63 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children. He had been an engineer on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Road since 1853.

The Woman's Missionary Society Adjourns.

READING, Pa., Sept. 23.—The National Woman's Evangelical Missionary Society adjourned here last evening, after choosing Rochester, Ind., as the next place of meeting. The Rev. W. C. Kantner, of Lafayette, Ore., preached the annual sermon, and in the afternoon Mrs. W. H. Hammer, of Cleveland, spoke on "Impressions of the London Missionary Conference," and Mrs. F. G. Stauffer, of Ashland, Ohio, on "Exposition of Giving."

The Electric Railroad Disaster.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 23.—The Coroner's jury, after investigating the cause of the death of Mrs. Adams, of Casey, Ill., one of the victims of the electric railroad disaster, rendered a verdict charging negligence on the part of the company in not providing adequate machinery to prevent such accidents. Captain Owen Wiley, of Casey, Ill., is expected to die, and William Munford, of Princeton, Ind., is in a critical condition.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—A slight touch of frost is reported in this city, last night.

—The Reception Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will hold an important meeting this evening at 9 o'clock.

—There were large congregations at both morning and afternoon services at the Church of the Holy Cross, yesterday.

—A large and interesting gospel meeting was held at the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday afternoon. Over 50 persons took part.

—Mr. Collier contemplates erecting a two-story addition to the Olympia building. It will be 34x45 feet, with seven billiard tables on the first floor, and club rooms above.

—Wm. H. Manning, of West Fourth street, was this morning reported to Chief Carey as being guilty of inhumanly beating and kicking his own daughter, aged about 13 years.

—There will be a business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society, to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock, in Reform Hall. It is hoped that every member will be present.

—The case of the City against Sullivan, for alleged selling of liquor without a license, was again adjourned this morning at the request of the prosecution. The date now set is Monday, Oct. 21.

—A fire at 7:30 o'clock this morning, in one of the Bull Frog City residences, was put out by buckets of water. Warren Engine company No. 1, of the Borough was on hand, but her hose would not reach.

—The six o'clock express train from Philadelphia to this city, Saturday evening, struck a horse and buggy that was crossing the track just this side of Langhorne, Pa. The man who was driving was instantly killed.

—The W. C. T. U. are arranging for the presence in this city, for two weeks early in November, of Mr. P. A. Burdick, the renowned and successful gospel temperance worker. Probably Music Hall or The Crescent will be engaged for the meetings proposed, as the largest auditoriums are necessary to hold the audiences that Mr. Burdick attracts everywhere.

The Case of Mr. Watson.

Michael F. Watson, who has been arrested on the charge of keeping a disorderly house in the vicinity of the Pond Works, and of selling liquor therein without a license, emphatically denies that his brother-in-law, John McFadden, got any liquor at his place the night he (McFadden) was run over by the cars.

Watson, who is President of the Brotherhood of Iron Workers, says he only sells cigars, tobacco, soda and ginger ale. Every evening, he says, a lot of the members of the Union gather at his place, treat one another to smokes and soft drinks, and talk politics. His trial, set down for this afternoon, has been adjourned until next Monday at 10 o'clock A. M., and the Hon. Fred. Marsh will defend him.

Special to Young Men.

Mr. Milton A Craft who leaves the city to-morrow for Alexandria, Va., will conduct the Young Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock. Topic, Following Christ, John XII:21. A meeting of peculiar interest may be expected. Every man is invited to be present and to join heartily in the singing.

Extensive Improvements.

There will probably be no services in the First Baptist church before December, as the repairs and improvements to its interior will be more extensive than were at first intended. New carpets and cushions, a new organ, a change in the pulpit, and repainting all through, are the principal changes to be made.

To Meet at the Parsonage.

In view of the coming annual meeting of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue church, an informal meeting of the young people will be held at the parsonage, East Front street, to-morrow evening at eight o'clock, to plan work for the coming year.

A Coming Musical.

The choir of the Crescent Avenue church are arranging for a musical, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the amount which they volunteered to raise toward the building fund. Some of the finest talent of New York city has already volunteered.

WILKIE COLLINS.

The Great Novelist Passes Out of Life This Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Wilkie Collins, the world-famous novelist, died at 10:35 o'clock this morning. He was sixty-five years old.

The cause of death was paralysis of the heart, accelerated by acute bronchitis.

His physician, Dr. Carr Beard; his solicitor, Mr. Bartley, and his adopted daughter whom Mr. Bartley married only three days ago, were by his bedside when life became extinct.

The great author suffered more than usual yesterday and feemed to feel that the end was rapidly approaching.

Wilkie Collins was stricken with paralysis on Sunday, the 30th of June, while chatting with some friends, at his mansion in Gloucester place, North of Hyde Park.

He was never married. Some years ago he adopted the lady who married Solicitor Bartley the other day, and she will inherit the greater part of his immense fortune.

A COLD DAY FOR THE CRESCENTS.

The Acme's Lose Gately, and Gately Loses the Game.

Sixteen base hits off of Gately, with a triple and four doubles tell the reason of the Crescents fourth defeat of the season. Saturday was a cold day for Plainfield in the field and the grand stand, and the joints of Patrick's arm were numb while he wore a fropped smile.

The Acmes proved themselves the finest team that ever trod the Plainfield diamond. But one little error marred the perfect game, they put up in the field, and they batted Gately when and where they pleased.

Had it not been for the good support of the Crescents, the score might have been twenty to two. Eleven flies—of which McLaughlin and McMurray captured seven—were good for as many more runs had not the Crescents, in spite of the gale that blew across the field, judged them just right. Bowes also played a great game. Not an Acme reached second except on a hit.

The visitors were first at the bat. Kenneth reached first on a hit, but was thrown out at second by Bowes. Hatfield flew out to McMurray, and Lever followed with a two bagger. He came home with an earned run on Heiser's single while the latter reached second on McLaughlin's error in fielding the ball. Heiser was subsequently thrown out trying to reach home, but Cadmus decided him safe although Heiser saw he was out and made no pretense of touching the plate. Bowes protested, and Gately sulked—and the latter then hit Wade, gave W. Paasch his base on balls, and Moran brought everybody home on a three bagger. The inning, which was played throughout in a cold driving rain storm, closed with five runs for the Acmes instead of one.

The Crescents' first resulted in two runs. Lee went out, from Heiser to W. Paasch. McMurray got his first on balls and reached third on a passed ball, but was caught off the bag by a quick throw of Hatfield's. Hammill was hit by the ball. Bowes got his first and second on an error by Heiser, and both came home on Gately's hit. Herniff flew out to Heiser, and the Crescents' run getting closed for the day.

Thereafter, until the seventh inning, no one scored. Then the Acmes added three to their total by singles of Hatfield and Heiser, an error of Randolph's and W. Paasch's two bagger. In the eight, singles by A. Paasch and Lever, and a double by Hatfield, gave the visitors two more runs. The score was:

An Interesting Lady Lecturer

Notices of Mrs. Osborn's free lecture on "Missionary work in foreign fields," were read from the pulpits of many of the churches yesterday and it is expected that she will draw a large audience at Vincent chapel to-morrow afternoon. It is very seldom that one can have the opportunity of listening to this lady, and all who can, both ladies and gentlemen, should attend, as her discourse will be very instructive and interesting.

—An adjourned meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club, will be held at Force's Hotel, Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

A PASTOR'S WELCOME.

During the Rev. Mr. Schenck's Absence, His People Were Working to Make His Home Coming Joyful.

Trinity Reformed church, yesterday, was full of appropriate and auspicious welcome for its beloved pastor who had just returned in safety from an European tour. The floral display about the pulpit and platform was most beautiful to behold. A large white banner occupied a prominent position in front of the reading desk, and on it in red immortelles were these two texts: Heb., X, 23, last clause; Gen., XXVIII, 15.

All this was arranged by Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, Mrs. Wm. L. VanDeventer and other members of the Ladies' Church Work Society, who deserve much credit for their taste and indefatigable labors. Before the opening of the usual services, Organist A. L. Titsworth played soft and low, "Home, Sweet Home." It sent a thrill of sympathetic feeling through the hearts of people and pastor, and many an eye was wet with tears.

It was all so thorough a surprise to the Rev. Mr. Schenck, and affected him so, that he could hardly speak a word. Neither he nor Mrs. Schenck knew of what had been done in their absence, until they arrived at the church yesterday morning. They asked what it all meant. One answer—and the truest and best one—was, "Love!"

The exterior of the church has been repainted, and the interior entirely renovated. New carpets have been laid in the centre aisle and front. Handsome plush curtains hang from the choir rail. The pastor's study has been papered, painted and newly furnished throughout by the Ladies' Christian Work Society, presenting a most attractive appearance.

A new entrance to the lecture room has been built from the inside of the Church. It is an improvement that has always been needed, and will be greatly appreciated by the Sunday school and prayer meeting goers.

At the opening of yesterday's services, Mr. Schenck said it was impossible under the circumstances for him to keep silent about what he had seen and felt that morning. "Pleasant surprises are always enjoyable," he continued, "but sometimes overwhelming, and it is impossible, my dear people, to tell you how much I appreciate all you have done. I cannot fittingly express my thanks.

"God is indeed faithful to his promises. A kind Providence has been following me all my journey and absence from you, my prayers have my answered, and everything has been working together for good. For your kind welcome to me and mine, I sincerely thank you."

The pastor then introduced the Rev. J. P. Searles, of Somerville, who preached an able sermon, taking his text from Matt., VIII., 2-3. There was a large attendance. Another special feature of the occasion was the vocal music by a quartette composed of Miss V. Bonnie Dale, soprano; Mrs. Elias Bird, contralto; Mr. D. J. Randall, tenor, and Mr. Robert Gorton, basso. In the morning the quartette sang Berg's "Jubilate Deo," and Miss Dale rendered "The Nativity" by Holden. Her solo in the evening was Collinet's "Send Out Thy Light," and the quartette sang Danks' "Gloria in Excelsis."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Kate Conant, of Evona, has given up her home there and gone to Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson and daughter, of Perth Amboy, were in town yesterday, visiting friends on West Third street.

Mr. John H. Cuthbert arrived in this city at 12:30 today, and is stopping at the home of his mother on West Seventh street.

A young partridge sought shelter the other day from the unexpected approach of Winter, in Mr. Halsey Compton's barn, and was captured.

Judge Irwin Schultz and wife, left for home this morning. They have been guests of the Rev. T. Logan Murphy. Judge Schultz is a judge of Warren county, this State.

Mr. J. Ran Duun, of West Fourth street, left today for Clover Hill, Hunterdon county. His many friends wish him a safe return and renewed health.

At the State Fair, Mrs. L. Mellick of this city, was awarded a first premium for a water color, and Mr. E. B. Titsworth's Standard washer received honorable mention.

Lawyer William Archibald Coddington, who recently returned from a fight in Massachusetts for the "Montague heirs," leaves for Pennsylvania and other airs, today.

Mrs. Edward Skinner of Denver, Col., who has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Westphal, returned home on Saturday accompanied by her niece, Miss Lucy Westphal.

The Rev. J. P. Searles, who occupied the pulpit of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday, was the guest, during his stay, of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Reed, of the Borough. Mr. Searle and Mr. Reed were college mates.

A large attendance was present in Reform Hall, yesterday afternoon, at the four o'clock meeting. There was spirited testimony under the direction of Mr. George Fountain, and good music under the leadership of Mr. J. D. Moon.

Mrs. W. L. Patton and family, returned Saturday from a trip to Nova Scotia, and are intensely rejoiced to be ashore again. They passed through three tornadoes on the ocean passage to Boston, and had just got their trunks off when they learned that the steamer was afire.

STILL UNDECIDED.

The Contest for the Local Championship in Doubles, Postponed by Darkness.

The tennis tournament for the Plainfield championship in gentlemen's doubles, postponed until Saturday last as exclusively announced in THE PRESS, was then played on the Central avenue grounds of the Plainfield Club and resulted in a most interesting series of games so closely contested that darkness left the tournament still undecided.

The first round was won by S. Mc Cutchen and J. Van Deventer, against Wm. Murray and W. R. Richards: 6-4 and 6-2. Wadsworth and Wotherspoon won against Walter Murray and H. W. Beebe: 6-2 and 6-1.

C. L. Goodrich and L. Goodrich, won against H. West and R. A. Beebe: 5-6, 6-2, 6-3. These were the most exciting sets of the tournament. Messrs West and Beebe played a remarkably plucky game against their older opponents—making some almost impossible returns. Especially praiseworthy was the play of Beebe who was the youngest competitor in the tournament but who played like a veteran. He was enthusiastically applauded.

While the above sets were going on, Augustus Wadsworth and David Wotherspoon won against McCutchen and Van Deventer: 5-6, 6-5, 6-2. In the final match between Wadsworth and Wotherspoon, against the Goodrich Bros., the former won the first set, 6-5, and were 2-0 on the second set when play was stopped on account of the darkness.

PUTTING THE SCREWS ON.

Unwilling Witnesses in the Liquor Cases, Punished.

The city is having trouble in compelling the attendance of the witnesses subpoenaed for the prosecution of parties arrested for selling liquor without a license. But Chief Carey and the Court proposes to put the screws on them if they do not attend when the case is set down.

This morning, when the Sullivan case came up again, the witnesses that had been picked out by the city were again absent. As soon as the case was adjourned, however, they appeared with all sorts of excuses for being late. But it did not work.

Richard O'Neil, one of the unwilling witnesses, was fined $20 for contempt of Court. Wm. Ross, another of the same kind, was put under $200 bonds and may eventually be taken to the county jail for the same offense.

Chief Carey says, if they think they can form a combination against him, he'll soon show them how mistaken they are. He does not propose that anyone shall make a fool of him.

AN ABLE ADDRESS.

Mr. S. A. Haines Talks to a Reform Hall Audience.

There was a goodly audience in Reform Hall last evening. Vice President Harper and Mr. Vanderbeek with a full choir, were at their posts of duty. Mr. Samuel A. Haines, of Netherwood, conducted the devotional services, and afterwards delivered one of the most able and interesting addresses ever listened to.

To appreciate Mr. Haines as a speaker one must hear him, as no report can do justice to his eloquent and well chosen words. His subject last evening was, as publicly announced—"Three views of Home," the history of each home referred to being founded on facts, and all depicting the awful results of moderate drinking, ending in drunkenness, and the consequent wreck of home happiness, manly dignity and worldly prosperity.

Mr. Haines further portrayed the great and good effects conferred upon individuals and families through taking and keeping the pledge of total abstinence from liquor of every kind. His appeal on behalf of the pledge was very earnest and touching. The highly interesting meeting closed with the doxology.

To Astonish the Natives.

There is a possibility as mentioned before in THE PRESS, that some of the members of Troop A., N. G. S. N. Y.,—formerly the "First Dragoons," of New York city—will go into camp for a few days early in October, near the Park avenue residence of Mr. John I. Holly, who is a Corporal of the Troop.

Other members of this swell cavalry organization of the great metropolis, are Mr. Percy C. Ohl, of this city, and Messrs Oliver Bridgman, George Ryer, the Messrs Eckert and others of The Netherwood's Summer guests. The Troop may be given a ball at the Hotel if they come, and will possibly attend church in a body besides astonishing the natives with a dress parade through the city's streets.

Y. P. S. C. E. State Convention.

The State Convention of the New Jersey Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, to be held at the Tabernacle in Jersey City, Oct. 23, will undoubtedly be the largest, and most earnest gathering of young Christians ever held in New Jersey. The Hudson County Local Union Executive Committee is making the necessary arrangements, and every possible comfort will be provided for the visiting delegations. The services of the leading Christian Endeavor speakers will be secured.

—Shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association meet in Cutter's Hall, this evening, at 7:30 o'clock, for the payment of monthly dues, etc.

A NOVEL AND ATTRACTIVE FEATURE.

Captain King's Work of Fiction Illustrated by Life Photographs.

Captain King's new story, which will appear in the October issue of the Cosmopolitan, will contain some features that have never before been presented in periodical literature. When it became necessary to look up the subjects of illustrations for Captain King's story, the suggestion was made to have them taken from life. Some of the officers at West Point took kindly to the idea, and, with the assistance of some of the most charming young ladies then visiting at the Summer hotels in the vicinity, tableaux were formed, and photographs taken, to meet the requirements of the text. These were reproduced by photogravure so as to have the illustrations as near to life as it is possible to present in a work of fiction. These photogravures are supplemented by the work of Harry Beard, who, as Captain of cavalry, participated in numerous charges during the rebellion, and, also, by Arthur Jule Goodman, whose recent work in the Cosmopolitan has met with such favor.

FOR THE COLORED CHAMPIONSHIP.

Thursday's Game Against the Washington "Giants."

The "Stars" of Plainfield will play the "Giants" of Washington, on the LaGrande avenue grounds, Thursday afternoon at 3.30, for the colored championship of the State. A great game is promised. Admission will be 15 cents, with no extra charge for the grand stand.

The two nines will be composed as follows:

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Bound Brook vs. Centennials of Evona.

On Saturday last the representatives of the latter Club, accompanied by a number of the members and friends, journeyed to Bound Brook to meet the former in a game of gentlemen's doubles. A very pleasant contest resulted in an easy victory for the 89's. The score was:

FIRST SET.

Centennials......6 Bound Brook......2

SECOND SET.

Centennials......6 Bound Brook......3

The Bound Brook Club was represented by Messrs Newhouse and Barstow, and the Centennials in the persons of Messrs Greensmith and Moreton.

A Great Actor.

At Music Hall, to-morrow evening, the public are to be given a veritable treat. The Pittsburg Leader of the 3d instant said:

"Frederick Warde, at the Grand Opera House pleased last night his audience better than any star has done in this city in a long time. His play, 'The Mountebank,' gives Mr. Warde ample chance to display his abilities. His acting in the scenes where feelings of husband and the father are wrought to their utmost tension was worthy of any man who ever appeared upon the stage. The depth of pathos, the extremity of grief, the smothering agony that seems, rather than is uttered, at times, made a picture that brought tears to eyes unused to weep, and proved the actor not only an artist but a genius. His sudden change from suffering to assume lightness of bearing and of heart was a masterpiece of acting and over all he gracefully threw an unrent vail of classic beauty."

Death of the Director of New Jersey's Weather Service.

Dr. George H. Cook, the New Jersey State Geologist and Vice President of Rutgers College, died in New Brunswick yesterday afternoon of heart failure. He was well until Saturday noon. In 1842 he was made Senior Professor of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy. Afterward he became Professor of Chemistry and Natural Philosophy in Rutgers.

The topographical maps of the State were published under his supervision. The last of the series was recently issued and Dr. Cook was at the time of death engaged on his final report. He was the organizer of the State Board of Agriculture. In 1886 he became the Chief Director of the New Jersey State Weather Service. He was a member of the State Board of Health. He was 72 years old. He leaves a widow, one son, and one daughter.

—You do not have to go to the Lee boys old residence to see two bridges in one place. We have them now on Somerset street.

—Messrs Woolston & Buckle deserve much credit for the work they have done on Trinity Reformed church, in painting its exterior, etc.

—Young McCann was accused before City Judge Stillman, this morning, of being drunk, and it is said he "chased the old folks out of the house with a club." He had not fifteen dollars so he took 30 days.

—Bids will be received by the committee for the cleaning out and removal of the old bridge on Somerset street and Green Brook at the same time and place of the sale of the new bridge to-morrow afternoon at 2.30.

OUR LIFE SAVERS.

The Story of Their Heroic Work During the Late Storm to Be Told to Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—The most heroic chapter in the history of the Life Saving Service will be the record of the life savers during the recent storm along the Atlantic coast. Brief telegraphic reports are all that have been received here, but from these it can be gathered that hundreds of lives and thousands of dollars worth of property have been saved through the efforts of the various life saving stations.

As soon as telegraphic communication was restored with the stations along the coast Superintendent Kimball requested reports from each. Nothing like the same number of reports within a period covered by a single storm has ever before been accomplished in the history of the Life Saving Service of any country.

Along the coast of Massachusetts 19 vessels in distress were reached by the life-saving crews and either assisted or their crews taken ashore. Thirty-one persons were rescued along that coast.

Along the Rhode Island coast two crews, aggregating 9 men, were rescued.

Seven crews, aggregating 24 persons, were rescued on the coast of New Jersey.

At the Delaware Breakwater 22 vessels in distress were assisted and 164 persons taken ashore.

At Cape Henry 3 stranded vessels were reached and 24 lives rescued.

When the full returns of the work done by the Life Saving Service during the recent storm reaches Superintendent Kimball he intends to compile them and submit them to Congress with the recommendation that these rugged heroes be recognized to the extent of at least giving them adequate pay for their courageous service.

DEATH FROM A MAN'S BITE.

A Brooklyn Painter Dies After Being Bitten in the Thumb in a Street Fight.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23.—Michael Hallers, a painter, aged 28, died at the Brooklyn Homœopathic Hospital last night from the effects of a bite received during a fight with Henry Differman on September 2.

The two men had quarreled over some borrowed money, and, while scuffling, Differman got Hallers' thumb in his mouth and nearly severed it with his teeth.

Hallers paid but little attention to the injury until a few days ago when he went to the hospital for treatment. Blood poisoning had set in, however, and the physicians were unable to save his life. Differman has been arrested.

MONMOUTH'S ANNUAL FAIR.

There Will Be Many Attractions and Fine Exhibits in the Departments.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Sept. 23.—The annual fair of the Monmouth County Agricultural Association opens here Tuesday, and will continue till Friday. Extensive preparations are being made by the directors for an exceptionally fine exhibit in every department. Ten thousand dollars will be awarded in prizes, and very liberal offers are made in all the various classes.

Among the other attractions will be Professor Sam Y. Baldwin, the æronaut and parachute jumper, who will make two ascensions, one on Wednesday, "Governor's Day," and another on a day not yet decided upon.

The field of trotting horses entered for the several racing days is the finest ever assembled in Monmouth county.

A Penitent Priest.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 23.—A letter from Father Butler to Bishop Wigger was read at the masses in St. Mary's Catholic Church yesterday. Father Butler asks that he be permitted to do penance for his "heinous crime." He does not expect to resume his priestly functions, but seeks admittance to some retreat. Father Butler startled the community about four years ago by eloping with Mary Theresa Brady, a communicant of St. Mary's. At the time Father Butler was one of the assistant priests at St. Bridget's Church.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Sealed Proposals

Sealed proposals, accompanied with plans and specifications, will be received by a joint committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the counties of Union and Somerset, at 2:30 P. M., on TUESDAY, SEPT. 24, 1889, at Force's Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., for one leaning-end low truss iron bridge over Green Brook on Somerset street, Plainfield; said bridge to be forty-five (45) feet between abutments at right angles, and thirty-two (32) feet clear roadway, and two sidewalks of eight (8) feet each, the whole width of the street being fifty (50) feet. The angle of said bridge is 15 degs 53 from a right angle.

The structure to sustain 100 lbs. per superficial foot on total area, beside weight of bridge, with a factor of four for safety.

Also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for a girder bridge of the same strength and dimensions.

Plans and specifications for the said girder bridge may be seen and examined at the office of F. A. Dunham, C. E., No. 7 Park avenue. Contractors will bid for either brick or iron arches between girders.

The Committee will choose which of above bridges they will accept on the day of letting.

At the same time and place, proposals will be received by said Committee for the masonry for said bridge. Specification and plan for the same may be seen and examined at aforesaid Engineer's office.

The Committee reserve the right to reject any or all proposals for either of the above.

THE GIANTS GAINING

They Commence the Week With a Good Lead.

BOSTON EIGHT POINTS BEHIND.

The Struggle for the Championship Continues Close and Exciting.

New Yorks in Indianapolis To-Day and the Bostons in Chicago—Anson's Team Working for Third Place—Brooklyn Sure of the Pennant—Result of the Association Games Played Yesterday—Standing of the Clubs this Afternoon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—On the League diamond the struggle for supremacy continues to be close, fierce and exciting. The New Yorks and Bostons are fighting for the championship like tigers for their young. This battle will lose no interest until the last man has retired. and the curtain has been drawn down on the closing scenes of one of the greatest struggles in the history of the game. Once or twice since the League was formed in 1876 have supporters of baseball watched the leaders approach the home stretch with equal interest, but never have two clubs fought continually throughout the campaign as have the champions and the Bostonians, aspirants for the proud title. Several times have the Giants been so near their rivals that one game meant a set back, but the men of the Hub proved equal to the occasion, and by careful, steady work pulled away from the present victors. Two or three times the strain proved too much for the Boston boys, and they fell back to second place, only to give their nerves an opportunity to relax for a more important and determined attack on their opponents from Gotham. They deserve great praise for the grit displayed. If they do not carry off the victor's emblem it will certainly be consolation to the players and people of Beanville to know that the team fought a good fight and died game.

The New Yorks play during the week at Indianapolis and Chicago. Boston, on the other hand, plays in the Windy City first and then in the Hoosier capital. The week will therefore be an exceedingly hard one. Neither of the leaders has the slightest advantage over the other. The New Yorks have, however, made the best showing against these two Western rivals. Pittsburg and Cleveland, too, will be important factors in the coming series. They are playing good ball and may change the state of affairs within the next fortnight. Chicago is still confident of third place. Harry Wright's team does not seem to dispute Anson's claim to it very forcibly. The Phillies show the loss of Irwin very much, Siddon Farrar being a poor captain in comparison to the present Washington manager. Irwin was released by the Phillies because of personal feelings. He would have brought the club up to a much better standing. His ability in this respect has been demonstrated in the handling of the Washingtons. He has made an entirely different club of it.

At present the Eastern clubs show a better record than their Western rivals in winning 145 and losing 106 of the games played between the teams of the respective sections. New York made the best record for the East with forty-five victories and twenty defeats, and Cleveland upheld the honors of the West with thirty-one victories and as many defeats.

Bad Charge Against the Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—After yesterday's game at Gloucester, Manager Barnie, of the Baltimores, accused the Athletic officials of passing people through a side gate, receiving their money and making no return for it. The Athletic people admit that $9 was received in that way, but deny that they had any intention to defraud.

CHEAP LABOR.

Buffalo Workingmen Trying to Stop Canadian Laborers from Crossing the Border.

BUFFALO, Sept. 23.—At a meeting of the local assembly of the Central Labor Union, the question of prohibiting Canadian labor in this city came up and was discussed at some length.

It was claimed that every morning a large number of Canadians came over to this city to work. They worked for from 50 to 75 cents a day less than the American laborer and also worked an hour longer each day. The names of some sixteen or eighteen Canadians, who came across the ferry every day had been furnished the United States District Attorney by the Committee, but nothing had been done in the matter. The Canadians continued to come over here to work, and were, by their competition, causing great injury to the laboring men of the city.

The sentiment of the meeting was practically unanimous, and a motion to appoint a committee to secure advice in regard to the alien laborers was carried with a rush.

FLED FROM AN ASYLUM.

Two Women Escape from an Insane Institution by Using a Comb.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Two inmates of the Northern Ohio Insane Asylum eluded the vigilance of their attendants last evening and escaped from the institution.

Both are from Warren, O., one being the young wife of Probate Judge Gilbert, and the other Mrs. Miksel, the wife of a prominent business man. They are friends and escaped together.

Mrs. Gilbert is a very attractive woman and highly educated. Escape from the building was made by means of a key made of a comb. It is thought the women are in Canada.

Nature's Gas Product Short.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 23.—As a result of the shortage in natural gas the South Side gas suffered considerably, and hundreds of mill men have lost their wages for the past two days. A queer feature is that the men on "day turn" go to work at 7 in the evening and work until 4 in the morning instead of going on at 4 a. m. and working until 1 or 2 in the afternoon. It appears that the shortage in nature's product is greater in the morning than in the afternoon. Down the Ohio Valley the shortage has become so great that a dozen or more glass works, potteries, etc., have gone back to the use of coal.

To Guide the Miners.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 23.—The Miners' Convention elected officers as follows: Master Workman, John B. Roe, Pennsylvania; Worthy Foreman, F. M. Beatty, Ohio; Secretary and Treasurer, Robert Watchorn, Ohio; Auditor, John Nugent, Ohio. Members of the National Executive Board: John B. Roe, Pittsburg; Robert Watchorn, Ohio; Robert Fenn, Topeka, Kansas; Thomas McQuade, Brazil, Ind.; James Keegan, Connellsville, Pa.; William B. Wilson, Bloomsburg, Pa., and M. C. Webb, Louisville, Ky. The following delegates were chosen to the Atlanta Convention: Messrs. Roe, Watchorn, Kern, McQuade, Costello, Wilson and Beatty.

Death From Nose Bleed.

ESCANABA, Mich., Sept. 23.—Dolph Gabourey, for many years a locomotive engineer on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, was sparring in sport with a friend last night. The friend received a blow on the nose, which caused that organ to bleed excessively. A doctor was sent for and ordered the man to lie on his back. The blood flowed back into his throat, causing strangulation. Gabourey and the doctor have been held under $3,000 bonds each to answer to the charge of manslaughter.

Germans Don't Like Prohibition.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 23.—Tired of prohibition, a colony of Germans of Shelby county, Iowa, and another of Linn county sent Emil Fulohe, of Westphalia, Kansas, to Texas to purchase land for them. As the result he has bought 2,200 acres of land eight miles northwest of Gainesville, Texas, paying $220,000 cash. This winter 150 German families will settle on the land.

Worcester's Baseball President Dead.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 23.—Edward P. Goulding, president of the Worcester baseball club is dead in Providence, aged 45. He was at the head of the firm of Goulding & Murphy, money brokers, and leaves a large property. He was a Grand Army man, having served through the war in an Illinois regiment. His death was sudden and unexpected.

Bicycle Riders Have Rights.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—The Indiana Supreme Court has decided that bicycle riders cannot be made liable for damages resulting from horses becoming frightened at their wheels if such runaways occur while the bicyclists are riding upon the highway and are doing nothing which shows a lack of regard for the rights of others.

The U. S. Glass Co. Makes Big Purchases.

STREATOR, Ill., Sept. 23.—The purchase of all the window glass factories of Illinois has been consummated by the United States Glass Co., of New York. This purchase includes the Rock Island Glass Company's works, the Ottawa Company's works and the plant of the Streator Glass Company.

An Old Connecticut Man Dead.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 23.—Bartlett Bent is dead, aged 60 years. He was postmaster from 1869 to 1886, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee in 1869 and 1871 and twice delegate at large to the Republican National Convention.

Murdered by an Italian.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 23.—James S. G. McCloud, a barber, was murdered early yesterday morning on River street, this city, by an Italian named Angelo Barbaro. McCloud was 23 years of age and lived at 37 Milk street.

Starter and Judge Elected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—At a meeting of the National Jockey Club it was decided to select C. D. McCoy as starter for the approaching fall meeting and Joseph J. Burke as presiding judge.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Wilkie Collins has had a serious relapse of his bronchial trouble. It is not likely that he will recover.

LOVE'S TRIUMPH.

Being a New Ending to a Summer Flirtation.

He met her at the mountains,
A maiden young and fair,
And, forming her acquaintance,
He flirted with her there.

They roamed the hills together,
They wandered through the vale
And there to her he whispered
Love's sweet and tender tale.

The maiden did not chide him,
She did not say him nay,
But said she'd give an answer
To him some future day.

He met her in the city,
This maiden young and fair;
Did she receive his greeting
With cold and haughty stare?

Did she attempt to pass him,
His outstretched hand ignore,
And say, I do not think, sir,
We ever met before?

Oh, no, she smiled upon him,
Her hand she let him press,
Responded to his greeting
With words of friendliness.

The maiden knew he loved her,
And love the youth did she;
The sales-girl and the barber
Will shortly wedded be.

IN DEATH'S PRESENCE

Sensations of a Man Who Knows His Fate Is Sealed.

A Government Scout Describes His Feelings While Being Used for a Target by a Guerrilla and While Waiting to Be Hanged.

In the summer of 1864, when the rebel guerrilla Joe Shelby and his band were the terror of Southern Missouri, I was captured by a detachment of them while acting as regimental mail carrier. At a lonely spot on the highway, between the Union videttes and the camp, three men suddenly sprang out of the woods at me. The hour was four o'clock in the afternoon, and as I was within the Union lines I was unsuspicious of danger. Just a minute before the men betrayed themselves a rabbit had crossed the highway ahead of me, and I had drawn my revolver, hoping for a shot. I therefore had it in my hand when the trio made the rush. One sprang for my horse's head and the other two closed in broadside. I fired and killed the first man dead in his tracks. As I wheeled to fire on my right my horse made a spring and my bullet struck the man in the left shoulder. Before I could make another move the third man pulled me from my horse. We were only half a mile from the Union camp, and they did not do any shooting for fear of creating an alarm. As I was pulled to the ground the man struck me on the head with the butt of a revolver, and for the next five minutes I was unconscious. When I came to I had been dragged off the road into the bushes, as had the dead body of the guerrilla, and my horse was standing near by. The one whom I had wounded had his knife in his hand and wanted to finish me, but the other protested and held him off. I was finally ordered to mount, my feet made fast under the saddle, and after going through the woods about thirty rods we came to the spot where the guerrillas had left their horses. They mounted, struck into a bridle path, and after going about three miles we came upon the guerrilla camp. There were from eighty-five to a hundred men, and things looked as if they had been there several days. They were a tough-looking lot of men, dressed in all sorts of clothes and armed with all sorts of weapons, and I gave up all hope as soon as I set eyes on them. The rebel guerrillas of Virginia occasionally spared a prisoner, but the Western guerrillas had no pity.

As soon as it was known that I had killed one man and wounded another they were for killing me at once. A dozen ways of doing it were suggested, but it was now growing dark, there was a large mail to be opened and read, and "Cap'n Bill" ordered that I should be tied to a tree and guarded through the night, and added that my case would be disposed of before they moved in the morning. I was lashed to a tree in a sitting position, a guard took a seat on a stump near by, and thus began the night. The guerrillas cooked and ate supper, but refused me both food and drink. When I protested at this treatment the guard was ordered to blow my head off if I didn't shut up.

The man sentenced to be hanged doubtless hopes for a reprieve until the noose is placed over his neck. While I was satisfied that my hours were numbered, I had nothing to hope for. It was an extra mail I was riding with, and my failure to appear would not be noticed. The reports of my revolver could not have been heard by any of my friends, nor was the presence of the guerrillas, so far as I knew, even suspected. I turned the matter over and over in my mind, and I could not satisfy myself that I had one chance in a hundred. How would they kill me? I had seen a dozen victims of guerrilla vengeance, and they had either been knifed or the muzzle of a revolver held close to the ear to deaden the report. In either case the suffering was of brief duration. After I had figured it out that I was to die I felt relieved. Indeed, there was a feeling of elation about it. I was young and robust and life was sweet, but I did not cling to it as you might expect. The thought of begging them to spare me never occurred. Could I have got loose and armed myself I should have fought the whole crowd instead of running away.

Soon after midnight I fell asleep, and that with considerable noise going on around me. It was daylight when I awoke, and the men were turning out. They cooked and ate breakfast, offering me no part, and I knew that every minute brought me nearer death. I was not nervous, but I was curious to know what method they might adopt. After breakfast had been disposed of the men gathered about me, and "Cap'n Bill" said to the man whom I had wounded in the shoulder:

"He's your meat, in course, but the boys want to see some fun out of it. You kin crack at him off hand."

The man had his left arm in a sling. He drew a heavy revolver and walked off a distance of fifteen paces, and then turned and leveled on me. I shut my eyes and counted. I had got to "seven" when the report came. The bullet hit the tree, six inches above my head, and to the right, and there was a general laugh. He raised his arm again, and this time I had counted only "six" when the report came. He made a line shot, but was seven or eight inches too high. The pain of his wound had unnerved him. The men laughed and jeered, but he shut his teeth hard, raised his arm slowly, and now I felt that all was over. I felt the wind of his bullet and then heard the report. The ball passed my right ear by no more than half an inch.

"That's bully!" shouted half a dozen men in chorus. "One more shot and you'll hit the bull's-eye!"

He was just lifting his arm when a musket cracked, followed by a volley, and half a dozen men fell dead around me. No resistance was made by the guerrillas, and out of the band not over fifteen escaped. My capture had been witnessed by two of our men who had been out foraging, and the guerrilla camp had been located soon after daylight. About three hundred of our infantry were quietly brought up through the woods, and when in position opened fire, and it was just in time to save me. When our troops poured into camp they found about twenty wounded men. It was an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth in the West. When we rode away we left none but dead men, and not one of them got burial.

The reader may urge that one's feelings under the above circumstances would not compare with those of a man awaiting death by hanging. Well, I have also undergone that trial and endured the sensations, and can speak by the card. After the close of the war I went West and was employed as a Government scout, but being wounded by an Indian arrow in the spring of 1867 I got a three months' leave of absence and went down on the Texas coast to recruit. I had been at Indianola about four weeks, boarding at a private house, when I took a small sailboat one day and went off up the inner bay on a fishing trip. At noon I ran into the mouth of a creek, where a cabin was in view, calculating on getting some matches to replace my stock. The cabin was about fifty feet from the water's edge, and after a "hillo!" which was not answered, I landed and walked up to the house. The door stood wide open, and on the floor lay a man, cold and dead, having been shot in the breast. After a moment I entered for a closer investigation, and I felt of the body and found it cold. Death had occurred several hours previously. The cabin was a wretched structure, poorly furnished, and it did not seem as if the motive could have been robbery.

I had returned to the door, intending to hasten to Indianola and give the alarm, when a fishboat, carrying four men, landed in the creek. I ran down and related the news, and all of them returned to the house with me. The men satisfied themselves that the body was cold, but presently drew apart and began to consult together, and after four or five minutes their leader said to me:

"My mates are agreed that this don't look right, stranger."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, thar's bin a murder here."

"So there has, but you don't connect me with it, do you?"

"Well, we found you here alone."

"But I had only just arrived. Suppose I had found you here. That body, as you see, is stone cold, showing that death took place hours ago, while I left town only at seven o'clock this morning. He was dead then or soon after."

They consulted again and then he said:

"You may be all right, but you'll have to prove it. We shall take you to town."

I expressed my willingness to go, and asked them to particularly remember the state of the body, and to examine my revolver and note its condition. I hadn't the least idea that I had got myself into trouble, but I soon discovered to the contrary. I was given in charge of an officer at Indianola, and a party went up to view the body. There had been a murder. Somebody was guilty. I was found there and alone. If I wasn't guilty then I must prove myself innocent. That was the way of the West then. There was but one lawyer in the town and he a poor one, but I secured his services. I was confined in an old building used as a guard house during the war, and, as soon as the party returned and reported that no trace of the murderer could be found, public sentiment was against me. A warrant was issued by the local justice, and next day I was brought up for examination. There wasn't the slightest proof to hold me on, but the squire, who knew nothing whatever of law, and was hardly intelligent in the ordinary sense, ordered me held for further investigation. Small squads of men were sent out to beat up for the murderer, but at noon on the third day all had come in except one, and had met with no success. I sat looking out of a wooden-barred window facing the street, when I saw five or six men stop opposite, and begin to argue and discuss. They were talking when my lawyer entered, and coolly observed:

"Well, they haven't found any body else, and the boys say they are going to hang you!"

"But you know I am innocent."

"Of course I do, but they don't believe it."

"And they will hang an innocent man because they can't find the guilty one!"

"That's about the size of it. I'll go out and have another talk, however. You know we don't go much on either law or gospel around here since the war."

He went out, but presently returned and said:

"The boys is bound to do it, and you had best get ready. They will give you an hour."

I felt it was useless to further argue the matter, and I wrote out a statement and a couple of letters, gave my guard directions about certain matters, and was then as ready as I could be. Was I nervous? Not a bit. While I was certain that I should be hanged, I did not feel like bemoaning my fate. If I had been armed I would have made a fight for revenge, but, as I was defenseless, I simply waited for the crowd to come. I wondered how they would hang me, and when I reflected that they had no gallows and that I should be strangled, I had something like vertigo for a few minutes. It had just passed away when five or six of the crowd came in. I was led out, conducted about a quarter of a mile to a tree, and after I had had my arms and legs tied I was lifted to the head of a whisky barrel and the noose of the rope dropped over my head. They were very cool about it, and I heard some of them saying that I evidently meant to die game. When all was ready I was asked if I had any thing to say. I replied that I had, and for about ten minutes I gave it to them the best I knew how, and by no means neglected the justice, who stood close by. I was astonished at my own nerve and coolness. I hadn't quite wound up yet when some one discovered that the last party out was approaching. One of the men was waving a handkerchief, and when I saw it I knew that some discovery had been made.

I stood with the noose about my neck for seven or eight minutes longer, but as soon as the men came up there was a sudden change of base. They had got on the track of the murderer, hunted him for several hours, and had finally shot him down and had his body in the boat. I was, of course, released, and every one sought to apologize for his actions, and it was only when the whole affair was over that I shivered at my near approach to death.—N. Y. Sun.

Champion Banana Eater.

Bangor, Me., boasts of the champion banana eater. The other night he ate twenty-six before supper, and then he ate his supper. But hold on! he was not done then. Very soon afterwards he was in one of the stores and started to bring the number of bananas up to fifty on a wager. He ate twelve more and then gave it up, fearing, he said, that it might make him sick if he ate too many of them. Such a prudent man will doubtless live to a green old age.

Ran Away With Fakirs.

WILKESBARRE, Sept. 23.—For some time past two fakirs, Peter McCarthy and Owen Roberts, claiming Albany as their home, have been doing the coal regions. They sold cheap jewelry. While in Pittston they stopped at the Eagle Hotel. There they became acquainted with a pretty waiter girl named Mamie Davis. The drummers showered their cheap jewelry on the girl and got into her good graces. She consented to run away with them. The police are now on their track.

To Present the Behring Sea Matter.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 23.—Lord Stanley, the Governor-General, is expected to arrive here on October 31, and in the meantime great preparations are being made to give him a fitting reception. The Behring Sea troubles will be laid before him by the Sealers' Association.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Michael McCarthy, a Sing Sing convict, was found dead in his cell yesterday.

John L. Sullivan, Patsey Farrell and Ike Wier arrived in New York last night.

The Grand Jury at Albany, N. Y., failed to bring in any indictment on the ceiling conspiracy matter.

Theodore E. Hancock has been nominated for District Attorney at Syracuse, N. Y., by the Republicans of Onondaga County.

The famous Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston will make its annual excursion to Albany, N. Y., Oct. 7 and 8, as the guests of the Burgess Corps.

Rev. Dr. Prall, assistant rector of St. Paul's Church, Albany, has accepted the call to the rectorship of the Church of the Holy Communion, at South Orange, N. J.

Barney Short, aged 50, a shoemaker who lived a hermit's life on an island in Little River, Mass., was horribly mangled and instantly killed by the Portland train, Saturday.

Weather Indications.

TAKING THE CENSUS

The Collection of Statistics Already Commenced.

EIGHTEEN CHIEFS IN CHARGE.

The Preliminary Work Finished and the Organization Completed.

Special Agents to Secure the Statistics of Manufactures for the Past Ten Years—The Enumeration of the People Does Not Begin Until Next June—The Work Far in Advance of the Last Decennial Census.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The work of the Census Bureau is now about organized. Although the actual enumeration of the people does not begin until next June, yet that has become the smallest part of the work performed at the decennial census of the United States.

The statistics of manufactures, commerce, etc., covering a period of ten years, requires the labor of a large number of special agents and an organization of the work that must be complete and exact in order to produce the best results.

In order that the system of carrying on the business of the office may be as perfect as possible, Superintendent Porter has apportioned the entire work among eighteen chiefs of as many divisions and their subordinates. The organization of the office is far in advance of what it was on the 24th of September ten years ago.

As is well known it is Mr. Porter's purpose to complete the work of the census as soon as possible after the actual enumeration of the population has been completed. He has for this reason finished the preliminary work, completed the organization of the office and is now prepared for the collection and compilation of statistics. In fact the collection of statistics has already been begun.

NEW BASEBALL SCHEME.

Formation of a Co-operative Association by the Brotherhood.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The scheme of the Brotherhood's baseball league is at last known. The new organization is to be known as the United Business Association. It is to be made up of eight clubs, as follows: Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Cleveland, Buffalo, and Chicago. Of these two are new clubs, and not in the present National League. They are Brooklyn and Buffalo. The present Indianapolis team is to be dropped bodily into Brooklyn, where Association ball and Sunday games are said to be unpopular. The present Washington team is to be transferred to Buffalo and strengthened by the addition of Rowe, White, and Meyers, late of Indianapolis.

In each city local capitalists are to operate teams formed and placed there by the Brotherhood, giving a bond of $25,000 for the performance of their part of the work. Albert L. Johnson is the Cleveland capitalist, and his active participation in the deal as a missionary caused him to be mistaken for its national head. It has no national head at this time outside of the officers of the Brotherhood. The Association's officials are to be elected this fall.

The players are guaranteed their salaries at the 1889 rate for 1890, and a share of the profits. All expenses and receipts are to be pooled for the general benefit, and gate receipts divided equally between the clubs. The first $10,000 profit is to go into prizes to be distributed among the clubs as playing prizes, $5,000 to first, $2,500 to second, $1,500 to third, and $1,000 to forth. Of the first $80,000 after this, $10,000 goes to the capitalists, $10,000 to those of each club. The next $80,000 goes to the players, and all other profits are pooled half and half. Each player shares equally with the others.

Each club is to be governed by a board made up of eight men—four capitalists and four players—and the main body by a senate of sixteen, each club having two representatives, one a player and the other a capitalist.

PENSION FRAUD.

A Prominent Attorney Arrested for Impersonating a Dead Man.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 24.—A sensation was caused here last night by the arrest of George S. Swanton, a leading and well-known attorney.

The arrest was made at the instance of United States Detective F. H. Pipes, of Washington, who charges Swanton with fraudulently collecting pension money by impersonating a dead man.

It appears Swanton secured a pension of $90 per quarter for Henry Pope in December, 1886. One year later Pope died. Swanton continued to get his mail at a country postoffice and by forging the names of witnesses and Pope's, and as notary acknowledging the same, continued to draw the money for one year after Pope's death.

The Pension Department learned of the transaction through a once friend of Swanton's who swore vengeance for a certain legal transaction, and an officer was sent here with the above result. Swanton was taken to Cleveland.

Racing by Electric Light.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The second week of the Inter-State Fair opened with delightful weather, and at least 15,000 people attended to-day. Last night there was a race by electric light between horses of local note.

Work of the Cigarmakers' Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—To-day's session of the Cigarmakers' Convention was taken up in debating proposed changes to the constitution. A proposition to hold night sessions was voted down.

BOOK PUBLISHERS FAIL.

The Well-Known House of Belford, Clarke & Company Make an Assignment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The mammoth publishing house of Belford, Clarke & Co., which has a large establishment here and branches in New York and San Francisco, has failed.

The assets are estimated at between $200,000 and $300,000, and the liabilities at least $400,000. The heaviest creditors are in New York and San Francisco.

A receiver has been appointed who will continue to publish "Belford's Monthly," a magazine which the firm has been publishing for some time.

The Sheriff in Charge in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The sheriff yesterday took possession of Belford, Clarke & Co.'s place of business in this city, on an attachment for $25,000, obtained by G. F. Shepard as assignee of the claim of the First National Bank of Chicago. The Brooklyn branch was also seized.

"Bradstreet's" says that the business was started in 1879. The house had trouble in 1880 and 1881, but came out all right both times, and was extending its business largely until a fire in 1886 somewhat crippled it, and it has since been reducing its expenses. It did business largely on borrowed capital.

NEWS FROM DEER PARK.

Mr. Campbell, of Kansas, Under Consideration for Pension Commissioner.

DEER PARK, Md., Sept. 24.—It is rumored that President Harrison is considering Mr. A. B. Campbell, of Kansas, for Pension Commissioner. Private Secretary Halford said to-day that the appointment might hang over until the President went back to the Capitol.

Gen. Nathan S. Goff was expected to accompany the President's party on the West Virginia trip to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee and children left last night for Indianapolis.

Wanted on a Serious Charge.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 24.—Officers from Meadville, Pa., are searching for Gus Williams, who formerly resided here, but for two years past has been in the laundry business in Meadville. Williams, who is the head of a family, betrayed Julia Carmon, aged 17 years, and afterward secured the services of a Meadville physician and an abortion was performed, from the effects of which the girl died. Williams left town before the officers arrived.

Sullivan Disappoints an Audience.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A large crowd gathered last night at the Clermont Avenue Rink, where John L. Sullivan was expected to give a sparring exhibition. The doors were not opened, however, as Sullivan did not appear. Charlie Johnston, who had arranged the affair, could not explain Sullivan's absence. There was much disappointment manifested.

Died in Jail.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A young man named Maxwell Straub, of Reading, Pa., who was arrested here on Friday last charged with intoxication, died in jail last evening. Physicians have decided that Straub died from an overdose of a drug of some kind, and it is now believed that the young man was drugged and robbed. The coroner is investigating the case.

New York Republican State Convention.

SARATOGA, Sept. 24.—About 150 delegates to the Republican State Convention, which meets here to-morrow have arrived. Much quiet talk about candidates is heard in the hotels. The name most prominently mentioned for Secretary of State is Charles A. Hauselt of New York city.

Dismasted by a Hurricane.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 24.—The new brigantine Victoria, which sailed from Martinique for Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 30, was dismasted by a hurricane Sept. 3 and has arrived here.

Killed by a Locomotive.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 24.—Miles McDonough was struck by a locomotive and killed at Spottswood yesterday. He leaves a widow and two children.

Died in Her Agony.

CANTON, O., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Fred. Wilcox, aged 22 years, died alone yesterday in her home while in the agony of childbirth, her husband being absent at work.

An Old Newspaper Man Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 24.—William Graff, probably the oldest newspaper man in this city, died at his home here last night, aged 77 years.

SUNSET COX'S WILL.

A Short Document and His Wife Made His Sole Legatee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The late Congressman Samuel S. Cox's will has been filed for probate in the office of the Surrogate. It covers a sheet and a half of foolscap and is written in the statesman's hand. In it he says:

"All my estate, real and personal, of which I may die the owner, I give, devise and bequeath unto my beloved wife, Julia Ann Cox; and I appoint her sole executor of this my will, with full powers to sell and convey any or all of the estate hereby given to her and to compromise or settle all claims against or in favor of my estate; and I direct that no bond, inventory, appraisement or account be required of her."

Overpowered and Robbed.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 24.—A well-dressed man knocked at Michael B. Tracey's house last night and asked if the man of the house was at home. Receiving a negative answer he overpowered Mrs. Tracey and tied her to a bedpost. He then ransacked the house, securing $45, and escaped. A large reward is offered for his capture.

BOTH WIN A GAME

Still Eight Points Between the Leaders in the League Race.

IT LOOKS WELL FOR THE GIANTS.

The Boston Team Playing Great Ball and May Surprise Their Opponents.

Philadelphia Gives Cleveland a Whitewash and Pittsburg Takes a Game from the Senators—Columbus Wins a Hard-Fought Game from the Brooklyns—Cincinnati an Easy Victim for the Browns—The Brotherhood's New Baseball League.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—The directors of the American Baseball Association decided that the first of the two disputed games between the St. Louis and Brooklyn clubs be given to St. Louis by a score of 4 to 2, and awarded the second game, at which the St. Louis Club failed to appear, to the Brooklyn Club by a score of 9 to 0. The fine of $1,500 against the St. Louis Club for failing to play this game must stand.

The directors also censure the players of both clubs for their conduct in endeavoring to delay the first game, and also recommend the dismissal of Umpire Goldsmith for incompetency.

The report of the directors was ratified by the Association.

Will Hold the League Players.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—John I. Rogers, secretary of the Philadelphia Baseball Club, has sent to the presidents of the League clubs his legal opinion that Section 18 of the contract now in force between League clubs and their players, and which is known as the "Brotherhood Contract," having been formulated and prepared by that body and accepted by the League, expressly secures to each League club the absolute right to its players' services for the season of 1890.

Hon. Roswell P. Flower's Donation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Roswell P. Flower has given $25,000 to the World's Fair Committee. There is still a great deal of discussion as to whether the site shall include any part of Central Park. The Site Committee meets again to-morrow.

THE DAILY PRESS

IS AN EVENING EDITION OF THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONALIST AND IS ISSUED AT No. 3 NORTH AVENUE, EVERY DAY—EXCEPTING SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS—AT FIVE O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON; SENT THROUGH THE POST OFFICE AT $5.00 A YEAR, OR DELIVERED BY CARRIER AT 10 CENTS A WEEK.

IT IS DEVOTED, LOCALLY, TO THE INTERESTS OF THE CITY OF PLAINFIELD, ITS SUBURBS AND ITS NEIGHBORING TOWNS; AND, POLITICALLY, TO THE ADVANCEMENT OF "THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED ON ALL MATTERS OF PUBLIC CONCERN, BUT PUBLISHED ONLY WHEN ACCOMPANIED BY THE NAME OF THE WRITER, IN CONFIDENCE, AS ENDORSING THE TRUTH AND HONEST INTENT OF THE COMMUNICATION.

ADVERTISING RATES MADE KNOWN ON APPLICATION AT THIS OFFICE. NOTES OF CHURCH ENTERTAINMENTS, FAIRS, SOCIABLES; LECTURES, CARDS OF THANKS, LODGE RESOLUTIONS, ETC., INSERTED FREE OR NOT, AS CHARITY OR JUSTICE MAY DEMAND.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Word was received this morning from Bernardsville, that "Laddy," Principal C. E. Boss' valuable and handsome Collie dog, had met with an accident which resulted in his death.

—The State Milk Inspector McGuire and his assistants were around bright and early this morning and caught the milkmen without warning. But they found Plainfield's milk first class.

—Mrs. Genevieve Stebbins Thompson, the most efficient exponent of the Delsarte system, will open her class in Society Gymnastics, on Tuesday, Oct. 15, at three o'clock P. M., in the Seminary, West Seventh street.

—Classes in Mechanical drawing will be organized at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday, Oct. 1. Mr. A. J. Gavett, with competent assistance, will instruct these classes. The membership fee ($2) entitle to this and other privileges of the association.

—Mr. I. W. Numan, the patentee, is at the City Hotel introducing his improved lawn pump and fire extinguisher. The pump is so arranged that windows on the second floor can be washed with perfect ease. Mr. Numan guarantees satisfaction. Territories for sale.

—At the Park Avenue Market, corner of Park avenue and Second street, Manager Jesse Hatfield is always to be found ready and willing to show his stock of fruits, vegetables, prime cuts of meat, etc. Another feature at this market, is the fact that German is spoken by one of the salesmen Geo. Orleman.

—The West Jersey Game Protective Society, held their 17th annual meeting in Camden on Wednesday evening. The report showed that during the year the society have released in the South Jersey counties 1,800 quails, and 76 English hares. The membership at present is 1,130, and they have a balance of $615.82.

—Thursday afternoon's ball game between the colored "Stars" of Plainfield, and the colored "Giants" of Washington, for the colored championship of New Jersey, will be a big treat for all who attend. Admission to the grounds and grand stand will be only 15 cents. Game called at 3:30 on the LaGrande avenue grounds.

—In the window of Mr. Kenney's store at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, are displayed a porcelain placque framed in plush, and a pair of ebony panels, all three ornamented by elegant flower paintings in oil, done by the Sisters of St. Mary's parochial school. These works of art will be sold at the coming fair.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. William Swalm of West Front street, is suffering with a sprained back.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Sr., of Sycamore avenue, Washington Park, are home from the Pocono Mountains.

The Woman's Home-Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church, will hold its first meeting for sewing, Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Newhall, 20 East Seventh street. All the ladies of the congregation are invited.

A rumor in musical circles just now is to the effect that Miss Haines, of Netherwood—whose piano performances THE PRESS has had occasion often to praise so highly—Miss Ada Marsh and Miss May, are arranging a series of parlor musicales to be given during the coming season at private houses in this city. A violin and 'cello to be added will permit the rendition of most pleasing programmes, but ten dollars, the price per ticket, is probably rather more than it will be worth.

A Milk Runaway.

A runaway occured this morning, on Arlington avenue. A milk wagon horse belonging to a man whose name was not ascertained, ran away and dumped the milk cans all over the ground. The man was in a house delivering some milk to his customers when it happened. The horse was caught by some school boys before much damage was done.

A Chautauqua Local Circle Meeting.

An informal meeting of the Chautauqua Local Circle, which was formed last year under the auspices of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue church, will be held, to consider reorganization, after the Young People's prayer meeting in Bethel chapel, next Friday evening.

PLAINFIELD KNIGHTS AT TRENTON.

Citizens Among the Notables and Crescent Division Much Admired.

A number of the members of Crescent Division, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, of this city, took part yesterday at Trenton in the annual State parade. The Plainfield Division, under command of Capt. Horace J. Martin, attracted much attention by their fine marching and personal appearance.

Among the State officers at the head of the divisions were Lieut. Col., George H. Polhemus and Quartermaster John C. VanDyke, of this city. With the notables in carriages, rode Grand Priest, John Ulrich, and Grand Keeper of Records and Seals, Eugene V. Lorton, also of Plainfield. At the conclusion of the parade, all partook of a banquet in Masonic Temple followed by a grand ball in honor of the Knights.

The Coal Combine Works Both Ways.

Mr. Newton H. Saxton, who recently leased from the assignee of L. A. Rheaume, the coal bins and business on Peace street, South of the railroad bridge, was notified yesterday by Mr. Stewart Hoffman, the Central railroad's agent, that he could have no more coal. The cause was this:

Mr. Saxton was not a member of the Combine formed among the coal dealers of this city. Consequently, unless he joined the "trust" and obeyed its rules, he would not be permitted to do business. Then if he joined with them, he was not allowed to employ anyone to solicit orders. Therefore as Mr. Saxton had engaged Mr. Rheaume to solicit orders, the Plainfield Coal Barons sent word to headquarters and Mr. Saxton's supply was stopped.

Thus was Saxton compelled to agree to the iron clad rules of the Combine and stop soliciting through others; so now he will be permitted to have coal to sell again.

Novel Wedding Gifts.

Of the newest idea as to wedding presents we gain something from a Kansas paper. It says: "Among the many beautiful and costly presents to the happy couple just launched upon the sea of matrimony were a fine double barrelled shotgun from the groom's father, and an excellent shorthorn cow, a remembrance from the bride's mother. Jim was already possessed of a good pointer dog, so he is now well fixed for housekeeping."

We congratulate Jim and also the donors of the presents. They were not duplicated, and so will not be taken to some jewelry store to be traded off for something useful. As the marriage season is coming on we advise gift-givers to lay in a supply of guns, shorthorned cows and a few dogs, in case the groom has none.

Bowlers at Dunellen.

The Middlesex Bowling Green Club went to Dunellen on Friday last to contest a game with gentlemen of Newark and those representing the Dunellen Club. The clubs selected four competitors each. The first game was abruptly stopped by the downpour of rain, when the score was even.

The second game Middlesex secured by one point.

On Saturday next the Middlesex Club will meet at Dunellen for practice, and on Thursday, October 3, they will play the Dunellen club for the Handren silver cup. Dunellen now holds this prise having secured the trophy two years in succession.

A Song Writer in a Pulpit.

(From Monday's Elizabeth Journal.)

Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, of Plainfield, author of "Shall we gather at the river?" and a large number of the finest Sunday school hymns, occupied the desk of the Central Baptist church yesterday morning and last evening, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, Ph. D., who was called to the upper part of New York State last week by the illness of one of his children. Dr. Lowry has preached in this church on a previous occasion. His sermons yesterday were very vigorous, and were listened to with much interest.

The Vice President Chosen From Plainfield.

At the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Sportsman's Association, held at Newark, N. J., last evening, the following were selected as officers of the Association for the ensuing year:

President—Al. Heritage, of the Jersey City Heights Gun Club.

Vice President—Seymour G. Smith, of the Middlesex Gun Club.

Recording Secretary—Jacob Pentz, of the Newark Gun Club.

Corresponding Secretary—W. R. Hobert, of the South Side Gun Club.

Treasurer—W. Fred Quimby, of the Middlesex Gun Club.

Mr. Watson Suspended.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS—In your issue of yesterday you state that Mr. Watson says he is President of the Brotherhood of Iron Workers. I wish to say that he is not President of the Brotherhood of Machinery Moulders, that they do not meet at his place, and that by their constitution he is a suspended member.

J. H. MCCULLOUGH,
Cor. Sec'y.

Saturday's Game.

The Winthrops, with the Currie Bros., battery, will again play the Crescents in this city next Saturday afternoon. Plainfield shut them out before, but the visitors propose to avenge themselves this time.

PROBABLY NOT SO.

Plainfield Breeds no Eighteen Year Old Burglars.

(From Today's World.)

The police authorities of Elizabeth have in custody the three burglars who robbed Benjamin Darby's house in that city last week. Capt. Daly, of the Third Precinct of Newark, on Sunday night arrested in that city James Healy, who escaped when his confederates were captured by swimming across the creek near Waverly. Healy was taken to Elizabeth yesterday and, after his picture was taken for the rogues' gallery, was committed to jail.

His chums, who had betrayed his name to the police, it turns out, had themselves given false names when captured. They have since been identified as James H. Doolan and Charles Honecker. The latter's parents live in Plainfield. Honecker is only about eighteen years old.

Mr. O'Neil Should Fight the Matter in Court.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Last evening in the daily papers of this city, there appeared an article in reference to the Sullivan case. In one paper it stated that I was arested by Chief Carey, and in the other that I was an "unwilling witness," both of which are devoid of truth.

I did not get the notice in time to appear, as I was not notified until twenty minutes of ten and I responded as soon thereafter as possible, which I am prepared to prove. Furthermore I contend that I was not late, as the hour of ten does not expire until eleven.

JAMES O'NEIL.

[Judge Stillman desires that every man shall have justice in his court, and he has therefore offered Mr. O'Neill an opportunity to tell his story and be represented by counsel in an appea before him Saturday evening at eight o'clock. Chas. A. Reed, Esq., will appear for O'Neill and endeavor to show cause why the fine fine should be remitted. ED.]

Entered the Grand Lodge Above.

At a regular meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., held last evening, the following resolutions were adopted and ordered published in THE PRESS and Central Times:

WHEREAS: It has seemed good to our Grand Master above to remove from our Lodge to the Grand Lodge above our late Brother, G. W. Townley, therefore

Resolved, That we mourn the loss of Brother G. W. Townley, with deep feelings of regret, softened only by the confident hope that his spirit is with the Grand Master above.

Resolved, That we tender to his afflicted family our sincere condolence and earnest sympathy in their affliction and great loss.

Resolved, That a copy of the forgoing resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased Brother, and published in THE PRESS and Central Times.

Caught by Bowes.

There is no doubt now left in the minds of the base ball public that Bowes is a great catcher. Last Saturday during the third inning, the horse of G. Schlereth attached to an open wagon standing in right field, dumped the occupants out in the dirt, upset the wagon and raced across towards third base kicking the whiffletree to pieces.

The Crescents were in the field at the time, and were joined by the crowd in a wild attempt to seize the frantic horse who was astraddle of one of the shafts, plunging through the air, and throwing out his hoofs in all directions. But Bowes who started from the back stop, caught the horse in left field ahead of second baseman Hammill.

Free Classes in Singing.

Young men and boys who desire instruction in singing and reading music, are invited by the Young Men's Christian Association to join classes to meet weekly at their rooms. These classes will be under the direction of Mr. E. O. Embury, who has had large experience in the cultivation of the voice and who will spare no pains in making the instruction thorough, useful and a source of pleasure and satisfaction to all.

Young men's class, Mondays at 9 P. M
Boys' class, Fridays at 4.45 P. M. The former class will be organized Monday next, Sept. 30, at 9 P. M., and the latter Friday, Sept. 27, at 4.45 P. M. Full information will be given and names enrolled at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Musical.

It is a great satisfaction to notice a growing demand in this city for first-class concerts. The programmes of the Venino chamber music concerts this season will be entirely new and of a higher order even than last season's. The prices of admission to these concerts are popular prices within the reach of all. The subscription lists are now open at Reynolds' and Shaw's pharmacies.

Spams and Convulsions.

FAREWELL TO THE C. L. S. C.

The Business Offices of the Chautauqua University to be Removed From This City Where it was Conceived and Started.

As already told in THE PRESS, the offices of the Chautauqua University will be moved about the 1st of February from this city to Buffalo, yet the following gleaned by a reporter in regard to the local department here, has still some interest to Plainfielders. The university was started in 1878 in the study here of Doctor, now Bishop, John H. Vincent. In a year it was too big for the study and was moved into a corner room of THE PRESS building. Then students began coming in such troops that the university had to crowd out the tenants in the other offices to find accommodations for its 60,000 members. By the time a hundred thousand students had been enrolled, the university held complete possession of the entire second floor. Twenty thousand new students who joined last year made the quarters dreadfully cramped, however, and the officers were getting ready to move into bigger and more convenient quarters in the new Y. M. C. A. building where the students, or the documents representing them, wouldn't have to bunk together from the floor to the ceiling, and where they might be lulled to sleep every night by the hymn singing, when word came from Chautauqua for the secretary and assistants to pack up their trunks and decamp to Buffalo.

The trustees of the university want to centralize their work. At present the offices of most of the Chautauqua schools are located in Plainfield, but the Chautauqua College of Liberal Arts is at New Haven, the Chautauqua Assembly has its offices in Syracuse, and the publishing house is in New York. Bishop Vincent has his present home in Buffalo. Francis H. Root, one of Buffalo's wealthy residents, is a trustee of the university. Lewis Miller, the President, lives in Akron, Ohio. Clem Studebaker, the carriage maker, and another trustee, lives in South Bend, Ind. Altogether, Buffalo is very convenient to the homes of the members of the Board of Directors. Another reason why it has been selected is that it is only three hours' ride from Buffalo to Chautauqua Lake. It is not likely, however, that the publishing house, which prints 300,000 Chautauqua books a year, will be moved from New York.

Plainfield is naturally sorry to lose the university. For years it has been a pride of the town. It has made the little Post Office among the richest in the State. The university circulars have carried the name of Plainfield to every town and hamlet in the country, and to China, England, and Japan. Old residents liked to point out the offices to strangers and say, "That thar institooshun has a hundred thousand students; yes, sir, a hundred thousand students."

If the stranger hops up stairs to the offices, eager to find where all the hundred thousand students are, he is greeted by Miss K. F. Kimball, the Secretary of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle, who runs everything about the offices. Miss Kimball is a pleasant-faced, keen-eyed young lady.

"A great deal that is said about Chautauqua," she says, "is exaggerated, and these exaggerations hurt us. We have no desire to seem to be what we are not. As a matter of fact, something like a hundred thousand have at one time or another joined the Literary and Scientific Circle. But of this number only about fifty or sixty thousand are actual students, that is, read the books required and send in reports of their reading. Even this number is a fluctuating one. Students are constantly leaving and enrolling. The classes organized each year average about 20,000, and of this number about one-fourth will read the entire four years' course, send in examination papers and full reports of work done and graduate."

The visitor is shown through the offices to the student's dormitories. The dormitories are in a big safe, six feet high and three feet square. There are big and little bunks in the safe, most of them between the green covers of ledger books. Pulling out a whole section at a time, one reads on the cover: "Class of 1892, A to J." The students are arranged alphabetically by name. The first name probably reads, "Aaron, Amelia A., Aaronsville, Arizona." After the names in the proper columns are mysterious signs which when interpreted read, "Housekeeper, age between 20 and 30, Presbyterian." In another column, Miss Aaron is credited with the annual fee of 50 cents. There are more columns to mark Miss Aaron's progress in the payment of fees, her studies, examination papers, and reports. If she is a good girl and reads her forty minutes a day, she gets a parchment diploma at the end of the four years. The books containing Miss Aaron's and the other hundreds of names of the students would be worth a fortune to an advertising circular man. But they are religiously guarded and not even temperance orators or literary lecturers are allowed to copy from them.

The correspondence method of home reading, which is the basis of the university, is easily understood. After enrollment, the student is told what books to read. Papers calculated to keep him in his studies and keep his enthusiasm up are sent out twice or three times a year. He is allowed the largest latitude. He makes no pledge or promise on joining. He reads just as he pleases. He may even substitute other books for the required ones, provided they cover the same subject and are of equal length. He may help the society along by paying the annual fee of 50 cents and not doing a stroke of study. Or he may make five dollars' worth of bother for the clerks by wanting his name transferred to another class every month or so and asking questions already answered in the circulars which have been sent him.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES RIPENING.

The National Flour Has not Suffered from the Weather.

The Burlington Gazette brings the glad and encouraging news that the buckwheat crop will be large, and its quality of a standard excellence, this year. In the United States the buckwheat is a luxury in which everybody indulges. Like with oysters, the poorer the people, the more buckwheat they eat.

Few American families do without buckwheat cakes in cold weather, which, with sausage added, is food which increases muscular force and mental elasticity. Hence when a good buckwheat crop is reported the Winter ahead, no matter what its rigors, will contain the inspiration in a hearty breakfast on cakes made from this flour to enable a man to do a large day's work with satisfaction to himself, while it imparts to a home that cheerfulness which is not derived from any other hot cakes smothered in molasses.

The buckwheat cake is national in its origin and appetizing influence. It tones the stomach, and if over indulged in, adds a frisky sensation to the surface of the body needing considerable attention from the nails of the fingers, and as the time approaches for indulgence in this griddle cake, everybody is ready to devour it with gusto.

Railroad Tickets Good Till Used.

It is said that Mr. H. P. Baldwin, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central road, was asked the other day why it was that the condition printed on the excursion tickets of his road, that the return coupon must be used within seven days, was not enforced.

"That is only a precautionary provision," said Mr. Baldwin. "We do not now think it is necessary to limit our local tickets to any particular time, but we keep the notice there so that if we should ever wish to do so we could without cost. To have the limit printed on our tickets in such a case would involve a great expense. We keep constantly on hand at our various offices, the general ticket office included, anywhere from five to six million tickets. It would require some time, also, to put that number of tickets through the press. Under the present system, the limit could be enforced on twenty-four hours' notice."

Mr. Baldwin also said that tickets were frequently taken up by conductors long after the date of sale. One was turned in the other day to him that had been issued over ten years ago.

Compulsory Education.

The Compulsory Education act applies to children between the ages of seven and fifteen. All children between the ages of seven and twelve may be compelled to attend school 100, and those between twelve and fifteen 60 days. "No child the age of fifteen years shall be employed, by any person, company or corporation to labor in any business whatever, unless such child shall have attended within twelve months immediately preceding such employment some public day or night school, or some well recognized private school, such attendance to be for five days or evenings every week during a period of at least twelve consecutive weeks."

Any parent who violates the provisions of this act is liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars, or more than twenty-five dollars, or to imprisonment for not less than one month or more than three.

Charity Balls Forbidden.

Rev. Father Bruns, clergyman in charge of St. John's Catholic church at New Brunswick, has publicly pronounced against the holding of charity balls by his parishioners. He warns them in a letter to the press that he cannot countenance such balls, even in aid of his church. He warns his people that no Catholic has the right to participate in such a social gathering without obtaining the consent of the bishop of the diocese and clergyman of the parish. Father Bruns' letter has naturally created a sensation in Catholic circles.

A Singular Accident.

Hugh McIlhaddon, of Philadelphia, a brakeman on a Central Railroad coal train, was standing on a seat in the caboose lighting a lamp, when the train suddenly stopped in Jersey City, last night, and the jar hurled him headlong to the floor. He fell across a water bucket and had three ribs broken, besides being hurt internally. He was taken to the Elizabeth Hospital.

Unnecessary Misery.

Probably as much misery comes from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed. HAMBURG FIGS were prepared to obviate the difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. 25c Dose, one fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

THE GREAT NOVELIST'S DEATH.

Wilkie Collins Dies of Paralysis of the Heart and Acute Bronchitis.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Wilkie Collins, the world-famous novelist, is dead. He was sixty-five years old.

The cause of death was paralysis of the heart, accelerated by acute bronchitis.

His physician, Dr. Carr Beard, his solicitor, Mr. Bartley, and his adopted daughter whom Mr. Bartley married only three days ago, were with him by his bedside when life became extinct.

The great author suffered more than usual yesterday and seemed to feel that the end was rapidly approaching. He was conscious to the last.

William Wilkie Collins was the son of William Collins, of the Royal Academy, and was born in London, June 8, 1824. He was named after his father and after David Wilkie, a Scotch printer and dear friend of the elder Collins.

After his school days Collins spent a season or two in Italy. He took not kindly to his father's profession, and essayed commercial trade for four years with a tea merchant. But this was uncongenial, and he entered Lincoln's Inn as a law student.

The law was dry and Wilkie Collins scribbled more than he studied, and in 1848 he ambitiously essayed a biography of his father.

Collin's first novel was "Antonia," which was followed rapidly by "Basil," in 1852; "Hide and Seek," "The Dark Secret," "The Woman in White," "No Name," "Man and Wife," and a perfect host of other things, great and small.

Despite the activity of his pen, which was the most prolific since that of the author of "Robinson Cruso," Mr. Collins was a royal entertainer, at his immense bachelor's hall at Gloucester, where he had sumptuous service from an "oiled and noiseless housekeeper" to the airiest and nattiest of "Buttons."

Collins's work was noted for the novelty and wonder of its plots. The man was short with a stout figure and a massive head, brilliant eyes and a face expressive of strength and kindliness. Of late years the sturdy form was bent and stooping, and Mr. Collins limped along with the support of a stout walking stick.

LECONEY'S ACCUSER.

Prosecutor Jenkins Denies that the Negro Murray Has Confessed.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 24.—Prosecutor Jenkins denies the alleged confession made by the negro Murray in the Leconey murder case. He said: "Some of the facts are true and have been published before, but as an entirety, it is untrue. The statement that the State has information about a will left by Richard Leconey, in which the bulk of the property was left to Annie Leconey, is positively without foundation. We have a theory as to the murder, but decline to give it to the public in advance of the trial. Leconey is the man against whom we will present evidence before the grand jury at next session of court."

Hartford Favors New York.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 24.—The Board of Trade has voted in favor of New York City as the place for the World's Fair in 1892. The city government last night passed a resolution to the same effect.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Cardinal Schraffino is dead.

Ten thousand Russian Hebrews have just sailed from Odessa for America.

A severe frost last night blighted the cranberry crop in the vicinity of Farmingdale, N. J.

Henry Lee, a retired merchant of Trenton, N. J., died yesterday at his cottage at Ocean Grove.

There is no clue to the robbers who entered the Stapleton, L. I., postoffice and secured $800 in stamps and $300 in cash.

John M. Converse's two large barns with their contents at Palmer, Mass., were burned yesterday. Loss $4,000; insurance $3,000.

The shortage in the Collector's office at Richmond, Va., is said to be $60,000. The failure of the City Auditor to make an annual report of the office releases the bondsmen.

The suit in the Massachusetts Superior Court of N. P. Bolin against the Boston and Maine Railroad for injuries received in the Bradford accident has been settled for $6,000.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony :—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

THE REPUBLIC SAFE

The Government of France Has Secured a Sure Majority.

BOULANGISTS CLAIM FRAUD.

They Say the General Was Elected in Montmatre and Counted Out.

The Result of the Election Considered Satisfactory by the Government—New Ballots Required in More Than One-Third of the Districts—The New Chamber Will Be Much the Same as the Old One.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The result of the election is considered as satisfactory for the Government as there was any reason to hope for. Four members of the Ministry are re-elected—a substantial approval of the Government's general policy. New ballots are required in more than one-third of the districts, and the Republccans expect to win in a majority of these. From present indications the Government will come out finally with a small but safe majority.

Of the successful candidates the Boulangists elected four and the Republicans one. In the remaining 37 divisions suplementary ballots will be necessary.

M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, is elected. M. M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, and Yves-Guyot, Minister of Public Works, failed to obtain pluralities in their respective divisions, and a re-ballot will be necessary, but their election is regarded as certain.

The Republicans are defeated in the constituencies contested on behalf of the Government by MM. Milude, Ferry, Goblet, Maillard and Joubert, while MM. Milleraud, Passy, Lockroy, Floquet and Barodet and the opposition candidates Andrieux, Laisant, Vergoin, Laur, De Susini and Naquet will be compelled to submit to supplementary ballots. Count Dillon, Boulangist, is elected.

BOULANGISTS CRY FRAUD.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Boulangists claim that the General was elected in the Montmartre district and counted out. The fact that his election, by a good majority, was at first conceded by the Government's representatives, and that there was considerable delay in changing the announcement to one of defeat, gives color to the charges that are being freely made to the effect that the ballots were manipulated by the Government's agents.

OFFICIAL RETURNS.

Returns from 560 divisions show the election of 244 Republicans and 156 opposition members. In 177 divisions supplementary ballots will be necessary. The new Chamber will probably comprise 369 Republicans and 201 members of the opposition.

The Boulangist vote in Paris was 192,300 against 244,070 last January. The "Temps" states that voting papers for Boulanger and Rochefort were burned. The matter will be referred to in the Chamber. Counting the papers alleged to have been destroyed, the Boulangists polled 300,000 votes in the Seine Department, against 226,000 for their opponents; but the Republican vote shows an increase of 97,066 compared with that of January.

The Revising Committee sits on Thursday to decide whether Boulanger shall be declared elected for Montmartre, or a reballot ordered.

THE GOVERNMENT'S MAJORITY.

Among the prominent Republicans elected are MM. Faillieres, Ribot, Jules Roche, Granet, Develle, Deschanelle, Barbe, Sarrien and Reinach. The opposition have elected MM. De Cassagnac, Lalor, Fould, Haussmann, Godelle, Lanjuinais and Count Albert de Mun. In 127 of the districts to be recontested the result of the second ballot will probably be favorable to the Republicans and in the remaining 39 the opposition candidates are likely to be successful. This estimate is made by the Republicans themselves. The Republicans also rely upon their ability to secure ten colonial seats and thus hold 354 seats in the new chamber. Everybody in official circles appears to believe that a Republican majority is assured, which though not large will be more compact and more homogeneous than the Government majority in the last chamber.

THE NEW CHAMBER.

The "Temps" says that the political complexion of the new Chamber will be much the same as that of the old one. Many new men are returned, however, and a fresh element is added to parliamentary life. The Republic ought to use its victory to give to its political action a consistency heretofore lacking.

The "Liberte" says that there will be no such change in the balance of power in the Chamber as would have any serious influence upon the future of the Republic.

The results of the elections produced a favorable impression on the Bourse.

Opinions of the German Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The "National Zeitung" regards the result of the French elections as favorable to the Republic. The article is, however, couched in terms which indicate some doubt as to the result of the reballots.

The "Vossische Zeitung" congratulates the Republic upon its limited, though undoubted, victory.

The "Tageblatt" says that the results do not clear the situation. The position of the Republic, despite the Republican advantage, is still precarious.

Balfour and the Irish University.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Chief Secretary Balfour in reply to a letter received from the secretary of the Protesant Alliance denouncing the scheme for a Catholic University in Dublin writes: "Foundation endowment of the University has never been contemplated, and in my opinion, is not necessary. The public ought to suspend opinion on the plans of the Government until the views of the Government are made known.

Princess Sophie's Marriage.

THE REPUBLICAN LEAGUE.

New York Clubs Holding a Convention To-Day in Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Republican League Clubs of the State of New York are holding a convention here to-day. The representation consists of three delegates from each organization.

The principal work of the convention will be the election of officers and the selection of a new State Committee.

Among the delegates there is considerable talk as to the officers to be elected. President Hefford has announced that he is not a candidate for re-election, having had two terms. The other officers will also give way to new men.

There are several names mentioned far the presidency, among which are those of Col. E. A. McAlpin, James S. Lehmair, John S. Smith, William H. Williams and Henry Gleason.

STABBED HIS SISTER.

A Lad of Ten Years Arrested for Using a Knife.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 24.—While Frank Hollywood, aged 10 years, was playing with an old clock in the residence of his father in this city, yesterday, his sister Mary kicked the clock. Frank jabbed his sister in the right leg with the jagged blade of an old knife, severing the femeral artery. The girl will probably die.

The boy was arrested, and while being conveyed to the station-house he tried to break away from the officers with the avowed intention of drowning himself in the bay.

Trying to Free the Haymarket Anarchists.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Sept. 24.—The attorney for the Anarchists, Schwab, Fielden and Neebe, who are doing time in the penitentiary for complicity in the Haymarket massacre, have made several visits to this city of late for the purpose of securing a writ of error for the State Supreme court to the Supreme Court of the United States. They ask an amendment of the record in the case by taking out the words "Come now the parties," so as to show (what is the fact) that the parties were not in court in person when the decision of the court was announced.

The Engineer Instantly Killed.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western train due here at 5:40 last evening, met with an accident as it was descending the heavy grade by which the road reaches this city. A spreading of the rails threw the locomotive from the track and down a steep embankment. The locomotive was completely wrecked and Engineer Orlando Geeley instantly killed. All of the coaches remained on the track and none of the passengers were injured.

Restricting Silver Coinage.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 24.—Resolutions were adopted by the Mining Exchange directing that a committee be appointed, with power to employ legal aid, for the purpose of testing the legality of the law restricting the coinage of silver. It is proposed to send a quantity of silver, in charge of the committee, to Philadelphia and demand its coinage. If the demand is refused an action will be brought against the officers of the mint for damages.

Won by the Maine Stallion.

BEACON PARK, BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The great stallion race for the Balch stake of $10,000, was trotted before 15,000 persons. At the last moment Mr. Nelson, the owner of the fleet Maine stallion, decided to hold the reins himself. He was cheered as he stepped into the sulky. Nelson won in three straight heats. Time 2:18½, 2:17¼, 2:18½.

London's Latest Poisoning Case.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A post mortem examination of the body of Mr. Weldon, the wealthy West Ender, whose death occurred last week under suspicious circumstances and whose remains were exhumed on Saturday, was held yesterday and the Coroner commenced an inquest to-day. The dead man's brothers are confident that he was poisoned by his wife.

Mysterious Disappearance.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 24.—Edward Jennings, eighteen years old, the adopted son of Charles Jennings, of Weston, dissappeared Thursday night and has not since been seen. He returned from a coon hunt that evening, divested himself of all his clothing and left the house. He is thought to be demented and hiding in the woods.

Pleuro-Pneumonia Among Cattle.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 24.—By order of the State Cattle Inspector twenty-nine cattle owned by Brewer Fleishman, at Millstone, were killed yesterday, being afflicted with pleuro-pneumonia. Twelve cattle on another farm in the same neighborhood have also been condemned and ordered to be killed.

An Ex-Mayor Dies Suddenly.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Ex-Mayor P. D. Walter, of Lockport, who has been suffering since Thursday last from injuries received in a fall down the elevator shaft at the Brackett House died very suddenly, at that hotel yesterday.

Filed a Petition of Insolvency.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—E. and A. H. Batcheller & Co., the Boston and North Brookfield boot and shoe manufacturers, have filed a petition in insolvency and have submitted the offer which was made at the last meeting of the firm's creditors.

Robert Garrett Returns in Good Health.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 24.—Mr. Robert Garrett, accompanied by Mrs. Garrett, his physician, Dr. Jacobs, and Miss Frick, has arrived home in Baltimore after an absense of several months. His health is good.

Democratic Delegates.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Warren County Democratic Convention, held at Warrensburg, elected Henry Griffing, Jeremiah S. Finch and G. H. Aldrich delegates to the State Convention.

Heavy Frost in Vermont.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Sept. 24.—There was a heavy frost in this vicinity this morning, the first of the season. Crops were generally in hand and damage is small.

Frost in the Mohawk Valley.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A heavy frost in the Mohawk Valley is making havoc among the gardens, vineyards and buckwheat fields.

NEW YORK WANTS THE FAIR.

Some of the Notable Reasons Why It Should Be Allowed to Grab It.

Mr. Fielding, of the Committee on Suggestions from Outsiders, Shows the Advantages of New York City and the Strength of Its Pull.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

The following, which is intended to be read with interest by the mayors of Chicago, St. Louis, Salt Lake City, Dutch Flat, Red Dog and other Western towns now laboring under the delusion that they can wrest from New York the honor of the World's Fair in 1892, will, I am sure, close this unfortunate controversy forever. I shall show that New York is the place; that no other town in the United States can pull such an appropriation out of Congress as we can; that we are in the front rank of progress in both directions; and, finally, that nowhere else have the forces of civilization in the last four hundred years developed so many things which the meanest Injun in the days of Columbus would never have imagined, and which will be viewed with much wonder and delight by the natives of other lands.

As a prominent member of the Committee on Suggestions from Outsiders, I pretend to know something about this show. If it isn't a success it will not be my fault. It was I who suggested holding the exhibition on an aerial platform supported by balloons. I submitted a model to the Mayor with this suggestion, and showed him the advantages of the plan. I called to his attention the fact that by fixing it up this way the labors of Inspector Byrnes and his staff would be mercifully lightened, because they could take pickpockets and other thieves, not having space in the main tent nor in any of the side shows, and drop them over the edge without any trouble at all. I have received no reply to this letter, and probably shall not get a cent out of the idea even if it is adopted. But I don't suppose it will be. You never can tell whom these public men stand in with.

New York is full of historic interest, among which may be mentioned the place where the Washington Memorial Arch will stand if the money to build it is ever raised; the site for Horace Greely's statue which will be built shortly after the arch; the place where General Grant's monument fund died; the movement to wash the statue of Ben Franklin; Anthony Comstock and his collection of objectionable matter; Judge Duffy; the tombs where so many men have been hanged, and a number of others both in and out of official position who ought to be—all making a collection of rare scope and variety.

Also, we have close at hand a number of articles that could be procured easily and would add greatly to the interest of the show. There is the Prohibition movement in New Jersey which could be brought over in a dory; the tramp laws of Connecticut which could walk; the contract ceiling of the Assembly-room at Albany which is likely to come down any day, and many other things to surprise and entertain the visitor.

The main object of a World's Fair, anyhow, is to attract the attention of other lands and endeavor if possible to get square with Paris for the amount of money which our citizens have dropped over there this summer. For such a patriotic work New York has facilities which are not equalled elsewhere. From the sawdust men and brokers of the down town section to the elderly female householders of the boarding and lodging district; yes, clear up to the flats, rents and fleas of Harlem we are prepared for our cousins from across the water, and if anything gets away from us then the New World is not the success that it seems.

Diplomatically too, New York is the place. I know nothing so likely to maintain and cement the valuable relations now existing between England and Fifth avenue as this show. The number of foreign dukes and other things who would go broke in this country during such a time would, no doubt, add largely to the list of matrimonial alliances with nobility, and would help to raise the tone on this side and the credit on the other of many famous families.

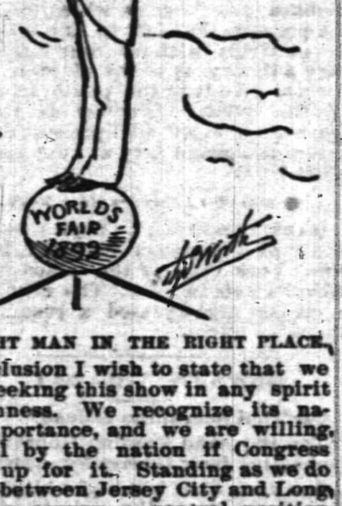
We have a greater number of interesting exhibits already prepared than any of our competitors could get up between this time and the date of the quadricentennial. In the line of machinery, for instance, we have Tammany Hall, one of the most instructive and entertaining machines in the country. It is now running in our town without a hitch. Its transference to any other town for the purposes of the fair would not only injure the machine but would be very expensive for the town.

Illustrating the progress of social organization we have many societies for the prevention of various things, and others for the promotion of the same—among the latter the finest police force for this particular purpose that ever passed a Civil Service examination (without seeing it). All these organizations are doing well, and making a great deal of money out of contributions both voluntary and otherwise.

The Fair will be a stock company; and space has been reserved in the main building for Mr. Gould. He will be shown every day in full operation with the stock of the concern, and visitors will be warned by a sign: "Do not monkey with the buzz saw." It will be one of the most instructive portions of the exhibition. There will also be a gambling den which will be closed every night by the police and will re-open the next morning in the same place, thus illustrating the Law and Order methods of the Metropolis. Among other things, too, will be a street crossing in full view of the audience, where a man will be run over by a beer wagon every five minutes. The main parade will move up Broadway on the morning of the opening of the show, and will positively be blown up every thirty yards, by an explosion in the subways. By these painstaking methods we shall hope to give a true picture of American life and death in this great city.

Among all the suggestions that have been made I am the most moved by that of the tower two thousand feet high. I can imagine myself standing alone upon its top, midway between New York and Heaven with a fair chance to decide which I preferred without giving offence in either locality. There would I stand while the sun set in the purple, malarial haze of New Jersey—there, far above the wagons rattling over the pavements, and the gas companies tearing them up; above the rumble and axle-grease of the elevated railroad; there would I stand and proudly reflect that I was probably the only man in New York city who couldn't smell sewer gas.

The picture allures me; it should be realized.



THE RIGHT MAN IN THE RIGHT PLACE.

In conclusion I wish to state that we are not seeking this show in any spirit of selfishness. We recognize its national importance, and we are willing to do well by the nation if Congress will put up for it. Standing as we do midway between Jersey City and Long Island we occupy a central position which should not be overlooked. We want this show; we have done more talking about it than any other town and we mean to keep it up. We do not intend to exclude anybody. On the other hand we extend a welcoming hand to all, and if the price of board goes up, we are not responsible.

HOWARD FIELDING.

HAZING THE MINISTER.

He is Led to Believe That Some Cigars Come Very High.

He was an old man, attired in sober black, and had come on to attend the Philadelphia Presbyterian Convention last fall. His blue badge waved gently in the wind, and he had been down to the Academy to hear the speeches and take part in the debate. On his way up he stopped in a popular cafe with the intention of purchasing a good cigar. After considerable delay a cigar was selected through the joint efforts of the reverend gentleman and the attendant at the cigar stand. He lighted it and asked its price. It was a quarter. Was there ever such a price paid for a cigar before? He thought not, and began to expostulate vigorously against the extortion,

In the meantime, a prominent lawyer who had been standing near by, taking in the whole scene, approached the cigar stand, and in a quiet voice remarked to the attendant, "Robert, give me a cigar—one of the usual kind," at the same time drawing from his pocket a five dollar bill. The clerk, who knew the joke, passed out the cigar, took the bill, which he placed in the cash drawer, and turned away.

The country clergyman was dumfounded. He left the place without a word, and the odds are 90 to 1 that some quiet village will be electrified in the near future by a powerful sermon on the extravagances of city life. After his departure the lawyer returned and got his change, $4.85. The clergyman is wondering yet.

Where the Blame Rested.

Wife—"John, I wish you'd go into Coffee & Co's. when you're in town, and see why they haven't sent the groceries I ordered by post-card two days ago. It's shameful to neglect my order so. Just give them a good scolding, will you, John?"

John—"I shall go there and see Mr. Coffee himself about it."

John (an hour later)—"Mr. Coffee, here's an order on this post-card that I've carried in my pocket two days. I wish you'd get the goods up to the house early this morning; will you please?"

The Pastor Won't Go.

Mrs. Pointe-Lace—"Really, Mrs. Dresser, our congregation is too poor to send our minister on a vacation this Summer. We've got to economize."

Mrs. Dresser—"So we have. The minister ought to take his vacation out of his own salary. By the way what did your husband pay for his last trotter?"

Mrs. P. L.—"Ten thousand, and the horse was cheap at that."

Mrs. D.—"So I think. We poor people must take care of ourselves. The Lord will look after the pastor."

He Used Forcible Language.

"Did you read my play?" said Penley to Banks.

"Yes."

"How did it strike you?"

"Forcibly, I could't restrain my emotion."

"That's true," broke in Bank's wife; "I was in the next room when he read it and I never heard a man swear so in my life."

A Nail in His Skull.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 24.—John Stewart rammed his head against a stone wall in Fairfield County Jail five months ago. He was a prisoner and attempted suicide. He was taken to the hospital and his head trepanned. Two weeks ago he recovered sufficiently to get about the hospital, but he grew worse and died yesterday. An autopsy revealed a two-inch nail thrust into his skull.

A Delegate Drops Dead.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Jacob Fitzgerald, of Cayuga, dropped dead in Watkins last night. He was a delegate to the Republican State Convention, and went to Watkins to take a train for Saratoga.

State Treasurer Hart Recovering.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—State Treasurer Hart, who was critically ill on Saturday has improved, and is much better to-day.

Worcester's Musical Festival.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 24.—The thirty-second annual festival of the Worcester County Musical Association will take place this evening. The hotels are full and an immense crowd will be present at the concert.

Hopkins Shows no Remorse.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—The physicians who are attending Seely Hopkins, who shot himself after having murdered his wife and mother-in-law, will not express an opinion as to the final result of his injuries. His left side is paralayzed, caused by clots of blood on the brain. He shows no remorse for his act.

Snow Eighteen Inches Deep.

FABYAN HOUSE, N.H., Sept. 24.—Snow has fallen on Mt. Washington for the last five days and this morning it was eighteen inches deep.

He Had to Draw the Line.

A good story is being told about town of an old gentleman who has lived for years at one of the Stamford hotels with his family. Several years ago his eldest daughter, who was married, died. After a suitable time the bereaved widower asked for the hand of the next daughter. Not long afterward he was left alone again, and again he sought for the hand of the third daughter of his old friend. At last, when he came for the fourth, the old man exclaimed: "Yes, take her; but, hang it all, when she's gone what'll you do! You can't have the old woman, too."

KILLED AND MAIMED

Two Trains Collide Twelve Miles from Chicago.

ONE COACH WAS DEMOLISHED.

Those in the Car Not Killed Suffered Terribly from Escaping Gas.

Fatal Results from a Boiler Explosion in Pennsylvania—Five Men Killed and Two Badly Hurt—Panic in an Elmira Factory—The Employes Badly Scared by a Gas Explosion Which Shook the Entire Building.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A rear-end collision on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad at Washington Heights, twelve miles from this city, at 6 o'clock last night, resulted in the death of five persons and severe injury to a dozen others.

A suburban passenger train while standing still was crashed into by a fast freight train, and the rear coach of the passenger train was entirely demolished. Those in the car who were not instantly killed by the collision suffered terribly from escaping steam before they could be rescued. The following is a list of the killed:

Miss Sadie Kelly, an employe of the Rock Island Company; Mrs. Brown, Fred. Huedner and Jay McKenzie, of Washington Heights; a woman yet unidentified.

The wounded were: Geo. Mulcahey, Edward Smith, Wm. O'Connor, Daniel Lawrence, Anton Scharer, Jacob Kuen, Wm. Wheeler, Gottlieb Klein, Parker Heradns and Maud Steele.

Five Men Killed.

BERLIN, Pa., Sept. 25.—The boiler in Fritz Brothers' saw mill, near here, burst yesterday, killing John Fritz, Edward Fritz, Oliver Ross and David Baker, all young men of this vicinity. Two men named Brant were badly hurt but may recover.

PANIC IN A FACTORY.

Two Employes Burned and All Badly Scared by a Gas Explosion.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The 300 employes of J. Richardson & Company's shoe factory were thrown into a panic yesterday by an explosion of gas which had leaked into the basement of the building from a street main. Engineer Pierson and a foreman named Keener were badly burned.

The explosion shook the entire building and blew out all the glass on the east side. Over one hundred girls escaped by means of the fire escapes or jumped from the windows to the roofs of the adjoining buildings.

GEN. PERRINE'S DEATH.

The Oldest Quartermaster General in the United States.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 25.—Quartermaster General Lewis Perrine, who died yesterday, was the oldest officer of that rank in service in the United States, his commission dating from 1838. He joined the militia in 1841 as a private, and steadily rose in rank. In 1865 he was breveted major general on Governor Parker's recommendation, and in 1879 was made commissary general, paymaster general and chief of ordinance, as well as quartermaster general.

Governor Green called a meeting of the State officers, at which eloquent tributes were paid to the memory of the deceased, and appropriate resolutions were adopted.

The cause of Gen. Perrine's death was ossification of the valves of the heart.

"NO, I WILL NOT."

Major Warner Says He Will Not be Pension Commissioner.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 25.—Major William Warner arrived from Washington yesterday. In an interview he replied to the question: "Will you accept the position of Commissioner of Pensions?"

"No, I will not."

When asked to state his reasons for declining he refused to talk. He also said he did not know whom the President was considering for the place or who was likely to receive the appointment.

Racing at the Inter-State Fair.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—A five-mile running race for gentlemen at the Inter-State Fair drew a big crowd to the park last night. To-night the fireworks exhibition, the "Last Days of Pompeii," will be repeated. The races yesterday were won by the favorites in straight heats, and were unexciting. The 2:30 pacing race was won by Morris Mullen in three straight heats. In the special race Reference won. Following these races there was a two-mile running race for lady riders. It was won by Miss Belle Terwilliger of this city.

Statues of Grant, Sheridan and Farragut.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Board of Aldermen by a unanimous vote passed an order that the amount received from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for the Armory site on Stoughton street be appropriated for statues of Grant, Sheridan and Farragut. The amount to be received is about $50,000. An order to obtain the opinion of the Corporation Counsel as to the legality of the order was laid over.

Receiver for a Lubricating Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 25.—In accordance with the recommendations of the referee's report in the case of the Leader Lubricating Company, Judge Hatch has granted an order dissolving the Company and appointing a receiver. The capital stock of $250,000 had not been paid in full and no business had been done since organization.

TESTING THE BALTIMORE.

The New Cruiser to be Given a Trial Trip at the Expense of the Builders.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—It is announced at the Navy Department that Cramp & Sons will take the Baltimore to Newport with their own crew and at their own expense, to put her over the measured mile there. This is not in the contract, but is voluntary on their part. It is quite an object to the department to have this trial made now, in order that the Secretary may mention it in his annual report to congress, inasmuch as the Baltimore has all of her weights in at this time, and if they were taken out she could not have her measured mile trial until her battery is on board, which may not be for months. Lieutenant Mason, aide to the Secretary, says this trial may cost the Cramps as much as $9,000 or $10,000, but he thinks they can afford it under the circumstances. The Engineering Board has not yet completed its computations of horse power, but enough is known to indicate that the Cramps will get from $147,000 to $150,000 in premiums.

Casey and Wood's Release.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—There is considerable talk among baseball men over the release by the Philadelphia club of Pitcher Casey and left-fielder George Wood. The men were considered good players, especially Wood, and why they were released is not known.

GROUND TO PIECES.

The Sheriff of Bergen County, N. J., Meets With a Horrible Death.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 25.—Nicholas C. Demarest, Sheriff of Bergen county and one of the best-known politicians in northern New Jersey, was struck by an Erie Express train at Rutherford Park last evening and literally ground to pieces.

His team of horses escaped without a scratch, but the buggy was demolished. Mr. Demarest was attempting to cross in front of the train, and it is claimed that he disregarded the flagman's warning.

Conference of Colored Clergymen.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—This morning in St. Philip's Church, 181 West Twenty-fifth street, a conference of clergymen who have been and are working among the colored people of the South was begun. The conference will continue until Friday, and will during its sessions discuss proposed improvements in the methods of the workings of the representatives of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the South.

A DAY OF POLITICS

New York Republicans in Convention at Saratoga.

DEPEW TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN

Massachusetts Republicans in Session To-Day at Boston.

A Number of Candidates for Governor of the Bay State—Brackett's Friends Claim That He Will be Nominated—Russell, of New York City, Likely to Head the Saratoga Ticket—Chalmers May Lead Louisiana Republicans.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—There is a large crowd of Republicans and visitors here to-day, and the arrival of Hon. Warner Miller this morning created great enthusiasm among the delegates.

When the convention was called to order, ex-Speaker Husted nominated Chauncey M. Depew for temporary chairman, and he was elected with great cheers. He thanked the convention, and made a speech that put the delegates in the best of humor.

S. V. R. Cruger is chairman of the committee on resolutions; Joseph Mullen, of Watertown, is chairman of the committee on permanent organization, and Charles N. Taintor, of New York, of the committee on contested seats.

The ticket will likely be Charles Hanselt for Secretary of State; George H. Beckwith, of Platisburg, for Comptroller; Dr. Edward Malone, of Williamsburg, for State Treasurer; J. D. Varnum, of New York, for Attorney-General; Albert Haight, of Buffalo, for the Court of Appeals: Verplank Colvin, of Albany, for State Engineer.

The Pennsylvania Republican League.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 25.—At the Republican Convention yesterday resolutions were adopted calling upon the President and Congress to take such action relative to the colored people of the South as would secure the rights guaranteed to every citizen. Edwin S. Stuart, of Philadelphia, was elected president. The next meeting will be held in Philadelphia.

121 Ballots Were Taken.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The Democrats of the First Assembly District of Oneida County nominated John N. Seigrist, of Utica, for member of Assembly after a session lasting six hours, during which 121 ballots were taken. There were three candidates in the field, and the contest between them was a stubborn one.

Mississippi Republicans.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 25.—The first Republican Convention that has assembled here in years will meet to-day to nominate a State ticket. Gen. J. R. Chalmers, B. K. Bruce, John R. Lynch and other prominent party leaders are present. There is a general belief that Chalmers can have the nomination for Governor if he desires it.

The New York League Election.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The delegates to the Republican League Convention elected the following officers: President, Edward A. McAlpin, of Westchester; Vice-Presidents, William H. Bright, of Oneida; F. H. McNamee, of New York; Daniel T. Keefe, of Glens Falls; Secretary, W. A. Pierson, of Saratoga; Treasurer, George Kenneth, of Kings; Delegates-at-Large to attend the National League, James W. Hawkes, of New York, and R. B. Hofford, of Erie.

BAY STATE REPUBLICANS.

A Batch of Candidates to be Presented for Governor.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Republican State Convention is in session here to-day. There is great uncertainty as to the nominees for the offices of Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. The friends of Brackett, however, claim that they will be able to nominate him for Governor on the first ballot. Crapo also has a large following, and his friends are hopeful of success. The name of Hon. W. H. Hallo will also be placed in nomination.

The race for the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor will be between George W. Johnson, of Brookfield, Myron P. Walker, of Belchertown, and Francis Jewett, of Lowell.

For Secretary of State it is thought there will be but little opposition to the renomination of Secretary Pierce.

$25,000 For the World's Fair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Roswell P. Flower has given $25,000 to the World's Fair Committee. There is still a great deal of discussion as to whether the site shall include any part of Central Park. The Site Committee meets again to-morrow.

Wants $10,000 for the Use of His Name.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25.—Capt. A. H. Bogardus, the well-known rifle shot, has commenced suit in the Sagamon Circuit court against Adam Forepaugh, claiming damages in $10,000 for the use of his name and lithograph in connection with the Forepaugh show when he was not with it.

Struck by a West Shore Train.

CLYDE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Alexander Graham, wife of one of the most prominent men in Wayne county, was struck by an east bound West Shore frieght train last evening, and instantly killed.

She Eloped With a Dude.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 25.—Mrs. J. C. Anderson (colored), aged 45 years, the mother of sixteen children, has eloped with a 25-year-old dude, of Xenia, named Evans. Mrs. Anderson's husband is a shoemaker here. Evans leaves a young wife.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Scotch Plains, will resume their regular meetings at Excelsior Hall, tomorrow afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock. As it will be a meeting for business, an attendance of all the members is urgently requested.

—A reunion of the Twenty-second New Jersey Volunteers, of Bergen and Mercer counties, was held at Hackensack Monday, about 200 veterans being present. Colonel Demarest of Tenafly, presided. Addresses were made by the Rev. Dr. W. P. Gordon, ex-Commander Chas. Burrows, Capt. Titus of Trenton, and others.

—Many Plainfield wheelmen will attend the annual cycling tournament of the N. J. Athletic Club, which will be held at Bergen Point on Saturday, Oct. 12. An excellent programme of cycling events has been arranged by the committee, and if the weather proves favorable a grand success in every manner will be the outcome of the affair.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. F. E. Marsh is at Jerseyville, Ill., somewhat improved in general health.

Miss M. L. Hotchkiss of Franklin place, who has been Summering in the Adirondacks, will return about the first of October.

The family of Mr. Watson C. Emory, of 90 East Second street, was increased Tuesday night of last week by the arrival of a big girl baby.

A theatre party from Bound Brook gave a supper to Mr. Frederick Warde, the tragedian, at Miller's hotel, last evening, after the performance in Music Hall.

Dr. T. S. Davis and Messrs J. E. Beerbower and D. C. Adams on Monday evening took the Knight Templar degree in Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., of this city.

Messrs J. A. Hubbard, E. C. Morse, E. Mosher and T. O. Doane left on the 7.58 train this morning for Long Branch, as delegates from Plainfield to the Convention of the Firemen's Relief Association.

Mr. F. P. Haffner of Dunellen, gave a dinner to Wetumpka Lodge, 3,401, K. of H., of Plainfield, in C. J. Feytel's honor, and as an acknowledgment of his services in the Order. With such a man as Mr. Feytel at the helm, there is no doubt of success, and he will surely receive his reward.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Y. M. C. A. will tender a reception to mechanics, Tuesday evening, Oct. 1.

Within a few years I have attended the funerals of two boys less than 10 years old, who have died from the effects of cigarette smoking.—Dr Farrar.

The Ladies Bible Training class will resume its sessions under the leadership of Mr. E. L. Suffern, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Friday afternoon of this week, at 4 o'clock. Christian women who may desire to know more of the practical workings of this class, are invited to be present at that time.

Sunday school superintendents, teachers and all Christian young men, are most cordially invited and especially urged to visit the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Monday evening next, when training class methods will be explained. Mr. W. D. Murray will teach a sample class at 9 o'clock—immediately at the close of the young men's Gospel service.

The Postal Card Legends.

The story of the legends on the postal cards equals a game of progressive euchre. Fifteen years ago it read: "Place the address only on this side." After a few years it was changed to: "Place the address on this side—the message on the other." The third stagger at expressing the idea grammatically and elegantly resulted in: "Nothing but the address can be placed on this side." Now we have: "Nothing but the address to be on this side."

To Shoot for the Trophy.

At the Fourth Tournament of the New Jersey Shooting Association now being held on Jersey City Heights, there is to be a trophy shot for by teams of three men picked from each of the clubs belonging to the Association.

The Middlesex Club has selected Messrs Charles Smith and Seymour Smith of this city, and Mr. John Riggott, to take part in the contest which is set down for tomorrow at Marion.

RECEPTION TO THE RETURNED.

Mr. Schenck's People Brave the Storm to Greet Him.

Last evening was the occasion of the regular church reception of the Trinity Reformed congregation, but it was made an especially momentous and enjoyable event because it was the first social gathering of Mr. Schenck's people since his return from Europe. The arrangements for the affair were in the hands of the officers of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church, and they acquitted themselves of the responsibility in a very commendable way. The lecture room where the reception was held, was trimmed by Mrs. Charles P. Leggett and her sister, Miss Jennie VanWinkle, in a handsome way that has never been excelled.

The rain storm of the evening served as a test of the people's devotion to their pastor. The room was uncomfortably filled with members of the church and congregation. There was no prescribed programme of entertainment—everything was informal, and general sociability was the order of the evening. The pastor was told it was the unanimous request of his friends there assembled, that he should give an account of his trip abroad, including the feelings he experienced in reading his "mail in mid ocean." He responded in a most entertaining way.

During the evening Miss Florence Randolph and another young lady pianist, played a duett with such good effect they were compelled to again favor the audience. Iced cream and other refreshments added to the pleasure of the evening.

BASE BALL.

The High School Seniors Defeat the Juniors by One Run in Five Innings.

On the Bowling Club's grounds, yesterday, the Senior class team of the High School defeated the Junior class team in a five-inning game, by the score of 12 to 11.

At the end of the 4th inning the score stood 11 to 7 in favor of the Juniors. In the beginning of the 5th the Juniors were doubled up by the Seniors without a run. The Seniors came in with blood in their eyes, and won the game by hits made by Sutphen, Petrie, Simmonds, Nichswich, Randolph, a bunt by Patterson, and a base on balls for Coriell.

Juniors—Freeman, catch; Bockwell, pitch; Newman, first base; Grant, second base; Daboll, short stop; Kilmer, third base; Vars, right field; Jenkins, center field; Saltzman, left field.

GONE TO GERMANY.

Richter, Who so Mysteriously Disappeared From Stirling, Leaving Family and Debts Behind, Supposed to be a Defaulter.

In last Thursday's PRESS was first told the tale of the mysterious disappearance of Fred Richter, of Stirling. It was then supposed by friends and relatives that he might have been murdered, because he was a traveling collector for an insurance company and carried some money about him at times.

It is now belived by many that Richter is on his way to his native home, Germany, leaving behind at his late home a few miles Northwest of this city, a wife and family without means of support, and a number of debts.

In searching for Richter's body, it has been discovered that he sold in Summit the wagon and horse he was driving, after collecting a number of payments on insurance policies issued on the weekly installment plan by the company for which he was an agent.

MOBUS—SHARPSHEAR.

Wedding Bells in Washingtonville.

Sunday afternoon last, the marriage of Mr. Frank Mobus and Miss Ella Sharpshear, of Washingtonville, was quietly solemnized in the M. E. parsonage at Dunellen, whither the bridal couple had repaired with a few special friends. Mr. Walter Titus acted as groomsman, while Miss Lula Billyeu was bridesmaid.

A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Monday evening, at which time a number of the friends of the bride and groom called to pay their respects and bestow their best wishes. The happy occasion was enjoyed by every one present until time, all too fleeting, brought the reception to a close. If the good wishes of a host of friends can strew the path of others with good fortune and the sunshine of happiness, then Mr. and Mrs. Mobus' walk will grow brighter and brighter until lost in a full burst of lustrous felicity at a good old age.

Catholic Associations Coming to this City.

The Young Men's Catholic Association of Morristown had arranged for an annual excursion to Newton, but has concluded to visit Plainfield on or about Oct. 15, in connection with the Elizabeth Association. Associations from Paterson and Newark will probably join with them.

NO SOMERSET STREET BRIDGE YET.

The Contract Still Held Back for Divers Reasons.

Yesterday the joint committee of the Board of Freeholders of Union and Somerset counties, met in Plainfield to open the proposals advertised for and to give out the contract to construct a truss or girder bridge at Somerset street over Green Brook. But after three hours' consideration and discussion of the many bids received, the meeting adjourned without result.

Somerset's Board had passed a resolution to build a truss bridge, while Union's Board was in favor of a girder bridge. The former was the cheaper, but the latter's difference in cost of about $1,200 would be saved in a few years because there would be no planked roadway to frequently repair. Then, besides, the girder bridge was the most preferable in every way, and the city's representatives were in favor of the best for the locality, while the Borough's representatives wanted to save money by putting up the more unsightly structure.

There were all kinds of bids in all kinds of ways. The Berlin Bridge Company offered to build a girder bridge of iron, with brick arches filled in with concrete and a macadam roadway, complete for $3,900. The New Jersey Steel and Iron Company's bid was $2,150 for just the iron work of a girder bridge without side railings. This was fifty dollars less than the bid of Dean & Westbrook for the same work, but the latter's bid was twenty-five dollars less than the N. J. Steel and Iron company proposal, including the railings.

There was only one way to settle this difficulty. These two firms alone were instructed to present new bids for the entire work of construction of the bridge itself, including building and filling in the arches, and laying macadamized roadway. Meanwhile the Somerset county members will try and persuade their Board to pay its share of a girder bridge.

POOR WILLIE HAMILTON.

Crippled for Life, With Nothing to Amuse Him During the Many Hours He is Left Alone.

About two years ago, little Willie Hamilton, living near Union Village, a few miles from this city, while playing in a spring wagon with his younger sister, lost his balance and fell to the ground, striking on his back. His father being compelled to leave his home very early in the morning in order to be at his work at the paper mills, three miles away, and his mother having died before the accident, no one knew of the accident and Willie did not say anything about it.

The Sunday following, his father noticed that Willie was not so lively as usual, and asked the cause. Although loth to tell—for Willie promised his little sister not to, as they were fordidden to go on the wagon to play—he confessed how he had fallen off the wagon. Surgical aid was then summoned, but of no avail.

Spinal disease set in, and little Willie has not been able to walk since. His father is away all day at work at present on the railroad; his little sister goes to school; and his older sister, who keeps ho use, must needs go to the village store frequently for necessaries. So little Willie, while bravely trying to be patient, is often left alone with nothing to amuse him, or to while away the tedious hours.

You little folks of Plainfield living in kind Christian homes, have you not some little toy you can spare for little Willie? The editor of THE PRESS will receive and forward any favors you may contribute.

HOME AGAIN.

Miss Fliege Reaches Prussia and Expresses Her Deep Gratitude to Those Who Assisted Her Here.

A letter was received yesterday by Mrs. M. W. Leonard from Miss Lina Fliege, who reached Prussia in safety, enclosing a card of thanks to the people of this place who befriended her when she was here in a destitute condition a few weeks ago. Mrs. Leonard has furnished THE PRESS with the following translation of Miss Fliege's card:

"Now that I am happily returned to my native country, I take occasion to express again my profoundest feelings of gratitude to the generous, philanthropic people of Plainfield and North Plainfield who helped me out of my great exigency by so large a money donation. To their magnanimity I owe it that I have not only returned home reconciled to the terrible fate which befell me in America, but also that I am enabled to go forth courageously to meet the future which is insured for some time against destitution. The Lord our God, who has promised not to have him unrewarded who gives the cup of cold water to the thirsty one in His name, bless the good done me to all the givers with earthly and heavenly blessing, according to the richness of His grace.

LINA FLIEGE.

Spandau, Sept. 9, 1889.

Dropped Its Pilot.

(From the Elizabeth Herald.)

This morning, as a locomotive of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad was passing the Union depot, on the Central side, it dropped its pilot and tore up a large portion of the platform before the engineer could succeed in bringing it to a standstill. Many who witnessed the occurrence expected to see the engine leave the track.

"MAC'S" NEWSPAPER.

"Rock" Its Name, but Rocket Would Have Been More Appropriate.

The New York World of last Sunday said truly that the old inhabitants in the little village of Dunellen, on the line of the Jersey Central Railroad, will have some lively incidents to recall when the 10th of November comes around. In the Summer of 1877 among the boarders in the village was a Mrs. McGeachy, from Philadelphia, and her son, who liked best to be called "Mac." "Mac" was a newspaper man whose journalistic instincts were irrepressible. He had founded and wrecked a daily newspaper in Danbury, Conn. Another brilliant venture in the Quaker City he brought to the same end.

He was aged thirty by this time and appeared before the villagers as a result of his enterprise, with a look of untold suffering from dyspepsia, a weak chest and the top of his head as shiny and expansive as his boots. The boots were very large and much walking had turned up the toes like the shoes in the queer pictures of Chinese mandarins. His fiercely trained Napoleonic mustache did not invite acquaintance, but it was not long before "Mac" had sized up the village and destroyed his mother's hope for a quiet and peaceful old age by founding another newspaper. On the 10th of November appeared the first number of the Dunellen Rock "C. E. A. McGeachy, 'Mac,' Editor and Proprietor. Price $2 per annum. 5 cents a copy; no pay, no paper."

A little shanty, still standing on Prospect avenue, by the railroad, was the editorial office and composing room of the Rock. The aims of the paper were much larger than the shanty. Dunellen, in fact, could not contain the ambitions of its editor and "Mac" spread himself out and determined to make the Rock the official newspaper of Somerville, Bound Brook, Plainfield and a dozen other towns on the lines of the Central and Pennsylvania railroads. It took eight pages, twenty-four columns of advertisements and local news, to satisfy "Mac" on this score, and twenty-four columns more of stories and poems were added for the delectation of the country bumpkins. A big blot three inches deep across the first page, under the heading, was supposed to be an accurate engraving of the village of Dunellen. Those were the days when photo-engraving was in its infancy, but "Mac" prided himself on the artistic taste of his headline. A description of the village was under the headline. Of course "the publication office of the Rock is within sight down the main street in view; the editor has just stepped out, which accounts for his absence."

Half of Dunellen village wanted to edit the Rock. The town magnates would saunter into the shanty in a leisurely way, inspect the copy and proofs on the hooks, bother the printers and pour their suggestions into "Mac's" unwilling ears. Finally they were got rid of by putting some copy on the hooks which made them turn red in the face and leave the shanty with injured looks. Another inconvenience was to have a fire break out in the editorial den and burn up half the copy for the week's issue.

It was the news columns and editorial policy of the Rock which will make McGeachy remembered in New Jersey journalism. "Write funny" was the standing rule of the office. Later another rule was added: "Sting somebody every time you get a chance." Truth was thrown out of the window, and sensation and humorous extravagance had full play. When nobody else was handy "Mac" stung himself and his reporters to make his columns lively. The wildest statements were permitted in the chronicling of local happenings, provided they were funny.

This is how local events were chronicled:

Col. Sam Van Arsdale has amassed wealth enough to add a pleasing two-story wing to his dwelling.

We hear of a very happy engagement quite a distance around the corner, after a brief Græco-Roman tussle about it. Particulars on receipt of a postal card to either dove.

Dr. Endicott's little mare can now make her mile in four seconds better time. She has been clipped by Prof. Cumback and consequently can cut the air with less friction.

Hell hath no fury like a woman left behind by the Central Railroad. It was the 2:45 P. M. train Monday. Station Agent Carpenter remembers her impassioned observations distinctly.

Hon. A. L. Force, of the Constitutionalist, visited the Rock office Wednesday. Nothing has been missed from the office since he left except our spectacles.

On Tuesday evening Gen. Sniderwind fell through his pantaloons in an attempt to enter good Jack Coleman's hack at the depot without customary assistance. Jack looks away to the East in shame when the episode recurs to him.

The voracity with which a newly engaged pair kissed each other adieu at the depot last Wednesday morning was enough to cause the unseen stars to peer forth through the blazing sunlight and scream "Scat!"

Hundreds were turned away from the doors of the Green Brook school house Wednesday evening, assembled to hear P. S. Bergen's silver-tongued "Welcome to Spring." Over $1,500 was taken in at the door.

Theatrical circles in Roselle are stirred tumultuously over the disappearance of Will Sultzer, of the Dramatic Club. The cruel rumor that a servant girl is also missing is unfounded, for our reporter has counted all the servant girls in town and finds that the total foots up correctly.

The Rock's circulation took a sudden rise when a new department appeared on the first page under the head of "Rock Candy." These are some of the items:

Plainfield.—It is a boy, and when he gets married his wife will order the bills to be sent to F. T. Marsh.

Dunellen.—Paul Kratzel, our enterprising shoemaker, has the youngest customer in town, one, too, who will patronize him exclusively for years to come, we hope. She began her account Tuesday morning.

Somerville.—One swallow does not make a Summer, but one little Robbin has made Spring weather for East Somerville. Isn't so very little, either; 11½ avoirdupois gross.

Dunellen.—Mr. Carter will take $20 for it, regardless of what veal may be worth for the next thirty days. There isn't a pr[illegible]ler calf on Prospect avenue. It is just a wee[illegible]ld today.

About this time, when [illegible]e circulation of his eccentric paper had reached 2,000 copies a week. "Mac" began to reap his harvest of libel suits. One day the editorials were full of magnificent promises of a future brilliant and kaleidoscopic journal, and the Rock disappeared. McGeachy disappeared also, leaving a tender remembrance in the shape of an unpaid bill in the hands of his head reporter. The last that Dunellen ever heard of the man who had jogged it for a year out of its usual sleepy existence was that he had married an actress, who knew how old he was and with her was managing a traveling theatrical company.

BUILDING LOANS.

Statistics Showing How the Series of Stock Run Out.

James Bishop, the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries of New Jersey, devotes a considerable part of his report for 1888—just issued—to the building and loan associations of the State. In the way of statistics he says:

Our tables show that for 208 of the 210 associations in existence in the State on August 1, 1888, the total assets, averaging $70,862 to an association, or about $280 to a shareholder, amounted to $14,739,278, of which $2,569,853 was the net profit earned on the instalment investments. An annual income of $4,000,000 is evidenced by the aggregate number of outstanding shares, 339,385½ held by not less than 55,600 shareholders, or an average of 6.1 shares to a shareholder. Included among the shareholders were 123 associations or lodges. It is estimated that 75 per cent. of the shareholders are men, 20 per cent. women, and five per cent. minors, whose stock is held in the name of guardians or trustees. The rough estimates respecting about one-third of the number leads to the conclusion that nearly two-thirds (65 per cent.) of the shareholders must be wage-workers, the balance working for salary or being in business for themselves.

So far as the borrowing members are concerned, of whom, according to our returns, there were 9,985, or a ratio for the State of 1 to every 4.7 shareholders— a ratio which ranges from 1 to 11.1 in Bergen, to 1 to 2 in Warren county. Basing the calculations on the reports respecting about two-thirds of the total number, it seems that 80 per cent. of these borrowers are males and little over 50 per cent. wage-workers. From our returns it appears that out of 35,711 shareholders, 5,304 were paying for homes through the associations, or 1 in 6.7, which would give about 7,600 in the State—that is, 76 per cent. of the borrowers. Altogether, $14,052,853 were invested on bond and mortgage. That would be $1,400 as the amount of the average real estate loan, if loans were made to members only, which is not the case. But outside borrowers are rare, as are also any other kinds of investments except those in real estate, on mortgage and stock.

Some interesting statements in regard to the time taken to mature shares are given. In four associations, when only one series thus far has been closed up at maturity, the time taken has been:

Rutherford..............in 120 months.
Lambertville............in 141 months.
Manasquan...............in 126 months.
Phillipsburg, "No. 4"......in 126 months.

The Secretary of the Trenton "Mercer," which has been in existence since 1854, writes that the shortest time taken to close up a "class" was 128 months—some years ago, when premiums were high—but that 153 months had been required for the latest; during 1888 no premiums were obtained, all moneys having been sold at par.

Free and Accepted Masons.

There are ambitious men in all Orders, and Masonry of course has its share of those who desire to form a branch which will be exclusive, and only the select few will be admitted to the Society. The resuscitation of the corpse, the Sovereign Chapter of Rose Croix of Heredom, is an instance of this. This ornamental institution surrendered the ghost almost a century ago. It was exhumed and given new life by a few last week, and to convey the impression it is absolutely new it was given a new name. It has been christened the Provincial Grand Lodge of the Royal Order of Scotland for the United States.

These efforts of a few to establish a little circle of their own do not disturb the rank and file of this great Order. When a man takes his M. M. degree in the subordinate lodge he is as far advanced as is actually necessary. He gets just as much recognition as the man who has taken all the degrees in the numerous gilt edged, but useless branches. A third degree man is as much a Mason as one who has reached a place in the thirty-third degree lodge, whose membership is limited, and death alone makes a vacancy.

The æsthetic gentlemen can go on with their organization of French, Scottish and other degrees. It does not in the slightest affect the standing of the Order, and unfortunately gives room for criticism and an impression to strangers that the superb institution is engaged in a bitter quarrel, when as a matter of fact the trouble is between a few and is of no moment, so far as the full fledged Master Mason is concerned.—Jersey City News.

MILITARY INSTRUCTION.

The War Department Details an Officer to Yale University.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—The War Department has detailed Lieutenant Charles A. L. Totten, 4th Artillery, to report at Yale University, where he will be stationed for the next three years to instruct the students in the scientific department in military engineering.

In speaking of this new departure one of the scientific professors said that the scope of the course would depend entirely upon the students themselves. It was not intended to develop a full-fledged military school with the incidental routine drills, etc., but the Lieutenant would instruct in drilling if desired. It was thought desirable to have a thorough course on military tactics, and the matter was laid before the officials at Washington with the above result.

The faculty feel greatly elated over the matter, as in previous years Yale has been able to secure Lieut. Totten's services only for occasional lectures.

SENSATION IN COURT.

A Penknife and a Human Skull Play a Part in a Murder Trial.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 25.—In the trial of W. J. Souder for the murder of John Galvin, by striking Galvin on the head with a penknife, Dr. J. S. Carter testified that such a wound as it is claimed caused Galvin's death could not be inflicted with a knife in the hands of an ordinarily strong man.

The doctor was handed a penknife and a skull and invited to illustrate the truth of his testimony. He struck several blows, one of which penetrated the skull, causing much the same kind of wound as the State claims was inflicted upon Galvin. This practical contradiction by the witness of his own testimony caused quite a sensation.

The claim of the defense is that death resulted from injuries inflicted during the operation of trephining the skull. The trial is still on.

ROBBING A REFORMATORY.

Wholesale Stealing by Employes of a New Hampshire Institution.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Fred P. Orcutt, William G. Russell and William E. Dunham, employes of the Concord Reformatory, have been arrested, charged with stealing 250 pounds of thread valued at $225 from that institution. The thread was found at pawnbrokers.

It is said that the investigations of the police have disclosed the fact that in various pawnshops here articles of considerable value belonging to the State are frequently sold by prison officials as rags.

In one place 300 new vests were found in a bale of refuse materials; in another 100 pairs of unworn trousers were sold as rags, and in others hundreds of dollars worth of small tailors goods have been disposed of at low prices.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

BOULANGER'S HOPES

He Predicts Dire Results for the French Republic.

HIS ELECTION TO BE ANNULLED.

The Republican Vote Next Sunday to be Concentrated on One Man.

Comments of the French Journals—The Boulangist Papers Express Disappointment at the Result of the Elections and Have Little Hope in a Second Ballot—Republican Papers Jubilant, but Regret the Defeat of Ferry.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—All the Ministers have returned to this city. President Carnot holds a Cabinet council at the Elysee to-day. The Chamber will be summoned to meet in November.

It is now estimated that the body will contain 300 moderate Republicans and 65 members of the Left. H. Herve has gone to Richmond to confer with the Comte de Paris on the situation, and MM. Laguerre and Naquet have gone to London to meet Gen. Boulanger. The Chamber is certain to annul the elections of Boulanger and Dillon.

In order to assure success in the reballots, Republicans having a minority in last Sunday's election will retire from candidacy in favor of Republicans polling more votes.

The French Republican journals are jubilant over the result of Sunday's elections for Members of the Chamber of Deputies, and say that the second ballots will only add to the success of the Republicans. They regret the defeat of M. Jules Ferry, and express the hope that his absence from the Chamber will be only temporary.

The "Republique Francaise" says: "The country has elected a Government majority, and has shown that it is tired of the former divisions and desires that the Chamber should attend to the national interests to the exclusion of problems causing dissensions."

The "Journal des Debats" has no great confidence in the wisdom of the new majority.

The Monarchical and Boulangerist journals express disappointment at the result of the elections and say that they hope that the second ballots will strengthen the position of the Opposition.

Stole Votes Like Ravens.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—General Boulanger bears up with remarkable serenity under the disappointment of his hopes for the result of Sunday's elections. He is still hopeful, despite the large majority against him in the Chamber, and declares that he has not lost faith in the future. The Government everywhere stole votes like ravens, he asserts, and their majority is thus easily accounted for. He predicts that the majority will prove unmanageable and that France will soon be calling for Boulanger.

1,000 Congratulatory Telegrams.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Prince Bismarck received over 1,000 telegrams of congratulation on the occasion of the twenty-seventh anniversary of his appointment as President of the Prussian Cabinet. The streets of Friedrichsruhe were decked with bunting in honor of the occasion. At night there were illuminations and the town was generally en fete.

How the Italian Press View It.

ROME, Sept. 25.—The "Popolo Romano" says: "The elections in France have saved the Republican constitution, but not the Cabinet. The elections show that France desires peace." The "Capitan Fracassa" and the "Messaggero" say the Republic has defeated Boulanger and Boulangerism.

Emperor William's Way to Prevent War.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Emperor William, in his address to the attaches of Foreign Legations, at the close of the military manœuvres in Hanover, said he saw that the best guarantee of peace in Europe was the strength of the German army, a portion of which he had shown them in splendid condition.

London's Missing Clergyman.

LONDON, Sept 25.—The "Star" asserts that the Rev. Mr. Barfield, of Walsall, who has been missing for some time, and who it was feared by his friends had been assassinated in Ireland, sailed for Montreal on Aug. 29 on the steamer Sardinian, under the name of Wilson.

Coming from Rome.

ROME, Sept. 25.—President Samolli, of the Ecclesiastical Academy, is going to Washington to assist at the inauguration of the New Catholic University in that city. He will also be present at the consecration of the bishops of the new American sees.

Twelve Years' Penal Servitude.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The American, Bailey Allen, arrested here for a jewel robbery, has been convicted and sentenced to twelve years' penal servitude.

Stevedores Return to Work.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The stevedores at the East India Docks, who again went out on strike, have resumed work.

Sullivan on a Spree.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25.—Charlie Johnson, who was the financial backer of the proposed Sullivan benefit, which was a fizzle through the non-appearance of Sullivan, is anything but joyful to-day. He says that he is out fully $300 on the affair and that when he meets Mr. Sullivan he will tell him what he thinks. It is understood that Sullivan is on another spree.

Suffering in Williamsport, Pa.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 25.—The Mayor of Williamsport, Pa., having learned that the fund raised in Manchester for the Conemaugh sufferers had not been drawn upon, writes to Mayor Varney, appealing for a portion of the money. He says that their losses will exceed $8,000,000; that they have received but $100,000 from the $2,000,000 donated, and that there is much suffering.

Vermont's Monument at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—The Vermont Brigade Monument was completed yesterday by the placing in position on the summit of the fluted column the 12-foot bronze statue of Brig.-Gen. Stannard, the commander of the brigade whose position the memorial marks. It is the highest and most expensive monument on the battlefield.

AFTER A NEW SUSPECT.

A Mysterious Philadelphian Wanted in the Cronin Case.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The police are after a new suspect in the Cronin case. He is a Philadelphian who came to Chicago early in February and left on the day following Dr. Cronin's disappearance. His aliases, for his real name is not given, are William Bergen and William Nolan. He is said to have taken the leading part in the great crime and was chosen confidant of one of the arch conspirators.

"We are collecting evidence against the man daily," said a prominent Irishman, "and expect to have enough to convict not only Nolan but the great head of the conspiracy. Nolan is not his name; it is an alias. We know his real name, but for reasons which you will readily understand it is best not to divulge it at present. He is well known in Irish circles, and has done much dirty work for certain parties who not long ago were high in the Councils of the Clan-na-Gael and the League. We know that money in large amounts was given that man; part of this we have already traced."

AN HEIR FOR HAMILTON.

A Little Stranger May Make Its Appearance at Trenton Prison.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept. 25.—A new and surprising turn may take place soon in the much-complicated affairs of Robert Ray Hamilton and his wife, Eva.

If certain persons have not been misinformed Mrs. Hamilton acted in haste when she bought a baby to force upon Robert Ray Hamilton as her own offspring.

It would seem from a story now told here that if Mrs. Hamilton had but waited a sufficient length of time there would have been no need to go outside of the family for an heir to the Hamilton money.

It is stated by those who have been in communication with Mrs. Hamilton that her time will be taken up now with the making of small frocks, and that Mr. Robert Ray Hamilton will soon find that he is a father after all. The little stranger may make its appearance in the prison at Trenton, and as lawful issue of Mr. Robert Ray Hamilton may play a conspicuous part in possible estate litigation.

To Remove Sing Sing Prison.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Governor Hill has appointed Charles M. Preston, of Kingston; John V. Cockroft, of Sing Sing; Albert C. Sennant, of Cooperstown; Frank W. Downes, of Binghamton, and Charles C. Kromer, as commissioners under Chapter 447 of the laws of 1887 to consider the subject of the removal of Sing Sing prison and, if deemed advisable, then to select a new site therefor and to report thereon to the next Legislature.

Embezzler Seybold Didn't Respond.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 25.—In the Circuit Court yesterday when the name of Henry Seybold, the clerk who embezzled $30,000 from the Bank of Wheeling, was called, there was no response. The Sheriff was ordered to take all possible steps to rearrest Seybold and the prosecuting attorney to proceed against Seybold' father who is on his bond for $4,000. Seybold is said to be in Canada.

Reformed Church Home Missions.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 25.—The tri-Synodic Board of Home Missions of the Reformed Church, representing the States of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, began its annual session here yesterday afternoon. The report of the Superintendent showed sixty missions in different parts of the country now under the support of the Board.

The Richest Thief in America Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—George W. Henn, alias Dutch Alonzo, alias Henry Marton, alias Morton Lownes, who is known all over Europe and this country as an accomplished crook, and who is said to be the richest thief in America, was arrested in this city on a charge of picking pockets at the Merchantville race track.

Fair Buildings Burned.

NEWPORT, Pa., Sept. 25.—The stables and fences of the Perry County Fair were burned last night, and two fine horses—Generl Pulaski, valued at $4,000, and General Schuyler, valued at $2,800—perished. The damage will probably be repaired so that the fair can continue until Saturday.

Serious Football Practice at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—During football practice yesterday on the Yale field, Gibbs, '93, was tackled pretty sharply and thrown to the ground. Several other players fell on top of him in such a manner as to break one of his legs.

Ex-Surgeon General Beale Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 25.—Ex-Surgeon General Joseph Beale, of the United States Navy, is dead, aged 75 years. He entered the navy as an assistant surgeon in 1837. He was made surgeon general of the navy in 1873, and placed on the retired list in 1876.

Confessed to Murdering the Child.

CANAAN, N. H., Sept. 25.—Alice Bolton, who with her adopted father, Sylvanus W. Hill, is under arrest for infanticide, confessed her guilt yesterday and guided the officers to the spot where the child was murdered and buried.

National Council O. U. A. M.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 25.—The forty-third annual session of the National Council O. U. A. M. was held here yesterday, National Commander Wm. O. Staples presiding. The membership is 29,099, and $109,143 has been paid in benefits during the year.

A Negro Pugilist Killed.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 25.—Ernest Willingham, the negro pugilist, was killed by a blow from the fist of Tom Branch last night. The men were sparring when Branch knocked Willingham out, breaking his neck.

King Convicted of Manslaughter.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Martin King, on trial for kicking and beating his wife to death at his home in Hazleton two months ago, was convicted of manslaughter.

Examination of Cadets.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Tracy has ordered that the examination of the late September cadets at the Naval Academy be postponed until the 30th inst.

FASHIONABLE FISHER MAIDS

How New York Girls Go Crabbing in the September Days.

When the Men Go Back to Town Then the Maids Have a Good Time—Picturesque Frolics in the Creeks and Inlets of Long Island Sound.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

OVER hill and dale is heard the merry crack of the huntsman's gun, and September, ushering in some of the manlier sports of the year, brings also to the girls a farewell season of fun and frolic which they heartily enjoy before deserting the seashore for the city. When lawn tennis and croquet grounds are neglected, and mountain hotels and boarding houses are desolate, the remnant of fashionable femininity which still clings to the mild seashore relaxes the strings of propriety to some extent and has a good time, regardless of Mrs. Grundy. It is only fair to say that they are ably abetted by the rear-guard of the sterner sex, which, knowing the true charms of September, delays its return to town accordingly.

Too cool for bathing, the water is delightful for fishing, and the innumerable little inlets and shallows at Bar Harbor, Atlantic City, and along the Long Island coast, offer unbounded facilities in this respect. Bevies of pretty girls are to be seen in all sorts of picturesque costumes, boating, fishing and crabbing in the placid waters and among the creeks of Sheepshead and Jamaica Bays. Occasionally an eel or a sea-bass falls to their lines, and then there is a paean of jubilation from the lucky anglers.

"Most everybody's gone home and now we can go fishing," said one breeze-tossed Miss to another, as they stood upon the board walk of a fashionable Long Island hotel yesterday. "I know a nice young man we can get to take us out in his centre-board, and we can sail up and down the inlet or go out to the bay and have lots of fun."

Ten minutes later, the pretty plotter had the young man in tow. He was a slender sort of aquamarine automaton, and talked yacht between the puffs of his cigar as if he were a born sailor instead of a young attorney on vacation. Within an hour, the centre-boarder was heaving and dipping in the swell of the bay, and the girls were getting well browned in the September sun and wind, as they stood, with hands stoutly gloved and hats pulled over their fresh young faces, holding the lines on either side of the boat, which was anchored in fifteen feet of water.

I heard later that they had capital luck, and returned with a mess fit to cook for breakfast for a small party. It is amusing to listen to girls when they begin to tell fish stories. There is nothing in the male vocabulary to compare with it for pure extravagance.

But the real fun is reserved for the crabbing parties. Have you ever crabbed? Well, if not, you have missed one of the most exquisite pleasures of the seashore in September. First of all, the girls divide themselves into two sections; one to get the nets and the bait, the other to provide the lunch. The latter is usually quite a substantial affair and fills a good-sized hamper, which is stowed away in the bottom of the boat. The bait may be clams or small crabs, made into a fine mess, and it is to be "chummed" or cast into the water by handsful. Tight-fitting dresses are the rule. In a crabbing expedition of this sort men are usually tabooed, although, occasionally, under pressure, one may be tolerated, provided he promises to behave himself and stay in the boat and smoke, while the girls are wading up to their knees.

They were a merry party of five girls and, "for protection," the brother of one of the quintette was taken along. He was a capital sailor, and as they didn't want to blister their hands and intended to reserve their efforts for game, the girls consented to take him as ballast. Half an hour's easy sailing brought them to a spot where one of the girls declared there were "millions of shedders," for she had seen someone catching them there a week before.

Then began the preparations for action. The big brother barricaded himself, like a good-natured fellow, behind the hamper, with his cigar and newspaper. One by one the girls slipped overboard into the shallow where their white feet gleamed like satin on the surface of the hard, white sand. A shriek accompanied the dipping of each foot in the eighteen inches of water, for it hardly came up to the knee and did not even kiss the hem of the kilted gowns. Bait was thrown about promiscuously, and then nets came into play. A sudden swoop by one of the girls, and a cry of delight announced the first capture of the day.

"Oh, I've got a beauty," cried the lucky finder, as she swung her net around to the imminent danger of the others who all flocked about her. "Take care, girls; he'll bite you."

"Ouch!" shrieked the four in chorus.

There was a loud shriek from the youngest of the party at this moment and she stumbled and would have fallen had not another girl caught her by the waist just in time.

"Oh! something's bit me. I'm going in the boat. Oh, take me out!"

Tom peeped up from behind his barricade.

"What's the row?" he asked.

"It's a king-crab," said the rescuer, "and it has stuck in her foot. Maybe she had better get in."

The wounded, but not seriously hurt, fisher maiden, with the assistance of Tom's stout arm, got back into the boat and, after a brief examination, concluded she wasn't fatally injured. But she put on her shoes and stockings, nevertheless, and wanted no more wading.

PLUCKY AND PRETTY.

Meanwhile the others were having encouraging luck. Near a clump of sedges, they found the soft crabs in abundance, and soon the little baskets were well filled. One cut sea grass to cover them up and keep them fresh and alive, "for," said the cruel creature, "they must live till they're cooked, you know, else they wouldn't taste half so nice."

"Don't you wish you had stayed in the water?" asked the young man of the little Miss of the king crab incident.

"Well," she responded somewhat sadly, "I do hate to go back without having taken a single crab, and all the others have so many, too."

"I'll tell you what," suggested Tom, "I'll get out and trap a few for you, and you can claim their ownership, you know."

"Oh, no; thanks. I do wish I had some, though. But I can't take off my shoes again. It serves me right for not having wading shoes, like the other girls."

Somehow a compromise must have been effected, for shortly afterward the others were surprised to see Tom step overboard and, carrying the young lady clear of the water, wade right into the centre of the group of fisher maidens. With his assistance she soon made a number of clever captures and had a fair share to her credit. She wielded the net so skilfully that her basket was quickly filled.

"Oh, what a monster," exclaimed the others, as she held up the net containing a squirming wriggling crab.

The return home was a merry one, the lighthearted girls trolling out of song, while Tom smoked contentedly in the sheets. They forgave him for deserting his post long before the boat had tied up at the hotel wharf.

Crab-catching at night is a romantic affair, especially when it is followed by moonlight, with pretty girls handling the nets. Flatbottomed boats are used, and while one handles the oars, two or more girls ply the nets from bow to stearn, on either side. Lanters are hung out at each end of the boat, and to these the hard and soft crabs rise, attracted by the light. They are dazzled and incapable of seeing the net in the hands of the fisher, and in a twinkling they are scooped up and landed in the bottom of the boat. Among the guests at many of the hotels on the Long Island coast, crab-fishing is a favorite pastime and some of the ladies are so skilful that in an hour of two's netting they can supply enough delicious shedders to serve breakfast for the guests. But it is only in September that they exhibit their prowess; for, with all her jollity and "camaraderie," the American girl has a horror of offending the proprieties, and is sensitive of being criticised as a "Tomboy," while playing the role of a fascinating fishermaiden, although next probably to ice cream, caramels and flirtation, there is nothing so dear to her heart as the shedders, cooked alive and redolent with the fragrance of the sea.

G. H. SANDISON.

The Wealth of Alaska.

The country is rich in minerals of various kinds, and a great deal of money will be taken out of it during the next decade by capitalists who are plucky enough to invest while the tide is running. The timber possibilities are also very promising. There is an abundance of spruce and cedar, both varieties attaining enormous size and important lumber value. In the matter of timber, Alaska does not differ materially from Washington Territory. The salmon fisheries are also very noticeable commerical factors, and operated, as they usually are, in cunjunction with canning factories, they must naturally yield large profits to investors. American capital can, it is thought, be safely invested in Alaska with reasonable certainty of profitable returns.

Edgar Saltus doesn't believe in the Bible, it is said. This information is unnecessary, for his books give evidence that he only believes in my Saltus. It is true, nevertheless, that a good deal more Bible and a good deal less Saltus would improve greatly the litetary pabulum that he provides for his readers.

3,500 DROWNED.

The New Directory of Johnstown Gives a Close Estimate of the Lives Lost.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 25.—The new directory of Johnstown has just been published by C. B. Clarke, of Altoona.

At the time of the flood, the whole edition, which was in a bookbindery here, was lost. From the proof sheets, however, the names were obtained and are now printed as they were before the flood, as well as a special record of those that were lost.

The number of drowned is put at 3,500, and that is considered a close estimate, it being impossible to obtain the exact figures. One of the things noted is that of the ninety-five saloons and liquor dealers in the flooded district, all but six were completely wiped out, and in those remaining the stock was destroyed, so that there was in fact total destruction by water.

The body of another child was taken out yesterday, but it was in a horrible condition, only the bones being found.

One of the temporary bridges gave way again yesterday, and it is feared that something may have to be done yet before permanent structures are erected, although steps are being taken to build several solid bridges soon.

Aeronaut Walrath Reported Drowned.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—It is reported that Prof. Walrath, of Ilion, who made a balloon ascension and parachute jump at Cooperstown yesterday afternoon came down into Otsego Lake and was drowned. A message from Cooperstown states that nothing has been heard from the aeronaut. It is claimed that the parachute did not work right.

To Travel by Themselves.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25.—A strong move is on foot in Arkansas just now looking toward the passage of a State law requiring railroads to provide separate coaches for colored passengers. The matter is being earnestly discussed, both by the people and press of the State, and is said to be meeting with universal favor. It is even claimed that the better class of blacks indorse the plan.

Champion Banana Eater.

Bangor, Me., boasts of the champion banana eater. The other night he ate twenty-six before supper, and then he ate his supper. But hold on! he was not done then. Very soon afterwards he was in one of the stores and started to bring the number of bananas up to fifty on a wager. He ate twelve more and then gave it up, fearing, he said, that it might make him sick if he ate too many of them. Such a prudent man will doubtless live to a green old age.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

The President to Return from Deer Park To-Morrow

TO CONFER WITH HIS CABINET.

Major Warner Formally Declines the Pension Commissionership.

The President May Make Another Selection Immediately—Vice-President Morton Inspects His Handsome Residence. Programme of the Coming American Congress—The Delegates to Visit New England and the West.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Word was received at the White House to-day that the President would return from Deer Park to-morrow, so that he may confer with the Cabinet on important matters and get in a day's work.

It is desirable that business be not allowed to accumulate, as the President will need all the time he can get to attend to the preparation of his annual message to Congress, the general features of which have been outlined at Deer Park.

Vice-President and Mrs. Morton have come to Washington to inspect their handsome private residence, which has just been finished, and to make some arrangements for the winter.

The Coming American Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The State Department has made public the itinerary of the tour of the delegates to the International American Congress which meets in Washington next week.

The delegates will leave Washington on Thursday morning of next week, going to West Point, where they will witness the unveiling of portraits of Generals Grant, Sherman and Sheridan by General Horace Porter on behalf of G. W. Childs. From West Point they will go to New York on the U. S. S. Yorktown and then by Fall River Line to Boston.

Among the features of the programme are visits to the large manufacturing establishments of New England and the West, receptions, banquets and other entertainments by State and municipal authorities, and an inspection of Harvard, Yale, the Michigan University, the University of Notre Dame and other collegiate institutes.

Governors Bulkeley, of Connecticut, Hill, of New York, and Francis, of Missouri, and the Mayors of Boston, St. Louis, Buffalo, Grand Rapids, Springfield, Mass., and other cities have already made preparations for public receptions. The party will go as far West as Omaha. No more than two days will be spent in any one city, except where Sunday intervenes. The delegates will return to Washington November 12.

Pension Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Major Warner having formally declined to accept the office of Pension Commissioner, it is possible that President Harrison may make another selection while at Deer Park, but if he does the announcement will probably not be made public until after his return here.

New York Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The following are the latest fourth-class postmasters appointed in New York State: John B. Warner, Baiting Hollow; A. T. Downing, Beekmantown; R. W. Matteson, Caledonia; H. J. Dudley, East Constable; Jas. Schutt, Forest.

THEY LOSE THE PURSE.

The Warren-Murphy Fight Ends in a Somewhat Unusual Manner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—The Warren-Murphy fight ended in a somewhat unsual manner. In the thirtieth round, Warren had the Englishman hugging him helplessly, but a call of time saved him. In the succeeding rounds Murphy freshened up, and for thirty-eight rounds the men continued a dull and uninteresting contest, exchanging but few blows.

Murphy four times tried a pivotal blow to knock Warren out, but failed. From the fifty-eighth to the sixty-eighth round not a blow was struck. The men were in good condition, and Referee Cook left the stage, declaring that the club washed its hands of the whole affair.

President Fulda stopped the speeches of the two principals, and ordered the stage cleared, as the referee had declared the match unsatisfactory, the men having failed to comply with their articles of agreement. The club directors will probably refuse to award the men any part of the purse.

TO DIE ON THE SCAFFOLD.

A Fifteen-Year-Old Boy to Suffer the Death Penalty To-Morrow.

PETERSBURG, Va., Sept. 26.—Simon F. Walker, colored, aged 15 years, is to be hanged at Chesterfield Court House to-morrow for committing a criminal assault on a little girl named Mary Ann Quill, aged 10 years. It is rumored that the friends of Walker will attempt to take him from the sheriff on the day of the execution and the Judge of the county has ordered the sheriff to have a large posse of armed men on hand to quell any disturbance that may occur.

An Old Whaling Captain Dead.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 26.—Capt. Geo. F. Bauldry, the well-known Arctic whaleman, died at Monument yesterday aged 64. He was one of the most successful whaling captains in Northern waters. In the last five seasons he took 124 whales. His last voyage was in the steamer Orea, of San Francisco, in 1888.

The Reading Reunion.

READING, Pa., Sept. 26.—The reunion of soldiers and sailors occurs in this city on Saturday, and an elaborate programme of events is in preparation. The capital of Berks is expected to outdo herself on this occasion.

GONE UP THE SPOUT.

Buffalo Capitalists Sink $2,000,000 in a Mining Scheme.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 26.—One of the largest financial enterprises in which Buffalo speculators ever engaged has practically collapsed, and the net loss is $2,000,000. The enterprise was the Big Bend Tunnel and Mining Company, with the principal office in this city and a branch at Big Bend, Butte county, Cal. The field of operations is at the latter place.

The capital stock of the company is $20,000,000, of which $2,000,000 has been paid in and sunk almost beyond redemption. The president of the company is Hon. Ray V. Pierce, ex-Congressman, and proprietor of the World's Dispensary, of this city. Dr. Pierce is the head of the enterprise, and owns sixty to seventy per cent. of the stock.

The Feather River, in Butte county, is rich in its deposits of gold, and the north fork of the river, called Big Bend, was considered particularly rich. Five years ago Dr. Pierce's attention was called to these deposits, and he organized the Big Bend Tunnel and Mining Company, every shareholder in which confidently expected to become a millionaire.

The mine turned out to be a failure. The bed of the river was covered with immense bowlders, and it was a losing task to secure the gold. One gang of men would strike a rich find, but another gang would work away at the bowlders and eat up the profits of the find.

Killed While Quarrelling About Tanner.

CAIRO, Ill., Sept. 26.—At Hodges Park, in this county, yesterday, B. F. Curtis, a merchant, and John Willis, a mail-carrier, quarrelled over the removal of Commissioner Tanner from the Pension Office. Curtis struck Wallace over the head with a molasses jug, inflicting a wound from which he died a few hours later. Curtis is at large on his own recognizance.

Eastern Penitentiary for Ten Years.

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Sept. 26.—John Postley, colored, of Tredyffrin Township has been sentenced to ten years and six months in the Eastern penitentiary, for committing a felonious assault upon Clara Weber, a white woman, last winter.

Seven Years at Hard Labor.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 26.—In the Supreme Court yesterday, on a charge of sodomy, Charles C. Carter, of Petersburg, retracted his plea to nolo contendere and was sentenced to seven years in state prison with hard labor.

Philadelphia Races Postponed.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—The Grand Circuit Trotting Races have been postponed on account of rain.

FOR STATE OFFICES

Republican Conventions Make Their Nominations.

NEW YORK AND MASSACHUSETTS

The Men Who Head the Tickets and Texts of the Platforms.

Ex-Senator John J. Gilbert for Secretary of State in New York—John Q. A. Brackett for Governor of Massachusetts—Both Conventions Endorse President Harrison's Administration and the Protective Tariff—Democrats Elect Delegates.

SARATOGA, Sept. 26.—The Republican State Convention nominated the following ticket:

For Secretary of State—John T. Gilbert, of Franklin.

For State Comptroller—Martin V. Cooke, of Monroe.

For State Treasurer—Ira M. Hedges, of Rockland.

For State Engineer and Surveyor—William R. Van Rensalaer, of Seneca.

For Attorney-General—Gen. James M. Varnum, of New York.

The platform favors the protection of American industries, the extension of American trade and fostering of American shipping. The administration of President Harrison is endorsed, as is the platform of 1888. Concern and a pledge of care for the old soldiers and sailors is expressed. Recent Republican State legislation is approved and the following measures are specified: The Collateral Inheritance Bill, the Incorporation Tax Bill, the Prison Bill and the bill making employes the preferred creditors in all cases of assignment. The vetoes of Governor Hill are denounced as revolutionary and unwarranted, and these vetoes are specified: The State Enumeration bill, twice passed; the Constitutional Convention bill; the Saxton Ballot Reform bill; all Excise Reform bills, and the Vedder Tax bill to effect a saving of $5,000,000 annually to the State. Trusts are denounced and the party is pledged to excise and ballot reform, on the lines of previous Republican legislation, and especially the Vedder tax bill and the Saxton ballot bill. One plank favors the fostering of the State canal interest.

The New State Committee Meeting.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The new State Republican Committee met immediately after the adjournment of the convention and decided to convene at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, on Thursday, Oct. 3, for final organization.

Democratic Delegates.

BATH, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Hon. F. S. Wolf, H. D. Rose and W. G. Slattery have been elected delegates to the Democratic State Convention from the first district of Steuben County. Resolutions endorsing Gov. Hill were adopted.

BAY STATE NOMINEES.

John Q. A. Brackett Receives the Nomination for Governor.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—The Massachusetts Republican State Convention made the following nominations:

For Governor, J. Q. A. Brackett; for Lieut.-Gov., W. H. Halle, of Springfield; for Secretary of the Commonwealth, W. H. Pierce, of Arlington; for State Treasurer and Receiver, General George A. Marden, of Lowell; for Auditor, Charles R. Ladd, of Springfield; for Attorney-General, Andrew J. Waterman, of Pittsfield.

The only contest was on the head of the ticket. Mr. Crapo was also a candidate and pushed his opponent closely.

The platform endorses President Harrison's Administration and the Protective Tariff. It favors enforcement of the present liquor laws, with no additional legislation on the subject. Ex-Governor Robinson presided at the convention.

THE LECONEY MURDER.

No Inquest To-Day and No Further Developments in the Case.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 26.—The Leconey murder case is at a standstill. The evidence gathered by the State is locked securely in the Prosecutor's safe and in the breasts of those connected with the office.

It is now known that no inquest will be held either to-day or at any other time, but that the facts now held in the hands of the Prosecutor will be given to the Grand Jury when it convenes on Tuesday next, and will be kept from the public until the murder trial comes up in court unless the facts are given away before that time. The prosecution will use every endeavor to keep them quiet.

Joseph H. Gaskill, of Mt. Holly, who defended Barclay Peak, and who is counsel for Leconey, has ex-Judge David Pancoast as an assistant in the case and Grey & Grey will be advising counsel.

It is stated on excellent authority that the Prosecutor is afraid that the evidence against Leconey is not strong enough and that his detectives are busily engaged in adding to it. This is assigned as the cause for Lingo's detention in jail.

The Cigarmakers Elect Officers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The International Cigarmakers' Union elected the following officers: President, Adolph Strasser, of Buffalo; First Vice-President, Georgelo Perkins, of Albany; Second Vice-President, Samuel Glompers, of New York; Third Vice-President, Wm. N. Todd, of Toronto, Can.; Fourth Vice-President, Wm. H. McKinstry, of Muskegon, Mich.; Fifth Vice-President, William Newroth, of Denver, Col.; Sixth Vice-President, Emil Levy, of Evansville, Ind.; Seventh Vice-President, James B. Dougherty, of Richmond, Va.; Treasurer, Lindsay A. Bolis, of Westfield, Mass. Resolutions looking to the patronage and protection of Union labels were accepted.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The Inter-State Fair will open at Trenton, next week.

—Regular mid-week meeting will be held in Reform Hall this evening. All are there welcomed.

—The Hunterdon County Fair which has been in progress at Flemington since Tuesday, will close to-morrow.

—The choicest plum within the grasp of our constables is the appointment as Court officer to the County Court.

—It is estimated that the late rains in Hunterdon county alone damaged the peach crop to the extent of $100,000.

—Boys' Singing class will be organized at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow at 4:45 P. M. Men's class, Monday, at 9 P. M. Classes free.

—Mr. Geo. W. Force, the West Front street shoe dealer added a handsome new Marvin safe to his office furniture this morning.

—Leaves are falling from trees much earlier than usual, and the extremely wet weather during the season is thought to be accountable for it.

—Steam was turned on in the Bryant school building on Sunday last, and Janitor Hope says he will now keep the fire burning until Spring.

—The storm has proved detrimental to the success of the Flemington fair. It has been abandoned and the railroad has withdrawn the tickets on sale.

—The votes will be easy to count this Fall, as each ticket will contain only three names—the candidates for Governor, Senator and Assemblyman.

—Already the crop of buckwheat cakes is being gathered. Sausages will soon follow, the first installment being in great demand for the agricultural fairs.

—It is worth knowing that vaseline has a wonderful effect on fine leather, and it is fast taking the place of all compounds manufactured for softening the shoes.

—The Central New Jersey Railroad has on account of the bad weather, discontinued the trips of its Long Branch boats; but two trains a day are run to Seabright to accommodate the traffic.

—The people of the United States use annually about 2,000,000,000 postage stamps. For these stamps the public pays into the treasury of the Post Office Department about $40,000,000.

—At the regular weekly meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. Order of United American Mechanics, held in the S. of T. rooms, this evening, the quarterly election of officers will take place.

—A valuable dog belonging to Mr. A. G. Hooley of Central avenue and Sixth street, was taken in by the dog catcher a few days ago. The animal is still confined in the dog pound awaiting redemption.

—The "Y's" will resume their meetings Tuesday, Oct. 1. at 4 o'clock P. M. A devotional meeting will then be held at 29 East Fifth street, to which all members and others interested in the work, are most earnestly invited.

—The ways of a Board of Freeholders are not strewn with violets, judging from the growls from Plainfield, from Bound Brook and elsewhere, because they don't build bridges fast enough and because they build them too fast.

—Today was the day set for the Washington "Giants" to play the Plainfield "Stars," for the colored base ball championship of the State. But the former club wires the latter, "It is raining in Washington and we can't make connections."

—"Blocks of Five, or the Administration Puzzle," is the title of a puzzle out, for which the New York World offers a case prize of $100 for the first correct solution. The new puzzle which bids fair to outrival "pigs in the clover," can be had at Mr. Joseph M. Harper's stationery store, No. 28 North avenue, for ten cents each.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Chief Elmer H. Hann of the Flemington Fire Department, is visiting among friends in this city.

Miss Emma J. Philpitt of Brooklyn, is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. James Philpitt of West Second street.

Mrs. E. Smith returned to her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., today, after a pleasant visit with her son, Mr. R. B. Smith of Somerset street, North Plainfield.

PLAINFIELD CRESCENT LEAGUE.

A Board of Trustees Elected—Work on the Club House Commenced—The Bowling Team Selected.

By a unanimous vote of the Plainfield Bowling Club present at a meeting of last evening, the name of the organization was changed to the Plainfield Crescent League, and Counsellors John Ulrich and Charles A. Reed were instructed to file the necessary certificate of incorporation thereof. Messrs F. M. Slater, R. M. Stelle, C. C. Burnet, A. W. Waldron, C. P. Leggett, J. T. Fritts and Seymour G. Smith, were unanimously elected a Board of Trustees for the ensuing year.

Further business of the meeting occupied the entire evening, and much was accomplished towards the speedy completion of the proposed club house. The assessment of ten dollars that had been made upon each of the members, was rescinded; but subsequently $500 was voluntarily contributed among those present with which to begin at once the work of refitting the building already leased on East Second street. It is expected that the alleys will be finished by Oct. 15.

The bowling team that has been selected by Captain James Davis to represent the Plainfield Club in the Union County League, will be picked from the following who have been notified to meet regularly for practice at once: H. Van Emburgh, E. C, Kieb, C. A. Reed, C. Teel, Jno. Ulrich, H. Teel, Rogers, C. Van Winkle, Thiers, Baker, Emerson, A. V. Kline and Davis. The schedule of games in the tournament, as first published exclusively in THE PRESS, is as follows:

ENTERTAINED AT NEWARK.

Delegations from Howell and Plainfield Divisions are Courteously Received by the Members of Select Division of Newark.

In spite of the unpleasant weather a large delegation of Howell Division, No. 97, and Plainfield Division, No. 223, of S. of T., left this city last evening as the guests of Select Division, No. 237, of Newark.

A very pleasant evening was spent, recitations and singing being the main features. The following persons took part: Remarks by Miss Corwin, W. P., of Howell Division, recitations by Mrs. Bosterli, W. P., of Plainfield Division, and Miss Euphemia Mattox, of Howell Division, song by the quartette of Select Division, of Newark.

During a recess iced cream and cake were served in abundance. Business was then resumed when W. B. Mattox gave one of his humorous recitations followed by a recitation by Miss May Clum of this city; recitation by Mrs. Wm. Clum; recitation by Mrs. Mary T. Hayward of Select Division, No. 237, of Newark, and other members of the several Divisions.

A FEW WORDS CALLED FOR.

The Truth about Anthony vs. Anthony, and Anthony vs. Ballou.

Mrs. Ida M. Anthony throughout the litigation instituted by her against her husband and Miss Ballou, has sought to avoid publicity, and naturally feels annoyed when, besides the publication of certain facts, much of error and misstatement is added. In view of the inaccuracy and bad taste of the publication referred to, the following brief statement was obtained by THE PRESS from Mrs. Anthony's counsel, Craig A. Marsh:

It is not true, as has been published, that the suit against Miss Ballou for damages was not pressed. It was pressed, and with such effect that the latter settled the case by assigning a substantial part of a legacy left her by her grandfather. Complainant has never expressed the intention of resuming her maiden name. All that it is necessary to say in the subject of the suit brought by her for divorce is that the Court has granted her an absolute divorce, permanent alimony, counsel fees, and the custody of her daughter.

St. Mary's Parochial School Fair.

In spite of the inclement weather there was a good sized audience present at the fair in St. Mary's parochial school building, corner of Sixth and Liberty streets, last evening. The fair, which has been in progress for several days past, is for the benefit of the parochial school, and thus far the financial success of the undertaking has been very encouraging. Besides some of the minor contests which were decided last evening, the contest for the lady's gold watch was also concluded. Following is a list of the contestants, together with the amount each one collected:

Miss Agnes Kelly	$326
Miss Katie Savierd	151
Miss Maloney	128
Miss May Flynn	115
Total	$720

The fair will continue for the remainder of this week and perhaps over into next. On Saturday night the contest for the desk will be decided.

SENSATIONS IN STIRLING.

Another Factory in the Village—The Struggle for the Post Office Appointment—A Popular Presbyterian Pastor.

Stirling has taken another start to grow since the new firm have taken hold. They are now erecting a large factory just West of the other one, in which they intend to weave silk ribbbon. The work is being done by C. B. Moffett. It is thought that within a year Stirling will be as large again as it is at the present time.

Considerable damage was done during the last storm. It damaged the farmers corn in some sections so it is almost ruined, and the last of the peach crop was a complete failure.

F. Richter is said to have turned up last Sunday long enough to leave some money home. He then skipped again. It was rumored that he had better make himself scarce, and he is doing so.

There is quite a sensation about the Stirling Post Office, and who shall be the lucky man to get it.

The Rev. A. C. Dill, pastor of the Stirling Presbyterian church, is doing a great work in the short time he has been here. Everybody likes him, he is so sociable and friendly. As he passes through the street the little Italian children gather around him for candy, of which he always has a good supply.

The Catholic church is without a preacher, as there last one left a few weeks ago.

TWEEDLEDUM AND TWEEDLEDEE.

Simply Sentiments From the Same Source.

The Somerset Messenger copies with glee the following from the Central Times of last week:

The criticism of the Somerville newspapers upon the Crescents in the late game of ball are equally as severe as the criticisms of the Plainfield newspapers upon the West Ends. When children of a neighborhood can't play without quarreling all the time, then they ought to keep away from each other. The same rule should apply to ball players, and it is well that the two clubs named will act upon it in the future.

But not a word is copied of the Central Times report of the Plainfield-Somerville game, the week before. This is one paragraph from it:

The umpire! He was theirs. In the tenth inning, when the ball was hardly distinguishable, on account of the darkness, when Harkins could not see whether he hit a batsman or not, Umpire Matherson at first refused a man his base when he was hit directly in the forehead at the home plate. Harkins told the umpire that the batsman "stuck his head in the way" in order to get a base, and when a West Ends man "told" Matherson then Matherson understood what he was to do. But when he entertained Harkins' allegation that Cary wanted to be knocked senseless on a chance of reaching first base, then it was that Plainfield temper sprung back, dead set against further playing. The umpire declared the Crescents beaten to the best of his ability, and fled to the arms of his friends.

Gifts for Little Willie Hamilton.

Already THE PRESS has received a quantity of toys, books and other pleasure giving gifts, for Willie Hamilton whose sad story was told in these columns of yesterday.

Suffering from spinal disease caused by a fall while playing, the unfortunate lad patiently lives out his lonely little life in Union Village, with no playmates, nor pretty picture books, nor toys. Anything that more fortunate children are tired of, if sent to this office will be forwarded to little Willie.

Among the many pretty things received today, none will be more acceptable than a big doll, a woolly dog, a book and other little gifts from Eleanor, Marjory and Bradley Cleaver.

Mr. Higgins' Horse Recovering.

The carriage horse belonging to Mr. M. Higgins, proprietor of the stage route bearing that name, which was knocked down and stunned by a flash of lightning in front of the Seminary building on West Seventh street, a few days ago, as reported in THE PRESS at the time, was today able to leave the stable for the first time since the accident occurred, and it was not until last night that the animal could even lay down in the stall. Mr. Higgins says the horse seems to be yet dazed at times, but he expects to place him in active service next week.

Plainfield is not Exempt.

Every town almost has its spotter or eavesdropper whose business it is to flit around from place to place, picking up every little trival matter about men and things, and then distorting them in the most ingenious manner possible in order to curry favor with some one. This town has one of this class, who, by an apparent frankness of manner seeks to gain people's confidence only that he may betray it. But not many are deceived, as the social bushwhacker generally exposes himself.

Disgusting Drugs.

Blue mass for torpid liver, castor oil and other disgusting drugs for dyspepsia, and sick headache, are being surely banished from use by the sweet, fruit-like HAMBURG FIGS. 25 cents. Dose, one Fig. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

—The Somerset County Jail at Somerville at present contains but eight prisoners.

—Stealing fruit is a great annoyance as well as a loss to owners, and we hear of a good deal of it going on. Proper punishment should be administered to these provoking thieves.

Boils, pimples, and skin diseases of all kinds speedily disappear when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has no equal as a tonic alterative, the results being immediate and satisfactory. Ask your druggist for it, and take no other.

A NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL

Besides Having One Wife in Plainfield and Two in Newark.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

Henry Forrester, who was recently arrested in Plainfield for burglary and is now waiting trial, seems to have a bad record. He was identified by the Newark police as Charles Banwood, alias Price, alias Coriell, alias Tours, a well known thief of that city, who was convicted in 1886 on four charges of breaking and entering and sent to the Caldwell penitentiary for eighteen months.

He has two wives in Newark and one in Plainfield. When in Caldwell penitentiary he and another prisoner named Bernard Strouse sawed off the bars of their cell and attempted to overpower the keeper. Strouse went to State prison for this offense, and Banwood received a like sentence, but for some unexplained reason never served it.

The Old Rahway Mystery.

John W. Ross, of Elizabeth, who has been following up the Rahway murder mystery, claims that the right name of the girl found murdered two years ago there is Annie Miller, and that she lived at Roselle with a family named Shindler, and also previously with a farmer named Benedict. Mr. Ross says that a man named Thomas Banister was in love with the girl, and that he has since left the State and is now in Connecticut. Annie Miller disappeared about the time the murdered girl was found, and has never been seen or heard from since. He alleges that a girl named Annie O'Brien, who formerly lived at Elizabeth, and who has also left the State, knows more than she wants to tell about the matter, and is well acquainted with the missing girl's history.

Firemen in Session.

The twelfth annual convention of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association was held at Long Branch, yesterday. There were 350 delegates representing the fire departments all over the State, who enjoyed a day of great sport. The delegates were presented with handsome badges, and during the afternoon they were tendered a clambake at Pleasure Bay.

Gen. Bird W. Spencer of Passaic, was for the twelfth time re-elected President; Mr. Horace Brown of Newark, was re-elected Secretary, and Mr. John McKiernan of Paterson, was elected Treasurer.

The delegates from this city were: Chief T. O. Doane, Edward Mosher, Jos. Hubbard and E. C. Morse.

Drove Into a Washout.

A young man named Giddis and a companion were seated in a buggy driving along Somerset street a little beyond Demler's Hotel on Tuesday evening, when the vehicle run into a washout and the occupants were thrown out promiscuously in a deep gully. Fortunately they escaped injury.

The accident was due to the contemptable trick of some person or persons unknown in carrying off the danger signals placed there at night by the township officials. This is not the first time the lamps have been carried away or broken, and the offenders should be apprehended and made to answer as law and justice demands.

Convention of Democratic Clubs.

The New Jersey Association of Democratic Clubs will hold its regular convention for the election of officers and the usual campaign work on Thursday, Oct. 10, at Newark. More than 100 clubs will be represented, as the organization is in a flourishing condition. The present officers of the association are: Gen. John Watts Kearney, President; W. S. Mc Kean, Secretary, and Solomon Reineman, Treasurer. A meeting of the General Committee was held at Newark yesterday, which was well attended, and much enthusiasm was shown by the members.

State Homeopathic Society.

The New Jersey State Homeopathic Medical Society will meet at 11 A. M., Tuesday, Oct. 1, at Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City. The menu provided is threefold: That for the "inner man" will be discussed at Taylor's Hotel, on the European plan; that for the refreshment of the "gray substance" will be furnished by papers written by members, and, lastly, arrangements are in progress for an excursion to some interesting point near New York city by boat.

Compulsory Education.

State Superintendent Chapman pronounces the compulsory education law in this State a failure for the following reasons: One is the lack of public school accommodations, and the other the imperfect machinery of the law. How best to force children to attend school is a problem that has never been solved in New Jersey satisfactorily, and the State Superintendent thinks that to do so will require a more stringent law and better compensation to those charged with its enforcement.

Mechanical Drawing.

Mr. A. J. Gavett is very fortunate in having secured Mr. C. J. Robertson, of the Scott Press Works, to be associated with him in the conduct of the Mechanical Drawing classes to be held weekly at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

Classes will be organized Tuesday evening Oct. 1. Names will be enrolled and full information given at any time at the Association rooms. The membership fee ($2) entitles to this and all other privileges of the Association.

THE INTER-STATE FAIR.

That Coming Big Show at Trenton.

The Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, takes place on September 30, October 1, 2, 3 and 4, next. There is every indication that it will be the greatest fair that has ever been held in New Jersey or Pennsylvania. $25,000 in premiums will be awarded for the various exhibits, and everything connected with the exposition is conducted on a liberal and progressive scale. The dates, following as they do, those of the Grand Circuit ensure the gathering together of some of the most celebrated horses known to the American trotting turf and those interested in speed events will be treated to the highest class of sport in that line.

The amusement features consist of the most startling acts to be procured in the country. Leading the programme of these specialties is the thrilling dive of Baptiste Peynaud, the Parisian wonder, who boldly leaps from the top of a tower 150 feet high to the ground. This wonderful feat has been performed at Paris and Berlin by Prof. Peynaud, and has only recently been attempted in this country, the New York and Brooklyn papers containing the most flattering accounts of the performance as given at Rockaway Beach. Following this the programme contains the best selections from among the available acts for fair occasions—including high-wire feats by the female Blondins Misses Saxby and Hemingway, Roman Chariot Races, Running Teams Races to Light Wagons, Hurdle Races, Bicycle Contests, Standing Races, Dog Races, Ladies Races and a variety of pleasing and instructing amusements.

Geo. C. Boldt, of the Hotels Bellevue and Stratford and the Bullitt Building Restaurant, Philadelphia, who has almost world-wide fame as a caterer, will be in charge of the cuisine, and a first-class table d'hote dinner will be served at the popular price of half-a-dollar. This insures a good meal and eliminates all the terrors of the ordinary fair dinner.

The grounds and buildings are commodious and beautiful, and the famous Pennsylvania Railroad—main line—lands patrons directly upon the grounds.

Excursion tickets will be sold from Plainfield and return, including admission to the grounds, at $1.92 each.

WASHINGTONVILLE WHISPERS.

The Progress of the New Chapel.

Mr. Pease of Plainfield, conducted the evening service last Sunday, at the school house. It is hoped soon to be able to hold services in the new chapel now in course of erection. Mr. Sellery, with a force of masons, is at work on the walls. Enough of the rough stone work, with its natural face exposed, is completed to show the general design of architectural beauty with which it is to be finished. It is expected the carpenters will begin work this week and then the building will be finished as fast as expedient. The Building Committee hope to have it ready for Thanksgiving service.

New Safe for the City Bank.

A large and handsome ten-ton safe from the Hall Safe and Lock Company, was received at the City National Bank building, yesterday. The great weight of the monster safe, made it necessary to transport it from the cars to the bank building, on one of the company's own trucks, and it required the combined strength of six horses to haul the load, under the direction of the company's men. Mr. William Wright received the contract for removing the monster.

It was not until long after dark that the safe was delivered in the City Bank building, and some difficulty was then experienced in permanently locating it, as a portion of the flooring gave away. It was about three o'clock this morning when the work was completed.

Injured by Dampness.

The extremely damp weather experienced of late has caused considerable damage in almost every kind of business, and as a whole thousands of dollars will not replace the loss.

The grocers have suffered on flour and meal, and all kinds of cereal foods. It seemed almost impossible to keep them from getting musty and unfit for use.

The dry goods stores have met with losses in silks and satins, and all goods that pack closely. Kid gloves were shown to be spotted and deprived of their original color.

The shoe stores seem to have suffered the most, as have also the book stores, whose owners long for that kind of weather which is devoid of humidity and capable of remaining clear at least one whole day in the week.

Killed by a Mad Dog.

Patrick Daily, of Piscataqwaytown, had a hog killed by a mad dog a few days ago. Another hog exhibited symptoms of hydrophobia on Monday.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Persons who suffer from occasional palpitation of the heart are often unaware that they are the victims of heart disease, and are liable to die without warning. They should banish this alarming symptom, and cure the disease by using DR. FLINT'S REMEDY. Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

—Today and to-morrow will be observed as the Jewish New Year.

Rheumatism is caused by a poisonous acid in the blood and yields to Ayer's Pills. Many cases which seemed chronic and hopeless, have been completely cured by this medicine. It will cost but little to try what effect the Pills may have in your case. We predict success.

TEMPERANCE COUNCIL.

First Convention of Pennsylvania's State Union League.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 26.—The first convention of the Union Prohibitory League of the State of Pennsylvania began its sessions this forenoon at eleven o'clock in the hall of the House of Representatives in this city. About 150 delegates, representing the various counties of the State, are in attendance.

The managers say it is not the intention of the convention to place a ticket in nomination for any public office, but to concert and carry forward practical plans for the promotion of temperance work looking to the ultimate prohibition of the traffic in strong drink. Dr. A. J. Kynett of Philadelphia is the president of the State League.

The business session of the convention will occupy this afternoon and in the evening a mass-meeting will be held in the House of Representatives, when addresses will be made by Hon. Alfred Griffen, of New York, and Hon. B. C. Christy, of Pittsburg.

Among the prominent men present are Rev. A. G. Kynett, of Pine Grove, N. Y.; Albert Griffen, Manhatten, Kan., Chairman of the anti-Saloon Republican National Committee; W. E. Locks, Philadelphia, Secretary of the State Prohibition League of Pennsylvania, and Hon. Agib Ricketts, of Wilkesbarre.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Columbia Hotel at Cape May, N. J., was totally destroyed by fire.

Eliza Cook, the English poetess, died at Wimbledon yesterday.

The Inter-State Fair at Elmira, N. Y., ends to-morrow.

C. B. Holmes, for the Chicago City Railway Co., has subscribed $100,000 to the World's Fair fund.

Daniel Robinson, President of the Troy and Boston railroad, died yesterday at Bennington Centre, Vt., after a long illness, aged 75.

Mrs. Louis Covett, wife of a wealthy farmer, has eloped with Rev. Charl Woodruff, pastor of the United Brethren church at Boyleston, Ind.

The Central Congregational church at Newtonville, Mass., has accepted the resignation of its pastor, the Rev. Pleasant Hunter, Jr., who has accepted a call to Newark, N. J.

At Salt Lake City yesterday six adulterous and seven unlawful cohabiter violators of the Edmonds law received sentence. None would promise obedience to the law, and so all were sent to the penitentiary for terms of from two to six months.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—For New England: Rain; northeasterly winds; stationary temperature.

For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Rain; easterly winds; slightly warmer, except in northern New York, stationary temperature to-day, followed by colder, clearing and fair weather to-morrow and Saturday.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair, followed by increasing cloudiness and light rain; winds shifting to westerly; slightly colder.

Hog Cholera in Maryland.

CENTREVILLE, Md., Sept. 26.—Drs. A. W. Clements and T. L. Armstrong, from the Department of Agriculture at Washington, have made an examination of the infected swine in this county. They are of the opinion that the infection is the regular hog cholera; that the disease is contagious, and that it can only be eradicated by the slaughter of the infected animals. The veterinarians will continue their investigations and forward a report to the department at the end of the present week.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

PEERLESS DYES

THE TALK OF EUROPE

Discussing a Leader for the New Chamber of Deputies.

SAY AND BRISSON FAVORITES.

The Two Statesmen the Choice of the Moderate Republicans.

An Insane Mother Kills Her Five Children and Herself—Her Husband's Suicide the Cause of the Terrible Act—Davitt's Opinion of Balfour's Back-Down on the University Bill—Parnell Has Trouble With His Employes.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—M. Brisson and M. Leon Say are the favorites for the presidency of the new Chamber of Deputies. If the choice continues to be between these two, it will resolve itself, in the minds of a decisive number of moderate Republicans, into a question whether it will be better for the party and the government to have M. Say in the President's chair or in the tribune as the acknowledged leader of the moderates, who will now rule the day.

It is probable that the best interests of the republic would be served by utilizing M. Brisson's ability and patriotism as presiding officer, and keeping M. Say on the floor of the Chamber to lead his party in debate. Nothing, however, is likely to be decided for some weeks, as the new Deputies do not meet until November.

The Reballots in France.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The "Temps" says that the Government has decided that defeated candidates may contest another seat in the second ballots without infringing the Multiple Candidature Act. M. Goblet has abandoned the contest, although a seat has been offered him. The "Figaro" and the "Temps" appeal to the Conservatives to recognize that the country will have none of Boulangism or royalism, but will cling to the republic.

An Insane Mother's Terrible Act.

ODESSA, Sept. 26.—A school teacher named Sause committed suicide yesterday, whereupon his widow became insane and killed her five children. She threw the bodies of three of the children out of a third-story window, and taking the other two in her arms jumped from the window and was instantly killed.

Balfour's Back-Down.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Mr. Davitt says that Chief Secretary Balfour's back-down on the Irish University question is due to his failure to wean the priests of Ireland from their alliance with the National League.

A Gladstonian Elected.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Mr. John Leng, Gladstonian, has been elected to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for Dundee, caused by the death of Mr. Joseph F. B. Firth, Liberal. Mr Leng was not opposed.

Parnell's Obnoxious Agent.

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—A number of quarrymen employed on Mr. Parnell's estate, at Arklow, threaten to strike in order to compel the substitution of a local Nationalist for the present agent of the estate, who is obnoxious to the employes.

Sabbath Observance Conference.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—In the Sabbath Observance Conference yesterday letters were read from President Harrison and Mr. Gladstone. The latter attributed his long life with preserved faculties in great part to the privileges of Sabbath rest.

TIRED OF THEIR QUARTERS.

Four Prisoners Attempt to Escape from the New Brunswick Jail.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 26.—Four prisoners in jail here made desperate efforts to escape yesterday. Their names are Patrick Duff, James Murray, Charles Harvey and James Horst. The latter, who seems to have been the leader, is a desperate criminal, and is awaiting trial on a charge of burglary. The four prisoners were confined in cells on the upper tiers.

Horst filed the bars of his cell and got out in the corridor, and then assisted his confederates. They tied bedclothing together and lowered themselves to the hall leading to the jail-yard. They were unable to force open the outer door and began to make an opening through the stone wall, when they were discovered by Jailer Gulick and Deputy Sheriff Wesner.

Jailer Gulick summoned the police and a squad of reserves were sent to his assistance. Meantime Jailer Gulick stood guard over the four prisoners with a cocked revolver.

Horst and his confederates at first threatened to kill the jailer if he approached, but on the arrival of the police the prisoners surrendered without resistance. On being searched knives, chisels, files and saws were found on them. Jailer Gulick says that he does not know how they got the implements, but thinks that they were brought to them by visitors.

It is claimed that there is not proper discipline exercised in the jail, and the authorities will probably make an investigation.

Shocking Death.

CLINTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—A. B. Hoffman, proprietor of a stone quarry near here, was terribly injured, probably fatally, by the premature explosion of a dynamite blast. His eyes were put out, one jawbone crushed, the teeth blown out, one hand torn off, and other parts of the body lacerated and filled with bits of broken rock.

Death of a Sporting Editor.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Wm. B. White, sporting editor of the "Courier," and brother of Frank White, late managing editor of "Life," died yesterday of typhoid fever. Mr. White was about twenty years of age, and gave fair promise of making his mark in journalism.

Collided With a Wild Engine.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—A construction train on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, collided with a wild engine yesterday near Claymont station. Three employes of the company were injured about the head and body and were taken to the University hospital for treatment.

BLAINE-M'CORMICK.

The Wedding Took Place To-Day at Richfield Springs.

RICHFIELD SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The wedding of Emmons Blaine, son of Secretary of State James G. Blaine, to Miss Anita McCormick, of Chicago, took place in the Presbyterian Church in this village at noon to-day.

Mr. Cyrus H. McCormick led his sister to the altar, where she was met by Mr. Emmons Blaine, who entered from the left altar door. Walker Blaine was best man. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were F. A. Keep and Harold McCormick, of Chicago, and C. F. Sprague, of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. V. V. Holmes, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Herrick Johnson, of Chicago.

All the members of the Blaine and McCormick families were present, besides a large number of invited guests.

After a reception at Clayton Lodge, the happy young couple started on their wedding tour. Their first stopping place will be Bar Harbor.

HE MAY BE LYNCHED.

A Dying Girl Accuses Her Watcher of a Henious Crime.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 26.—A young girl who died at Linden, Cumberland county, on Saturday last, told the story of a horrible crime on her death-bed.

Her illness was diphtheria. On Thursday night a relative, a well-connected man, sat up with the girl, whose death was expected at any moment. During the night he assaulted the dying girl. Just before her death she told the doctor in attendance and her father the story of the crime.

On the information of these two the man was arrested yesterday and jailed. The news as it spread abroad created great excitement among the people living in the neighborhood, and some have threatened lynching. The jail is well guarded and the man will be given a fair trial.

George Francis Train Happy.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 26. — George Francis Train was expected to take the oath at the Poor Debtor's Court yesterday, but he did not appear. He states that he could not take the oath, because he is an infidel, and he couldn't make an affirmation because he is a lunatic. On being told that he would have to remain in jail unless he took the oath or gave bonds he said it would suit him to stay in jail. He had seen the inside of jails, both in the Old World and in the New, and he would like to see what the Charles street Jail was like.

Storm on the Jersey Coast.

ASBURY PARK, Sept. 26.—It stormed heavily along this part of the New Jersey coast. The surf has been high and strong, and at 8 o'clock last night its roar could be heard nearly a mile inland at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove. The surf has done but little damage. Above Highland Beach the sea has almost doubled the width of the new inlet through the Sandy Hook peninsula, and has piled three feet of sand and debris on the railroad track. Sandy Hook Bay is filled with vessels which have sought shelter there.

Baby Beatrice Leaves Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Rupp, Nurse Donnelly and Baby Beatrice left the Noll cottage yesterday and boarded a train for Philadelphia. Mrs. Rupp was inclined to be reticent when questioned as to the destination of Baby Beatrice, but said that Robert Ray Hamilton had instructed her to take good care of the infant.

Eloped With a Workman's Wife.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 26.—Frederick D. Weiland, foreman of factory D of the Thompson-Houston electric light works, has eloped with the wife of George Alfred Jones, an Englishman, who came here six months ago, accepted a place under Weiland and went to live in the same boarding house with him.

Minister Douglass' Private Secretary.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 26.—It is reported that E. D. Bassett, of this city, late Haytien Consul at New York, has started for Hayti, and will act for the present as Minister Douglass' private secretary. Mr. Bassett was removed from his consulship by Legitime for his supposed sympathy with Hippolyte.

Released from a Reformatory.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Nancy Garrison was released from the reformatory for women at Hudson to-day, in conformity with an order issued by Judge John J. Beattie, in County Court yesterday afternoon, reversing and setting aside the conviction and sentence by Justice William Avery, of Highland Falls.

Destructive Fire in Vermont.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 26.—The pattern shop of Wright & Son, near here, was burned last night with a quantity of valuable machinery; also two dwelling houses, a barn and a bridge across the Worcester Branch. The loss is very heavy, and there is very little insurance.

A Disagreement in the Ives Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The jury in the Ives case disagreed and were discharged by the Court. They stood nine for conviction, two for acquittal and the other could not make up his mind as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. Ives was remanded to the Tombs.

A Priest Dies in His Chair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The Rev. Father Joseph P. Roles, for twelve years the head of St. Mary's parish, was found dead in his chair at the parsonage, 548 Wabash avenue, yesterday. It is supposed his death was caused by heart disease.

Opposed to Using Central Park.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The Park Commissioners have voted to adopt every legitimate means to their power to prevent the use of any part of Central Park as a site for the World's Fair.

Johnstown's Electric Railroad.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 26.—The Johnstown Passenger Railway leased its lines to Tom L. Johnson, the Cleveland millionaire. The lease is perpetual. The road will be run by electricity.

Lewis Brothers Settle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Messrs. Lewis Bros., dry goods merchants, have compromised with their creditors, paying 57½ cents on the dollar.

HOW THEY COUNT OUR NOSES

As Each Decade Closes—Next Enumeration.

June, The Month of Roses—Work that It Imposes—Secrets It Discloses—How New England Loses—Growth of Population.

COPYRIGHT 1889.

Again, at the close of the round ten years, the Census Bureau is pinching itself and trying to wake up. Like the seventeen-year locust, between its periods of tremendous activity, it enjoys a sound sleep of several years, but it never actually dies. About 1884 it became comatose, and since that time there has been only one single clerk on deck to attest actual vitality. But last spring the President appointed Robert P. Porter its Superintendent, and signs of abundant life were at once apparent. Already two or three hundred clerks have been appointed to prepare for the national census of next June, and within six months Mr. Porter will have appointed 2,000 clerks and 40,000 enumerators to complete the immense work. Most of the clerks, whose tenure will be short, are already selected, and the local enumerators, whose official life will last only one month, are now being designated in the thousands of districts all over the country.

Up to the present time, Porter and his assistants have been sheltered in private offices, but the hot hive is already crowded and in a month the workers will swarm and find new hives in different parts of the city which they will occupy exclusively. If any reader thinks that I am mixing metaphors in alluding to these people both as cicadas and as honey bees, he ought to stumble upon the Census Bureau when it is hibernating and when it isn't.

I give a view of the new census building which will be first occupied, but, two others like it and about as large, have also been leased. Superintendent Porter himself will occupy a suite of rooms in the Interior Department building, near to Secretary Noble, his superior officer.

THE NEW CENSUS BUREAU BUILDING.

The last census report comprised twenty-two very bulky quarto volumes, some of them very nearly as large and heavy as Webster's unabridged dictionary. When placed upon a shelf side by side, these volumes, with maps and other documents, measure eight feet from end to end. It is not only to take the census, and take it accurately and comprehensively, but to compile this tremendous statement of results that Porter is appointing his staff of experts and the clerks who will assist them.

I am able to-day to give an estimate of the location where the census of next June will place the centre of population. It is a curious study and an interesting showing. I have roughly drawn a map for that purpose, carrying this wandering point through the states of Maryland, Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky into Indiana, where it rests at the present moment. By the "centre of population" is meant, of course, the human centre of gravity—the pivot on which the inhabitants of the United States would balance if they could be weighed on an imponderable plane where they stand, and if all were of the same weight. It is not important that anybody should live at this "centre population."

WESTWARD COURSE OF THE CENTRE OF POPULATION.

This little map makes several surprising revelations. The first is that only during thirty years out of a hundred has this centre of population lain within the so-called Northern States. The second is that it has all the while stuck closely to the 39th degree of latitude. If it had been a ring ten miles in diameter, in place of my star, it might have been strung upon this imaginary line and gone whistling westward without once leaving it in a century. It will be remarked, too, from the position of the star of 1800, when the Federal Government first came to Washington, how near the fathers of the Republic came to guessing at the location of the focus of their interests in 1791, even before the results of the rude census of 1790 were made known.

In 1790 this centre of population was a few miles north-east of Baltimore. In 1800 some of the "dark and bloody ground" of Kentucky had been settled, and the frontier was receding, and the star moved through Baltimore and settled a little north of Washington. In 1810 Jefferson had purchased Louisiana and the star moved to Harper's Ferry. In 1820 it went to Winchester; in 1830, with half a dozen new states made, it migrated 100 miles westward; in 1840 it journeyed on, and in 1850 landed on the banks of the Ohio. In 1860 and 1870 it journeyed through Ohio, and in 1880 was in Kentucky, just south of Cincinnati. It is now in Middle Indiana; in 1890 it will be in Illinois, and in 1910, if Powell's irrigation project pans out, it will shine on the more or less pellucid depths of the Mississippi. The pace of its migration is now increasing. The loss in New England, shown by the coming census, is expected to be very striking.

Besides bringing to the management of census such executive ability for the rapid despatch of business as a successful editor is pretty sure to possess, and the knowledge of the relation of things as a persistent student of economics ought to acquire, Mr. Porter brings an unusually wide acquaintance with public men and the advantage of experience as one of Gen. Walker's aids in the compilation of the Tenth Census. He has, moreover, great physical strength and superb health, a stocky, compact frame and a large head, giving him a sort of outline resemblance to Senator Gorman. He has also a special interest in the census, having increased it by five within the last six years, including a pair of twins. Mrs. Porter and the children are now at Deer Park, but they will come here in a few weeks, and, like the Pension Commissioner, the Census Superintendent will make his home on Georgetown Heights.

He will be primarily flanked in his work by twenty special experts, having salaries ranging from $1,800 to $3,000, each having charge of one of the grand divisions of the census. These have been appointed and have taken their work in hand. Mr. Porter looks upon Henry Gannett and Dr. J. S. Billings as his right bowers. Gannett has for years had charge of the mineral statistics of the Geological Survey, and will cover that and cognate divisions of the census. Billings has won fame as an army surgeon, and, though somewhat inclined to dogmatise concerning matters with which he is not acquainted, he will doubtless make a valuable compilation of vital statistics.

The law provides for 175 supervisors in the different states, with a salary of $500 each for the month or so during which they will be busy. The 40,000 enumerators will have about $75 apiece, and they will be engaged only during June. In the East they will get two cents for each name, and in sparsely populated regions a small per diem allowance besides. The census will be begun on June 1st, and in all cities of more than 10,000 it must be finished within two weeks.

The clerks and messengers employed here in the work of preparing instructions for the supervisors and of compiling and correlating the bewildering returns which the enumerators are expected to furnish, will get salaries ranging from $500 to $1,800 a year; but they will not be regarded as in the permanent service of the Government, and at the completion of the work they will be peremptorily dismissed.

It is the intention of the Superintendent to make the Eleventh Census more complete than any that has preceded it. Some subjects not hitherto covered will be exhaustively treated, and some interests will be presented much more compactly than in 1880. The preliminary plans are as yet somewhat nebulous, and I can speak only of tentative purposes.

Investigation into vital statistics will be more thorough than ever before. Most of the physicians of the country have been supplied with blanks on which to keep a current record, instead of depending on memory at the end of the year. The division, "Mortality," will be dropped, as being merely a subdivision of vital statistics. So with deafness, blindness, insanity, &c.

Church statistics will be gathered in such form as to be promptly available, inquiry touching the following salient points: organization, communicants, church edifices, seating capacity, value of property. The attention of the Superintendent has been called to the fact that the most important item, namely, average attendance has been omitted, and this may yet be added.

Under "occupations" a much fuller treatment of the activities and industries of the people is contemplated than has hitherto been undertaken.

An entirely new inquiry, specially authorized by Congress, will be the record of Union veterans of the civil war and the widows of soldiers.

The investigation of indebtedness is to be pushed farther than has hitherto been attempted, particularly in the inquiry into "recorded private indebtness" specially authorized by Congress. This is expected to settle the "mortgage" question, so much agitated.

It is intended to take account of the draft animals of cities, and of all horses, mules and cattle not kept on farms. This is an addition.

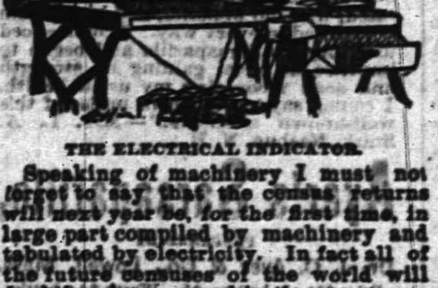
An attempt will be made to secure a rigidly statistical census. Arguments, deductions and references will be excluded, or, at least, will be minimized.

Matters hitherto treated exhaustively will not now receive the same attention. Cotton, which occupied two volumes of the Tenth Census and the cereals and tobacco, which made up another, will probably be included under one cover. General information concerning Forestry will not be repeated. Mineral resources will probably be put into one volume instead of three.

So with water power. This is dealing with fixed characteristics, and much of the previous work will not be repeated. But electricity, natural gas, etc., will receive increased attention.

The Superintendent purposes to have for the first time a full census of the public schools.

"Wages," which occupied a volume in the last census, will be remitted to the annual reports of Gen. Carroll D. Wight, Commissioner of Labor. But there will be an important report on machines and machinery.



THE ELECTRICAL INDICATOR.

Speaking of machinery I must not forget to say that the census returns will next year be, for the first time, in large part compiled by machinery and tabulated by electricity. In fact all of the future censuses of the world will doubtless be managed in the same way. I give a cut of this machine—the device of one of the special agents of the Census Bureau. The chief cost of the census is its tabulation, from the sheets returned by the enumerators. In 1880 this work cost $2,385,000, and if the same methods are employed, will next year cost $3,000,000. The machine method consists in first recording the data relating to each person by punching holes in strips of paper (an electric non-conductor) and then tallying these data, either separately or combined, by means of mechanical counters operated by electro-magnets—the circuits controlled by the perforated strips. The machine is patented, but as nobody will ever use it but Governments, the inventor will not be likely to get very rich.

It is already set up in the Census office, lying in wait for the schedules from the enumerators next July.

Finally, the census will require a vast amount of paper—not less than fifty tons for the preliminary work and 700 tons of card-board for the work of compilation.

W. A. CROFFUT.

—Prof. Hazen, stationed at the Mt. Washington signal station, has made a new and careful computation of the height of the mountain, and finds that it has a height of 6,300 feet above mean low tide. This is seven feet higher than previous measurements made it.

HIGHER THAN EIFFEL.

New Yorkers to Erect a Tower to Surpass the Famous One at Eiffel.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—It is stated to-day by parties who should know that this city is figuring on the erection of a tower which will in every respect surpass the famous Eiffel tower of Paris. It is the design to offer this tower as the crowning reason why the world's fair should be located in New York, thus throwing Chicago into confusion at the last moment. Such capitalists as Jay Gould and Russell Sage are backing the movement. A Mr. Kellogg, of Finley, Ohio, is at present engaged in preparing the plans.

The tower will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 and will be fully 1,200 feet high, the Eiffel tower being less than 1,000. It will be about 350 feet in diameter at the base and about 100 feet at the summit.

The details are somewhat crude and incomplete as yet. The framework will be of seamless steel pipe of sufficient magnitude to support the immense structure with absolute safety.

At present Mr. Kellogg is in Detroit getting figures on triple plate glass, which, if practicable, will give the tower the general appearance of a gigantic crystal palace. Four elevators will run from the ground to a certain elevation, then two will carry passengers still further toward the sky, and the crowning flight will be spanned by a single elevator.

The second floor will probably be devoted to restaurant purposes, then will come reading and writing rooms and other conveniences, and it is understood that the crowning storm of the gigantic structure will be taken by the Government for observation purposes.

Gen. Swain and others in authority are of the opinion that half a million annually can be derived from the summit of the tower in this manner.

Detained the Vice-President's Letter.

BOSTON, Sept. 26. — Vice-President Morton has written to Mayor Hart stating that he would have been glad to have visited Boston with the President in August, but the clerk of a Washington hotel detained the invitation until within a few days.

Mail Train Robbed.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 26.—A mail train on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad was stopped at Buck Alunna bridge near Mobile yesterday and robbed of $2,500 express money and a number of registered letters.

IN A SEA OF FLAME

Workmen Covered With Molten Iron and Cinder.

THEY ARE TERRIBLY BURNED.

The Seething Fluid Hurled the Men in All Directions.

Carnegie's Edgar Thompson Steel Works at Braddock, Pa., the Scene of the Accident - Captain Jones, the Manager of the Works, Badly Burned—The Excitement at Braddock Intense—The Injured Men Taken to a Pittsburg Hospital.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—Furnace "C," of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works at Braddock was not working satisfactorily yesterday, and at 7 o'clock last evening W. R. Jones, manager of the steel works, together with six of his men, went to work to remedy the trouble.

It was discovered that a hard crust of cinder had formed inside of the furnace. An orifice, fifteen inches in diameter, was made through the side of the furnace stack, which is 80 feet high and 20 in diameter. Through this hole a heavy iron bar was used to break the cinder crust.

In an instant the crust gave way and a perfect river of molten iron and cinder gushed through the aperature, literally covering Capt. Jones and his workmen in a sea of flame and hurling them in all directions. Capt. Jones was picked up from the sand pit fully forty feet from the stack. The others were lifted about the same distance in other directions. A Hungarian who was in the party has not yet been found.

The fatally burned are as follows: Mike Quinn, foreman; Harry Connell, Patrick Burns and John Nee. Capt. Jones is terribly burned and his physicians are apprehensive but have some hopes.

The scenes immediately following the accident are almost beyond description, the immense stackhouse overflowing with the seething liquid.

The injured were brought to the hospital here. The damage to the furnace is not great.

The 5,000 men at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works and hundreds of people in Braddock are frantic with grief on account of the injuries which Capt. Jones has received. He was well known in the United States and Europe, wherever iron and steel are manufactured. It was he who took 300 men to Johnstown at his own expense a couple of days after the flood and remained there for weeks directing the work of rescue. He is about 60 years old.

MARYLAND DEMOCRATS.

The State Convention Nominates Col. Henry Baughman for Comptroller.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27.—The Democratic State Convention, after reaffirming the platform adopted by the National Democratic Convention in St. Louis in 1880, and pledging the party to a strict economy in State affairs, nominated Col. Henry Baughman, of Somerset county, for Comptroller by acclamation.

Senator H. H. Keedy, of Washington county, in seconding the nomination of Col. Baughman, said, among other things, that, while he was willing to accord the negro all his rights and was willing to pay for separate schools for the negro's children, he would not be ruled by the negro. This statement was greeted with great applause.

A committee escorted Col. Baughman to the platform. The nominee made a vigorous speech. A new State Central Committee was then selected and the convention adjourned.

A BRAVE ENGINEER.

He Risks His Life to Save Two Hundred Passengers.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 27.—The Haverstraw express over the New Jersey and New York Railroad that leaves Jersey City at 6:05 p. m. was wrecked at Lodi Junction last night. A trainman of the branch of the New York, Susquehanne and Western Railroad ran three cars loaded with oil of vitrol on a siding and left the switch open. The express, running forty miles an hour, was turned off the main track and ran into the freight cars, telescoping the first one. The engine went through it and pushed the wrecked cars along the switch and over 500 feet of the main track.

Engineer Theodore Sherman never left his post, but reversed his engine at the risk of his life to save the 200 passengers. Fireman Wm. Young jumped and will probably loose his life. He is horribly mangled and badly burned by the vitrol that was scattered in a shower in every direction. He is in the Hackensack Hospital in a dying condition. Not a passenger was hurt.

A Farmer's Terrible Crime.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 27.—The finding of the body of an infant in the woods two miles from here has led to the arrest of Farmer Sylvanus Hill, aged fifty. Two years ago Hill took a twelve-year-old girl from a Boston orphan asylum to live at his house. The girl now confesses that Hill is the father of the child found dead. It was born at the house of Mrs. Herron, at Groton, where Hill took the girl. She says that after leaving Groton, Hill and she, with the baby, drove to Compton, where, in a lonely place in the woods, he compelled her to hold the child while he poured something from a bottle into its mouth. Then he carried the child into the woods, put it in a wooden box while still alive and buried it a few rods from the highway.

New Jersey Railroad Stations Robbed.

MOORESTOWN, N. J., Sept. 27.—Last night thieves made a raid on the passenger railway stations at Pensaukin and Mapleshead and cleared them completely out of tickets, money, clothing and everything of value they could find.

RUSHING RAILROAD WORK.

The Population of a Pennsylvania Town Increased Over Two Thousand.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—There never has been any time when there has been such general activity in the car shops and locomotive works. The Pennsylvania has already begun to build a fine plant at Wall's Station, fourteen miles from this city, where the course of the river has been deflected in order to furnish sufficient ground. This will add a population of two or three thousand to the town and make it a busy, industrial village.

The Pennsylvania Company has already laid twenty-two miles of new rails on a substantial road bed, with new stone bridges in place of the iron bridges between Stony Fork and Johnstown.

TOO MUCH CHLOROFORM.

A Wealthy New York Business Man Found Dead in His Office.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Otto Stietz, a wealthy German, aged 61, head of the New York Glass Letter Company, was found dead in his place of business yesterday from the effects of chloroform.

A towel saturated with the anæsthetic was on his face, and it appeared that he had made an unsuccessful effort to remove the towel before becoming entirely unconscious.

Mr. Stietz's partner says that Mr. Stietz had been drinking and that he did not want to go home in that condition and decided to sleep where he was. He was somewhat excited over plans for an enlargement of the business, and finding sleep difficult used the chloroform.

Narrow Escape from Death.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 27.—An accident that came near being attended by loss of life, occurred on the electric railway that runs from the public square in this city to near Paxionosa Inn. The road runs up Chestnut street to College Hill and the grade there is so steep that a dummy car was recently put on the line to prevent the cars from getting beyond the control of the conductors. The dummy in some manner got out of gear and started down the grade at lightning speed. At the foot of the incline the car jumped the track, plunged into a wall at the Bushkill bridge and sent a shower of stones into the kitchen of the residence of Mrs. Holmes. The next car down the grade was filled with passengers.

Minister Phelps Cordially Received.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Hon. William Walter Phelps, United States Minister to Germany, presented his credentials to the Emperor yesterday. He was cordially received. After an exchange of formal remarks the Emperor detained Mr. Phelps conversing so long that the American Minister and Count Herbert Bismarck, who accompanied him from Potsdam, missed their train. Count Herbert Bismarck last night tendered a dinner to Minister Phelps, which was attended by a number of attaches of the American Legation and visiting diplomats.

Two Miners Found Dead.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 27.—William Irvin and his helper, a Polander, left their homes on Tuesday evening last and went to work as usual in Lawrence and Brown's colliery at Mahonoy Plane. They failed to return yesterday and a search was at once instituted, which resulted in the finding of the bodies of both men at the bottom of an abandoned working. Both had been suffocated by black damp. It is believed that the Polander had strayed into the working and that Irvin went to look for him.

Killed in a Powder Explosion.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 27.—An explosion occurred in the powder mill owned by the Laflin & Rand Company, at Cressona, three miles below this city, yesterday. William Schropp, Henry Reed and Samuel Stoteff were instantly killed, and a number of other workmen were injured. The concussion was sensibly felt in this city, and nearly every pane of window glass in Cressona was shattered.

Deaths from Typhoid Fever.

KEMPTON, Pa., Sept. 27.—Typhoid fever is very prevalent in the northern townships of Berks and Lehigh Counties. A number of deaths have occurred near this place. In the family of Edwin S. Lutz ten persons were ill at one time—the grandmother and two sons died. The others are improving. Jones Fritz, a farmer, died last night and several of his children are down with the disease.

She Died in a Mysterious Manner.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 27.—Alice Wetzell, 17 years old, of Herndon, died in a mysterious manner at the house of Lydia Gotshall, in Purdytown, a suburb of Sunbury. She had evidently taken poison, as the body when found indicated that she had suffered intense physical agony in her death throes. An investigation will be made.

Stricken With Paralysis.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—John H. Falconer, until recently the statistican of the Postoffice Department, was stricken with paralysis yesterday afternoon at his desk in the department. He was removed to his home when the doctors found that his entire left side was paralyzed. Mr. Falconer is over 70 years of age.

Philadelphia Democratic Nominations.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—In the Democratic County Convention, Hon. Samuel W. Pennypacker, the present incumbent, received the nomination for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas No. 23. Maj. Moses Veale was nominated for Clerk of the Quarter Sessions and Dr. James H. Cantwell for Coroner.

Pugilist Allen Arrested.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 27.—Artie Allen, the pugilist, who was so terribly punished by Flaherty, of Waltham, in a finish fight about six months ago, was arrested and will be tried for prize fighting. Flaherty is still at liberty.

TANNER SPEAKS OUT

The ex-Commissioner Writes a Confidential Letter.

PENSION MATTERS DISCUSSED.

He Says He Would Have Been Removed If He Had Not Resigned.

Acting Commissioner Smith's Ingratitude. He Issued an Order Stopping Re-Rating, But Not Until He Had Received a Benefit Himself—The Corporal Thinks He is in the "Soup"—Private Dalzell Abuses a Confidential Trust.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—A special to a paper here from Caldwell, Ohio, gives a letter from Commissioner Tanner which explains itself, and in substance is as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 19, 1889.

"HON. J. M. DALZELL, Caldwell:

"MY DEAR DALZELL—I have yours of the 16th. I think I have read all that has been printed as coming from your lips or pen. For your great warmth of good feeling I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

"And now, once for all about the deputyship. I want to say to you that the President never said one word to me about you. I cannot come out and say that publicly; you must not quote it; but it is the God's truth. The one appointed first deputy was from Noble's State and had lost two limbs. Of course, I couldn't kick.

"While Commissioner, I issued two orders, which I thought, and still think, were mighty good ones. First, that the 33,000 men on the pension roll at less than $4 a month should all, unless they had had a medical examination within a year, be ordered for examination before their home board, with a view to putting them up at least $4 per month pension or drop them off the rolls, for it was, and is my opinion, that for a man who is worthy of any pension at all a dollar a week is small enough to consider a pension. My second order was that thereafter, in the settlement of a pension claim, the order of a private, if he was a man of good character and standing, should amount to as much in the settlement of a claim as the word of a man who had perhaps worn the shoulder straps of a Second Lieutenant.

"The Acting Commissioner revoked both of these orders, according to the Washington 'Post' and other papers, but as he is a man who dare not say his soul is his own, he did it under the instruction of Noble or Bussey. I am told this afternoon that the order revoking my decision in small pension cases has been rescinded, but you can see what the spirit is, and how under heaven's name are they going to make the boys believe that there is to be no change in the policy.

"Smith also issued an order stopping all reratings. He did not object to it until after I had rerated him and put him up to $72 for the loss of his arm and leg, thereby putting $6,035 in his pocket.

"I want to say to you that I did not resign until the President and the Secretary had both said to me in the same minute that the completed report of the investigating committee which lay before them contained no word which could impeach the honesty of my action in the slightest degree. Then I had to consider whether I was man enough to decline to continue in a position where I knew my immediate official superiors did not desire me, even conceding that I could stay against their wishes, which is not at all true. I have not the slightest doubt but that I would have been removed if I had not resigned—in fact I know it. Noble had certainly pronounced his ultimatum to be my head or his resignation, and of course a break in his Cabinet would have embarrassed Harrison greatly.

"Of the future I know nothing. If the boys, and particularly those in Ohio, acquiesce, why it is safe to say that Tanner will be left where he is—in the soup.

"Among the promotions announced in the Pension Office night before last is that of Harrison T. Bruce of Colorado to be a member of the Board of Pension Appeals in the Secretary's office at $2,000 a year. He had been detailed for duty in the Secretary's office for some months, and was appointed by the Secretary, one of the commission which investigated the Pension Office. Don't you think it would have looked a little better if they had waited at least until after I had passed out of official life before they promoted him? Some will be cynical enough to reflect upon cause and effect, service and reward. With all my heart, very truly yours,

"JAMES TANNER."

Says He Wrote the Letter.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. — Pension Commissioner Tanner was seen by a press representative at his residence at Georgetown Heights, and questioned as to the genuineness of the above letter. "Yes," replied the Commissioner, "the letter as printed is substantially as I wrote it. It was written, however, in the strictest confidence to a man whom I believed to be my friend. A man under the circumstances, writes that which under other circumstances would not and should not have been written. The letter," he continued, "was evidently stolen. I cannot believe that any man would so betray his friend."

He was Bondsman for a Tax Collector.

READING, Pa., Sept. 27.—The farm and other property of Valentine Kieffer in this county has been levied upon by the sheriff, on attachments for $5,000. Kieffer's failure is due to the flight of Tax Collector Isaac Eckert, who took several thousand dollars county money with him. Kieffer was one of Eckert's bondsmen.

A Very Painful Injury.

While Albert Hausman, of Metuchen, was superintending the digging of clay from his pits, near Ford's Corner, a few days since, one of the workmen accidentally struck the pick on Hausman's left foot near the toes, piercing it and making a very jagged and painful wound. One of the toes had to be amputated the next day to prevent blood poisoning.

Died in the Hospital.

William Traynor, a resident of East Third street, but for the past two months a patient in the Muhlenberg Hospital, died in that institution on Wednesday evening, from consumption. The deceased also suffered from an abcess in the side. He was about forty years of age, and leaves a widow and one child.

FREED FROM CONTEMPT.

The City Judge Remits O'Neill's Fine at the Suggestion of the Corporation Counsel.

In the little office of the Overseer of the Poor, lighted by one kerosene lamp with a broken chimney, and overheated by a base burning stove, city court was held last evening.

Judge Stillman presided; Corporation Counsel Marsh appeared for the city; Charles A. Reed, Esq., represented the appellant, James O'Neill, who was also present; the audience included Chief Carey, Detective Sliter, and the PRESS reporter. The case was a simple one. O'Neil had failed to appear on time when summoned as a witness in the case of the City vs. Sullivan for illegal liquor selling. When he arrived a few minutes after the case was adjourned, he was fined $20 by the court for contempt.

Last evening he was granted a hearing in his defense, but the Corporation Counsel saved him that trouble by gracefully suggesting the withdrawal of the fine.

Mr. Marsh said: "In the matter of the citation of James O'Neill to show cause why he should not be fined for failing to appear in answer to subpœna, I have learned the facts from Chief of Police Carey, and upon such facts, I am clearly of the opinion that a fine cannot be imposed for the reason that the time between the service of the subpœna and the time fixed therein for witness' appearance in court, being only half an hour, is altogether too short to authorize a higher court to adjudge a witness guilty of contempt, or the city court to impose a fine.

"There is no doubt whatever of the power of this court to fine jurors or witnesses for failure to answer its writs. But such action must needs be predicated on the due, legal and timely service of such writs. Service at the residence of witness half an hour before court, is certainly not timely service. The authorities hold that at least one day's notice is necessary, however inconsiderable the distance may be between the place of service and the court. Greenlief cites a case where service in the morning to attend in the afternoon of the same day was held to be insufficient, though the witness lived in the same town and very near to the place of trial.

"That the courts of this State conform to this rule is clear from the remarks of Vice Chancellor VanFleet in Johnson vs. Corey, in which case, in granting a rule to show cause why a witness should not be punished for contempt—the witness having been served the day before time fixed for his appearance in court—the Vice Chancellor said that if it appeared that the witness was necessarily absent attending to his business, the order would be discharged, for he thought that the notice was much too short, especially to a business man.

"Holding these views, I deem it my duty to suggest to your Honor that no fine be imposed in the present case because not warranted by the facts."

Judge Stillman adopted the suggestion, and O'Neill was purged of contempt and saved the fine. Before adjournment of the court, however, Lawyer Reed expressed his entire concurrence with the views of the Corporation Counsel, but at the same time stated that he should maintain in every instance of the kind where he was concerned, that the court he was then addressing had no right to impose a fine for contempt of any kind or in any manner.

Mr. Marsh replied that the Court had repeatedly, during the last eight years, exercised its statutory powers to fine witnesses or jurors for failing to answer when properly served, and every case of the kind that might arise in the future would be treated in the same way.

Judge Stillman concurred in the view expressed by the City Counsel, and stated that otherwise the Court would be unable to enforce obedience or command respect.

Plainfield Four Points Behind.

The event of yesterday at Marion—the third day of the N. J. Sportsman's Association tournament—was a State trophy shoot for a cup, teams of three men from clubs belonging to the association, $22.50 entrance for each team. The shoot was at 10 live birds per man, and resulted in a tie on 28 between the Jersey City Heights Club and the Newark Gun Club.

The team of Plainfield crack shots, announced in Wednesday's PRESS as representing the Middlesex Gun Club, came out but four points behind. Their score was:

S. G. Smith	0 2 0 2 0 2 0 1 1 1—6
Chas. Smith	1 1 2 1 2 1 1 1 1 0—9
John Riggott	1 1 1 1 1 1 2 1 1 0—9
Total	24

Lifted the Pants and Run.

At 12 o'clock today a strange man, whose occupation is given as that of a painter, lifted a pair of pantaloons which were hanging in front of Mr. John M. Schorb's tailor shop on East Front street. He entered the doorway leading to Mr. Schorb's apartments and was about to exchange the new pair for the old ones he wore, when Mr. Schorb entered the hallway. The fellow tucked the pantaloons under his coat and started on a run toward Somerset street. He had not gone far, however, when he was apprehended, and the goods were returned to the owner, the thief being allowed to depart.

—Better get your stove ready—snow eighteen inches deep on the White Mountains.

—There will be a temperance meeting in Hope chapel this evening, under the auspices of Hope Chapel Temperance Club.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

The New Jersey Grand Lodge to Meet in Plainfield.

The largest of secret beneficial and fraternal organizations, paying death benefits out of one general fund, is said to be the Knights of Honor organized in 1873 with seventeen members, and numbering today 131,000 members. It pays for death benefits over $250,000, monthly, and annually over $3,000,000. It has paid on 14,176 death claims, $28,086,534.26. The amount of death claims paid in New Jersey from Oct. 1, 1888 to Sept. 1, 1889, was $90,000. The death benefits paid by the Knights of Honor are $500, $1,000, and $2,000.

The Grand Lodge of New Jersey will meet Wednesday, October 9, in Reform Hall. There will be about 115 delegates present representing a membership of 4,015. There are 48 Lodges in this State, divided into 22 districts, each district in charge of a Deputy who visits the Lodges under his charge. Past Dictator F. P. Haffner will represent Wetumpka Lodge, No. 3,401, in the Grand Lodge, this session. Past Grand Dictator E. V. Lorton is also a member of this Grand Lodge.

Wetumpka Lodge, No. 3,401, will meet Thursday evening, Oct. 3, and there will be initiation. This Lodge was instituted April 19, 1889, with 33 members and numbers today about 52 members. Mr. John H. Doane, is Dictator. Mr. Horace J. Martin, is Reporter.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST.

The Crescents to Put up its Best Team, To-morrow.

To-morrow's match between the Crescents and the Winthrops, will be the last of the year, and that the successful season may close in a burst of glory, the Crescent League will put a great team in the field.

Landman, the Jersey City's late pitcher, and Bowes will be the battery, while new men will probably cover first and second bases. The Winthrops will also send their best, and a fine game will surely result.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. W. T. Pelletier and family, of Franklin place, have returned from the coast of Maine.

Mrs. F. F. Beals of Crescent avenue and Second place, is at home again, after a pleasant Summer sojourn out of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Redmond, of Los Angeles, are visiting Mr. Redmond's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Redmond, at Mount Bethel.

Miss V. F. Randolph, daughter of L. V. F. Randolph, Esq., of this city, will direct a class in drawing at 17 LaGrande avenue, Monday and Thursday afternoons at 2:15 o'clock. Miss Randolph is an advanced pupil of the New York Art Students' League, and thoroughly fitted by skill and culture for the profession she has adopted.

Mrs. George Crook, of Wadsworth, Nevada, with her infant son, arrived in Plainfield, yesterday, and will remain indefinitely with the family of her brother-in-law, Mr. J. C. Reed, of No. 20 Essex street. Mrs. Crook and her sister, Mrs. Reed were both married in this city about a year ago. The former went to the far West with her husband, where they permanently located.

A Light Fine Probable.

Among the bills of indictment presented by the Grand Jury of Somerset county, yesterday, was one against George Sanders, of North Plainfield, although it is understood that the members of the Jury from North Plainfield and its vicinity, abstained from voting for such indictment in view of the accused's subsequent reparation.

Sanders was arraigned this morning and plead guilty. Judge Magie placed him under $200 bail to appear for sentence, Monday Oct. 7. The same bondsmen qualified again, who went his surety while he awaited the action of the Grand Jury. The small amount of bail required by the court, seemingly implies that the sentence will be merely a light fine.

Wedding Bells.

At the residence of the officiating clergyman, on Milton place, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, occurred the marriage of Mr. Herman Klinsman of West Front street, and Miss Augusta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Keller of Harrison street, North Plainfield. Rev. Mr. Schnellendreussler performed the ceremony.

About sixty young persons were present, including guests from New York, Jersey City, Newark and other distant points. Following the ceremony there was dancing and refreshments at the bride's residence, and the Plainfield Cornet Band also serenaded the newly wedded couple. Mr. and Mrs. Klinsman will reside in North Plainfield.

Hunting Her Husband, Who Left Her.

Mrs. Nellie Wilkey and her two children were passengers on the steamer State of Indiana and landed at Castle Garden yesterday. Mrs. Wilkey said that her husband deserted her in Glasgow, and that she heard he was in this country. She was sent here, she said, by the Edingburgh Woman's Protective Association. Three years ago her husband came here from Scotland and lived at Plainfield, N. J., for some time. They then went back to Scotland, where the husband deserted her. If he does not claim her she will be sent back to Scotland, as she is without means.

BUNDLES OF HAPPINESS.

Lots More Pretty Gifts Arriving for Willie Hamilton.

THE PRESS is still receiving quantities of picture books, toys, and articles of all sorts to please little Willie Hamilton's eyes and fill his days full of happiness. A lady of West Eighth street writes:

If you will kindly let me know the age of Willie Hamilton, the cripple, of whom you tell in the DAILY PRESS, we may be able to help him.

Willie is between 12 and 13. He is able to sit up and can get from one chair to another. There are lots of nice things the Plainfield children are tired of, that would help him pass many an hour in pleasure and forgetfulness of pain and misfortune.

Besides many anonymous contributions, THE PRESS has received bundles of gifts from Mrs. Wm. VanDeventer, Miss Walz, Mrs. J. Roll, Mrs. S. W. Milligan, the Misses Hockridge, Nettie Bauersachs, Lottie Springmann, Charlie Mahaffee, Leonore and Annie Carle, and Master Herbert Martin.

One philanthropic lady hands in a dollar to start a fund to buy Willie an easy chair. Who will add another contribution?

ORDER OF RED MEN.

They Form a Lodge in the Plainfield Wilderness.

Steps were taken Wednesday evening, at the K. of P. Hall, corner Front street and Park avenue, for the purpose of forming a Lodge of Red Men in this city. That the enterprise will prove a prosperous one in the end is assured by the fact that at this time over 40 names have been enrolled on the application for a charter.

Another meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, Oct. 2, at which time all who are or may be interested in the Order can signify their good intention by adding their name to the list. The Order is a beneficiary one, paying a weekly benefit in case of sickness or other disability; also a funeral benefit.

$474 PREMIUM.

Sale of the County Road Bonds.

Yesterday at Elizabeth, the Board of Freeholders opened the proposals advertised for in THE PRESS, to buy the $150,000 worth of County Road Bonds.

There were many bids, but the successful purchasers were the Union County Savings Bank that took $15,000 at one per cent. premium, and Geo. A. Banwell who got the balance, $135,000, at 24-100ths above par.

The Dangers of Electricity.

The late storm has seriously interfered with the street lighting and telephone service, and in some instances the wires were torn loose from their fastenings. One of the city liverymen had occasion to answer a call on Crescent avenue, a few evenings since, when he noticed a wire lying flat across the roadway. He endeavored to raise the wire and received such a shock that he was knocked off his feet. In other words he says, he saw stars while the heavens were obscured from sight by heavy clouds, and while it was raining hard.

The danger of encountering electric wires, is said to be doubly as great in wet weather as it is in the dry season, and too much precaution cannot therefore be exercised in wet weather.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Officers.

At the regular weekly meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. Order of United American Mechanics, held in the S. of T. rooms, last evening, after the regular routine business was transacted the quarterly election of officers took place which resulted in the election of the following Brothers to the various offices:

C.—David S. Dunavan.
V. C.—James D. Anderson.
R. S.—Walter N. Martin.
Asst. R. S.—John C. VanDyke.
F. S.—Charles F. Stephens.
Con.—Gilbert S. Martin.
W.—Horace G. Adams.
I. S.—William A. Wilson.
O. S.—Raynor Tunison.

Knights Templar Conclave at Washington.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey, in connection with the Philadelphia and Reading R. R. and the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., will sell excursion tickets to Washington, D. C., for the Triennial Conclave, to be held on Oct. 8 to 11, at single fare for the round trip. These tickets are good to go on Oct. 5, 6, 7 and 8, and for return until Oct. 31.

This line offers superior advantage in the way of elegant equipment, fast and frequent trains. Fare from Plainfield to Washington and return, $5.91.

A Reward Offered for Such a Man.

The Elizabeth Journal intimates that Gottfried Krueger—who is styled by some, the present Governor of New Jersey—"knows what the Republican platform means" on the liquor question. Well, that's more than the editor of the Journal knows. The New York World offers a prize for a solution of that very matter.

Somerville Fair.

The 20th Annual Fair of the Somerset County Agricultural Society will be held on their grounds in Somerville on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 8, 9 and 10. Trotting Wednesday and Thursday, commencing at 12:30 P. M. each day.

Boils, pimples, and skin diseases of all kinds speedily disappear when the blood is purified by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In has no equal as a tonic alterative, the results being immediate and satisfactory. Ask your druggist for it, and take no other.

Still Believing That Prohibition Prohibits.

(From the Somerville Gazette.)

The Central Times of Plainfield, in responding to our question as to the consumption of liquors in that town, since it has become a "Prohibition" town, says that "it is not dealing in beer statistics this year," and then adds that Plainfield is "not a Prohibition town in any sense of the word," because "the Common Council, which is the power that gives licenses, is not a Prohibition Council. The license members have a majority of one."

Nevertheless, as no licenses are granted in that city, it certainly is a town without the legal right to sell liquors, and, therefore, the right to sell is prohibited. Of course there is this distinction between it and, say towns in Iowa; that no town government, nor organized private society, exists for the purpose of enforcing the law against non-licensed places. The Council winks at the illegal sale, we suppose, and no society is formed to prosecute because the Council may change tactics and license any day.

Public sentiment, as is apparent by a majority for license in the Council, is not in favor of Prohibition in Plainfield. And as the closing of the saloons is an accident rather than an intentional occurrence, it may readily be seen that the full effects of Prohibition, so-called, cannot be expected under the circumstances in Plainfield.

Still it would be a remarkable fact if the consumption of liquors there, illicitly and unlawfully, were as great now as when licenses were granted; and it is this statement that the Times throws no light upon, and which until some light is thrown upon it we certainly cannot believe.

Not a Demo ratic Funeral.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The editor of the evening news last night displayed the fact that he is deplorably behind the times in journalistic matters, by the publication of the following harrowing information:

During the Presidential campaign we said that the N. Y. Graphic was kept afloat by funds from the National Democratic Committee in the interests of Free Trade. Since the Free Traders failed to carry the election and were hurled from power by an indignant people, the paper has had a sorry time of it, and finally succumbed a few days ago.

There is no doubting that the Graphic "has had a sorry time of it," or that it did "finally succumb a few days ago," but the Democrats had nothing whatever to do with the "sorry time" or the succumbing, as the Graphic has been run on the strictest high-tariff, Corporal Tanner, "blocks of five" Republican principles ever since last January. It has been "owned" in name by one Henry L. Stoddard (at a salary of $50 a week!) but in reality by Steve Elkins and other rich Knights of big taxes; Tom Platt and Russell Harrison being mentioned as interested parties. The Graphic has lost money steadily ever since it fell into Republican hands, the loss for some weeks being, I am told, as high as $1,400. I say all this advisedly and might say much more; but this is sufficient to show that the Graphic has been a Republican and not a Democratic funeral, and that the editor of the evening news should be able to keep pace with modern journalism if he wants to talk about it.

CRITIQUE.

One of the Few Theatrical Successes.

At Music Hall, next Tuesday evening, the Madison Square company, including Arthur Forrest and Rose Eytinge, will present "Captain Swift."

It is a play that has earned a high reputation. It ran for 300 nights at the Madison Square Theatre in New York and for 150 nights in Boston, receiving the very highest critical commendation. It is by a young Australian author, Haddon Chambers, and tells the story of a bushranger, rather well connected at home, and a fairly decent sort of a fellow generally, who, returning from Australia to England, tries to sink his old life and force a way back into good society. Just as he is about to succeed his fate overtakes him and a series of well contrived incidents lead to his exposure and death.

A Bronze Bust for Edison.

It is the intention of the residents of Menlo Park, near Metuchen, to recognize the greatness of inventor Thomas A. Edison in a substantial manner, and at a recent meeting of the prominent residents of the "Wizard's" old home it was decided to purchase a bronze bust of the inventor and place it upon a granite pedestal in the public plaza at the Park. It is understood that Mr. Edison has already signified his willingness to have a cast made of his head to please his Menlo Park friends.

Court of Special Sessions.

At Elizabeth in special sessions, on Wednesday, besides the transaction of some other matters, ex-Chancellor Runyon asked that the hearing of the Latimer will case which was set down for that day be postponed for one week, which was granted. Court then adjourned to Wednesday, October 2.

Base Ball.

Rheumatism is caused by a poisonous acid in the blood and yields to Ayer's Pills. Many cases which seemed chronic and hopeless, have been completely cured by this medicine. It will cost but little to try what effect the Pills may have in your case. We predict success.

UNJUST JEALOUSY.

An Oil Region Husband Kills His Wife With a Winchester Rifle.

BRADFORD, Pa., Sept. 27.—At Mount Alton, sixteen miles from this place, John Quinn shot and killed his wife with a Winchester rifle. The cause of the crime is said to be unjust jealousy. Quinn claims that his wife had been intimate with a man named Brennan. After shooting his wife Quinn started after Brennan with the Winchester on his shoulder, but was disarmed by Constable Washburn and taken to Smethport and lodged in jail.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The railroad telegraph lines from Mexico to the United States are all down.

Forty-four bodies have thus far been taken out of the debris of the Quebec land-slide.

The United States Glass Works of Syracuse, N. Y., has bought the Zanesville, O., glass works.

Public Printer Palmer has dismissed forty employes in the Government Printing Office.

J. A. Caldwell, of Oswego, N. Y., has been appointed a cadet at the Military Academy at West Point.

The corner-stone of the new State Armory at Albany, N. Y., was laid yesterday with Masonic ceremonies. Gov. Hill made an address.

It is reported that an offer of $15,000,000 has been made for the trust breweries of St. Louis. There are eighteen of the twenty-one breweries in the trust, and they are holding out for $20,000,000 for eighteen plants.

A jury in the Superior Court at Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday rendered a verdict in favor of Nathan W. Davis for $8,000 against the Erie Railroad. In July, 1881, Davis, who was an engineer on the road, was blown from his cab and badly hurt by an explosion of gas in the engine.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—For New England: Rain; southwesterly winds; stationary temperature.

For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey: Rain, followed by clearing and colder weather; northwesterly winds; stationary temperature to-morrow and Sunday.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair, followed by light rain; westerly, shifting to northwesterly winds; stationary temperature.

A Railroad Agent Gagged and Robbed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—Yesterday afternoon three men entered the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad depot at Brighton Station and demanded money from Mrs Galton, the company's agent. Mrs. Galton boldly defied the thieves, but before she could summon aid she was bound and gagged and thrown into a corner of her office. The thieves ransacked the station thoroughly, securing a large amount of money and other valuables. When discovered Mrs. Galton was unconscious. She has since remained delirious and scarcely able to articulate. Her wrists and limbs were terribly cut and swollen, so tightly was she bound. As yet no clue to the perpetrators has been discovered.

Paddy Ryan Severely Whipped.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sep. 27.—Paddy Ryan, ex-champion heavy weight, insulted Prof. John Donaldson, the well known pugilist, in a Stockton street saloon yesterday and Donaldson gave Paddy a terrific drubbing. Ryan acted like a big school boy, put his arms around his head for protection and made no show of pugilistic prowess. Donaldson says that Paddy recently proposed a fake fight so that he (Ryan) might make a few dollars. He refused, and this was the basis of the fight.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

Boston's Victory and the Giants' Defeat Bring it About.

NEW YORKS STRUGGLE HARD.

Ewing Obliged to Leave the Game on Account of a Sore Hand.

The Bostons Knock Pitcher Boyle Out of the Box at Indianapolis—Philadelphia Easily Defeated by Pittsburg—The Senators Fail to Put in an Appearance at Cleveland—Brooklyn and Columbus Play a Tie—Standing of the Clubs.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The Giants were unfortunate in their batting yesterday afternoon, hitting the ball hard; but the treacherous little sphere went straight into the hands of Anson's men. The Giants played a stubborn game throughout, but were beaten nevertheless.

Ewing's hand gave out in the third inning and he was forced to retire to nurse the badly-battered member. This accident did not have an encouraging effect on the Giants. Welch pitched a fairly good game, and but for an unfortunate blunder by Richardson in the seventh inning the result of the game might have been different.

Boston Beats the Hoosiers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—Boston's mighty batters frightened the Hoosiers yesterday and the Beaneaters won easily in consequence. Boyle pitched like a school boy and Russie took his place.

RACED FOR $6,000.

The Fredonia Wins in a Fresh Breeze and a Heavy Sea.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The much-talked of race for $6,000 between the yacht Fredonia, owned chiefly by Commodore Forbes, and the Hesper, was sailed yesterday in a fresh breeze and a heavy sea, and resulted in so clear a victory for the Fredonia as to settle all doubts of her superiority.

The Fredonia had the Puritan's crew aboard, and was handled by Capt. Hurty, one of her owners. The Hesper was handled by her designer, D. J. Lawler. The course was forty miles. The story of the race is told in the summary, as follows:

Name.	Start.	Finish.	Actual time.	Corrected time.
Fredonia	10.31.13	3.41.50	5.10.37	5.10.37
Hesper	10.32.08	4.24.46	5.52.38	5.48.16

Mayor Haynes Renominated.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 27.—The Democrats last evening nominated Mayor Haynes for a third term. There was no opposition and the convention passed off very quietly.

The Temple of Heaven Burned.

HONG KONG, Sept. 27.—The Temple of Heaven, at Pekin, containing the great throne of the Sacred Dragon, has been destroyed by fire.

ELOPED WITH A DRUMMER.

A Locomotive Engineer's Daughter Captured by a Commercial Traveler.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Alfred M. Crotty, a commercial traveler for the Manufacturers' Distributing Company, 106 Green street, New York, became acquainted with Miss Lydia E. Bennett, daughter of Andrew J. Bennett, a locomotive engineer, about four months ago and has kept up a regular correspondence with her.

It is said that a day or two ago Miss Bennett and Crotty took a train for the East and they have not since been seen. Yesterday Mrs. Bennett received a letter from her daughter postmarked Watertown, N. Y., which read:

"MOTHER—I am married. Will be home soon.
"LYDIA."

The affair has caused quite a sensation here among young society people. Miss Bennett has shown letters to friends here in which, it is stated, that Crotty asked her to elope several weeks ago, promising to take her to Europe. It is believed by many here that Crotty is a married man. He formerly traveled for W. H. Horst & Sons, Grand street, New York.

STABBED THIRTEEN TIMES.

The Victim Dies After Making Contradictory Statements.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Capt. David Boyd, of Mexico, this county, a prominent hotel keeper, was arrested last night charged with the murder of Lorenzo Hayes of Little Falls, on September 14th.

The men had been playing billiards and drinking together and a dispute arose. During the fight Hayes was stabbed thirteen times. It was belived that he would die, and in his statement of the affair he said that Boyd was the aggressor. Afterwards he seemed likely to recover, and made a new statement, to the effect that he was as much to blame as Boyd.

Last night it was learned that Hayes was dead and Boyd was rearrested. Boyd is over 60 years old. and well connected.

A Hermit Suffocated to Death.

PASSAIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 27.—Coroner Henry G. Herring was called last night to view the body of Isaac Turse, a hermit who has lived for years in a dugout hut across the river from here. He was found dead in his hovel. The Coroner decided that the man was suffocated by breathing the fumes from a charcoal fire. The door of the wretched habitation was closed, and there was no other means of ventilation.

Sullivan Will Apologize.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—John L. Sullivan arrived here from Fishkill last evening. He was sober and asked a reporter to say that he intended to apologize to Charlie Johnston and the public for failing to appear in Brooklyn last Monday night. He admitted that he was "full" on that occasion, but hoped it would be the last time. Sullivan spars in Syracuse next Monday night.

Scott Will See a Committee.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Sept. 27.—W. L. Scott sent for the Arbitration Committee of the Coal Miners' Association here to meet him in Chicago to day with a view of resumption of work in the Spring Valley mines. He has receded from his determination not to treat with any committee or organization, and everything now points to a speedy settlement of the difficulties.

A College ex-President Dies Suddenly.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 27.—Samuel L. Caldwell. D. D., LL. D., ex-President of Vassar College, died suddenly yesterday, after a brief illness from septicæmia, aged 69 years. He was a native of Newburyport, Mass., and for fifteen years was pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church of this city and was for seven years President of Vassar College.

The Tri-Synodic Compact Continued.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 27.—The tri-Synodic Board of Home Missions concluded its work last evening. The continuation of the tri-synodic compact for another term was recommended and the present superintendent of missions, Rev. A. C. Whitmer, was nominated to the three synods for another term.

Cigarmakers Elect Delegates.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The Cigarmakers' Convention elected Samuel Gomphers of New York, John S. Kirchner of Philadelphia, William Parmon, of Cleveland, and Jeremiah Mahoney of Springfield, Mass., delegates to the December meeting of the American Federation of Labor.

Hot Chase After Train Robbers.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 27.—The robbers who held up the train at Buckatunna, Miss., have not been captured but are being closely pursued. It is known that they camped all day ten miles east of Buckatunna, leaving three hours ahead of the pursuing party. Rain spoils the trail for dogs.

President Harrison on Sunday Rest.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—In his letter to the Sabbath Observance Congress President Harrison says: "Experience teaches me that workers with the head and hands need such rest as the Sabbath alone can give. Man, whether regarded as an animal or as an immortal being, should be assured that rest."

Death of a Catholic Priest.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 27.—Father Davin, the Catholic priest, who was most diligent in rendering assistance to the sufferers of the recent disaster at Johnstown, died at St. James yesterday of acute stomach trouble. His remains will be sent East for burial.

Arrested for Malpractice.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—Dr. Charles E. Heintz was arrested here yesterday, and Max Herman was arrested in Hoboken, N. J., the former for a criminal operation upon Eliza Kraus, aged 19, and the latter for being responsible for the girl's condition.

Fell Dead at a Funeral.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—While attending the funeral of Col. Gouverneur Carr, Jacob A. Waterhouse, aged 57, a friend of Col. Carr, and a member of his regiment during the war, fell dead from heart disease.

Dock Strike at Rotterdam.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 27.—A strike of dock laborers is in progress here. A large number of men are out and the strike threatens to assume large proportions.

A TERRIBLE MISTAKE.

'TIS as well," she said, with a quiver of pain round the firm mouth, "if I perish. I am here in a lonely, unfrequented place, but I don't mind; no one will know that I started for Aunt Meg's on Clyde island, with my heart full of hate, and lost my way."

The wind, which had driven her little craft hither in spite of all effort to prevent it, was blowing a gale.

The boat grated on the sands and, springing out, Marcia pulled it high up on the whitened beach.

Over there lay the city with her home nestling in its bosom, and Harley would be expecting tea shortly now, but she wouldn't be there—no, never again!

Vivid lightning streaked the horizon and the muttering thunder was coming nearer.

Marcia Lessinge shivered and vaguely wondered if it would not have been better to have been drowned outright than this.

Running along the sands looking for shelter, she noticed a dim path leading into the interior. The great drops of rain were now beginning to fall, and, concluding to trust to its guidance, she turned into the diminutive road and disappeared among the low cedars lining the shore.

Suddenly the storm burst over the city in all its fury, and luckless humanity rushed indoors.

In a respectable-looking flat the smoldering fire on the hearth kept a frugal meal, long since prepared, from growing cold. In the hall a young mechanic hung up his damp coat, brushed his shoes and wondered why no sound came from the adjoining room.

"Marcia must be out," he thought; "but it's an awful night to get belated, though I reckon she's to mother's." He went in and sat down by the fire; the tempest beat heavily at window and door, and he went over to the drenched panes uneasily.

Some one enveloped in a gossamer was at the outside door, and the young husband hastened.

"Isn't Marcia here yet?" It was his wife's brother who questioned thus fearfully as soon as the door admitted him.

"Not just now," answered the husband, "but tea is prepared and waiting, so I thought she had run over to your place for a moment and got storm-bound."

"O! Harley; she is lost on the water, I fear."

Harley Lessinge sprang to his feet, a terrible fear pressing like a weight on his heart. "What do you mean, Theodore?"

"O! Hal, I mean that Marcia was seen out on the water in an open boat just before the storm and alone. She can't keep above the waves in such a storm as this."

"Out on the water?" and Lessinge stood dumb with terrified amazement gazing at the boy, who wrung his hand in helpless grief. "What was she out there for, Theo?" he gasped, finally. Then he sank into a seat moaning. "She has been strange of late; but as she said nothing, I know nothing—I don't know what to do—poor Marcia!"

Theodore Raynor stood regarding his brother-in-law suspiciously. It was plain that he doubted him. "I'll tell you if you don't know." Lessinge looked up eagerly, and the boy continued:

"She has seen you several times at 122 West Fourth street; has seen you caress a lovely woman there and kiss the child in her arms when you bade them good-bye. This may be the key to the strangeness. For my part I think Marcia meant to never return."

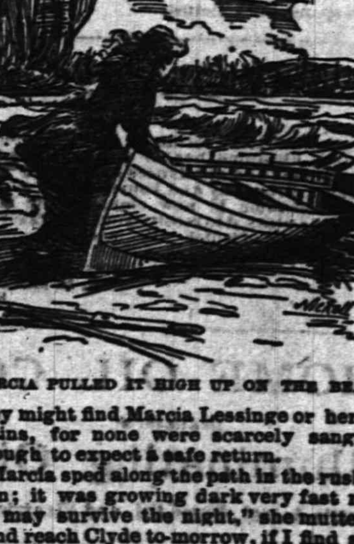
"O! my God!" cried the husband, breaking away from the lad and rushing wildly out into the street. "I am perfectly innocent of it all; never was at the number in my life and know none of its occupants. O! I must find Marcia; must go to my wife."

"You can not now," called the brother after him. "She may have reached Aunt Meg's at Clyde—may have gotten there—but I can't see how, either."

But Harley Lessinge sped away in the pouring rain, intent on finding his little girl-wife. Theo followed him, fearing for his reason; there was such a wild look in his eyes as he went out. He wished he had not revealed Marcia's secret; more evil might come of the telling than good; but, after all, how did he know just what to say?

He found Harley some blocks away wandering aimlessly about, dazed and drenched to the skin. He took him home and sent for a physician.

Meantime the storm had abated and parties were out along the shore, if haply



MARCIA PULLED IT HIGH UP ON THE BEACH.

they might find Marcia Lessinge or her remains, for none were scarcely sanguine enough to expect a safe return.

Marcia sped along the path in the rushing rain; it was growing dark very fast now. "I may survive the night," she muttered, "and reach Clyde to-morrow, if I find shelter."

"But she was beautiful," catching her breath in whispers, with little, painful gasps, "the woman whom he caressed, and I know that he loves her!"

Not heeding her steps, she caught her foot in a tangle of vines and fell; struggling to her feet she pressed on toward the terminus of the little woodland path.

"It certainly leads somewhere," trying to see through the stormy twilight. A faint glimmer of light rewarded her aching vision.

A few rods further and she came to a small cottage. "I did not know that this bit of land was really inhabited," she said, much relieved; "but it is somebody's home."

"May I come in?" she asked, faintly, rapping at the door.

An old lady answered the summons. "Gracious me! Why, come right in."

In a trice Marcia Lessinge found light and warmth in the plainly furnished, but pleasant interior. A bright fire burning on the hearth reflected its cozy gleams on a few old-fashioned portraits on the smoky walls, and the neat and tidy appearance of the room was altogether home-like and restful.

After a change of clothing and a cup of fragrant tea, the cheery old woman asked: "You lost your way, did you?"

"Yes," answered Marcia, "my boat is ashore near by."

"It's awful to be out in such a storm as this, 'specially on the water. You were going to the city, I suppose?"

"No," said Marcia; "coming from. I was going to Murray on Clyde."

"O, yes; that is a little farther north," rejoined the hostess. "My husband is over there for to-day; would have been back to-night but for the storm.

"I've a son in the city," she continued, "and here's his picture," taking up a case from the table at her elbow. "That's him, his wife and little one," she added, proudly.

Marcia Lessinge gave it one startled glance and her head swam. Surely that was Harley, standing there beside that same lovely woman, something like she had seen them herself. A suffocating sense stole over her, but she asked faintly: "Your son, did you say?"

"Yes'm; perhaps you may have seen him. He resides at 122 West Fourth street this year; last year he rented farther up town, but it was more expensive."

"One hundred and twenty-two West Fourth street!" whispered Marcia Lessinge with bloodless lips, "and not Harley," and with a stifled cry she slipped to the floor.

"Gracious me!" exclaimed the old lady, "the storm's been too much for her nerves," and working faithfully over the fainting Marcia she soon restored her to consciousness.

In a few minutes she opened her eyes. "Her son and not poor, abused Harley!" flashed through her mind. "O! it has been such a dreadful mistake!" she moaned aloud.

"Yes," answered the hostess; "to think of your being lost in such a storm is dreadful. It might have cost you your life.'

Marcia replied in the affirmative, but faintly. She was inwardly thanking God that she had missed Clyde. This being lost had brought such a sweet relief in its revelation.

She could not sleep, but tossed about wondering, with many misgivings, if Harley was not distracted with grief at her absence. Poor Harley! She could remember, now that the other was off her mind, how kind and tender he had always been to her.

"GRACIOUS ME! WHY, COME RIGHT IN."

The morning dawned beautifully calm, and, although the water was still rough, Marcia was on the sands before sunrise, so eager was she to get back to the husband she had so wrongfully misjudged.

Over the waters she fairly flew. Did a frail bark ever skim the blue foam-crested waves with as earnest an occupant before?

But the blinds were all drawn and a strange stillness reigned in the Lessinge home as Marcia hurried up the walk. A great dread took possession of her. O! what had happened to Harley?

"Be quiet," commanded Theodore as he let her in; "perfectly quiet, Harley is very ill. He raved all night about you," he added, meaningly.

Marcia gave a low cry of agony. "Let me go to Harley!" she moaned entreatingly, clutching her brother's arm in a frantic way.

"Compose yourself," said he, while the tears dropped from his own hot eyes. And with an almost superhuman effort the broken-hearted wife calmed herself and prepared to meet the worst—if it came.

Clinging to her brother's arm she stole softly into the darkened room where poor, suffering Harley lay.

Many were the kisses, tender and kind, pressed on the unconscious husband's burning brow; many were the tears of bitter contrition shed over that couch of pain before the light of returning reason dawned again in the dear eyes. But at last they beamed once more on her with the old love, stronger than illness or death in their depths.

Then it was that Marcia hid her face on her husband's breast and made it her confessional. "I can never forgive myself for the days of pain I have caused you, Harley, dear!" And she sobbed out her repentant anguish in his arms.

"Never mind," he said, with tender, compassionate love, while his own tears mingled with hers; "never mind, we will be drawn closer together for having suffered.

"It was but a mistake, Marcia; and the world is full of mistakes."

MANDA L. CROCKER.

Rutherford's Bravery.

At the battle of Cedar Creek, in October, 1864, there was displayed great gallantry on both sides, and the mention of one particular deed of bravery is not intended to militate against the merits of thousands of others. In the afternoon, after Sheridan had completed his ride "From Winchester, twenty miles away;" after he had reformed the lines of his shattered army and was advancing, the army of Western Virginia was ordered to charge across a morass. The Confederate troops were on the other side, with loaded muskets, and with artillery. The commander of one of the brigades in that army was an Ohio Colonel. He was fighting on foot, leading his men. The morass stopped the men, but the Colonel commanding the brigade went right on, floundering through mud almost waist deep. He was shot once and his clothes were actually riddled with bullets, but he went ahead, waving his sword, and the men followed. He was the first man over the slough. His name was Rutherford B. Hayes.

Blaine's Marks.

James G. Blaine left his mark at the Congressional library some years ago. It will be remembered that he entered into a controversy with the Massachusetts Senators in 1880, and smote them hip and thigh, evincing in his speech a greater knowledge of Massachusetts history than either Senator Hoar or Senator Dawes possessed. In the Congressional library there is a copy of "Jared Sparks' writings of Washington." Various leaves of this book are marred by strong, heavy, black pencil marks. These were made by Mr. Blaine when he was preparing his celebrated speech on Massachusetts affairs.

LOVE TURNED TO HATE.

A Catholic Sister Choked and Beat Until She Was Unconscious.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 27.—While Sister Camille was walking alone in the hall of the Sacred Hall Convent in Emporia, at 5 o'clock last evening, a man supposed to be Frank Murray, of Terre Haute, Ind., stepped up behind her and choked and beat her until she was unconscious. He then jumped upon and kicked her prostrate form until he supposed she was dead, when he left the convent, and so far has eluded the police. This was the third murderous assault made by Murray in the past two months, but the facts have been kept from the public heretofore.

Murray was a railroad man of Terre Haute and Sister Camille was one of the nurses in the Catholic hospital there. Murray was taken to the hospital during an attack of sickness and when he was convalescent he tried repeatedly to make love to her and insisted that she should elope with him, foreswearing her vows. She scorned his pleadings. When he had recovered and been discharged from the hospital he continued his persecutions until she asked to be removed to some other place. Finally she was sent to Emporia, Kan.

In some way Murray learned of her whereabouts and followed her. To-day the Sister stated that before Murray attacked her he told her his love had turned to hate and that he would kill her if it cost him his life. Her condition is critical, her head and body being a mass of frightful bruises and lacerations.

KILLED HIS UNCLE.

An Old Pennsylvanian Shot by His Nephew in Minnesota.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 27.—Despatches from Minnesota say that Jacob Schreiber, son of John L. Schreiber, one of the commissioners of Lehigh County, in this State, shot and killed his uncle, Franklin J. Schreiber, at Morehead, Minnesota. The murderer is a young man, about 25 years of age, who ran away from home several years ago, and when next heard from was in the regular army. His uncle, the victim, was until ten years ago a resident of Lehigh County, and had a 4,000-acre farm at Moorehead.

The Schreiber family is one of the oldest and most widely known in Lehigh County. The presumption among relatives of the family here is that young Schreiber deserted and lived with his uncle, and that in some dispute he killed him.

NEGROES IN ARMS.

The Killing of a Colored Woman May Cause a Riot.

PROTECTING THE PRISONER.

Serious Trouble in a Mining Town in Alabama.

White Women and Children Fleeing from Home—The Telegraph Wires Cut—Several Hundred Negroes Reported Armed—The People Petitioning for Help—The Negroes Making Open Threats.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 28.—There is serious trouble brewing at Pratt Mines, a mining town six miles from here. Deputy Sheriff Maxwell killed a negro woman there yesterday evening, and the negroes tried to lynch him. The particulars of the killing cannot be learned. The white people wired to the sheriff here for assistance in protecting the prisoner and a posse was sent there at once.

A train has just arrived from the scene of the trouble. It was crowded with white women and children who were fleeing from home for fear of a negro uprising. The wires have been cut between this city and Pratt Mines, and the conductor of the train reports that several hundred armed negroes are assembled at slope No. 20. The people are petitioning that officers be sent out to quell the trouble and protect them. The conductor says the negroes do not hesitate to make open threats.

ROTTERDAM'S BIG STRIKE.

Serious Trouble With Dock Laborers in Germany.

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 28.—The strike which started among the dock laborers is spreading among other occupations. The employes of several cigar factories have joined the movement. The strikers, headed by Socialist leaders, paraded the streets this morning, and afterward attempted to prevent the loading of the steamer Holland. The police intervened and the loading of the steamer proceeded. Several of the shipowners have resolved not to grant the increase of wages demanded by the strikers.

Mr. Tillett, one of the leaders of the recent strike in London, will probably go to Rotterdam to-morrow to exercise his influence in behalf of the strikers. He has sent pickets to Harwich, the principal point of departure of steamers for Rotterdam, and they have already stopped many "blacklegs" who were on their way to Rotterdam to take the place of strikers.

Bodies of the strikers gathered together this afternoon and become so menacing in their demonstrations that the police dispersed them with their sabres. The Communal Guard has been called out to assist the police in preserving order.

Bodies of the strikers assembled on the quays which line the river this afternoon and become so menacing in their demonstrations that the police dispersed them with their sabres.

The Burgomaster has issued a proclamation prohibiting meetings in the streets. There have been some collisions between the strikers and police. A number of the former were slightly injured.

TWO MORE BODIES.

Victims of Johnstown's Flood Are Still Taken from the Debris.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 28.—Two bodies were taken from the debris yesterday. One was identified as that of Mrs. Surneford, of St. Louis, who met her death on the day express.

A section of Grand View Cemetery has been purchased, and all the bodies of unknown dead will be transferred to this place.

Big Capital and New Process.

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 28.—A number of capitalists from Philadelphia and other places met here yesterday and proceeded to Colebrook, where they inspected the Coleman furnaces. A company has been organized with a capital stock of $1,000,000, for the manufacture of electric light, telegraph and telephone wires and insulated taps under a new process. It is understood that an extensive plant will be erected at Colebrook, work to be commenced next week.

Driven to Insanity.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Joseph C. Harvey, well-known mill owner of this city, has been sent to the Frankford Insane Asylum. Eight years ago the Randolph mill, owned by him, was burned, and fifteen persons, mostly young girls, lost their lives owing to the absence of fire escapes. Soon afterward Mr. Harvey, who brooded over the calamity, began to show signs of mental failing, and has gradually grown worse. He owns several mills and is very wealthy.

Thanks for Returning $112,000.

BUFFALO, Sept. 28.—A compositor of this city found a package on the street addressed to F. H. Jones, New York, the receipt for which gave its value as $112,900. The package had been given to the American Express Company for transportation. The printer was thanked by the management and given the address of the party in New York to whom the package was addressed. He says now he wishes he had kept it.

New Freight Agent of the Reading Road.

READING, Pa., Sept. 28.—H. S. Beitenman, of Royersford, has been appointed freight agent of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company in this city, vice John P. Gordon, resigned. He will take charge of the new freight depot just erected by the company, which is said to be one of the largest and most complete in the State.

NEW HAVEN'S COLLECTOR.

Secretary Windom Settles a Sharp Contest in the Elm City.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.—Secretary of the Treasury Windom has notified A. H. Kellam, of this city, of his appointment as Collector of Customs for the port of New Haven, the appointment to take effect on Oct. 1.

There has been a sharp contest for the collectorship between Kellam and Gen. Pierpont, the deputy commander of the G. A. R., and much interest has been taken in the matter by Republicans generally.

BIG DYNAMITE BLAST.

Two Carloads of Powder Touched Off by Electricity.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 28.—One of the largest blasts ever made in the Lehigh Valley was fired yesterday afternoon at Glendon Iron Company's quarry about two miles from Easton. Several tunnels, large enough for a man to crawl in, and deposit powder were made, work on which occupied several months. Two carloads of dynamite powder were used and touched off by electricity by a professor of Lafayette College. A low rumbling noise followed and down came thousands of tons of rock without causing an accident or damaging the many buildings in the adjoining country section.

Emmons Blaine and His Bride.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—Mr. Emmons Blaine and his bride will make their home in Baltimore, though it is likely that she will spend the greater part of the coming season with the Blaine family at Washington. Mr. Blaine, since connecting himself in an official capacity with the West Virginia Central Railroad and locating in this city, has made many friends in railroad and business circles generally. He has been negotiating for an elegant residence on Charles avenue.

They Attacked the Minister.

NEWFOUNDLAND, N. J., Sept. 28.—A drunken couple visited the Baptist Parsonage here last night during the storm and insisted that the minister should marry them. Upon his refusal to do so they became indignant and smashed the windows in the door and demolished the ornamental fence. They kept the minister and his family intimidated all night. The couple came from the factories near by and detectives are searching for them.

A Costly Railroad Accident.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad has completed the adjustment of most of the claims for damages growing out of the accident at New Haven June 9, in which several people were killed and thirty injured. Two or three cases concerning which no agreement can be reached are likely to come into court. The company has as a rule made liberal settlements, and the aggregate amount paid out has been large.

The Cook Was a Good Shot.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 28.—John N. Hetzel, the steersman of the canal boat Mabel tried to effect an entrance through a window into the room of Mrs. Delia Preston, the cook of the boat. She ordered him away, and on his refusing to go, shot at him. Nothing more was seen of Hetzel until his body was found yesterday afternoon floating in the canal beside the boat. Mrs. Preston is under arrest.

A Mother's Fatal Mistake.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., Sept. 28.—Last evening Mrs. William Conroy found some wild parsnips in her garden. She scraped them, placed salt upon them, ate a small quantity and gave some to her three children and to the two children of Martin Griffin. All were thrown into convulsions. Mrs. Conroy died in a few hours. The children were saved after hard work by several physicians.

Minister Douglass' Trip to Hayti.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The plan of taking Minister Douglass from Norfolk to Hayti on the U. S. S. Ossipee has been abandoned, owing to a reported defect in the boilers of that vessel. The Kearsarge has been placed at his disposal, and if the present plan is carried out he will leave New York on her as soon as she can be made ready for sea.

Ex-Mayor Robbins, of Providence, Dead.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 28.—Ex-Mayor Gilbert F. Robbins died last night of brain lesion, at the age of 51 years. He was a leading dry goods merchant and a prominent Knight Templar and Odd Fellow, being past grand master of the Rhode Island Grand Lodge. I. O. O. F.

A Prominent Pennsylvanian Dead.

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa., Sept. 28.—General Thomas Zulick died here yesterday of diabetes, aged 70. He was the superintenent of the Schuylkill Navigation Company for many years, and was prominently identified with the mining and manufacturing interests of this section of the State.

Precautions for the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 28.—Fifty thousand troops have been detailed to occupy the line of the railway over which the Czar will pass if he returns direct from Berlin.

The Wilkesbarre Policeman Acquitted.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 28.—A verdict of acquittal was rendered last evening in the case of Officer David Thomas, charged with the murder of Thomas Schsilling in Edwardsville in June last.

A Wealthy Farmer Killed.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Sept. 27.—Ephriam Hazlett, a wealthy farmer of Allenville, was killed yesterday by a Pennsylvanin Railroad train while attempting to drive across the track near here.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

Disastrous Accident on the New York Central.

SEVERAL LIVES WERE LOST.

A Fast Train of Five Cars Telescoped with Another Train.

The Passenger Train Running at the Rate of Forty Miles an Hour—Surgeons and Physicians Sent From Albany—The Railroad Officials Very Reticent—Three Hundred Passengers on the Trains—The Accident Occurred Near Palatine Bridge.

PALENTINE BRIDGE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—The St. Louis express No. 5, which left Albany at 10 o'clock last night, met with a bad accident about two miles east of here about midnight. The first section broke down and stopped for repairs. The rear brakeman was sent back to signal the second section, but for some reason failed to perform his duty.

The engineer of the second section says he did not see him, and the first he saw was the lights of the first section directly in his front. The first section was made up of baggage, mail, express and passenger cars, packed with people, and a Wagner sleeper on the end.

The crash was terrific. The second section telescoped into the first section, knocking out the lights and plunging everything into darkness.

Four bodies have been taken out of the sleeper, and it is feared that the total deaths will run up to 25 and possibly more, as the car was full.

BRETHREN COME TO BLOWS.

A Bloody Hand-to-Hand Fight in a Village Church.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—A terrific church fight is in progress among factions of the United Brethren denomination of Greencastle and Clay Hill, villages a few miles south of this place, over the ownership of church property. The congregation own a church at each place, and each faction wants to hold them to the exclusion of the other. Both back up their claims with their fists. As a result a dozen suits and counter suits for assault and battery have been entered this week at the County court here. At the recent "conference" of the sect at York there was a division between the "Liberals" and the "Radicals" on questions of religious opinion and church government and the former faction withdrew. The Rev. J. Keister was chosen pastor by the Radical brethren at Greencastle, and the Rev. W. R. Schleichter was made the spiritual shepherd of the Liberals at Clay Hill. Last week the Radicals secured the keys of the church edifice at Greencastle and proposed to shut out the Liberals and prevent them from worshipping in the building.

At Clay Hill the result was otherwise, the Liberals there getting on top. The Radicals had called a meeting, but when Peter Nicholas of Chambersburg went there to address a few encouraging words to his comrades and relate the victory over their opponents at Greencastle, he discovered that the Liberals had secured possession of the building and had securely barricaded the doors and windows against invasion. Being on the outside and in the minority, Peter withdrew submissively with a few followers to the house of a neighboring farmer, and from the front porch there conducted service without interruption. Now the County Court is asked to decide between the disputants. The Radicals are sued for assault and battery, and the Liberals are sued reciprocally for assault and malicious mischief.

ANTICIPATING WAR.

Russia Secures a Large Internal Loan for Military Purposes.

WIEN, Sept. 29.—It is reported here that the Russian Government intends to raise a large internal loan as a means of obtaining sufficient financial means to carry out its gigantic plans in anticipation of war. The money to be secured by this means will be devoted altogether to military and naval purposes.

This step is contemplated in view of the uncertainty of the French alliance, which renders it difficult for Russia to raise funds outside her own borders. At least 70,000,000 roubles will be expended in strengthening the navy. The remainder will be devoted to increasing the frontier fortifications and to the purchase of magazine rifles. These measures, in addition to the new railway connections to the western frontier, are believed here to indicate a well-defined purpose of making war at no very distant period.

Back at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—President Harrison, accompanied by Mrs. Harrison, Private Secretary and Mrs. Halford and Miss Sanger, the President's stenographer, returned to the White House yesterday afternoon. All showed that their summer outing had been beneficial. The President's face was as brown as a berry and he never appeared in better health.

Westinghouse Works Destroyed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—The five story building of the Westinghouse Electric Light Works was partly burned last night. The fire started on the third floor and burned through the fourth and fifth floors used as a tinsho and lamp socket factory respectively. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss $60,000. Fully covered by insurance.

The Emperor's Reply to Minister Phelps.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—The Tageblatt says the Emperor's reply to Minister Phelps will find a wide echo throughout Germany and America, and will contrast the views expressed by a section of the press here during the Samoan complication.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—Edsall is making a specialty of dress goods for a few days.

—The cyclone that was prophesied failed to put in its appearance.

—The entire police force have been provided with handsome new badges.

—Brook fishing is reported good along Green Brook, below Washington avenue.

—During the week of the Somerset Co. Fair, the Somerville Democrat will issue a daily paper.

—A carload of iron girders and columns arrived yesterday, consigned to the Crescent Avenue church.

—The demand for heavy overcoats within the past forty-eight hours has been greatly on the increase.

—Today the woods are thronged with school boys, who are scouring among the weeds and underbrush in search of chestnuts.

—Only a few farmers are done sowing grain and cutting corn. The thirteen days' rain has put them behind with their work.

—The Marsh family will hold their sixth reunion in Newark on Oct. 2 and 3. The Marshes from far and near have been invited.

—The well-known case of Peter S. DeHart against Charles R. Dey will come up in the court at Somerville before Judge Magie on Tuesday, Oct. 1.

—It's amusing to hear people now-a-days speak of such-and-such a one dying of heart failure, as if heart failure wasn't the cause of everybody's death.

—The members of the First Presbyterian church held their regular church sociable in the chapel, last evening, and a pleasant time was had by all those present.

—The Somerset County Republican Convention has been called for Tuesday, October 15—the date for holding the convention of the State league clubs at Elizabeth.

—The list of entries for the speed events at the coming inter-state fair, at Trenton, is said to embrace the largest collection of noted horses ever seen on a half-mile track.

—The Bicycle Club is arranging for another tournament in The Crescent. The date will be some evening in November. A number of novelties will be included in the programme.

—A hatter who keeps a little in advance of the style says it will not be long before the silk hat will be worn in this country as it is in England—at all times and by all males above knee high.

—The following postmasters have just been appointed in New Jersey: John W. Garton, Absolom; Riley A. Parker, Island Heights; Mrs. C. VanArsdale, Stanhope; Arthur Haines, Tabernacle.

—The janitor at Prof. Leal's school on West Front street, has established a lunch counter in connection with the school, where the pupils can purchase a substantial bite for fifteen cents.

—If you the glass must patronize
Young man, be circumspect and wise,
Partake of such as not abates
Good cheer nor yet inebriates—
The kind that suits both lads and lasses,
For instance, Collier's opera glasses.

—The coal dealers are now reaping their harvest, the cool weather of the past few days having caused a sudden demand for the black diamonds, and the dealers are now busy filling up many coal bins about.

—As the marriage season is rapidly approaching, and the matrimonial bureau will be eagerly consulted, we advise gift-givers to lay in a supply of guns, a stock of cigarettes and a few dogs, in case the groom has none.

—The band of Sioux Indians which has attracted so much attention about town for the past few days are stationed at Scotch Plains, where they are advertising Indian remedies. The red skins come to town nearly every day to make purchases and to see the sights, and not to solicit aid as was reported.

—The Numan Improved Lawn Pump, advertised in another column today, is an indispensable article in the household. The pump is mechanically perfect in its construction. It is constructed with double cylinders, and will throw a continuous stream through either long or short sections of hose. For washing windows, spraying flowers, washing wagons, etc., it has no superior. Any person desiring to engage in a well-paying business would do well to consult the patentee at the City Hotel.

DETECTIVE "MURPHY" IN THE SOUP.

The Plainfield Firebug Informer Decamps from Serious Charges Against Him at Paterson—Is the Fellow in Hiding Here?

Edward S. Worsley, alias "Murphy, the Detective," and firebug informer, who figured so conspicuously here during the trials of the Plainfield firebugs, about two years ago and subsequently mulcted the city out of about $1,500 in cold cash for his trouble, has turned up among the slums of Paterson, where he has been employed as a special policeman for some time past. Worsley has finally come to grief. Witness the following from the Paterson Daily Guardian of Tuesday, Sept. 24, 1889:

"Special Officer Worsley, against whom charges had been preferred by Chief Graul, was not tried last night, although the Aldermanic Police Committee met for that purpose. He some time ago created a big sensation in upper Broadway by firing shots at imaginary robbers whom he declared to be nightly prowling about that neighborhood, which he was employed to watch. His scheme was exploded by Policeman Kilt. For several days the police have been looking for Worsley, whose recent whereabouts were unknown. Notices of the charges against him and the time of his trial were sent to all his haunts, but he could not be found, and the committee was therefore unable to try him.

"After the committee adjourned, officer Kilt stated that special Worsley for some time had been laying siege to the heart of a dainty housemaid at a Broadway residence, with evident success, although the misguided girl was aware of the fact that the watchman was already a benedict. On Friday last the girl left town for Plainfield, the former stamping grouhd of the whilom special, and about the same time Worsley also disappeared. There is a big brother in the case, and it is not at all unlikely that he may have something to say about the future movements of the pair."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Rev. C. B. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. church in this city, delivered an address at the corner-stone laying of the New York Avenue Baptist church at Westfield, on Saturday afternoon last.

At the residence of Mr. I. Scribner in North Plainfield, on Thursday, occurred the marriage of Mr. Hiram Nixon of Elmer, Salem county, N. J., and Mrs. Emma J. Martin of this city. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes officiated.

Mr. Harry Yarnell, at one time connected with the Electric Light company here, has accepted a lucrative position with the Daft Electric Street Railway company and has gone to Superior, Wisconsin, to superintend the introduction of an electric railway system there.

The Roselle "Record" Office Wrecked.

Thomas Barton, one of the employees in the Roselle Record office succeeded in demolishing all the movable material in the office on Thursday morning. He broke open one of the office windows, climbed in, pied all the standing type in the place and smashed the editor's desk to pieces. He emerged from the building just as Dr. I. P. Davis, the proprietor of the Record, appeared on the scene, and boastingly told what he had done. The doctor had paid Barton and discharged him the night before. A warrant was obtained and the man arrested. Justice Mulford, after an examination, remanded him to the Elizabeth Jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Grand Army Matters.

A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city was held in the Post room on Tuesday evening, and besides the regular business of the Post, the members tendered themselves an old fashioned campfire with bean soup accompaniment. It is the intention of the Post to hold open campfires on each following fifth Tuesday evening during the Winter months, at which both local and foreign talent will be engaged to take part.

Maj. Anderson Post, No. 109, also held a regular encampment, on Thursday evening and transacted business of importance to the members.

Parlor Meetings a Means of Temperance Culture.

At the Fourth Annual Convention of the Somerset County W. C. T. U., held at Somerville, Thursday of last week, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson of this city, urged the importance of Parlor Meetings, as they are social and educational in character, and papers and discourses on questions bearing on the work often enlist many ladies in this wise who decline for various reasons to attend the weekly meetings of the Union. They should be introduced at once, she thought, as they are becoming a very popular means of temperance culture throughout the State.

A Word to Gunners.

The season is now at hand when hunters of all ages get their guns and go forth to bag the shy and secluded game. It is not impertinent, therefore, to advise the sportsman not to blow down the muzzle of his gun, nor to playfully point an "unloaded" weapon at a friend, and to take care that when he aims at a mark it be not a human being transformed by the leaves and shadows of the woods into the semblance of a deer. Eternal vigilance is the price of safety on the part of gunners.

BISHOP VINCENT ON ROMANISM.

The Republic's Alleged Danger from Catholic Churches and Schools.

"I am keenly awake"—Bishop J. H. Vincent, formerly of Plainfield, is reported by the San Francisco Argonaut as saying in a recent address: "To the dangers that imperil our country; and the greatest peril of our country and civilization today, I take it, is the Roman Catholic church. It is doing more to subvert the republic, I verily believe, than any other thing. Its chief object of attack is our public school system, on which largely depend the future welfare and perpetuity of our country. The Roman hierarchy is seeking to subvert our school system in two ways. First, by establishing parochial schools as competitors of, and substitutes for, the State schools. The parochial school is un-American and ought to be abolished. And yet at the great educational convention, soon to be held at Nashville, emissaries of the Papal heirarchy will attempt by the shrewdest sophistries to convince the convention that the parochial school is in no sense inimical to the public school. Let us not be hoodwinked by their sophistries nor deceived by their Jesuitical jugglings—the parochical school is the enemy of the public school. In the second place, the Roman hierarchy seeks to destroy the public schools, not only indirectly, by displacement and substitution, but directly, by keeping up a persistent and malignant attack upon the schools themselves. Rome is the inveterate foe of free thought and free education. If the Papal church had its way in this country, it would close every public school in the land and compel our children either to receive their education at her hands or to go without education altogether.

"It is high time for the people of this country to wake up and realize that the Catholic church is plotting either to capture or destroy our public school system. It is our duty as American citizens to see to it that this free-school system—the palisdum of the republic—shall be maintained and administered without any interference or dictation on the part of any sect or hierarchy."

From the Somerset "Democrat."

Mr. W. H. Rodgers of Plainfield, made us a call on Tuesday.

It is rumored that H. T. Williams has left the employ of John J. Bergen and will accept a position in Plainfield.

Daniel A. Young of Hackettstown, a brother-in-law of R. L. Day, of this town, was found dead along the tracks of the D. L. & W. R. R. last Friday. It is not known whether his death was caused by heart disease or whether he was struck by a passing train.

An answer to the Plainfield papers accusation that Harkins is continually intimidating the batters by hitting them with the ball. The record of '89:

	Hit by Harkins.	By Crescent's pitcher.

Amateur Base Ball.

The third class High School team defeated the fourth class on the Bowling Club grounds, yesterday, by the score of 12 to 10. Plaig was knocked out of the box in the first inning and wanted to stop the game, but after a short time the playing was continued, the fourth class putting a man in the box who did a little better. Barrring a few passed balls by VanAlstyne, who was not in practice, the third class team played an almost errorless game. The third class still hold the championship of the school, having won six straight games and lost but one during the last term.

Oh, For a Y. M. C. A. Building.

The late A. T. Stewart of New York, on giving $10,000 for the building in that city, thanked them for the privilege of giving, and said in substance: "I have over 1,000 men in my employ. I often wonder what they do out of business hours and what is their moral character. I haven't time to look after them. Any company of gentlemen who band themselves together to do what you are seeking to do for the young men of New York ought to demand the money from the merchants, and give them no thanks."

Still Flowing In.

Additional gifts have been received for Willie Hamilton, from Mrs. Mattox, Agnes and Katie Langhorne, Evelene Searing, Harry and Genevieve Cloid, Chas. L. Smith; Florence and Louise Curtis, box of blocks and book; Mrs. P. Duryea, $3; box of games from a friend; Mrs. F. A. Sutphen, books; Mrs. E. S. Brown, $1; Carl Brown, books; George Snediker, books, toys, etc.

To Lecture in Plainfield.

George Kennan, the great Siberian traveler and author of the very interesting and much talked of articles on Siberia in the Century magazine, will deliver a lecture in Music Hall for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, about the middle of November.

—Notwithstanding the fact that the Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, has the most commodious buildings of any fair association in the State, the applications for space are so numerous and pressing that another immense exhibition hall is being erected on the grounds.

Impressive Funeral Services.

At the funeral of the late Mrs. A. D. Button, which took place from the house No. 14 LaGrande avenue on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. J. A. Dix of Elizabeth, who officiated, read a poem entitled: "The end of the Way," and, strange to say, it was a copy of the same beautiful poem found upon the person of the late ex-Sheriff George M. Stiles, when he committed suicide on Wednesday, March 21, 1888.

Concerning the deceased, the Elizabeth Journal of yesterday has the following to say:

"Elizabeth Driggs Graves was born in Middletown, Conn., seventy-six years ago last June, in the parsonage of the Old South church. Her father was Benjamin Graves, a Presbyterian minister, son of Maj. Roswell Graves, a soldier in the Revolutionary army, who was captured in Wallabout bay and starved to death in a British prison on Gold street, New York; her mother was Esther Hendley, nee Miller, widow of Capt. Henry Hendley, who was drowned at sea. At the time of her second marriage she had five children.

"Mr. Graves was a widower with five or six children also, but Elizabeth was the only child of the second marriage. Her mother died when she was 12 years old, and she was brought up by her mother's sister, Anna Johnston. She was married at nineteen to Alexander Drake Button, and during the first year or two of her married life lived in Hartford and New Britain, Conn.; from there she moved with her husband and family to Carthage, Jefferson county, N. Y., and from Carthage to Watertown in the same State and county. Her home was in Watertown for thirty years, for seventeen years afterward in Linden, N. J., and for the last ten years in Plainfield.

"She leaves a husband to whom she has been married for more than fifty-seven years and three sons, Benjamin Graves Button, of Waterloo, Ia., Oscar Pratt Button, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Eugene Lee Button, of Brooklyn, N. Y. She had one little girl who died more than fifty years ago."

Look Out for the Stolen Rig!

At eleven o'clock yesterday morning Timothy Burnett, a resident of Irvington, near Newark, reported at Police Headquarters that his horse and buggy had been stolen from in front of the Dime Savings Institution at that place. He said he tied the horse securely before entering the building, and when he returned to the street the rig had disappeared. He said the horse was in good condition, of a dark brown color, and eight years old. The buggy had in it a lap robe and a basket.

A description of the stolen property was at once sent to Elizabeth, Jersey City, Paterson, Plainfield, New York and Brooklyn. Any one who discovers the missing rig, will probably be handsomely rewarded, by forwarding information to the Irvington police.

The Jewish New Year.

The Jewish New Year was celebrated with the usual religious services Thursday and Friday. The Day of Atonement will begin at sundown on Oct. 4, and close at sundown on the 5th. It will be observed as a fast day, neither water nor food passing the lips of males above the age of 13 years. The Feast of the Tabernacles, in commemoration of the Jews dwelling in tents during their journey through the desert, will begin on Oct. 10, and continue eight days. The first two will be full, the next four half, and the last two, full holidays, with the Hebrews.

Bound Brook's New Road.

In Court at Somerville on Tuesday, Mr. H. C. Suydam, presented the application of Messrs Adam Schneider and others for Surveyors to be appointed to lay out the proposed new road from Bound Brook to Chimney Rock, as described in THE PRESS recently. The court subsequently appointed Henry Hahn and Dennis Mc Carthy of Bridgewater, John Wilson and John A. Higgins of Franklin, Peter Bowers, Jr., and Henry Nischwitz of Warren. They will meet at Hotel Gaddis, Bound Brook, on October 11, at 10 A. M., and thence proceed to view the road.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Seeley Edsall will conduct the Young Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening.

Mr. David M. Moore will address the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting at Mount Pleasant to-morrow evening.

Mr. W. D. Murray will teach a Sample Workers' Training class at the Y. M. C. A. Monday, at 9 P. M. Classes will resume their regular session Sunday, October 6.

The Young Men's Singing class will be taught by Mr. E. O. Embury at the Y. M. C. A. Monday at nine o'clock. Young men desiring further information are requested to apply at that time. Instruction free.

Spinal Disease.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY should be taken whenever there is felt pain or soreness in the back, or uneasiness in the extremities, increased by motion, as these are the premonitory symptoms of spinal congestion. Descriptive treatise with each bottle; or address Mack Drug Co., N. Y. For sale by J. G. Miller.

Almost Blind and Very Poor.

Professor A. A. Starr, of Westfield, who for many years has been one of the best known lecturers on microscopical subjects in the country, is in a condition bordering on absolute want, and is forced to offer his instruments and collections for sale. He began the study of microscopy as far back as 1843, and shortly afterward began lecturing and giving exhibitions of microscopic forms of animal life. A few years ago cataracts formed over each of his eyes, and an operation was performed. The result was a total loss of one eye, while the other was so badly affected that he was forced to discontinue his work. His apparatus and collections are valued at about $2,000, and the management of the Vanderbilt University, at Nashville, Tenn., want the outfit, but are not able to incur the expense. But friends of Professor Starr and of the University hope that some public spirited man will come forward and enable the deal to be consummated. Professor Starr made many interesting discoveries with his microscope in animalcular life.

FIVE PERSONS DROWNED.

The Water Only Five Feet Deep and Several Persons in Sight.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 28.—By the capsizing of a row boat in South Watuppa pond yesterday Louis Dubois, aged 53, Nathalie Dubois, his niece, aged 28, Mrs. Geo. Michand, her daughter, Leah Michand, aged 7, and Rosanna Levitere, aged 8, were drowned. Mary Michand was rescued. The party had been across the pond for grapes, and were returning.

Dubois is said to have been drunk. An empty whiskey bottle was found in the boat. The water was only five feet deep where the accident occurred. The lamentable affair was witnessed from shore, but although several people started to the rescue, only one of the boat's occupants could be saved.

Leprosy in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—The death of a Chinese woman from leprosy at the pest house to-day brought out the fact that the county is caring for ten lepers in various stages of the disease. The Health Commission says leprosy is increasing here, and probably comes from Hawaii and China, three white patients having recently arrived from Honolulu.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CHICAGO, Sept., 28.—The New Yorks got even with the Chicagos for the defeat of the day before, and pulled out their second game here yesterday afternoon in a walk. They hammered the ball in every conceivable direction, and base hits and home runs rattled on their bats like hailstones on a broken skylight. Every man in the troop hit safely at some stage of the game. Gore, Whitney, Murphy and Connor excelled in the batting, with the rest not far behind. They fielded a perfect game after the fourth inning, when the Chicagos practically dropped out of the game.

An Easy Victory for the Bostons.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—Wild pitching and poor fielding was the cause of the Hoosiers' defeat yesterday. Shreve was knocked out of the box in the first and second inning. Daily retired from the game after the third inning by consent.

PRESIDENTIAL POSTOFFICES.

The Postmaster-General Preparing a Schedule of Offices Not Disposed of.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker is preparing a statement to give to the President upon the latter's return to Washington, showing the status of all the Presidential post offices that have not been disposed of.

The President probably anticipates an attack by the patronage-hunting Congressmen at an early day, and he wants to be loaded for them.

The papers in each case are being briefed, so that the President can tell at a glance just who the incumbent is, how many applicants there are for the place, and who their respective indorsers are.

A Spectator Shot in an Italian Fight.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 27.—At Greensburg yesterday during a fight between some Italian quarrymen, James Lamber, a spectator, was shot and probably fatally wounded by one of the Italians, who had aimed at one of his countrymen. No arrests have yet been made.

A 13-Year-Old Deputy Sheriff.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Sheriff Goldner, of Queens county, has appointed Selden Weller, son of Surrogate Weller, a deputy sheriff. The new officer is only 13 years old, and is the youngest deputy sheriff in the United States.

RATTLING LIGHTWEIGHT MILL.

Tommy Danforth Knocked Out in the Fifty-fifth Round.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 28.—Tommy Danforth, of New York, and Joe Solo, of this city, lightweights, fought at the Southern California Athletic Club last night. The fight was for a purse of $650.

Solo had the best of the fight in the first part, and between the sixteenth and twenty-fourth rounds almost succeeded in knocking Danforth out. Solo also gained first blood in the eighteenth round.

After the twenty-fourth round Danforth had the upper hand. With a stinging blow on Solo's eye he drew the blood copiously, and seemed to have the best of the fighting up to the fiftieth round. In that round, however, Solo rallied and sent in a heavy blow on Danforth's neck which all but put him to sleep.

From this to the fifty-fifth and last round Solo severely punished Danforth, and in the final round knocked him completely out with a terrific blow on the neck.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED.

A Belief That the Moen-"Doc." Wilson Mystery is Solved.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Specials from Boston say that it is believed by many that the secret between Philip Moen, the millionaire barbed-wire manufacturer, and "Doc." Wilson, which has enabled the latter to obtain many hundreds of thousands of dollars from the former, has been discovered. It is said that a Frenchman named Janin was the real inventor of the barbed-wire. Janin came to this country in 1869. He soon disappeared, and a report of his death was published. It is now rumored that from some cause Janin became insane and that Wilson was employed by Moen to take care of the inventor, and is the only man who knows what has become of him. It is also said that a search of the insane asylums is now being made by persons interested in finding Janin.

AN UNKNOWN HERO.

Some One's Presence of Mind Saved All the Injured from Death.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 28.—The men injured in the molten metal accident at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works with probably two exceptions, are out of danger.

Capt. William R. Jones is suffering a great deal from his wounds, but will recover. The fleshless body of Michael King, the missing Hungarian, was found embedded in the hot steel.

It is stated that the lives of all the men about the furnace were saved by an unknown hero, who with wonderful presence of mind turned the valve and shut off the blast as soon as the break occurred.

VIOLATING POSTAL LAWS.

Connecticut Postmasters Passing in Review Before United States Commissioners

NORWICH, Conn., Sept. 28.—James T. Goodrich, ex-postmaster at Norwichtown was before U. S. Commissioner Tenney yesterday, charged with violation of the postal laws in the Pallison matter, and was placed under $200 bonds to appear Monday for examination.

James L. Downer, formerly postmaster at Columbia, has been held in $500 bonds by U. S. Commissioner Brandegee of New London, charged with similar violation of the law.

Swedes to Colonize in Vermont.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—A. B. Valentine, State Immigration Commissioner of Vermont, states that arrangements have been completed for the establishment in Vermont of two Swedish colonies, one of about 12 families near Wilmington, Windham county, and the other of about 13 families near Weston, Winsor county. The families average five members and each family will take up about 100 acres of hitherto unoccupied State land. They are expected to arrive the first of next May. It is possible that a third colony may be established in the neighborhood of Corinth and Vershire in Orange county.

Training for Missionary Work.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The first foreign missionary institute ever established in the United States is to open here, Oct. 1, under the presidency of the Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., at the Baptist Tabernacle, in Bowdoin square. The object is to supply to those called to missionary labor who are unable to avail themselves of the usual advantages the best possible training for the work. Both sexes will be admitted.

Peace Reigns at Port au Prince.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The West India mail boat Orange Nassau arrived from Port au Prince to-day. Among her passengers were Count de Sesmaisois, French Minister to Hayti, his wife and son. The party will sail for Havre tomorrow. Captain Stroink reports that the city of Port au Prince was entirely in the control of the Hippolyte faction and that peace reigned in it.

Miners' Troubles Break Out Anew.

BRAZIL, Ind., Sept. 28.—The No. 8 miners, at Perth, in mass meeting yesterday voted to discontinue to work and rejoin the strikers. A mass meeting will be held to-day at Jumbo mine for the same purpose. Committees are at work closing every block mine in this district. The Knights of Labor are offering extraordinary inducements to the strikers to hold out.

The Trouble Adjusted.

WOBURN, Mass., Sept. 28.—The labor trouble at the factory of Eustace Cummings & Co. has been practically settled in a conference between Mr. Cummings and Mr. Moreland, of the K. of L. committee, and if the men indorse Mr. Moreland's action they will return to work Monday on the old basis of wages previous to the cut down.

The Bold Stage Robber Escapes.

BESSEMER, Mich., Sept. 28.—Reimund Holzhay, the train robber, stage robber, murderer, burglar and general bandit, who was captured a few days ago at Republic, has just escaped from the county jail here, along with several other prisoners. The whole section is greatly excited and is up in arms.

The First Woman Student.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 28.—At the opening of the Hartford Theological Seminary the $200 scholarship for best entrance examination was awarded to Llewellen, of Lake Forest, Ill. The first woman student has entered for a course of training for foreign missions.

CONEY ISLAND.

Mr. Sweet Gives an Interesting Description of It—A Day's Visit to This Popular Resort.

IN New York there are days when, in order to avoid sunstroke, you must get out of the city.

One day, not very long since, when it was very hot, my friend Sykes, who has lived in New York all his life, said to me:

"Don't you want to go to Coney Island, otherwise known as Manhattan Beach, and hear what the wild waves are saying?"

"I have no objection. Which route shall we take?"

"There are several ways to get there, but the shortest is to cross the East river at Thirty-fourth street ferry and take the train at Long Island City. That will take us there in three-quarters of an hour."

"All right. Let us go."

"We have just time to get to the ferry and to catch the three o'clock train."

We hurry to the train and rush into the ticket office. Large crowd there already. Man behind me gives me a shove just as I am getting the money out of my pocket-book. Woman in front of me has an umbrella under her arm. Hit the end of the umbrella vicious blow with my eye. See stars and other pyrotechnics.

Ticket agent says: "Shove along, there!" The end of the woman's umbrella seems to be uninjured. Sykes, who has already got his ticket, wants to know if I am going to stay there all day. Pain in my eye very intense. Perhaps I will lose the sight of it. Sykes examines it, and consoles me by saying that it looks like the stopper of an old ink bottle. I can't find my pocket-book. Sykes says he told me to look out for pick-pockets, and points to sign on the wall to that effect. Sykes says it makes no difference, that he has plenty of money. Of course it makes no difference to him. He bears up like a hero under the sufferings I undergo with my injured eye.

N. B.—This is supposed to be a pleasure trip.

We are all herded together like cattle in a corral. There is an opening at one end of the corral through which the cattle—I mean the passengers—are driven on board the ferry-boat, just as the cattle are driven into the cars in Texas for transportation. As the cows, heifers, yearlings and beef steers go through the narrow gangway a man punches each animal with a red-hot branding iron. As the herd of men, women and boys push themselves through the door of the ticket office a man stands there with a punch. He doesn't punch the people, but he punches the tickets. As soon as the passengers emerge from the corral with their punched tickets they cavort around and stampede for the ferry-boat.

My eye is painful. What makes it more so is the fact that I can not see my pocket-book. We are in the middle of the East river. Sykes calls my attention to the beautiful view of Blackwell's Island and the Brooklyn bridge. The latter looks as if it was made of cobwebs. Man on the boat looks at my eye and whispers to a friend. They both laugh. [Vulgar brutes!] Sykes tells me to keep my handkerchief from my eye or people will think I am signaling to my friends on Blackwell's Island where the convicts are.

We arrive at Long Island City. The crowd rush off the ferry-boat as if they were afraid of being taken back to New York. Nobody walks. Every body trots. The whole herd turns to the left and runs into another corral. As we pass out the gate another man with a punch brands our tickets with a road brand, and we climb into the cars that are impatiently waiting for us.

The cars are open cars, with horizontal seats like a street-car. There is also a parlor-car attached to the train for the aristocracy who want to pay a quarter extra. Perhaps the man who got my pocket-book will ride in that parlor-car. A big, fat old woman and a young thin woman, evidently mother and daughter, enter the car, or at least the daughter does. The daughter climbed in first. Mother tries to follow, but the door is too narrow. Fat woman stuck fast. She puffs and blows and says: "O, dear me!" Daughter tugs at her arm and says:

"Maw, please make an effort."

"Maw" makes a noble effort, but it is no go. People in the car laugh heartlessly. Sykes says the car will have to be taken to pieces. Hatchet-faced conductor pushes fat woman from the outside. Thin daughter pulls from the inside, but fat woman maintains her position with the pertinacity of an insurance agent. The conductor tells the fat woman that she must either get in the car or out of it, and he goes away. He shouts: "All aboard!" Fat woman makes another public spirited effort. Train begins to move, some of fat woman being still outside of the car. Tremendous effort by fat woman. She is inside but speechless. When she comes to, the first thing she says is something about how she would have got into the parlor car if the price had not been so outrageously high. The conductor wanted a whole quarter of a dollar. She says it is an outrage. Daughter, who is evidently of an extravagant disposition, says:

"Maw, what's a quarter, anyhow!"

"It is twenty-five cents, my dear, and you can get a great deal of clam chowder for all that money."

I called the attention of Sykes to the fact that the conductor and brakesman wear a sneering expression on their faces. Their nostrils are dilated as if with scorn.

"They are not sneering," says Sykes, "they are only turning up their noses."

"Why do they turn up their noses?"

"Because they have got so in the habit of it that they can't stop it."

"How did they come to acquire that habit?"

"You will see pretty soon."

He hasn't more than said this when every body in the car begins to turn up his nose and sneer. We are passing through a horrible smell. Some of the passengers hold smelling bottles to their noses. Others swear. It could not have possibly smelt any worse in Denmark in Hamlet's time.

"Hunter's Point," said Sykes, and he points to a number of immense tanks. It seems that this neighborhood abounds in glue factories and other institutions in which all the horses and other animals that die in New York are used for various purposes.

Sykes admits that the smell is not like that of a bank of violets, but that there is a silver lining to the cloud, as there are no mosquitoes. He says that in New Jersey mosquitoes board trains while in motion and attack the passengers.

As the train approaches Manhattan Beach the country becomes more level, very much like a Texas prairie.

At last the train stops, but delay is experienced by some of the passengers in getting off on account of the fat woman having again wedged herself into the door.

There are numerous hotels and pavilions on Manhattan Beach. The style of architecture is very ornamental and unique. The hotels abound in towers, cupolas, mullioned windows—I think the windows were mullioned somewhat—corridors, porticos and verandas. None of these improvements are mentioned in the bill, but they are there all the same.

Thousands of people stroll along the broad plank walks and listen to Gilmore's band, and gaze on the deep blue Atlantic, which constitutes the front yard of the resort.

GOOD-BYES.

Something About the Various Kinds of Farewells.

Every now and then, as we journey through this vale from the cradle to the grave, it becomes necessary for us to say good-bye. Generally it is said in sadness and with a sigh. We wring the hand of the departing friend, the sorrowful tears are shed, then the bell rings and the train goes around the curve. This is the good-bye that sticks in the throat like a large three-cornered lump and persistently refuses to be swallowed. After this kind of a farewell we go home feeling that something has gone out of life. We are like the man who puts his foot for another step at the top of the dark stairway and finds suddenly that it isn't there.

Then there is the farewell that is said with a hilarious chuckle of joy. We say it to the bill-collector, whom we have with us always, or have had for a long time. We say it to the bore, the spring poet, to the man who reads the exchanges and to the writer who invariably refers to a bear as bruin.

We say it hurriedly and with a rising inflection to the book-agent, male and female. We say it to the man who tells us the funny story the nine hundred and forty-seventh time in one day. To the impecunious friend and to the man who is ever loaded with gratuitous advice. Very often we yearn for a chance to say it long before the opportunity is presented.

Distinctive are the good-byes of the dude, the giggling girl and the gibbering idiot. Deliver us from the long drawn out farewell of the female of our species, unless, perchance, the said female is young and fair.

The casual good-bye is used more generally, perhaps, than any other variety. It equals in significance the how-dye-do of our every-day life, and is about as useful as would be a hat-rack in Heaven.

A welcome good-bye is that of the man who pushes, with difficulty, the eighteen-carat odor of his breath in front of him, and who longs to confide in his friends; and in this same category may be listed the man who guzzles the red-hot demon, rum.

The sweetest good-bye is that of the girl at her father's front gate, when only you or I and the girl and twinkling stars are present. To some of us it is only a memory, this kind of a farewell, but it is a memory that will remain fresh and green long after we have passed that callow age.

The saddest good-bye is the one that is said by the side of an open grave.

RICHARD S. GRAVES.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

A Mean Deed That Cost Its Doer a Seat in the United States Senate.

Thirty years ago a little boy was given a quarter of a dollar for spending-money. As he was walking down street, very happy, he met with an older boy and showed him the money, saying as he did so: "See what my good papa gave me to spend." The older boy knocked it out of the little fellow's hand, snatched it up and ran away with it. The little boy was almost heart-broken, but when he went home crying and told about it, his mamma gave him another quarter. This mollified him, but he never forgave that older boy. The war came on, and the older boy was given a commission in the army, while the little one remained at home, because he was too young to enlist. After the war the younger boy became a clerk in the War Department. Within the past fifteen years, the older boy, who had become a lawyer and an orator, announced himself as a candidate for the United States Senate, and he had a large following.

It looked as though he might be elected. But one morning the newspapers of the country, especially of his own State, published a statement to the effect that the candidate had been dismissed from the army for cowardice, and other questionable conduct. The lawyer denied the charge, and extracts from the muster rolls in the War Department were published, showing that the charge was true. He was not elected. After his defeat was accomplished he received a letter from Washington containing the words: "Do you remember the day you outraged a little boy's feelings, almost broke his heart, by stealing a quarter from him? That deed cost you a seat in the Senate." This true story might warrant the moral that honesty and gentlemanly conduct always pay better than rascality. Not only bread, but thistles, cast upon the water return after many days.

TOMMY'S EXPERIENCE.

It Did Not Prove as Satisfactory as He Had Anticipated.

Mrs. Judge Peterby, of Dallas, Tex., has a gifted son who is very much addicted to reading the newspapers, and adopting or putting into practice any hints or suggestions which he thinks are really valuable. He is particularly enthusiastic about hints in regard to health.

Just about the time the first green watermelons come into season, Mrs. Peterby on her return home from spending the day with a friend found her son Tommy sick, with two doctors taking it turn about with stomach pumps. She also noticed that her numerous geraniums and pot plants were gone. During one of the pauses in Tommy's indisposition she asked what had become of them.

"I read in the Journal of Health," gasped Tommy, feebly, while one of the doctors was screwing a new nozzle on his stomach pump, "I read that it isn't healthy to have plants in a sleeping room, so I sold 'em."

"What did you do with the money, you little wretch!"

"Bought watermelons," gurgled Tommy, as the doctor inserted the nozzle and began to dredge for more alluvial deposit.

Mrs. Peterby has spent some time while Tommy has been convalescing, in trimming down one end of a hogshead stave, so that she can wield it with both hands on an emergency and Tommy.—Texas Siftings.

He Swallowed the Insult.

There is an Irish gentleman who drinks whisky. He was recently in Washington, and wanted an office. One day at noon he walked into the bar of the Riggs, ordered his beverage, filled the glass to the brim, and then said to the bar-tender: "I'd like a little sirup, av you plaze." The gentlemanly dispenser of ratbane said: "You have left no room in your glass for sirup," and he looked hard at his customer. The Irish gentleman was equal to the emergency. He picked up the glass, and, as it moved towards his lips, he replied: "This is me first drink to-day, an' I'm thirsty. Therefore, I'll swallow both—the insult an' the whisky."

It is the day rate of nature's products that interests most speculators, but English Colonel North got rich observing the nitrate of soda, in Chili.

LAST ACT OF THE TRAGEDY.

The Banker for the Mountain Murderers Released from Custody.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 28.—The last act in the mountain murders of Oct. 19, 1888, when Paymaster McClure and Hugh Flanagan were killed by "Red Nosed" Mike and his gang, came to a close yesterday afternoon, when Francisco Chiriako was released from jail.

Chiriako was banker for the murderers and handled some of the money taken from the paymaster after the murder. He was brought here last February and indicted as an accessory after the fact. He was used as a witness in the trial of "Red Nosed" Mike, and his testimony aided in sending that rascal to the gallows.

Robert J. Linden, chief of the Philadelphia Pinkerton force, came here yesterday and told the District Attorney that he had no hope of getting Bevivino and Villala extradited. They were arrested in Italy, but the Italian Government refused to give them up, and there is now no hope that they will ever be tried for the murder of McClure and Flanagan. Chiriako was therefore discharged, and returned to his home in Philadelphia last night.

Another Landslide Expected.

QUEBEC, Sept. 28.—There is another fissure in the overhanging cliff, and the kiosk at the end of Dufferin Terrace is gradually sinking over. It is generally believed that a few more days of rain or heavy frost will cause a second landslide. Despite this the city government is building a roadway over the fallen rocks as if the danger were over.

Chinese Merchants Off for China.

RICHFORD, Vt., Sept. 28.—Fifteen Chinese merchants and as many laborers from Boston passed through here Saturday en route for China. They received permits at the custom house here to return good for one year.

Death of an Ex-Congressman.

READING, Pa., Sept. 28.—Ex-Congressman William Loughbridge, of Iowa, died last night on South Mountain, ten miles from here, where he has been for some time for the benefit of his health. He was 63 years of age.

His Property Attached.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.—The property of R. B. Mallory, formerly head of the firm of Mallory, Wheeler & Co., hardware manufacturers, was attached yesterday for $15,000 by the City Bank, on overdue notes.

THE ALL AMERICA

The Congress to Organize in Washington on Wednesday.

AN INONRMAL MEETING TO-DAY.

Secretary Blaine Will Give His Instructions to the U S. Delegates.

Cities Anxious to Entertain the Foreign Visitors — Every Day Occupied and All Arrangements for Sight-Seeing and Banqueting Completed — The Presidential Apartments at the White House Freshened Up—New Carpets and Furniture.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Most of the foreign delegates to the International American Congress have reached this city, and an informal conference with the delegates on the part of the United States was held at 11 o'clock to-day for the purpose of talking over the order of business before the formal organization on Wednesday.

At 11 o'clock on Wednesday the delegates on the part of the United States will have a conference with the Secretary of State and receive their instructions.

Many telegrams have been received from various cities throughout the country which are not included in the programme of the excursion tendered to the foreign delegates, but to all of them the same reply has been sent. It is impossible at this late hour to make any change in the itinerary, as every day is occupied and the arrangements for the entertainment of the guests have been completed in nearly every city to be visited.

NICE AND NEW.

The Presidential Apartments at the White House Freshened Up.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The Presidential apartments at the White House now look very inviting. New carpets have been put down in the library, the cabinet-room and Mr. Halford's office, and on the stairways and corridors throughout the building. The walls have been brightened up and the furniture reupholstered.

The old-syle furniture in the cabinet-room which has done duty since Grant's first administration has been re-covered with satin canvas to match the bright-tinted carpet selected by Mrs. Harrison. The wide-bottomed cane-seated chair that was constructed for the late Secretary Daniel Manning still remains in the room, but it looks lonesome and out of harmony with the richly upholstered chairs grouped side by side around the cabinet table.

Mr. Halford's room looks particularly inviting. The new carpets, the frescoing on the walls and the leather-covered furniture harmonize beautifully. Downstairs the East Room, the Red, Blue and Green parlors are in readiness for the reception to be given next week in honor of the delegates to the congress of the three Americas.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS.

Gathering at Syracuse for the Convention To-Morrow.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Nothing is talked of here to-day but the convention to be held to-morrow. State Chairman Murphy and a delegation from Troy arrived here early this morning.

The New York delegations will arrive this evening. The County Democracy will be met at the depot by a band, and will parade through the principal streets.

Tammany will get in here at 5 o'clock with a band, and are expected to wake the town with their parade. Chamberlain Croker, Commissioners Gilroy, Purcy and James J. Martin, Bourke Cockran, Senators Ives and Cantor, Judges White and Welde, W. L. Brown, Thos. Grady, Judge Cochrane, Judge Hogan and J. Edward Simmons will be in line. Tammany has accommodations at the Vanderbilt for 60 people. The remainder of their people will be quartered in the Globe.

The State Committee will meet to-night in parlor 9, and a big banner on the walls of the Leland calls the attention of delegates to the fact.

The convention will come together at the Alcambra Hall at noon to-morrow. The hall is already decorated.

There is a diversity of opinion in regard to nominations, but it is generally agreed that Edward Wemple, the present Controller, and Mr. Tabor, the present Attorney-General, will be renominated.

Bogus Diploma Mill.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 30.—A bogus diploma mill has been discovered here. It is the Trinity University of Medicine and Surgery, having nominal headquarters at Bennington, Vt. The concern sells sheepskins of the University of Cincinnati, Montreal Medical College, New York State Medical College, Trenton, N. J., Medical College, University of New Hampshire and the Trinity University of Medicine and Surgery. All of the institutions exist on paper only. A man named Bradbury in Boston is the prime mover in the scheme. He will be arrested, as positive proof against him has been secured.

Two Mill Operatives Drowned.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 30.—Four young mill operatives living near Pontoosuck Lake were rowing on the lake yesterday afternoon when their boat capsized. Alfred Ford, aged 24 and Firon Champine, aged 23, were drowned. The other two were rescued by a boat which put out from the shore.

Bank Superintendent Paine Resigns.

ALBANY, Sept. 30.—Hon. W. S. Paine, superintendent of the Banking Department, has resigned his office to accept the presidency of a new trust company in New York City. His resignation takes effect Oct. 1. It is understood that Gov. Hill will not appoint a successor to Mr. Paine until next week.

A JEALOUS LOVER.

He Fires Three Shots at the Girl He Had Been Courting.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 30.—John Frieze, aged 22 years, has been paying court for several months to Miss Georgia Stone, aged 19 years, who lives in the northern suburbs of Baltimore, and it was understood they were engaged. Yesterday Frieze met Miss Stone walking on the Falls road with Robert Moore. The jealous Frieze upbraided the girl and told her if she did not cut Moore's acquaintance he would cut hers.

"Then consider all at an end between us," retorted the girl.

"Yes, and consider that as an end to you," said Frieze, as he quickly drew a pistol and fired. He aimed three shots at Miss Stone. The first struck her in the eye, the second in the abdomen, the third missing the mark. Frieze then fled and has not yet been captured. Miss Stone is lying at her home in a critical condition.

TO-MORROW'S ELECTIONS.

Republicans and Democrats Confident of Victory in Washington and Montana.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30.—To-morrow voters of N. Dakota, S. Dakota, Montana and Washington Territories will cast their votes for or against the Constitutions prepared for their consideration, and at the same time they will choose the officers whom they wish to govern them at home and to represent them at the national capital. The campaigns during the past few weeks have been hard and well fought battles for supremacy of party principles and candidates.

If the elections turn out according to the claims of the Republicans there will be a Republican gain in the national House of five votes and in the Senate of eight, but if the Democrats secure what they anticipate there will be chosen four Republican Representatives and one Democratic Senator.

DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

The Death of Capt. Jones, of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, Was Unexpected.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 30.—Capt. W. R. Jones, general manager of the Edgar Thompson Steel Works, died Saturday night of injuries received in the terrible accident at that plant on last Thursday. His death was a surprise, as he was believed to be in no immediate danger. He took a sudden turn for the worse and died in a short time.

Capt. Jones had a world-wide reputation in iron and steel circles, and was universally esteemed by all who knew him. His salary and share of the profits of the extensive plant exceeded $50,000 a year. He was 55 years of age, and leaves a wife and family.

Sallie Tarbor Gets a Pension.

NORWICH, Conn., Sept. 30.—A pension has been granted to Mrs. Sallie H. Tarbor, of Norwich, who was the widow of one Randall in the war of 1812. After Randall's death she married Antipas Tarbor. A special bill to secure this pension to her was passed by Congress and vetoed by President Cleveland. The Commissioner of Pensions having decided that a second marriage does not disturb the right which accrued to the claimant in consequence of the military services of her first husband, she gets a pension and arrearages from March 9, 1878.

Death of Gen. Sturgis.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 30.—General Samuel D. Sturgis, U. S. A., is dead. He graduated from West Point in 1846, along with George B. McClellan, Stonewall Jackson, Stoneman, Pickett and many other famous soldiers. General Sturgis engaged in some of the most important battles of the War of the Rebellion, and fought Indians for forty years in the Northwest, retiring from active command three years ago.

New York State Turners.

SUSPENSION BRIDGE, N. Y., Sept. 30.—To-day a grand parade and gymnastic exhibition of the New York State Turners took place, and this evening a ball will be given, at which prizes valued at $500 will be awarded. Turners from New York, Fort Plain, Bloomingdale, Rome, Utica, Auburn, Rochester, Brooklyn, Troy, Syracuse and other cities are present.

Train Wreckers Baffled.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 30.—An attempt was made to wreck the northbound way freight about a mile south of here, late Saturday afternoon, by placing a large piece of iron in a patent switch on a sharp curve. The engineer of the freight saw the obstruction and stopped the train before reaching it.

Mrs. Uffer Still Alive.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 30.—The condition of Mary Uffer, who was shot Saturday at Union Hill by her husband, is unchanged. She received two wounds—one in the head and another in the back. In her statement to Coroner O'Hara she said that her husband was drunk when he shot her. The remains of her husband, who committed suicide immediately after the shooting, are at the morgue, and will be buried to-day by Mrs. Uffer's relatives.

Jumped Into the Sea.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—During the voyage of the Servia, which arrived yesterday, a man named Timothy Sheehan, of Elizabethport, N. J., who, with his wife, had been on a visit to the old country, jumped overboard. The ship was stopped and a search made for the unfortunate man, but not a trace of him could be discovered. His wife was prostrated with grief, and for several days her life was despaired of.

Struck It Rich.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 30.—Ex-Assemblyman Thomas Vincent Cator, the prohibitionist and silver-tongued orator of New Jersey, went to California several months ago, and his wife procured a divorce from him. It is reported that he has married again, his new wife bringing him a fortune of $5,000,000. His first also was wealthy.

MAY FIGHT THE RUSH

Crews of the Seized Sealers Bound to Make Trouble.

MUCH EXCITEMENT AT VICTORIA

The Militia is Held Ready to Prevent an Attack on the Cutter.

The Crews of the Sealers Say that If They Cannot Get Redress Out of the British Government They Will Take it Out of the Rush — The United States Cutter Expected to Call at Victoria and Trouble is Anticipated.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—British Columbia advices to-day say that the United States cruiser Rush will soon call at Victoria on her way south, and it is feared trouble will arise between the crews of the seized sealing schooner and their friends and the crew of the Rush if the latter attempts to anchor in the harbor. The crews of the sealers, most of whom are now at Victoria, are in the wildest state of excitement over the loss of their summer's work and the confiscation of their skins. The crews say that if they cannot get redress through the British Government, they will take it out of the United States cutter that "stole" their sealskins.

The militia is to be held ready to prevent any attack on the cutter. There are many men of the rougher element of Victoria who would join the indignant sealers if the latter attack the Rush.

The Rush has captured five British Columbian sealers in Alaska waters and broken up the work of a dozen vessels in all. About two thousand five hundred skins were confiscated, but all the vessels except one American schooner, which put into Sitka as ordered went to Victoria.

KILLED WHILE DRUNK.

A Night's Carousal Ends in a Quarrel and Supposed Murder.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Catharine Hennessey was found dead in a pool of blood yesterday, at the foot of the stairs leading to the apartments of herself and husband at 221 West Third street, South Boston. The officer who found the body went up stairs and found Mr. Hennessey wiping up blood in the hallway.

Hennessey was arrested. He is a boilermaker, 27 years old, and his wife was two years his senior. The couple had three children, the oldest being 7 years of age.

As far as can be ascertained, there has been considerable trouble between Hennessey and his wife, brought about by her drinking to excess. On Saturday night Hennessey came home from work shortly after 6 o'clock somewhat the worse for liquor. His wife also had signs of liquor on her. Hennessey went out and brought in a pint of beer, which they drank together. They had company during the evening, and several pints of beer were drunk.

Hennessey began to fight with his wife about her drinking, and knocked her down. The company left, and as they reached the bottom of the stairs Mrs. Hennessey's body came tumbling down after them. Hennessey ordered the visitors away and took his wife upstairs. The oldest child says his father struck his mother several times on the head with a stick of wood and then ordered the child to go to bed. Hennessey says his wife fell down stairs accidentally, and claims that he does not know what caused her death.

ANOTHER TASCOTT STORY.

The Man Who is Said to Have Told It Is Now Dead.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A morning paper publishes a story to the effect that James Gillan, who died at the county hospital six months ago, confessed to Father Sullivan before dying that he with two companions had robbed the Snell residence and murdered millionaire Snell in February, 1858.

It is also stated that Gillan made a statement to a certain attorney who he wanted to defend him in the event of his arrest, giving a full account of the crime and his connection with it. The story intimates that Tascott was a party to the crime.

Another morning paper publishes a story to the effect that Tascott, after the Snell murder, remained in hiding in the house of a friend here for a year, when, disguised as a female, he was taken as a domestic to California, where he died.

$2,000,000 Left to a Pauper.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Sept. 30.—John Brennan, an inmate of the almshouse, has been notified that his sister, Mrs. John Corson, had died in San Francisco and left him $2,000,000. Brennan and two sisters landed at Castle Garden from Dublin in 1845. The girls went to the Coast and started a lunch counter in '49 days. Brennan has worked in the coal mines all his life, until he broke a leg in 1884 and went to the County Almshouse.

Dissatisfied Silk Workers.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 30.—Dissatisfaction is again cropping up among the silk workers, who are becoming sore at the cuts made in their wages. The condition of things is ascribed to competition with the annex mills established in Pennsylvania and other States. The Paterson manufacturers are not able to compete with these mills without bringing wages down.

Looking for a Wealthy Connecticut Man.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The police of this city have been requested to assist in the search for George O. Vack, a wealthy tailor of Bridgeport, Conn., who mysteriously disappeared from that place on Sept. 20. He had over $1,800 in money with him when he left home, and foul play is feared.

BY THE WAY.

—Oh! for a Y. M. C. A., building.

—The Board of Freeholders will meet at Elizabeth on Thursday afternoon.

—The wide awake business man should have his Fall ad. planted by this time.

—The Plainfield Crescent League will meet at Force's Hotel, Wednesday evening.

—Rev. Father Smyth, assisted by Rev. Father Stafford, conducted services in St. Mary's church, last evening.

—The annual meeting of the New Jersey State Homœopathic Medical Society will be held at Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, to-morrow.

—The owner of a pair of spectacles found on Richmond, between Fifth and Sixth streets, can have the same by calling at The Press office.

—Gathering autumnal leaves is now proper. Each afternoon the woods may be seen well filled with merry crowds of autumnal beauty seakers.

—Mr. S. G. Ginna of Broadway conducted the service in Hope chapel, last evening. The attendance was large and much enthusiasm was manifested.

—On good authority it is said that a letter can now be sent around the world in 60 days, providing it isn't one which the wife has given her husband to mail.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church, are arranging for a grand fair, which is to be held in the lecture room of the church from November 4 to 7.

—Young Men's Singing class and Sample Workers' Training class will both be held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at nine o'clock. All young men interested are invited.

—The two East Front street girls who received an offer to marry after a courtship of twenty minutes on Grove street, yesterday afternoon, are considering the propositions.

—The meeting to organize a lodge of the Improved Order of Red Men, will be held to-morrow evening in K. of P., Hall, corner of Front street and Park avenue, at eight o'clock.

—Chief Carey offers $10 reward for information that will lead to the conviction of anyone found guilty of breaking the lamps of the Electric Light company or in any way interfering with the street lighting service.

—The "Y's" will resume their meetings Tuesday, Oct. 1, at 4 o'clock P. M. A devotional meeting will then be held at 29 East Fifth street, to which all members and others interested in the work, are most earnestly invited.

—Nothing has yet been heard of Edward S. Worsley who decamped from Paterson, last week, to escape serious charges preferred against him by the Paterson Police Board. He was in this city last Monday evening.

—Willie Miller, Mary VanFleet, Fred Phillips, Laura Emmons, Carl Brown, Nibsey Gibson and Lulu Johnson have sent bundles of books and games for Willie Hamilton. The fund to buy an easy chair now amounts to $6 50.

—It is really amusing to hear the criticisms on the ball grounds concerning the relative merits of one or the other of the teams. Some of those who criticise the players so strongly, scarcely know the difference between a foul tip and a home run.

—A meeting for the organization of a co-operative grocery store, will be held in the hall over Stelle's drug store, corner of Front street and Park avenue, on Wednesday evening. All those interested in the movement are requested to be present.

—The exhibition of live stock and poultry at the Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, this week, will be unusually large and fine. So many entries in these classes have already been made that the management are in a quandary as to where to place them all.

—A large audience was present at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, and great interest was manifested throughout the service. Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, the pastor, delivered an able discourse, taking his text from Romans VIII: 38-39.

—Word was sent to this office today that some of the electric light wires under the Richmond street bridge had fallen down and were stretched across the street so as to interfere with the passage of vehicles. The Electric Light Company was notified by telephone.

$400 ON WATSON.

Convicted of Being One of the 63 Unlicensed Liquor Dealers in Plainfield.

In the City Court, this morning, before Judge Stillman, was tried the four charges against Michael F. Watson for selling liquor without a license. Counsellors Walter Hetfield of this city, and Fred Marsh of Elizabeth, appeared for the accused but offered no defence, and Watson was fined $100 on each of the four charges.

James Doty, who drives an ice wagon for Mr. John Morton, testified that he had ordered rye whiskey in Watson's place, drunk it, and paid for it, and had also treated Andrew Muir. This testimony the latter, who is a special policeman and an employee at the Potter Press Works, corroborated. The accused's lawyers stated they did not desire to interpose any defence before that Court, and Judge Stillman promptly put on Watson the full penalty allowed in the way of a fine, $100.

Doty and Muir testified that on another occasion they had bought beer in Watson's place; and Charles Peterson and Billy McGrady swore they also got beer of Watson. There was no defence offered to either of these charges, and the Court added $200 more to Watson's fine.

Peterson then testified that he had been hired to go with Chief Carey in a buggy to Watson's place at Grant avenue and Second street, on the night of Aug. 17. He had gone in and bought a half-dozen bottles of beer, put them in the buggy and he and the Chief had taken them to the latter's office. The Chief was then put on the stand, and the beer itself offered in evidence. Judge Stillman fined Watson another hundred, and the Court adjourned after agreeing to give the counsel for the defence a few days to file their appeal bonds. The cases will be carried to another court.

Robbed of $400.

Carl Nordorsky, a German farm hand, came to this country several years ago in search of health, home and happiness, such as is found only in "the land of the free and the home of the brave." For the past two years the man has been employed by Mrs. Bloom on her farm in Washington Valley, and by thrift and economy he managed to lay up about $400 in cash. Recently he left the farm with the expressed determination of returning to Germany and wedding one of the village maidens in his native town.

A few days ago Carl left the Plainfield station with a light heart and a roll of bills. Arriving in New York he purchased his ticket for Germany, and having some time to spare before the vessel sailed, he wandered about the metropolis taking in the sights, when he was accosted by two of his fellow countrymen, to whom he related his plans. The three men entered a beer saloon and Carl says he was there induced to drink a glass of beer. That was the last he remembered of his companions and money, for when he awoke both were missing.

Carl has postponed his trip to Germany indefinitely, and meanwhile his intended bride must be content to hear from him occasionally.

—The Fall term of the Union County Courts will convene at Elizabeth, to-morrow.

—Straw hats have been called in, but there is yet an occasional one seen on the streets.

—Edsall in his advertisement today calls especial attention to a large line of new lace curtains.

—There will be a Mother's Meeting in Reform Hall at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. All are invited to be present.

—The regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Public Library to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

—Consecration meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Trinity Reformed church, to-night, at 8 o'clock. Visitors are welcome.

—Richard Elwood, a well-known character in this locality, went to sleep in a door-yard on West Front street on Saturday night, and he was locked up. Today he was committed for five days.

—A man whose name could not be ascertained had a fit on the sidewalk at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, late on Saturday evening, but he soon recovered sufficiently to go home.

—The play of "Captain Swift" by the Madison Square company, including such artists as Arthur Forrest and Rose Eytinge, should be favored with a full house at Music Hall, to-morrow evening.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Band, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Richards will address the meeting.

—At the track of the Gentlemen's Driving Park Association, on Saturday, John Chandler's "Rambo," John Hayes' "Andy" and Wm. VanSickle's "Sag Wah" trotted a mile heat to harness, the horses coming in in the order named.

—The four o'clock meeting in Reform Hall yesterday afternoon was of a highly interesting character under the leadership of Mr. Amos Andrews. Next Sunday afternoon the meeting will be led by Mr. George D. Morrison of North avenue. It is hoped that a large number will attend.

—The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held to-morrow, at 3 P. M., at 73 West Front street, and as several matters of special importance are to come before the ladies, it is earnestly requested that every member will consider it her duty to be present. All others are welcome.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

The Winthrops, Whom the Crescents Once Shut Out, Take Their Revenge.

The Crescents played their last game of the season, Saturday afternoon, and a very interesting game it was. It was a battle of batteries in which the Currie Bros., came out ahead, although Armitage held the Winthrops down to one hit until the sixth inning.

When the game opened Will Currie had not arrived and Bowes caught for the enemy also, during the first two innings. Steinert made three fine catches, and McLaughlin got the only one within reach of the Crescents' fielders.

Bergen covered second base in his usual good shape, and made two of the four hits for his side. He is the West Ender who The Press said, on Aug., 12, Somerville could not appreciate. The score was in detail:

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Grace Howard, of Ninth street, returned from Europe, last week, on the City of Paris.

Mr. B. T. Barnes, who has been seriously ill with fever for the past week, is able to be out again.

Mr. Fred Knowland, and Miss Knowland, have again returned to their Seventh street home for the Winter.

The Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, of Albany, has been very ill again with the same neuralgic head trouble from which he was so great a sufferer here.

Master Elden Hazell, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hazell, of Duer street, left today for Trenton, and will enter a commercial school to finish his education.

Rev. C. B. Mitchell of the M. E. church made an interesting and instructive address on the subject of Missions, before the Sunday school of the Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon.

The marriages are announced to take place, of Miss Carrie Jackson of Crescent avenue, on Oct. 17; Miss Anna Petrie, of East Sixth street, also in October; and Miss Bertha Taylor of East Fifth street, on Nov. 15.

At the home of the bride's father, Mr. Samuel Young, of 119 Chilton street, Elizabeth, the marriage will take place to-morrow evening at six o'clock, of Dr. A. Willis Anderson, of this city, and Miss Elizabeth Boeman Young.

Mr. Edgar Coffin and bride, of Barrington, Nova Scotia, arrived in town on Saturday and are spending their honeymoon with the family of Mr. S. O. Doane, of Fourth and Church streets. Mr. Coffin's brother Harrold, accompanied the bridal party here.

The death is announced of W. Harry Kenyon, eldest son of William H. and Rachael Kenyon, which occurred at his parent's residence on Richmond street, yesterday, of membranous croup. The funeral will take place from the house to-morrow at 1:30 P. M. Interment at Somerville.

St. Mary's Fair.

The fair in aid of St. Mary's church, which has been in progress in the parochial school hall for several days past, closed on Saturday evening. The contest for the black walnut desk was decided in favor of the Emerald Benevolent Society. These amounts were collected in for the desk:

Emerald Society	$183.00
Temperance Society	56.75
Y. M. C. L. U.	34.00
Total	$273.75

Miss Meade was awarded the ten dollar gold prize.

Another Coat of Paint Needed.

The Summit Record of Saturday says: "The police authorities of Plainfield have had the flood gates of the Feltville pond open all week to protect that city from the danger of the dam breaking. Little fear is now felt by the residents of the valley below the pond."

With this information, business may be resumed here with perfect safety.

Bowling Green.

Saturday afternoon the Middlesex Bowling Green Club held a practice game on the court at Dunellen. After the game the teams were selected that are to contest with the Dunellen Club for the Hasbrouck prize cup on Thursday, Oct. 3.

Chris Kelly's Willie Goat.

(Contributed.)

It was a ruminating beast
For which we threw the dice,
A beast with cloven foot and horns,
And one chuck full of vice.
We put a quarter each on him
And thought we'd o'er him gloat,
Forgetting only one could win
Chris Kelly's Willie Goat.

Poor, whiskered Will don't know the game,
Or he'd shield within his breast
A feeling of great sadness,
Of sorrow and unrest.
But William never went to school
His knowledge to promote,
And so in "pastoral innocence"
Sleeps Kelly's Willie Goat.

If Willie had had the quarters
That on his back were bet,
And was given much to drinking,
He'd get his stomach wet.
And wouldn't it look funny, too,
To see within a boat,
Rowing on New Market pond,
Chris Kelly's Willie Goat.

Now Chris, just one short word to you:
I hope you feel at ease
About the goat, for don't you know
We always try to please.
There isn't any fellow here
But what would sell his coat
To raise a needed quarter
To put on your Willie Goat.

AN INTERESTING MEETING.

The Rev. Mr. Dilts and Miss Haviland, at Reform Hall.

There was a good sized audience in Reform Hall, last evening. Vice President Harper presided, Mr. Vanderbeek led the singing, and the devotional services were conducted by the Rev Asa Dilts, of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

Mr. Dilts was the first speaker, and took a text for his discourse from Paul's First Epistle to the Corinthians. Upon that he based an address, which for eloquence, instruction and wise counsel was equal to any of the many fine addresses delivered within Reform Hall. He vividly portrayed the destroying evils now working for mastery in the world, and after clearly setting forth the duty of all Christians, earnestly besought their increased fidelity towards helping onward the glorious cause of Christ. He also powerfully denounced intoxicating liquor as the enemy of temporal and eternal happiness, and longed for the day when the curse would be wiped out of existence.

Mr. Dilts was followed by Mrs. Laura S. Haviland, a venerable member of the Society of Friends, just returned from a visit to England. Friend Haviland, now of Chicago, formerly resided in Michigan, and has devoted the major part of her long life of eighty-one years in labors of Christian love and for the good of humanity.

In a distinct voice she most beautifully extolled the truths of religion, and plead for the success of the temperance work, in which she is now as zealously engaged as she once was against human slavery. From the opening to the close of the meeting profound interest was manifested.

Let the Ladies In

The athletic epidemic that has made such rapid advances during the past few years, has raised up a generation of young men who prefer outdoor exercise to any indoor recreation, and the ladies complain that it is hard to get partners for dancing if the weather is any way fine, and that a great part of the evenings are spent at the various club houses rather than with the girls.

The modern young lady has therefore become a devotee to outdoor sports, and if the boys won't go to them they go to the boys, and whenever possible join in their sports. No athletic exhibition is complete without the ladies, who take a keen interest in all contests, and are good judges of proficiency.

A few years ago only the few gymnasiums in the large cities afforded opportunities for bodily exercise, but now every town of any pretensions has its athletic club, with bowling alley, etc. There is no question that the popular sports, where they are not carried to extremes, are beneficial to the rising generation, and a race of virile, active men and women, well fitted by outdoor exercise, is growing up.

A Match Between Class and Brewer.

Frank Class, of Pine Brook, recently challenged John R. Brewer, of Philadelphia, to shoot a match at 100 live birds for $250 a side, and Brewer has accepted. The time and place have not been arranged, but both men appear to mean business. Brewer claims a record of 99 birds out of 100 and Class is one of the best shots in the State.

Both of the above crack shots will doubtless be present at the Middlesex Gun Club tournament at Dunellen, next week, and the match may possibly take place at that time.

Mr. J. B. Cleaver at Reform Hall.

Mr. Cleaver of the First Church of Christ, preached in Reform Hall, yesterday morning, another of his highly instructive and thoroughly entertaining sermons. Mr. Cleaver's subject was, "The Promise on to the Fathers." Mr. Cleaver quoted from twenty-two different chapters during his discourse, and the subject was handled with ability and force. It is Mr. Cleaver's purpose in the near future to preach on the "Second Coming of Christ."

—A reason for the hope that is within you, 1 Pet. 3:15, is the topic for the Young Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. to-night, leader, Mr. Seeley Edsall. Every man in the city is invited to be present and to join in the singing.

JERSEY CENTRAL'S DEPOT.

The Novel Improvements that Have Recently Been Introduced.

The new station of the Central Railroad of New Jersey is considered to be one of the finest structures of the kind in this country. The building is of brick, three stories high and covers an area of 128 by 215 feet. An imposing tower stands in the centre of the building, on which is erected a clock fourteen feet seven inches in diameter, and which is one of the most noticeable objects in the harbor, next to the Statue of Liberty.

The central or main hall, which is open to the roof, is 64 by 96 feet, and surrounding this are the ticket offices, restaurants, toilet rooms and smoking rooms. On the second floor are the executive offices of the company, which have just been completed. The ladies' parlor is furnished with plush sofas, handsomely upholstered armchairs, willow rockers, axminster carpets and hardwood walls. The wainscoting of the room is of yellow English glazed brick, with black trimming.

The train shed contains twelve tracks, the six odd numbers of which are used for the incoming trains and the six even numbers for those outward bound. The platforms between the tracks are fourteen feet in width and twelve inches higher than the roadbed.

The striking feature of the train shed is its light and cheerful appearance. The walls are of brick and the roof of iron and glass. The main span of the roof is 144 feet, and in the centre is a skylight the whole length of the shed, which is 512 feet and 55 feet, in width. A series of steel bars gives support to the immense area of glass, with bearings at intervals of thirteen feet. The outer end wall is of glass. The roof of the station contains 28,000 square feet of glass. Boilers for heating and electric lights are in a separate building. Four dynamos are employed, and four boilers furnish steam for heating the building and passenger cars.

The new signal tower connected with the yards, when finished, will communicate with the round house, a distance of one mile and a quarter, by a system of newly devised electric signals. The signal man, by pressing a properly marked button, will throw up a placard in the roundhouse, denoting the particular train that he wishes to take its place in the station for departure on the road. It is understood that the arrangement is so contrived that there can be no confusion, and it is impossible for a false signal to be made, as the placard always has gravity to overcome in reaching the observation point. The proper check signals are automatically returned to the tower. Another system of signals between the tower and train house is being put in to govern and record the departure of trains, and one between the train house and the superintendent's office, showing the exact time of their arrival and departure. Conductors' reports are to be forwarded to the superintendent's office by a pneumatic tube.

The general waiting room, with its tiled floor, rises to a height of over sixty feet. In the matter of light and ventilation this apartment is considered one of the best examples in the comntry.

The building of this great structure was considered a necessity, owing to the great rush to and from the Summer resorts along the Jersey coast. Each of its twelve tracks will hold fifteen cars, which give facilities for moving away 12,600 passengers, each provided with a seat. The number of trains arriving and departing daily from the station is 190. It is estimated that 2,850 cars, with 195,500 passengers, can be handled every twenty-four hours. The sum of $500,000 has been expended on the depot and the four new ferry slips connnected with it.

With the opening of this new station an extensive interlocking plant was put into operation. The old tracks approaching the station were removed and replaced with 76-pound rails. The yard had to be regraded, and it is the intention to put in rock ballast as soon as the filling has settled. Every conceivable movement of cars between the station tracks and the main tracks of the main line and Newark branch is now easily made by means of the new interlocking system. Certain tracks are reserved for switching purposes. The radius of the slip switches is 500 feet.

Three men are stationed in the tower to attend the levers, and two of these are always occupied observing charts, which show the proper order in which the levers are to be pulled. An idea of their work may be gained when it is known that the system embraces 49 facing-point locks and signals, governing 80 routes, making 22 levers for 40 switches, and three movable frogs, one lever for two movable frogs, 14 levers for 48 facing-point locks, 29 levers for 40 signals and 40 indicators and one facing-point lock—a total of 66 working levers.

Eleven Innings Played.

The most interesting game of ball between the "Young Crescents" of this city and the "Young Americans" of Dunellen, was played on the Evona grounds, Saturday afternoon. It was an eleven-inning game and resulted in a score of 10 to 9 in fovor of the Young Americans. The umpire was considered very fair. The pitching of D. Force, the catching of W. Thiers and the running catch of J. Sutphen were the features of the game. The batteries were: D. Force and W. Thiers for the Young Crescents, and Richards and Burke for the Young Americans. D. Force struck out 13 and Richards 7. Following is the score by innings:

Young Crescents	0	1	1	0	0	3	2	1	1	0	0	9
Young Americans	3	1	5	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	10

THE CENTRAL CRASH.

Disposition of Persons Killed in the Accident at Palatine Bridge.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The following dispatch was received at the New York Central office from Supt. Bissell, who had gone to attend those who were wounded and killed in the railroad accident at Palatine Bridge:

"ALBANY, Sept. 30.—All the injured are doing well. The brother of Miss Tate is with her. The remains of Sadie Boyle came to Albany last night in charge of her brother, who is taking them to her home in Westport. The remains of Rev. Dr. Deveure will be taken to Dayton, O., on train No. 21 to-day. Mr. Ingalls, colored porter, will be buried at Palatine to-day. Mr. Manning's friends have taken charge of his remains."

General Superintendent J. G. Toucey and Assistant General Superintendent Theodore Voorhis returned late Saturday night from the scene of the accident. They have not yet fixed the blame definitely. Rule No. 95, which applies to such cases, says:

"The rear brakeman, or trainman, must go back instantly with a red signal, at least half a mile. This must always be done, whether another train is expected or not, and in carrying out this rule the utmost promptness is necessary. Not a moment must be lost in inquiring as to the cause of the detention or stoppage, or its probable duration."

A question which has not been decided is whether or not the second section allowed the first sufficient headway.

BIG COAL AND IRON DEAL.

A Plan to Consolidate the Charcoal and Steel Furnaces of Two States.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30.—Prominent Tennessee and Alabama capitalists, who have been in conference here, have settled the preliminary details of a plan to consolidate all the big charcoal and steel furnaces in the two states under one company and begin the manufacture of steel rails. The gentlemen interested are now in Alabama effecting a corporate organization.

Their plan embraces the consolidation of the La Grange, Ætna and Warner furnace companies, the Roan Iron Company, of Chattanooga; the Wayne County Iron Company and other properties. Six furnaces, now in operation, are involved in the deal, and many thousand acres of fine ore lands in Pickham, Stewart and Wayne counties.

The New Jersey State Legislative Committee of the Knights of Labor decided to visit Trenton in January to secure the passage of a bill establishing the Australian voting system.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthful in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

GIANTS LEAD AGAIN

Boston's Defeat Did the Work for New York.

ONLY SIX MORE GAMES TO PLAY.

Neck and Neck the Two League Leaders Enter the Homestretch.

The Bostons Open the Week in Cleveland and the New Yorks in Pittsburg—The Pennant Question Still in Doubt—Brooklyn is Making a Plucky Fight for the Association Flag—The Atlantic Association Season Closes—Worcester the Winner.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The eventful baseball season of 1889 is drawing to a close. The Atlantic Association has finished its season, the League will wind up on Saturday next and the Association teams will play their final games on October 14.

The League race, all things considered, has furnished the most remarkable series of contests in the history of baseball. Here it is only one more week's games, and yet the pennant question is still in doubt. The race of '83 is the only only one that compared in interest with this year's battle.

Between Boston and New York the battle still goes on, and such playing as those giants of the diamond are now doing has never before been equalled in this country. The battle right from April has been between these two teams. The winner, of course, will get most of the plaudits, but the loser will deserve a great deal of credit for the gallant struggle made. The New Yorks have played better ball and made a much better record than they did in '88, when they won the pennant easily.

Pittsburg will have the Giants to battle with to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday, and the New Yorkers go on to Cleveland and play Thursday, Friday and Saturday, ending the pennant season on the latter day. Boston is at Cleveland the early part of the week and at Pittsburg to wind up the pennant season.

THE CHAMPIONS IN THE LEAD.

The New York and Chicago clubs were each boosted up a step on the League stairway Saturday afternoon, and that, too, without either of them winning a game. The New Yorks were forced into first place again by the defeat of the Bostons at Indianapolis, and the Philadelphians' tumble at Pittsburg placed the Chicagos on the third landing. The struggle between the champions and Chicagos, although it resulted in a victory for neither side, was one of the best that lovers of base ball have had a chance to look at for many a day. For ten long innings the two teams strained and pulled, and finally when darkness set in quit the game as the eighth inning had left it.

The Association Struggle.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The Bridegrooms of this city are making a plucky fight for the American Association pennant, in spite of their recent reverses. The players think they will reach the coveted goal, but say that they will have to work hard to do it.

St. Louis is also playing a good game and will die hard. The Missourians have held the pennant so long that it is like pulling teeth to take their trophy away from them.

Much dissatisfaction is expressed hereabouts over the action of the Association in taking away from the Bridegrooms that first Brooklyn-St. Louis game. The Brooklyns were clearly entitled to the game according to the rules and precedents of the organization. The game might have been thrown out and counted for neither, but it was clearly unfair to give it to St. Louis.

The Bridegrooms are scheduled for but three games this week, but some of the postponed games may be played off.

Worcester Takes the Pennant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Atlantic Association closed at Worcester Saturday afternoon with a game between Worcester and Hartford. It was won by the home team. The Worcesters win the championship. The records of the teams were as follows:

ATLANTIC ASSOCIATION.

	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.
Worcester	55	35	.611
Newark	49	39	.557
Hartford	48	42	.527

MR. CLEVELAND'S DELIGHT.

Anxious to Spread the Light of Tariff Reform in Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Local Democrats are congratulating themselves on the expected presence in this city next month of ex-President Cleveland. He is coming to attend the State Convention of Democratic Clubs, which is to be held on Oct. 15.

Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Black, of Pennsylvania, saw the ex-President in New York and extended to him an invitation to attend. Mr. Cleveland answered that he would be greatly pleased to be present for two reasons, one of which was that he would be delighted to meet the representatives of the young Democrats of the Keystone State and aid them in spreading the light of tariff reform throughout Pennsylvania, and the other was a long-cherished desire to see this city at his leisure.

He also stated that there was but one thing to prevent him from being present, and that was that his visit might be construed into an effort to put himself forward for a renomination in 1892. He had no desire for such a feeling to gain currency.

TO HER PRISON HOME.

Mrs. Hamilton Will Be Taken to Trenton To-Morrow to Serve Her Sentence.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Sept 30.—Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton will be taken to Trenton to-morrow, to begin the term of two years.

She has about $4,000 in bonds and mortgages and other securities, and it was for the purpose of affording her an opportunity to straighten out her affairs that the Sheriff delayed delivering her at the State's Prison for so long a time. Mrs. Hamilton has changed greatly during her imprisonment, and she no longer indulges in morphine or opium.

She is inclined to become devout, and says that when her incarceration is over she will go far away where she is not known and endeavor to lead an entirely different life, and that she will cut loose from all the unfortunate affiliations that have so largely contributed to her downfall.

She is pale and thin, and her expressive face gives ample evidence of the dreadful ordeal through which she has passed.

Another Foolhardy Trip at Niagara.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Floating down the Niagara River from Grass Island and landing on the head of Goat Island is considered at all times a very hazardous undertaking, and of no practical use, yet it has been accomplished several times. This summer "Jocco" Walker and one Darry were carried over the Horseshoe Fall when it was supposed they, too, were trying to reach the Island, but these casualties did not prevent Anthony Walker, a well-known river pilot, from attempting the trip yesterday afternoon. Taking an old scow, he rowed over to Grass Island, and amid much excitement made the trip successfully. Good luck more than good management landed him on the island.

A Pennsylvania Merchant Disappears.

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 30.—Charles Wagner, a prominent merchant of Waterford, has disappeared. Wagner came from Massachusetts soon after the war, married and prospered. Two weeks ago he sold out his interests in a manufacturing plant, and taking the receipts, abandoned his interests in a large general merchandise establishment and left for parts unknown.

Cardinal Gibbons' Advice to Poles.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—Cardinal Gibbons laid the corner-stone of the Church of St. Stanislaus Kostka for a Polish congregation yesterday afternoon. The Cardinal made an address to the Poles. He congratulated them for coming from a land of oppression to this country of civil and religious liberty, and appealed to them to put one hand on anarchy and the other on tyranny in every form, and to be good citizens.

Dr. Holland Will Not Go to Africa.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 30.—Dr. W. J. Holland, who, in the capacity of Chief Naturalist, was to accompany the Government expedition that will shortly start for South Africa to observe the solar eclipse will probably sever his connection with the expedition owing to the severe illness of a member of his family.

Spiked the Rail for Fun.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Charles Hoose, the 14-year-old boy who confessed that he put a spike on the rail in front of the passing train which was thrown into the ditch a mile south of here last week is in prison here. In the accident Engineer Orlando Seeley was killed, being found dead under the cab with his hand on the throttle. Hoose says he put the spike on the rail for fun.

Rafferty Knocked Out.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 30.—Billy Rafferty and Jack Masterson fought six savage rounds with bare knuckles early yesterday in a field near DeHart place for a purse made up by the twenty-five sporting men who attended the mill. Masterson outfought Rafferty from the start and knocked him senseless in twenty minutes.

After Good Offices.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 30.—Ex-Postmaster Eckford Moore is a candidate for the vacancy created by Quartermaster-General Perrine's death. It is believed that there are other aspirants. The Governor appoints. Major Edward T. Green is spoken of as likely to succeed the late Judge Nixon on the United States District Court bench.

Citizens of Johnstown Aroused.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 30.—The citizens of Johnstown are thoroughly aroused over the action of Gov. Beaver in directing that the State work should close. An appeal has been forwarded to the Executive, urging that the assistance of the State be not withdrawn.

Supposed Incendiary Fire.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 30.—A house and barn owned by Mrs. William Leighton, in Auburn were damaged by fire this morning to the extent of $4,700. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin.

Mrs. Blaine Wants a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Gen. Martin T. McMahon, counsel for Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., says that as soon as Mrs. Blaine recovers from her present illness proceedings will be begun against her husband for divorce.

SOME SMALL THINGS.

Wonders of Nature, Science and Human Intelligence.

The 1,304,000 Pores of the Human Body—A Cherry-Stone Containing Twenty-Eight Perfect Dice—Diminutive Oxen and Sheep.

The human skin is perforated by, say in round numbers, 1,000 holes or pores, in the space of every square inch. If, therefore, we estimate the skin surface of the body of a middle-sized man at 16 square feet, that surface contains no fewer than 1,304,000 pores.

Pliny and Ælian relate that Myremecides wrought an ivory chariot with four wheels and four horses, and a full-rigged ship, each so small that a bee's wing would hide them from view.

Hadrianus Junius writes that he saw at Mechlin, in Brabant, a cherry-stone cut into the form of a basket, in which some mechanic of the minute had deposited 28 dice, each perfect, with its spots plainly discernible to one with a good eye.

Turrianus, of whose skill so many wonderful things are related, is said to have fashioned iron mills, which could be wound up like the modern clock, so minute in size that one could be entirely hidden in the mouth of an ordinary man; yet they were powerful enough to grind, in a single day, grain enough to feed eight men.

A Mr. Beedle, living at Ottery St. Mary, Liverpool, Eng., once executed a much more difficult feat in penmanship than that accredited to John J. Taylor, of Streator, Ill. Mr. Taylor wrote 4,100 words on the blank side of a postal card. These cards are made 5½ inches long and 3 inches in width. Mr. Beedle used a card 3¼ by 3¼ inches, which would be considerably smaller than the card used by Mr. Taylor. On this small piece of cardboard this penman, wielding a wizard's quill, wrote the following pieces without the slightest abbreviation: Goldsmith's "Traveler," "The Deserted Village," "Essay on Education," "Distress of a Disabled Soldier," "The Tale of Azim" and the six essays on "Justice," "Generosity," "Irresolution of Youth," "Frailty of Man," "Friendship" and "The Genius of Love." In the center of the card there was a perfect picture of Ottery church, all the shades and lines being formed of parts of the writing. The miraculous production was finished with the national anthem of "God Save the Queen" and embellished with 72 stars, 51 crescents and 19 crosses. A snake with his tail in his mouth inclosed and finished this remarkable work.

The Ashantee cattle of the Cape Coast, South Africa, are the smallest of the bovine species. One recently brought to London, a bull, perfect in every particular except in size, weighed but 67 pounds. Seven were shipped on board the vessel, to be used as fresh meat during the voyage, the largest of those weighed when dressed ready for cooking 43 pounds. The bull, spared from the general slaughter on account of his playfulness, was allowed to run loose on deck and tease and be teased during the entire voyage.

The "running oxen" of Ceylon are also very small. However, their Liliputian proportions are not to be compared with the midget bovus above mentioned. These "running oxen" are used in the mail service and are said to exhibit extraordinary powers of endurance for animals of their size, the largest of them not exceeding 200 pounds in weight. Two of them with a cart, a mail sack and a driver will make from 80 to 100 miles of a trip in a day.

The tiny Breton representative of the sheep family are the smallest of the sheep species. They are natives of Breton, France, and are not much larger than a full-grown jack-rabbit. A ram of four years could be entirely hidden in a common wooden bucket but for his horns. These are too small to be raised with profit either for mutton or for their wool. It is said that one has never been known to dress as much as 25 pounds.

An old man living near Portland, Me., has fashioned two ingenious pieces of mechanism. One a steam bark and the other a barkentine, built on a scale of one-eighth of an inch to the foot. Every detail observed in building big ships is strictly adhered to. Each plank is bolted and riveted with bolts made from pins, hammered out until they are not larger in diameter than a pin. The steam-engines and boilers are exact counterparts of those used in large ships. It took 464 days to complete them.

At Manchester, Eng., in 1816, a light-fingered mechanic made a wonderful little knife. It weighed but little over one pennyweight, and was provided with 16 useful articles, viz.: Three blades, a button-hook, saw, punch and screw-driver, cork-screw, hook and gimlet, two fleams, picker, tweezers and two lancets. The whole length of the knife was but eleven-sixteenths of an inch.

A very interesting curiosity was on exhibition at the great fair in Paris. It is a miniature working model of the great Cruzot hammer—the largest in the world. It works in a glass case only two inches in height, a Liliputian clock furnishing the motive power. The original hammer weighs 100 tons; the model nine grains.

IT STOOD THE TEST.

How a Deaf and Blind Woman Succeeded in Making a Will.

One of the most striking scenes in fiction is that wherein the paralytic in "Monte Cristo" makes a legal disposition of his property by the movement of his eyes. In a blue book recently published concerning the deaf and dumb, there is an account of the making of a will by a woman who, having been stone deaf all her life, became, when sixty years old, blind also. The place was a country town, Ludlow, in Shropshire, and the mayor, the rector and the chief medical men were all present to witness that every thing was done above board and without collusion.

"A copy of the will lay before the deaf blind lady and myself, and another copy was before the gentleman sitting in the seat corresponding with your lordships," said a witness in the case when it was before the courts. "I began spelling on her hand with perfect silence one sentence. She turned to the lady on her right and spelt on both her hands the sentence that I had just repeated to her. That lady, having nothing before her, repeated aloud what presumably I had said to the blind lady, and what certainly the blind lady had said to her; and the official gentlemen at the other end saw that they were actually the very words in the will before them."

"So it went on. She stopped me in one place and said, 'not a thousand, a hundred,' showing that she knew the value of numerals; and she willed away the whole of her property with perfect accuracy. She left a portion of it to the very persons who had desired to keep it from her, and they were her blood relations. She left £100 to the institution whose head master helped her to make such a will. That was the last time that I saw her. The will was contested by the relations. When it came to be tested they said nobody in such a condition as that could make a will. We fought the battle in the probate court at Westminster and won. The will was proved May 3, 1861."

FORTUNE AWAITS HER.

Romantic Story of an Iowa Girl Who Was Stolen from Her Mother.

The papers a few days ago, writes a Chicago Times correspondent from Sioux City, Ia., contained a brief account of the search that was being instituted for the mother of a young woman who is now a resident of that city, and who has a fortune awaiting her proper identification. A little more than twenty years ago Viola Adams was married to a young man named Andrews. Her parents opposed the match, and after the young people were wedded refused them shelter under the parental roof. All went well for awhile, but soon the husband tired of his bride and began to abuse her. The advent of a baby girl did not mend matters, and at the end of about two years Mrs. Andrews took her girl and went home to her widowed mother, her father having died in the meantime without breathing forgiveness for her. He had not forgotten his infant granddaughter, however, and his will provided that $40,000 be set aside, the interest and principal to go to her when she arrived at legal age.

Two weeks after his wife had left him Andrews went to the house and stole the little girl, leaving Chicago and going to Des Moines, Ia., then a prosperous village of about one-fifth its present population. The child was given into the charge of a Norwegian family named Nelson, by whom she was taught to regard herself as one of the family. She was called by her Christian name, Jeannette, but instead of Andrews she was made to believe that she was a Nelson. It was always a matter of surprise to the neighbors that she was better treated than the remainder of the family; was better dressed, and during her school days was always supplied with pocket money. She was taught to regard Andrews, who remained in Des Moines and became a prosperous business man, as a dear friend of the family. He had given her many presents and it was he who had given money to the Nelsons to be given to her.

One day in June last Jeannette became ill, and a physician, Dr. J. H. Brewer, then a resident of Des Moines, was called. He made several visits and became exceedingly interested in his patient. He became convinced that she was not a child of the Nelsons, and strongly suspected that Mr. Andrews was in some way related to her. The doctor told Jeannette to go to him and claim relationship, and perhaps by thus confronting him he might be startled into making admissions. At first the father denied, but the girl was persistent, and the father finally told how he and Jeannette's mother had parted; how he had stolen her when a child and intended keeping her until she should become of age, when he would go with her and claim the inheritance, now greatly augmented by the accumulations of all those years. The father stated that his wife had taken her maiden name of Viola Adams and still lived in Chicago, and that years ago she had offered from her father's estate a reward of $10,000 for the return of her stolen child.

Having become satisfied that she was no child of the Nelsons, Jeannette would remain there no longer and placed herself in the charge of Dr. Brewer and became a member of his family. A few months ago he moved to Sioux City and she came with her new-found friends. It seemed an easy matter, knowing that her mother was in Chicago at least up to a few years ago, to establish communication between the mother and her long-lost daughter, but up to this time it has not been done. It was in furthering this end that the assistance of Chief of Police Hubbard, of Chicago, was sought, and by him the outlines of the story were given to the press.

A WOLF FOSTER-MOTHER.

Capture of a Child with All the Instincts of an Animal.

Some twenty months ago a negro woman living on the banks of the Brazos, says a letter from Sandy Point, Tex., missed her three-months'-old baby from the pallet where she had left it lying during an absence of a few minutes. Search was made for the infant, but no trace of it could be discovered, and the whole affair was wrapped in profound mystery until a few days ago.

A party of gentlemen were recently riding through a somewhat unfrequented portion of the thick woods that border the river, when they were startled by seeing a strange object run across the road. Thinking at first sight that it was a wild animal, several of the party were about to fire on it, when the one who had been nearest to it called to them not to shoot, but to ride it down instead. This was done with difficulty, for the underbrush was thick, but at last the creature was overtaken in a dense copse. It was half running, half leaping, first on all fours and then nearly upright.

The gentlemen dismounted and attempted to lay hands upon it, but chattering frightfully and savagely biting and scratching it broke away from them. They could see that it had a human face, though the brown body was covered with long, tangled hair, and the nails of the feet and hands so long and curved as to be claws. It ran with incredible swiftness, getting over fallen trees and dense masses of creepers at a rate that obliged its pursuers to exert themselves to the utmost to keep it in view.

It finally ran into an immense oak tree that lay uprooted in the ground and the hollow trunk of which formed a yawning cavern. By the dint of poking in the tree with sticks the party succeeded in driving out an old wolf, which immediately took to its heels. It was not pursued, as it was not the object sought. This, too, was finally dislodged and lassoed with a lariat made of hides. It bit and scratched so fiercely that it was thought advisable not to approach it, so it was half dragged, half led home with the lariat about its neck, howling and yelling like a wolf.

The fact of the negro woman's child having disappeared was well known to all, and it was decided that this must be the child. The old wolf had evidently stolen it, and for some reason adopted it as its own. The mother declared that this conjecture was correct, claiming that her child had had a malformation of one ear, which peculiarity was found in the monster. It is kept tied up in her cabin, suffering no one to lay hands upon it, and is fed on raw meat, as it refuses to touch any other food. The woman has hopes that she may yet reawaken the human in it, but, in the meantime, she is reaping a harvest from the crowds who come daily from all parts of the county to inspect the strange creature.

Built Entirely for Business.

The Mexican wasp is built entirely for business. He is over two inches long when he is of age and is about the color of a bay horse. His plunger is full an inch long and as fine as a spider's web. Unlike the stinger of a common bee the stinger of a Mexican wasp is non-forfeitable. He don't give up after one lunge, but has it always in readiness for an all-day job if necessary. The mission of the Mexican wasp seems to be merely to hunt up people and run that stinger of his into them. The natives say that he will go ten miles out of his way to get a whack at a person. The natives seem to get fat on snake bites and cetipede bites and scorpion stings, but if they discover one of these wasps in the neighborhood they hunt for cover without delay.

LOYAL SOCIALISTS.

Prominent New Yorkers Denounced at a Mass Meeting.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A mass meeting was held yesterday afternoon in Vorwaertz Turner Hall, under the auspices of the Socialist Labor party. The topic was, "Our principles and our tactics."

Adelbert Hamilton, a local attorney, was chairman, and introduced J. F. Busche, of New York, as first speaker. Mr. Busche briefly outlined the fundamental principles of State Socialism. He declared that believers in Socialism were in no sense Anarchists, and that the delegates present at the convention were not there to pass resolutions regretting the hanging of Spies, Parsons and the rest. He declared that Socialists were loyal to the Government and believed in centralization of the Executive and distribution of the Legislative power.

L. Winnan, the next speaker, said the party could not countenance any sort of a combine with any other party, as such action would injure Socialism without helping the laboring man a particle.

Tommy Morgan, the local Socialist leader, followed with one of his characteristic speeches. He said that by reason of the private ownership of land and products, monopolies were easily created. These pools were so strong that they defied even the law. Four men control the meat market, eight own the hard coal, and sixty families all the railroads.

In the regular session of the convention little was done. Chairman Busche called for the report of Secretary Rosenberg, of New York. The reading of it occupied over two hours. Mr. Rosenberg denounced Sergius S. Schevitch, editor of the "Volks Zeitung," and Lucian Sanial, of the Progressive Labor Party, as boodlers, and produced papers and documents to prove his assertion.

Rosenberg, Heintz Gercke and Sauter, the members of the Executive Committee who were suspended, intend to appeal to the party at this convention, and expect so be recognized as the executive authority of the national organization.

The charges preferred by Secretary Rosenberg will be referred to a special committee of investigation.

London Postal Clerks Organize.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The postal clerks held two large meetings here yesterday and formally protested against the rate of pay they are receiving and the treatment of their demands by the Secretary. They have decided to form a union, and a strike will probably follow, unless their grievances are adjusted.
